John 2:14-17 In the temple he found those who were selling oxen and sheep and pigeons, and the money-changers sitting there. ¹⁵And making a whip of cords, he drove them all out of the temple, with the sheep and oxen. And he poured out the coins of the money-changers and overturned their tables. ¹⁶And he told those who sold the pigeons, “Take these things away; do not make my Father's house a house of trade.” ¹⁷His disciples remembered that it was written, “Zeal for your house will consume me.”

John 12:12-16 The next day the large crowd that had come to the feast heard that Jesus was coming to Jerusalem. ¹³So they took branches of palm trees and went out to meet him, crying out, “Hosanna! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord, even the King of Israel!” ¹⁴And Jesus found a young donkey and sat on it, just as it is written, ¹⁵“Fear not, daughter of Zion; behold, your king is coming, sitting on a donkey's colt!” ¹⁶His disciples did not understand these things at first, but when Jesus was glorified, then they remembered that these things had been written about him and had been done to him.

In addition to the fulfillment of the prophecy in vv. 14-15, note that the terms used in regard to Jesus in v. 13 also have messianic significance – as John suggests in v. 16. Regarding the crowd's use of “Hosanna!”, it is apparent that their use has messianic significance in view of both Matthew's account and it being an exclamation of praise. In Matthew's account the crowd uses the word in two expressions: “Hosanna to the Son of David!” and “Hosanna in the highest!” (Matt 21:9); the first is obviously messianic. The crowd's quotation of Psalm 118:26 (“Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord”; v. 13) indicates that they considered Jesus to be the Messiah and in a sense it is a fulfillment of that verse and prophecy. The title “the King of Israel” is obviously messianic.

✚ John the Baptist's fulfillment of prophecy of the one would prepare the way for the Christ:

Mark 1:2-4 As it is written in Isaiah the prophet,^v “Behold, I send my messenger before your face, who will prepare your way, ³the voice of one crying in the wilderness: ‘Prepare^w the way of the Lord, make his paths straight,’” ⁴John appeared, baptizing in the wilderness and proclaiming a baptism of repentance for the forgiveness of sins.

^w Or crying: Prepare in the wilderness

Mark combines quotations from two prophets and attributes it to the major one, Isaiah (cf. Matt 27:9-10). In addition to these two prophecies, John the Baptist is likewise understood to have fulfilled the prophecy of Malachi 4:5 as the "prophet Elijah" who would come before the "day of the LORD" – as indicated in: Matthew 11:14 ("he is Elijah who is to come"); Matt 17:10-13; and Luke 1:17 ("he will go before him in the spirit and power of Elijah").

Prophecies fulfilled in Jesus' rejection and betrayal

John 12:37-41 Though he had done so many signs before them, they still did not believe in him, ³⁸*so that the word spoken by the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled: "Lord, who has believed what he heard from us, and to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed?"* ³⁹*Therefore they could not believe. For again Isaiah said,* ⁴⁰*"He has blinded their eyes and hardened their heart, lest they see with their eyes, and understand with their heart, and turn, and I would heal them."* ⁴¹*Isaiah said these things because he saw his glory and spoke of him.* ☞

Note that vv. 39-40 are interpreted by many commentators to not mean that God prevented the people from believing, but rather that because they had purposely and repeatedly rejected God's message (cf. vv. 37-38), God bestowed on them a judicial blindness and hardening of heart. The consequence of rejecting God's message time after time is that one loses the capacity to believe.

John 15:24-25 If I had not done among them the works that no one else did, they would not be guilty of sin, but now they have seen and hated both me and my Father. ²⁵*But the word that is written in their Law must be fulfilled: "They hated me without a cause."* ☞

Matt 21:37-39, 42 Finally he sent his son to them, saying, "They will respect my son." ³⁸*But when the tenants saw the son, they said to themselves, "This is the heir. Come, let us kill him and have his inheritance."* ³⁹*And they took him and threw him out of the vineyard and killed him.* ☞ ... ⁴²*Jesus said to them, "Have you never read in the Scriptures: "'The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone;'^x this was the Lord's doing, and it is marvelous in our eyes'?"* ☞

Verses 37-39 are from a parable in which Jesus portrays the Jews' rejection of him. Jesus subsequently implies in v. 42 that their rejection of him fulfilled the quoted Scripture, with them rejecting the one whom God would make the "cornerstone" of his kingdom.

John 13:18, 21, 26, 30 I am not speaking of all of you; I know whom I have chosen. But the Scripture will be fulfilled,^y 'He who ate my bread has lifted his heel against me.' ☞ ... ²¹*After saying these things, Jesus was troubled in his spirit, and testified, "Truly, truly, I say to you, one of you will betray me."* ☞ ... ²⁶*Jesus answered, "It is he to whom I will give this morsel of bread when I have dipped it." So when he had dipped the morsel, he gave it to Judas, the son of Simon Iscariot.* ☞ ... ³⁰*So, after receiving the morsel of bread, he immediately went out. And it was night.* ☞

^y Greek But in order that the Scripture may be fulfilled

In v. 18 Jesus indicates that not all the disciples belonged to him, but that in one of them the scripture would be fulfilled that spoke of betrayal by a close associate, as he clarifies in v. 21. That Judas would be the one is made apparent in vv. 26, 30.

Matt 27:3-10 Then when Judas, his betrayer, saw that Jesus^z was condemned, he changed his mind and brought back the thirty pieces of silver to the chief priests and the elders, ⁴*saying, "I have sinned by betraying innocent blood." They said, "What is that to us? See to it yourself."* ⁵*And throwing down the pieces of silver into the temple, he departed, and he went and hanged himself.* ⁶*But the chief priests, taking the pieces of silver, said, "It is not lawful to put them into the treasury, since it is blood money."* ⁷*So they took counsel and bought with them the potter's field as a burial place for strangers.* ⁸*Therefore that field has been called the Field of Blood to this day.* ⁹*Then was fulfilled what had been spoken by the prophet Jeremiah, saying, "And they took the thirty pieces of silver, the price of him on whom a price had been set by some of the sons of Israel,* ¹⁰*and they gave them for the potter's field, as the Lord directed me."* ☞

^z Greek he

The Scripture referred to is not a direct quotation. Matthew appears to have in view verses from both Zechariah and Jeremiah (cf. NIV text note on v. 10), which he attributes to the latter, presumably as the major prophet.

Prophecies fulfilled in Jesus' death . . .

Matt 26:31, 56 Then Jesus said to them, "You will all fall away because of me this night. For it is written, 'I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep of the flock will be scattered.' ☞ ... ⁵⁶*But all this has taken place that the Scriptures of the prophets might be fulfilled." Then all the disciples left him and fled.* ☞

^a Some manuscripts insert verse 28: And the Scripture was fulfilled that says, "He was numbered with the transgressors"

The text note speaks of this fulfilling the prophecy in Isaiah 53:12. Jesus also refers to his fulfillment of this prophecy in Luke 22:37, prior to his arrest – "It is written: 'And he was numbered with the transgressors'; and I tell you that this must be fulfilled in me. Yes, what is written about me is reaching its fulfillment."

John 18:8-9 Jesus answered, "I told you that I am he. So, if you seek me, let these men go." ⁹*This was to fulfill the word that he had spoken: "Of those whom you gave me I have lost not one."* 📖

This and vv. 31-32 immediately below speak of fulfillments of Jesus' own prophecies (cf. Matt 12:39-40; Luke 24:6-7) rather than OT prophecies, which make up the bulk of the other entries in this section.

John 18:31-32 Pilate said to them, "Take him yourselves and judge him by your own law." The Jews said to him, "It is not lawful for us to put anyone to death." ³²*This was to fulfill the word that Jesus had spoken to show by what kind of death he was going to die.* 📖

The reference to Jesus' words being fulfilled (v. 32) most likely has in view references such as John 3:14 ↓ and John 12:32-33 – 'And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people to myself.' ³³He said this to show by what kind of death he was going to die.' The Jews maneuvered Pilate into executing Jesus, which involved the Roman form of execution (crucifixion) rather than the Jewish form (stoning), thus fulfilling Jesus' words.

John 19:23-24 When the soldiers had crucified Jesus, they took his garments and divided them into four parts, one part for each soldier; also his tunic.^b But the tunic was seamless, woven in one piece from top to bottom, ²⁴so they said to one another, "Let us not tear it, but cast lots for it to see whose it shall be." This was to fulfill the Scripture which says, "They divided my garments among them, and for my clothing they cast lots." So the soldiers did these things, ... 📖

John 19:28-29 After this, Jesus, knowing that all was now finished, said (to fulfill the Scripture), "I thirst." ²⁹*A jar full of sour wine stood there, so they put a sponge full of the sour wine on a hyssop branch and held it to his mouth.* 📖

The Scripture John refers to is probably Psalms 69:21 – "They gave me poison for food, and for my thirst they gave me sour wine to drink."

John 19:31-37 Since it was the day of Preparation, and so that the bodies would not remain on the cross on the Sabbath (for that Sabbath was a high day), the Jews asked Pilate that their legs might be broken and that they might be taken away. ³²So the soldiers came and broke the legs of the first, and of the other who had been crucified with him. ³³But when they came to Jesus and saw that he was already dead, they did not break his legs. ³⁴*But one of the soldiers pierced his side with a spear, and at once there came out blood and water.* ³⁵He who saw it has borne witness—his testimony is true, and he knows that he is telling the truth—that you also may believe. ³⁶*For these things took place that the Scripture might be fulfilled: "Not one of his bones will be broken."* ³⁷*And again another Scripture says, "They will look on him whom they have pierced."* 📖

Acts 8:32-35 Now the passage of the Scripture that he was reading was this: "Like a sheep he was led to the slaughter and like a lamb before its shearer is silent, so he opens not his mouth. ³³In his humiliation justice was denied him. Who can describe his generation? For his life is taken away from the earth." ³⁴*And the eunuch said to Philip, "About whom, I ask you, does the prophet say this, about himself or about someone else?"* ³⁵*Then Philip opened his mouth, and beginning with this Scripture he told him the good news about Jesus.* 📖

The accounts of Jesus' crucifixion and the preceding events attest to his sheep-like meekness approaching his death (notably his silence before his accusers), his humiliation, the injustice of his trial, and of course his death – thus comprehensively fulfilling the prophecy quoted from Isaiah (cf. 1Pet 2:21-25 ↓).

1Pet 2:21-25 For to this you have been called, because Christ also suffered for you, leaving you an example, so that you might follow in his steps. ²²*He committed no sin, neither was deceit found in his mouth. ²³When he was reviled, he did not revile in return; when he suffered, he did not threaten, but continued entrusting himself to him who judges justly. ²⁴He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. By his wounds you have been healed. ²⁵For you were straying like sheep, but have now returned to the Shepherd and Overseer of your souls.* 📖

This passage draws heavily from Isaiah 53 and – as does Acts 8:32-33 above – clearly implies that Jesus fulfilled what is a monumental messianic prophecy. In addition to the quotation of 53:9 in v. 22: v. 23 appears to refer to 53:7 ("He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth ..."); v. 24a to 53:11 ("... he shall bear their iniquities"; cf. 53:4, 12); v. 24b to 53:5 ("... with his stripes we are healed"); and v. 25 to 53:6 ("All we like sheep have gone astray ...").

... Further OT Scriptures fulfilled or reflected in Jesus' death

Unlike the bulk of the previous references, the OT verses quoted or reflected in the following NT passages are not actually said by the NT passages to have been fulfilled in Jesus, nor were all of them necessarily seen by the Jews to be speaking of the Messiah. But each of them is reflected in the circumstances of Jesus' death, and as such it can be argued that they were "fulfilled" in his death.

Matt 27:39-46 And those who passed by derided him, wagging their heads⁴⁰ and saying, "You who would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross."⁴¹ So also the chief priests, with the scribes and elders, mocked him, saying, ⁴²"He saved others; he cannot save himself. He is the King of Israel; let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him. ⁴³He trusts in God; let God deliver him now, if he desires him. For he said, 'I am the Son of God.'"⁴⁴ And the robbers who were crucified with him also reviled him in the same way. ⁴⁵Now from the sixth hour^c there was darkness over all the land^d until the ninth hour.^e ⁴⁶And about the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying, "Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?" that is, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"

Just as v. 46 is a direct quotation from Psalm 22, the mocking and insults (vv. 39-44; cf. Rom 15:3 ↓) parallel vv. 7-8 of the same psalm; in particular much of v. 43 appears to be an unconscious quotation from v. 8 of the psalm. Thus many consider Jesus' suffering on the cross to be a fulfillment of these verses. Additionally, there is the fulfillment of v. 18 of this same psalm in John 19:23-24 (in the previous subsection), and further parallels with his suffering in other parts of the psalm. For example: "... they have pierced my hands and feet ..." (v. 16b), which is emulated in Jesus being nailed to the cross. In the light of all this, Psalm 22 is not surprisingly considered a messianic psalm, to a large degree fulfilled in Jesus' death.

Matt 27:57-60 When it was evening, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who also was a disciple of Jesus. ⁵⁸He went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate ordered it to be given to him. ⁵⁹And Joseph took the body and wrapped it in a clean linen shroud ⁶⁰and laid it in his own new tomb, which he had cut in the rock. And he rolled a great stone to the entrance of the tomb and went away.

The fact that Jesus' body was laid to rest in a rich man's tomb, quite possibly an expensive one in a location amongst other such tombs of rich people, is understood by many to be a fulfillment of Isaiah 53:9 – "And they made his grave with the wicked and with a rich man in his death ..."

Luke 23:46 Then Jesus, calling out with a loud voice, said, "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit!" And having said this he breathed his last.

From the cross Jesus quotes Psalms 31:5. In a sense Jesus fulfills it in his fitting utterance of it, with his dire circumstances paralleling that of the quote's context.

John 3:14-15 And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, ¹⁵that whoever believes in him may have eternal life.^f

^f Some interpreters hold that the quotation ends at verse 15

On one occasion when the Israelites spoke against God, God sent venomous snakes among them (cf. Num 21:6-9). In response to their repentance and Moses' intercession, God told Moses to make a bronze snake and put it up on a pole, designating that anyone who had been bitten by a snake could look at it and live. This was paralleled – and in a sense fulfilled – in God's provision of salvation through Jesus Christ, with Jesus being "lifted up" (v. 14) on a cross in order to provide eternal life (v. 15).

Matthew 27:39-46 above shows that this quotation of Psalm 69:9 was fulfilled in Jesus' death.

‡ OT Scripture pointing to Jesus' death as the consummate sin sacrifice:

Heb 10:5-7, 10 Consequently, when Christⁱ came into the world, he said, "Sacrifices and offerings you have not desired, but a body have you prepared for me; ⁶in burnt offerings and sin offerings you have taken no pleasure. ⁷Then I said, 'Behold, I have come to do your will, O God, as it is written of me in the scroll of the book.'" ¶ ... ¹⁰And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. ¶

ⁱ Greek he

Psalm 40:6-8 was fulfilled in Jesus in that, as affirmed here in v. 10, he came in accordance with God's will to offer his body as a sacrifice for sin, which – unlike previous sacrifices and offerings – was effective in dealing with the problem of sin once for all and so pleasing to God.

Prophecies fulfilled in Jesus' resurrection

Acts 2:25-32 For David says concerning him, "I saw the Lord always before me, for he is at my right hand that I may not be shaken; ²⁶therefore my heart was glad, and my tongue rejoiced; my flesh also will dwell in hope. ²⁷For you will not abandon my soul to Hades, or let your Holy One see corruption. ²⁸You have made known to me the paths of life; you will make me full of gladness with your presence.' ²⁹"Brothers, I may say to you with confidence about the patriarch David that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. ³⁰Being therefore a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him that he would set one of his descendants on his throne, ³¹he foresaw and spoke about the resurrection of the Christ, that he was not abandoned to Hades, nor did his flesh see corruption. ³²This Jesus God raised up, and of that we all are witnesses. ¶

Acts 13:32-37 And we bring you the good news that what God promised to the fathers, ³³this he has fulfilled to us their children by raising Jesus, as also it is written in the second Psalm, "You are my Son, today I have begotten you." ³⁴And as for the fact that he raised him from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he has spoken in this way, "I will give you the holy and sure blessings of David." ³⁵Therefore he says also in another psalm, "You will not let your Holy One see corruption." ³⁶For David, after he had served the purpose of God in his own generation, fell asleep and was laid with his fathers and saw corruption, ³⁷but he whom God raised up did not see corruption. ¶

The OT quotations here are all indicated to be ultimately fulfilled by the Messiah. In particular they relate to God's promises to David (cf. 2 Sam 7) which ultimately were to be bestowed upon and manifested through David's messianic descendant. Paul asserts that these prophecies have been fulfilled in Jesus, largely in God raising him from the dead. In this Paul may well also have Jesus Christ's subsequent exaltation and lordship in view – particularly with Psalm 2 (cf. v. 33) being a coronation psalm. For further comment on this passage see God raised Jesus from the dead, by his power . . ., p. 579. For more comment on "raising Jesus" (v. 33) in particular, see For the OT speaks of the sufferings and resurrection of the Christ as fulfilled in Jesus . . ., p. 492.

Luke 24:6-7 He is not here, but has risen. Remember how he told you, while he was still in Galilee, ⁷that the Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men and be crucified and on the third day rise. ¶

On more than one occasion Jesus had foretold his death and resurrection (and his betrayal). For example in Luke 9:22, 44 Jesus says: "The Son of Man must suffer many things and be rejected by the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised." ... ⁴⁴"Let these words sink into your ears: The Son of Man is about to be delivered into the hands of men."

Acts 2:33-36 Being therefore exalted at the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you yourselves are seeing and hearing. ³⁴For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he himself says, "The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, ³⁵until I make your enemies your footstool." ³⁶Let all the house of Israel therefore know for certain that God has made him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom you crucified." ¶

Peter asserts that in fulfillment of Psalm 110:1 Jesus ascended to heaven, to God's right hand (v. 33), where God has made him Lord and Christ over all (v. 36).

Eph 4:7-11 But grace was given to each one of us according to the measure of Christ's gift. ⁸Therefore it says, "When he ascended on high he led a host of captives, and he gave gifts to men."⁹(In saying, "He ascended," what does it mean but that he had also descended into the lower regions, the earth?¹⁰)

Paul sees in Christ's ascension (v. 10) – along with his bestowing spiritual gifts on his people (vv. 7, 11) – the fulfillment of Psalm 68:18.

Heb 1:5, 8-9, 13 For to which of the angels did God ever say, "You are my Son, today I have begotten you"? Or again, "I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son"? ... ⁸But of the Son he says, "Your throne, O God, is forever and ever, the scepter of uprightness is the scepter of your kingdom. ⁹You have loved righteousness and hated wickedness; therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness beyond your companions." ... ¹³And to which of the angels has he ever said, "Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet"?

The psalms quoted from here are royal psalms, with Psalm 2 being a coronation psalm. From early times they were widely understood as messianic. These quotations, along with a key aspect of God's promise to David (v. 5b), are presented here as being fulfilled by Jesus Christ in his enthronement at God's right hand on his ascension and glorification. For further comment on v. 5, see Following his death and resurrection, God exalted Jesus Christ to his right hand . . ., p. 685.

Heb 2:5-9 Now it was not to angels that God subjected the world to come, of which we are speaking. ⁶It has been testified somewhere, "What is man, that you are mindful of him, or the son of man, that you care for him? ⁷You made him for a little while lower than the angels; you have crowned him with glory and honor,^m ⁸putting everything in subjection under his feet." Now in putting everything in subjection to him, he left nothing outside his control. At present, we do not yet see everything in subjection to him. ⁹But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone.

One interpretation of this passage is that the writer is presenting the quotation from Psalm 8 – where it referred to humankind and the present world – as being ultimately fulfilled in Jesus Christ in his dominion over the world to come. At present we do not see everything in this world subject to humankind (v. 8; cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV); but we do see in Jesus Christ, with his glorification and enthronement, the one who is Lord of all creation and to whom the world to come will be comprehensively subjected.

Heb 5:5-6, 8-10 So also Christ did not exalt himself to be made a high priest, but was appointed by him who said to him, "You are my Son, today I have begotten you"; ⁶as he says also in another place, "You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek." ... ⁸Although he was a son, he learned obedience through what he suffered. ⁹And being made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation to all who obey him, ¹⁰*being designated by God a high priest after the order of Melchizedek.*

Following his resurrection and ascension, Jesus Christ was "designated by God a high priest in the order of Melchizedek" (v. 10), thus fulfilling Psalm 110:4 (quoted here in v. 6). (Note that Heb 7:17, 21 also quote Psalm 110:4 in regard to Christ's appointment by God as a high priest in the order of Melchizedek.) Additionally, the phrase "he was a son" (v. 8) may well be alluding to the quotation from Psalm 2:7 in v. 5, implying that Christ fulfilled it. Quite possibly the writer uses the quotation here to affirm Christ's sonship (cf. 1:5) and his uniquely close relationship with God, both of which are critical to his priesthood.

Other messianic OT Scriptures applied to Jesus Christ

See also:

- Titles of God are applied to Jesus Christ . . ., p. 122
- . . . Other OT references to God are applied to Jesus Christ, p. 123

It is difficult to ascertain to what extent some OT Scriptures applied to Jesus Christ in the NT were understood to be messianic. Some were obviously generally understood to be messianic; others were obviously seen by the NT writers as messianic, but not necessarily by Jews in general; while with some it is not clear if even the NT writers themselves were using them as messianic references. As with the majority in the preceding subsections, most of the following references clearly belong to the first two categories, but with some it is debatable.

Note that there are likely other OT messianic references mentioned in the NT that have not been included in this or the preceding subsections. There are also some OT verses that are reflected in Jesus' life that are not specifically referred to in the NT (e.g. Isa 50:6; Dan 9:25-26).

Acts 3:20-26 ... that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Christ appointed for you, Jesus, ²¹*whom heaven must receive until the* time for restoring all the things about which God spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets long ago. ²²Moses said, "The Lord God will raise up for you a prophet like me from your brothers. You shall listen to him in whatever he tells you. ²³And it shall be that every soul who does not listen to that prophet shall be destroyed from the people." ²⁴And all the prophets who have spoken, from Samuel and those who came after him, also proclaimed these days. ²⁵You are the sons of the prophets and of the covenant that God made with your fathers, saying to Abraham, "And in your offspring shall all the families of the earth be blessed." ²⁶God, having raised up his servant, sent him to you first, to bless you by turning every one of you from your wickedness. 📖

Peter sees Jesus Christ as fulfilling Moses' prophecy of a coming great prophet (vv. 22-23). He seems to portray the prophecy as applicable both to Jesus Christ's work in his first coming (v. 26) and to his return (vv. 20-21). In v. 24 Peter indicates that predictions of the OT prophets were fulfilled in Jesus Christ's mission and the new covenant age that had now begun. Peter may also imply that Jesus Christ is the consummate "offspring" of Abraham through whom all peoples will be blessed (v. 25) – particularly with v. 26 speaking of him bringing blessing firstly to the Jews. Alternatively it is possible that Peter may be referring to the Jews themselves (cf. v. 25a); but in Galatians 3:8, 16 below Paul certainly understands Jesus Christ to be in view in the original prophecy.

Rom 11:26-27 And in this way all Israel will be saved, as it is written, "The Deliverer will come from Zion, he will banish ungodliness from Jacob"; ²⁷and this will be my covenant with them when I take away their sins." 📖

In v. 26, Paul most likely is applying Isaiah 59:20 to Israel's salvation in the end times, quite possibly implying that it will come through the return of Jesus Christ, with him probably being in view as "The Deliverer" (v. 26). This being the case, Paul's subsequent quotation of Jeremiah 31:33, 34 in v. 27 suggests that he also sees this as being fulfilled through Jesus Christ on his return.

Rom 15:8-9, 12 For I tell you that Christ became a servant to the circumcised to show God's truthfulness, in order to confirm the promises given to the patriarchs, ⁹and in order that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy. As it is written, "Therefore I will praise you among the Gentiles, and sing to your name." 📖 ... ¹²And again Isaiah says, "The root of Jesse will come, even he who arises to rule the Gentiles; in him will the Gentiles hope." 📖

Note that the first quotation (v. 9) is not necessarily messianic and is not being applied to Jesus Christ directly, but it is being applied to his work (in bringing salvation to the Gentiles) or at least to the results of it (cf. vv. 10-11).

Rom 15:20-21 ... and thus I make it my ambition to preach the gospel, not where Christ has already been named, lest I build on someone else's foundation, ²¹but as it is written, "Those who have never been told of him will see, and those who have never heard will understand." 📖

Heb 2:11-13 For he who sanctifies and those who are sanctified all have one source.ⁿ That is why he is not ashamed to call them brothers,^o ¹²saying, "I will tell of your name to my brothers; in the midst of the congregation I will sing your praise." ¹³And again, "I will put my trust in him." And again, "Behold, I and the children God has given me." 📖

ⁿ Greek all are of one

^o Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated "brothers") refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church; also verse 12

The writer sees an application of the three quotations to Christ. The reasons for the inclusion of the two in v. 13 are not so obvious. Perhaps to show that Christ and Christians "all have one source" (v. 11), the writer may be using them to illustrate a common nature, with Christ being one who trusted in God during his time on earth and they being his children (cf. ZBC).

Note that in their original setting (cf. Isa 8:17-18), these two quotations in v. 13 shortly follow the messianic sounding: "... a stone of offense and a rock of stumbling ..." (Isa 8:14; cf. 1Pet 2:4-8 ↓). This adds plausibility to the writer's messianic interpretation of them here, in applying them to Jesus Christ.

1Pet 2:4-8 As you come to him, a living stone rejected by men but in the sight of God chosen and precious, ⁵you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. ⁶For it stands in Scripture: "Behold, I am laying in Zion a stone, a cornerstone chosen and precious, and whoever believes in him will not be put to shame." ⁷So the honor is for you who believe, but for those who do not believe, "The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone,"^p ⁸and "A stone of stumbling, and a rock of offense." They stumble because they disobey the word, as they were destined to do." 📖

^p Greek the head of the corner

The term "stone" was understood to be a messianic title by Jews as well as Christians. For further examples of these OT verses being applied to Jesus Christ, see Matthew 21:42

✦ Jesus' claim to be "the Son of Man":

Matt 26:64 Jesus said to him, "You have said so. But I tell you, from now on you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power and coming on the clouds of heaven."

Here Jesus claims to "the Son of Man" who was prophesied about in Daniel 7:13-14 (cf. God will establish the Messiah as ruler over all, forever, p. 718).

Matt 11:2-5 Now when John heard in prison about the deeds of the Christ, he sent word by his disciples ³and said to him, "Are you the one who is to come, or shall we look for another?" ⁴And Jesus answered them, "Go and tell John what you hear and see: ⁵the blind receive their sight and the lame walk, lepers⁴ are cleansed and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good news preached to them.

⁴ Leprosy was a term for several skin diseases; see Leviticus 13

As indicated earlier in this chapter, Jesus here effectively says, "Yes." His reply implies that by his deeds he was fulfilling prophecies from Isaiah concerning the Messiah (cf. Isa 35:4-6; 61:1).

Matt 12:22-23 Then a demon-oppressed man who was blind and mute was brought to him, and he healed him, so that the man spoke and saw. ²³And all the people were amazed, and said, "Can this be the Son of David?"

John 6:9-15 [Andrew:] "There is a boy here who has five barley loaves and two fish, but what are they for so many?" ¹⁰Jesus said, "Have the people sit down." Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, about five thousand in number. ¹¹Jesus then took the loaves, and when he had given thanks, he distributed them to those who were seated. So also the fish, as much as they wanted. ¹²And when they had eaten their fill, he told his disciples, "Gather up the leftover fragments, that nothing may be lost." ¹³So they gathered them up and filled twelve baskets with fragments from the five barley loaves left by those who had eaten. ¹⁴When the people saw the sign that he had done, they said, "This is indeed the Prophet who is to come into the world!" ¹⁵Perceiving then that they were about to come and take him by force to make him king, Jesus withdrew again to the mountain by himself.

The "Prophet" (v. 14) is quite possibly a reference to Deuteronomy 18:15-19, where Moses speaks of God raising up a prophet like him. As such some scholars consider it to not or not necessarily be a messianic ascription. However the people's associated intention to make Jesus king (v. 15) suggests strongly that they were using it as a messianic ascription and did see Jesus as the Messiah, due largely to his astonishing miracle (vv. 9-13).

John 7:31 Yet many of the people believed in him. They said, "When the Christ appears, will he do more signs than this man has done?"

John 10:24-25 So the Jews gathered around him and said to him, "How long will you keep us in suspense? If you are the Christ, tell us plainly." ²⁵Jesus answered them, "I told you, and you do not believe. The works that I do in my Father's name bear witness about me, ..."

John 20:30-31 Now Jesus did many other signs in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book; ³¹but these are written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name.

Jesus himself claimed to be the Christ

John 4:25-26 The woman said to him, “I know that Messiah is coming (he who is called Christ). When he comes, he will tell us all things.” ²⁶Jesus said to her, “I who speak to you am he.”

Matt 16:20 Then he strictly charged the disciples to tell no one that he was the Christ.

Note that a common explanation for Jesus giving this command at this point in time, concerns the common Jewish misconception that the Messiah would be a powerful political figure that would release the Jews from their oppressors. If the people had realized at that point that he was the Messiah, it would have made it more difficult for Jesus to fulfill his mission as the Messiah who would suffer and die for his people, due to the Jewish expectations and corresponding Roman reaction. Another common explanation of Jesus' command was that it was due to the Jewish people having largely rejected him.

Matt 23:10 Neither be called instructors, for you have one instructor, the Christ.

Here Jesus is speaking, in reference to himself.

Matt 26:63-64a But Jesus remained silent. And the high priest said to him, “I adjure you by the living God, tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God.” ⁶⁴Jesus said to him, “You have said so.

Mark 9:41 For truly, I say to you, whoever gives you a cup of water to drink because you belong to Christ will by no means lose his reward.

Here Jesus refers to himself as “Christ”.

Luke 23:2-3 And they began to accuse him, saying, “We found this man misleading our nation and forbidding us to give tribute to Caesar, and saying that he himself is Christ, a king.” ³And Pilate asked him, “Are you the King of the Jews?” And he answered him, “You have said so.”

The title “the King of the Jews” is a messianic one – which Pilate may have realized, with his question (v. 3) immediately following the Jews' accusations that Jesus “claims to be Christ, a king” (v. 2). Jesus' answer was in recognition of it being a messianic title.

John 13:19 I am telling you this now, before it takes place, that when it does take place you may believe that I am he.

It appears that “before it takes place” refers to Jesus' death – with the preceding events – and his resurrection. With the phrase “I am He” (cf. 8:38), Jesus may well have been speaking of himself as the Messiah, the one for whom the Jews were waiting.

✦ Jesus Christ's messianic claim in Revelation:

Rev 22:16 “I, Jesus, have sent my angel to testify to you about these things for the churches. I am the root and the descendant of David, the bright morning star.”

The title “the root and the descendant of David” is a messianic one (cf. Isa 1:1, 10), and this may also be the case with “the bright morning star” (cf. Num 24:17).

Jesus' followers acknowledged him as the Christ . . .

Matt 16:16 Simon Peter replied, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.”

John 1:41 He first found his own brother Simon and said to him, “We have found the Messiah” (which means Christ).

John 1:45, 49 Philip found Nathanael and said to him, “We have found him of whom Moses in the Law and also the prophets wrote, Jesus of Nazareth, the son of Joseph.”  ... ⁴⁹Nathanael answered him, “Rabbi, you are the Son of God! You are the King of Israel!”

John 6:69 ... and we have believed, and have come to know, that you are the Holy One of God.

Quite likely Peter is here acknowledging Jesus as the Messiah (cf. AMP, GNT).

John 11:27 She [Martha] said to him, “Yes, Lord; I believe that you are the Christ, the Son of God, who is coming into the world.”

Acts 3:6 But Peter said, “I have no silver and gold, but what I do have I give to you. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, rise up and walk!”

The fact that titles such as "Jesus Christ" (cf. Rom 1:1 ↓; 2Pet 1:16 ↓) are regularly used of Jesus in the NT clearly indicates that his followers acknowledged him as the Christ.

Acts 5:42 And every day, in the temple and from house to house, they did not cease teaching and preaching Jesus as the Christ.

Acts 9:22 But Saul increased all the more in strength, and confounded the Jews who lived in Damascus by proving that Jesus was the Christ.

Acts 17:2-3 And Paul went in, as was his custom, and on three Sabbath days he reasoned with them from the Scriptures, explaining and proving that it was necessary for the Christ to suffer and to rise from the dead, and saying, "This Jesus, whom I proclaim to you, is the Christ."

Acts 18:5 When Silas and Timothy arrived from Macedonia, Paul was occupied with the word, testifying to the Jews that the Christ was Jesus.

Acts 2:36 Let all the house of Israel therefore know for certain that God has made him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom you crucified.

Acts 13:23 Of this man's offspring God has brought to Israel a Savior, Jesus, as he promised.

Although the term Christ is not used here, it is apparent that Paul is speaking to his listeners of Jesus as the promised Messiah.

Others also acknowledged Jesus as the Christ

Matt 2:1-4 Now after Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judea in the days of Herod the king, behold, wise men^s from the east came to Jerusalem, saying, "Where is he who has been born king of the Jews? For we saw his star when it rose^t and have come to worship him." ³When Herod the king heard this, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him; ⁴and assembling all the chief priests and scribes of the people, he inquired of them where the Christ was to be born.

^s Greek magi; also verses 7, 16

^t Or in the east; also verse 9

The wise men may not necessarily have been familiar with the promise of a Messiah, but their description of Jesus as "king of the Jews" (v. 2) is in essence a reference to him being the promised Christ – as Herod was acutely aware (v. 4).

Luke 2:25-32 Now there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon, and this man was righteous and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was upon him. ²⁶*And it had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord's Christ.* ²⁷*And he came in the Spirit into the temple, and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him according to the custom of the Law,* ²⁸*he took him up in his arms and blessed God and said,* ²⁹*"Lord, now you are letting your servant^u depart in peace, according to your word;* ³⁰*for my eyes have seen your salvation* ³¹*that you have prepared in the presence of all peoples,* ³²*a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to your people Israel."*

As commented earlier, "the consolation of Israel" (v. 25) refers to the comfort and salvation (vv. 30-32) associated with the coming of the Messiah.

Matt 21:9 And the crowds that went before him and that followed him were shouting, "Hosanna to the Son of David! Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord! Hosanna in the highest!"

The crowd was acknowledging Jesus as the Christ, referring to him with messianic expressions in declaring him to be "the Son of David" and the one "who comes in the name of the Lord".

Matt 27:17 So when they had gathered, Pilate said to them, "Whom do you want me to release for you: Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?"

In referring to Jesus as the Christ (cf. John 19:19-22 ↓), Pilate was unlikely himself acknowledging Jesus as the Christ. But his words imply that this was what a number of others were saying about Jesus.

Luke 1:67-70 And his father Zechariah was filled with the Holy Spirit and prophesied, saying, ⁶⁸*“Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has visited and redeemed his people”* ⁶⁹*and has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David,* ⁷⁰*as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old, ...* 📖

Zechariah speaks of Jesus as being God's chosen Christ – the one God “raised up” (v. 69), from the line of David (v. 69), as the OT prophets had prophesied (v. 70).

Luke 2:11 For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. 📖

Here an angel is declaring that Jesus is the Christ (cf. Luke 1:32-33 ↓). This angel was almost immediately joined by a great company of angels (cf. vv. 13-14), who no doubt were in agreement with this angel's declaration.

✦ Pilate's notice on Jesus' cross:

John 19:19-22 Pilate also wrote an inscription and put it on the cross. It read, “Jesus of Nazareth, the King of the Jews.” ²⁰Many of the Jews read this inscription, for the place where Jesus was crucified was near the city, and it was written in Aramaic, in Latin, and in Greek. ²¹So the chief priests of the Jews said to Pilate, “Do not write, ‘The King of the Jews,’ but rather, ‘This man said, I am King of the Jews.’” ²²*Pilate answered, “What I have written I have written.”* 📖

“The King of the Jews” was a messianic title – no doubt a major reason for the Jews' objection (v. 21). Pilate may have used it in retaliation for the Jews forcing him into allowing an innocent man to be crucified, rather than because of any belief of his own. Nevertheless its place on the cross in three notable languages is significant and striking.

Note: The Christ is understood to be the Son of God

The understanding that the Christ would be the Son of God appears to be largely based on OT messianic passages where God speaks of the Christ or Messiah as his Son (cf. 2Sam 7:11b-14a ↓; Ps 2:6-7 ↓; Ps 89:27 ↓).

2Sam 7:11b-14a Moreover, the LORD declares to you that the LORD will make you a house. ¹²When your days are fulfilled and you lie down with your fathers, I will raise up your offspring after you, who shall come from your body, and I will establish his kingdom. ¹³He shall build a house for my name, and I will establish the throne of his kingdom forever. ¹⁴*I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son.* 📖

This promise to David initially referred to Solomon, but was understood to ultimately point to the Messiah, who would in an exclusive sense be God's son (v. 14a; cf. Ps 89:27 ↓).

Ps 2:6-7 “As for me, I have set my King on Zion, my holy hill.” ⁷I will tell of the decree: The LORD said to me, “You are my Son; today I have begotten you.” 📖

Note that this and 2 Samuel 7:11b-14a above are quoted from in Hebrews 1:5 in reference to Jesus Christ – “You are my Son, today I have begotten you”? Or again, “I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son”?

Ps 89:26-27 He shall cry to me, ‘You are my Father, my God, and the Rock of my salvation.’ ²⁷*And I will make him the firstborn, the highest of the kings of the earth.* 📖

The description of the Messiah – in this messianic psalm – as “the firstborn” (v. 27) implies that the Messiah would have a position of sonship above all others.

Matt 16:16 Simon Peter replied, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.” 📖

Matt 26:63 But Jesus remained silent. And the high priest said to him, “I adjure you by the living God, tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God.” 📖

Bear in mind that here it is the high priest who speaks of the Christ as being the Son of God. As such this correlation is not a uniquely Christian teaching.

Luke 1:32-33 He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High. And the Lord God will give to him the throne of his father David, ³³*and he will reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there will be no end.* 📖

The reference to kingship here – as with occurrences in the following verses (cf. the comment on John 1:49 ↓) – is speaking of the Christ. With this immediately following the reference to him being “called the Son of the Most High” (v. 32a), these verses indicate that the Christ is understood to be the Son of God.

Luke 4:41 And demons also came out of many, crying, “You are the Son of God!” But he rebuked them and would not allow them to speak, because they knew that he was the Christ. 📖

The final thought reflects on the demons' exclamation, showing a correlation between the Son of God and the Christ.

John 1:49 Nathanael answered him, “Rabbi, you are the Son of God! You are the King of Israel!” 📖

Note that as with "The King of the Jews" (John 19:19-22 ↑; cf. Matt 2:2-4 ↑), "the King of Israel" is a messianic title (cf. vv. 41, 45). In Mark 15:32 it is correlated with "Christ" – "the Christ, the King of Israel". The correlation is also seen in Matthew 2:2-4 in the preceding subsection.

John 10:24-25, 36 So the Jews gathered around him and said to him, "How long will you keep us in suspense? If you are the Christ, tell us plainly." ²⁵Jesus answered them, "I told you, and you do not believe. The works that I do in my Father's name bear witness about me, ☞ ... ³⁶do you say of him whom the Father consecrated and sent into the world, 'You are blaspheming,' because I said, 'I am the Son of God'? ☞

Here Jesus appears to correlate being the Christ (vv. 24-25a) – "him whom the Father consecrated and sent into the world" (v. 36a) – with being "the Son of God" (v. 36b).

John 11:27 She said to him, "Yes, Lord; I believe that you are the Christ, the Son of God, who is coming into the world." ☞

John 20:31 ... but these are written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name. ☞

Acts 9:20, 22 And immediately he proclaimed Jesus in the synagogues, saying, "He is the Son of God." ☞ ... ²²But Saul increased all the more in strength, and confounded the Jews who lived in Damascus by proving that Jesus was the Christ. ☞

The close proximity of these verses with the former having "He [Jesus] is the Son of God" (v. 20) and the latter having "Jesus was the Christ" (v. 22) as the focus of Paul's message or ministry, implies that these descriptions are being used more or less interchangeably and that there is a close correlation between the two.

1Jn 5:1-5 Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ has been born of God, and everyone who loves the Father loves whoever has been born of him. ²By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and obey his commandments. ³For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments. And his commandments are not burdensome. ⁴For everyone who has been born of God overcomes the world. And this is the victory that has overcome the world—our faith. ⁵*Who is it that overcomes the world except the one who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?* ☞

This appears to correlate believing that Jesus is the Christ (v. 1a) with believing that Jesus is the Son of God (v. 5b). In addition to both being referred to in a like manner and in close proximity, this is further shown by the intervening discussion associating being born of God (linked with believing that Jesus is the Christ in v. 1a) and overcoming the world (linked with believing that Jesus is the Son of God in v. 5).

✦ Further reference to the divinity or deity of the Messiah:

Isa 9:6 For to us a child is born, to us a son is given; and the government shall be upon^v his shoulder, and his name shall be called^w Wonderful Counselor, Mighty God, Everlasting Father, Prince of Peace. ☞

^v Or is upon

^w Or is called

Also, in 7:14b Isaiah says, "Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel." This too speaks of the Messiah's divinity or deity as "Immanuel" means "God with us".

II. The Messiah's Purpose and Person

Arguably the fundamental assertion of the NT is that God sent the Messiah – Jesus Christ – into the world to save people from sin and its devastating consequences. For this mission, Jesus Christ was born of the Holy Spirit and became fully human – further assertions that are very significant to the Christian faith. In fulfilling the objectives of the mission, Jesus Christ lived a life which was faultless, with his character being both exemplary and inspiring. The following teaching shows the NT's testimony to these crucial matters.

a) Jesus Christ's Mission from God

God sent Jesus Christ into the world

John 5:36-38, 43 But the testimony that I have is greater than that of John. For the works that the Father has given me to accomplish, the very works that I am doing, bear witness about me that the Father has sent me. ³⁷*And the Father who sent me has himself borne witness about me.* His voice you have never heard, his form you have never seen, ³⁸and you do not have his word abiding in you, for you do not believe the one whom he has sent.  ... ⁴³*I have come in my Father's name, and you do not receive me. If another comes in his own name, you will receive him.*

Verse 37a implies that God had testified that he had sent Jesus. This testimony of God may primarily have been the voice from heaven at Jesus' baptism (cf. Matt 3:16-17) or God's word (cf. vv. 38-40) – or possibly the weighty testimony of the work that the Father had given Jesus (v. 36). Jesus' claim in v. 43 that he had come in God's name, reflects the fact that God had sent him.

John 7:28-29 So Jesus proclaimed, as he taught in the temple, "You know me, and you know where I come from? But I have not come of my own accord. He who sent me is true, and him you do not know. ²⁹*I know him, for I come from him, and he sent me.*"

Note that Jesus' first statement in v. 28 was quite possibly spoken in irony – "Do you really think you know me and where I came from?" (CEV; cf. AMP, GNT). Most of the people knew where he had grown up, but were not aware of where he had initially come from.

John 8:42 Jesus said to them, "If God were your Father, you would love me, for I came from God and I am here. I came not of my own accord, but he sent me."

John 10:36 ... do you say of him whom the Father consecrated and sent into the world, 'You are blaspheming,' because I said, 'I am the Son of God'?

John 11:41-42 So they took away the stone. And Jesus lifted up his eyes and said, "Father, I thank you that you have heard me. ⁴²*I knew that you always hear me, but I said this on account of the people standing around, that they may believe that you sent me.*"

Here Jesus thanks God prior to God performing through him the miracle of raising Lazarus from the dead (cf. vv. 43-44). Jesus does this publicly so that the miracle would demonstrate that God had sent him (v. 42).

John 16:30 Now we know that you know all things and do not need anyone to question you; this is why we believe that you came from God.

John 17:8, 25 For I have given them the words that you gave me, and they have received them and have come to know in truth that I came from you; and they have believed that you sent me.  ... ²⁵*O righteous Father, even though the world* does not know you, I know you, and these know that you have sent me.

John 3:13, 31 No one has ascended into heaven except he who descended from heaven, the Son of Man.^a  ... ³¹He who comes from above is above all. He who is of the earth belongs to the earth and speaks in an earthly way. He who comes from heaven is above all.

^a Some manuscripts add who is in heaven

The inference is that Jesus came from God, in heaven.

✦ Jesus is the “apostle”:

Heb 3:1 Therefore, holy brothers,^b you who share in a heavenly calling, consider Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession, ...

^b Or brothers and sisters; also verse 12

Referring to Jesus as “the apostle” points to him being sent by God (cf. GNT, NCV) – “God’s Messenger” (NLT).

God sent Jesus to take away sins . . .

John 1:29 The next day he [John] saw Jesus coming toward him, and said, “Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!”

The description of Jesus as “the Lamb of God” alludes to him being given or sent by God as a sacrifice – just as lambs were used in some sacrifices – to take away sin.

Rom 8:3 For God has done what the law, weakened by the flesh, could not do. By sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh and for sin,^c he condemned sin in the flesh, ...

^c Or and as a sin offering

God sent Jesus Christ “for sin”, to deal with sin as a sin offering (cf. text note), thus effectively condemning sin, sounding its “death knell”.

1Jn 3:5 You know that he appeared to take away sins, and in him there is no sin.

1Jn 4:10 In this is love, not that we have loved God but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.

In the NT “propitiation” means to turn away or appease the wrath of God against sinners in their guilt. God sent Jesus to do this, by effectively taking away sin.

Matt 1:21 She will bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins.

John 3:16-17 For God so loved the world,^d that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. ¹⁷*For God did not send his Son into the world to condemn the world, but in order that the world might be saved through him.*

1Jn 4:9, 14 In this the love of God was made manifest among us, that God sent his only Son into the world, so that we might live through him.  ... ¹⁴*And we have seen and testify that the Father has sent his Son to be the Savior of the world.*

John 12:47 If anyone hears my words and does not keep them, I do not judge him; for I did not come to judge the world but to save the world.

1Tim 1:15 The saying is trustworthy and deserving of full acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am the foremost.

Luke 19:10 For the Son of Man came to seek and to save the lost.

Acts 13:23 Of this man's offspring God has brought to Israel a Savior, Jesus, as he promised.

It can be inferred from this that God sent Jesus as Savior, to save Israel – and all peoples.

Luke 1:68-69, 76-79 “Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has visited and redeemed his people ⁶⁹*and has raised up a horn of salvation for us* in the house of his servant David,  ... ⁷⁶*And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High; for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways,* ⁷⁷*to*

^e Or when the sunrise shall dawn upon us; some manuscripts since the sunrise has visited us

Verses 76-79 speak of God's salvation coming through Jesus Christ's mission in both John the Baptist's preparatory work (v. 77; cf. CEV, NCV, NIV, NLT) and Jesus himself (vv. 78-79).

Luke 2:27-32 And he came in the Spirit into the temple, and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him according to the custom of the Law, ²⁸he took him up in his arms and blessed God and said, ²⁹"Lord, now you are letting your servant^f depart in peace, according to your word; ³⁰for my eyes have seen your salvation ³¹that you have prepared in the presence of all peoples, ³²a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to your people Israel."

John 6:32-33, 51 Jesus then said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, it was not Moses who gave you the bread from heaven, but my Father gives you the true bread from heaven. ³³For the bread of God is he who comes down from heaven and gives life to the world."  ... ⁵¹I am the living bread that came down from heaven. If anyone eats of this bread, he will live forever. And the bread that I will give for the life of the world is my flesh."

The "bread" given (or sent) by God figuratively refers to Jesus' flesh or body, which he would sacrifice "for the life of the world" (v. 51). The phrase "eats of this bread" (v. 51) is a metaphor meaning to believe in Jesus (cf. v. 40), trusting in what he would accomplish by his sacrifice. Such faith saves one, bringing life forever.

Jesus came to bring spiritual light into the world . . .

See also:

▪ John 14:6

Jesus came as a light of revelation, showing the way to salvation and spiritual, eternal life. His spiritual light enables people to escape the spiritual darkness of this world and its sin. (Note that this and the following subsections speak of other important objectives of Jesus Christ's mission, that were to be accomplished in conjunction with the key objective of saving the world from sin.)

John 12:46 I have come into the world as light, so that whoever believes in me may not remain in darkness.

Isa 42:6-7 I am the LORD; I have called you in righteousness; I will take you by the hand and keep you; I will give you as a covenant for the people, a light for the nations, ⁷to open the eyes that are blind, to bring out the prisoners from the dungeon, from the prison those who sit in darkness.

This and 49:6b below are generally understood to have been ultimately fulfilled by Jesus Christ. Verse 7 speaks of the Messiah giving spiritual sight and spiritual release from the darkness of sin.

Isa 49:6b I will make you as a light for the nations, that my salvation may reach to the end of the earth.

Matt 4:15-16 "The land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, the way of the sea, beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the Gentiles—¹⁶the people dwelling in darkness have seen a great light, and for those dwelling in the region and shadow of death, on them a light has dawned."

The region referred to in v. 15 had a less predominately Jewish population than Judea, and was viewed as somewhat heathen by many other Jews. As with the above prophecies from Isaiah, this reference and Luke 1:78-79 below appear to foreshadow or allude to the enlightening of the Gentiles through Jesus Christ's mission.

Luke 1:78-79 ... because of the tender mercy of our God, whereby the sunrise shall visit us^g from on high ⁷⁹to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.

^g Or when the sunrise shall dawn upon us; some manuscripts since the sunrise has visited us

Here Zechariah prophecies of the approaching advent of the Messiah, "the sunrise", who would bring light and salvation. In speaking of "those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death", Zechariah refers to Isaiah 9:2 (quoted above in Matthew 4:15-16) and so may primarily be referring to the Gentiles, living in the darkness of their sins. Peace with God is paramount in the final phrase.

Luke 2:30-32 ... for my eyes have seen your salvation ³¹that you have prepared in the presence of all peoples, ³²a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to your people Israel.

This was spoken by Simeon on being presented with the infant Jesus.

John 1:4-5, 9 In him was life,^h and the life was the light of men. ⁵The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it. ... ⁹The true light, which enlightens everyone, was coming into the world.

^h Or was not any thing made. That which has been made was life in him

Verse 4 may well be alluding to spiritual or eternal life being in Jesus Christ, available to all people through him. As such this life gave spiritual light to all people, showing the way to salvation.

John 3:19 And this is the judgment: the light has come into the world, and people loved the darkness rather than the light because their works were evil.

John 8:12 Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life."

John 9:5 As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world.

Acts 26:23 ... that the Christ must suffer and that, by being the first to rise from the dead, he would proclaim light both to our people and to the Gentiles.

Through Jesus' resurrection the light of the way to salvation would be made known to all peoples.

... Jesus came to bring truth

John 18:37 Then Pilate said to him, "So you are a king?" Jesus answered, "You say that I am a king. For this purpose I was born and for this purpose I have come into the world—to bear witness to the truth. Everyone who is of the truth listens to my voice."

Jesus' answer seems to associate the fact that he came into the world "to bear witness to the truth" with his kingship, perhaps pointing to his authority to proclaim truth. Note that the clause: "For this purpose I was born", could actually be referring primarily to him being king (cf. NIV, NLT), rather than primarily to him testifying to the truth. As such it would appear to be a reference to him coming as the Messiah.

John 1:14, 17 And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we have seen his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father, full of grace and truth. ... ¹⁷For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ.

✦ Jesus is "the way and the truth and the life":

John 14:6 Jesus said to him, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.

Jesus did not just simply bring the truth, he is "the truth" – the embodiment of truth, as revealed by his life and teaching. (cf. BBC)

1Jn 5:20 And we know that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding, so that we may know him who is true; and we are in him who is true, in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life.

John 1:18 No one has ever seen God; the only God,ⁱ who is at the Father's side,^j he has made him known.

ⁱ Or the only One, who is God; some manuscripts the only Son

^j Greek in the bosom of the Father

The phrase "at the Father's side" points to the intimacy of the Son with the Father and the Son's unique knowledge of him. As such Jesus Christ was in a position to make God known.

John 8:38 I speak of what I have seen with my Father, and you do what you have heard from your father.

By "what I have seen with my Father", Jesus may have been speaking of what God had "shown" him (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV), but it may more specifically be referring to what he had seen of the Father himself.

John 17:2-3, 6, 26 ... since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him. ³And this is eternal life, that they know you the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent. ¶ ... ⁶"I have manifested your name to the people whom you gave me out of the world. Yours they were, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word. ¶ ... ²⁶I made known to them your name, and I will continue to make it known, that the love with which you have loved me may be in them, and I in them." ¶

Eternal life involves knowing God and Jesus Christ (v. 3) in an ongoing, progressive, intimate relationship. As the one who gives eternal life (v. 2), it is Jesus Christ who enables us to have this personal knowledge of God – as subsequently referred to in vv. 6, 26. Note that such references to God's "name" (v. 26) are indicative of God himself, here even inclusive of all that can be known about him. Jesus made God known to a deeper, more comprehensive extent than previous revelation had done.

John 5:37-38 And the Father who sent me has himself borne witness about me. His voice you have never heard, his form you have never seen, ³⁸and you do not have his word abiding in you, for you do not believe the one whom he has sent. ¶

Given the context, v. 37b may be alluding to the Jews' lack of spiritual perception in not believing the one God sent – with "His voice" (v. 37b) and "his word" (v. 38a) possibly referring to God speaking through Jesus, and "his form" (v. 37b) alluding to God's presence in Jesus. Thus this would evidence that believing Jesus Christ, the one God sent, leads to knowledge of God. However, "His voice" may alternatively refer to God's voice testifying to Jesus at his baptism, or to the Scriptures – which also may well be the meaning of "his word". Furthermore, in saying that they had never seen God's "form", Jesus may simply have been meaning that – in contrast to himself – like all people they had not "seen him face to face" (CEV, NLT; cf. GNT).

‡ No one knows God except those Jesus Christ reveals him to:

Matt 11:27 All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him. ¶

- . . . Jesus Christ gave some of his followers similar authority over demons, p. 1818

John 12:31 Now is the judgment of this world; now will the ruler of this world be cast out. ¶

"Now" refers to Jesus' imminent death, by which Satan would be defeated, with Jesus' death and resurrection nullifying Satan's power over people through sin and death. For comment on the phrase "cast out", see the comment on John 12:31 – under Note: Satan hurled down from heaven to the earth, p. 191.

Heb 2:14-15 Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil, ¹⁵and deliver all those who through fear of death were subject to lifelong slavery. ¶

The term "destroy" appears to have the sense "break the power of" (NLT), although it may also allude to Jesus Christ's death being significant in Satan's ultimate destruction. Note that a further, related objective of Jesus' mission is given in v. 15.

1Jn 3:8 Whoever makes a practice of sinning is of the devil, for the devil has been sinning from the beginning. The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the works of the devil. ¶

The "works of the devil", which Jesus Christ came to destroy, involves people's sin – as pointed to by the first statement here and by v. 5 ("... he appeared to take away sins ..."). As such it also encompasses the results of sin – such as separation from God, enslavement to sin, and death.

Gen 3:15 I will put enmity between you and the woman, and between your offspring^k and her offspring; he shall bruise your head, and you shall bruise his heel. ¶

^k Hebrew seed; so throughout Genesis

The prophecy "he shall bruise your head" is understood by many to chiefly or ultimately speak of Christ's victory over Satan through his mission.

‡ Jesus' overpowering of Satan:

Luke 11:14, 21-22 Now he was casting out a demon that was mute. When the demon had gone out, the mute man spoke, and the people marveled. ¶ ... ²¹When a strong man, fully armed, guards his own palace, his goods are safe; ²²but when one stronger than he attacks him and overcomes him, he takes away his armor in which he trusted and divides his spoil. ¶

In v. 22 Jesus is referring to his overpowering of Satan in Satan's worldly domain, taking away Satan's defenses and laying hold of what Satan had. The reality of this truth was demonstrated by Jesus driving out demons and thus releasing people (v. 14) from Satan's power.

Matt 5:17-18 Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them. ¹⁸For truly, I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot, will pass from the Law until all is accomplished.

There are differing views as to what Jesus meant by saying he had come "to fulfill" (v. 17) the Law and the Prophets. It involves the fact that they pointed to Jesus as the Messiah and he would do or "bring about" (NCV™) that of which they spoke (as discussed in the first two sections of this chapter). Other things that commentators suggest that "to fulfill" entails are: providing the righteousness before God that was the objective of the law; expounding God's laws so as to "give them their full meaning" (CEV); and fulfilling the law's requirements by perfectly obeying all of it. The phrase "until all is accomplished" (v. 18) refers to Jesus fulfilling "all" of which the law spoke. Presumably this will be ultimately completed in the consummation of his work at the end of the age.

Matt 20:28 ... even as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.

Luke 1:69-75 ... and [God] has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David, ⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old, ⁷¹*that we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us;* ⁷²*to show the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant,* ⁷³*the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us* ⁷⁴*that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies, might serve him without fear,* ⁷⁵*in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.*

The term "horn of salvation" (v. 69) refers to Jesus Christ. The use of "enemies" (vv. 71, 74) probably encompasses spiritual enemies and even sin, as well as other oppressors. According to some commentators at least, v. 73 appears to have God's promise to Abraham in Genesis 22:16-18 in view. This would mean that vv. 74-75 are expounding some of the implications of this oath.

Luke 4:18-19 "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, ¹⁹*to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor."*

Here Jesus quotes from Isaiah 61:1-2, a messianic passage. In the context of Jesus' ministry, the phrase "liberty to the captives" (v. 18b) most likely refers at least partly to release from sin. The clause "set at liberty those who are oppressed" possibly also alludes to this; Jesus' liberating healing ministry is presumably also in view.

Luke 12:49, 51-53 "I came to cast fire on the earth, and would that it were already kindled!  ... ⁵¹*Do you think that I have come to give peace on earth? No, I tell you, but rather division.* ⁵²For from now on in one house there will be five divided, three against two and two against three. ⁵³They will be divided, father against son and son against father, mother against daughter and daughter against mother, mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law and daughter-in-law against mother-in-law."

The use of "fire" (v. 49) may also allude to judgment, but it would appear in this context to primarily denote the division and conflict subsequently spoken of (vv. 51-53). Such division and conflict were the inevitable result of Jesus coming to a hostile world of darkness, for his message and his instituting of God's kingdom were at odds with this world.

John 1:17 For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ.

Along with bringing truth (cf. ... Jesus came to bring truth, p. 511), the implementation of God's "grace" was another significant objective or outcome of Jesus' mission.

John 9:39 Jesus said, "For judgment I came into this world, that those who do not see may see, and those who see may become blind."

Jesus' coming brought judgment in that those who acknowledge their spiritual blindness and accept his truth will be rewarded with spiritual sight, while those who self-righteously claim to be spiritually aware – leading them to reject Jesus' truth – will be blinded to the truth. See also the comment on Luke 2:34 ↓.

✦ Simeon's prophecy of what Jesus was destined to do:

Luke 2:34-35 And Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, "Behold, *this child is appointed for the fall and rising of many in Israel, and for a sign that is opposed*³⁵(and a sword will pierce through your own soul also), so that thoughts from many hearts may be revealed."

The phrase "the fall and rising of many" (v. 34) appears to refer to the condemnation ("fall") of those who would reject Jesus and the salvation ("rising") of those who would believe in him. The "thoughts" (v. 35) probably are of those who would speak against him (cf. GNT, NCV). The responses of people to Jesus would expose their thoughts and hearts, showing where they stood in relation to God.

Note: Jesus Christ's mission took place at a time chosen by God . . .

Most of the following references do not speak explicitly of Jesus' mission. But the matters which they speak of as occurring at a time chosen by God are all closely associated with Jesus' mission. Thus they give credence to the assertion that Jesus' mission took place at God's appointed time.

Note also that one could argue that the verses are not necessarily saying that God chose such times well in advance, instead deeming the time to be right closer to the event. However, arguably the contexts and other scriptures (cf. e\) God Fulfills His Plans, p. 266) suggest that God does choose such times well in advance, even before creation.

Gal 4:1-5 I mean that the heir, as long as he is a child, is no different from a slave,¹ though he is the owner of everything,² but he is under guardians and managers until the date set by his father. ³In the same way we also, when we were children, were enslaved to the elementary principles^m of the world. ⁴But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law, ⁵to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons.

^mOr elemental spirits; also verse 9

In vv. 2-3 Paul uses an illustration as a parallel to the point he makes in vv. 3-5. As such the phrase "when the fullness of time had come" (v. 4) parallels the earlier phrase "the date set by his father" (v. 2), implying that it also speaks of a time or date chosen by God.

Dan 9:24-26a "Seventy weeksⁿ are decreed about your people and your holy city, to finish the transgression, to put an end to sin, and to atone for iniquity, to bring in everlasting righteousness, to seal both vision and prophet, and to anoint a most holy place.^o ²⁵Know therefore and understand that from the going out of the word to restore and build Jerusalem to the coming of an anointed one, a prince, there shall be seven weeks. Then for sixty-two weeks it shall be built again with squares and moat, but in a troubled time. ²⁶And after the sixty-two weeks, an anointed one shall be cut off and shall have nothing.

ⁿ Or sevens; also twice in verse 25 and once in verse 26

^o Or thing, or one

There are varying interpretations of these verses, but most commentators consider the passage to be speaking of the Messiah, largely in reference to Jesus Christ's first coming. A number of commentators consider that the period of time indicated between the restoration of Jerusalem and "the anointed one" (v. 25) corresponds well with the time between the restoration after the Babylonian exile and Jesus Christ's death. Thus they consider Jesus to have fulfilled this prophecy (yet a further example of Jesus fulfilling a messianic prophecy). As such this is indicative of Jesus' mission taking place at God's appointed time. Note, however, that others consider that the coming of "the anointed one" refers to Christ's second coming.

Mark 1:15 ... and saying, "The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent and believe in the gospel."

When the time had come, the kingdom of God was "at hand" with the commencement of Jesus' mission.

Heb 4:7 ... again he appoints a certain day, "Today," saying through David so long afterward, in the words already quoted, "Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts."

The "certain day" which God set for people to respond to his offer of salvation rest (cf. vv. 1-11) came or began with Jesus' mission, appearing to indicate that the mission took place at God's appointed time. Note that the context suggests that the writer is applying "day" (and "Today") to the present era, beginning with Jesus' mission. This is the period of time in which people can respond to God's offer of salvation, through Jesus Christ.

Titus 1:2-3 ... in hope of eternal life, which God, who never lies, promised before the ages began^{p 3} and at the proper time manifested in his word through the preaching with which I have been entrusted by the command of God our Savior; ...

The reference here is to the Gospel message about Jesus Christ, initiated by his coming. Thus these verses imply that Jesus Christ's mission took place at God's "proper time".

Dan 2:44 And in the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, nor shall the kingdom be left to another people. It shall break in pieces all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and it shall stand forever, ...

The phrase "in the days of those kings" suggests an appointed time, with it being linked to certain kings. But note that the inclusion of this verse here is somewhat debatable. For not all scholars consider this verse to have in view Christ's first coming and the introduction of the kingdom of God, instead understanding it to be speaking of the setting up of a millennial kingdom on Christ's return.

... and aspects of Jesus Christ's mission occurred at designated or appropriate times

Note that a number of commentators understand references such as the following to suggest that God had chosen times for all the events of Jesus' life.

John 2:4 And Jesus said to her, "Woman, what does this have to do with me? My hour has not yet come."

"My hour" appears to refer to the time for Jesus to publicly reveal who he was.

John 7:6, 8 Jesus said to them, "My time has not yet come, but your time is always here. ...⁸You go up to the feast. I am not⁹ going up to this feast, for my time has not yet fully come."

⁹ Some manuscripts add yet

Note that here the references to Jesus' "time" are not necessarily meaning that there had been a particular time designated by God. Jesus may simply have been speaking of an appropriate time for him to go to the Feast of Tabernacles in Jerusalem, where he would appear to and teach the people.

Matt 26:18 He said, "Go into the city to a certain man and say to him, 'The Teacher says, My time is at hand. I will keep the Passover at your house with my disciples.'"

"My time is at hand" refers to the appointed time (cf. NCV, NIV) of Jesus' death. Note that there are a number of like references in the Gospel of John to the "time" of Jesus' death (cf. Rom 5:6 ↓; 1Tim 2:6 ↓), implying that the time of his death had been designated beforehand. In regard to these references, see Jesus' suffering and death \(and resurrection\) were planned . . ., p. 576.

Rom 5:6 For while we were still weak, at the right time Christ died for the ungodly.

This and 1 Timothy 2:6 below, may be speaking of timing in a less precise sense to most of the other verses in this subsection.

1Tim 2:5-6 For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man^r Christ Jesus, ⁶who gave himself as a ransom for all, which is the testimony given at the proper time.

^r men and man render the same Greek word that is translated people in verses 1 and 4

The "testimony" refers to Jesus Christ's sacrifice for sins, given in God's proper time.

John 13:1 Now before the Feast of the Passover, when Jesus knew that his hour had come to depart out of this world to the Father, having loved his own who were in the world, he loved them to the end.

Jesus Christ became a human being

John 1:14 And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we have seen his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father, full of grace and truth.

Heb 2:9, 14, 17 But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone.  ... ¹⁴Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil,  ... ¹⁷Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people.

The phrase "made lower than the angels" (v. 9) refers to Jesus Christ becoming a human being, the phrase originally being applied to humans (cf. v. 7; Ps 8:5).

1Jn 4:2-3 By this you know the Spirit of God: every spirit that confesses that Jesus Christ has come in the flesh is from God, ³and every spirit that does not confess Jesus is not from God. This is the spirit of the antichrist, which you heard was coming and now is in the world already.

1Jn 5:6-8 This is he who came by water and blood—Jesus Christ; not by the water only but by the water and the blood. And the Spirit is the one who testifies, because the Spirit is the truth. ⁷For there are three that testify: ⁸*the Spirit and the water and the blood; and these three agree.*

The "water" and "blood" are usually taken as references to Jesus' baptism and death (cf. NLT, CEV text note, NCV text note), used to assert that Jesus Christ, the Son of God, was the truly human person who was baptized and who died on the cross.

The Holy Spirit's creative act in Mary supplied the physical means for the physical conception of Jesus (v. 35). This miraculous conception of Jesus through the Holy Spirit – in conjunction with “the power of the Most High” (v. 35) – was necessary because of Jesus' divinity and pre-existence. As such, the “virgin birth” points to the fact that Jesus was both the Son of God and truly human. (cf. BKC) Note that the angel asserts the fact of this “virgin birth” by referring to the similarly impossible event of barren Elizabeth giving birth (v. 36) – neither of which were impossible with God (v. 37).

Matt 1:18-25 Now the birth of Jesus Christ^y took place in this way. When his mother Mary had been betrothed^z to Joseph, before they came together she was found to be with child from the Holy Spirit. ¹⁹And her husband Joseph, being a just man and unwilling to put her to shame, resolved to divorce her quietly. ²⁰But as he considered these things, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to him in a dream, saying, “Joseph, son of David, do not fear to take Mary as your wife, for that which is conceived in her is from the Holy Spirit. ²¹She will bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus, for he will save his people from their sins.” ²²All this took place to fulfill what the Lord had spoken by the prophet: ²³“Behold, the virgin shall conceive and bear a son, and they shall call his name Immanuel” (which means, God with us). ²⁴When Joseph woke from sleep, he did as the angel of the Lord commanded him: he took his wife, ²⁵*but knew her not until she had given birth to a son. And he called his name Jesus.* ¶

The references to Joseph not having sexual union with Mary prior to Jesus' birth (vv. 18, 25) negate the idea that Jesus was

This supports the assertion that Jesus, the Messiah, was actually born.

. . . Jesus' mother Mary was a very godly woman, blessed by God

Luke 1:26-33, 38-45 In the sixth month the angel Gabriel was sent from God to a city of Galilee named Nazareth, ²⁷to a virgin betrothed^d to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David. And the virgin's name was Mary. ²⁸And he came to her and said, “Greetings, O favored one, the Lord is with you!”^e ²⁹But she was greatly troubled at the saying, and tried to discern what sort of greeting this might be. ³⁰And the angel said to her, “Do not be afraid, Mary, for you have found favor with God. ³¹And behold, you will conceive in your womb and bear a son, and you shall call his name Jesus. ³²He will be great and will be called the Son of the Most High. And the Lord God will give to him the throne of his father David, ³³and he will reign over the house of Jacob forever, and of his kingdom there will be no end.” ¶ ... ³⁸And Mary said, “Behold,

I am the servant^f of the Lord; let it be to me according to your word." And the angel departed from her. ³⁹In those days Mary arose and went with haste into the hill country, to a town in Judah, ⁴⁰and she entered the house of Zechariah and greeted Elizabeth. ⁴¹And when Elizabeth heard the greeting of Mary, the baby leaped in her womb. And Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit, ⁴²and she exclaimed with a loud cry, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb!" ⁴³And why is this granted to me that the mother of my Lord should come to me? ⁴⁴For behold, when the sound of your greeting came to my ears, the baby in my womb leaped for joy. ⁴⁵*And blessed is she who believed that there would be^g a fulfillment of what was spoken to her from the Lord.*"

Note that in v. 45 Elizabeth is speaking of Mary as having believed God, rather than encouraging her to do so.

Luke 1:46-55 And Mary said, "My soul magnifies the Lord, ⁴⁷and my spirit rejoices in God my Savior, ⁴⁸for he has looked on the humble estate of his servant. For behold, from now on all generations will call me blessed; ⁴⁹for he who is mighty has done great things for me, and holy is his name. ⁵⁰And his mercy is for those who fear him from generation to generation. ⁵¹He has shown strength with his arm; he has scattered the proud in the thoughts of their hearts; ⁵²he has brought down the mighty from their thrones and exalted those of humble estate; ⁵³he has filled the hungry with good things, and the rich he has sent away empty. ⁵⁴He has helped his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy, ⁵⁵as he spoke to our fathers, to Abraham and to his offspring forever."

This renowned passage is known as the Magnificat, which in Latin means "glorifies". It clearly illustrates Mary's godliness. In it Mary wonderfully glorifies God and appears to show a good knowledge of Scripture, particularly with it reflecting Hannah's song in 1 Samuel 2:1-10.

Luke 2:21-24, 39 And at the end of eight days, when he was circumcised, he was called Jesus, the name given by the angel before he was conceived in the womb. ²²And when the time came for their purification according to the Law of Moses, they brought him up to Jerusalem to present him to the Lord ²³(as it is written in the Law of the Lord, "Every male who first opens the womb shall be called holy to the Lord") ²⁴and to offer a sacrifice according to what is said in the Law of the Lord, "a pair of turtledoves, or two young pigeons."  ... ³⁹And when they had performed everything according to the Law of the Lord, they returned into Galilee, to their own town of Nazareth.

Mary and her husband Joseph characteristically complied with God's will, notably here the requirements of "the Law of the Lord" (v. 39).

John 2:1-5 On the third day there was a wedding at Cana in Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there. ²Jesus also was invited to the wedding with his disciples. ³When the wine ran out, the mother of Jesus said to him, "They have no wine." ⁴And Jesus said to her, "Woman, what does this have to do with me? My hour has not yet come." ⁵His mother said to the servants, "Do whatever he tells you."

Even at this early stage Mary displays great faith in Jesus, as suggested in v. 3 and more clearly implied in v. 5.

John 19:25 ... but standing by the cross of Jesus were his mother and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene.

The fact that Mary stood by Jesus at his crucifixion arguably reflects her godliness, as well as the unrelenting love and devotion of a mother for her child.

As with v. 27 here and other passages in this subsection (cf. Matt 1:6-7, 16-17 ↑; Luke 3:23, 31 ↓), Luke 2:4 also directly states that Joseph, Jesus' earthly and legal father, was a descendant of David – “he belonged to the house and line of David.”

Luke 3:23, 31 Jesus, when he began his ministry, was about thirty years of age, being the son (as was supposed) of Joseph, the son of Heli, ³¹... ³¹*the son of Melea, the son of Menna, the son of Mattatha, the son of Nathan, the son of David*, ...

The line of descent in Luke is different to the one in Matthew (cf. Matt 1:1-2, 6-7, 16-17 ↑). Commentators generally consider that Matthew traces the legal line of descent, through Joseph, whereas Luke traces the actual biological line of descent, through Mary – Jesus' mother. As such both Mary and Joseph are understood to be descendants of David.

And when they were ended, he was hungry. ... ¹³And when the devil had ended every temptation, he departed from him until an opportune time.

The reasons why Jesus was led by the Spirit into the desert to be tempted – or tested – by the devil probably include the following: it was to prepare him for what lay ahead (and also proved his worthiness to do the work); it allowed him to assert his dominance over Satan from the beginning of his ministry (not that Satan was one to give up, v. 13); it unequivocally demonstrated his allegiance to God; and it meant he would be in a better position to help his followers when they are tempted (cf. Heb 2:18).

✚ In difficult times Jesus put his trust in God:

Heb 2:13a And again, “I will put my trust in him.”

Taken from Isaiah 8:17 where the prophet asserts his trust in God amidst difficult times, this quotation is usually understood to here be speaking of Jesus’ trust in God in his often difficult life on earth as a human being. By trusting God he both identified with and was an example to his “brothers” (cf. vv. 11-12).

Note: Jesus’ humanity was vital to his mission to save people

See also:

Hebrews 2:14-18 below clearly states that for his redemptive work, it was necessary for Jesus Christ to become fully human. The other references likewise imply or allude to this.

Heb 2:14-18 Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil, ¹⁵*and deliver all those who through* fear of death were subject to lifelong slavery. ¹⁶For surely it is not angels that he helps, but he helps the offspring of Abraham. ¹⁷Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people. ¹⁸For because he himself has suffered when tempted, he is able to help those who are being tempted. 📖

Jesus needed to share in the humanity of God's people and become like them so as to be identified with them, in a sense being one with them. As such he could die as a substitute and an offering (cf. Rom 8:3 ↓) for them. Partaking of their humanity would also be important for him in his ongoing role in helping God's people, as indicated in v. 18 and possibly also in v. 17 (if aspects of his ongoing role as high priest are in view in addition to his sacrificial death).

Rom 5:15-19 But the free gift is not like the trespass. For if many died through one man's trespass, much more have the grace of God and the free gift by the grace of that one man Jesus Christ abounded for many. ¹⁶And the free gift is not like the result of that one man's sin. For the judgment following one trespass brought condemnation, but the free gift following many trespasses brought justification. ¹⁷For if, because of one man's trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ. ¹⁸Therefore, as one trespass^l led to condemnation for all men, so one act of righteousness^m leads to justification and life for all men. ¹⁹For as by the one man's disobedience the many were made sinners, so by the one man's obedience the many will be made righteous. 📖

^m Or the act of righteousness of one

The contrasts between death and sin coming through the man Adam with life and righteousness coming through the man Jesus Christ, may suggest that it was necessary for the latter pair to come through a man – i.e. they needed to come in the same way that death and sin came (cf. 1Cor 15:21 ↓). The reasoning may be along the line of the following. Adam as the father of the human race, acted in a sense as representative of all people, who would come from him. Jesus Christ as a human being, acted on behalf of all people, effectively those who would believe in him. In part at least because of this, Jesus Christ's righteousness – stemming from his obedience (v. 19) – could be imputed on all. For further comment on this passage see Sin results in physical

1Cor 15:21 For as by a man came death, by a man has come also the resurrection of the dead. 📖

Gal 4:4-5 But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law, ⁵to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons. 📖

Following on from the clause "born of woman", in saying that Jesus was "born under the law" (v. 4) Paul further emphasizes Jesus' humanity and his identification with all humanity which is subject to the law. Paul asserts that as such Christ could redeem those under law. Jesus was human and fully obeyed the law and so was not liable under the law, not having to pay any penalty for himself. As such he was in a position to offer his blameless life as a substitute for the lives of others. In conjunction, bear in mind that just as a human he could die on behalf of humans, as the Son of God his death was worth that of an immeasurable number of humans.

Col 1:22 ... he has now reconciled in his body of flesh by his death, in order to present you holy and blameless and above reproach before him, ... 📖

It can be inferred from this that Christ's body needed to be a physical, human body for people to be reconciled to God through his death.

1Tim 2:5-6 For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the manⁿ Christ Jesus, ⁶who gave himself as a ransom for all, which is the testimony given at the proper time. 📖

ⁿ men and man render the same Greek word that is translated people in verses 1 and 4

The reference to "the man Christ Jesus" appears to point to Jesus Christ's humanity as being significant to his role as the "mediator between God and men".

The ultimate depth of Jesus' love is shown emphatically in: v. 9, with the comparison to God's otherwise unmatched love for him; and v. 13, which alludes to Jesus' own love in speaking of the greatest expression of human love, that of laying down one's life for another.

1Jn 2:8 At the same time, it is a new commandment that I am writing to you, which is true in him and in you, because^o the darkness is passing away and the true light is already shining. 📖

^o Or that

The "command" is the command to love others (cf. 9-11), as demonstrated by Jesus – "true in Him" (NASB, NKJV; cf. NRSV).

Jesus was compassionate

Matt 9:36 When he saw the crowds, he had compassion for them, because they were harassed and helpless, like sheep without a shepherd. 📖

Matt 14:13-14 Now when Jesus heard this, he withdrew from there in a boat to a desolate place by himself. But when the crowds heard it, they followed him on foot from the towns. ¹⁴When he went ashore he saw a great crowd, and he had compassion on them and healed their sick. 📖

Jesus' compassion for the crowd (v. 14) is all the more notable as he had wanted to be alone (v. 13).

Matt 15:32 Then Jesus called his disciples to him and said, "I have compassion on the crowd because they have been with me now three days and have nothing to eat. And I am unwilling to send them away hungry, lest they faint on the way." 📖

Matt 20:30-31, 34 And behold, there were two blind men sitting by the roadside, and when they heard that Jesus was passing by, they cried out, "Lord,^p have mercy on us, Son of David!" ³¹The crowd rebuked them, telling them to be silent, but they cried out all the more, "Lord, have mercy on us, Son of David!"  ... ³⁴And Jesus in pity touched their eyes, and immediately they recovered their sight and followed him.

^p Some manuscripts omit Lord

Jesus' compassion/pity (v. 34) is accentuated by the crowd's contrasting heartless response to the blind men (v. 31).

Mark 1:40-41 And a leper^a came to him, imploring him, and kneeling said to him, "If you will, you can make me clean."
⁴¹*Moved with pity, he stretched out his hand and touched him and said to him, "I will; be clean."*

Luke 7:12-13 As he drew near to the gate of the town, behold, a man who had died was being carried out, the only son of his mother, and she was a widow, and a considerable crowd from the town was with her. ¹³And when the Lord saw her, he had compassion on her and said to her, "Do not weep."

Luke 19:41-44 And when he drew near and saw the city, he wept over it, ⁴²saying, "Would that you, even you, had known on this day the things that make for peace! But now they are hidden from your eyes. ⁴³For the days will come upon you, when your enemies will set up a barricade around you and surround you and hem you in on every side ⁴⁴and tear you down to the ground, you and your children within you. And they will not leave one stone upon another in you, because you did not know the time of your visitation."

Jesus wept with heartfelt compassion because the people of Jerusalem had not recognized him and the peace that could have come through him (v. 42), and now would face destruction (vv. 43-44). This came by the Romans in A.D. 70.

John 19:25-27 ... but standing by the cross of Jesus were his mother and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene. ²⁶When Jesus saw his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing nearby, he said to his mother, "Woman, behold, your son!" ²⁷Then he said to the disciple, "Behold, your mother!" And from that hour the disciple took her to his own home.

Perhaps thoughtfulness as much as – or more than – compassion is what Jesus shows here; even while he was being crucified, he could still think of others.

† Jesus' mercy shown in asking for forgiveness for those who crucified him:

Luke 23:33-34a And when they came to the place that is called The Skull, there they crucified him, and the criminals, one on his right and one on his left. ³⁴And Jesus said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."†

Jesus was meek

See also:

▪ Luke 23:33-34a

As demonstrated by Jesus, meekness is not a sign of weakness. On the contrary it shows strength of character, enabling a person to "take in their stride" any injustices committed against them. (See also the introductory comment on Be meek, p. 1555.)

2Cor 10:1a I, Paul, myself entreat you, by the meekness and gentleness of Christ ...

Matt 26:47-52 While he was still speaking, Judas came, one of the twelve, and with him a great crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the elders of the people. ⁴⁸Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying, "The one I will kiss is the man; seize him." ⁴⁹And he came up to Jesus at once and said, "Greetings, Rabbi!" And he kissed him. ⁵⁰*Jesus said to him, "Friend, do what you came to do."* ⁵¹Then they came up and laid hands on Jesus and seized him. ⁵¹And behold, one of those who were with Jesus stretched out his hand and drew his sword and struck the servant^t of the high priest and cut off his ear. ⁵²Then Jesus said to him, "Put your sword back into its place. For all who take the sword will perish by the sword."

^t Greek bondservant

Even amidst the most infamous betrayal in history, Jesus showed no antagonism towards his betrayer (v. 50), but instead meekly accepted his destiny. Luke even records him healing the adversary who lost his ear in v. 51 (cf. Luke 2:47-51).

Matt 26:62-63a And the high priest stood up and said, "Have you no answer to make? What is it that these men testify against you?"^u ⁶³But Jesus remained silent.

Here and in 27:12-14 immediately below, Jesus appears to show meekness by making no retort or attempt to justify himself in the face of unjust accusations.

Matt 27:12-14 But when he was accused by the chief priests and elders, he gave no answer. ¹³Then Pilate said to him, "Do you not hear how many things they testify against you?" ¹⁴But he gave him no answer, not even to a single charge, so that the governor was greatly amazed. 📖

1Pet 2:23 When he was reviled, he did not revile in return; when he suffered, he did not threaten, but continued entrusting himself to him who judges justly. 📖

Isa 50:6 I gave my back to those who strike, and my cheeks to those who pull out the beard; I hid not my face from disgrace and spitting. 📖

This and the following verse are from two of the four "servant songs" in Isaiah, which depict aspects of the life and work of the Messiah (the servant). As such they are prophecies fulfilled by Jesus. These two verses speak of his meek response to those inflicting on him great suffering.

Isa 53:7 He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth; like a lamb that is led to the slaughter, and like a sheep that before its shearers is silent, so he opened not his mouth. 📖

Matt 11:29 Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls. 📖

The term "lowly in heart" is indicative of humility.

Matt 21:5 "Say to the daughter of Zion, 'Behold, your king is coming to you, humble, and mounted on a donkey, and^v on a colt, the foal of a beast of burden.'" 📖

That Jesus as king would enter Jerusalem in such a way, reflects not only his humility but also his gentleness (cf. NCV, NIV).

Matt 12:19-20 He will not quarrel or cry aloud, nor will anyone hear his voice in the streets; ²⁰a bruised reed he will not break, and a smoldering wick he will not quench, until he brings justice to victory; ... 📖

The Messiah would not act like political leaders, arguing and loudly proclaiming his cause in public (v. 19). Instead he had a largely non-confrontational approach to carrying out his work in the face of opposition (cf. vv. 14-16). His gentleness was also evident in the way he dealt with the sick and weak – not crushing those who were weak (v. 20).

Phil 2:6-8 ... who, though he was in the form of God, did not count equality with God a thing to be grasped, ⁷but made himself nothing, taking the form of a servant,^w being born in the likeness of men. ⁸And being found in human form, he humbled himself by becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross. 📖

This and the following references illustrate Jesus' exemplary humility and also his preparedness to serve, both God (here and Isa 53:11 ↓) and people (the other references below).

Luke 22:27 For who is the greater, one who reclines at table or one who serves? Is it not the one who reclines at table? But I am among you as the one who serves. 📖

John 13:3-5 Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he had come from God and was going back to God, ⁴rose from supper. He laid aside his outer garments, and taking a towel, tied it around his waist. ⁵Then he poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet and to wipe them with the towel that was wrapped around him. 📖

The reference to Jesus' great authority (v. 3) accentuates his humility in performing such a menial task (v. 5). One reason why Jesus washed his disciples' feet was to set them an example of humble service (cf. vv. 12-15).

John 21:9-13 When they got out on land, they saw a charcoal fire in place, with fish laid out on it, and bread. ¹⁰Jesus said to them, "Bring some of the fish that you have just caught." ¹¹So Simon Peter went aboard and hauled the net ashore, full of large fish, 153 of them. And although there were so many, the net was not torn. ¹²Jesus said to them, "Come and have breakfast." Now none of the disciples dared ask him, "Who are you?" They knew it was the Lord. ¹³Jesus came and took the bread and gave it to them, and so with the fish. 📖

Even as the risen savior, Jesus was pleased to prepare and serve breakfast to his disciples.

Note that in his reply (v. 18) Jesus in effect says that only God is truly good. Commentators generally see this as pointing to his oneness with God rather than denying that he himself was good.

John 7:12 And there was much muttering about him among the people. While some said, "He is a good man," others said, "No, he is leading the people astray."

Jesus showed righteous anger and indignation

Mark 3:2-5 And they watched Jesus,^c to see whether he would heal him on the Sabbath, so that they might accuse him.³And he said to the man with the withered hand, "Come here."⁴And he said to them, "Is it lawful on the Sabbath to do good or to do harm, to save life or to kill?" But they were silent.⁵And he looked around at them with anger, grieved at their hardness of heart, and said to the man, "Stretch out your hand." He stretched it out, and his hand was restored.

Here and in John 2:14-17 below Jesus expresses anger (with the remaining references probably more precisely examples of indignation). In both instances his anger has nothing to do with any concern for himself. Rather it is directed at unacceptable attitudes or actions, towards others and God.

John 2:14-17 In the temple he found those who were selling oxen and sheep and pigeons, and the money-changers sitting there.¹⁵*And making a whip of cords, he drove them all out of the temple, with the sheep and oxen. And he poured out the coins of the money-changers and overturned their tables.*¹⁶*And he told those who sold the pigeons, "Take these things away; do not make my Father's house a house of trade."*¹⁷His disciples remembered that it was written, "Zeal for your house will consume me."

Note that this passage also shows Jesus' zeal, as emphasized by v. 17.

Mark 10:13-14 And they were bringing children to him that he might touch them, and the disciples rebuked them. ¹⁴But when Jesus saw it, he was indignant and said to them, "Let the children come to me; do not hinder them, for to such belongs the kingdom of God. 📖

Matt 17:17 And Jesus answered, "O faithless and twisted generation, how long am I to be with you? How long am I to bear with you? Bring him here to me." 📖

Arguably this and the following references evidence indignation in Jesus – and possibly other personal characteristics.

Matt 23:13 But woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you shut the kingdom of heaven in people's faces. For you neither enter yourselves nor allow those who would enter to go in.^d 📖

^d Some manuscripts add here (or after verse 12) verse 14: Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you devour widows' houses and for a pretense you make long prayers; therefore you will receive the greater condemnation

Luke 14:1-4 One Sabbath, when he went to dine at the house of a ruler of the Pharisees, they were watching him carefully. ²And behold, there was a man before him who had dropsy. ³And Jesus responded to the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath, or not?" ⁴But they remained silent. Then he took him and healed him and sent him away. 📖

Jesus knew full well that his opponents were watching him to catch him out and that they would find fault with him healing a person on the Sabbath. Still he did not let the threat that they posed deter him from rightfully healing the man.

John 8:3-9 The scribes and the Pharisees brought a woman who had been caught in adultery, and placing her in the midst ⁴*they said to him, "Teacher, this woman has been caught in the act of adultery. ⁵Now in the Law Moses commanded us to stone such women. So what do you say?"* ⁶*This they said to test him, that they might have some charge to bring against him. Jesus bent down and wrote with his finger on the ground. ⁷And as they continued to ask him, he stood up and said to them, "Let him who is without sin among you be the first to throw a stone at her."* ⁸*And once more he bent down and wrote on the ground. ⁹But when they heard it, they went away one by one, beginning with the older ones, and Jesus was left alone with the woman standing before him. 📖*

We do not know what Jesus wrote on the ground (vv. 6, 8). In view of v. 7, possibly it was other commandments, to point out the hypocrisy of the woman's accusers in condemning her for one sin while being guilty themselves of other sins, in breaking other commandments. Whatever it was, along with his insightful directive (v. 7b), it illustrates his courage and in particular his composure under pressure.

John 18:3-11 So Judas, having procured a band of soldiers and some officers from the chief priests and the Pharisees, went there with lanterns and torches and weapons. ⁴Then Jesus, knowing all that would happen to him, came forward and said to them, "Whom do you seek?"⁵ They answered him, "Jesus of Nazareth." Jesus said to them, "I am he."⁶ Judas, who betrayed him, was standing with them. ⁶When Jesus^k said to them, "I am he," they drew back and fell to the ground. ⁷So he asked them again, "Whom do you seek?" And they said, "Jesus of Nazareth."⁸ Jesus answered, "I told you that I am he. So, if you seek me, let these men go." ⁹This was to fulfill the word that he had spoken: "Of those whom you gave me I have lost not one." ¹⁰Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it and struck the high priest's servant^l and cut off his right ear. (The servant's name was Malchus.) ¹¹So Jesus said to Peter, "Put your sword into its sheath; shall I not drink the cup that the Father has given me?"

It appears that Jesus' remarkable composure – and possibly some perception of his majesty – intimidated and unnerved his would-be captors so much that "they drew back and fell to the ground" (v. 6). A number of commentators consider that in saying, "I am he," (v. 5) Jesus may have been alluding to God's name (cf. text note) and so his own authority – adding to his opponents' trepidation.

Note: Jesus was prepared to associate with and even support notably sinful people

See also:

- John 8:3-9

In his mission to save the world from sin, Jesus reached out to sinners – in particular those who recognized themselves as such. These included groups of people looked down upon as "sinners" by the self-righteous members of society. Associating with and supporting such people showed Jesus' love and compassion. These actions also reflected his strength of character, with him not being influenced by or giving in to social norms and the pressure of public opinion.

Matt 9:10-13 And as Jesus^m reclined at table in the house, behold, many tax collectors and sinners came and were reclining with Jesus and his disciples. ¹¹And when the Pharisees saw this, they said to his disciples, "Why does your teacher eat with tax collectors and sinners?" ¹²But when he heard it, he said, "Those who are well have no need of a physician, but those who are sick. ¹³Go and learn what this means, 'I desire mercy, and not sacrifice.' For I came not to call the righteous, but sinners."

^m Greek he

In v. 13, "righteous" is probably used in an ironical sense, denoting the self-righteous, those who considered themselves to be spiritually "well" (v. 12) and not in need of what Jesus offered.

Matt 11:19 The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, 'Look at him! A glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!' Yet wisdom is justified by her deeds."ⁿ ⁿ Some manuscripts children (compare Luke 7:35)

Although stated judgmentally, Jesus opponents were basically correct in saying that Jesus was a friend of sinners. Regarding the last statement, "wisdom" refers either to that expressed in the approach of Jesus and John the Baptist (cf. v. 18) or to God's wisdom, as the one who sent them. This "wisdom" would be vindicated by Jesus' and John's work, and the outcomes of their work.

Luke 15:2 And the Pharisees and the scribes grumbled, saying, "This man receives sinners and eats with them."

Luke 19:5-7 And when Jesus came to the place, he looked up and said to him, "Zacchaeus, hurry and come down, for I must stay at your house today." ⁶So he hurried and came down and received him joyfully. ⁷And when they saw it, they all grumbled, "He has gone in to be the guest of a man who is a sinner."

Luke 7:37-50 And behold, a woman of the city, who was a sinner, when she learned that he was reclining at table in the Pharisee's house, brought an alabaster flask of ointment, ³⁸and standing behind him at his feet, weeping, she began to wet his feet with her tears and wiped them with the hair of her head and kissed his feet and anointed them with the ointment. ³⁹Now when the Pharisee who had invited him saw this, he said to himself, "If this man were a prophet, he would have known who and what sort of woman this is who is touching him, for she is a sinner." ⁴⁰And Jesus answering said to him, "Simon, I have something to say to you." And he answered, "Say it, Teacher." ⁴¹"A certain moneylender had two debtors. One owed five hundred denarii, and the other fifty. ⁴²When they could not pay, he cancelled the debt of both. Now which of them will love him more?" ⁴³Simon answered, "The one, I suppose, for whom he cancelled the larger debt." And he said to him, "You have judged rightly." ⁴⁴Then turning toward the woman he said to Simon, "Do you see this woman? I entered your house; you gave me no water for my feet, but she has wet my feet with her tears and wiped them with her hair. ⁴⁵You gave me no kiss, but from the time I came in she has not ceased to kiss my feet. ⁴⁶You did not anoint my head with oil, but she has anointed my feet with ointment. ⁴⁷Therefore I tell you, her sins, which are many, are forgiven—for she loved much. But he who is forgiven little, loves little.”⁴⁸ And he said to her, “Your sins are forgiven.”⁴⁹ Then those who were at table with him began to say among themselves, “Who is this, who even forgives sins?”⁵⁰ And he said to the woman, “Your faith has saved you; go in peace.”

^o Or to

In being described as “a sinner” (vv. 37, 39), the woman was probably a prostitute. Jesus not only showed that he was comfortable associating with – even being touched by (v. 39) – a repentant prostitute, but was prepared to publicly speak up for her (vv. 40-50; cf. John 8:3-9 ↑).

Note that the verses in this subsection are ordered according to the chronological order of their subject matter. As such the ordering of some could be varied as they make reference to more than one era or time period.

Heb 1:2 ... but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world.

This verse speaks of God working through Jesus Christ in saying that God made the world through Jesus Christ and spoke to us through him during his mission (“in these last days”). Additionally the clause “whom he appointed the heir of all things” could be interpreted to point to God further impacting all things through Jesus Christ. It may well have largely in view the future consummation of Jesus Christ’s lordship when he will reign with all things as his and in submission to him.

Col 1:19-20 For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell,²⁰ and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, making peace by the blood of his cross.

Col 2:15 He disarmed the rulers and authorities^p and put them to open shame, by triumphing over them in him.^q

^p Probably demonic rulers and authorities

^q Or in it (that is, the cross)

Opinions differ over whether this is talking of God or of Jesus Christ, defeating the forces of evil through Christ’s death. If it is God, then it illustrates that God works in – or at least impacts on – the spiritual world through Jesus Christ. For further comment see Jesus Christ’s death and resurrection were a triumph over Satan and evil, p. 605.

Jude 1:25 ... to the only God, our Savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, dominion, and authority, before all time and now and forever. Amen.

The things listed by Jude are ascribed to God – or proclaimed to be God’s – throughout the past, present and future. With the clause “through Jesus Christ our Lord”, Jude probably means they are God’s through Jesus Christ; alternatively he may be speaking of such acclamation being offered to God through Christ (cf. NlrV). If the former is the case, God’s accomplishing of his purposes through Jesus Christ – which have and will bring glory to God – would appear to be in view.

Rev 5:1-7 Then I saw in the right hand of him who was seated on the throne a scroll written within and on the back, sealed with seven seals. ²And I saw a strong angel proclaiming with a loud voice, “Who is worthy to open the scroll and break its seals?” ³And no one in heaven or on earth or under the earth was able to open the scroll or to look into it, ⁴and I began to weep loudly because no one was found worthy to open the scroll or to look into it. ⁵And one of the elders said to me, “Weep no more; behold, the Lion of the tribe of Judah, the Root of David, has conquered, so that he can open the scroll and its seven seals.” ⁶And between the throne and the four living creatures and among the elders I saw a Lamb standing, as though it had been slain, with seven horns and with seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent out into all the earth. ⁷And he went and took the scroll from the right hand of him who was seated on the throne. ☞

Opinions differ on the likely contents of the scroll. Quite possibly it contains God's will for the world for the remainder of this age and the subsequent events leading into eternity, including judgment (cf. Rom 2:16 ↓) and the bequeathing of the inheritance of the saints. As such it would include the events portrayed in the remaining chapters of Revelation. The Lamb which was slain (vv. 6, 9) is Jesus Christ. The fact that he is the only one worthy to open it probably signifies that he will execute it, bringing God's plans for the world to fulfillment. As such the passage speaks of God working through Jesus Christ.

Acts 3:19-21 Repent therefore, and turn again, that your sins may be blotted out, ²⁰that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Christ appointed for you, Jesus, ²¹*whom heaven must receive until the time for restoring all the things about which God spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets long ago.* ☞

Quite possibly this is implying that God will restore “all things” (CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT) through Jesus Christ.

Rom 2:16 ... on that day when, according to my gospel, God judges the secrets of men by Christ Jesus. ☞

God enacts his will in or through Jesus Christ

Note that the other subsections in this chapter section similarly illustrate that God enacts his will in or through Jesus Christ, even though they may not make specific reference to God's will or purpose.

Bear in mind that the teaching in this and the previous subsection is not necessarily indicating that God works or enacts his will exclusively through Jesus Christ. The Bible also speaks of God working through the Holy Spirit and through his people – although this does not mean that Jesus Christ is not also involved in such work (cf. God works in and through his people, through Jesus Christ, p. 535).

Isa 53:10-11 Yet it was the will of the LORD to crush him; he has put him to grief;^s when his soul makes^t an offering for guilt, he shall see his offspring; he shall prolong his days; the will of the LORD shall prosper in his hand. ¹¹*Out of the anguish of his soul he shall see^u and be satisfied; by his knowledge shall the righteous one, my servant, make many to be accounted righteous, and he shall bear their iniquities.* ☞

^s Or he has made him sick

^t Or when you make his soul

^u Masoretic Text; Dead Sea Scroll he shall see light

It was God's will to “to crush him ... put him to grief” (v. 10a), in order to make him an offering for sin (v. 10b) so that he would make many righteous, bearing their sins for them (v. 11b). Thus through the Messiah the will of God would come to fruition – “prosper in his hand” (v. 10b).

John 6:40 For this is the will of my Father, that everyone who looks on the Son and believes in him should have eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day. ☞

Gal 1:3-4 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ, ⁴*who gave himself for our sins to deliver us from the present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father, ...* ☞

The clause “he set forth in Christ” (v. 9) indicates that God planned to bring his will into effect “through Christ” (NCV™) or “by means of Christ” (GNT).

Eph 3:8-11 To me, though I am the very least of all the saints, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, ⁹*and to bring to light for everyone what is the plan of the mystery hidden for ages in^x*

*God who created all things,*¹⁰ *so that through the church the manifold wisdom of God might now be made known to the rulers and authorities in the heavenly places.*¹¹ This was according to the eternal purpose that he has realized in Christ Jesus our Lord, ...

x Or by

God's "eternal purpose that he has realized in Christ" (v. 11) appears to be speaking primarily of the Gentiles being made "fellow heirs [with Jews], members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus" (v. 6). Possibly it also points to his purpose that Paul had spoken of earlier in 1:9-10 above. Note that this also speaks of God fulfilling his will through the church, although with it playing a somewhat more passive role.

God fulfills his promises through Jesus Christ . . .

2Cor 1:20 For all the promises of God find their Yes in him. That is why it is through him that we utter our Amen to God for his glory.

All God's promises are confirmed in Jesus Christ; they are "fulfilled in him" (NLT).

Luke 1:68-75 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has visited and redeemed his people⁶⁹ and *has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David,*⁷⁰ *as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old,*⁷¹ *that we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us;*⁷² *to show the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant,*⁷³ *the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us*⁷⁴ *that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies, might serve him without fear,*⁷⁵ in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

This speaks of promises of God, promises that encompassed the salvation and associated blessings spoken of in the rest of the passage. Jesus Christ is the "horn of salvation" (v. 69) "raised up" or sent by God in order to fulfill these promises.

Acts 2:38-39 And Peter said to them, "*Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit.*³⁹ For the promise is for you and for your children and for all who are far off, everyone whom the Lord our God calls to himself."

The "promise" (v. 39) is that of the Holy Spirit (cf. AMP), to be given to those who have their sins forgiven through the name of Jesus Christ. Thus these verses can be construed to indicate that this promise of God is largely fulfilled through Jesus Christ (cf. Gal 3:14, 22 ↓) – or at least that this promise has been made possible because of Jesus Christ and what he has accomplished.

Acts 3:21 ... [Jesus] whom heaven must receive until the time for restoring all the things about which God spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets long ago.

As indicated earlier, this suggests that God will fulfill through Jesus Christ his promise (spoken through the prophets) to restore everything.

Acts 13:32-33 And we bring you the good news that *what God promised to the fathers,*³³ this he has fulfilled to us their children by raising Jesus, as also it is written in the second Psalm, "You are my Son, today I have begotten you."

For comment, see the comments on: Acts 13:27-33 under For the OT speaks of the sufferings and resurrection of the Christ as fulfilled in Jesus . . ., p. 492; and 500 under Prophecies fulfilled in Jesus' resurrection, p. 500.

Rom 15:8 For I tell you that Christ became a servant to the circumcised to show God's truthfulness, in order to confirm the promises given to the patriarchs, ...

Christ's ministry to the Jews was in order to confirm God's promises to the patriarchs, particularly the promise that they would be a blessing to all nations. The prime blessing that would come by them would be salvation through the Messiah.

Gal 3:14, 22 ... so that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promised Spirit^y through faith.  ... ²²*But the Scripture imprisoned everything under sin, so that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe.*

^y Greek receive the promise of the Spirit

In v. 14, "the blessing of Abraham" refers to justification by faith (cf. vv. 6-11). In v. 22, "the promise" most likely also refers to this righteousness or justification by faith and the associated promise of the Spirit (v. 14b) – possibly along with other concepts related to "the promise", particularly salvation and life. These promises are fulfilled essentially through Jesus Christ, with those who have faith in him receiving them (vv. 14b, 22b).

Heb 9:15 Therefore he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, since a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions committed under the first covenant.^z

^z The Greek word means both covenant and will; also verses 16, 17

The “promised eternal inheritance” – fulfilled through the work of Jesus Christ – may refer specifically to “eternal redemption” (v. 12).

... Key promises of God have been centered on Jesus Christ

The references in the previous subsection largely tell of God making promises and then fulfilling them through Jesus Christ, whereas in this subsection the references tell of promises of God that in themselves speak of the Messiah or Jesus Christ (and so have been or will be fulfilled through Jesus Christ).

Acts 2:29-33 Brothers, I may say to you with confidence about the patriarch David that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. ³⁰Being therefore a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him that he would set one of his descendants on his throne, ³¹*he foresaw and spoke about the resurrection of the Christ, that he was not abandoned to Hades, nor did his flesh see corruption.* ³²*This Jesus God raised up, and of that we all are witnesses.* ³³*Being therefore exalted at the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you yourselves are seeing and hearing.*

In vv. 30-31, Peter asserts that David had spoken (cf. vv. 35-38) of the Christ being resurrected to assume the Davidic throne, as the descendant whom God had promised David would be placed on his throne. In vv. 32-33, Peter implies that God's resurrection of Jesus Christ and his exaltation of Christ to his right hand (pointing to Christ's enthronement) show Christ to be the one that God had spoken of. (Additionally, note that v. 33 speaks of God fulfilling through Christ his promise of the Holy Spirit.)

Acts 13:23 Of this man's offspring God has brought to Israel a Savior, Jesus, as he promised.

Rom 1:1-3 Paul, a servant^a of Christ Jesus, called to be an apostle, set apart for the gospel of God, ²*which he promised beforehand through his prophets in the holy Scriptures,* ³*concerning his Son, who was descended from David^b according to the flesh ...*

^a Or slave; Greek bondservant

^b Or who came from the offspring of David

Eph 3:6 This mystery is^c that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel.

^c The words This mystery is are inferred from verse 4

What the “promise” refers to is not specified but probably relates to an aspect of salvation, centered on and achieved through Jesus Christ. Possibly it may encompass – or at least be applicable to – all that is promised to those who are “in” Jesus Christ.

2Tim 1:1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God according to the promise of the life that is in Christ Jesus, ...

✚ God made promises to Christ which are inherited by all who belong to him:

Gal 3:16, 19, 29 Now the promises were made to Abraham and to his offspring. It does not say, “And to offsprings,” referring to many, but referring to one, “And to your offspring,” who is Christ. ... ¹⁹Why then the law? It was added because of transgressions, until the offspring should come to whom the promise had been made, and it was put in place through angels by an intermediary. ... ²⁹*And if you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's offspring, heirs according to promise.*

The promises referred to were made to Abraham and to his “offspring”, Christ (v. 16), the one through whom they would be fulfilled. Due to believers' association with Christ – “the offspring ... to whom the promise had been made” (v. 19a) – believers are likewise Abraham's spiritual offspring and so heirs of the promises made to him (v. 29). Note that it is debatable as to exactly what promise/s are referred to. Possibilities include: righteousness by faith (cf. vv. 6-11, 14, 22-24; Rom 4); and various promises made to Abraham (e.g. Gen. 13:15) or applications thereof.

1Cor 15:56-57 The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law. ⁵⁷But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. ☞

The "victory" is victory over death and sin.

1Pet 1:3-5 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ⁵who by God's power are being guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time. ☞

Through Jesus Christ's resurrection, God has brought believers into a "living hope" (v. 3b) – encompassing the hope of their own resurrection and an inheritance (v. 4). As such the passage speaks of God effecting through Jesus Christ the salvation to be consummated in "the last time" (v. 5).

1Jn 4:9-10 In this the love of God was made manifest among us, that God sent his only Son into the world, so that we might live through him. ¹⁰In this is love, not that we have loved God but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins. ☞

God reconciles people to himself through Jesus Christ

Rom 5:8-11 ... but God shows his love for us in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us. ⁹Since, therefore, we have now been justified by his blood, much more shall we be saved by him from the wrath of God. ¹⁰For if while we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, now that we are reconciled, shall we be saved by his life. ¹¹More than that, we also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation. ☞

God "through" Jesus Christ: saves us from his own wrath (v. 9b), justifying us by Christ's death (v. 9a); reconciles us to him (vv. 10-11); and brings our salvation to completion (v. 10b).

2Cor 5:18-21 All this is from God, who through Christ reconciled us to himself and gave us the ministry of reconciliation; ¹⁹that is, in Christ God was reconciling^e the world to himself, not counting their trespasses against them, and entrusting to us the message of reconciliation. ²⁰Therefore, we are ambassadors for Christ, God making his appeal through us. We implore you on behalf of Christ, be reconciled to God. ²¹*For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.* ☞

^e Or God was in Christ, reconciling

The phrase "become the righteousness of God" (v. 21b) means either: to be made "right with God" (NCV™, NLT) or to "share the righteousness of God" (GNT). In any case, the two alternatives are connected to each other – and are aspects of the aforementioned reconciliation that God has provided through Jesus Christ.

Col 1:19-22 For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell, ²⁰and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, making peace by the blood of his cross. ²¹And you, who once were alienated and hostile in mind, doing evil deeds, ²²*he has now reconciled in his body of flesh by his death, in order to present you holy and blameless and above reproach before him, ...*

At the start of v. 22, "he" could refer to God or Christ. At the end of v. 22, "him" refers to God.

God gave the Holy Spirit through Jesus Christ

See also:

- The Holy Spirit is from God, p. 143

Note that this topic has at times been highly controversial in church history. As such some scholars would disagree with or wish to qualify the above subheading.

Titus 3:5-6 ... he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, ⁶*whom he poured out on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, ...*

John 15:26 But when the Helper comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth, who proceeds from the Father, he will bear witness about me.

Although this does not expressly say that God sent the Holy Spirit ("the Helper") through Jesus Christ, it clearly implies this. This is also the case in Luke 24:49 and Acts 2:33 immediately below. The subsequent verses speak of Jesus giving the Holy Spirit, reflecting that the Holy Spirit does not come "directly" from God.

Luke 24:49 And behold, I am sending the promise of my Father upon you. But stay in the city until you are clothed with power from on high.

Acts 2:33 Being therefore exalted at the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you yourselves are seeing and hearing.

John 16:7 Nevertheless, I tell you the truth: it is to your advantage that I go away, for if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you. But if I go, I will send him to you.

John 20:22 And when he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, "Receive the Holy Spirit.

Jesus said this prior to his ascension. It is usually understood as anticipating the forthcoming sending of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost (cf. Acts 2:1-4), though some commentators see it is a partial or limited bestowal of the Spirit.

John 1:33 I myself did not know him, but he who sent me to baptize with water said to me, 'He on whom you see the Spirit descend and remain, this is he who baptizes with the Holy Spirit.'

Here John the Baptist speaks of Jesus bestowing the Holy Spirit on believers – as initially realized at Pentecost.

‡ God sent the Holy Spirit in Jesus' name:

John 14:26 But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he will teach you all things and bring to your remembrance all that I have said to you.

Jesus said God would send the Holy Spirit in his name – "in My place, to represent Me and act on My behalf" (AMP; cf. CEV, NLT).

^f Or For as the sufferings of Christ abound for us, so also our comfort abounds through Christ

Phil 4:19 And my God will supply every need of yours according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus.

Paul speaks of the magnitude of God's provision as being in accordance with or reflective of God's incredible riches emanating in and through Jesus Christ. Note that the phrase "in glory" may be referring to: the glory of his riches ("glorious riches" NIV, NLT); or God's glory, which encompasses his riches.

Heb 13:21 ... [May God] equip you with everything good that you may do his will, working in us^g that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.

^g Some manuscripts you

The first part of the verse suggests that "working in us that which is pleasing in his sight" is speaking at least as much of the work he does through us (impacting others) as of that which he does in us (impacting our own spiritual lives).

Rom 1:4b-5 Jesus Christ our Lord, ⁵through whom we have received grace and apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith for the sake of his name among all the nations, ...

God commissioned Paul through Jesus Christ for the task of spreading the gospel. The mention of receiving "grace" is most likely referring to God's grace shown to Paul in choosing him for this task (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT), but it could also involve the grace which God bestowed on Paul in equipping him for the task. Whichever is the case, the "grace" was received through Jesus Christ.

Acts 4:29-30 And now, Lord, look upon their threats and grant to your servants^h to continue to speak your word with all boldness, ³⁰while you stretch out your hand to heal, and signs and wonders are performed through the name of your holy servant Jesus.

As shown later in Acts, God answered this prayer – healing and performing miraculous signs and wonders. God did this largely through the apostles and other believers – "through the authority and by the power of" (AMP) the name of Jesus, as this prayer intimates.

‡ God's love is expressed to his people through Jesus Christ:

Rom 8:39 ... nor height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord.

This may be meaning that God's love has been and continues to be expressed to believers in or "through" (GNT) Christ. However, it could simply have primarily in view the consummate expression of this love manifested in what Jesus Christ has already done in his mission.

God granted Jesus sovereign authority

See also:

- God has given Jesus Christ authority and power over all things, p. 687

Matt 11:27 All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

Jesus is saying that all things had been "handed over" to him by God. In effect God had given him "authority over everything" (NLT).

Matt 28:18-20 And Jesus came and said to them, "All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me. ¹⁹Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in^a the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, ²⁰teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age."

^a Or into

As Jesus made this statement after his resurrection, there is some discussion as to what extent he had this authority beforehand. Matthew 11:27 above, John 17:2, 3:35 and 13:3 below suggest that he did have such authority beforehand. Possibly this was an extension of the realm of his authority.

John 17:2 ... since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him.

This is either speaking of: authority over all people, by which Jesus could give eternal life as well as do other things; or more particularly authority to give eternal life, i.e. the second part of the verse may be qualifying the first part. Arguably at least, the first alternative is more likely.

John 3:35 The Father loves the Son and has given all things into his hand.

John 13:3 Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he had come from God and was going back to God, ...

John 5:27 And he has given him authority to execute judgment, because he is the Son of Man.

Here Jesus is speaking of the authority God has given him as "the Son of Man". This title – particularly in this context – is probably a reference to the "one like a son of man" in Daniel 7:13-14 below, who was given dominion over all peoples.

John 10:17-18 For this reason the Father loves me, because I lay down my life that I may take it up again. ¹⁸No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it up again. This charge I have received from my Father.

This indicates that Jesus had authority over death. The final statement may refer to God granting him this authority, in light of the preceding statement. For further comment see Jesus obeyed God, p. 555.

John 16:23 In that day you will ask nothing of me. Truly, truly, I say to you, whatever you ask of the Father in my name, he will give it to you.

In Jewish thought, a person's name represented or embodied their whole person – including their authority, along with their nature and purpose. To make requests "in Jesus' name" therefore involves a claim on his authority. So with the promise that "whatever you ask of the Father in my name, he will give it to you", this verse points to the sovereignty of Jesus' authority.

Matt 12:6 I tell you, something greater than the temple is here.

Here Jesus is speaking of himself or possibly the kingdom of God – the two are interrelated in any case. Jesus may well have meant that he had authority higher than that of the temple and the regulations associated with it and the Sabbath (cf. vv. 1-8). Another possible implication was that as the center and focus for worship of God, the temple had been superseded by the coming of God's kingdom with its King, Jesus himself (cf. John 2:19-22 ↓), and what he would accomplish in allowing people to approach God directly. Both possibilities point to Jesus' supreme authority.

John 2:13-22 The Passover of the Jews was at hand, and Jesus went up to Jerusalem. ¹⁴In the temple he found those who were selling oxen and sheep and pigeons, and the money-changers sitting there. ¹⁵And making a whip of cords, he drove them all out of the temple, with the sheep and oxen. And he poured out the coins of the money-changers and overturned their tables. ¹⁶And he told those who sold the pigeons, "Take these things away; do not make my Father's house a house of trade." ¹⁷His disciples remembered that it was written, "Zeal for your house will consume me." ¹⁸So the Jews said to him, "What sign do you show us for doing these things?" ¹⁹Jesus answered them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up." ²⁰The Jews then said, "It has taken forty-six years to build this temple, and will you raise it up in three days?" ²¹But he was speaking about the temple of his body. ²²When therefore he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the Scripture and the word that Jesus had spoken.

Jesus' authority to clear the temple of those using it to make money is illustrative of his sovereign authority. The Jews questioned Jesus' authority to take such imposing action in the temple – "prove your authority to do all this" (v. 18, NIV). Some commentators consider that they also had in view his reference to the temple as "my Father's house" (v. 16) as being a messianic allusion and were essentially questioning what appeared to them at least to be a claim to be the Messiah. Jesus Christ gave his death and resurrection (vv. 19, 21) as proof that he had the authority to take such action and – if his Messiah-ship was in question – that he was the Messiah. Thus when he died and rose again his disciples believed him (v. 22).

Dan 7:13-14 I saw in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of heaven there came one like a son of man, and he came to the Ancient of Days and was presented before him. ¹⁴And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him; his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed.

This is understood to be messianic and thus to be speaking of Jesus Christ. Its complete fulfillment, with all people worshiping him, will come at the end of the age.

Jesus had the authority to forgive sins

Matt 9:2-8 And behold, some people brought to him a paralytic, lying on a bed. And when Jesus saw their faith, he said to the paralytic, "Take heart, my son; your sins are forgiven." ³And behold, some of the scribes said to themselves, "This man is blaspheming." ⁴But Jesus, knowing^b their thoughts, said, "Why do you think evil in your hearts? ⁵For which is easier, to say, 'Your sins are forgiven,' or to say, 'Rise and walk'? ⁶But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he then said to the paralytic—"Rise, pick up your bed and go home."⁷And he rose and went home. ⁸When the crowds saw it, they were afraid, and they glorified God, who had given such authority to men.

Jesus' question in v. 5 makes the point that forgiving sins is, like healing a paralytic, humanly impossible. So although his claim to be able to forgive sins could not be directly verified, by proving he could do the latter (vv. 7-8) Jesus gave his claim credence. Note that the parallel passage in Mark adds to the remark of the teachers of the law: "Who can forgive sins but God alone?" (Mark 2:7b) This correctly indicates that forgiveness of sins could only be done with God's authority.

Luke 7:47-49 Therefore I tell you, her sins, which are many, are forgiven—for she loved much. But he who is forgiven little, loves little." ⁴⁸And he said to her, "Your sins are forgiven."⁴⁹Then those who were at table with him began to say among^c themselves, "Who is this, who even forgives sins?"

^c Or to

Col 3:13 ... bearing with one another and, if one has a complaint against another, forgiving each other; as the Lord has forgiven you, so you also must forgive.

This is probably speaking generally of Jesus Christ forgiving sins rather than in particular to him doing so during his mission. It has been included here as it further illustrates that he has such authority.

✦ Jesus had the authority to state what could and could not be forgiven:

Matt 12:31 Therefore I tell you, every sin and blasphemy will be forgiven people, but the blasphemy against the Spirit will not be forgiven.

Jesus' teaching had great authority

See also:

- Jesus' teaching was not his own; what he spoke was from God, p. 566
- Jesus' teaching was amazing and powerful – leading people to believe in him . . ., p. 568

Mark 1:21-27 And they went into Capernaum, and immediately on the Sabbath he entered the synagogue and was teaching. ²²And they were astonished at his teaching, for he taught them as one who had authority, and not as the scribes. ²³And immediately there was in their synagogue a man with an unclean spirit. And he cried out, ²⁴"What have you to do with us, Jesus of Nazareth? Have you come to destroy us? I know who you are—the Holy One of God." ²⁵But Jesus rebuked him, saying, "Be silent, and come out of him!" ²⁶And the unclean spirit, convulsing him and crying out with a loud voice, came out of him. ²⁷And they were all amazed, so that they questioned among themselves, saying, "What is this? A new teaching with authority! He commands even the unclean spirits, and they obey him."

In v. 27 the people appear to be saying that Jesus' teaching had great authority and that this authority was confirmed and demonstrated by Jesus' power to authoritatively give orders to evil spirits.

Matt 5:21-22, 27-28, 31-35, 38-39, 43-44 You have heard that it was said to those of old, 'You shall not murder; and whoever murders will be liable to judgment.' ²²But I say to you that everyone who is angry with his brother^d will be liable to judgment; whoever insults^e his brother will be liable to the council; and whoever says, 'You fool!' will be liable to the hell^f of fire. ... ²⁷"You have heard that it was said, 'You shall not commit adultery.' ²⁸But I say to you that everyone who looks at a woman with lustful intent has already committed adultery with her in his heart. ... ³¹"It was also said, 'Whoever divorces his wife, let him give her a certificate of divorce.' ³²But I say to you that everyone who divorces his wife, except on the ground of sexual immorality, makes her commit adultery, and whoever marries a divorced woman commits adultery. ³³Again you have heard that it was said to those of old, 'You shall not swear falsely, but shall perform to the Lord what you have sworn.' ³⁴But I say to you, Do not take an oath at all, either by heaven, for it is the throne of God, ³⁵or by the earth, for it is his footstool, or by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King. ... ³⁸"You have heard that it was said, 'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth.' ³⁹But I say to you, Do not resist the one who is evil. But if anyone slaps you on the right cheek, turn to him the other also. ... ⁴³"You have heard that it was said, 'You shall love your neighbor and hate your enemy.' ⁴⁴But I say to you, Love your enemies and pray for those who persecute you, ...

Six times Jesus quotes the OT law. Each time he interprets the law and even develops it. He does so in a manner that does not undermine the law (cf. vv. 18-20), but nevertheless is indicative of his authority being comparable with or even greater than that of the law itself. Note that regarding "hate your enemy" (v. 43), the OT law never says to do this. This suggests that with his use of "you have heard" (vv. 21, 27, 33, 38, 43), Jesus is addressing not simply the OT law itself, but misinterpretations and misapplications of it.

Matt 24:35 Heaven and earth will pass away, but my words will not pass away.

The great authority of Jesus' teaching is reflected by its permanence, verifiable by its standing nearly two thousand years later.

Luke 4:18-21 "The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, ¹⁹to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor." ²⁰And he rolled up the scroll and gave it back to the attendant and sat down. And the eyes of all in the synagogue were fixed on him. ²¹And he began to say to them, "Today this Scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing."

In v. 21 Jesus lays claim to being the one anointed by God to preach and proclaim the messianic messages (vv. 18-19), indicative of the divine authority of his teaching.

John 6:47 Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever believes has eternal life.

Jesus used the clause "Truly, truly, I say to you" numerous times in his teaching (cf. John 5:24 ↕; Mark 10:29 ↕). By it Jesus asserts his authority – or at least his capacity – to state truth.

Mark 7:14 And he called the people to him again and said to them, "Hear me, all of you, and understand: ... 📖

This exemplifies the authoritative tone or nature of Jesus' teaching, with him asserting the necessity for everyone to listen to him (cf. Mark 9:7 ↓) and understand his teaching.

Mark 9:7 And a cloud overshadowed them, and a voice came out of the cloud, "This is my beloved Son;# listen to him." 📖

Or my Son, my (or the) Beloved

The fact that God commanded people to listen to Jesus emphatically underlines Jesus' great authority in his teaching.

‡ Jesus' silencing of the leaders who queried his authority:

Matt 21:23-27 And when he entered the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came up to him as he was teaching, and said, "By what authority are you doing these things, and who gave you this authority?" ²⁴Jesus answered them, "I also will ask you one question, and if you tell me the answer, then I also will tell you by what authority I do these things. ²⁵The baptism of John, from where did it come? From heaven or from man?" And they discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say to us, 'Why then did you not believe him?' ²⁶But if we say, 'From man,' we are afraid of the crowd, for they all hold that John was a prophet." ²⁷So they answered Jesus, "We do not know." And he said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things. 📖

The phrase "these things" (vv. 23, 27) quite possibly encompasses his teaching in the temple (v. 23), but also his past clearing of the temple of buyers and sellers and his performing miracles there (cf. vv. 12-15; John 2:14-18). Jesus' reply (v. 25a) implies that both John's and his authority came from heaven; it also foiled his opponents.

Jesus had the authority to state what was required for eternal life

Note that Jesus is the speaker in each of the verses listed in this and the following subsection.

John 3:16, 36 For God so loved the world,^h that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. 📖 ... ³⁶Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life; whoever does not obey the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God remains on him. 📖

^h Or For this is how God loved the world

John 5:24 Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life. He does not come into judgment, but has passed from death to life. 📖

John 12:25 Whoever loves his life loses it, and whoever hates his life in this world will keep it for eternal life. 📖

Jesus states that those who live for the benefit of themselves and their own lives will ultimately lose it, whereas those who are prepared to forsake living for themselves and their own lives (for the sake of God's kingdom) will be granted eternal life. Similarly in Mark 8:35 Jesus says, "For whoever would save his life will lose it, but whoever loses his life for my sake and the gospel's will save it."

‡ Jesus' stated that those who give up much for him and the gospel, will receive eternal life:

Mark 10:29-30 Jesus said, "Truly, I say to you, there is no one who has left house or brothers or sisters or mother or father or children or lands, for my sake and for the gospel, ³⁰who will not receive a hundredfold now in this time, houses and brothers and sisters and mothers and children and lands, with persecutions, and in the age to come eternal life. 📖

Jesus had the authority to state what was required to enter God's kingdom

Matt 5:20 For I tell you, unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. 📖

The "righteousness" of the Pharisees and the teachers of the law was a self-righteousness, rather than godly righteousness.

Matt 7:21 Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but the one who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. 📖

Matt 18:3 ... and said, "Truly, I say to you, unless you turn and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. 📖

Here Jesus speaks of the humility, trust and receptiveness of little children, which are required to believe Jesus' message and enter God's kingdom.

John 3:3, 5 Jesus answered him, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born againⁱ he cannot see the kingdom of God."

☞ ... ⁵*Jesus answered, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God.* ☞

ⁱ Or from above; the Greek is purposely ambiguous and can mean both again and from above; also verse 7

For comment, see the comment on John 3:3-8 – under . . . They are born again of the Holy Spirit and through God's word, p. 857.

Matt 21:28-32 "What do you think? A man had two sons. And he went to the first and said, 'Son, go and work in the vineyard today.' ²⁹And he answered, 'I will not,' but afterward he changed his mind and went. ³⁰And he went to the other son and said the same. And he answered, 'I go, sir,' but did not go. ³¹Which of the two did the will of his father?" They said, "The first." Jesus said to them, "Truly, I say to you, the tax collectors and the prostitutes go into the kingdom of God before you. ³²For John came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him, but the tax collectors and the prostitutes believed him. And even when you saw it, you did not afterward change your minds and believe him. ☞

Here Jesus is teaching that to enter God's kingdom one must do what God wants (vv. 28-29, 31; Matt 7:21 ↑), rather than merely profess an intention to do so (v. 30). Doing what God wants involves believing his message (v. 32), as a number of the tax collectors and the prostitutes had done (vv. 31-32) in contrast to the chief priests and elders.

✦ Jesus had the authority to make statements about who would enter God's kingdom:

Matt 8:11-12 I tell you, many will come from east and west and recline at table with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob in the kingdom of heaven, ¹²while the sons of the kingdom will be thrown into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. ☞

Here Jesus asserts that many of the Gentiles would enter God's kingdom, while many of the Jews would be thrown out. Note that in 21:31 above, Jesus similarly makes a statement about who were entering God's kingdom, declaring that the believing tax collectors and prostitutes were entering the kingdom as opposed to the chief priests and elders.

God bestowed the Holy Spirit on Jesus, for his mission

See also:

- Acts 10:38 ↓
- Jesus Christ is the one anointed by God, with the Holy Spirit . . ., p. 490

The descending of the Holy Spirit onto Jesus Christ at his baptism (cf. Matt 3:16-17 ↓; John 1:32-33 ↓) is generally understood to be God's anointing of Jesus Christ for his mission (cf. Luke 4:18 ↓) – mirroring the bestowal of the Holy Spirit upon some OT leaders at the commencement of their ministries (cf. The Holy Spirit empowers God's people to do God's work, p. 849). As such, through the Holy Spirit God empowered Jesus in his mission and Jesus performed many miraculous deeds with God's power.

Matt 3:16-17 And when Jesus was baptized, immediately he went up from the water, and behold, the heavens were opened to him,^j and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and coming to rest on him; ¹⁷*and behold, a voice from heaven said, "This is my beloved Son,^k with whom I am well pleased."* ☞

^j Some manuscripts omit to him

^k Or my Son, my (or the) Beloved

Verse 17 points to the fact that God sent the Holy Spirit, bestowing the Spirit on Jesus. Note that "like a dove" (v. 16b; cf. John 1:32 ↓) may simply be referring to how the Holy Spirit descended, but it is understood by many to refer to the Spirit's form or appearance. A dove symbolized purity and gentleness, and this may be the connotation here.

John 1:32-34 And John bore witness: "I saw the Spirit descend from heaven like a dove, and it remained on him. ³³I myself did not know him, but he who sent me to baptize with water said to me, 'He on whom you see the Spirit descend and remain, this is he who baptizes with the Holy Spirit.' ³⁴And I have seen and have borne witness that this is the Son of God."

Note that John points out two significant implications of the Holy Spirit coming down and remaining on Jesus: he is the one who would baptize with the Holy Spirit (v. 33); and he "is the Son of God" (v. 34). With the latter, John may also have had in mind God's declaration at Jesus' baptism (cf. Matt 3:17 ↑).

Matt 12:18 Behold, my servant whom I have chosen, my beloved with whom my soul is well pleased. I will put my Spirit upon him, and he will proclaim justice to the Gentiles.

Matthew speaks of this messianic prophecy as having been fulfilled in Jesus. Being anointed with the Spirit, the Messiah would proclaim justice to the nations. Note that Jesus did this in announcing God's gospel of righteousness and the "judgment" (GNT) for those who do not respond. The justice Christ implements on his return may well also be in view.

Luke 4:17-19, 21 And the scroll of the prophet Isaiah was given to him. He unrolled the scroll and found the place where it was written, ¹⁸"The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, because he has anointed me to proclaim good news to the poor. He has sent me to proclaim liberty to the captives and recovering of sight to the blind, to set at liberty those who are oppressed, ¹⁹to proclaim the year of the Lord's favor." ... ²¹And he began to say to them, "Today this Scripture has been fulfilled in your hearing."

As noted earlier in this chapter, Jesus claimed that the prophecy of one who would be anointed by God with the Holy Spirit to carry out God's messianic work (vv. 18-19) was fulfilled in himself.

Isa 11:2 And the Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him, the Spirit of wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of counsel and might, the Spirit of knowledge and the fear of the LORD.

The Messiah is in view as the one upon whom the Holy Spirit would rest. The verse implies that the listed traits of the Spirit would characterize – i.e. be given to (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV) – the Messiah in his anointment with the Spirit. Such traits would be critical for his ministry.

Isa 48:16b And now the Lord GOD has sent me, and his Spirit.

A number of commentators consider this to be speaking of the Messiah being sent, although it could simply be referring to Isaiah himself. The rendering and the context suggest that God sent his Spirit with the one in question to aid him in his work.

The Holy Spirit empowered Jesus in what he said and did

Matt 12:28 But if it is by the Spirit of God that I cast out demons, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.

Luke 4:1-2, 14 And Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit in the wilderness ²for forty days, being tempted by the devil. And he ate nothing during those days. And when they were ended, he was hungry. ... ¹⁴And Jesus returned in the power of the Spirit to Galilee, and a report about him went out through all the surrounding country.

In saying that Jesus was "full of the Holy Spirit" (v. 1a) and "led by the Spirit" (v. 1b), Luke appears to point to the Spirit's empowerment (cf. v. 14) and guidance of Jesus in facing his time of testing in the desert (v. 2).

John 3:34 For he whom God has sent utters the words of God, for he gives the Spirit without measure.

Note that the last clause probably means that God gave to Jesus Christ the Spirit without any limit (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT), rather than meaning that God gives the Holy Spirit without limit whenever he gives the Spirit to someone.

Acts 1:2 ... until the day when he was taken up, after he had given commands through the Holy Spirit to the apostles whom he had chosen.

Acts 10:38 ... how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power. He went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with him.

Presumably the power spoken of was due to the Holy Spirit, the power being given in conjunction with the Holy Spirit. This verse also appears to correlate Jesus having the Holy Spirit with God's presence being with him.

1Tim 3:16 Great indeed, we confess, is the mystery of godliness: He¹ was manifested in the flesh, vindicated^m by the Spirit,ⁿ seen by angels, proclaimed among the nations, believed on in the world, taken up in glory.

^m Or justified

ⁿ Or vindicated in spirit

The Holy Spirit vindicated Jesus' claims about himself by enabling him to perform miracles and by his resurrection (cf. Rom 1:4). Note that there is some doubt as to whether "Spirit" is here referring to the Holy Spirit. As indicated in the alternative rendering given in the text note, it possibly should be translated "spirit" (NCV™, NRSV), thus appearing to refer to Jesus' own spirit.

Heb 9:14 ... how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our^o conscience from dead works to serve the living God.

^o Some manuscripts your

The verse appears to be speaking of either: the Holy Spirit indwelling and strengthening Christ, empowering him to make the offering of himself (cf. NLT); or Christ offering himself through the Holy Spirit to God, the Holy Spirit being in some sense the "means" through which Christ offered himself to God.

‡ Jesus "rejoiced in the Holy Spirit":

Luke 10:21 In that same hour he rejoiced in the Holy Spirit and said, "I thank you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the wise and understanding and revealed them to little children; yes, Father, for such was your gracious will."^p

^p Or for so it pleased you well

The clause in view may be meaning that Jesus rejoiced by the Holy Spirit (cf. GNT text note). The clause points to the Holy Spirit invigorating and strengthening Jesus in his mission.

Luke 11:20 But if it is by the finger of God that I cast out demons, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.

Verse 43a shows that the people understood that Jesus' miraculous deeds were done with God's power.

John 9:31-33 We know that God does not listen to sinners, but if anyone is a worshiper of God and does his will, God listens to him. ³²*Never since the world began has it been heard that anyone opened the eyes of a man born blind*. ³³*If this man were not from God, he could do nothing*.

Particularly in light of v. 31, v. 33 points to God's power enabling Jesus to do unheard-of miracles (v. 32).

John 20:30 Now Jesus did many other signs in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book; ...

God and his power are not mentioned in this and the following verses (21:25). These verses have been included here as they attest to Jesus doing a great number of miraculous deeds.

John 21:25 Now there are also many other things that Jesus did. Were every one of them to be written, I suppose that the world itself could not contain the books that would be written.

... God would do for Jesus whatever he asked

Matt 26:53 Do you think that I cannot appeal to my Father, and he will at once send me more than twelve legions of angels?

John 11:21-22, 41-44 Martha said to Jesus, "Lord, if you had been here, my brother would not have died. ²²But even now I know that whatever you ask from God, God will give you."  ... ⁴¹So they took away the stone. And Jesus lifted up his eyes and said, "Father, I thank you that you have heard me. ⁴²I knew that you always hear me, but I said this on account of the people standing around, that they may believe that you sent me." ⁴³When he had said these things, he cried out with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come out." ⁴⁴The man who had died came out, his hands and feet bound with linen strips, and his face wrapped with a cloth. Jesus said to them, "Unbind him, and let him go."

The phrase "always hear me" (v. 42) implies that God always answered Jesus' requests (cf. CEV), as Martha stated (v. 22) and as exemplified in the raising of Lazarus (vv. 43-44).

Ps 2:8 Ask of me, and I will make the nations your heritage, and the ends of the earth your possession.

This promise of God is understood to be messianic – both applicable to Jesus in his first coming and to be consummately fulfilled on his return.

Jesus' deeds led people to glorify God

The fact that the people praised God for all the miracles that they saw Jesus perform, suggests that they understood his power to perform the miracles ultimately came from God.

Matt 15:30-31 And great crowds came to him, bringing with them the lame, the blind, the crippled, the mute, and many others, and they put them at his feet, and he healed them, ³¹so that the crowd wondered, when they saw the mute speaking, the crippled healthy, the lame walking, and the blind seeing. And they glorified the God of Israel.

Luke 5:24-26 But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he said to the man who was paralyzed—"I say to you, rise, pick up your bed and go home." ²⁵And immediately he rose up before them and picked up what he had been lying on and went home, glorifying God. ²⁶And amazement seized them all, and they glorified God and were filled with awe, saying, "We have seen extraordinary things today."

Luke 7:14-16 Then he came up and touched the bier, and the bearers stood still. And he said, "Young man, I say to you, arise." ¹⁵And the dead man sat up and began to speak, and Jesus^t gave him to his mother. ¹⁶Fear seized them all, and they glorified God, saying, "A great prophet has arisen among us!" and "God has visited his people!"

Note that the final statement (v. 16b), like the people's praise of God (v. 16a), also points to God being the source of Jesus power.

Luke 13:12-13 When Jesus saw her, he called her over and said to her, "Woman, you are freed from your disability." ¹³And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight, and she glorified God.

Luke 17:11-15 On the way to Jerusalem he was passing along between Samaria and Galilee. ¹²And as he entered a village, he was met by ten lepers,^u who stood at a distance ¹³and lifted up their voices, saying, "Jesus, Master, have mercy on us." ¹⁴When he saw them he said to them, "Go and show yourselves to the priests." And as they went they were cleansed. ¹⁵Then one of them, when he saw that he was healed, turned back, praising God with a loud voice; ...

Luke 18:42-43 And Jesus said to him, "Recover your sight; your faith has made you well." ⁴³And immediately he recovered his sight and followed him, glorifying God. And all the people, when they saw it, gave praise to God.

Luke 19:37 As he was drawing near—already on the way down the Mount of Olives—the whole multitude of his disciples began to rejoice and praise God with a loud voice for all the mighty works that they had seen, ...

✦ Jesus' deeds led people to rejoice:

Luke 13:17 As he said these things, all his adversaries were put to shame, and all the people rejoiced at all the glorious things that were done by him.

Jesus' deeds validated his claims about himself and God

John 5:36 But the testimony that I have is greater than that of John. For the works that the Father has given me to accomplish, the very works that I am doing, bear witness about me that the Father has sent me.

Jesus' "work" appears to refer primarily to his miracles.

John 9:13-16, 32-33 They brought to the Pharisees the man who had formerly been blind. ¹⁴Now it was a Sabbath day when Jesus made the mud and opened his eyes. ¹⁵So the Pharisees again asked him how he had received his sight. And he said to them, "He put mud on my eyes, and I washed, and I see." ¹⁶*Some of the Pharisees said, "This man is not from God, for he does not keep the Sabbath."* But others said, "How can a man who is a sinner do such signs?" And there was a division among them.  ... ³²*Never since the world began has it been heard that anyone opened the eyes of a man born blind.* ³³*If this man were not from God, he could do nothing.*

The question in v. 16b implies that the speakers did consider that Jesus was "from God" (v. 16a).

John 10:36-38 ... do you say of him whom the Father consecrated and sent into the world, 'You are blaspheming,' because I said, 'I am the Son of God'? ³⁷*If I am not doing the works of my Father, then do not believe me;* ³⁸*but if I do them, even though you do not believe me, believe the works, that you may know and understand that the Father is in me and I am in the Father.*

In vv. 37-38, Jesus claimed that the miracles validated his claim of being the Christ (v. 36a; cf. vv. 24-25a), God's Son (v. 36b) – and showed that God was in him and he in God (v. 38b).

John 14:11 Believe me that I am in the Father and the Father is in me, or else believe on account of the works themselves.

John 20:30-31 Now Jesus did many other signs in the presence of the disciples, which are not written in this book; ³¹*but these are written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name.*

The phrase "these are written" (v. 31) refers to the miraculous signs that John did record.

Acts 2:22 Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man attested to you by God with mighty works and wonders and signs that God did through him in your midst, as you yourselves know—

In saying that Jesus was attested to by God, Peter most likely had primary in view Jesus' claims about himself – most of which related to God.

John 6:26-27 Jesus answered them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, you are seeking me, not because you saw signs, but because you ate your fill of the loaves. ²⁷Do not labor for the food that perishes, but for the food that endures to eternal life, which the Son of Man will give to you. For on him God the Father has set his seal."

God's "seal" (v. 27) is thought by a number of commentators to refer to God's authentication of Jesus as the one who can give spiritual "food that endures to eternal life" (v. 27) by enabling him to perform miraculous signs (v. 26). These signs included providing physical food for thousands of people (cf. vv. 10-14), paralleling the fact that he can give spiritual food for eternal life.

Jesus' deeds led many people to believe in him

Matt 14:25-33 And in the fourth watch of the night he came to them, walking on the sea. ²⁶But when the disciples saw him walking on the sea, they were terrified, and said, "It is a ghost!" and they cried out in fear. ²⁷But immediately Jesus spoke to them, saying, "Take heart; it is I. Do not be afraid." ²⁸And Peter answered him, "Lord, if it is you, command me to come to you on the water." ²⁹He said, "Come." So Peter got out of the boat and walked on the water and came to Jesus. ³⁰But when he saw the wind,^v he was afraid, and beginning to sink he cried out, "Lord, save me." ³¹Jesus immediately reached out his hand and took hold of him, saying to him, "O you of little faith, why did you doubt?" ³²And when they got into the boat, the wind ceased. ³³And those in the boat worshiped him, saying, "Truly you are the Son of God."

Verse 32 may well be implying that Jesus also caused the wind to die down. Verse 33 indicates that the preceding events (vv. 25-32) reinforced the disciples' belief in Jesus.

John 2:6-11 Now there were six stone water jars there for the Jewish rites of purification, each holding twenty or thirty gallons.^w ⁷Jesus said to the servants, "Fill the jars with water." And they filled them up to the brim. ⁸And he said to them, "Now draw some out and take it to the master of the feast." So they took it. ⁹When the master of the feast tasted the water now become wine, and did not know where it came from (though the servants who had drawn the water knew), the master of the feast called the bridegroom ¹⁰and said to him, "Everyone serves the good wine first, and when people have drunk freely, then the poor wine. But you have kept the good wine until now." ¹¹*This, the first of his signs, Jesus did at Cana in Galilee, and manifested his glory. And his disciples believed in him.*

John 2:23 Now when he was in Jerusalem at the Passover Feast, many believed in his name when they saw the signs that he was doing. 📖

Note that the subsequent verses (cf. vv. 24-25) indicate that the belief of many of these people (v. 23) was somewhat superficial (cf. John 4:48 ↓).

John 4:48-53 So Jesus said to him, "Unless you see signs and wonders you will not believe."⁴⁹ The official said to him, "Sir, come down before my child dies."⁵⁰ Jesus said to him, "Go; your son will live." The man believed the word that Jesus spoke to him and went on his way.⁵¹ As he was going down, his servants^x met him and told him that his son was recovering.⁵² So he asked them the hour when he began to get better, and they said to him, "Yesterday at the seventh hour^y the fever left him."⁵³ The father knew that was the hour when Jesus had said to him, "Your son will live." And he himself believed, and all his household. 📖

Note that in v. 48 Jesus is criticizing the attitude of refusing to believe in him unless one saw miracles.

John 6:14-15 When the people saw the sign that he had done, they said, "This is indeed the Prophet who is to come into the world!"¹⁵ Perceiving then that they were about to come and take him by force to make him king, Jesus withdrew again to the mountain by himself. 📖

The "Prophet" is quite possibly a reference to Deuteronomy 18:15-19, where Moses speaks of God raising up a prophet like him – which many understand to be a messianic prophecy. This and the people's associated intention to make Jesus king (v. 15) suggests strongly that they did have in mind that Jesus was the Messiah. Their belief was due largely to his miraculous sign of feeding thousands of people with only five small barley loaves and two small fish (cf. vv. 9-13).

John 7:31 Yet many of the people believed in him. They said, "When the Christ appears, will he do more signs than this man has done?" 📖

John 9:30-38 The man answered, "Why, this is an amazing thing! You do not know where he comes from, and yet he opened my eyes."³¹ We know that God does not listen to sinners, but if anyone is a worshiper of God and does his will, God listens to him.³² Never since the world began has it been heard that anyone opened the eyes of a man born blind.³³ If this man were not from God, he could do nothing."³⁴ They answered him, "You were born in utter sin, and would you teach us?" And they cast him out.³⁵ Jesus heard that they had cast him out, and having found him *he said, "Do you believe in the Son of Man?"^z*³⁶ He answered, "And who is he, sir, that I may believe in him?"³⁷ Jesus said to him, "You have seen him, and it is he who is speaking to you."³⁸ He said, "Lord, I believe," and he worshiped him. 📖

John 11:14-15, 41-45 Then Jesus told them plainly, "Lazarus has died,¹⁵ and for your sake I am glad that I was not there, so that you may believe. But let us go to him."⁴¹ So they took away the stone. And Jesus lifted up his eyes and said, "Father, I thank you that you have heard me.⁴² I knew that you always hear me, but I said this on account of the people standing around, that they may believe that you sent me."⁴³ When he had said these things, he cried out with a loud voice, "Lazarus, come out."⁴⁴ The man who had died came out, his hands and feet bound with linen strips, and his face wrapped with a cloth. Jesus said to them, "Unbind him, and let him go."⁴⁵ Many of the Jews therefore, who had come with Mary and had seen what he did, believed in him, ... 📖

In v. 41 Jesus thanks God prior to God performing through him the miracle of raising Lazarus from the dead (vv. 43-44). He does this publicly so that the miracle would be recognized as demonstrating that God had sent him (v. 42), leading people to believe in him (vv. 14-15, 45; cf. John 12:9-11 ↓).

John 12:9-11 When the large crowd of the Jews learned that Jesus^a was there, they came, not only on account of him but also to see Lazarus, whom he had raised from the dead.¹⁰ So the chief priests made plans to put Lazarus to death as well,¹¹ because on account of him many of the Jews were going away and believing in Jesus. 📖

‡ Despite the evidence of Jesus' miracles, some did not believe in him:

John 15:24 If I had not done among them the works that no one else did, they would not be guilty of sin, but now they have seen and hated both me and my Father. 📖

Despite seeing the evidence of Jesus' deeds, many of the leaders of the Jews persisted in hating him (cf. John 12:9-11 ↑) – and by implication hating his Father whom he represented. Thus they refused to believe in Jesus. Such hardness of heart in the face of the privilege of witnessing such deeds rendered them most guilty of sin.

c) Jesus Christ's Knowledge from God

See also:

- Jesus Christ has superlative knowledge and wisdom, p. 101
- Jesus' teaching was not his own; what he spoke was from God, p. 566

Jesus Christ's surpassing knowledge and his related trait of profound wisdom were key aspects of his teaching ministry. As can be seen in some of the verses in this section, these capabilities were also important in other areas of his life and mission.

Subsections

- Jesus saw and heard things from God
- Jesus knew everything
- Jesus knew everything about all people . . .
- . . . Jesus even knew people's thoughts and intentions
- Jesus knew about future events
- Jesus was also filled with wisdom . . .
- . . . Nobody could match Jesus' wisdom
- Note: Jesus knew God

Jesus saw and heard things from God

God showed and told many – even countless – things exclusively to Jesus. As such Jesus was taught by God (cf. John 8:28 ↓; Isa 50:4 ↓).

John 3:31b-34 He who comes from heaven is above all. ³²*He bears witness to what he has seen and heard, yet no one receives his testimony.* ³³Whoever receives his testimony sets his seal to this, that God is true. ³⁴*For he whom God has sent utters the words of God, for he gives the Spirit without measure.* ☞

Jesus testified to what he had "seen and heard" (v. 32) from God (v. 33; cf. vv. 26, 28, 38, 40a ↓). As such Jesus spoke "the words of God" (v. 34).

John 5:19-20 So Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, the Son can do nothing of his own accord, but only what he sees the Father doing. For whatever the Father^b does, that the Son does likewise. ²⁰*For the Father loves the Son and shows him all that he himself is doing. And greater works than these will he show him, so that you may marvel.* ☞

^b Greek he

God shows and in effect teaches Jesus all he does. One of the implications of this passage may be that Jesus did only the things that he had been shown by God. For further comment see Jesus only did works of God, and God worked through him, p. 554.

John 8:26, 28, 38, 40a I have much to say about you and much to judge, but he who sent me is true, and I declare to the world what I have heard from him." ☞ ... ²⁸So Jesus said to them, "When you have lifted up the Son of Man, then you will know that I am he, and that I do nothing on my own authority, but speak just as the Father taught me." ☞ ... ³⁸*I speak of what I have seen with my Father, and you do what you have heard from your father.*" ☞ ... ⁴⁰but now you seek to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. ☞

By "what I have seen with my Father" (v. 38) Jesus may have been speaking of what God had "shown" him (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV) when he was with God, but it may more specifically be referring to what he had seen of the Father himself. Both possibilities reflect that God taught Jesus, as stated in v. 28 and quite apparent in vv. 26, 40a.

John 15:15 No longer do I call you servants,^c for the servant^d does not know what his master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all that I have heard from my Father I have made known to you. ☞

^d Greek bondservant; also verse 20

As with other instances in this subsection, in referring to what he had "heard" from God, Jesus appears to be speaking of what he had "learned" (AMP, NIV) from God.

John 17:6-8 I have manifested your name to the people whom you gave me out of the world. Yours they were, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word. ⁷Now they know that everything that you have given me is from you. ⁸*For I have given them the words that you gave me, and they have received them and have come to know in truth that I came from you; and they have believed that you sent me.* ☞

In v. 7 Jesus may be meaning that that everything he has comes from God. His statement may well primarily have in view the subsequently mentioned "words" that God gave him to speak (v. 8a) and so probably also the associated knowledge. As such this illustrates that Jesus uniquely heard things from God. Alternatively, Jesus statement in v. 7 could primarily have in view those whom God had given him (v. 6).

Isa 50:4 The Lord GOD has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word him who is weary. Morning by morning he awakens; he awakens my ear to hear as those who are taught.

The words of this prophecy are attributed to the Messiah. As such it speaks of God teaching the Messiah, Jesus Christ.

✦ Jesus had great knowledge without having studied:

John 7:15 The Jews therefore marveled, saying, "How is it that this man has learning,^e when he has never studied?"

^e Or this man knows his letters

That Jesus had great knowledge without having studied reflects the fact that his knowledge was inherent, from God.

Jesus knew everything

Jesus' complete knowledge would appear to have been due to both: God's teaching of him (as per the previous subsection); and, perhaps debatably, God enabling him to know or perceive all things about people and everything else (capabilities that are seen in the following subsections).

John 16:30 Now we know that you know all things and do not need anyone to question you; this is why we believe that you came from God.

Note that the second part of the verse arguably suggests that Jesus' knowledge of all things was due to God and/or his relationship with him.

John 21:17b "Lord, you know everything; you know that I love you." Jesus said to him, "Feed my sheep."

John 4:25-26 The woman said to him, "I know that Messiah is coming (he who is called Christ). When he comes, he will tell us all things." ²⁶Jesus said to her, "I who speak to you am he."

One implication of Jesus' reply was that as the Messiah he could tell or teach all things, which is indicative of the fact that he knew all things.

Matt 21:1-2 Now when they drew near to Jerusalem and came to Bethphage, to the Mount of Olives, then Jesus sent two disciples, ²saying to them, "Go into the village in front of you, and immediately you will find a donkey tied, and a colt with her. Untie them and bring them to me."

This appears to illustrate Jesus Christ's knowledge of everything, although there is the possibility that he may have known of the animals being there by some other means.

John 21:6 He said to them, "Cast the net on the right side of the boat, and you will find some." So they cast it, and now they were not able to haul it in, because of the quantity of fish.

This shows either Jesus' complete knowledge or his power over nature, depending on whether he simply knew that the fish were there or had caused them to be there.

Jesus knew everything about all people . . .

John 2:24-25 But Jesus on his part did not entrust himself to them, because he knew all people ²⁵and needed no one to bear witness about man, for he himself knew what was in man.

John 5:42 [Jesus:] But I know that you do not have the love of God within you.

Mark 10:21-22 And Jesus, looking at him, loved him, and said to him, "You lack one thing: go, sell all that you have and give to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me." ²²Disheartened by the saying, he went away sorrowful, for he had great possessions.

Jesus knew that the man's great wealth was hindering his commitment to God, as v. 22 affirms.

John 1:47-48 Jesus saw Nathanael coming toward him and said of him, "Behold, an Israelite indeed, in whom there is no deceit!" ⁴⁸Nathanael said to him, "How do you know me?" Jesus answered him, "Before Philip called you, when you were under the fig tree, I saw you."

Jesus knew Nathanael (v. 47) and had seen him while he was a long way away, far out of sight (v. 48). Nathanael possibly had been even in another town, his hometown being Bethsaida (cf. v. 44).

John 4:17-18, 29 *The woman answered him, "I have no husband." Jesus said to her, "You are right in saying, 'I have no husband'; ¹⁸for you have had five husbands, and the one you now have is not your husband. What you have said is true."  ... ²⁹[The woman, telling others of Jesus:] "Come, see a man who told me all that I ever did. Can this be the Christ?" *

John 13:10 Jesus said to him, "The one who has bathed does not need to wash, except for his feet,^f but is completely clean. And you^s are clean, but not every one of you."

^f Some manuscripts omit except for his feet

‡ The Greek words for you in this verse are plural

In v. 10b "clean" is used in a spiritual sense, paralleling the physical sense in which it is used earlier in the verse. The verse illustrates that Jesus knew people's spiritual state – which in turn illustrates that Jesus knew everything about all people.

... Jesus even knew people's thoughts and intentions

Matt 12:25 Knowing their thoughts, he said to them, "Every kingdom divided against itself is laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. 📖

John 6:15 Perceiving then that they were about to come and take him by force to make him king, Jesus withdrew again to the mountain by himself. 📖

Most likely Jesus was aware of the plan through his supernatural knowledge, although he simply may have heard about it. The same can be said of his knowledge of the plot to kill him in Matthew 12:14-15 below.

Matt 12:14-15a But the Pharisees went out and conspired against him, how to destroy him. ¹⁵*Jesus, aware of this*, withdrew from there. 📖

Jesus knew about future events

Matt 20:18-19 "See, we are going up to Jerusalem. And the Son of Man will be delivered over to the chief priests and scribes, and they will condemn him to death ¹⁹*and deliver him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and flogged and crucified, and he will be raised on the third day.*" 📖

Mark 13:2-8, 14, 18-27 And Jesus said to him, "Do you see these great buildings? There will not be left here one stone upon another that will not be thrown down." ³And as he sat on the Mount of Olives opposite the temple, Peter and James and John and Andrew asked him privately, ⁴"Tell us, when will these things be, and what will be the sign when all these things are about to be accomplished?" ⁵And Jesus began to say to them, "See that no one leads you astray. ⁶*Many will come in my name, saying, 'I am he!' and they will lead many astray.* ⁷*And when you hear of wars and rumors of wars, do not be alarmed. This must take place, but the end is not yet.* ⁸*For nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. There will be earthquakes in various places; there will be famines. These are but the beginning of the birth pains.* 📖 ... ¹⁴"But when you see the abomination of desolation standing where he ought not to be (let the reader understand), then let those who are in Judea flee to the mountains. 📖 ... ¹⁸Pray that it may not happen in winter. ¹⁹*For in those days there will be such tribulation as has not been from the beginning of the creation that God created until now, and never will be.* ²⁰*And if the Lord had not cut short the days, no human being would be saved. But for the sake of the elect, whom he chose, he shortened the days.* ²¹And then if anyone says to you, 'Look, here is the Christ!' or 'Look, there he is!' do not believe it. ²²*For false christs and false prophets will arise and perform signs and wonders, to lead astray, if possible, the elect.* ²³But be on guard; I have told you all things beforehand. ²⁴"But in those days, after that tribulation, the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, ²⁵*and the stars will be falling from heaven, and the powers in the heavens will be shaken.* ²⁶*And then they will see the Son of Man coming in clouds with great power and glory.* ²⁷*And then he will send out the angels and gather his elect from the four winds, from the ends of the earth to the ends of heaven.* 📖

Here Jesus foretells the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans in A.D. 70 and events of the end times, leading up to his return. Note that the "the abomination that causes desolation" (v. 14) is an expression taken from Daniel's prophecies (cf. Dan 9:27; 11:31; 12:11). It had had an earlier fulfillment in Antiochus Euphianes' pagan sacrifice on the temple's altar in 167 B.C. Many think that here Mark may have in view the desecration and destruction of the temple by the Romans in A.D. 70, with possibly a final fulfillment being perpetrated by the antichrist of the end times.

Mark 14:27-30 And Jesus said to them, "You will all fall away, for it is written, 'I will strike the shepherd, and the sheep will be scattered.' ²⁸*But after I am raised up, I will go before you to Galilee.*" ²⁹Peter said to him, "Even though they all fall away, I will not." ³⁰And Jesus said to him, "Truly, I tell you, this very night, before the rooster crows twice, you will deny me three times."

John 13:11, 18-19 For he knew who was to betray him; that was why he said, "Not all of you are clean."  ... ¹⁸I am not speaking of all of you; I know whom I have chosen. But the Scripture will be fulfilled,^h 'He who ate my bread has lifted his heel against me.' ¹⁹I am telling you this now, before it takes place, that when it does take place you may believe that I am he.

^h Greek But in order that the Scripture may be fulfilled

Note that in regard to his full knowledge of his betrayal, 6:64b says, "For Jesus knew from the beginning who those were who did not believe, and who it was who would betray him."

John 14:28-29 You heard me say to you, 'I am going away, and I will come to you.' If you loved me, you would have rejoiced, because I am going to the Father, for the Father is greater than I. ²⁹And now I have told you before it takes place, so that when it does take place you may believe.

For comment on what Jesus is speaking of here, see John 14:28-29 – under Jesus Christ's words and knowledge [give reason to believe in him], p. 1044.

John 16:2, 4a They will put you out of the synagogues. Indeed, the hour is coming when whoever kills you will think he is offering service to God.  ... ⁴*But I have said these things to you, that when their hour comes you may remember that I told them to you.*

John 18:4 Then Jesus, knowing all that would happen to him, came forward and said to them, "Whom do you seek?"

John 18:31-32 Pilate said to them, "Take him yourselves and judge him by your own law." The Jews said to him, "It is not lawful for us to put anyone to death." ³²*This was to fulfill the word that Jesus had spoken to show by what kind of death he was going to die.*

Verse 32 most likely has in view Jesus earlier speaking of being "lifted up" in his death (cf. John 3:14; 8:28; 12:32-33). The Jews maneuvered Pilate into executing Jesus, which involved the Roman form of execution (crucifixion) rather than the Jewish form (stoning). Thus Jesus' words were fulfilled and so showed that he knew about the circumstances of his death ahead of time.

John 21:18 Truly, truly, I say to you, when you were young, you used to dress yourself and walk wherever you wanted, but when you are old, you will stretch out your hands, and another will dress you and carry you where you do not want to go.

Here Jesus tells of the kind of death that Peter would suffer.

✦ However, apparently Jesus did not know the day of his second coming:

Matt 24:36 But concerning that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, nor the Son,ⁱ but the Father only.

ⁱ Some manuscripts omit nor the Son

Bear in mind that the text note casts some doubt on the assertion that Jesus did not know the day of his second coming.

Jesus was also filled with wisdom . . .

Luke 2:40, 46-47, 52 And the child [Jesus] grew and became strong, filled with wisdom. And the favor of God was upon him.  ... ⁴⁶After three days they found him in the temple, sitting among the teachers, listening to them and asking them questions. ⁴⁷And all who heard him were amazed at his understanding and his answers.  ... ⁵²And Jesus increased in wisdom and in stature^j and in favor with God and man.

^j Or years

Matt 12:42 The queen of the South will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold, something greater than Solomon is here.

The "something" is either Jesus himself – "someone" (cf. AMP, NCV, NIV, NLT) – or possibly the kingdom of God – the two are interrelated in any case. As such, one implication of this is that Jesus' wisdom was greater even than that of Solomon.

Matt 13:54 ... and coming to his hometown he taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, "Where did this man get this wisdom and these mighty works?"

Isa 11:1-2 There shall come forth a shoot from the stump of Jesse, and a branch from his roots shall bear fruit. ²And the Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him, the Spirit of wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of counsel and might, the Spirit of knowledge and the fear of the LORD.

In having the Holy Spirit, the Messiah would have or have access to the Spirit's wisdom, understanding, counsel and knowledge (as well as the Spirit's might).

Isa 52:13 Behold, my servant shall act wisely;^k he shall be high and lifted up, and shall be exalted.

^k Or shall prosper

As with 11:1-2 above, this is a messianic prophecy, fulfilled in Jesus.

... Nobody could match Jesus' wisdom

Matt 21:23-27 And when he entered the temple, the chief priests and the elders of the people came up to him as he was teaching, and said, "By what authority are you doing these things, and who gave you this authority?" ²⁴Jesus answered them, "I also will ask you one question, and if you tell me the answer, then I also will tell you by what authority I do these things. ²⁵The baptism of John, from where did it come? From heaven or from man?" And they discussed it among themselves, saying, "If we say, 'From heaven,' he will say to us, 'Why then did you not believe him?' ²⁶But if we say, 'From man,' we are afraid of the crowd, for they all hold that John was a prophet." ²⁷So they answered Jesus, "We do not know." And he said to them, "Neither will I tell you by what authority I do these things."

Profoundly, Jesus in effect answers his opponents' questions while foiling their attempt to trap him. His reply (vv. 24-25) implies that his authority, like John's, was from heaven – rather than from men or of his own making.

Matt 22:23-46 The same day Sadducees came to him, who say that there is no resurrection, and they asked him a question, ²⁴saying, "Teacher, Moses said, 'If a man dies having no children, his brother must marry the widow and raise up children for his brother.' ²⁵Now there were seven brothers among us. The first married and died, and having no children left his wife to his brother. ²⁶So too the second and third, down to the seventh. ²⁷After them all, the woman died. ²⁸In the resurrection, therefore, of the seven, whose wife will she be? For they all had her." ²⁹But Jesus answered them, "You are wrong, because you know neither the Scriptures nor the power of God. ³⁰For in the resurrection they neither marry nor are given in marriage, but are like angels in heaven. ³¹And as for the resurrection of the dead, have you not read what was said to you by God: ³²'I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob'? He is not God of the dead, but of the living." ³³And when the crowd heard it, they were astonished at his teaching. ³⁴But when the Pharisees heard that he had silenced the Sadducees, they gathered together.

³⁵And one of them, a lawyer, asked him a question to test him.

³⁶"Teacher, which is the great commandment in the Law?"

³⁷And he said to him, "You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind.

⁴¹Now while the Pharisees were gathered together, Jesus asked them a question, ⁴²saying, "What do you think about the Christ? Whose son is he?" They said to him, "The son of David." ⁴³He said to them, "How is it then that David, in the Spirit, calls him Lord, saying, ⁴⁴'The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, until I put your enemies under your feet'? ⁴⁵If then David calls him Lord, how is he his son?" ⁴⁶And no one was able to answer him a word, nor from that day did anyone dare to ask him any more questions.

Jesus' reply in vv. 37-40 soundly answered the Pharisee's question (v. 36), as shown not only by its content but by their lack of response. Jesus' counter questions (v. 42) appear to have been designed to show that he was more than capable of matching their best efforts, as well as teaching that the Messiah was more than just a descendant of David.

Luke 14:1-6 One Sabbath, when he went to dine at the house of a ruler of the Pharisees, they were watching him carefully. ²And behold, there was a man before him who had dropsy. ³And Jesus responded to the lawyers and Pharisees, saying, "Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath, or not?" ⁴But they remained silent. Then he took him and healed him and sent him away. ⁵And he said to them, "Which of you, having a son¹ or an ox that has fallen into a well on a Sabbath day, will not immediately pull him out?" ⁶And they could not reply to these things.

Jesus was being carefully watched by the religious leaders (v. 1) largely so as to catch him out (cf. Luke 20:20 ↓). But again, although Jesus' action presented them with the kind of opportunity they were looking for, they could not counter his wisdom (vv. 4a, 6).

Luke 20:19-26 The scribes and the chief priests sought to lay hands on him at that very hour, for they perceived that he had told this parable against them, but they feared the people. ²⁰So they watched him and sent spies, who pretended to be sincere, that they might catch him in something he said, so as to deliver him up to the authority and jurisdiction of the governor. ²¹So they asked him, "Teacher, we know that you speak and teach rightly, and show no partiality,^m but truly teach the way of God. ²²Is it lawful for us to give tribute to Caesar, or not?" ²³But he perceived their craftiness, and said to them, ²⁴“Show me a denarius.ⁿ Whose likeness and inscription does it have?” They said, “Caesar’s.” ²⁵He said to them, “Then render to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.” ²⁶And they were not able in the presence of the people to catch him in what he said, but marveling at his answer they became silent.

ⁿ A denarius was a day’s wage for a laborer

The spies’ question (v. 22) was a trap. If Jesus answered in the affirmative he would lose credibility in the eyes of the people, as it would have been seen as being compliant and subservient to their hated Roman rulers. Whereas if he answered in the negative he would have probably earned the wrath of the Romans, to whom the Jewish leaders would have reported him (v. 20). His renowned reply silenced and daunted his adversaries.

John 8:3-9 The scribes and the Pharisees brought a woman who had been caught in adultery, and placing her in the midst ⁴they said to him, “Teacher, this woman has been caught in the act of adultery. ⁵Now in the Law Moses commanded us to stone such women. So what do you say?” ⁶This they said to test him, that they might have some charge to bring against him. Jesus bent down and wrote with his finger on the ground. ⁷And as they continued to ask him, he stood up and said to them, “Let him who is without sin among you be the first to throw a stone at her.” ⁸And once more he bent down and wrote on the ground. ⁹But when they heard it, they went away one by one, beginning with the older ones, and Jesus was left alone with the woman standing before him.

John 8:16 Yet even if I do judge, my judgment is true, for it is not I alone who judge, but I and the Father^o who sent me.

Jesus Christ states that his evaluations are right – reflective of his great wisdom – because God stands with him in making any such judgments.

Jesus actually knew God as – unlike others – Jesus had prime, firsthand knowledge of and interaction with God.

John 7:28-29 So Jesus proclaimed, as he taught in the temple, “You know me, and you know where I come from? But I have not come of my own accord. He who sent me is true, and him you do not know. ²⁹*I know him, for I come from him, and he sent me.*”

These verses indicate that (as shown in the previous subsection) God was with or in Jesus (John 10:38; 14:10) and that being in Jesus, God worked through Jesus (John 5:17; 9:1-3, 6-7; 10:32a; 14:10; Acts 2:22; Heb 1:1-2). In accordance with this, the verses further indicate that Jesus did nothing on his own (John 5:19, 30; 8:16, 28) but only works of God (John 5:19-21, 30; 8:28; 10:37). As such, these things show that: Jesus acted in accordance with God; Jesus acted on God's authority; and Jesus did not act independently of God and even acted in dependence on him.

John 5:16-21, 30 And this was why the Jews were persecuting Jesus, because he was doing these things on the Sabbath. ¹⁷But Jesus answered them, “My Father is working until now, and I am working.” ¹⁸This was why the Jews were seeking all the more to kill him, because not only was he breaking the Sabbath, but he was even calling God his own Father, making himself equal with God. ¹⁹So Jesus said to them, “Truly, truly, I say to you, the Son can do nothing of his own accord, but only what he sees the Father doing. For whatever the Father^q does, that the Son does likewise. ²⁰*For the Father loves the Son and shows him all that he himself is doing. ^q Greek he

In the light of the three assertions in v. 19 (cf. v. 30), v. 17 suggests that the Father was at his work in Jesus' work. Moreover, v. 20 arguably implies that God does all things through him – even the greater things of the Father's work such as giving life (v. 21). In saying that he “can do nothing of his own accord” (v. 19; cf. v. 30; John 8:28 ↴), Jesus may be acknowledging his dependency on and empowerment by the Father – and/or that such is his exceedingly close relationship with the Father, he cannot act independently. Either way the passage reflects that Jesus' activity is directed or at least initiated by the Father (cf. BKC).

John 8:16, 28 Yet even if I do judge, my judgment is true, for it is not I alone who judge, but I and the Father^r who sent me.  ... ²⁸So Jesus said to them, “When you have lifted up the Son of Man, then you will know that I am he, and that I do nothing on my own authority, but speak just as the Father taught me.

^r Some manuscripts he

In v. 16, Jesus Christ states that his evaluations are right because God stands with him in making any such judgments. “I do nothing on my own authority” (v. 28) implies that Jesus only did works of God. And “speak just as the Father taught me” (cf. John 14:10 ↴; Heb 1:1-2 ↴) illustrates that God worked through him.

John 9:1-3, 6-7 As he passed by, he saw a man blind from birth. ²And his disciples asked him, “Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?” ³Jesus answered, “It was not that this man sinned, or his parents, but that the works of God might be displayed in him. ¶ ...

⁶*Having said these things, he spat on the ground and made mud with the saliva. Then he anointed the man's eyes with the mud*⁷*and said to him, "Go, wash in the pool of Siloam" (which means Sent). So he went and washed and came back seeing.* ¶

Jesus' healing of the blind man (vv. 6-7) was an instance of "the works of God" (v. 3) – illustrative of God working through Jesus.

John 10:32, 37-38 Jesus answered them, "I have shown you many good works from the Father; for which of them are you going to stone me?" ¶ ...³⁷*If I am not doing the works of my Father, then do not believe me;*³⁸*but if I do them, even though you do not believe me, believe the works, that you may know and understand that the Father is in me and I am in the Father.*" ¶

Jesus' oneness with God was such that God was in him, and he in God (v. 38). In this relationship Jesus did many great miracles from God (v. 32a), with God working through him. As such, Jesus could say that he did "the works of my Father" (v. 37).

John 14:10 Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words that I say to you I do not speak on my own authority, but the Father who dwells in me does his works. ¶

What Jesus spoke came from the Father, who dwelt in Jesus and worked through him.

Acts 2:22 Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man attested to you by God with mighty works and wonders and signs that God did through him in your midst, as you yourselves know— ¶

Heb 1:1-2 Long ago, at many times and in many ways, God spoke to our fathers by the prophets, ²*but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world.* ¶

As reflected in John 8:28 and 14:10 above, a key aspect of the work God did through Jesus was speaking his word.

Jesus obeyed God

John 14:31 ... but I do as the Father has commanded me, so that the world may know that I love the Father. Rise, let us go from here. ¶

John 15:10 If you keep my commandments, you will abide in my love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and abide in his love. ¶

Rom 5:19 For as by the one man's disobedience the many were made sinners, so by the one man's obedience the many will be made righteous. ¶

As with the other verses in this subsection, this is speaking of Jesus Christ's obedience to God.

Phil 2:8 And being found in human form, he humbled himself by becoming obedient to the point of death, even death on a cross. ¶

Heb 5:8 Although he was a son, he learned obedience through what he suffered. ¶

In saying that Jesus "learned obedience", the author was not indicating that at any time Jesus was disobedient. The author may have had in view that before Jesus had experienced suffering he was still to learn consummate obedience, involving obedience to the most demanding commands and in the most trying circumstances. This of course Jesus did do.

John 10:17-18 For this reason the Father loves me, because I lay down my life that I may take it up again. ¹⁸No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it up again. This charge I have received from my Father. ¶

The last sentence is generally understood to indicate that Jesus had been commanded to lay down his life by God – which obediently he was willing to do (vv. 17-18a). It may also allude to the fact that God had given him the authority to do this, as stated in the preceding sentence.

John 8:29, 55 And he who sent me is with me. He has not left me alone, for I always do the things that are pleasing to him." ¶ ...⁵⁵But you have not known him. I know him. If I were to say that I do not know him, I would be a liar like you, but I do know him and I keep his word. ¶

Jesus' claim to always do what pleases God (v. 29) is affirmed elsewhere by God saying of him: "This is my beloved Son, with whom I am well pleased." God said this of Jesus both at his baptism (cf. Matt 3:17) and later at his transfiguration (cf. Matt 17:5).

Heb 3:1b-2 Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession, ²*who was faithful to him who appointed him, just as Moses also was faithful in all God's house.* ¶

Isa 50:5-6 The Lord GOD has opened my ear, and I was not rebellious; I turned not backward. ⁶I gave my back to those who strike, and my cheeks to those who pull out the beard; I hid not my face from disgrace and spitting. ¶

This OT prophecy of the messianic servant reflects Jesus' obedience to God in that he was responsive to God's word (v. 5), to the point of being prepared to endure great suffering (v. 6).

Jesus carried out God's will, doing the work God had given him . . .

John 4:34 Jesus said to them, "My food is to do the will of him who sent me and to accomplish his work."

In speaking of doing God's will as his "food", Jesus indicated that it was his prime source of "nourishment" (AMP, NLT). Doing God's work was in a sense what sustained him in his mission and was his highest priority.

John 5:36b For the works that the Father has given me to accomplish, the very works that I am doing, bear witness about me that the Father has sent me.

John 17:4 I glorified you on earth, having accomplished the work that you gave me to do.

John 18:11 So Jesus said to Peter, "Put your sword into its sheath; shall I not drink the cup that the Father has given me?"

Jesus was determined to take the path which would lead to the cross, which he knew was part of the work that God had given him to do.

John 19:30 When Jesus had received the sour wine, he said, "It is finished," and he bowed his head and gave up his spirit.

"It is finished" signifies that Jesus had successfully completed the work he had come to do – he had fully carried out God's will.

Gal 1:3-4 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ, ⁴who gave himself for our sins to deliver us from the present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father, ...

Heb 10:7 Then I said, 'Behold, I have come to do your will, O God, as it is written of me in the scroll of the book.'

In quoting from Psalm 40, the writer sees the fulfillment of these words in Jesus Christ's mission and work.

Matt 3:13-17 Then Jesus came from Galilee to the Jordan to John, to be baptized by him. ¹⁴John would have prevented him, saying, "I need to be baptized by you, and do you come to me?" ¹⁵But Jesus answered him, "Let it be so now, for thus it is fitting for us to fulfill all righteousness." Then he consented.

¹⁶And when Jesus was baptized, immediately he went up from the water, and behold, the heavens were opened to him,^t and he saw the Spirit of God descending like a dove and coming to rest on him; ¹⁷and behold, a voice from heaven said, "This is my beloved Son,^u with whom I am well pleased."

^t Some manuscripts omit to him

^u Or my Son, my (or the) Beloved

The expression "to fulfill all righteousness" (v. 15) means to "do everything that is right" (NLT), in effect to "do all that God requires" (GNT, cf. CEV, NCV). In saying this, Jesus implied that it was God's will that he should undergo baptism, with which he was determined to comply. The fact that it was God's will is reflected in vv. 16-17.

. . . Jesus sought to do God's will as opposed to his own will

John 6:38 For I have come down from heaven, not to do my own will but the will of him who sent me.

Matt 26:39 And going a little farther he fell on his face and prayed, saying, "My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from me; nevertheless, not as I will, but as you will."

John 5:30 I can do nothing on my own. As I hear, I judge, and my judgment is just, because I seek not my own will but the will of him who sent me.

John 12:27 Now is my soul troubled. And what shall I say? 'Father, save me from this hour'? But for this purpose I have come to this hour.

Jesus put God's will for his coming to the world ahead of his own wellbeing (cf. Matt 26:39 ↑).

Rom 15:3 For Christ did not please himself, but as it is written, "The reproaches of those who reproached you fell on me."

Commentators generally agree that the quotation is used to illustrate that Christ sought to please God rather than himself, but they offer a variety of interpretations as to precisely what Paul is implying by it.

Jesus spoke what God wanted him to say

John 12:49-50 For *I have not spoken on my own authority, but the Father who sent me has himself given me a commandment—what to say and what to speak.*⁵⁰And I know that his commandment is eternal life. What I say, therefore, I say as the Father has told me.

John 14:10 Do you not believe that I am in the Father and the Father is in me? The words that I say to you I do not speak on my own authority, but the Father who dwells in me does his works.

John 8:28 So Jesus said to them, “When you have lifted up the Son of Man, then you will know that I am he, and that I do nothing on my own authority, but speak just as the Father taught me.

In the latter part of the sentence Jesus appears to indicate that he would speak only what God had instructed him to say (GNT).

Heb 1:1-2 Long ago, at many times and in many ways, God spoke to our fathers by the prophets,²but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world.

In saying that God spoke to us by Jesus, the writer points to the fact that Jesus spoke what God wanted him to say. Note that the phrase “spoken to us by his Son” probably refers not just to what Jesus said but to the revelation of his mission as a whole.

Deut 18:18 I will raise up for them a prophet like you from among their brothers. And I will put my words in his mouth, and he shall speak to them all that I command him.

This is generally understood to be a messianic prophecy (cf. Acts 3:22-23).

✦ God enabled Jesus to know what to say:

Isa 50:4 The Lord GOD has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word him who is weary. Morning by morning he awakens; he awakens my ear to hear as those who are taught.

Note: In doing God's will, Jesus brought glory to God . . .

Jesus brought honor and glory to God by doing God's work and carrying out his will, making God's glorious will and awesome power obvious to all. Jesus accomplished God's will largely through his teaching, deeds and willing sacrifice. (Note the further references to Jesus bringing glory to God in the following subsection, cross-referenced above.)

John 7:16, 18 So Jesus answered them, “My teaching is not mine, but his who sent me.  ...¹⁸The one who speaks on his own authority seeks his own glory; but the one who seeks the glory of him who sent him is true, and in him there is no falsehood.

Jesus taught and spoke what God had sent him to, bringing glory to God by faithfully delivering his wonderful and profound words – which furthered God's glorious plan and purposes – and by acknowledging these words to be God's words (v. 16).

John 8:49-50 Jesus answered, “I do not have a demon, but I honor my Father, and you dishonor me.⁵⁰Yet I do not seek my own glory; there is One who seeks it, and he is the judge.

In saying, “I honor my Father,” (v. 49) Jesus may primarily have in view his claims or teachings about himself (cf. vv. 12-47), as the one sent from God (cf. vv. 26, 29, 42). With such claims, as with his deeds, he was not seeking glory for himself (v. 50a) but rather he honored and glorified God – in line with God's desire (v. 50b) – for in enlightening people about his own identity and purpose he was revealing God's glorious will.

John 11:38-44 Then Jesus, deeply moved again, came to the tomb. It was a cave, and a stone lay against it.³⁹Jesus said, “Take away the stone.” Martha, the sister of the dead man, said to him, “Lord, by this time there will be an odor, for he has been dead four days.”⁴⁰Jesus said to her, “Did I not tell you that if you believed you would see the glory of God?”⁴¹*So they took away the stone. And Jesus lifted up his eyes and said, “Father, I thank you that you have heard me.*⁴²*I knew that you always hear me, but I said this on account of the people standing around, that they may believe that you sent me.”*⁴³*When he had said these things, he cried out with a loud voice, “Lazarus, come out.”*⁴⁴*The man who had died came out, his hands and feet bound with linen strips, and his face wrapped with a cloth.* Jesus said to them, “Unbind him, and let him go.”

Jesus' raising of Lazarus was for God's glory (v. 4  – displaying God's glory (v. 40). In vv. 41-42 Jesus publicly acknowledged that it would be God's power at work in what he was about to do (vv. 43-44), thus ensuring that God would receive glory through it.

John 12:27-28 “Now is my soul troubled. And what shall I say? ‘Father, save me from this hour’? But for this purpose I have come to this hour. ²⁸*Father, glorify your name.*” Then a voice came from heaven: “I have glorified it, and I will glorify it again.” 📖

In v. 28b God indicates that he had glorified his name through Jesus – notably through Jesus’ ministry of speaking God’s words and performing wonderful deeds with God’s power. God then says that he would glorify his name again – as Jesus had asked (v. 28a). God would do so through Jesus, in his forthcoming death, resurrection and exaltation.

Matt 9:5-8 For which is easier, to say, ‘Your sins are forgiven,’ or to say, ‘Rise and walk?’ ⁶But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins” — he then said to the paralytic—“Rise, pick up your bed and go home.” ⁷*And he rose and went home.* ⁸When the crowds saw it, they were afraid, and they glorified God, who had given such authority to men. 📖

Isa 49:3 And he said to me, “You are my servant, Israel, in whom I will be glorified.”^v 📖

^v Or I will display my beauty

“Israel” is used here to refer to the Messiah. God would be glorified in the Messiah, by what God would accomplish through the Messiah as he carried out God’s will.

... and Jesus was glorified by God

In doing God’s glorious will, Jesus not only glorified God but he himself was glorified by God, with God implementing his glorious will through him. In particular, God glorified Jesus by: providing him with his amazing teaching; enabling him to perform powerful deeds; raising him from the dead; and exalting him.

John 8:54 Jesus answered, “If I glorify myself, my glory is nothing. It is my Father who glorifies me, of whom you say, ‘He is our God.’”^w 📖

^w Some manuscripts your God

John 11:4 But when Jesus heard it he said, “This illness does not lead to death. It is for the glory of God, so that the Son of God may be glorified through it.” 📖

Jesus’ raising of Lazarus from death would display God’s glory (cf. vv. 38-44 ↑) and also result in Jesus being glorified, as the means of God’s resurrection power. One important reason for this was so that Jesus’ claims about himself – in regard to being sent by God – would be further validated.

John 13:31-32 When he had gone out, Jesus said, “Now is the Son of Man glorified, and God is glorified in him.” ³²*If God is glorified in him, God will also glorify him in himself, and glorify him at once.* 📖

Here Jesus’ death, resurrection and exaltation appear to be in view. God would be glorified in these events as they would show his wonderful plan, righteousness and love in providing salvation. In conjunction with this, Jesus would also be glorified in these events as: they would show him to be the Son of God; by them he would be renowned as the means of God’s glorious salvation; and in his exaltation God would grant him great glory and authority.

John 17:1-5 When Jesus had spoken these words, he lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, “Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son that the Son may glorify you, ²*since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him.* ³*And this is eternal life, that they know you the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent.* ⁴*I glorified you on earth, having accomplished the work that you gave me to do.* ⁵*And now, Father, glorify me in your own presence with the glory that I had with you before the world existed.* 📖

“Glorify your Son” (v. 1b) is most likely a request that God would enable Jesus to endure the cross, raise him to life and exalt him to his former glory (cf. v. 5). By God doing all of this for him, God would glorify Jesus. Also, by doing such great things for Jesus and providing eternal life through him (v. 2), God’s greatness would be apparent and thus he would be glorified by or through Jesus (v. 1b). Note that in v. 4 Jesus appears to have his imminent death in view, as well as all that he had already accomplished.

✦ Jesus received honor and glory from God, when God spoke of him from heaven:

2Pet 1:17 For when he received honor and glory from God the Father, and the voice was borne to him by the Majestic Glory, “This is my beloved Son,^x with whom I am well pleased,” ... 📖

^x Or my Son, my (or the) Beloved

The reference appears to be to what God spoke at Jesus’ transfiguration (Matt 17:5; Mark 9:7; Luke 9:35), for which Peter was present. God’s identical words at Jesus’ baptism (Matt 3:17; Luke 3:22) could also be in view. Note that John 12:28 in the previous subsection contains another instance of God speaking audibly from heaven, in authenticating Jesus as being of God (cf. John 12:29-30).

II. Ministry, Death and Resurrection

The life Jesus Christ lived has been unparalleled in word and deed. It culminated in his sacrificial death and subsequent resurrection by God. How we respond to the NT's testimony to these events and their significance, will determine our eternal destiny.

The earlier section b) Jesus Christ's Power from God, p. 542, also spoke of Jesus' miraculous deeds, in referring to God as the source of Jesus' power. The focus of this section is on Jesus' use of his power in his ministry, which was largely in performing miracles that brought people deliverance from some form of bondage or difficulty. In performing these miracles Jesus demonstrated power over all other forces.

Matt 9:32-33 As they were going away, behold, a demon-oppressed man who was mute was brought to him. ³³And when the demon had been cast out, the mute man spoke. And the crowds marveled, saying, "Never was anything like this seen in Israel." 📖

Matt 12:22-23 Then a demon-oppressed man who was blind and mute was brought to him, and he healed him, so that the man spoke and saw. ²³And all the people were amazed, and said, "Can this be the Son of David?" 📖

Note that "the Son of David" is a messianic title.

Mark 5:35, 41-42 While he was still speaking, there came from the ruler's house some who said, "Your daughter is dead. Why trouble the Teacher any further?" 📖 ... ⁴¹Taking her by the hand he said to her, "Talitha cumi," which means, "Little girl, I say to you, arise." ⁴²And immediately the girl got up and began walking (for she was twelve years of age), and they were immediately overcome with amazement. 📖

Mark 6:48a, 51 And he saw that they were making headway painfully, for the wind was against them. And about the fourth watch of the night^a he came to them, walking on the sea. 📖 ... ⁵¹And he got into the boat with them, and the wind ceased. And they were utterly astounded, ... 📖

Mark 7:37 And they were astonished beyond measure, saying, "He has done all things well. He even makes the deaf hear and the mute speak." 📖

Luke 5:4-9 And when he had finished speaking, he said to Simon, "Put out into the deep and let down your nets for a catch." ⁵And Simon answered, "Master, we toiled all night and took nothing! But at your word I will let down the nets." ⁶And when they had done this, they enclosed a large number of fish, and their nets were breaking. ⁷They signaled to their partners in the other boat to come and help them. And they came and filled both the boats, so that they began to sink. ⁸But when Simon Peter saw it, he fell down at Jesus' knees, saying,

"Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord." ⁹For he and all who were with him were astonished at the catch of fish that they had taken, ...

Note that in v. 8, Peter was so awestruck by Jesus' display of power, that in trepidation he acknowledged Jesus' power and holiness – and his own unworthiness before Jesus.

Luke 9:42-43 While he was coming, the demon threw him to the ground and convulsed him. But Jesus rebuked the unclean spirit and healed the boy, and gave him back to his father. ⁴³And all were astonished at the majesty of God. But while they were all marveling at everything he was doing, Jesus^b said to his disciples, ...

Luke 5:24-26 But that you may know that the Son of Man has authority on earth to forgive sins"—he said to the man who was paralyzed—"I say to you, rise, pick up your bed and go home." ²⁵And immediately he rose up before them and picked up what he had been lying on and went home, glorifying God. ²⁶And amazement seized them all, and they glorified God and were filled with awe, saying, "We have seen extraordinary things today."

✦ Jesus' teaching also astonished people:

Matt 13:54 ... and coming to his hometown he taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, "Where did this man get this wisdom and these mighty works?"

Matt 8:16 That evening they brought to him many who were oppressed by demons, and he cast out the spirits with a word and healed all who were sick.

Luke 4:36 And they were all amazed and said to one another, "What is this word? For with authority and power he commands the unclean spirits, and they come out!"

Luke 13:10-13, 16 Now he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the Sabbath. ¹¹And there was a woman who had had a disabling spirit for eighteen years. She was bent over and could not fully straighten herself. ¹²When Jesus saw her, he called her over and said to her, "Woman, you are freed from your disability." ¹³And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight, and she glorified God. ... ¹⁶And ought not this woman, a daughter of Abraham whom Satan bound for eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath day?"

Luke 11:14, 21-22 Now he was casting out a demon that was mute. When the demon had gone out, the mute man spoke, and the people marveled. ... ²¹[Jesus:] When a strong man, fully armed, guards his own palace, his goods are safe; ²²but when one stronger than he attacks him and overcomes him, he takes away his armor in which he trusted and divides his spoil.

In v. 22 Jesus refers to his own overpowering of Satan – breaking Satan's stranglehold on Satan's earthly domain – a truth demonstrated by Jesus driving out demons (v. 14).

Luke 10:17-19 The seventy-two returned with joy, saying, "Lord, even the demons are subject to us in your name!" ¹⁸And he said to them, "I saw Satan fall like lightning from heaven. ¹⁹Behold, I have given you authority to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall hurt you."

This illustrates that Jesus had power over Satan – "the enemy" (v. 19) – and demons. Note that Jesus may be speaking metaphorically in v. 18; but even if this is the case, it clearly implies that the disciples' success in exercising the authority he gave over demons was a sign that Satan's power had been broken.

Acts 10:38 ... how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power. He went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with him.

✦ Satan had "no hold on" Jesus:

John 14:30 I will no longer talk much with you, for the ruler of this world is coming. He has no claim on me, ...

A number of commentators think that Jesus had his sinlessness in view here, i.e. that Satan had no "claim" or power over him because he had never sinned.

Matt 8:2-3 And behold, a leper^c came to him and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, if you will, you can make me clean.” ³And Jesus^d stretched out his hand and touched him, saying, “I will; be clean.” And immediately his leprosy was cleansed.

Luke 6:19 And all the crowd sought to touch him, for power came out from him and healed them all.

John 5:5, 8-9a One man was there who had been an invalid for thirty-eight years. ... ⁸Jesus said to him, “Get up, take up your bed, and walk.” ⁹And at once the man was healed, and he took up his bed and walked.

Mark 8:25 Then Jesus^e laid his hands on his eyes again; and he opened his eyes, his sight was restored, and he saw everything clearly.

John 9:1, 6-7, 32 As he passed by, he saw a man blind from birth. ... ⁶Having said these things, he spat on the ground and made mud with the saliva. [The man:] ³²Never since the world began has it been heard that anyone opened the eyes of a man born blind.

Jesus even raised the dead

Matt 11:4-5 And Jesus answered them, “Go and tell John what you hear and see: ⁵the blind receive their sight and the lame walk, lepers^f are cleansed and the deaf hear, and the dead are raised up, and the poor have good news preached to them.

Luke 7:14-15 Then he came up and touched the bier, and the bearers stood still. And he said, “Young man, I say to you, arise.” ¹⁵And the dead man sat up and began to speak, and Jesus^g gave him to his mother.

^g Greek he

Luke 8:53-55 And they laughed at him, knowing that she was dead. ⁵⁴But taking her by the hand he called, saying, “Child, arise.” ⁵⁵And her spirit returned, and she got up at once. And he directed that something should be given her to eat.

John 11:39, 43-44 Jesus said, “Take away the stone.” Martha, the sister of the dead man, said to him, “Lord, by this time there will be an odor, for he has been dead four days.” ... ⁴³When he had said these things, he cried out with a loud voice, “Lazarus, come out.” ⁴⁴The man who had died came out, his hands and feet bound with linen strips, and his face wrapped with a cloth. Jesus said to them, “Unbind him, and let him go.”

John 5:21 For as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, so also the Son gives life to whom he will.

This may primarily be referring to Jesus’ granting of spiritual, eternal life. But his raising of the physically dead, particularly that of all at the end of the age, appears to also be encompassed.

Jesus exercised control over nature, in rescuing and helping people

See also:

- God has given Jesus Christ authority and power over all things, p. 687

Note that the two previous subsections also show Jesus' power over what can be considered aspects of nature.

Mark 4:37-41 And a great windstorm arose, and the waves were breaking into the boat, so that the boat was already filling. ³⁸But he was in the stern, asleep on the cushion. And they woke him and said to him, "Teacher, do you not care that we are perishing?" ³⁹And he awoke and rebuked the wind and said to the sea, "Peace! Be still!" And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm. ⁴⁰He said to them, "Why are you so afraid? Have you still no faith?" ⁴¹And they were filled with great fear and said to one another, "Who then is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?"

Mark 6:47-51 And when evening came, the boat was out on the sea, and he was alone on the land. ⁴⁸And he saw that they were making headway painfully, for the wind was against them. And about the fourth watch of the night^h he came to them, walking on the sea. He meant to pass by them, ⁴⁹but when they saw him walking on the sea they thought it was a ghost, and cried out, ⁵⁰for they all saw him and were terrified. But immediately he spoke to them and said, "Take heart; it is I. Do not be afraid." ⁵¹And he got into the boat with them, and the wind ceased. And they were utterly astounded, ...

In addition to Jesus being able to walk on water, v. 51 suggests that it was because of him that the wind died down.

Matt 17:27 However, not to give offense to them, go to the sea and cast a hook and take the first fish that comes up, and when you open its mouth you will find a shekel.ⁱ Take that and give it to them for me and for yourself.

ⁱ Greek stater, a silver coin worth four drachmas or approximately one shekel

Presumably Peter followed Jesus' direction and found a coin in the fish's mouth. As with Luke 5:4-9 below, arguably this could be showing Jesus' complete knowledge rather than his power over nature, but more likely the latter or both are evidenced in the two references.

Luke 5:4-7 And when he had finished speaking, he said to Simon, "Put out into the deep and let down your nets for a catch."⁵And Simon answered, "Master, we toiled all night and took nothing! But at your word I will let down the nets."⁶And when they had done this, they enclosed a large number of fish, and their nets were breaking. ⁷They signaled to their partners in the other boat to come and help them. And they came and filled both the boats, so that they began to sink.

John 2:1-3, 6-10 On the third day there was a wedding at Cana in Galilee, and the mother of Jesus was there. ²Jesus also was invited to the wedding with his disciples. ³When the wine ran out, the mother of Jesus said to him, "They have no wine." ... ⁶Now there were six stone water jars there for the Jewish rites of purification, each holding twenty or thirty gallons.^j ⁷Jesus said to the servants, "Fill the jars with water." And they filled them up to the brim. ⁸And he said to them, "Now draw some out and take it to the master of the feast." So they took it. ⁹When the master of the feast tasted the water now become wine, and did not know where it came from (though the servants who had drawn the water knew), the master of the feast called the bridegroom ¹⁰and said to him, "Everyone serves the good wine first, and when people have drunk freely, then the poor wine. But you have kept the good wine until now."

^j Greek two or three measures (metrētās); a metrētēs was about 10 gallons or 35 liters

John 6:9-14 "There is a boy here who has five barley loaves and two fish, but what are they for so many?" ¹⁰Jesus said, "Have the people sit down." Now there was much grass in the place. So the men sat down, about five thousand in number. ¹¹Jesus then took the loaves, and when he had given thanks, he distributed them to those who were seated. So also the fish, as much as they wanted. ¹²And when they had eaten their fill, he told his disciples, "Gather up the leftover fragments, that nothing may be lost." ¹³So they gathered them up and filled twelve baskets with fragments from the five barley loaves left by those who had eaten. ¹⁴When the people saw the sign that he had done, they said, "This is indeed the Prophet who is to come into the world!"

‡ Jesus caused an unproductive fig tree to immediately wither:

Matt 21:18-19 In the morning, as he was returning to the city, he became hungry. ¹⁹And seeing a fig tree by the wayside, he went to it and found nothing on it but only leaves. And he said to it, "May no fruit ever come from you again!" And the fig tree withered at once.

Jesus did not make a habit of killing trees, but in part at least he did this to emphatically make a crucial point to his disciples (cf. vv. 21-22).

Note: Jesus initially did not want his deeds – nor his identity – to be widely known . . .

Apparently Jesus initially did not want his deeds and identity as the Messiah to be widely known because he was wary about the publicity hindering his mission. It would bring overwhelming crowds and false expectations with political complications, all of which would stifle his work (cf. Mark 1:45 ↓).

Matt 9:29-30 Then *he touched their eyes, saying, "According to your faith be it done to you."*³⁰*And their eyes were opened. And Jesus sternly warned them, "See that no one knows about it."*

Large crowds came to hear Jesus (cf. Luke 21:38 ↓), as well as because of his deeds.

Luke 8:4, 19 And when a great crowd was gathering and people from town after town came to him, he said in a parable: ... ¹⁹Then his mother and his brothers came to him, but they could not reach him because of the crowd.

Luke 21:37-38 And every day he was teaching in the temple, but at night he went out and lodged on the mount called Olivet. ³⁸And early in the morning all the people came to him in the temple to hear him.

✦ Jesus commanded the disciples who were with him not to tell anyone about his transfiguration:

Matt 17:9 And as they were coming down the mountain, Jesus commanded them, "Tell no one the vision, until the Son of Man is raised from the dead."

Jesus' transfiguration was indicative of his messiahship. Telling others about it would have been in effect telling them that Jesus was the Messiah or Christ. Once he had been raised from the dead – with the purpose of his coming being accomplished and basically unequivocal – it would be appropriate and in deed necessary to tell others.

Jesus was a prophet . . .

See also:

- Jesus knew about future events, p. 550

As a prophet Jesus was a representative and spokesperson of God, speaking and acting on God's behalf. His speaking role as a prophet included: teaching, admonishing and prophesying (cf. Jesus knew about future events, p. 550). He further displayed powers of a great prophet in other aspects of his knowledge (cf. Luke 7:39-40 ↓; John 4:17-19 ↓) and by his deeds (cf. Luke 24:19 ↓; Luke 7:14-16 ↓; John 6:14 ↓; John 9:17 ↓).

Luke 24:19 And he said to them, "What things?" And they said to him, "Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, a man who was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people, . . .

Luke 13:33 Nevertheless, I must go on my way today and tomorrow and the day following, for it cannot be that a prophet should perish away from Jerusalem.

Note that in the latter part of the verse Jesus refers to the fact that numerous prophets had been killed in Jerusalem (cf. v. 34), the capital and heart of the nation, representative of the nation as a whole.

Matt 21:10-11, 46 And when he entered Jerusalem, the whole city was stirred up, saying, "Who is this?" ¹¹And the crowds said, "This is the prophet Jesus, from Nazareth of Galilee." ... ⁴⁶And although they were seeking to arrest him, they feared the crowds, because they held him to be a prophet.

The people's assertions that Jesus was a prophet (cf. Mark 6:15 ↓; John 6:14 ↓; Luke 7:14-16 ↓) supported the claims of Jesus (cf. Luke 13:33 ↑) and his followers (cf. Luke 24:19 ↑).

Mark 6:15 But others said, "He is Elijah." And others said, "He is a prophet, like one of the prophets of old."

Luke 7:14-16 Then he came up and touched the bier, and the bearers stood still. And he said, "Young man, I say to you, arise.”¹⁵ And the dead man sat up and began to speak, and Jesus^m gave him to his mother. ¹⁶ Fear seized them all, and they glorified God, saying, “A great prophet has arisen among us!” and “God has visited his people!”

^m Greek he

Luke 7:39-40 Now when the Pharisee who had invited him saw this, he said to himself, “If this man were a prophet, he would have known who and what sort of woman this is who is touching him, for she is a sinner.” ⁴⁰ And Jesus answering said to him, “Simon, I have something to say to you.” And he answered, “Say it, Teacher.”

Verse 40 and the subsequent verses (cf. vv. 41-47) showed that Jesus not only knew what kind of woman the lady in question was, but also Simon’s thoughts – demonstrating that Jesus was indeed a prophet.

John 4:17-19 The woman answered him, “I have no husband.” Jesus said to her, “You are right in saying, ‘I have no husband’; ¹⁸ for you have had five husbands, and the one you now have is not your husband. What you have said is true.” ¹⁹ The woman said to him, “Sir, I perceive that you are a prophet.”

John 6:14 When the people saw the sign that he had done, they said, “This is indeed the Prophet who is to come into the world!”

In speaking of Jesus as “the Prophet” the people are probably referring to Deuteronomy 18:15-19, where Moses speaks of God raising up a prophet like him (cf. Acts 3:22 ↓).

John 9:17 So they said again to the blind man, “What do you say about him, since he has opened your eyes?” He said, “He is a prophet.”

Acts 3:22 Moses said, ‘The Lord God will raise up for you a prophet like me from your brothers. You shall listen to him in whatever he tells you.

Here Peter clearly has Jesus Christ in view (cf. vv. 13-26).

Matt 24:1-4 Jesus left the temple and was going away, when his disciples came to point out to him the buildings of the temple. ² But he answered them, “You see all these, do you not? Truly, I say to you, there will not be left here one stone upon another that will not be thrown down.” ³ As he sat on the Mount of Olives, the disciples came to him privately, saying, “Tell us, when will these things be, and what will be the sign of your coming and of the close of the age?” ⁴ And Jesus answered them, “See that no one leads you astray.”

Jesus makes a prophesy in v. 2 and then in v. 4 he begins a detailed prophesy of the fall of Jerusalem and events of the end times (cf. vv. 4-35). These and other prophecies made by Jesus – indicative of him being a prophet – are mentioned in Jesus knew about future events, p. 550.

... As a prophet, Jesus taught and preached to the people

Mark 6:34 When he went ashore he saw a great crowd, and he had compassion on them, because they were like sheep without a shepherd. And he began to teach them many things.

Luke 19:47a And he was teaching daily in the temple.

Matt 11:1 When Jesus had finished instructing his twelve disciples, he went on from there to teach and preach in their cities.

Mark 1:38 And he said to them, “Let us go on to the next towns, that I may preach there also, for that is why I came out.”

Note that “came out” appears to refer to coming to the world.

Luke 4:44 *And he was preaching in the synagogues of Judea.*ⁿ

ⁿ Some manuscripts Galilee

John 8:2 Early in the morning he came again to the temple. All the people came to him, and he sat down and taught them.

Luke 24:27 And beginning with Moses and all the Prophets, he interpreted to them in all the Scriptures the things concerning himself.

Luke 7:22 And he answered them, “Go and tell John what you have seen and heard: the blind receive their sight, the lame walk, lepers^o are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up, the poor have good news preached to them.”

^o Leprosy was a term for several skin diseases; see Leviticus 13

Matt 19:16 And behold, a man came up to him, saying, “Teacher, what good deed must I do to have eternal life?”

Matt 23:8 But you are not to be called rabbi, for you have one teacher, and you are all brothers.^p

^p Or brothers and sisters

John 13:13-14 You call me Teacher and Lord, and you are right, for so I am. ¹⁴If I then, your Lord and Teacher, have washed your feet, you also ought to wash one another's feet.

Similarly in Matthew 23:10 Jesus says to his disciples: "...you have one Teacher, the Christ."

✦ Jesus spoke and taught openly:

John 18:20 Jesus answered him, "I have spoken openly to the world. I have always taught in synagogues and in the temple, where all Jews come together. I have said nothing in secret."

Jesus preached the good news of the kingdom of God

The kingdom of God (or the kingdom of heaven) was the most prominent theme in Jesus' teaching.

Luke 4:43 ... but he said to them, "I must preach the good news of the kingdom of God to the other towns as well; for I was sent for this purpose."

Matt 4:17, 23 From that time Jesus began to preach, saying, "Repent, for the kingdom of heaven is at hand." ... ²³And he went throughout all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and healing every disease and every affliction among the people.

Luke 8:1a Soon afterward he went on through cities and villages, proclaiming and bringing the good news of the kingdom of God.

Luke 9:11 When the crowds learned it, they followed him, and he welcomed them and spoke to them of the kingdom of God and cured those who had need of healing.

Acts 1:3 He presented himself alive to them after his suffering by many proofs, appearing to them during forty days and speaking about the kingdom of God.

Even after his resurrection Jesus continued to speak about the kingdom of God.

Matt 13:24 He put another parable before them, saying, "The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a man who sowed good seed in his field, ..."

The kingdom of God was the subject of a number of Jesus' parables, this verse beginning a group of them (cf. vv. 24-52). Other parables are similarly introduced as illustrating what the kingdom of God is like (cf. 13:24; 18:23; 20:1; 22:2; 25:1; Mark 4:26, 30).

✦ Jesus also sent his disciples out to preach the kingdom of God:

Luke 9:1-2 And he called the twelve together and gave them power and authority over all demons and to cure diseases, ²and he sent them out to proclaim the kingdom of God and to heal.

John 7:14-17 About the middle of the feast Jesus went up into the temple and began teaching. ¹⁵The Jews therefore marveled, saying, "How is it that this man has learning,^a when he has never studied?" ¹⁶So Jesus answered them, "My teaching is not mine, but his who sent me. ¹⁷*If anyone's will is to do God's will, he will know whether the teaching is from God or whether I am speaking on my own authority.*

Verse 17 indicates that doing what one knows of God's will, leads to the realization that Jesus' teaching does come from God; obedience leads to spiritual discernment.

John 14:10b, 24b The words that I say to you I do not speak on my own authority, but the Father who dwells in me does his works. ... ²⁴ ... And the word that you hear is not mine but the Father's who sent me.

John 8:26, 28 I have much to say about you and much to judge, but he who sent me is true, and I declare to the world what I have heard from him. ... ²⁸So Jesus said to them, "When you have lifted up the Son of Man, then you will know that I am he, and that I do nothing on my own authority, but speak just as the Father taught me.

John 3:31b-34 He who comes from heaven is above all. ³²*He bears witness to what he has seen and heard, yet no one receives his testimony.* ³³*Whoever receives his testimony sets his seal to this, that God is true.* ³⁴*For he whom God has sent utters the words of God, for he gives the Spirit without measure.*

Jesus “bears witness to what he has seen and heard” from God (v. 32; cf. John 8:26, 28 ↑), in essence teaching that had come from God. In believing Jesus’ testimony, one confirms or acknowledges that God is truthful as he is the one from whom it originated (v. 33).

Isa 50:4 The Lord GOD has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word him who is weary. Morning by morning he awakens; he awakens my ear to hear as those who are taught.

God would give the Messiah “words of wisdom” (NLT) to know what to say during his mission, here in particular what to say to strengthen the weary.

Isa 49:2 He made my mouth like a sharp sword; in the shadow of his hand he hid me; he made me a polished arrow; in his quiver he hid me away.

This appears to speak of God enabling the Messiah to speak powerful words in his teaching.

Psa 45:2 You are the most handsome of the sons of men; grace is poured upon your lips; therefore God has blessed you forever.

With Psalm 45 being seen by many as messianic, the middle clause quite possibly alludes to God’s influence on what the Messiah would speak.

^u Greek he

In the ESV, Jesus is recorded using the expression “Truly, truly, I say to you” a total of 72 times. Almost all these instances refer to his teaching, asserting it to be the truth – as is the case with the three occurrences here.

John 8:31-32 So Jesus said to the Jews who had believed in him, “If you abide in my word, you are truly my disciples, ³²and you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free.”

John 8:40, 45-46 ... but now you seek to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. This is not what Abraham did.  ... ⁴⁵*But because I tell the truth, you do not believe me.* ⁴⁶*Which one of you convicts me of sin? If I tell the truth, why do you not believe me?*

John 18:37 Then Pilate said to him, “So you are a king?” Jesus answered, “You say that I am a king. For this purpose I was born and for this purpose I have come into the world—to bear witness to the truth. Everyone who is of the truth listens to my voice.”

Matt 22:16 And they sent their disciples to him, along with the Herodians, saying, “Teacher, we know that you are true and teach the way of God truthfully, and you do not care about anyone’s opinion, for you are not swayed by appearances.”

^v Greek for you do not look at people’s faces

John 1:17 For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ.

God’s grace and a fuller revelation of truth came through Jesus Christ and his mission (cf. v. 14 ↓), including in his teaching.

Luke 7:35 Yet wisdom is justified by all her children.

Here Jesus most likely is meaning that his and John's wisdom or teaching is "shown to be true" (GNT; cf. AMP) "by the lives of those who follow it" (NLT, cf. CEV, GNT).

... Jesus himself is identified with truth

John 14:6 Jesus said to him, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me."

Jesus did not just simply teach the truth, he is "the truth" – the embodiment of truth. (cf. BBC)

John 1:14 And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we have seen his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father, full of grace and truth.

As with v. 17 in the previous subsection, this probably is primarily speaking of grace and truth being imparted through Jesus Christ (and so is quite pertinent to the previous subsection). But the wording also closely associates Jesus' person with the truth, indicative of the fact that in Jesus was the manifestation of truth (cf. John 14:6 ↑).

Eph 4:21 ... assuming that you have heard about him and were taught in him, as the truth is in Jesus, ...

The phrase "the truth is in Jesus" is probably inclusive of but not necessarily primarily referring to Jesus' teaching. It appears to point to what the Ephesians had "heard about him and learned about him" (CEV).

✦ Jesus is true:

John 7:18 The one who speaks on his own authority seeks his own glory; but the one who seeks the glory of him who sent him is true, and in him there is no falsehood.

Jesus' teaching was amazing and powerful – leading people to believe in him ...

Matt 7:28-29 And when Jesus finished these sayings, the crowds were astonished at his teaching, ²⁹for he was teaching them as one who had authority, and not as their scribes.

Matt 22:33 And when the crowd heard it, they were astonished at his teaching.

Mark 11:18 And the chief priests and the scribes heard it and were seeking a way to destroy him, for they feared him, because all the crowd was astonished at his teaching.

Luke 19:48 ... but they did not find anything they could do, for all the people were hanging on his words.

Luke 24:19 And he said to them, "What things?" And they said to him, "Concerning Jesus of Nazareth, a man who was a prophet mighty in deed and word before God and all the people, ...

Luke 24:32 They said to each other, "Did not our hearts burn within us while he talked to us on the road, while he opened to us the Scriptures?"

John 7:45-46 The officers then came to the chief priests and Pharisees, who said to them, "Why did you not bring him?" ⁴⁶*The officers answered, "No one ever spoke like this man!"*

Mark 12:37 David himself calls him Lord. So how is he his son?" And the great throng heard him gladly.

The fact that the crowd listened to Jesus "gladly" points to his teaching being outstanding.

John 8:30 As he was saying these things, many believed in him.

John 4:41-42 And many more believed because of his word. ⁴²*They said to the woman, "It is no longer because of what you said that we believe, for we have heard for ourselves, and we know that this is indeed the Savior of the world."*

John 16:30 Now we know that you know all things and do not need anyone to question you; this is why we believe that you came from God.

Note that "you ... do not need anyone to question you" may be implying that Jesus' teaching was so clear and emphatic – with him no longer speaking figuratively (cf. v. 29) – that there was no need for any questions. Additionally or alternatively, they possibly had in mind that he answered their questions before they could be asked (cf. NCV).

... However, many others did not believe Jesus

Matt 13:54-58 ... and coming to his hometown he taught them in their synagogue, so that they were astonished, and said, "Where did this man get this wisdom and these mighty works? ⁵⁵Is not this the carpenter's son? Is not his mother called Mary? And are not his brothers James and Joseph and Simon and Judas? ⁵⁶And are not all his sisters with us? Where then did this man get all these things?" ⁵⁷*And they took offense at him. But Jesus said to them, "A prophet is not without honor except in his hometown and in his own household."* ⁵⁸*And he did not do many mighty works there, because of their unbelief.*

Matt 26:63-65 But Jesus remained silent. And the high priest said to him, "I adjure you by the living God, tell us if you are the Christ, the Son of God." ⁶⁴Jesus said to him, "You have said so. But I tell you, from now on you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power and coming on the clouds of heaven." ⁶⁵*Then the high priest tore his robes and said, "He has uttered blasphemy. What further witnesses do we need? You have now heard his blasphemy.*

John 3:32 He bears witness to what he has seen and heard, yet no one receives his testimony.

John the Baptist appears to be implying that largely people did not accept Jesus' message (cf. NLT).

John 5:38 ... and you do not have his word abiding in you, for you do not believe the one whom he has sent.

John 6:36, 60, 64-66 But I said to you that you have seen me and yet do not believe.  ... ⁶⁰*When many of his disciples heard it, they said, "This is a hard saying; who can listen to it?"*  ... [Jesus:] ⁶⁴*But there are some of you who do not believe.*" (For Jesus knew from the beginning who those were who did not believe, and who it was who would betray him.) ⁶⁵And he said, "This is why I told you that no one can come to me unless it is granted him by the Father." ⁶⁶*After this many of his disciples turned back and no longer walked with him.*

John 7:5, 12 For not even his brothers believed in him.  ... ¹²And there was much muttering about him among the people. While some said, "He is a good man," others said, "No, he is leading the people astray."

John 7:47-48 The Pharisees answered them, "Have you also been deceived?" ⁴⁸*Have any of the authorities or the Pharisees believed in him?*

John 8:37, 45-46 I know that you are offspring of Abraham; yet you seek to kill me because my word finds no place in you.  ... ⁴⁵*But because I tell the truth, you do not believe me.* ⁴⁶*Which one of you convicts me of sin? If I tell the truth, why do you not believe me?*

John 10:24-26 So the Jews gathered around him and said to him, "How long will you keep us in suspense? If you are the Christ, tell us plainly." ²⁵Jesus answered them, "I told you, and you do not believe. The works that I do in my Father's name bear witness about me, ²⁶*but you do not believe* because you are not part of my flock.

This indicates that those who do not believe, do not belong to Jesus Christ – not being of his "flock".

John 12:37-42 Though he had done so many signs before them, they still did not believe in him, ³⁸*so that the word spoken by the prophet Isaiah might be fulfilled: "Lord, who has believed what he heard from us, and to whom has the arm of the Lord been revealed?"* ³⁹*Therefore they could not believe.* For again Isaiah said, ⁴⁰*"He has blinded their eyes and hardened their heart, lest they see with their eyes, and understand with their heart, and turn, and I would heal them."* ⁴¹*Isaiah said these things because he saw his glory and spoke of him.* ⁴²Nevertheless, many even of the authorities believed in him, but for fear of the Pharisees they did not confess it, so that they would not be put out of the synagogue; ...

In vv. 39-41 John indicates that Isaiah's words about God judicially closing people's minds to God's message were fulfilled in Jesus with his message (cf. Matt 13:3a, 10-16 ).

John 10:20-21 Many of them said, "He has a demon, and is insane; why listen to him?" ²¹*Others said, "These are not the words of one who is oppressed by a demon. Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?"*

Note: Jesus' use of parables and figurative speech

A parable is a simple story used to illustrate a spiritual truth. Jesus frequently used parables in his teaching. In illustrating rather than "spelling out" spiritual truth, Jesus' parables encouraged his listeners to think hard about what he said, encouraging spiritual discernment and hunger – readying them to be able to accept more direct teaching and also more difficult concepts. In conjunction with this, Jesus' parables often had underlying meanings hidden from all but those who sincerely sought the truth and were prepared to carefully consider what he said. (See also the comment below on Matthew 13:3a, 10-16.) In addition, by using parables Jesus made it more difficult for his enemies to use anything he said against him.

Matt 13:3a, 10-16 And he told them many things in parables  ... ¹⁰Then the disciples came and said to him, "Why do you speak to them in parables?" ¹¹*And he answered them, "To you it has been given to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given.* ¹²*For to the one who has,* more will be given, and he will have an abundance, but from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away. ¹³This is why I speak to them in parables, because seeing they do not see, and hearing they do not hear, nor do they understand. ¹⁴Indeed, in their case the prophecy of Isaiah is fulfilled that says: "You will indeed hear but never understand, and you will indeed see but never perceive. ¹⁵For this people's heart has grown dull, and with their ears they can barely hear, and their eyes they have closed, lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears and understand with their heart and turn, and I would heal them.' ¹⁶But blessed are your eyes, for they see, and your ears, for they hear. 📖

Mark 4:24-25 ↓ and Luke 8:18 introduce the statement in v. 12 with "Pay attention to what you hear ..." and "Take care then how you hear ...". Along with the context, these introductions suggest that the statement in v. 12 is implying that those who are receptive to spiritual truths (cf. v. 16) will receive more, while those who are not (cf. vv. 14-15) will lose what little they have. (See also Mark 4:21-25 below and comment.) Verse 13 then indicates that Jesus used parables in part to conceal spiritual truth – or at least certain teachings – from those who were not receptive to it. As such, his use of parables was instrumental in the spiritual dullness of those who had in themselves – in conjunction with God's judgment (cf. John 12:37-42 ↑) – become hardened to spiritual truth (vv. 14-15).

Mark 4:33-34 With many such parables he spoke the word to them, as they were able to hear it. ³⁴He did not speak to them without a parable, but privately to his own disciples he explained everything. 📖

Note that the parallel passage in Matthew adds that Jesus' use of parables was a fulfillment of prophecy: 'This was to fulfill what was spoken by the prophet: "I will open my mouth in parables; I will utter what has been hidden since the foundation of the world."' (Matt 13:35)

John 10:2, 6 But he who enters by the door is the shepherd of the sheep. 📖 ... ⁶This figure of speech Jesus used with them, but they did not understand what he was saying to them. 📖

The reasons for Jesus' use of figurative speech would appear to be the same as for his use of parables.

John 16:25 I have said these things to you in figures of speech. The hour is coming when I will no longer speak to you in figures of speech but will tell you plainly about the Father. 📖

Here Jesus is probably meaning that after his resurrection he would speak plainly about God. Perhaps the reason was that through his death and resurrection the disciples would gain a greater maturity, a better perspective and a clearer understanding. As such they would better be able to accept certain concepts. Some commentators consider that enlightenment through the coming Holy Spirit is in view.

✦ The veiled meaning in Jesus' teaching was to be disclosed to those who listened carefully:

Mark 4:21-25 And he said to them, "Is a lamp brought in to be put under a basket, or under a bed, and not on a stand? ²²For nothing is hidden except to be made manifest; nor is anything secret except to come to light. ²³If anyone has ears to hear, let him hear." ²⁴And he said to them, "Pay attention to what you hear: with the measure you use, it will be measured to you, and still more will be added to you. ²⁵For to the one who has, more will be given, and from the one who has not, even what he has will be taken away." 📖

Commentators differ in their interpretation of this. But the lamp (v. 21) may well refer to Jesus' teaching given through parables (cf. vv. 1-20), the meaning of which is intended to be disclosed (v. 22) to those who are willing to listen closely (vv. 23-25).

Jesus was rejected by the Jewish people as a whole, but in particular by the Jewish religious leaders.

Luke 17:25 But first he must suffer many things and be rejected by this generation.

The Jews refused to believe that Jesus fulfilled the prophecy of this key "stone" being rejected (v. 7; cf. Acts 4:11 ↓, 1Pet 2:4, 7 ↓). Jesus was in fact the "cornerstone" who would complete God's plan of salvation for humankind – and be the most significant part of God's people.

Matt 23:37 O Jerusalem, Jerusalem, the city that kills the prophets and stones those who are sent to it! How often would I have gathered your children together as a hen gathers her brood under her wings, and you would not!

The people's unwillingness to respond to Jesus' longing to "gather" them demonstrates their rejection of him. The following references also show ways in which Jesus was rejected.

Matt 13:57 And they took offense at him. But Jesus said to them, "A prophet is not without honor except in his hometown and in his own household."

Similarly John 4:44 says, "For Jesus himself had testified that a prophet has no honor in his own hometown."

Luke 2:34 And Simeon blessed them and said to Mary his mother, "Behold, this child is appointed for the fall and rising of many in Israel, and for a sign that is opposed . . ."

Simeon was speaking of Jesus, when he was an infant.

John 9:16 Some of the Pharisees said, "This man is not from God, for he does not keep the Sabbath." But others said, "How can a man who is a sinner do such signs?" And there was a division among them.

Jesus was despised

This is from the fourth of the four servant songs in Isaiah (52:13-53:12). The passage as a whole depicts the sufferings of the messianic Servant and the resulting atonement for God's people – a prophecy fulfilled in Jesus. A number of references from the passage are included in the remainder of this chapter.

Matt 11:19 The Son of Man came eating and drinking, and they say, 'Look at him! A glutton and a drunkard, a friend of tax collectors and sinners!' Yet wisdom is justified by her deeds."^h 📖

John 8:48, 52-53 The Jews answered him, "Are we not right in saying that you are a Samaritan and have a demon?" 📖 ...
⁵²*The Jews said to him, "Now we know that you have a demon! Abraham died, as did the prophets, yet you say, 'If anyone keeps my word, he will never taste death.'* ⁵³*Are you greater than our father Abraham, who died? And the prophets died! Who do you make yourself out to be?"* 📖

Regarding the use of "Samaritan" as a slur (v. 48), the Samaritans were a mixed race, in part descendant from the Israelite tribes of the northern kingdom of Israel. Many of the Jews despised the Samaritans, contemptuous of them as a people and of their religious practices. Regarding the charge that Jesus was demon-possessed (vv. 48, 52), in Matthew 9:34 the Pharisees similarly link Jesus with demons, and Satan: 'But the Pharisees said, "He casts out demons by the prince of demons.'"

John 9:24 So for the second time they called the man who had been blind and said to him, "Give glory to God. We know that this man is a sinner." 📖

John 15:18, 24-25 If the world hates you, know that it has hated me before it hated you. 📖 ... ²⁴*If I had not done among them the works that no one else did, they would not be guilty of sin, but now they have seen and hated both me and my Father.* ²⁵*But the word that is written in their Law must be fulfilled: "They hated me without a cause."* 📖

In conjunction with being despised, Jesus was hated by many.

John 7:7 The world cannot hate you, but it hates me because I testify about it that its works are evil. 📖

✦ At one time Jesus' family even thought he was out of his mind:

Mark 3:21 And when his family heard it, they went out to seize him, for they were saying, "He is out of his mind." 📖

Jesus faced intense opposition, with efforts to kill him

Matt 21:45-46 When the chief priests and the Pharisees heard his parables, they perceived that he was speaking about them. ⁴⁶*And although they were seeking to arrest him, they feared the crowds, because they held him to be a prophet.* 📖

Note that v. 45 speaks of how the Jewish leaders' intense opposition was aroused in part by parables and teachings of Jesus that were condemnatory of them (cf. vv. 33-34).

Matt 26:3-4 Then the chief priests and the elders of the people gathered in the palace of the high priest, whose name was Caiaphas, ⁴*and plotted together in order to arrest Jesus by stealth and kill him.* 📖

Mark 11:18 And the chief priests and the scribes heard it and were seeking a way to destroy him, for they feared him, because all the crowd was astonished at his teaching. 📖

Luke 4:28-30 When they heard these things, all in the synagogue were filled with wrath. ²⁹*And they rose up and drove him out of the town and brought him to the brow of the hill on which their town was built, so that they could throw him down the cliff.* ³⁰*But passing through their midst, he went away.* 📖

The people were incensed by Jesus' prior admonishment of them (cf. vv. 23-27).

Luke 11:53-54 As he went away from there, the scribes and the Pharisees began to press him hard and to provoke him to speak about many things, ⁵⁴*lying in wait for him, to catch him in something he might say.* 📖

John 5:16-18 And this was why the Jews were persecuting Jesus, because he was doing these things on the Sabbath. ¹⁷*But Jesus answered them, "My Father is working until now, and I am working."* ¹⁸*This was why the Jews were seeking all the more to kill him, because not only was he breaking the Sabbath, but he was even calling God his own Father, making himself equal with God.* 📖

John 7:1, 19, 25 After this Jesus went about in Galilee. He would not go about in Judea, because the Jewsⁱ were seeking to kill him. 📖 ... [Jesus:] ¹⁹*Has not Moses given you the law? Yet none of you keeps the law. Why do you seek to kill me?"* 📖 ... ²⁵*Some of the people of Jerusalem therefore said, "Is not this the man whom they seek to kill?"* 📖

ⁱ Or Judeans

John 8:37, 40 I know that you are offspring of Abraham; yet you seek to kill me because my word finds no place in you. ...⁴⁰but now you seek to kill me, a man who has told you the truth that I heard from God. This is not what Abraham did.

John 10:30-33, 38-39 I and the Father are one.”³¹The Jews picked up stones again to stone him. ³²Jesus answered them, “I have shown you many good works from the Father; for which of them are you going to stone me?” ³³The Jews answered him, “It is not for a good work that we are going to stone you but for blasphemy, because you, being a man, make yourself God.” ... [Jesus:]³⁸but if I do them, even though you do not believe me, believe the works, that you may know and understand that the Father is in me and I am in the Father.”³⁹Again they sought to arrest him, but he escaped from their hands.

John 11:48-53 If we let him go on like this, everyone will believe in him, and the Romans will come and take away both our place and our nation.”⁴⁹But one of them, Caiaphas, who was high priest that year, said to them, “You know nothing at all. ⁵⁰Nor do you understand that it is better for you that one man should die for the people, not that the whole nation should perish.”⁵¹He did not say this of his own accord, but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus would die for the nation,⁵²and not for the nation only, but also to gather into one the children of God who are scattered abroad. ⁵³So from that day on they made plans to put him to death.

Acts 4:26-27 *The kings of the earth set themselves, and the rulers were gathered together, against the Lord and against his Anointed*¹—²⁷for truly in this city there were gathered together against your holy servant Jesus, whom you anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, along with the Gentiles and the peoples of Israel, ...

Verse 26 is part of a quotation from a messianic psalm (Psalm 2), spoken of in v. 27 as being fulfilled in the conspiracy against Jesus.

Heb 12:3 Consider him who endured from sinners such hostility against himself, so that you may not grow weary or fainthearted.

‡ Herod’s attempt to kill Jesus as an infant:

Matt 2:7-8, 11-13, 16 Then Herod summoned the wise men secretly and ascertained from them what time the star had appeared. ⁸And he sent them to Bethlehem, saying, “Go and search diligently for the child, and when you have found him, bring me word, that I too may come and worship him.” ...¹¹And going into the house they saw the child with Mary his mother, and they fell down and worshiped him. Then, opening their treasures, they offered him gifts, gold and frankincense and myrrh. ¹²And being warned in a dream not to return to Herod, they departed to their own country by another way. ¹³Now when they had departed, behold, an angel of the Lord appeared to Joseph in a dream and said, “Rise, take the child and his mother, and flee to Egypt, and remain there until I tell you, for Herod is about to search for the child, to destroy him.” ...¹⁶Then Herod, when he saw that he had been tricked by the wise men, became furious, and he sent and killed all the male children in Bethlehem and in all that region who were two years old or under, according to the time that he had ascertained from the wise men.

Herod had been alarmed by the wise men’s claim that a child had been born who would be king of the Jews (cf. vv. 1-3). Seeing Jesus as a threat, he tried to kill him.

Jesus’ betrayal and arrest

Luke 22:3-6 Then Satan entered into Judas called Iscariot, who was of the number of the twelve. ⁴He went away and conferred with the chief priests and officers how he might betray him to them. ⁵And they were glad, and agreed to give him money. ⁶So he consented and sought an opportunity to betray him to them in the absence of a crowd.

Matt 26:45-50 Then he came to the disciples and said to them, “Sleep and take your rest later on.^k See, the hour is at hand, and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. ⁴⁶Rise, let us be going; see, my betrayer is at hand.”⁴⁷While he was still speaking, Judas came, one of the twelve, and with him a great crowd with swords and clubs, from the chief priests and the elders of the people. ⁴⁸Now the betrayer had given them a sign, saying, “The one I will kiss is the man; seize him.”⁴⁹And he came up to Jesus at once and said, “Greetings, Rabbi!” And he kissed him. ⁵⁰Jesus said to him, “Friend, do what you came to do.”¹ Then they came up and laid hands on Jesus and seized him.

¹ Or Friend, why are you here?

In his account Luke records Jesus’ poignant question of Judas: “Judas, would you betray the Son of Man with a kiss?” (Luke 22:48b)

John 18:2-13 Now Judas, who betrayed him, also knew the place, for Jesus often met there with his disciples. ³So Judas, having procured a band of soldiers and some officers from the chief priests and the Pharisees, went there with lanterns and torches and weapons. ⁴Then Jesus, knowing all that would happen to him, came forward and said to them, "Whom do you seek?" ⁵They answered him, "Jesus of Nazareth." Jesus said to them, "I am he." ^mJudas, who betrayed him, was standing with them. ⁶When Jesusⁿ said to them, "I am he," they drew back and fell to the ground. ⁷So he asked them again, "Whom do you seek?" And they said, "Jesus of Nazareth." ⁸Jesus answered, "I told you that I am he. So, if you seek me, let these men go." ⁹This was to fulfill the word that he had spoken: "Of those whom you gave me I have lost not one." ¹⁰Then Simon Peter, having a sword, drew it and struck the high priest's servant^o and cut off his right ear. (The servant's name was Malchus.) ¹¹So Jesus said to Peter, "Put your sword into its sheath; shall I not drink the cup that the Father has given me?" ¹²So the band of soldiers and their captain and the officers of the Jews arrested Jesus and bound him. ¹³First they led him to Annas, for he was the father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was high priest that year.

Matt 27:1-2, 17-26 When morning came, all the chief priests and the elders of the people took counsel against Jesus to put him to death. ²And they bound him and led him away and delivered him over to Pilate the governor.  ... ¹⁷So when they had gathered, Pilate said to them, "Whom do you want me to release for you: Barabbas, or Jesus who is called Christ?" ¹⁸For he knew that it was out of envy that they had delivered him up. ¹⁹Besides, while he was sitting on the judgment seat, his wife sent word to him, "Have nothing to do with that righteous man, for I have suffered much because of him today in a dream." ²⁰Now the chief priests and the elders persuaded the crowd to ask for Barabbas and destroy Jesus. ²¹The governor again said to them, "Which of the two do you want me to release for you?" And they said, "Barabbas." ²²Pilate said to them, "Then what shall I do with Jesus who is called Christ?" They all said, "Let him be crucified!" ²³And he said, "Why, what evil has he done?" But they shouted all the more, "Let him be crucified!" ²⁴So when Pilate saw that he was gaining nothing, but rather that a riot was beginning, he took water and washed his hands before the crowd, saying, "I am innocent of this man's blood;^r see to it yourselves." ²⁵And all the people answered, "His blood be on us and on our children!" ²⁶Then he released for them Barabbas, and having scourged^s Jesus, delivered him to be crucified.

Luke 23:4, 13-15, 20-24 Then Pilate said to the chief priests and the crowds, "I find no guilt in this man."  ... ¹³Pilate then called together the chief priests and the rulers and the people, ¹⁴and said to them, "You brought me this man as one who was misleading the people. And after examining him before you, behold, I did not find this man guilty of any of your charges against him. ¹⁵Neither did Herod, for he sent him back to us. Look, nothing deserving death has been done by him.  ...²⁰Pilate addressed them once more, desiring to release Jesus, ²¹but they kept shouting, "Crucify, crucify him!"²²A third time he said to them, "Why, what evil has he done? I have found in him no guilt deserving death. I will therefore punish and release him."²³But they were urgent, demanding with loud cries that he should be crucified. And their voices prevailed. ²⁴So Pilate decided that their demand should be granted.

The horrific suffering and death of Jesus

Matt 26:67-68 Then they spit in his face and struck him. And some slapped him, ⁶⁸saying, "Prophecy to us, you Christ! Who is it that struck you?"

Matt 27:26-31 Then he [Pilate] released for them Barabbas, and having scourged^t Jesus, delivered him to be crucified. ²⁷Then the soldiers of the governor took Jesus into the governor's headquarters,^u and they gathered the whole battalion^v before him. ²⁸And they stripped him and put a scarlet robe on him, ²⁹and twisting together a crown of thorns, they put it on his head and put a reed in his right hand. mixed with gall, but when he tasted it, he would not drink it. ³⁵And when they had crucified him, they divided his garments among them by casting lots. ³⁶Then they sat down and kept watch over him there. ³⁷And over his head they put the charge against him, which read, "This is Jesus, the King of the Jews."³⁸Then two robbers were crucified with him, one on the right and one on the left.

Note that it is generally thought that Jesus refused the drink offered to him (v. 34) so as to remain fully conscious, enduring the full ordeal by which he would pay for the sins of the world.

Matt 27:39-44 And those who passed by derided him, wagging their heads⁴⁰and saying, "You who would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days, save yourself! If you are the Son of God, come down from the cross."⁴¹So also the chief priests, with the scribes and elders, mocked him, saying, ⁴²"He saved others; he cannot save himself. He is the King of Israel; let him come down now from the cross, and we will believe in him. ⁴³He trusts in God; let God deliver him now, if he desires him. Matt 27:45-46, 50 Now from the sixth hour^w there was darkness over all the land^x until the ninth hour.^y ⁴⁶And about the ninth hour Jesus cried out with a loud voice, saying, "Eli, Eli, lema sabachthani?" that is, "My God, my God, why have you forsaken me?"  ... ⁵⁰And Jesus cried out again with a loud voice and yielded up his spirit.

^w That is, noon

^x Or earth

^y That is, 3 P.M.

No reason is given for the cause or significance of the darkness (v. 45). It was unlikely the result of an eclipse; Luke 23:45 simply adds "the sun's light failed." It would appear to have been a divine act, indicative of the gravity of what had taken place. In v. 46, Jesus' cry (cf. Luke 23:46 ↓; John 19:30 ↓) suggests that the intimate relationship between himself and God had in some way or sense been impaired.

Luke 23:33-34, 46 And when they came to the place that is called The Skull, there they crucified him, and the criminals, one on his right and one on his left. ³⁴And Jesus said, "Father, forgive them, for they know not what they do."^z And they cast lots to divide his garments.  ... ⁴⁶Then Jesus, calling out with a loud voice, said, "Father, into your hands I commit my spirit!" And having said this he breathed his last.

^z Some manuscripts omit the sentence And Jesus . . . what they do

John 19:28-30 After this, Jesus, knowing that all was now finished, said (to fulfill the Scripture), "I thirst."²⁹ A jar full of sour wine stood there, so they put a sponge full of the sour wine on a hyssop branch and held it to his mouth.³⁰ When Jesus had received the sour wine, he said, "It is finished," and he bowed his head and gave up his spirit.

Having the sour wine fulfilled Psalm 69:21. The use of a branch of the hyssop plant (v. 29b) may point to the use of hyssop in the celebration of the Passover (cf. Ex 12:22), underlining the parallel of Jesus' death with that of a Passover lamb.

Isa 52:14 As many were astonished at you— his appearance was so marred, beyond human semblance, and his form beyond that of the children of mankind—

Isa 53:7-8 *He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth; like a lamb that is led to the slaughter, and like a sheep that before its shearers is silent, so he opened not his mouth.*⁸ By oppression and judgment he was taken away; and as for his generation, who considered that he was cut off out of the land of the living, stricken for the transgression of my people?

The Hebrew rendered "he was cut off" (v. 8b) indicates a violent death.

✦ Jesus' care of his mother while on the cross:

John 19:25-27 ... but standing by the cross of Jesus were his mother and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary Magdalene.²⁶ *When Jesus saw his mother and the disciple whom he loved standing nearby, he said to his mother, "Woman, behold, your son!"*²⁷ Then he said to the disciple, "Behold, your mother!" And from that hour the disciple took her to his own home.

The events following Jesus' death and his burial

Matt 27:51-54 *And behold, the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. And the earth shook, and the rocks were split.*⁵² *The tombs also were opened. And many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised,*⁵³ *and coming out of the tombs after his resurrection they went into the holy city and appeared to many.*⁵⁴ When the centurion and those who were with him, keeping watch over Jesus, saw the earthquake and what took place, they were filled with awe and said, "Truly this was the Son^a of God!"

^a Or a son

To enter the Most Holy Place of God's presence the high priest – the only one permitted to do so – went through a curtain. The tearing of the curtain of the temple in two from top to bottom (v. 51) symbolically announced that there was no longer any barrier to people directly entering into God's presence; no longer was this privilege confined to just the high priest. For comment on the holy people being raised to life (vv. 52-53), see Matt 27:52-53 – under Jesus Christ's resurrection was essential for our resurrection, p. 604.

Matt 27:57-61 When it was evening, there came a rich man from Arimathea, named Joseph, who also was a disciple of Jesus.⁵⁸ *He went to Pilate and asked for the body of Jesus. Then Pilate ordered it to be given to him.*⁵⁹ *And Joseph took the body and wrapped it in a clean linen shroud*⁶⁰ *and laid it in his own new tomb, which he had cut in the rock. And he rolled a great stone to the entrance of the tomb and went away.*⁶¹ Mary Magdalene and the other Mary were there, sitting opposite the tomb.

✦ The securing of Jesus' tomb:

Matt 27:62-66 *The next day, that is, after the day of Preparation, the chief priests and the Pharisees gathered before Pilate*⁶³ *and said, "Sir, we remember how that impostor said, while he was still alive, 'After three days I will rise.'*⁶⁴ *Therefore order the tomb to be made secure until the third day, lest his disciples go and steal him away and tell the people, 'He has risen from the dead,' and the last fraud will be worse than the first."*⁶⁵ *Pilate said to them, "You have a guard^b of soldiers. Go, make it as secure as you can."*⁶⁶ So they went and made the tomb secure by sealing the stone and setting a guard.

^b Or Take a guard

Such security measures ensured no one could underhandedly take Jesus' body from the tomb. Certainly the Roman guards would not have complied with any such plan, as its removal would quite probably have cost them their lives.

Matt 12:40 For just as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth. 📖

Note that the phrase "three days and three nights" is commonly understood to be referring somewhat figuratively to three days or parts thereof.

Matt 20:17-19 And as Jesus was going up to Jerusalem, he took the twelve disciples aside, and on the way he said to them, ¹⁸"See, we are going up to Jerusalem. And the Son of Man will be delivered over to the chief priests and scribes, and they will condemn him to death ¹⁹and deliver him over to the Gentiles to be mocked and flogged and crucified, and he will be raised on the third day." 📖

I will keep the Passover at your house with my disciples.*'" 📖 ... ⁴⁵Then he came to the disciples and said to them, "Sleep and take your rest later on.^c See, the hour is at hand, and the Son of Man is betrayed into the hands of sinners. 📖

^c Or Are you still sleeping and taking your rest?

In v. 45, "is betrayed" has the sense "is about to be betrayed" (cf. Nlrv).

Luke 18:31-33 And taking the twelve, he said to them, "See, we are going up to Jerusalem, and everything that is written about the Son of Man by the prophets will be accomplished. ³²For he will be delivered over to the Gentiles and will be mocked and shamefully treated and spit upon. ³³And after flogging him, they will kill him, and on the third day he will rise." 📖

John 7:30 So they were seeking to arrest him, but no one laid a hand on him, because his hour had not yet come. 📖

The timing and circumstances of Jesus' death were part of God's plan and could not be hastened. Note that similarly 8:20b says, "... no one arrested him, because his hour had not yet come."

John 12:23, 27, 32-33 And Jesus answered them, "The hour has come for the Son of Man to be glorified. 📖 ... ²⁷"Now is my soul troubled. And what shall I say? 'Father, save me from this hour'? But for this purpose I have come to this hour. 📖 ... ³²And

I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people to myself." ³³*He said this to show by what kind of death he was going to die.* 📖

In v. 23 Jesus appears to be referring to his death, resurrection and exaltation. Verses 32-33 indicate that the manner of his death was foreordained.

John 13:1 Now before the Feast of the Passover, when Jesus knew that his hour had come to depart out of this world to the Father, having loved his own who were in the world, he loved them to the end. 📖

John 17:1 When Jesus had spoken these words, he lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, "Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son that the Son may glorify you, ... 📖

^d men and man render the same Greek word that is translated people in verses 1 and 4

The "testimony" refers to Jesus Christ's sacrifice for sins, given at the proper time, presumably the time God had set.

1Pet 1:10-11 Concerning this salvation, the prophets who prophesied about the grace that was to be yours searched and inquired carefully, ¹¹*inquiring what person or time the Spirit of Christ in them was indicating when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the subsequent glories.* 📖

John 11:50-52 Nor do you understand that it is better for you that one man should die for the people, not that the whole nation should perish." ⁵¹*He did not say this of his own accord, but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus would die for the nation, ⁵²and not for the nation only, but also to gather into one the children of God who are scattered abroad.* 📖

God prophesied Jesus' death and its effect through Caiaphas – who “did not say this of his own accord” (v. 51) – indicative of it being God's will.

Acts 2:23 ... this Jesus, delivered up according to the definite plan and foreknowledge of God, you crucified and killed by the hands of lawless men.

Acts 3:15, 17-18 ... and you killed the Author of life, whom God raised from the dead. To this we are witnesses.  ... ¹⁷“And now, brothers, I know that you acted in ignorance, as did also your rulers. ¹⁸But what God foretold by the mouth of all the prophets, that his Christ would suffer, he thus fulfilled.

Acts 4:27-28 ... for truly in this city there were gathered together against your holy servant Jesus, whom you anointed, both Herod and Pontius Pilate, along with the Gentiles and the peoples of Israel, ²⁸to do whatever your hand and your plan had predestined to take place.

Rom 3:25a ... [Jesus Christ] whom God put forward as a propitiation by his blood, to be received by faith.

Rom 8:32 He who did not spare his own Son but gave him up for us all, how will he not also with him graciously give us all things?

Gal 1:3-4 Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ, ⁴who gave himself for our sins to deliver us from the present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father, ...

Col 1:19-20 For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell, ²⁰and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, making peace by the blood of his cross.

As well as referring to God's fullness dwelling in Christ, “God was pleased to ...” (v. 19) appears to also refer to what follows, indicating that it likewise was of God's will (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NIV, NRSV).

Heb 2:9 But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone.

1Pet 1:18-20 ... knowing that you were ransomed from the futile ways inherited from your forefathers, not with perishable things such as silver or gold, ¹⁹but with the precious blood of Christ, like that of a lamb without blemish or spot. ²⁰He was foreknown before the foundation of the world but was made manifest in the last times for the sake of you ...

“He was foreknown” (v. 20) suggests that Christ was chosen and destined (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT, NRSV) by God to bring redemption through his death (v. 19).

✦ OT prophecy indicates that it was God's will that the Messiah should die:

Isa 53:4, 10 Surely he has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows; yet we esteemed him stricken, smitten by God, and afflicted.  ... ¹⁰Yet it was the will of the LORD to crush him; he has put him to grief;^e when his soul makes^f an offering for guilt, he shall see his offspring; he shall prolong his days; the will of the LORD shall prosper in his hand.

^e Or he has made him sick

^f Or when you make his soul

Further such prophecies are listed in The OT also says he would suffer and die, for people's sins – but then be raised and exalted, p. 488. Note that here the LORD's will (v. 10) was not just to crush him and cause him to suffer, but also to resurrect him (by which he would see his spiritual “offspring” – those who would believe him) and have him live on forever (“prolong his days”).

Matt 16:21 From that time Jesus began to show his disciples that he must go to Jerusalem and suffer many things from the elders and chief priests and scribes, and be killed, and on the third day be raised.

The fact that Jesus explained his suffering and death beforehand suggests that he would undergo it willingly.

Luke 22:20-22 And likewise the cup after they had eaten, saying, “This cup that is poured out for you is the new covenant in my blood.” ²¹But behold, the hand of him who betrays me is with me on the table. ²²For the Son of Man goes

He does away with the first in order to establish the second. ¹⁰And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

The quotation from Psalm 40:6-8 is applied in such a way as to indicate that Jesus Christ willingly came to offer himself as a sacrifice for sin in accordance with God's will (v. 10).

God raised Jesus from the dead, by his power . . .

Acts 2:24, 32 God raised him up, loosing the pangs of death, because it was not possible for him to be held by it.  ... ³²This Jesus God raised up, and of that we all are witnesses.

Regarding the reason why it was not possible for death to hold Jesus Christ (v. 24b), Peter's thought may be that: as God's justice had been satisfied by Jesus' death, it was neither necessary nor permissible under God's justice for him to remain there; and/or it was not possible for him who has life in himself to be kept by death.

Rom 6:4 We were buried therefore with him by baptism into death, in order that, just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might walk in newness of life.

The "glory of the Father" in part points to God's "glorious power" (GNT, NLT; cf. NCV).

1Cor 6:14 And God raised the Lord and will also raise us up by his power.

2Cor 13:4 For he was crucified in weakness, but lives by the power of God. For we also are weak in him, but in dealing with you we will live with him by the power of God.

Eph 1:19-20 ... and what is the immeasurable greatness of his power toward us who believe, according to the working of his great might ²⁰*that he worked in Christ when he raised him from the dead* and seated him at his right hand in the heavenly places, ...

Col 2:12 ... having been buried with him in baptism, in which you were also raised with him through faith in the powerful working of God, who raised him from the dead.

Acts 13:32-37 And we bring you the good news that what God promised to the fathers, ³³*this he has fulfilled to us their children by raising Jesus, as also it is written in the second Psalm, "You are my Son, today I have begotten you."* ³⁴*And as for the fact that he raised him from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he has spoken in this way, "I will give you the holy and sure blessings of David."* ³⁵*Therefore he says also in another psalm, "You will not let your Holy One see corruption."* ³⁶*For David, after he had served the purpose of God in his own generation, fell asleep and was laid with his fathers and saw corruption,* ³⁷*but he whom God raised up did not see corruption.*

The quotation in v. 33 in its original context is a reference to a Davidic king's coronation, in which the king entered into a unique relationship with God – reflective of God's promise to David regarding one of his sons (cf. 2Sam 7:14). Most likely Paul is implying that it has been ultimately fulfilled in God's resurrection of Jesus Christ, in which God begot or gave life to Jesus Christ and subsequently exalted him as Lord of all. Having stated his case that Jesus Christ is the promised savior in who the messianic writings of the OT had been fulfilled (cf. vv. 23-33), in v. 34 Paul contends that God had to have raised Jesus for him to be given the messianic blessings promised to David. In vv. 35-37 Paul adds further evidence to his argument.

Heb 13:20 Now may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, ...

... The Holy Spirit is linked to Jesus' resurrection

^k Or who came from the offspring of David

This appears to indicate either that the Holy Spirit played a critical role in the resurrection of Jesus Christ (cf. NLT), or that the Holy Spirit powerfully showed that Jesus Christ's resurrection demonstrated that he was the Son of God.

✦ Jesus himself had spoken of taking up his life after laying it down:

John 10:17-18 For this reason the Father loves me, because I lay down my life that I may take it up again. ¹⁸*No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it up again*. This charge I have received from my Father.

Jesus had also spoken of raising his own body in 2:18-22 (cf. Jesus Was Raised in a Bodily Form below). See also Acts 2:24 and comment in the previous subsection.

Jesus' body was not found in his tomb

Matt 28:1-7 Now after the Sabbath, toward the dawn of the first day of the week, Mary Magdalene and the other Mary went to see the tomb. ²And behold, there was a great earthquake, for an angel of the Lord descended from heaven and came and rolled back the stone and sat on it. ³His appearance was like lightning, and his clothing white as snow. ⁴And for fear of him the guards trembled and became like dead men. ⁵But the angel said to the women, "Do not be afraid, for I know that you seek Jesus who was crucified. ⁶*He is not here, for he has risen, as he said. Come, see the place where he^r lay.* ⁷Then go quickly and tell his disciples that he has risen from the dead, and behold, he is going before you to Galilee; there you will see him. See, I have told you."

Luke 24:1-7 But on the first day of the week, at early dawn, they went to the tomb, taking the spices they had prepared. ²And they found the stone rolled away from the tomb, ³but when they went in they did not find the body of the Lord Jesus. ⁴While they were perplexed about this, behold, two men stood by them in dazzling apparel. ⁵And as they were frightened and bowed their faces to the ground, the men said to them, "Why do you seek the living among the dead? ⁶He is not here, but has risen. Remember how he told you, while he was still in Galilee, ⁷that the Son of Man must be delivered into the hands of sinful men and be crucified and on the third day rise."

Luke 24:22-24 Moreover, some women of our company amazed us. They were at the tomb early in the morning, ²³and when they did not find his body, they came back saying that they had even seen a vision of angels, who said that he was alive. ²⁴Some of those who were with us went to the tomb and found it just as the women had said, but him they did not see.

Note that the final clause probably refers to the disciples in question not seeing the resurrected Jesus – though like v. 23a it could be speaking of them not seeing his body in the tomb (cf. Nlrv, NLT).

John 20:1-12 Now on the first day of the week Mary Magdalene came to the tomb early, while it was still dark, and saw that the stone had been taken away from the tomb. ²*So she ran and went to Simon Peter and the other disciple, the* one whom Jesus loved, and said to them, "They have taken the Lord out of the tomb, and we do not know where they have laid him." ³So Peter went out with the other disciple, and they were going toward the tomb. ⁴Both of them were running together, but the other disciple outran Peter and reached the tomb first. ⁵*And stooping to look in, he saw the linen cloths lying there, but he did not go in.* ⁶Then Simon Peter came, following him, and went into the tomb. He saw the linen cloths lying there, ⁷and the face cloth, which had been on Jesus's head, not lying with the linen cloths but folded up in a place by itself. ⁸*Then the other disciple, who had reached the tomb first, also went in, and he saw and believed;* ⁹for as yet they did not understand the Scripture, that he must rise from the dead. ¹⁰Then the disciples went back to their homes. ¹¹But Mary stood weeping outside the tomb, and as she wept she stooped to look into the tomb. ¹²*And she saw two angels in white, sitting where the body of Jesus had lain, one at the head and one at the feet.*

✦ Jesus was raised on the third day:

1Cor 15:4 ... that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures, ...

Matthew 28:1-7, Luke 24:1-7 and John 20:1-9 above likewise indicate that Jesus had risen by the morning of the Sunday (cf. Mark 16:1-7) – i.e. on the third day following his death on the previous Friday morning. The phrase "in accordance with the Scriptures" appears to refer to him being "raised on the third day" rather than just to him simply being raised. As such it may well have Hosea 6:2 in view, seeing Jesus as fulfilling what is said there of Israel: "After two days he will revive us; on the third day he will raise us up, that we may live before him." Jesus reference to Jonah in Matthew 12:40 may also be in view: "For just as Jonah was three days and three nights in the belly of the great fish, so will the Son of Man be three days and three nights in the heart of the earth."

John 2:18-22 So the Jews said to him, "What sign do you show us for doing these things?" ¹⁹*Jesus answered them, "Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up."* ²⁰The Jews then said, "It has taken forty-six years to build this temple, and will you raise it up in three days?" ²¹*But he was* speaking about the temple of his body. ²²When therefore he was raised from the dead, his disciples remembered that he had said this, and they believed the Scripture and the word that Jesus had spoken.

In speaking here of the resurrection of his body, Jesus appears to indicate that it would be raised in bodily form. Note that the "Scripture" (v. 22b) refers in particular to OT prophecies which speak of the Messiah's death and resurrection (cf. The OT also says he would suffer and die, for people's sins – but then be raised and exalted, p. 488, and Prophecies fulfilled in Jesus' death . . ., p. 497; . . . Further OT Scriptures fulfilled or reflected in Jesus' death, p. 499).

Luke 24:36-43 As they were talking about these things, Jesus himself stood among them, and said to them, "Peace to you!" ³⁷But they were startled and frightened and thought they saw a spirit. ³⁸And he said to them, "Why are you troubled, and why do doubts arise in your hearts? ³⁹See my hands and my feet, that it is I myself. Touch me, and see. For a spirit does not have flesh and bones as you see that I have." ⁴⁰And when he had said this, he showed them his hands and his feet. ⁴¹And while they still disbelieved for joy and were marveling, he said to them, "Have you anything here to eat?" ⁴²They gave him a piece of broiled fish,^t ⁴³and he took it and ate before them.

The fact that Jesus had "flesh and bones" (v. 39), ate food (vv. 42-43; cf. Acts 1:4 ; Acts 10:41 ) and had nail marks in his hands and a hole in side (cf. John 20:24-29 ), shows that he had been raised in the body in which he had been crucified.

Acts 2:31 ... he foresaw and spoke about the resurrection of the Christ, that he was not abandoned to Hades, nor did his flesh see corruption.

This at least suggests that Jesus was raised in bodily form.

Col 2:9 For in him the whole fullness of deity dwells bodily, ...

The term "bodily" denotes a "bodily form" (AMP, NASB, NIV). Opinions differ over whether this is referring only to Jesus' time on earth or also to after his resurrection and ascension. If the latter is the case in, then this verse supports the assertion that Jesus Christ was raised in a bodily form.

✦ Following his resurrection Jesus did not have normal physical limitations:

John 20:19, 26 On the evening of that day, the first day of the week, the doors being locked where the disciples were for fear of the Jews, Jesus came and stood among them and said to them, "Peace be with you."  ... ²⁶Eight days later, his disciples were inside again, and Thomas was with them. Although the doors were locked, Jesus came and stood among them and said, "Peace be with you."

Luke 24:31 in the following subsection also shows that Jesus not have normal physical limitations. For it says that on one occasion when Jesus had been with two of his followers "he vanished from their sight".

Mark 16:9, 12, 14 Now when he rose early on the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, from whom he had cast out seven demons.  ... ¹²After these things he appeared in another form to two of them, as they were walking into the country.  ... ¹⁴Afterward he appeared to the eleven themselves as they were reclining at table, and he rebuked them for their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they had not believed those who saw him after he had risen.

Note that "he appeared in another form" (v. 12) seems to be intended to contrast to how he appeared to Mary Magdalene (v. 9). As such it may simply be speaking of him appearing as a traveler rather than as a gardener.

Luke 24:13-16, 28-32 That very day two of them were going to a village named Emmaus, about seven miles^u from Jerusalem, ¹⁴and they were talking with each other about all these things that had happened. ¹⁵While they were talking and discussing together, Jesus himself drew near and went with them. ¹⁶But their eyes were kept from recognizing him.  ... ²⁸So they drew near to the village to which they were going. He acted as if he were going farther, ²⁹*but they urged him strongly, saying, "Stay with us, for it is toward evening and the day is now far spent." So he went in to stay with them.* ³⁰When he was at table with them, he took the bread and blessed and broke it and gave it to them. ³¹And their eyes were opened, and they recognized him. And he vanished from their sight. ³²They said to each other, "Did not our hearts burn

Note that vv. 6-8 record what might be a further, separate conversation between Jesus and his followers.

Acts 2:32 This Jesus God raised up, and of that we all are witnesses.

Acts 10:40-41 ... but God raised him on the third day and made him to appear, ⁴¹not to all the people but to us who had been chosen by God as witnesses, who ate and drank with him after he rose from the dead.

It is not stated why God chose only certain people to see Jesus Christ, rather than have him be seen by all the people. The reason may well largely concern faith. The NT only records Jesus being seen by those who had already believed. Since the time of Abraham, God's plan of bringing righteousness and salvation has involved a requirement of faith in him and what he says. Allowing Jesus to be seen by all the people would have significantly lessened a need or place for faith.

Acts 13:30-31 But God raised him from the dead, ³¹and for many days he appeared to those who had come up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are now his witnesses to the people.

1Cor 15:4-8 ... that he was buried, that he was raised on the third day in accordance with the Scriptures, ⁵and that he appeared to Cephas, then to the twelve. ⁶Then he appeared to more than five hundred brothers at one time, most of whom are still alive, though some have fallen asleep. ⁷Then he appeared to James, then to all the apostles. ⁸Last of all, as to one untimely born, he appeared also to me.

Note that in v. 8 Paul is referring to Jesus Christ's post-ascension appearance to him on the road to Damascus.

Rev 12:5 She gave birth to a male child, one who is to rule all the nations with a rod of iron, but her child was caught up to God and to his throne, ...

The woman most likely symbolizes either the messianic community, Israel or believing Jews. The "male child" is the Messiah, Jesus Christ. The second statement is often understood by commentators to refer to Jesus Christ's ascension.

Eph 4:8, 10 Therefore it says, "When he ascended on high he led a host of captives, and he gave gifts to men." ... ¹⁰*He who descended is the one who also ascended far above all the heavens, that he might fill all things.*)

Jewish thought understood there to be different heavens. Apparently Paul is asserting that in conjunction with Jesus Christ being taken into God's presence in heaven itself, Christ ascended higher and is supreme over all other "heavens" (v. 10). Note that the clause "fill all things" (v. 10) appears to speak of Jesus Christ not only being throughout the whole universe, but also being supreme throughout it.

✦ Jesus Christ will remain in heaven until God's appointed time:

Acts 3:20-21 ... that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Christ appointed for you, Jesus, ²¹*whom heaven must receive until the time for restoring all the things about which God spoke* by the mouth of his holy prophets long ago.

Verses 10-11 speak of all people in the future acknowledging Jesus Christ's status, which itself is a current reality.

Heb 1:9 You have loved righteousness and hated wickedness; therefore God, your God, has anointed you with the oil of gladness beyond your companions.

A number of commentators consider this to be referring to Christ's exaltation after his life of "righteousness", which of course included his obedience unto death.

Heb 2:9 But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone.

Heb 12:2 ... looking to Jesus, the founder and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God.

The "joy that was set before him" points to the glory that would be his for enduring the cross, notably being seated at God's right hand – the place of honor and power above all others.

1Pet 1:11, 21 ... inquiring what person or time the Spirit of Christ in them was indicating when he predicted the sufferings of Christ and the subsequent glories.  ... ²¹who through him are believers in God, who raised him from the dead and gave him glory, so that your faith and hope are in God.

Rev 5:9, 11-12 And they sang a new song, saying, “Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation,  ... ¹¹Then I looked, and I heard around the throne and the living creatures and the elders the voice of many angels, numbering myriads of myriads and thousands of thousands, ¹²saying with a loud voice, “Worthy is the Lamb who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and might and honor and glory and blessing!”

Presumably the reason as to why Jesus Christ, the “Lamb” who was slain, was worthy to receive the glory and accompanying wonderful blessings (v. 12), was the same as to why he was deemed worthy to open the scroll (v. 5a) – i.e. he suffered death so as to purchase people for God from all nations (v. 5b).

Luke 24:26 Was it not necessary that the Christ should suffer these things and enter into his glory?

Isa 52:13-15 Behold, my servant shall act wisely;^y he shall be high and lifted up, and shall be exalted. ¹⁴*As many were astonished at you— his appearance was so marred, beyond human semblance, and his form beyond that of the children of mankind—* ¹⁵*so shall he sprinkle^z many nations; kings shall shut their mouths because of him; for that which has not been told them they see, and that which they have not heard they understand.*

^y Or shall prosper

^z Or startle

The meaning of “sprinkle” (v. 15) is not altogether clear. Most likely it either means “cleanse” (NLT text note, cf. CEV) or “startle” (ESV text note, NLT, NRSV, cf. NCV). Regarding the remainder of v. 15, such would be or will be the exaltation of the messianic servant that kings will be “speechless with amazement” (GNT) when they see his exaltation, and understand who he is and what he has accomplished. Possibly Christ’s return is in view here.

Isa 53:12 Therefore I will divide him a portion with the many,^a and he shall divide the spoil with the strong,^b because he poured out his soul to death and was numbered with the transgressors; yet he bore the sin of many, and makes intercession for the transgressors.

The segments “a portion with the many” or “with the great” (text note) and “divide the spoil with the strong”, appear to allude to a victorious commander dividing up the spoils of battle. They speak of the messianic servant being given “the honors of one who is mighty and great” (NLT, cf. GNT).

Here Jesus’ death, resurrection and exaltation appear to all be in view. Possibly the glory associated with what Jesus accomplished in his death and resurrection is primarily in view in v. 31, with his subsequent glorification on his ascension then being spoken of in v. 32.

^a Or he has made him sick

^b Or when you make his soul

Note that this verse is from Isaiah 52:13-53:12, which prophesies the sufferings of the Messiah and the resulting atonement for sin. As such it was comprehensively fulfilled in Jesus Christ. It is quoted in the NT more than any other OT passage and a number of verses from it have been included in this chapter (cf. Isa 53:5, 8 ↴).

John 1:29, 36 The next day he saw Jesus coming toward him, and said, "Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!"  ... ³⁶and he looked at Jesus as he walked by and said, "Behold, the Lamb of God!"

The title "the Lamb of God" refers to Jesus being a sin offering, with "of God" implying that he was an offering provided by God.

Rom 3:24-25 ... and are justified by his grace as a gift, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, ²⁵whom God put forward as a propitiation by his blood, to be received by faith. This was to show God's righteousness, because in his divine forbearance he had passed over former sins.

In the NT "propitiation" means to turn away or appease the wrath of God against sinners in their guilt. In light of the phrase "by his blood" and of other translations, it would appear that Paul has in view God sending Jesus as an offering for our sin (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NIV, NLT, NRSV) in order to justifiably avert his wrath. A similar comment can be made re 1 John 4:10 below. Note that the second sentence shows that God's justice requires that sins be punished – with the implication that sins committed under the old covenant were not satisfactorily punished or dealt with, and could not remain as such.

Rom 8:3 For God has done what the law, weakened by the flesh, could not do. By sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh and for sin,^c he condemned sin in the flesh, ...

^c Or and as a sin offering

The alternative rendering in the text note speaks of Jesus being sent "as a sin offering" (cf. AMP, CEV, NASB, NCV, NIV, NLT), as the ESV text itself suggests.

2Cor 5:21 For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.

The verse speaks of Jesus being a perfect offering for sin (cf. NLT), with Jesus himself having had "no sin".

Heb 10:9-10 ... then he added, "Behold, I have come to do your will." He does away with the first in order to establish the second. ¹⁰And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.

This indicates that it was God's will that Jesus Christ be sacrificed, to make people holy.

Heb 7:27 He has no need, like those high priests, to offer sacrifices daily, first for his own sins and then for those of the people, since he did this once for all when he offered up himself.

Heb 9:26b-28 But as it is, he has appeared once for all at the end of the ages to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. ²⁷And just as it is appointed for man to die once, and after that comes judgment, ²⁸*so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal* with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him.

Note that the phrase “the end of the ages” (v. 26b) may be speaking of “when all ages of time are nearing the end” (GNT; cf. CEV). However, some commentators think that the end of the Old Testament period and the beginning of the Messianic Age is in view.

Jesus Christ is the “Lamb” who was sacrificed

See also:

- 1Pet 1:19

References to Jesus as a “Lamb” allude to him being an offering. Possibly the title alludes to the imagery of the suffering Messiah in Isaiah 53:7 below, which in turn may well be based on the use of a lamb in some sin offerings (e.g. Lev 4:32; 5:6). Alternatively, the Passover lamb (cf. 1Cor 5:7 ; Mark 14:12), which was integral to the Israelite’s redemption from Egypt, may primarily be in view. Thus such references speak of Jesus Christ as a sin offering and/or as an offering to pay for redemption. Both meanings are very relevant.

1Cor 5:7 Cleanse out the old leaven that you may be a new lump, as you really are unleavened. For Christ, our Passover lamb, has been sacrificed.

Rev 5:6, 12 And between the throne and the four living creatures and among the elders I saw a Lamb standing, as though it had been slain, with seven horns and with seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent out into all the earth. ... ¹²saying with a loud voice, “Worthy is the Lamb who was slain, to receive power and wealth and wisdom and might and honor and glory and blessing!”

These verses are from a passage describing a vision of Jesus Christ. Although the vision shows Jesus Christ as being very much alive, it speaks of him as appearing to have been slain (v. 6) and even as “the Lamb who was slain” (v. 12; cf. Rev 13:8).

Rev 13:8 ... and all who dwell on earth will worship it, everyone whose name has not been written before the foundation of the world in the book of life of the Lamb who was slain.

Rev 7:14 I said to him, “Sir, you know.” And he said to me, “These are the ones coming out of the great tribulation. They have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

The phrase “the blood of the Lamb” (cf. Rev 12:11 ↓) speaks of Jesus Christ as the “Lamb” who was sacrificed.

Rev 12:11 And they have conquered him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, for they loved not their lives even unto death.

For comment, see the comment on Rev 12:11 – under Note: Further points about the significance of the shedding of Jesus Christ’s blood, p. 595.

Isa 53:7 He was oppressed, and he was afflicted, yet he opened not his mouth; like a lamb that is led to the slaughter, and like a sheep that before its shearers is silent, so he opened not his mouth.

John 1:29, 36 The next day he saw Jesus coming toward him, and said, “Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!” ... ³⁶*and he looked at Jesus as he walked by and said, “Behold, the Lamb of God!”*

‡ The sacrifice of the Passover lamb:

Mark 14:12 And on the first day of Unleavened Bread, when they sacrificed the Passover lamb, his disciples said to him, “Where will you have us go and prepare for you to eat the Passover?”

The Feast of Unleavened Bread is a seven-day feast to commemorate the Israelites’ release and deliverance from Egypt. The sacrificial Passover lamb was a critical part of the feast, in remembrance of the sparing of the Israelites’ firstborn amidst the killing of the Egyptians’ firstborn, which led to the Israelites’ deliverance. For in delivering them (cf. Ex 12), God had commanded the Israelites to slaughter a lamb and put some of the blood on the doorframes of their houses; they were then to eat the meat with unleavened bread, in readiness to hastily leave Egypt. The houses so marked were “passed over” and their firstborn spared. The NT (cf. 1Cor 5:7 ↑) suggests a parallel between the sacrifice of the Passover lamb of the feast, associated with the Israelite’s deliverance from Egypt (along with the sparing of their firstborn), and the sacrifice of Jesus Christ during the time of the feast, with the resultant deliverance from sin.

Jesus Christ was an unblemished offering – being without sin

- Animals brought as offerings were to be without any blemish, p. 389

Just as offerings or sacrifices in the OT had to be perfect (i.e. without defect) in order to be acceptable sacrifices to atone for sin, so it was essential that Christ be perfect in a moral sense (i.e. sinless) in order for him to be a sacrifice for sin.

In his death, Jesus Christ bore our sins

See also:

- Note: Procedures for the Day of Atonement, involving the high priest entering the Most Holy Place, p. 392

In his death Jesus Christ effectively took our sins from us and bore them and their consequences himself. As such his death signified the eradication of the sins that he bore. In this Jesus Christ paralleled and fulfilled the role of the scapegoat on the Day of Atonement (cf. comment on Isa 53:6 below; and the above cross reference). Note that having no sin of his own

(as discussed in the previous subsection) was critical to Jesus Christ being eligible to bear the sins of others.

1Pet 2:24 He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. By his wounds you have been healed. 📖

Isa 53:4-6, 11-12 *Surely he has borne our griefs and carried our sorrows; yet we esteemed him stricken, smitten by God, and afflicted. ⁵But he was wounded for our transgressions; he was crushed for our iniquities; upon him was the chastisement that brought us peace, and with his stripes we are healed. ⁶All we like sheep have gone astray; we have turned—every one—to his own way; and the LORD has laid on him the iniquity of us all. 📖 ... ¹¹Out of the anguish of his soul he shall see^h and be satisfied; by his knowledge shall the righteous one, my servant, make many to be accounted righteous, and he shall bear their iniquities. ¹²Therefore I will divide him a portion with the many,ⁱ and he shall divide the spoil with the strong,^j because he poured out his soul to death and was numbered with the transgressors; yet he bore the sin of many, and makes intercession for the transgressors. 📖*

^h Masoretic Text; Dead Sea Scroll he shall see light

ⁱ Or with the great

^j Or with the numerous

Verses 4-5 in part speak of the Messiah taking the punishment for our sins upon himself, the effect of taking our sins upon himself (vv. 6, 11-12). The phrase “laid on him the iniquity of us all” (v. 6) appears to allude to the High Priest on the Day of Atonement (Lev 16) placing his hands on the scapegoat and confessing Israel’s sins, symbolically placing these sins on it.

Heb 9:28 ... so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him. 📖

This indicates that when Christ first appeared, in his sacrifice he bore the sin of many.

✦ God made Jesus Christ to “be sin”:

2Cor 5:21 For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. 📖

God made Jesus Christ – the only one to have not sinned – to “be sin”. This expression appears to allude or point to Jesus taking our sin upon himself – and with sin, the punishment accorded it.

b) Jesus Christ’s Death and Atonement for Sin

Biblical atonement is where God in his grace accepts an offering or sacrifice of a living being (i.e. its life) as a substitute for the life of a sinner – the person’s life otherwise being required for their sin. As such, God accepts the sacrifice as payment for the person’s sin. The result is that sin is taken away – and so the sinner is forgiven, pronounced righteous and reconciled to God. In conjunction with this, God’s wrath – provoked by sin – is appeased. (These concepts are all spoken of in the following subsections, in regard to Jesus Christ.)

In the OT, people who had sinned brought an animal as an offering of a life, for the priests to sacrifice on their behalf to make atonement for them. Jesus Christ’s offering or sacrifice of himself has a number of striking parallels with this OT practice. Furthermore, his death in fact fulfilled this requirement of the OT law once and for all, making such offerings no longer necessary (cf. With Jesus Christ’s once and for all sacrifice, there is no longer any need to sacrifice for sin, p. 654). The atonement made by Jesus Christ’s death is central to the Christian faith.

Jesus Christ died for us, in place of us, as a substitute for our lives. As such, in giving himself as an offering to God for our sin, he gave his life so that we would not have to forfeit our own lives eternally for our sin and suffer eternal “death”. Instead we can have eternal life, life which extends beyond physical death. Note that because he is the Son of God, Jesus Christ's life is worth infinitely more than our lives, and so his death was an adequate sacrifice for any number of people.

Rom 5:6-8 For while we were still weak, at the right time Christ died for the ungodly. ⁷For one will scarcely die for a righteous person—though perhaps for a good person one would dare even to die— ⁸but God shows his love for us in that while we were still sinners, Christ died for us. 📖

✦ Jesus Christ bore the law's curse for us:

Gal 3:13 Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us—for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who is hanged on a tree”— 📖

The law imposes on people a curse for sinning and breaking the law – meaning that they are doomed (cf. AMP). But Jesus Christ redeemed us from this curse as he removed it from us and took it upon himself – “put himself under that curse” (NCV™) – meaning that he was doomed to die, instead of us.

Jesus Christ's sacrifice of himself for us means that our sins can be forgiven . . .

Isa 53:5 But he was wounded for our transgressions; he was crushed for our iniquities; upon him was the chastisement that brought us peace, and with his stripes we are healed. 📖

By Jesus Christ's “stripes we are healed” – forgiven and so cured of the blemishes of our sin.

In v. 14, “the record of debt that stood against us with its legal demands” appears to portray a record of our sins with the corresponding “legal demands” of the law which we have broken. These have been forgiven through Christ's death on “the cross”.

Heb 9:22, 26b-28 Indeed, under the law almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins. 📖 ... ²⁶ ... But as it is, he has appeared once for all at the end of the ages to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. ²⁷And just as it is appointed for man to die once, and after that comes judgment, ²⁸so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him.

Note that v. 22 underlines the need for Jesus Christ to have died, shedding his blood, in order for our sins to be forgiven.

1Jn 2:12 I am writing to you, little children, because your sins are forgiven for his name's sake.

The reference to sins being forgiven “for his name’s sake” appears to be speaking of sins being forgiven “on account of his name” (NIV®, NRSV). For “his name” encompasses all Christ has himself accomplished – here notably the forgiveness of sins through his death and resurrection.

John 1:29 The next day he saw Jesus coming toward him, and said, “Behold, the Lamb of God, who takes away the sin of the world!

John speaks of Jesus as the offering that God would give to take away the sin of the world.

... and that we can therefore be justified and righteous before God

Isa 53:11 Out of the anguish of his soul he shall see^m and be satisfied; by his knowledge shall the righteous one, my servant, make many to be accounted righteous, and he shall bear their iniquities.

^mMasoretic Text; Dead Sea Scroll he shall see light

In addition to the rendering in the text note, another plausible meaning of “by his knowledge” is: “because of what he has experienced” (NLT). Essentially the second part of the verse means that: in his death the Messiah would bear the iniquities or sins of many, and so by his death he would justify them.

Rom 4:24b-25 Jesus our Lord, ²⁵who was delivered up for our trespasses and raised for our justification.

In raising Jesus Christ to life, God showed his acceptance of Jesus Christ’s sacrifice for sin, for which he was “delivered up for our trespasses”. Thus those who accept his sacrifice as being on their behalf, no longer have their sins counted against them and so are justified.

Rom 5:9 Since, therefore, we have now been justified by his blood, much more shall we be saved by him from the wrath of God.

Rom 5:15-19 But the free gift is not like the trespass. For if many died through one man’s trespass, much more have the grace of God and the free gift by the grace of that one man Jesus Christ abounded for many. ¹⁶And the free gift is not like the result of that one man’s sin. For the judgment following one trespass brought condemnation, but the free gift following many trespasses brought justification. ¹⁷For if, because of one man’s trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ. ¹⁸Therefore, as one trespassⁿ led to condemnation for all men, so one act of righteousness^o leads to justification and life for all men. ¹⁹For as by the one man’s disobedience the many were made sinners, so by the one man’s obedience the many will be made righteous.

ⁿ Or the trespass of one

^o Or the act of righteousness of one

In vv. 15-16 “the gift”, evoked by grace, primarily refers to “the free gift of righteousness” (v. 17) which by God’s grace comes through Jesus Christ, with his sacrifice. Christ’s sacrifice is clearly in view with the expressions “one act of righteousness” (v. 18) and “the one man’s obedience” (v. 19) – and probably also with “the grace of that one man Jesus Christ” (v. 15). The phrase “made righteous” (v. 19) speaks of being deemed righteous and “put right with God” (GNT, cf. NCV, NLT) – rather than referring to a morally righteous character.

2Cor 5:21 For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.

The phrase “become the righteousness of God” means either to: be made “right with God” (NCV™, NLT) or “share the righteousness of God” (GNT). Arguably each of these alternatives is inclusive of the other.

1Cor 1:30 And because of him^p you are in Christ Jesus, who became to us wisdom from God, righteousness and sanctification and redemption, ...

^p Greek And from him

Jesus Christ’s offering is not specifically referred to here and in 6:11 below. But it is understood to be that by which we gain “righteousness” – our status of being right before God (cf. GNT, NCV, NLT) – and by which we are “justified” (1Cor 6:11 ).

1Cor 6:11 And such were some of you. But you were washed, you were sanctified, you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and by the Spirit of our God.

See the comment on 1Jn 2:12 in the previous subsection. Note also that this indicates that the Holy Spirit plays a role in one's justification.

✦ Forgiveness of sins brings salvation:

Luke 1:77 ... to give knowledge of salvation to his people in the forgiveness of their sins, ...

So through Jesus Christ's death we can be reconciled to God . . .

In dying to remove sin – that which causes people to be estranged from God – Jesus Christ has opened the way for people to be reconciled with God.

Rom 5:10-11 For if while we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, now that we are reconciled, shall we be saved by his life. ¹¹More than that, we also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation.

2Cor 5:18-19 All this is from God, who through Christ reconciled us to himself and gave us the ministry of reconciliation; ¹⁹that is, in Christ God was reconciling^a the world to himself, not counting their trespasses against them, and entrusting to us the message of reconciliation.

^a Or God was in Christ, reconciling

Eph 2:16 ... and might reconcile us both to God in one body through the cross, thereby killing the hostility.

The phrase "us both" refers to Jews and Gentiles, who are now both part of Jesus Christ's spiritual body – the "one body". This association with Christ means that both groups can be reconciled to God through what Christ accomplished in his death on the cross.

Col 1:19-22 For in him all the fullness of God was pleased to dwell, ²⁰and through him to reconcile to himself all things, whether on earth or in heaven, making peace by the blood of his cross. ²¹And you, who once were alienated and hostile in mind, doing evil deeds, ²²*he has now reconciled in his body of flesh by his death, in order to present you holy and blameless and above reproach before him*, ...

The phrase "all things" (v. 20) is usually taken to refer to all things in creation, particularly in light of vv. 16-17, but some limit it to "all beings" (CEV). Jesus' death signified the reconciliation of "all things" to God – a reconciliation which will be consummated at the end of the age, but one which is a current reality for believers (v. 22).

1Pet 3:18 For Christ also suffered^r once for sins, the righteous for the unrighteous, that he might bring us to God, being put to death in the flesh but made alive in the spirit, ...

Eph 2:17 And he came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near.

Note that here Paul may be referring to Jesus Christ making peace between Gentiles and Jews, rather than to Christ making peace with God on their behalf. However, even if the former is the case, such peace between them was only made possible by Christ's work in making peace between them and God, i.e. reconciling both of them to God (v. 16a).

✦ A prophecy of Jesus Christ leading us into peace:

Luke 1:78-79 ... because of the tender mercy of our God, whereby the sunrise shall visit us^t from on high⁷⁹ to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.

^t Or when the sunrise shall dawn upon us; some manuscripts since the sunrise has visited us

The reference to the "sunrise" visiting is likely to the coming of the Messiah, who would bring the light of God's salvation. Here peace appears to refer primarily to peace with God – or at least to be inclusive of it.

Thus, Jesus Christ saves people from God's wrath

Rom 5:9 Since, therefore, we have now been justified by his blood, much more shall we be saved by him from the wrath of God.

1Thes 1:10 ... and to wait for his Son from heaven, whom he raised from the dead, Jesus who delivers us from the wrath to come.

1Thes 5:9 For God has not destined us for wrath, but to obtain salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, ...

Rom 3:25 ... [Jesus Christ] whom God put forward as a propitiation by his blood, to be received by faith. This was to show God's righteousness, because in his divine forbearance he had passed over former sins.

As noted earlier, the use of "propitiation" speaks of the wrath of God against guilty sinners being turned away or quenched. Jesus' blood "propitiated" or turned away God's wrath by satisfying God's justice, making a way for people to be forgiven without compromising God's justice and holiness. Bear in mind that "propitiation" is closely associated with atonement. Where "propitiation" is used in this and the following verses, some other translations make reference to Jesus' sacrifice making "atonement" (AMP, NIV, NRSV).

Heb 2:17 Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people.

1Jn 2:2 He is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only but also for the sins of the whole world.

1Jn 4:10 In this is love, not that we have loved God but that he loved us and sent his Son to be the propitiation for our sins.

✦ God's wrath remains on those who do not obey Christ:

John 3:36 Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life; whoever does not obey the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God remains on him.

- Jesus Christ's blood ratified the new covenant, p. 667

References to the shedding of Jesus Christ's blood speak of Jesus Christ's death, as in the preceding subsections. Note that the next chapter section is included in the above cross references. It contains numerous references to Jesus Christ's blood, speaking of its significance in relation to matters concerning redemption.

John 6:53-56 So Jesus said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. ⁵⁴*Whoever feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day.* ⁵⁵*For my flesh is true food, and my blood is true drink.* ⁵⁶*Whoever feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me, and I in him.*

In speaking metaphorically of drinking his blood – and eating his flesh – Jesus is referring to believing in him and depending on his death for eternal life (vv. 53-54). One key reason as to why this is so, is that in so doing we remain spiritually interlocked with him (v. 56), the one who is "the life" (John 1:25; 14:6; 1Jn 1:2).

Eph 2:12-13 ... remember that you were at that time separated from Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. ¹³*But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ.*

As commented earlier on v. 17, "brought near" (v. 13) may well be talking of being brought near to God, as a number of other translations stipulate. But alternatively it may be referring to being brought near to Israel – as the people of God – and "the covenants of promise". Certainly the passage as a whole demonstrates that the Gentiles have been accepted into God's people through the shedding of Jesus Christ's blood.

Heb 9:12, 14 ... he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption.  ... ¹⁴*how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our^u conscience from dead works to serve the living God.*

^u Some manuscripts your

Verse 12 alludes to the High Priest needing to sprinkle blood from sacrifices when he entered the Most Holy Place in the earthly tabernacle in order to make atonement. By the shedding of his blood Jesus Christ similarly entered God's presence – but once and for all, having by his blood obtained eternal redemption. This points to Jesus Christ's ongoing role as high priest for God's people, in which he is always in God's presence to act on their behalf. In v. 14, the meaning of "dead works" is debatable. But the verse does clearly indicate that the shedding of Jesus Christ's blood enables believers to "serve the living God!"

Heb 10:19-22 Therefore, brothers,^v since *we have confidence to enter the holy places by the blood of Jesus,*²⁰ *by the new and living way that he opened for us through the curtain, that is, through his flesh,*²¹ and since we have a great priest over the house of God,²² let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, with our hearts sprinkled clean from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water.

^v Or brothers and sisters

Not only did Jesus Christ himself enter God's presence through the shedding of his blood (cf. Heb 9:12 ↑), through this all God's people can. Verse 20 draws a parallel between the curtain in the temple and Christ's body. Just as the way into God's presence in the temple was through the curtain which cordoned off the Most Holy Place, so the death of Christ's physical body has provided a way into God's presence for all of God's people. In v. 22 "sprinkled" is speaking of being sprinkled with "the blood of Jesus" (v. 19) – alluding to OT rituals signifying cleansing by the sprinkling of the blood of animal sacrifices.

Heb 13:12 So Jesus also suffered outside the gate in order to sanctify the people through his own blood.

1Jn 5:6-8 This is he who came by water and blood—Jesus Christ; not by the water only but by the water and the blood. And the Spirit is the one who testifies, because the Spirit is the truth. ⁷For there are three that testify: ⁸the Spirit and the water and the blood; and these three agree.

The "water" and "blood" are usually taken as references to Jesus' baptism and death (NLT, CEV text note, NCV text note). In refuting a heresy, John uses them as evidence that Jesus Christ, the Son of God, was the truly human person who was baptized and who died. Thus the shedding of Jesus Christ's blood testifies to his humanity.

Rev 12:11 And they have conquered him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, for they loved not their lives even unto death.

This appears to be saying that the believers in question overcame Satan by their belief in and testimony to Jesus Christ's death and its significance. Such an implication is applicable to all believers in their conflict with Satan.

In the OT, references to God redeeming his people generally speak of God saving them or setting them free from oppression. In the NT, references to redemption more specifically involve the concept of setting people free by the payment of a ransom, a payment of comparable value. This reflected the use in NT times of "redeem" to denote the freeing of a slave by a payment. The NT applies such terms to Jesus Christ redeeming or freeing believers from enslavement to sin by giving his life as a ransom.

In regard to atonement – the theme of the preceding section – redemption (the act of redeeming) can be considered an aspect of or another way of describing atonement from sin. In one sense it is a complementary concept.

Jesus Christ gave himself as a ransom for us, to redeem us from sin

Matt 20:28 ... even as the Son of Man came not to be served but to serve, and to give his life as a ransom for many.

1Tim 2:5-6 For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man^w *Christ Jesus,*⁶ who gave himself as a ransom for all, which is the testimony given at the proper time.

^w men and man render the same Greek word that is translated people in verses 1 and 4

1Pet 1:18-19 ... knowing that you were ransomed from the futile ways inherited from your forefathers, not with perishable things such as silver or gold,¹⁹ but with the precious blood of Christ, like that of a lamb without blemish or spot.

The phrase “the futile ways” refers either to: the sinful, pointless way of life of non-Jews (cf. v. 14) – in which case it would be very pertinent to this subsection; or the Jewish way of life under the old covenant.

Rev 5:9 And they sang a new song, saying, “Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation, ...

Eph 1:7 In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace, ...

This indicates that the redemption provided by Jesus Christ’s death encompasses being forgiven for sins.

Heb 9:11-12, 15 But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things that have come,^x then through the greater and more perfect tent (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation) ¹²he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption. ... ¹⁵Therefore he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, since a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions committed under the first covenant.^y

^y The Greek word means both covenant and will; also verses 16, 17

Verse 15 makes reference in particular to sins committed while the first covenant was still in force.

Rev 14:4 It is these who have not defiled themselves with women, for they are virgins. It is these who follow the Lamb wherever he goes. These have been redeemed from mankind as firstfruits for God and the Lamb, ...

This may not expressly refer to being redeemed from sin, but the use of “redeemed” appears to at least allude to it.

‡ The psalmist’s confidence that God would redeem his people from their sins:

Ps 130:7-8 O Israel, hope in the LORD! For with the LORD there is steadfast love, and with him is plentiful redemption. ⁸*And he will redeem Israel from all his iniquities.*

Although the psalmist is unlikely to have been intentionally referring to the Messiah, this hope or prophecy of God fully redeeming his people from their sins was ultimately fulfilled through Jesus Christ.

God’s people have been bought by Jesus Christ’s death . . .

See also:

- God’s people belong to him, p. 765

An implication of believers being redeemed from sin by Jesus Christ’s death is that they have been bought by God and Jesus Christ – to whom they are now slaves (as the following subsection indicates).

Acts 20:28 Pay careful attention to yourselves and to all the flock, in which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to care for the church of God,^z which he obtained with his own blood.^a

^z Some manuscripts of the Lord

^a Or with the blood of his Own

God’s “own blood” refers to that of his own Son, which thus in a sense is his own. The rendering in the second text note suggests more strongly that Jesus Christ and his blood are in view. With “his own blood” he obtained or “purchased” (NASB, NKJV, NLT cf. AMP, CEV, NCV, NIV) his church.

1Cor 6:19b-20 You are not your own, ²⁰*for you were bought with a price.* So glorify God in your body.

Believers have been bought by God – the one whom they should honor (v. 20b) – at the price of the death of his Son. Note that shortly afterwards Paul again remarks, “You were bought with a price” (7:23a).

2Pet 2:1 But false prophets also arose among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you, who will secretly bring in destructive heresies, even denying the Master who bought them, bringing upon themselves swift destruction.

Rev 5:9-10 And they sang a new song, saying, “Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation, ¹⁰*and you have made them a kingdom and priests to our God, and they shall reign on the earth.*”

In ransoming people for God, Jesus Christ effectively “bought people for God” (NCV™; cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NIV). A similar point can be made in 14:4 below re the reference to Christ redeeming people.

Rev 14:4 It is these who have not defiled themselves with women, for they are virgins. It is these who follow the Lamb wherever he goes. These have been redeemed from mankind as firstfruits for God and the Lamb, ...

... They have been freed from sin and are now slaves to God – and Jesus Christ

Rom 6:17-18, 22 But thanks be to God, that you who were once slaves of sin have become obedient from the heart to the standard of teaching to which you were committed, ¹⁸*and, having been set free from sin, have become slaves of righteousness.*  ... ²²*But now that you have been set free from sin and have become slaves of God, the fruit you get leads to sanctification and its end, eternal life.*

Titus 2:13-14 ... waiting for our blessed hope, the appearing of the glory of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ, ¹⁴*who gave himself for us to redeem us from all lawlessness and to purify for himself a people for his own possession who are zealous for good works.*

Jesus Christ has freed us from sin – redeeming us from wickedness and purifying us. Thus we now are his – “his own possession” – as servants or slaves who are zealous in doing good works.

1Cor 7:22 For he who was called in the Lord as a slave is a freedman of the Lord. Likewise he who was free when called is a slave of Christ.

Note that Paul is explaining that slaves should not be troubled by their lack of freedom (cf. v. 21) because as believers they are free in a more significant sense – free from sin and Satan's bondage. By the same token, those who are free people (like all believers) are slaves of Christ.

Eph 6:6, 9 ... not by the way of eye-service, as people-pleasers, but as servants^b of Christ, doing the will of God from the heart,  ... ⁹*Masters, do the same to them, and stop your threatening, knowing that he who is both their Master^c and yours is in heaven, and that there is no partiality with him.*

^b Or slaves; Greek bondservants

^c Greek Lord

As reflected in the text note on v. 6, the Greek for “servants of Christ” is often rendered as “slaves of Christ” (CEV, GNT, NASB, NIV, NLT, NRSV).

1Pet 2:16 Live as people who are free, not using your freedom as a cover-up for evil, but living as servants^d of God.

The phrase “servants of God” has a similar sense to “servants of Christ” above in Ephesians 6:6, indicative of being “God's slaves” (NASB; cf. GNT, NLT).

‡ The Holy Spirit is a mark of God's ownership, guaranteeing our inheritance until the consummation of our redemption:

Eph 1:13-14 In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit, ¹⁴*who is the guarantee^e of our inheritance until we acquire possession of it,^f to the praise of his glory.*

^e Or down payment

^f Or until God redeems his possession

Most other modern translations support the alternative rendering in the ESV text note – “until God redeems his possession”. As such, this verse reflects that the Holy Spirit in each of God's people is his mark of ownership (v. 13), signifying that they belong to God, i.e. that they are God's “possession” (v. 14).

Jesus Christ's death sets us free from sin's control . . .

See also:

- “In” Jesus Christ they are identified with him in his death, resurrection and life – meaning release from sin and the law . . ., p. 783

Sin exercises control over people, whereby people live sinful lives, in a sense bound and led by sin. However Jesus Christ's death sets believers free from sin's control; sin no longer dominates their lives.

Titus 2:13-14 ... waiting for our blessed hope, the appearing of the glory of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ, ¹⁴*who gave himself for us to redeem us from all lawlessness and to purify for himself a people for his own possession who are zealous for good works.*

The phrase “all lawlessness” suggests “every kind of sin” (NLT). Jesus Christ's death redeems or frees us from bondage to all sin.

Rom 6:6-7, 10-11, 14, 17-18 We know that our old self^g was crucified with him in order that the body of sin might be brought to nothing, so that we would no longer be enslaved to sin. ⁷*For one who has died has been set free^h from sin.* ... ¹⁰*For the death he died he died to sin, once for all, but the life he lives he lives to God.* ¹¹*So you also must consider yourselves dead to sin and alive to God in Christ Jesus.* ... ¹⁴*For sin will have no dominion over you, since you are not under law but under grace.* ... ¹⁷*But thanks be to God, that you who were once slaves of sin have become obedient from the heart to the standard of teaching to which you were committed,* ¹⁸*and, having been set free from sin, have become slaves of righteousness.*

^h Greek has been justified

This speaks of believers being freed from sin through Jesus Christ's death in terms of our union with him, in which we participate in his death in a spiritual sense and consequently die to sin. In v. 6, "the body of sin" is a figurative term referring to the "sinful self" (GNT, cf. NCV). Verse 10a appears to be indicating that because Christ died, sin now "has no power over him" (GNT; cf. v. 10b). One implication of this is that Christ has defeated the power of sin (cf. NCV, NLT). This also means that those who are "in Christ" similarly have died to sin (v. 11). In v. 14, "sin will have no dominion over you" is stating that sin will no longer have mastery over us and/or is an exhortation to the readers to not let sin rule them.

Rom 7:23-25 ... but I see in my members another law waging war against the law of my mind and making me captive to the law of sin that dwells in my members. ²⁴*Wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me from this body of death?* ²⁵*Thanks be to God through Jesus Christ our Lord! So then, I myself serve the law of God with my mind, but with my flesh I serve the law of sin.*

The term "body of death" (v. 24) may refer primarily to the sinful nature which brings death. Alternatively the whole person may be in view – including the physical body – which is so dominated by sin (v. 23). Through Jesus Christ and what he had accomplished in his death, God rescues believers from this state (v. 25), thus freeing them from being prisoners of sin.

Rom 8:2-3 For the law of the Spirit of life has set youⁱ free in Christ Jesus from the law of sin and death. ³*For God has done what the law, weakened by the flesh, could not do. By sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh and for sin,^j he condemned sin in the flesh, ...*

ⁱ Some manuscripts me

^j Or and as a sin offering

The "law" (of the Spirit and that of sin and death, v. 2) quite possibly refers to power or authority. Thus v. 2 would be speaking of Jesus Christ setting people free from the power of sin. (For a fuller discussion of this matter, see We have been freed from the law to live by the Holy Spirit, p. 1073.) The final clause of v. 3 indicates that by Jesus Christ's death "God destroyed sin's control over us" (NLT).

1Pet 2:24 He himself bore our sins in his body on the tree, that we might die to sin and live to righteousness. By his wounds you have been healed.

Christ bore our sins, removing them from us and enabling us to no longer live under sin's control – to "stop living for sin" (NCV™) – but rather live dedicated to righteousness. In this sense we have been "healed".

Gal 3:22 But the Scripture imprisoned everything under sin, so that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe.

The reference to "the Scripture" appears to primarily have the law in view. The "promise" most likely is that of righteousness or justification by faith – possibly along with other related concepts (cf. v. 14b). This is granted by faith in Jesus Christ and what he accomplished by his death. The implication is that correspondingly one is released from being a "imprisoned ... under sin".

John 8:31-36 So Jesus said to the Jews who had believed in him, "If you abide in my word, you are truly my disciples,³² and you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free." ³³They answered him, "We are offspring of Abraham and have never been enslaved to anyone. How is it that you say, 'You will become free'?" ³⁴Jesus answered them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, everyone who commits sin is a slave^k to sin. ³⁵The slave does not remain in the house forever; the son remains forever. ³⁶*So if the Son sets you free, you will be free indeed.*

In association with what Jesus' death accomplished, we are set free from slavery to sin through following Jesus' teaching and coming to know the truth.

Note that here and in Revelation 1:5b below, freedom from the consequences of past sin may be more in view than freedom from sin's ongoing control over our actions.

Rev 1:5b To him who loves us and has freed us from our sins by his blood ...

Sin defiles us and makes us spiritually unclean – separating us from God who is holy, set apart from sin and such uncleanness. However, in conjunction with redeeming us and freeing us from sin, Jesus Christ's death purifies us from sin's defilement and the associated spiritually uncleanness. This allows us to be brought to God (as reflected in the following two subsections).

1Jn 1:7 But if we walk in the light, as he is in the light, we have fellowship with one another, and the blood of Jesus his Son cleanses us from all sin.

The word translated “cleanses” has a continuous tense, implying ongoing purification rather than a single act of purification. (cf. NBC) Although Jesus Christ's sacrifice is the only sacrifice needed, the purification from sin that it provides needs to be claimed time and again.

Heb 1:3 He is the radiance of the glory of God and the exact imprint of his nature, and he upholds the universe by the word of his power. After making purification for sins, he sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high, ...

This has Jesus Christ's sacrificial death in view, as the means of providing purification for sins.

Heb 9:13-14 For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctify^m for the purification of the flesh, ¹⁴*how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify ourⁿ conscience from dead works* to serve the living God.

^m Or For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctifies

ⁿ Some manuscripts your

The phrase “purify our conscience” may have at least partly in view purification from sin, through Christ's death. With one's conscience no longer having past sin to deal with, it has been purified from sin and the need to perform “dead works” – quite possibly the ultimately useless rituals of the law – to attempt to address the defilement of sin.

1Pet 1:2 ...according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in the sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience to Jesus Christ and for sprinkling with his blood: May grace and peace be multiplied to you.

The phrase “sprinkling by his blood” probably refers to purification from sin by Christ's blood (cf. GNT, NCV, NLT).

Rev 7:14 I said to him, “Sir, you know.” And he said to me, “These are the ones coming out of the great tribulation. They have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb.

Zec 3:3-5, 8-9 Now Joshua was standing before the angel, clothed with filthy garments. ⁴And the angel said to those who were standing before him, “Remove the filthy garments from him.” And to him he said, “Behold, I have taken your iniquity away from you, and I will clothe you with pure vestments.” ⁵And I said, “Let them put a clean turban on his head.” So they put a clean turban on his head and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the LORD was standing by.  ... ⁸Hear now, O Joshua the high priest, you and your friends who sit before you, for they are men who are a sign: behold, I will bring my servant the Branch. ⁹For behold, on the stone that I have set before Joshua, on a single stone with seven eyes,^o I will engrave its inscription, declares the LORD of hosts, and I will remove the iniquity of this land in a single day.

^o Or facets

The “Branch” (v. 8) signifies the Messiah. The “stone” (v. 9) may signify the Messiah or his priestly/cleansing work, particularly with it having an inscription. For as such it may parallel the plate of gold on the high priest's turban, which was engraved with “Holy to the Lord” (cf. Ex 28:36-38). The promise to “remove the iniquity of this land in a single day” (v. 9) may well refer to Jesus' death on Good Friday, although the day of his return may instead be in view. Particularly if the former is the case, vv. 3-5 probably point to the cleansing and removal of sin affected by Christ's death. In v. 8a, “your friends” are Joshua's fellow-priests. They are “a sign” (v. 8b), “types of what is to come” (AMP), perhaps in that they prefigure Christ's priestly work.

‡ Jesus' washing of his disciples' feet:

John 13:5, 8-10 Then he poured water into a basin and began to wash the disciples' feet and to wipe them with the towel that was wrapped around him.  ... ⁸Peter said to him, “You shall never wash my feet.” Jesus answered him, “If I do not wash you, you have no share with me.” ⁹Simon Peter said to him, “Lord, not my feet only but also my hands and my head!”¹⁰ Jesus said to him, “The one who has bathed does not need to wash, except for his feet,^p but is completely clean. And you^q are clean, but not every one of you.”

^q The Greek words for you in this verse are plural

Particularly as his atoning death was drawing near, in washing and so cleaning his disciples’ feet, Jesus appears to symbolically portray the cleansing that his death would bring – and the need for people to partake of it. Verse 10a may possibly be implying that once one has been saved and completely cleansed of their past sins through Jesus Christ’s death, one then only needs regular confession and cleansing of any sin one may commit – the cleansing made viable by the application of Jesus Christ’s once and for all sacrifice (cf. 1Jn 1:7 ↑).

Thus through Jesus Christ’s death “we are released from the law” – to serve by the Spirit. Note that the phrase “that which held us captive” (v. 6) is understood to be a reference to the law (cf. CEV, NCV, NLT), rather than the sinful nature (v. 5).

Rom 8:2 For the law of the Spirit of life has set you^t free in Christ Jesus from the law of sin and death.

^t Some manuscripts me

As noted earlier, the use of “law” here quite possibly refers to power or authority. However, it may instead refer to the OT law as “the law that brings sin and death” (NCV™). As such this would be speaking of Jesus Christ (and his death) redeeming people from the law and its consequences.

Gal 4:3-5 In the same way we also, when we were children, were enslaved to the elementary principles^u of the world. ⁴But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law, ⁵*to redeem those who were under the law*, so that we might receive adoption as sons.

^u Or elemental spirits; also verse 9

One important aspect of the redemption provided by Jesus Christ, is that we have been redeemed from bondage to the Mosaic Law – which is the sense here of “to redeem those who were under law” (cf. CEV, NLT). As such, we are freed from the law’s regulations and rituals. Regarding the term “the elementary principles” (v. 3), the law may primarily be in view (cf. AMP) – which would fit comfortably with vv. 4-5 (and this subsection). But this interpretation is debatable, with the text note providing one other possibility. For further comment see So through Jesus Christ believers have been released from the law, p. 653.

Gal 3:13 Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us—for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who is hanged on a tree”—

The law imposes on us a curse as a consequence for sinning and breaking the law. But Jesus Christ redeemed us from this curse as he removed it from us and took it upon himself – “put himself under that curse” (NCV™) – by dying for us, in our place.

Gal 3:19, 22-25 Why then the law? It was added because of transgressions, until the offspring should come to whom the promise had been made, and it was put in place through angels by an intermediary. ... ²²But the Scripture imprisoned everything under sin, so that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe. ²³Now before faith came, we were held captive under the law, imprisoned until the coming faith would be revealed. ²⁴So then, the law was our guardian until Christ came, in order that we might be justified by faith. ²⁵But now that faith has come, we are no longer under a guardian, ...

The law was only ever to be the authority over God’s people until Jesus Christ came (v. 19a), when faith in Jesus Christ’s death would supersede it as the way for God’s people to be justified (v. 22). Now that this is the case, believers have been released from the law's supervision (v. 25), no longer "captive under the law" (v. 23; cf. vv. 24-25) nor by sin (v. 22a) which held sway under the law.

Gal 5:1 For freedom Christ has set us free; stand firm therefore, and do not submit again to a yoke of slavery. 📖

By his death, Jesus Christ has set God's people free from the burden of the yoke of the law.

Heb 2:14-15 Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that *through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil,*¹⁵ and deliver all those who through fear of death were subject to lifelong slavery. 📖

By his death Jesus Christ has set us "free" (AMP, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NRSV) from the fear of the primary consequence of the law and sin – death (v. 15), effectively foiling Satan and nullifying the power of death (v. 14).

1Pet 1:18-19 ... knowing that *you were ransomed from the futile ways inherited from your forefathers, not with perishable things such as silver or gold,*¹⁹ but with the precious blood of Christ, like that of a lamb without blemish or spot. 📖

As noted earlier, "futile ways" may refer to the Jewish way of life under the old covenant and law, a way of life which was ultimately pointless and futile – useless for gaining salvation. As such, these two verses would be pertinent to this subsection.

✦ The law gives sin its power – but God gives victory through Jesus Christ:

1Cor 15:56-57 The sting of death is sin, and *the power of sin is the law.*⁵⁷ But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ. 📖

The "victory" is victory over the otherwise inevitable products of the law – sin and death.

1Pet 3:21 Baptism, which corresponds to this, now saves you, not as a removal of dirt from the body but as an appeal to God for a good conscience, through the resurrection of Jesus Christ, . . . 📖

The "appeal to God for a good conscience" may be an appeal to God: to enable one to live before him with a clear conscience; and/or for forgiveness of past sins that leave one with a guilty conscience. Some other translations use "from" instead of "for", which opens up other possibilities – e.g. that Peter is speaking of a commitment to live in accordance with God's will as governed by "a good conscience". With any of these meanings, in making such an appeal in baptism we are saved by Christ's resurrection – the culmination of his saving work – with our baptism being an acknowledgement of this, signifying our faith in Christ's saving work.

Rom 5:9-10 Since, therefore, we have now been justified by his blood, much more shall we be saved by him from the wrath of God. ¹⁰For if while we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, now that we are reconciled, shall we be saved by his life.

By Jesus Christ's death believers are presently justified and reconciled to God. Following on from this, through what Jesus Christ does for them in his life – him having been resurrected – they can be assured of salvation. But note that while the phrase "saved by his life" (v. 10) may well refer to Jesus Christ's present life and ministry for believers, some commentators interpret it as referring to believers being saved through their sharing in Christ's resurrected life in their union with him. These two concepts themselves are somewhat intertwined.

Rom 10:9 ... because, if you confess with your mouth that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved.

The fact that God's raising of Jesus Christ is one of the key things we are to believe to be saved, implies that Christ's resurrection is critical to our salvation.

Acts 26:23 ... that the Christ must suffer and that, by being the first to rise from the dead, he would proclaim light both to our people and to the Gentiles.

Here "light" refers to the "light of salvation" (GNT). The verse suggests that without Jesus Christ's resurrection there would be no "light of salvation".

Rom 6:4-5, 8-11 We were buried therefore with him by baptism into death, in order that, just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might walk in newness of life. ⁵For if we have been united with him in a death like his, we shall certainly be united with him in a resurrection like his.  ... ⁸Now if we have died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him. ⁹*We know that Christ, being raised from the dead, will never die again; death no longer has dominion over him.* ¹⁰For the death he died he died to sin, once for all, but the life he lives he lives to God. ¹¹*So you also must consider yourselves dead to sin and alive to God in Christ Jesus.*

Believers have a "newness of life" (v. 4b), in effect a new life. This is: a spiritual life, identified with Jesus Christ's resurrection and life (vv. 4-8, 11); a life lived in union with Jesus Christ (vv. 5, 8, 11); a life free of the controlling power of sin (vv. 10-11); and a life lived for God (vv. 10-11). This new life is an integral part of salvation, even identifiable with it. Without Jesus Christ's resurrection this new life – and all these aspects of it – would not be a reality.

Jesus Christ's resurrection is linked to the forgiveness of sins and justification

Acts 5:30-31 The God of our fathers raised Jesus, whom you killed by hanging him on a tree. ³¹God exalted him at his right hand as Leader and Savior, to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins.

Without Jesus Christ's resurrection he could not have subsequently been exalted as Savior (and Leader), which is here implied as being integral to God's people being given repentance and forgiveness.

Acts 13:37-39 ... but he whom God raised up did not see corruption. ³⁸*Let it be known to you therefore, brothers, that through this man forgiveness of sins is proclaimed to you, ³⁹and by him everyone who believes is freed^v from everything from which you could not be freed by the law of Moses.*

^v Greek justified; twice in this verse

"Let it be known to you therefore" (v. 38a) appears to indicate that forgiveness of sins (v. 38b) and justification (v. 39, cf. text note) are based on or confirmed by Jesus Christ's resurrection (v. 37), it being affirmation that he was the promised Messiah (cf. vv. 30-36), who in his death would effect such outcomes.

Rom 4:25 ... who was delivered up for our trespasses and raised for our justification.

The clause "raised for our justification" may well mean that Christ was raised to secure our justification. Alternatively, mirroring the earlier use of "for our", it may be saying that he was raised "because of our" (NASB) justification – which could infer that our justification had been secured by his death. In either case, this verse points to God showing his acceptance of Jesus Christ's sacrifice for sin by raising him to life, thus signifying our justification. As such, God's resurrection of Jesus Christ validated or affirmed Christ's sacrifice as being acceptable for the sin of humankind.

1Cor 15:17 And if Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile and you are still in your sins.

Without Jesus Christ's resurrection we would not be forgiven for our sins – nor justified; our faith would be useless. One reason put forward by commentators as to why this is the case is that in raising Jesus, God signified that he accepted Jesus Christ's sacrifice for sins (as per the above comment on Romans 4:25).

Rom 8:34 Who is to condemn? Christ Jesus is the one who died—more than that, who was raised—who is at the right hand of God, who indeed is interceding for us.^w

^w Or Is it Christ Jesus who died . . . for us?

Not being open to condemnation is of course a concept related to being forgiven and justified, not having any sin to be charged with. Jesus Christ's resurrection is a key factor in why believers can be confident of being free of condemnation – and of continuing to be free of it. For without his resurrection Jesus Christ would not be now "at the right hand of God, ... interceding for us". Jesus Christ's role as the appointed judge – the one who will condemn the guilty – may also be in view here. Both of these are critical factors, along with his death, as to why Christians are not open to condemnation.

Jesus Christ's resurrection was essential for our resurrection

See also:

- As God raised Jesus Christ from the dead, God will also raise his people, p. 733

Jesus Christ's resurrection was vital to our salvation in part at least due to it being essential for our own resurrection.

John 14:19 Yet a little while and the world will see me no more, but you will see me. Because I live, you also will live.

A number of commentators understand the last statement to be primarily referring to – or at least encompassing – resurrection life; i.e. they take it to indicate that Jesus Christ's resurrection guarantees the resurrection of believers. It could also be a reference to spiritual life, that believers share in now.

1Cor 15:18-23 Then [if Christ has not been raised] those also who have fallen asleep in Christ have perished. ¹⁹If in Christ we have hope^x in this life only, we are of all people most to be pitied. ²⁰*But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep.* ²¹*For as by a man came death, by a man has come also the resurrection of the dead.* ²²*For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive.* ²³*But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ.*

^x Or we have hoped

The "firstfruits" (vv. 20, 23) alludes to the firstfruits of the harvest which were offered to God. As well as preceding the rest of the harvest, they were seen as a confirmation that the rest would take place. Here the term is applied to Christ, as like the firstfruits of the harvest, his resurrection precedes and is an assurance of the resurrection of all believers. The concept is reflected in similar expressions elsewhere in the NT (cf. Acts 26:23 ↓).

Phil 3:10-11 ... that I may know him and the power of his resurrection, and may share his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, ¹¹*that by any means possible I may attain the resurrection from the dead.*

Here Paul speaks of the power of Jesus Christ's resurrection (v. 10a) as a significant factor in himself being able to be resurrected from the dead (v. 11).

1Thes 4:14 For since we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so, through Jesus, God will bring with him those who have fallen asleep.

Jesus' resurrection is essential for God to raise and bring to himself "through Jesus" believers who have died. The verse also suggests that if we do not believe that Jesus rose from death, we have no reason to believe that God will raise others.

2Tim 1:10 ... and which now has been manifested through the appearing of our Savior Christ Jesus, who abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel, ...

In part at least it was through Jesus Christ's resurrection that the power of death was abolished, producing life and immortality for believers.

1Pet 1:3-4 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴*to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you,* ...

Because of Jesus Christ's resurrection we have a "living hope" (v. 3) of an inheritance (v. 4) – which encompasses our own resurrection and eternal life.

Acts 26:23 ... that the Christ must suffer and that, by being the first to rise from the dead, he would proclaim light both to our people and to the Gentiles.

In saying that the Christ would be the "first" to rise from the dead, this points to the necessity of his resurrection for the resurrection of God's people – which will follow in due course. The verse also speaks of Christ's resurrection as being key to "the light of salvation" (GNT), which is inclusive of the resurrection of God's people.

Matt 27:52-53 The tombs also were opened. And many bodies of the saints who had fallen asleep were raised, ⁵³*and coming out of the tombs after his resurrection they went into the holy city and appeared to many.*

The resurrection of these saints after Jesus Christ's resurrection may have been to signify his victory over death – for which his resurrection was paramount – and the firm hope of resurrection for God’s people.

‡ If Christ has not been raised, our witnessing and faith are useless:

1Cor 15:14-15, 17 And if Christ has not been raised, then our preaching is in vain and your faith is in vain. ¹⁵We are even found to be misrepresenting God, because we testified about God that he raised Christ, whom he did not raise if it is true that the dead are not raised. ... ¹⁷And if Christ has not been raised, your faith is futile and you are still in your sins. 📖

Note that in regard to the importance of Christ’s resurrection for our faith, it can similarly be inferred from 1 Peter 1:21 that it was because God raised Jesus (and glorified him) that we can have faith and hope in God – “[You saints] who through him are believers in God, who raised him from the dead and gave him glory, so that your faith and hope are in God.”

Jesus Christ’s death and resurrection were a triumph over Satan and evil

See also:

- Jesus came to destroy Satan’s power and work, p. 512

John 12:31-33 Now is the judgment of this world; now will the ruler of this world be cast out. ³²And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people to myself.” ³³He said this to show by what kind of death he was going to die. 📖

As vv. 32-33 indicate, v. 31 refers to Jesus’ imminent death, by which Satan would be defeated (v. 31b) – with Jesus’ death and resurrection nullifying Satan’s power over people through sin and death (cf. Heb 2:14 ↓). The “judgment of this world” (v. 31a) possibly is primarily referring to the defeat of its “ruler”, Satan (cf. NLT), meaning that the world as his domain would correspondingly be overcome by Christ and condemned for its values and ways. Another possibility is that it refers to the world’s guilt in rejecting Jesus – shown ultimately in its impending crucifixion of him – and its consequent judgment, with the latter in a sense foreshadowed in Christ’s victory over it by his resurrection.

Heb 2:14 Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil, ... 📖

The term “destroy” has the sense “break the power of” (NLT).

1Jn 3:8b The reason the Son of God appeared was to destroy the works of the devil. 📖

This largely has Jesus Christ’s death and resurrection in view as that by which he destroyed the devil’s work in seeking to bring destruction on humankind.

Rev 12:10 And I heard a loud voice in heaven, saying, “Now the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of his Christ have come, for the accuser of our brothers^y has been thrown down, who accuses them day and night before our God.” 📖

^y Or brothers and sisters

Commentators differ on whether this refers to Jesus Christ’s victory over Satan by his death and resurrection – correlated with Satan’s defeat in heaven (cf. vv. 7-9); or to a final expulsion of Satan from heaven in the last days. The first interpretation would make the verse pertinent to this subsection.

John 16:33 I have said these things to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation. But take heart; I have overcome the world. 📖

As Jesus said this in the hours prior to his death, it is quite possibly largely a reference to his death and subsequent resurrection – by which he triumphed over all that is evil in the world. Alternatively – or in conjunction with the above – he may have had his sinless life and/or his ministry in view, in which he prevailed over the ways of the world and evil powers.

Eph 4:8 Therefore it says, “When he ascended on high he led a host of captives, and he gave gifts to men.” 📖

Here “captives” is most likely being applied to Christ’s evil spiritual enemies – whom he triumphed over in his death and resurrection, culminating in him ascending “on high” with them subject to him.

Col 2:15 He disarmed the rulers and authorities^z and put them to open shame, by triumphing over them in him.^a 📖

^z Probably demonic rulers and authorities

^a Or in it (that is, the cross)

The reference here is probably to God (cf. AMP, NCV, NLT) triumphing over evil spiritual powers by Jesus Christ’s death, God being the one who orchestrated it. But note that some interpret this to be speaking of Jesus Christ as the one who triumphed over evil (cf. CEV, GNT)

Gen 3:15 I will put enmity between you [the serpent] and the woman, and between your offspring^b and her offspring; he shall bruise your head, and you shall bruise his heel. 📖

^b Hebrew seed; so throughout Genesis

Generally this is seen as more than just a description of the enmity that would exist between humans and snakes. The offspring of the woman is thought to represent human beings and God's people in particular, with the offspring of the serpent symbolizing those controlled by Satan, including demons. The prophecy in the second half of the verse is ultimately fulfilled in Christ's victory over Satan through his death and resurrection.

John 1:4-5 In him was life,^c and the life was the light of men. ⁵The light shines in the darkness, and the darkness has not overcome it.

^c Or was not any thing made. That which has been made was life in him

Here "darkness" may be referring to this world's sin and unbelief and/or spiritual powers of darkness. If it is inclusive of the latter, then the fact that the darkness did not overcome the light that Jesus brought is reflective of him triumphing over evil.

✦ By his death Jesus Christ rescues people from evil:

Gal 1:4 ... who gave himself for our sins to deliver us from the present evil age, according to the will of our God and Father, ...

Through dying for our sins, Jesus Christ delivers believers from the power of the present evil world system (cf. Gal 6:14). Colossians 1:13 similarly refers to God rescuing people from evil: "He has delivered us from the domain of darkness ..."

Note: Jesus Christ's resurrection affirmed significant things about him

John 13:19 I am telling you this now, before it takes place, that when it does take place you may believe that I am he.

It appears that "before it takes place" refers to Jesus' death – with the preceding events – and his resurrection. In addition to the importance of his death and resurrection themselves in showing who Jesus was, the fact that he predicted them also substantiated his claims. Note that while "I am he" (cf. 8:38) may be a reference to God's name, implying Jesus' oneness with God, more likely Jesus is meaning that he is the Messiah – the one for whom the Jews were waiting.

Acts 2:29-33 Brothers, I may say to you with confidence about the patriarch David that he both died and was buried, and his tomb is with us to this day. ³⁰Being therefore a prophet, and knowing that God had sworn with an oath to him that he would set one of his descendants on his throne, ³¹he foresaw and spoke about the resurrection of the Christ, that he was not abandoned to Hades, nor did his flesh see corruption. ³²This Jesus God raised up, and of that we all are witnesses. ³³Being therefore exalted at the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you yourselves are seeing and hearing.

In vv. 30-31, Peter asserts that David had spoken (cf. vv. 35-38) of the Christ being resurrected to assume the Davidic throne, as the descendant whom God had promised David would be placed on his throne. In vv. 32-33, Peter implies that God's resurrection of Jesus and his subsequent exaltation of Jesus to his right hand (pointing to Jesus' enthronement) shows him to be the one – the Christ. Note that in v. 33 Peter may be speaking of the manifestation of the Holy Spirit that Jesus had promised, as evidence of Jesus' enthronement at God's right hand.

Acts 13:30-37 But God raised him from the dead, ³¹and for many days he appeared to those who had come up with him from Galilee to Jerusalem, who are now his witnesses to the people. ³²And we bring you the good news that what God promised to the fathers, ³³this he has fulfilled to us their children by raising Jesus, as also it is written in the second Psalm, "You are my Son, today I have begotten you." ³⁴And as for the fact that he raised him from the dead, no more to return to corruption, he has spoken in this way, "I will give you the holy and sure blessings of David." ³⁵Therefore he says also in another psalm, "You will not let your Holy One see corruption." ³⁶For David, after he had served the purpose of God in his own generation, fell asleep and was laid with his fathers and saw corruption, ³⁷but he whom God raised up did not see corruption.

Similar to Peter in 2:29-33 above, here Paul asserts that God fulfilled OT promises regarding the Messiah by raising up Jesus Christ – thus confirming by his resurrection that Jesus Christ is the Messiah. The quotation in v. 33 in its original context is a reference to a Davidic king's coronation, in which the king entered into a unique relationship with God – reflective of God's promise to David regarding one of his sons (cf. 2Sam 7:14). Most likely Paul is implying that it has been ultimately fulfilled in God's resurrection of Jesus Christ, in which God in a sense begot or gave life to him and subsequently exalted him as Lord of all. Similarly the two quotations that follow it (vv. 34, 35) point to the promised blessings to David (cf. 2Sam 7) that would ultimately come to and through David's messianic descendant, the Christ. He would be the one who God would "not let... see corruption" (v. 35) – a prophecy fulfilled in Jesus Christ (v. 37).

Rom 1:4 ... and was declared to be the Son of God in power according to the Spirit of holiness by his resurrection from the dead, Jesus Christ our Lord, ...

Paul's argument here may be that to rise from the dead as Jesus Christ did could only be possible for the Son of God, the Messiah, in accordance with messianic prophecies (cf. Isa 52:13-15; 53:10-12). Alternatively Paul may be meaning that Jesus Christ's resurrection from the dead validated his claims that he would rise from the dead, and thereby gave credence to his other claims, in particular here his claim to be the Son of God.

Rom 6:9 We know that Christ, being raised from the dead, will never die again; death no longer has dominion over him.

Col 1:18 And he is the head of the body, the church. He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in everything he might be preeminent.

Christ is the "beginning" of a whole new order as he was the first to rise from among the dead to never die again. As the founder of this new creation he is first not only chronologically but also in primacy, both of which are indicated by the term "the firstborn".

Acts 17:31 ... because he has fixed a day on which he will judge the world in righteousness by a man whom he has appointed; and of this he has given assurance to all by raising him from the dead.

In the second part of the verse, Paul may be meaning that by raising Jesus Christ, God validated Christ's claims that God would judge the world through him (cf. John 5:22-23a, 27). For in raising Christ, God firstly validated Christ's claim that he would rise from the dead and consequently gave credibility to all Christ's other claims.

✚ Jesus Christ's resurrection was necessary for him to be Lord of all:

Rom 14:9 For to this end Christ died and lived again, that he might be Lord both of the dead and of the living.

II. Salvation for the World

Prior to Jesus Christ's mission, God dealt primarily with Israel, as his people. What Jesus Christ accomplished had momentous implications for all people – notably in making God's salvation, with eternal life, freely available to every person in the world. An associated outcome is that people from all nations can readily become one of God's own people.

God through Jesus Christ: saves us from his own wrath (v. 9b), justifying us by Christ's death (v. 9a); reconciles us to him (vv. 10-11); and brings our salvation to completion (v. 10b).

‡ Zechariah's prophecy that God would redeem and save his people through Jesus Christ:

Luke 1:68-79 "Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has visited and redeemed his people ⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David, ⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old, ⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us; ⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant, ⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us ⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies, might serve him without fear, ⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days. ⁷⁶And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High; for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways, ⁷⁷to give knowledge of salvation to his people in the forgiveness of their sins, ⁷⁸because of the tender mercy of our God, whereby the sunrise shall visit us ^c from on high ⁷⁹to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace."

^c Or when the sunrise shall dawn upon us; some manuscripts since the sunrise has visited us

The salvation spoken of here is inclusive of both spiritual salvation and salvation from the oppression of enemies (vv. 71, 74) – ultimately fulfilled by the final deliverance of God's people on Jesus Christ's return. The term "horn of salvation" (v. 69) refers to Jesus Christ. Verses 76-79 speak of God's salvation coming through Jesus Christ's mission in both John the Baptist's preparatory work (v. 77; cf. CEV, NCV, Nlrv, NLT) and Jesus himself (vv. 78-79).

References to Jesus Christ as "Savior" generally have in view him being the Savior of the world.

Jesus Christ's role as Savior in respect to Israel – as mentioned here and in 13:23 immediately below – is readily applicable to the world.

God is our Savior (v. 3) in conjunction with Jesus Christ (v. 4), for God planned, initiated and oversaw Jesus Christ's saving work. Additionally, through Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit, God brings the believer's salvation to fulfillment. Note that as well as in Titus 3:4 below, the phrase "God our Savior" is also used in the NT in 1 Timothy 1:1; 2:3; Titus 2:10; and Jude 1:25.

Titus 3:4-7 But when the goodness and loving kindness of God our Savior appeared, ⁵he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, ⁶whom he poured out on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, ⁷so that being justified by his grace we might become heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

The description of God as “the Savior of all people” implies that his salvation is open to all people of the world, although it only comes to fruition for “those who believe”.

We can only be saved through Jesus Christ

Acts 4:12 And there is salvation in no one else, for there is no other name under heaven given among men by which we must be saved.

John 14:6 Jesus said to him, “I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.”

The first statement is understood by some commentators to mean that: Jesus is the way to the Father because he is the truth and the life. The second statement emphatically states that he is the only way to God, one implication of which is that Jesus is the only source of salvation.

1Tim 2:5-6 For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man^h Christ Jesus, ⁶*who gave himself as a ransom for all*, which is the testimony given at the proper time.

^h men and man render the same Greek word that is translated people in verses 1 and 4

As suggested by v. 6, the most significant part of Jesus Christ's exclusive role as the “one mediator” (v. 5) was giving himself as a ransom to mediate peace between God and humankind. Thus this portrays him as the sole provider of salvation.

John 6:68 Simon Peter answered him, “Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life, ...”

Peter acknowledged that the way to eternal life was found exclusively in Jesus' message; there was no one else to go to for it.

John 10:7-9 So Jesus again said to them, “Truly, truly, I say to you, I am the door of the sheep. ⁸*All who came before me are thieves and robbers*, but the sheep did not listen to them. ⁹*I am the door. If anyone enters by me, he will be saved and will go in and out and find pasture*.

Verse 8 is probably referring to the numerous false Messiahs who had come previously and/or to the supposed spiritual leaders such as the Pharisees. In v. 9, Jesus claims to be the only “door” leading into salvation, through which one can find “pasture” – the provision of one's needs.

Acts 16:30-31 Then he brought them out and said, “Sirs, what must I do to be saved?” ³¹*And they said, “Believe in the Lord Jesus, and you will be saved, you and your household.”*

Paul and Silas's reply to the question posed suggests that one can only be saved through Jesus Christ.

1Cor 3:11 For no one can lay a foundation other than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ.

Jesus Christ alone is the foundation of the Christian faith and all it entails, including salvation.

✦ Life comes only through Jesus Christ:

1Jn 5:12 Whoever has the Son has life; whoever does not have the Son of God does not have life. 📖

The “bottom line” is that: those who have a right relationship with Jesus Christ have eternal, spiritual life; those who do not have this relationship with him, do not have life.

✦ A further reference to the culmination of the salvation of believers:

Phil 1:28 ...and not frightened in anything by your opponents. This is a clear sign to them of their destruction, but of your salvation, and that from God. 📖

b) Life through Jesus Christ

The “life” spoken of in the NT that Jesus Christ provides is often referred to as spiritual life. It involves being “alive to God” (Rom 6:11), with God’s Holy Spirit indwelling us, renewing and nourishing us. With this, we have a spiritual consciousness that enables us to live in communion with and in dependence on God, eternally. This spiritual life is only attainable through Jesus Christ and what he has accomplished.

God provides life through Jesus Christ

John 3:16 For God so loved the world,ⁱ that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. 📖

ⁱ Or For this is how God loved the world

John 6:40 For this is the will of my Father, that everyone who looks on the Son and believes in him should have eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day.

God's will – which he has determined and implemented – is that those believe in Jesus Christ will have eternal life.

John 17:2 ... since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him.

Here Jesus Christ speaks of God granting him such authority so as to provide eternal life through him.

Rom 5:17 For if, because of one man's trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ.

For comment on "reign in life", see the comment on 614 – under Through Jesus Christ we can have eternal life as opposed to death, p. 614.

Rom 6:23 For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

1Jn 4:9 In this the love of God was made manifest among us, that God sent his only Son into the world, so that we might live through him.

1Jn 5:11-13, 20 And this is the testimony, that God gave us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. ¹²Whoever has the Son has life; whoever does not have the Son of God does not have life. ¹³I write these things to you who believe in the name of the Son of God that you may know that you have eternal life. ... ²⁰And we know that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding, so that we may know him who is true; and we are in him who is true, in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life.

The last statement of v. 20 could be referring to Jesus Christ, but more likely God. In either case, the verse as a whole supports the assertion that God provides life through Jesus Christ.

John 4:10 Jesus answered her, "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is that is saying to you, 'Give me a drink,' you would have asked him, and he would have given you living water."

The "gift of God" probably refers to the "living water", although Jesus could be in view as the one through whom God has provided the "living water". The "living water" is spiritual water – signifying either that which gives spiritual life or spiritual life itself. If it is the former it may well primarily refer to Jesus' teaching, inclusive of his claims and substantiated by what he was to accomplish. Note that in 7:38-39 Jesus uses the term "living water" to refer to the Holy Spirit.

John 12:49-50 For I have not spoken on my own authority, but the Father who sent me has himself given me a commandment—what to say and what to speak. ⁵⁰And I know that his commandment is eternal life. What I say, therefore, I say as the Father has told me.

God's "commandment" (v. 50) is usually understood here to refer to the commands that he gave Jesus to teach, rather than to his commanding Jesus what to say (v. 49). Either way these verses show that God has provided eternal life through Jesus Christ teaching what God told him to.

✦ God has enabled Jesus Christ to have life in himself:

John 5:26 For as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted the Son also to have life in himself.

This indicates that Jesus has intrinsic life. The implication in this context is that – like his Father – Jesus is "the source of life" (GNT) with "the power to give life" (CEV).

Jesus Christ gives spiritual life

John 1:4 In him was life,^j and the life was the light of men.

^j Or was not any thing made. That which has been made was life in him

"In him was life" is possibly here referring primarily to physical life (cf. v. 3). However even if this is the case, it still is probably also alluding to spiritual or eternal life, as being brought by Jesus Christ.

John 5:21 For as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, so also the Son gives life to whom he will.

John 6:33, 35 For the bread of God is he who comes down from heaven and gives life to the world." ... ³⁵Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life; whoever comes to me shall not hunger, and whoever believes in me shall never thirst.

Here Jesus speaks of himself as the source of spiritual life. The phrases "shall not hunger" and "shall not thirst" speak of him satisfying one's spiritual needs, supplying what is needed for spiritual life.

John 8:12 Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life."

Those who follow Jesus do not live in falsehood and ignorance, but have the light or truth that produces spiritual life.

John 10:10 The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy. I came that they may have life and have it abundantly.

John 14:6 Jesus said to him, “I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.”

Descriptions of Jesus Christ as “the life” point to him as the source or way of life – the one who brings life.

John 20:31 ... but these are written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name.

Acts 3:15 ... and you killed the Author of life, whom God raised from the dead. To this we are witnesses.

The phrase “the author of life” could be referring to Jesus Christ’s role in creation, but more likely it has in view his role in giving spiritual and eternal life.

Eternal life encompasses the spiritual life that Christians experience now, as well as its developed form of the afterlife. (As such the verses in the previous subsection are also relevant to this subsection.) Having said this, often references to “eternal life” have the afterlife primarily in view.

Note that eternal life is more than just eternal existence, which all will have. In the afterlife it will involve: having a glorified and spiritual “body” or form; being perfectly holy; and a very perceptible experience of God, in which believers will live in God’s actual presence, in constant fellowship with him.

John 4:13-14 Jesus said to her, “Everyone who drinks of this water will be thirsty again, ¹⁴but whoever drinks of the water that I will give him will never be thirsty again.^k The water that I will give him will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life.”

Regarding “the water that I will give” see the comment on John 4:10 – above in God provides life through Jesus Christ.

John 6:27a Do not labor for the food that perishes, but for the food that endures to eternal life, which the Son of Man will give to you.

That “which the Son of Man will give to you” appears to be the “food” (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, Nlrv) that leads to eternal life, rather than being a direct reference to eternal life. The food is ultimately Jesus himself – “the bread of life” (v. 35 ). As such it is inclusive of Jesus’ teaching (cf. v. 68 ) , as supported by what he accomplished in his mission. To obtain this spiritual food one must believe in Jesus, believing what he taught and claimed about himself (cf. comment on vv. 48-58 ).

John 6:68 Simon Peter answered him, “Lord, to whom shall we go? You have the words of eternal life, ...”

Jesus has the words or message of the way to eternal life.

John 14:19 Yet a little while and the world will see me no more, but you will see me. Because I live, you also will live.

The last statement is most likely primarily speaking of Jesus’ resurrection ensuring or leading to the resurrection of believers and subsequently life ever after.

John 17:2-3 ... since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him. ³*And this is eternal life, that they know you the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent.*

As is implied in v. 3, eternal life involves living in fellowship with God (cf. 1Jn 5:20) and Jesus Christ, the means of eternal life.

Jude 1:21 ... keep yourselves in the love of God, waiting for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ that leads to eternal life.

Through Jesus Christ we can have eternal life as opposed to death

See also:

- They have passed from their former state of spiritual death to spiritual life, p. 855

The punishment or price for sin is ultimately eternal “death”, costing us eternal life. But by giving his life in dying for our sins, Jesus Christ has paid this price for us. He gave his life as a substitute for our lives, that we might live eternally rather than suffer eternal “death”.

Note that in addition to verses speaking of eternal “death”, there are verses in this subsection that speak more generally of spiritual death, in the present life and/or the afterlife.

John 3:16, 36 For God so loved the world,¹ that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life. ... ³⁶*Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life; whoever does not obey the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God remains on him.*

John 5:21, 24-25 For as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, so also the Son gives life to whom he will. ... ²⁴*Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life. He does not come into judgment, but has passed from death to life.* ²⁵*Truly, truly, I say to you, an hour is coming, and is now here, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear will live.*

Verse 21 seems to be drawing a parallel between God raising the physically dead to life and Jesus giving spiritual life to the spiritually dead. Jesus’ raising of the physically dead, particularly that of all people at the end of the age, is presumably also encompassed. In v. 25 “the dead” may well be the spiritually dead; the time had come when such people could hear Jesus’ words and come to spiritual life.

John 6:48-58 I am the bread of life. ⁴⁹*Your fathers ate the manna in the wilderness, and they died.* ⁵⁰*This is the bread that comes down from heaven, so that one may eat of it and not die.* ⁵¹*I am the living bread that came down from heaven. If anyone eats of this bread, he will live forever. And the bread that I will give for the life of the world is my flesh.* ⁵²The Jews then disputed among themselves, saying, “How can this man give us his flesh to eat?” ⁵³So Jesus said to them, “Truly, truly, I say to you, unless you eat the flesh of the Son of Man and drink his blood, you have no life in you. ⁵⁴*Whoever feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day.* ⁵⁵*For my flesh is true food, and my blood is true drink.*

⁵⁶Whoever feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me, and I in him. ⁵⁷As the living Father sent me, and I live because of the Father, so whoever feeds on me, he also will live because of me. ⁵⁸*This is the bread that came down from heaven, not like the bread^m the fathers ate and died. Whoever feeds on this bread will live forever.*

^m Greek lacks the bread

There are two subtly different but interrelated interpretations of what Jesus meant when he spoke metaphorically of eating of him, the bread of life. One is that it simply means to believe in him and depend on his death, for eternal life. The other is that it means to partake of Jesus Christ – including following him, trusting him and living in fellowship with him – for the sustenance of one’s life, which likewise leads to eternal life.

John 10:28 I give them eternal life, and they will never perish, and no one will snatch them out of my hand.

John 11:25-26 Jesus said to her, “*I am the resurrection and the life.*ⁿ Whoever believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, ²⁶*and everyone who lives and believes in me shall never die. Do you believe this?”*

ⁿ Some manuscripts omit and the life

Jesus is the one through whom resurrection and life come (v. 25a). Those who believe in him will live even though they die physically (v. 25b). At a spiritual level they will never die (v. 26a), but will live eternally.

Rom 5:17-18, 20-21 For if, because of one man’s trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ. ¹⁸*Therefore, as one trespass^o led to condemnation for all men, so one act of righteousness^p leads to justification and life for all men.* ... ²⁰Now the law came in to increase the trespass, but where sin increased, grace abounded all the more, ²¹so that, as sin reigned in death, grace also might reign through righteousness leading to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.

^p Or the act of righteousness of one

The phrase “reign in life” (v. 17) is understood by many to refer to the future reign that believers will participate in through Jesus Christ, but the context indicates that it could more specifically be referring to their “triumph over sin and death” (NLT), pointing also to spiritual life in the present. In v. 21, Paul speaks firstly of sin reigning, having the power of death, with all people under its reign and facing death. Paul then speaks of God’s grace taking hold of people with them being made “right with God” (NirV®; cf. AMP, NCV, NLT) to bring them to eternal life through Jesus Christ.

Rom 6:23 For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

2Tim 1:9-10 ... who saved us and called us to^a a holy calling, not because of our works but because of his own purpose and grace, which he gave us in Christ Jesus before the ages began,^r ¹⁰and which now has been manifested through the appearing of our Savior Christ Jesus, who abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel, ...

^a Or with

^r Greek before times eternal

By his resurrection Jesus Christ has “ended the power of death” (GNT, cf. NLT), and those who put their faith in what he has accomplished will have life after death, with immortality.

^s Or when the sunrise shall dawn upon us; some manuscripts since the sunrise has visited us

The “sunrise” refers to the Messiah. The phrase “who sit in darkness” probably refers to people living in the darkness of their sins. The subsequent phrase, “in the shadow of death”, may well then be speaking of people living under the prospect of eternal “death”, the consequence of their sins. The light given by the Messiah would save people from this.

John 8:51 Truly, truly, I say to you, if anyone keeps my word, he will never see death.

Those who follow Jesus’ teaching will not see “death”, i.e. the conclusive and irrevocable destruction of the afterlife.

1Cor 15:54-57 When the perishable puts on the imperishable, and the mortal puts on immortality, then shall come to pass the saying that is written: “Death is swallowed up in victory.” ⁵⁵*“O death, where is your victory? O death, where is your sting?”* ⁵⁶*The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law.* ⁵⁷*But thanks be to God, who gives us the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.*

Through Jesus Christ believers are given victory over death (vv. 54-55, 57). The “sting” of death – its “power to hurt” (GNT) – comes from sin; sin’s potency in turn comes from the consequent condemnation of the sinner by the law (v. 56). So with the law no longer being what determines a believer’s righteousness – because of what Jesus Christ accomplished – death no longer has a “sting” for believers.

Heb 2:14-15 Since therefore the children share in flesh and blood, he himself likewise partook of the same things, that through death he might destroy the one who has the power of death, that is, the devil, ¹⁵*and deliver all those who through fear of death were subject to lifelong slavery.*

By destroying or breaking the power of the devil (cf. NLT) – the one who holds the power of death – Jesus Christ saves people from the power of death and frees them from enslavement caused by their fear of death. This enslavement may refer to being encumbered and stifled by a fear of death, or possibly to enslavement to Satan as the one who wields the power of death.

Note: The book of life

On occasions the Bible makes reference to “the book of life”. In this book are listed only the names of those who will receive eternal life. Those whose names are not written in the book of life, instead of having eternal life, will suffer spiritual death.

Phil 4:3 Yes, I ask you also, true companion,^t help these women, who have labored side by side with me in the gospel together with Clement and the rest of my fellow workers, whose names are in the book of life.

^t Or loyal Syzygus; Greek true yokefellow

Rev 3:5 The one who conquers will be clothed thus in white garments, and I will never blot his name out of the book of life. I will confess his name before my Father and before his angels.

Rev 13:7b-8 And authority was given it [the first beast] over every tribe and people and language and nation, ⁸and all who dwell on earth will worship it, everyone whose name has not been written before the foundation of the world in the book of life of the Lamb who was slain.

The reference to the book of life “of the Lamb” (cf. Rev 21:27 ) appears to imply that Jesus Christ has authority over it, determining whose names are included in it or omitted from it (cf. Rev 3:5 ).

Rev 20:12, 15 And I saw the dead, great and small, standing before the throne, and books were opened. Then another book was opened, which is the book of life. And the dead were judged by what was written in the books, according to what they had done.  ... ¹⁵*And if anyone’s name was not found* written in the book of life, he was thrown into the lake of fire.

Rev 21:27 But nothing unclean will ever enter it, nor anyone who does what is detestable or false, but only those who are written in the Lamb's book of life.

This speaks of entry into the new Jerusalem of the afterlife.

Ps 69:28 Let them be blotted out of the book of the living; let them not be enrolled among the righteous.

Wicked people are spoken of here.

Ex 32:32-33 But now, if you will forgive their sin—but if not, please blot me out of *your book that you have written.*³³ But the LORD said to Moses, "Whoever has sinned against me, I will blot out of my book."

The "book" is understood to be the same one referred to in the other verses in this subsection.

Dan 12:1-2 At that time shall arise Michael, the great prince who has charge of your people. And there shall be a time of trouble, such as never has been since there was a nation till that time. But at that time *your people shall be delivered, everyone whose name shall be found written in the book.*² And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt.

Generally commentators interpret v. 1 to be referring to the end days as a time of distress primarily for God's people, with the reign of the antichrist quite possibly in view (cf. 11:36). The eternal deliverance of those whose names are "written in the book" is probably in view (cf. vv. 2-3), bringing "everlasting life" (v. 2).

✦ Believers' names are "written in heaven":

Luke 10:20 Nevertheless, do not rejoice in this, that the spirits are subject to you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven.

Similarly Hebrews 12:23 speaks of "the assembly of the firstborn who are enrolled in heaven."

The term "Jew" basically refers to the descendants of the people of the former Israelite kingdom of Judah. In NT times these people largely lived in the southern part of the land of Israel. The term "Gentiles" refers to non-Jewish people.

In OT times it was firstly only the Israelites, then after the Babylonian captivity more specifically the Jews, who were "God's people" and as such knew of God's salvation. But through Jesus Christ's mission, God has made salvation open to the Gentiles.

God has extended his salvation to the Gentiles

Luke 3:6 ... and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

Acts 13:26, 47-48 "Brothers, sons of the family of Abraham, and those among you who fear God, to us has been sent the message of this salvation. ...⁴⁷ For so the Lord has commanded us, saying, *"I have made you a light for the Gentiles, that you may bring salvation to the ends of the earth."*⁴⁸ And when the Gentiles heard this, they began rejoicing and glorifying the word of the Lord, and as many as were appointed to eternal life believed.

In v. 26, "those among you who fear God" refers to Gentiles, in contrast to "sons of the family of Abraham" which refers to Jews. In v. 47 Paul applies God's words to the Messiah to his own work, his work being part of the fulfillment of God's plan to bring salvation to the Gentiles through the Messiah.

Acts 28:28 Therefore let it be known to you that this salvation of God has been sent to the Gentiles; they will listen.^u ☞

^u Some manuscripts add verse 29: And when he had said these words, the Jews departed, having much dispute among themselves

Rom 1:16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who believes, to the Jew first and also to the Greek. ☞

The use of "Greek" in comparison to "Jews" (v. 23) denotes Gentiles.

Rom 11:11 So I ask, did they stumble in order that they might fall? By no means! Rather through their trespass salvation has come to the Gentiles, so as to make Israel jealous. ☞

Rev 7:9-10 After this I looked, and behold, a great multitude that no one could number, from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages, standing before the throne and before the Lamb, clothed in white robes, with palm branches in their hands, ¹⁰*and crying out with a loud voice, "Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!"* ☞

This strongly suggests that this great multitude "from every nation, from all tribes and peoples and languages" (v. 9) – largely Gentiles – had been granted God's salvation (v. 10).

Acts 10:10-15, 28, 34-35 And he became hungry and wanted something to eat, but while they were preparing it, he fell into a trance ¹¹and saw the heavens opened and something like a great sheet descending, being let down by its four corners upon the earth. ¹²In it were all kinds of animals and reptiles and birds of the air. ¹³And there came a voice to him: "Rise, Peter; kill and eat." ¹⁴But Peter said, "By no means, Lord; for I have never eaten anything that is common or unclean." ¹⁵And the voice came to him again a second time, "What God has made clean, do not call common." ☞ ... ²⁸And he [Peter] said to them, "You yourselves know how unlawful it is for a Jew to associate with or to visit anyone of another nation, but God has shown me that I should not call any person common or unclean." ☞ ... ³⁴So Peter opened his mouth and said: "Truly I understand that God shows no partiality, ³⁵*but in every nation anyone who fears him and does what is right is acceptable to him.*" ☞

Peter's vision revealed God had granted the Gentiles salvation. The vision showed firstly that God's people were to no longer follow the OT stipulations regarding unclean food (vv. 12-15), but the greater applications that Peter was soon to learn were that Jews were no longer to view Gentiles as unclean (v. 28) and that God accepts all people (vv. 34-35).

Acts 11:18 When they heard these things they fell silent. And they glorified God, saying, "Then to the Gentiles also God has granted repentance that leads to life." ☞

Acts 15:3, 12 So, being sent on their way by the church, they passed through both Phoenicia and Samaria, describing in detail the conversion of the Gentiles, and brought great joy to all the brothers.^v ☞ ... ¹²And all the assembly fell silent, and they listened to Barnabas and Paul as they related what signs and wonders God had done through them among the Gentiles. ☞

^v Or brothers and sisters; also verse 22

The fact that Gentiles had been converted (v. 3) and that God's miraculous signs and wonders had been performed among the Gentiles (v. 12), reflect that God had extended his salvation to the Gentiles. Note that similarly to v. 12, 21:19 says, "After greeting them, he related one by one the things that God had done among the Gentiles through his ministry."

✚ Jesus Christ sent Paul to the Gentiles, to turn them to God, so that they might be forgiven and sanctified:

Acts 26:16-18 But rise and stand upon your feet, for I have appeared to you for this purpose, to appoint you as a servant and witness to the things in which you have seen me and to those in which I will appear to you, ¹⁷delivering you from your people and from the Gentiles—to whom I am sending you ¹⁸*to open their eyes, so that they may turn from darkness to light and from the power of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and a place among those who are sanctified by faith in me.* ☞

God has provided salvation for the Gentiles through Jesus Christ . . .

Luke 2:27-32 And he came in the Spirit into the temple, and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him according to the custom of the Law, ²⁸he took him up in his arms and blessed God and said, ²⁹"Lord, now you are letting your servant^w depart in peace, according to your word; ³⁰for my eyes have seen your salvation ³¹*that you have prepared in the presence of all peoples,* ³²*a light for revelation to the Gentiles,* and for glory to your people Israel." ☞

Rom 1:4-5 ... and was declared to be the Son of God in power according to the Spirit of holiness by his resurrection from the dead, Jesus Christ our Lord, ⁵*through whom we have received grace and apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith for the sake of his name among all the nations,* ... ☞

Through Jesus Christ believers, like Paul, have received from God the ministry of calling people from among all the Gentiles to faith and obedience – which lead to salvation. Particularly if the phrase “through whom” has in view what Jesus Christ has accomplished (cf. NlrV), this reflects that God has provided salvation for the Gentiles through Jesus Christ.

Rom 10:12-13 For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek; for the same Lord is Lord of all, bestowing his riches on all who call on him. ¹³For “everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved.”

Arguably the context indicates that “Lord” is most likely referring to Jesus Christ (cf. v. 9). Salvation comes to both Jews and Gentiles through calling on Christ’s name – which involves looking to him in faith, believing what the gospel says of him.

Rom 15:8-12 For I tell you that Christ became a servant to the circumcised to show God’s truthfulness, in order to confirm the promises given to the patriarchs, ⁹*and in order that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy.* As it is written, “Therefore I will praise you among the Gentiles, and sing to your name.” ¹⁰And again it is said, “Rejoice, O Gentiles, with his people.” ¹¹And again, “Praise the Lord, all you Gentiles, and let all the peoples extol him.” ¹²And again Isaiah says, “The root of Jesse will come, even he who arises to rule the Gentiles; in him will the Gentiles hope.”

Christ’s ministry to the Jews was to confirm God’s promises to the patriarchs (v. 8), particularly the promise that they would be a blessing to all nations. The prime blessing that would come by them would be salvation through the Messiah. So the Gentiles would both praise God and rejoice with the Jews over the fulfillment of these promises (vv. 9-11), and put their hope – presumably primarily hope for salvation – in the Messiah (v. 12).

1Cor 1:21, 23-24 For since, in the wisdom of God, the world did not know God through wisdom, it pleased God through the folly of what we preach to save those who believe. ... ²³*but we preach Christ crucified,* a stumbling block to Jews and folly to Gentiles, ²⁴*but to those who are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God.*

God saves people through belief in the message of Jesus Christ and his death (vv. 21, 23). As such Jesus Christ is the power and wisdom of God for salvation for both Jews and Gentiles (v. 24).

Gal 3:13-14 *Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us—*for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who is hanged on a tree”— ¹⁴*so that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promised Spirit^x through faith.*

^x Greek receive the promise of the Spirit

The blessing given to Abraham is most likely justification by faith (cf. vv. 6-9) – a key aspect of salvation. Through Christ and his redemptive work (v. 13), this blessing has come to the Gentiles (v. 14).

Col 1:27 To them God chose to make known how great among the Gentiles are the riches of the glory of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.

Jesus Christ’s spiritual presence with every believer, including Gentiles, gives them the real hope of sharing through him in the glory of the afterlife – and thus also having salvation.

... Jesus Christ died for all people

Jesus died for all people, making it possible for anyone to be saved.

John 6:51 I am the living bread that came down from heaven. If anyone eats of this bread, he will live forever. And the bread that I will give for the life of the world is my flesh.

2Cor 5:14-15 For the love of Christ controls us, because we have concluded this: that one has died for all, therefore all have died; ¹⁵*and he died for all,* that those who live might no longer live for themselves but for him who for their sake died and was raised.

The usages of “all” here may refer to all people. If this is so, “one has died for all, therefore all have died” (v. 14) would mean that as Jesus Christ died on behalf of all, his substitutionary death is applicable to all people – “all share in his death” (GNT) – although it must still be appropriated by each individual. Some however interpret “all” as referring only to all believers. This would mean that “all died” (v. 14) is then either referring to only believers sharing in his death, or to believers dying to their old sinful selves – “we have all died to the old life we used to live” (NLT).

1Tim 2:5-6 For there is one God, and there is one mediator between God and men, the man^y Christ Jesus, ⁶*who gave himself as a ransom for all,* which is the testimony given at the proper time.

^y men and man render the same Greek word that is translated people in verses 1 and 4

Heb 2:9 But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone.

Note that “so that” appears to continue on from Jesus being “for a little while was made lower than the angels” rather than to him being “crowned with glory and honor”.

1Jn 2:2 He is the propitiation for our sins, and not for ours only but also for the sins of the whole world.

Rev 5:9 And they sang a new song, saying, “Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation, ...

The inclusion of this verse in this subsection needs to be qualified. This verse is not necessarily implying that Jesus died for all people, only actually saying that he died for people from all nations. As such, it may be in the same vein as John 11:51-52, speaking of all of God’s people of all nationalities rather than simply all people.

2Pet 2:1 But false prophets also arose among the people, just as there will be false teachers among you, who will secretly bring in destructive heresies, even denying the Master who bought them, bringing upon themselves swift destruction.

This speaks of the false teachers – who presumably are not truly believers – as being bought by Christ’s death. As such this suggests that Jesus Christ paid the price to redeem every person, including those who fail to recognize and accept his redemption.

✦ By his death Jesus drew all people to himself:

John 12:32-33 And I, when I am lifted up from the earth, will draw all people to myself. ³³He said this to show by what kind of death he was going to die.

Verse 32 most likely means that when Jesus was “lifted up on the cross” (NLT), he would draw people – or in effect begin to draw people – from all nations to himself for salvation.

Acts 14:1, 27 Now at Iconium they entered together into the Jewish synagogue and spoke in such a way that a great number of both Jews and Greeks believed. ... ²⁷And when they arrived and gathered the church together, they declared all that God had done with them, and how he had opened a door of faith to the Gentiles.

Acts 21:20, 25 And when they heard it, they glorified God. And they said to him, “You see, brother, how many thousands there are among the Jews of those who have believed. They are all zealous for the law, ... ²⁵But as for the Gentiles who have believed, we have sent a letter with our judgment that they should abstain from what has been sacrificed to idols, and from blood, and from what has been strangled,^z and from sexual immorality.”

^z Some manuscripts omit and from what has been strangled

As with 14:1 above, this indicates that many Gentiles as well as Jews believed, adhering to God’s way of faith – indicative of it being made open to both Gentiles and Jews.

Acts 15:9 ... and he made no distinction between us and them, having cleansed their hearts by faith.

The phrase “us and them” refers to Jews and Gentiles – as do “the circumcised... and the uncircumcised” in Romans 3:30 below.

Rom 3:22-24, 29-30 ... the righteousness of God through faith in Jesus Christ for all who believe. For there is no distinction: ²³for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, ²⁴and are justified by his grace as a gift, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, ... ²⁹Or is God the God of Jews only? Is he not the God of Gentiles also? Yes, of Gentiles also, ³⁰since God is one—who will justify the circumcised by faith and the uncircumcised through faith.

Rom 10:8-13 But what does it say? “The word is near you, in your mouth and in your heart” (that is, the word of faith that we proclaim); ⁹because, if you confess with your mouth that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. ¹⁰For with the heart one believes and is justified, and with the mouth one confesses and is saved. ¹¹For the Scripture says, “Everyone who believes in him will not be put to shame.” ¹²For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek; for the same Lord is Lord of all, bestowing his riches on all who call on him. ¹³For “everyone who calls on the name of the Lord will be saved.”

Gal 3:8, 13-14 And the Scripture, foreseeing that God would justify^a the Gentiles by faith, preached the gospel beforehand to Abraham, saying, “In you shall all the nations be blessed.” ... ¹³Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us—for it is written, “Cursed is everyone who is hanged on a tree”—¹⁴so that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promised Spirit^b through faith.

^b Greek receive the promise of the Spirit

The blessing given to Abraham (v. 14) most likely refers to justification by faith (v. 8). Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law (v. 13) – the former way to righteousness and justification, which is in contrast to the way of faith (cf. vv. 9-12). Christ did this in order that the blessing of justification by faith might come to the Gentiles through him (v. 14).

The gospel about Jesus Christ is preached also to the Gentiles . . .

Mark 13:10 And the gospel must first be proclaimed to all nations.

Acts 13:26 Brothers, sons of the family of Abraham, and those among you who fear God, to us has been sent the message of this salvation.

As noted earlier, in this context “those among you who fear God” is referring to Gentiles.

Acts 26:19-20 Therefore, O King Agrippa, I was not disobedient to the heavenly vision,²⁰ but declared first to those in Damascus, then in Jerusalem and throughout all the region of Judea, and also to the Gentiles, that they should repent and turn to God, performing deeds in keeping with their repentance.

Rom 15:15-19 But on some points I have written to you very boldly by way of reminder, because of the grace given me by God¹⁶ to be a minister of Christ Jesus to the Gentiles in the priestly service of the gospel of God, so that the offering of the Gentiles may be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.¹⁷ In Christ Jesus, then, I have reason to be proud of my work for God.¹⁸ For I will not venture to speak of anything except what Christ has accomplished through me to bring the Gentiles to obedience—by word and deed,¹⁹ by the power of signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God—so that from Jerusalem and all the way around to Illyricum I have fulfilled the ministry of the gospel of Christ; ...

Illyricum (v. 19) was a province of the Roman Empire, north of Macedonia. In preaching the gospel “from Jerusalem and all the way around to Illyricum”, Paul preached in numerous predominantly Gentile cities.

Gal 2:7-8 On the contrary, when they saw that I had been entrusted with the gospel to the uncircumcised, just as Peter had been entrusted with the gospel to the circumcised⁸ (for he who worked through Peter for his apostolic ministry to the circumcised worked also through me for mine to the Gentiles), ...

2Tim 4:17a But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it.

. . . Through the gospel Gentiles come to faith

Acts 13:47-48 For so the Lord has commanded us, saying, “I have made you a light for the Gentiles, that you may bring salvation to the ends of the earth.”⁴⁸ And when the Gentiles heard this, they began rejoicing and glorifying the word of the Lord, and as many as were appointed to eternal life believed.

Acts 15:7 And after there had been much debate, Peter stood up and said to them, “Brothers, you know that in the early days God made a choice among you, that by my mouth the Gentiles should hear the word of the gospel and believe.

Acts 26:17-18 ... delivering you from your people and from the Gentiles—to whom I am sending you¹⁸ to open their eyes, so that they may turn from darkness to light and from the power of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and a place among those who are sanctified by faith in me.

Here Paul reiterates Christ’s commission to him to take the gospel to the Gentiles to enlighten them and turn them to God (v. 18a), so that they would be forgiven and sanctified by faith in Christ (v. 18b).

Rom 1:4b-5, 14-17 ... Jesus Christ our Lord,⁵ through whom we have received grace and apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith for the sake of his name among all the nations,  ...¹⁴ I am under obligation both to Greeks and to barbarians,^c both to the wise and to the foolish.¹⁵ So I am eager to preach the gospel to you also who are in Rome.¹⁶ For I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who believes, to the Jew first and also to the Greek.¹⁷ For in it the righteousness of God is revealed from faith for faith,^d as it is written, “The righteous shall live by faith.”^e

^c That is, non-Greeks

^d Or beginning and ending in faith

^e Or The one who by faith is righteous shall live

Paul again is speaking of his call to preach the gospel about Jesus Christ (cf. vv. 1-3, 9) to the Gentiles, so that by believing it they would be saved (v. 16), made righteous by faith (v. 17). Note that “Greeks and barbarians” (v. 14) refers here to the Gentiles as being either of cultured Greek ways or uncultured, i.e. non-Greeks (cf. text note). Presumably Paul expected to find both categories of Gentiles at Rome (v. 15).

Rom 16:25-26 Now to him who is able to strengthen you according to my gospel and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery that was kept secret for long ages ²⁶but has now been disclosed and through the prophetic writings has been made known to all nations, according to the command of the eternal God, to bring about the obedience of faith—

1Cor 1:21, 23-24 For since, in the wisdom of God, the world did not know God through wisdom, it pleased God through the folly of what we preach to save those who believe. ... ²³*but we preach Christ crucified*, a stumbling block to Jews and folly to Gentiles, ²⁴*but to those who are called, both Jews and Greeks, Christ the power of God and the wisdom of God.*

As noted earlier, this indicates that God saves people through belief in the message of Jesus Christ and his death (vv. 21, 23). As such Jesus Christ is the power and wisdom of God for salvation for both Jews and Gentiles (v. 24) who believe.

God has given the Holy Spirit to the Gentiles as well as to Jews

Acts 10:44-46a While Peter was still saying these things, the Holy Spirit fell on all who heard the word. ⁴⁵And the believers from among the circumcised who had come with Peter were amazed, because the gift of the Holy Spirit was poured out even on the Gentiles. ⁴⁶*For they were hearing them speaking in tongues and extolling God.*

Acts 11:15-17 As I began to speak, the Holy Spirit fell on them just as on us at the beginning. ¹⁶And I remembered the word of the Lord, how he said, ‘John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with the Holy Spirit.’ ¹⁷*If then God gave the same gift to them as he gave to us when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I that I could stand in God’s way?*

Here and in 15:8 immediately below, Peter speaks of the events of 10:44-46a above, where Jewish believers witnessed the Holy Spirit being given also to Gentiles who believed.

Acts 15:8 And God, who knows the heart, bore witness to them, by giving them the Holy Spirit just as he did to us, ...

Rom 15:16 ... to be a minister of Christ Jesus to the Gentiles in the priestly service of the gospel of God, so that the offering of the Gentiles may be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.

Being “sanctified by the Holy Spirit” involves receiving the Holy Spirit. Thus this verse implies that God has given the Holy Spirit to the Gentiles.

1Cor 12:13 For in one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—Jews or Greeks, slaves^f or free—and all were made to drink of one Spirit.

^f Or servants; Greek bondservants

Gal 3:14 ... so that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promised Spirit^g through faith.

^g Greek receive the promise of the Spirit

Christ brought redemption (cf. v.13) in order that justification by faith would come to the Gentiles through him, so that all – including Gentiles – might receive the promised Holy Spirit.

‡ The promise of the Holy Spirit for repentant Jews and Gentiles:

Acts 2:38-39 And Peter said to them, “Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. ³⁹*For the promise is for you and for your children and for all who are far off, everyone whom the Lord our God calls to himself.*”

The “promise” (v. 39) is that of the Holy Spirit (cf. AMP), here promised to not only repentant Jews but also to “all who are far off” (v. 39), which probably refers to Gentiles.

In v. 14 James is referring to God earlier saving some Gentiles through Simon Peter's preaching to them (vv. 7-9; Acts 10:34-35 ↑). He then appears to use a quotation that ultimately refers to the end of the age (vv. 16-18) to affirm that what Peter had described – along with the general concept of the Gentiles coming to God (v. 19) – is consistent with the Scriptures.

These verses provide evidence that people from among the Gentiles have been accepted by God as being of his people along with Jews, in that: God gave the Gentiles the Holy Spirit just as he did to Jews (v. 8) making no distinction between Gentiles and Jews (v. 9); God had not long before taken some Gentile people for himself through Peter (vv. 7-9, 14); there are Gentiles who are called by God's name (v. 17); and Gentiles are said to have turned to God (v. 19).

Rom 9:22-26 What if God, desiring to show his wrath and to make known his power, has endured with much patience vessels of wrath prepared for destruction,²³ in order to make known the riches of his glory for *vessels of mercy, which he has prepared beforehand for glory—*²⁴ *even us whom he has called, not from the Jews only but also from the Gentiles?*²⁵ *As indeed he says in Hosea, "Those who were not my people I will call 'my people,' and her who was not beloved I will call 'beloved.'"*²⁶ "And in the very place where it was said to them, 'You are not my people,' there they will be called 'sons of the living God.'"

In vv. 25-26 Paul quotes from Hosea to show that from among the Gentiles who formerly were not God's people, would now be those who God would call his people (cf. 1Pet 2:10 ↓).

1Pet 2:9-10 But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession, that you may proclaim the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light.¹⁰ Once you were not a people, but now you are God's people; once you had not received mercy, but now you have received mercy.

Peter was writing to readers who were predominantly Gentiles.

Rom 15:10 And again it is said, "Rejoice, O Gentiles, with his people."

This speaks of the Gentiles rejoicing “together with his people” (NCV™; cf. AMP, NLT), arguably pointing to them now being part of “his people”, i.e. part of God’s people.

2Cor 6:16 What agreement has the temple of God with idols? For we are the temple of the living God; as God said, “I will make my dwelling among them and walk among them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.” 📖

Most of Paul’s letters were written to churches composed basically of Gentiles, as was the church at Corinth. So references to them being God’s people – as in this verse – illustrate that Gentiles are included in the people of God. The same can be said of expressions such as “God’s chosen ones” (Col 3:12 ↓).

Col 3:12 Put on then, as God’s chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassionate hearts, kindness, humility, meekness, and patience, ... 📖

Rom 16:4 ... who risked their necks for my life, to whom not only I give thanks but all the churches of the Gentiles give thanks as well. 📖

The forming of churches by Gentiles illustrates that they had become part of the people of God.

Jesus Christ has made Jews and Gentiles one

John 10:16 And I have other sheep that are not of this fold. I must bring them also, and they will listen to my voice. So there will be one flock, one shepherd. 📖

The “other sheep that are not of this fold” are the Gentiles, who are not of Judaism.

John 11:50-52 Nor do you understand that it is better for you that one man should die for the people, not that the whole nation should perish.” ⁵¹He did not say this of his own accord, but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus would die for the nation [of Israel], ⁵²and not for the nation only, but also to gather into one the children of God who are scattered abroad. 📖

Eph 2:11-20 Therefore remember that at one time you Gentiles in the flesh, called “the uncircumcision” by what is called the circumcision, which is made in the flesh by hands— ¹²remember that you were at that time separated from Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. ¹³*But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ. ¹⁴For he himself is our peace, who has made us both one and has broken down in his flesh the dividing wall of hostility ¹⁵by abolishing the law of commandments expressed in ordinances, that he might create in himself one new man in place of the two, so making peace, ¹⁶and might reconcile us both to God in one body through the cross, thereby killing the hostility. ¹⁷And he came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near. ¹⁸For through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father. ¹⁹So then you are no longer strangers and aliens,ⁱ but you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, ²⁰built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the cornerstone, ...* 📖

ⁱ Or sojourners

The references to “peace” and “hostility” in vv. 14-16 are quite possibly referring to that between Gentiles and Jews, rather than between them and God; this may also be the case with “peace” in v. 17. However, having said this, this peace between them was only made possible by Christ’s work in making peace between them and God, i.e. in reconciling both of them to God (v. 16a).

Note that “brought near” (v. 13) may be referring to being brought near to Israel and “the covenants of the promise”, as per the theme of the following subsection. Alternatively, as a number of other translations stipulate, it may be talking of being brought near to God. Even if the latter interpretation is correct, the passage is still very pertinent to the following subsection (as it is to this subsection) indicating that believing Gentiles now have “citizenship in Israel” (NIV® vv. 12, 19).

Eph 3:6 This mystery is^j that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel. 📖

^j The words This mystery is are inferred from verse 4

Note that commentators differ somewhat on what “the promise” refers to, but it does seem clear that it is a promise relating to the saving work of the Messiah – in which Gentile believers share in together with Jewish believers.

Col 3:11 Here there is not Greek and Jew, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave,^k free; but Christ is all, and in all. 📖

^k Greek bondservant

“Christ is all, and in all” points to Christ as being that which unifies his people. He is “all that matters” (CEV, NLT); all the distinctions previously referred to become irrelevant, no longer forming any kind of barrier. Note that in addition to

"Greek", Gentiles are also referred to here by the terms "uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian" – with the latter two speaking of uncivilized Gentiles in particular, in contrast to "Greek".

Rev 5:9-10 And they sang a new song, saying, "Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation, ¹⁰*and you have made them a kingdom* and priests to our God, and they shall reign on the earth."

Jesus Christ has formed people "from every tribe and language and people and nation" into one kingdom.

Gentiles have been included in the true "Israel" . . .

Gal 6:15-16 For neither circumcision counts for anything, nor uncircumcision, but a new creation. ¹⁶And as for all who walk by this rule, peace and mercy be upon them, and upon the Israel of God.

The term "Israel of God" (v. 16) refers to those who are "a new creation" (v. 15b). It stands in contrast with circumcision (v. 15a) – the sign of God's old covenant with Israel, in which they were his people. As such the term alludes to a new "Israel" – "the new people of God" (NLT), "God's true people" (CEV). This new people of God is composed not just of believing Israelites or Jews, but believing Gentiles as well.

Rom 2:28-29 For no one is a Jew who is merely one outwardly, nor is circumcision outward and physical. ²⁹But a Jew is one inwardly, and circumcision is a matter of the heart, by the Spirit, not by the letter. His praise is not from man but from God.

Verse 29 may be saying that any person can be considered a "true Jew" (NCV™, NLT; cf. AMP, CEV, GNT) if they are one "inwardly" – and so these verses would be rightly included in this subsection. On the other hand it may be speaking of only Jews, differentiating between those who inwardly manifest all that Jews ought to be and those who are only outwardly Jews. Note that "letter" (v. 29) is a reference to the "the written Law" (GNT; cf. CEV), which is visible and "outward", in contrast to the Spirit.

Rom 11:17-18 But if some of the branches were broken off, and you, although a wild olive shoot, were grafted in among the others and now share in the nourishing root¹ of the olive tree, ¹⁸do not be arrogant toward the branches. If you are, remember it is not you who support the root, but the root that supports you.

The natural olive "root" represents Israel, particularly the patriarchs with whom Israel's relationship with God was established. The "wild olive shoot" represents Gentile believers accepted into the true, spiritual Israel (i.e. God's people).

Rom 15:27 For they were pleased to do it, and indeed they owe it to them. For if the Gentiles have come to share in their spiritual blessings, they ought also to be of service to them in material blessings.

That the Gentiles have now been accepted into the true "Israel" is reflected here by the fact that they now share in the Jews' spiritual blessings.

Rev 7:4 And I heard the number of the sealed, 144,000, sealed from every tribe of the sons of Israel: . . .

The phrase "every tribe of the sons of Israel" – here sealed for protection against forthcoming judgments – may be symbolic of the whole church as the new, spiritual Israel (which would mean that the verse is relevant to this subsection). Alternatively actual Jewish believers may be in view.

Ps 73:1 Truly God is good to Israel, to those who are pure in heart.

An application can be made of this verse to the concept of the true "Israel" being composed of all godly people, including Gentiles.

Isa 44:5 This one will say, 'I am the LORD's,' another will call on the name of Jacob, and another will write on his hand, 'The LORD's,' and name himself by the name of Israel.

This may well be alluding to the conversion of people from among the Gentiles, becoming part of "Israel" and likewise identifying with Jacob.

. . . God's people are now of the heavenly Jerusalem

See also:

- God's people will live in the new Jerusalem, p. 729
- Description of the new Jerusalem, p. 730

For Jews, Jerusalem is the focal point of their worship and identity. But those of the new or renewed people of God – the true "Israel" – ultimately belong to the new Jerusalem. It is where they will dwell forever with God.

Gal 4:25-26 Now Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia;^m she corresponds to the present Jerusalem, for she is in slavery with her children. ²⁶But the Jerusalem above is free, and she is our mother.

^mSome manuscripts For Sinai is a mountain in Arabia

Those who live as Jews, under the law given at Mount Sinai, are associated with the present city of Jerusalem (v. 25). Contrastingly believers are of the heavenly Jerusalem. The heavenly Jerusalem is the "mother" of believers in at least two senses. Firstly, they are born again of what she represents – a faith that is free of slavery to the law (cf. vv. 24-25). Secondly – as per the theme of this subsection – they belong to her. This second point is indicative of the heavenly Jerusalem being where believers belong – their ultimate home.

Heb 12:22 But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to innumerable angels in festal gathering, ...

In a spiritual, positional sense, believers now partake in the heavenly Jerusalem and what it signifies, assured of the full realization of this.

Rev 3:12 The one who conquers, I will make him a pillar in the temple of my God. Never shall he go out of it, and I will write on him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name.

Having the name of the new Jerusalem written on one, signifies that one belongs to her. Those who overcome, persisting in their faith, will be marked as such. Moreover, they will be an integral part of God's temple, presumably his temple in the new Jerusalem and a key part of it as the earthly temple was of Jerusalem.

Rev 21:2, 9-10 And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.  ... ⁹Then came one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls full of the seven last plagues and spoke to me, saying, "Come, I will show you the Bride, the wife of the Lamb." ¹⁰And he carried me away in the Spirit to a great, high mountain, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem coming down out of heaven from God, ...

The new Jerusalem will be inhabited by God's people. In view of this, some commentators see this depiction of the new Jerusalem as a bride beautifully dressed for her husband, to be a portrayal of the church as Christ's bride. As such it would speak of God's people, members of the church, being of the heavenly Jerusalem.

Those who have faith are the true, spiritual children of Abraham . . .

Rom 4:9-12, 16-18 Is this blessing then only for the circumcised, or also for the uncircumcised? We say that faith was counted to Abraham as righteousness. ¹⁰How then was it counted to him? Was it before or after he had been circumcised? It was not after, but before he was circumcised. ¹¹He received the sign of circumcision as a seal of the righteousness that he had by faith while he was still uncircumcised. The purpose was to make him the father of all who believe without being circumcised, so that righteousness would be counted to them as well, ¹²and to make him the father of the circumcised who are not merely circumcised but who also walk in the footsteps of the faith that our father Abraham had before he was circumcised.  ... ¹⁶That is why it depends on faith, in order that the promise may rest on grace and be guaranteed to all his offspring—not only to the adherent of the law but also to the one who shares the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all, ¹⁷as it is written, "I have made you the father of many nations"—in the presence of the God in whom he believed, who gives life to the dead and calls into existence the things that do not exist. ¹⁸In hope he believed against hope, that he should become the father of many nations, as he had been told, "So shall your offspring be."

The term "the circumcised" (vv. 9, 12) denotes Jews and "the uncircumcised" (v. 9) denotes Gentiles.

Rom 9:6-9 But it is not as though the word of God has failed. For not all who are descended from Israel belong to Israel, ⁷and not all are children of Abraham because they are his offspring, but "Through Isaac shall your offspring be named." ⁸*This means that it is not the children of the flesh who are the children of God, but the children of the promise are counted as offspring.* ⁹For this is what the promise said: "About this time next year I will return, and Sarah shall have a son."

There is a similar issue in this passage to that commented on in 2:28-29 in the previous subsection. Paul may be speaking of all believers who prove to be spiritual kin of Abraham by having faith in God's promises – hence its inclusion here. However some commentators understand it more literally as referring to the Jews in contrast to other descendants of Abraham, the Jews being descendants of Isaac (v. 7) who was promised to Abraham (vv. 8-9). Possibly Paul is using terms indicative of the latter meaning to allude to the former.

Gal 3:6-7 ... just as Abraham "believed God, and it was counted to him as righteousness"? ⁷Know then that it is those of faith who are the sons of Abraham.

Luke 19:8-9 And Zacchaeus stood and said to the Lord, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor. And if I have defrauded anyone of anything, I restore it fourfold."⁹ And Jesus said to him, "Today salvation has come to this house, since he also is a son of Abraham. 📖

The assertion that Zacchaeus was "a son of Abraham" (v. 9) seems to refer to Zacchaeus' faith, evidenced by his actions (v. 8), implying that he was not merely a physical descendant but also a spiritual descendant of "Abraham, the man of faith" (Gal 3:9 ↓).

Matt 3:7-10 But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, "You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come? ⁸Bear fruit in keeping with repentance. ⁹*And do not presume to say to yourselves, 'We have Abraham as our father,' for I tell you, God is able from these stones to raise up children for Abraham.* ¹⁰Even now the axe is laid to the root of the trees. Every tree therefore that does not bear good fruit is cut down and thrown into the fire. 📖

This points to the fact that Jews are not necessarily children of Abraham in a spiritual sense, while Gentiles can become so (v. 9b). Moreover, unrepentant Jews will be cut off from Abraham, and so no longer be of God's people (v. 10)

... and God's promise or blessing to Abraham is for all who have faith

See also:

- By faith Abraham was declared righteous and received the promise – and so will all who emulate him, p. 644

The background to the following passages is that because Abraham believed God's promise that his descendants would be countless like the stars, God credited Abraham's belief (or faith) to him as righteousness (cf. Gen 15:5-6). Note that in a number of the following passages Paul speaks of this blessing of righteousness – given in association with God's promise – as being itself a promise.

Rom 4:9-11 Is this blessing then only for the circumcised, or also for the uncircumcised? We say that faith was counted to Abraham as righteousness. ¹⁰*How then was it counted to him? Was it before or after he had been circumcised? It was not after, but before he was circumcised.* ¹¹*He received the sign of circumcision as a seal of the righteousness that he had by faith while he was still uncircumcised. The purpose was to make him the father of all who believe without being circumcised, so that righteousness would be counted to them as well, ...* 📖

As soon becomes clear, v. 9 is speaking of the blessedness of people to whom, like Abraham, God credits righteousness by faith apart from works (cf. vv. 1-6). (Note that these three verses were included in the previous subsection, but here italics have been applied to additional clauses pertaining to the theme of this subsection.)

Rom 4:13-16 For the promise to Abraham and his offspring that he would be heir of the world did not come through the law but through the righteousness of faith. ¹⁴For if it is the adherents of the law who are to be the heirs, faith is null and the promise is void. ¹⁵For the law brings wrath, but where there is no law there is no transgression. ¹⁶That is why it [the promise] depends on faith, in order that the promise may rest on grace and be guaranteed to all his offspring—not only to the adherent of the law but also to the one who shares the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all, ... 📖

There is no record of God specifically promising Abraham that "he would be heir of the world" (v. 13). Paul could be alluding to Abraham being the father of all believers, who like him would be granted righteousness by faith. As such, Paul would have in view the promise that Abraham would be "the father of many nations" (vv. 17, 18 ↑), Gentiles as well as Jews. This interpretation appears to be supported by the cross reference in the ESV to Genesis 17:4-6. Alternatively, it could be referring to Abraham and his spiritual offspring inheriting the earth (cf. Matt 5:5) – in the form of the world to come – as an ultimate fulfillment or extension of the promise to Abraham that he would inherit the land of Canaan.

Verse 14 is saying that if it is through the law that one is to become an heir then the role of faith is nullified and the promise is void, in part at least because no one can keep the law – which in fact brings wrath (v. 15). In v. 16, "the adherent of the law" refers to Jews – to whom the law was given – in the context probably believing Jews in particular.

Gal 3:9 So then, those who are of faith are blessed along with Abraham, the man of faith. 📖

Gal 3:14, 16, 22-24, 29 ... so that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promised Spirit^a through faith. 📖 ... ¹⁶*Now the promises were made to Abraham and to his offspring. It does not say, "And to offsprings," referring to many, but referring to one, "And to your offspring," who is Christ.* 📖 ... ²²But the Scripture imprisoned everything under sin, so that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe. ²³Now before faith came, we were held captive under the law, imprisoned until the coming faith would be revealed. ²⁴So then, the law was our guardian until Christ came, in order that we might be justified by faith. 📖 ... ²⁹*And if you are* Christ's, then you are Abraham's offspring, heirs according to promise.

ⁿ Greek receive the promise of the Spirit

The "blessing of Abraham" (v. 14a) primarily refers to justification by faith (v. 24; cf. v. 8 ↓), by which we receive the promised Spirit (v. 14b). Similarly, the "promises" (v. 16) and "the promise" (v. 22) probably refer to righteousness or justification by faith and to the Spirit – possibly along with associated blessings, particularly salvation and life. The promises were made to Abraham and to his "offspring", Christ (v. 16) – in whom they are fulfilled. The promises are shared in by faith in Jesus Christ (vv. 14, 22), by which one is identified with Christ as Abraham's offspring (v. 29).

† God's promise to bless all nations through Abraham is fulfilled by God justifying the Gentiles by faith:

Gal 3:8 And the Scripture, foreseeing that God would justify^o the Gentiles by faith, preached the gospel beforehand to Abraham, saying, "In you shall all the nations be blessed."

^o Or count righteous; also verses 11, 24

God promised to bless all nations through Abraham (cf. . . . and that all peoples on earth would be blessed through Abraham, p. 323). This promise is fulfilled by God justifying the Gentiles by faith. For all who follow Abraham's example of having faith in what God has said are considered righteous as he was, and so are justified. As reflected in the following subsection, a related aspect of God's fulfillment of this promise is that Jesus Christ – the object of the faith that leads to justification for people of all nations – was himself a descendant of Abraham. So as the Savior of all nations came through Abraham, the nations were thus blessed through Abraham.

Note: Believing Jews still have a privileged status, amongst God's people

The Jews' privileged status is largely related to their religious heritage (cf. Rom 3:2 ↓; Rom 9:4-5 ↓; Acts 3:25a ↓) and to the related fact that salvation came through them (cf. Rom 9:5 ↓; Acts 3:25 ↓; Luke 2:30-32 ↓; John 4:22 ↓).

Rom 3:1-2 Then what advantage has the Jew? Or what is the value of circumcision? ²Much in every way. To begin with, the Jews were entrusted with the oracles of God.

Rom 9:3-5 For I could wish that I myself were accursed and cut off from Christ for the sake of my brothers,^p my kinsmen according to the flesh. ⁴They are Israelites, and to them belong the adoption, the glory, the covenants, the giving of the law, the worship, and the promises. ⁵To them belong the patriarchs, and from their race, according to the flesh, is the Christ who is God over all, blessed forever. Amen.

^p Or brothers and sisters

The clause "to them belong the adoption" (v. 4) refers to God effectively adopting Israel as his children (cf. Deut 14:1; Ex 4:22; Isa 43:6; Hos 1:1). The phrase "the glory" (v. 4) probably refers partly at least to the manifestations of God's glory to the Israelites, such as in the cloud in the desert (cf. Ex 16:10) and in the temple (cf. 1Ki 8:10-11).

Acts 3:25 You [Jews] are the sons of the prophets and of the covenant that God made with your fathers, saying to Abraham, 'And in your offspring shall all the families of the earth be blessed.'

Luke 2:30-32 ... for my eyes have seen your salvation ³¹that you have prepared in the presence of all peoples, ^{32a}a light for revelation to the Gentiles, and for glory to your people Israel.

The clause "for glory to your people Israel" implies that God's salvation would bring glory or honor to Israel because of the Messiah – the means of God's salvation – coming from Israel.

John 4:22 You worship what you do not know; we worship what we know, for salvation is from the Jews.

† On Judgment Day, punishment and rewards will be given to Jews first:

Rom 2:9-10 There will be tribulation and distress for every human being who does evil, the Jew first and also the Greek, ¹⁰but glory and honor and peace for everyone who does good, the Jew first and also the Greek.

This order may suggest that the Jews have a primacy in both status and responsibility.

Acts 3:26 God, having raised up his servant, sent him to you [Jews] first, to bless you by turning every one of you from your wickedness. 📖

Matt 2:6 “And you, O Bethlehem, in the land of Judah, are by no means least among the rulers of Judah; for from you shall come a ruler who will shepherd my people Israel.” 📖

One aspect of Jesus' role as “shepherd” of Israel in his first advent was to guide the people in God's ways, leading them to salvation.

Matt 4:23 And he went throughout all Galilee, teaching in their synagogues and proclaiming the gospel of the kingdom and healing every disease and every affliction among the people. 📖

Galilee, Samaria and Judea (cf. Acts 10:36-39a ↓) were adjoining regions – listed here north to south – which largely encompassed the land of Israel. At least most of Jesus' ministry took place in these regions, thus reflecting the prominence of Israel in his mission.

Matt 10:5-6 These twelve Jesus sent out, instructing them, “Go nowhere among the Gentiles and enter no town of the Samaritans, ⁶but go rather to the lost sheep of the house of Israel. 📖

Jesus' directions to his disciples reflect the priority of the people of Israel, the Jews, in his own mission.

Matt 15:21-28 And Jesus went away from there and withdrew to the district of Tyre and Sidon. ²²And behold, a Canaanite woman from that region came out and was crying, “Have mercy on me, O Lord, Son of David; my daughter is severely oppressed by a demon.” ²³But he did not answer her a word. And his disciples came and begged him, saying, “Send her away, for she is crying out after us.” ²⁴*He answered, “I was sent only to the lost sheep of the house of Israel.”* ²⁵But she came and knelt before him, saying, “Lord, help me.” ²⁶*And he answered, “It is not right to take the children's bread and throw it to the dogs.”* ²⁷She said, “Yes, Lord, yet even the dogs eat the crumbs that fall from their masters' table.” ²⁸Then Jesus answered her, “O woman, great is your faith! Be it done for you as you desire.” And her daughter was healed instantly.¶ 📖

¶ Greek from that hour

Jesus' words appear to point out that the people of Israel were the primary focus of his mission (vv. 24, 26), while also testing the faith of the Canaanite woman (vv. 26, 28).

John 11:51-52 He did not say this of his own accord, but being high priest that year he prophesied that Jesus would die for the nation, ⁵²and not for the nation only, but also to gather into one the children of God who are scattered abroad. 📖

Here “nation” refers to the Jewish nation. The mention of Jesus dying for the Jewish nation before reference is made to the “children of God” of other nations, arguably points to the primacy of the Jews in Jesus' mission.

Acts 10:36-39a As for the word that he sent to Israel, preaching good news of peace through Jesus Christ (he is Lord of all), ³⁷you yourselves know what happened throughout all Judea, beginning from Galilee after the baptism that John proclaimed: ³⁸how God anointed Jesus of Nazareth with the Holy Spirit and with power. He went about doing good and healing all who were oppressed by the devil, for God was with him. ³⁹And we are witnesses of all that he did both in the country of the Jews and in Jerusalem. 📖

Luke 1:16-17 And he will turn many of the children of Israel to the Lord their God, ¹⁷and he will go before him in the spirit and power of Elijah, to turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, and the disobedient to the wisdom of the just, to make ready for the Lord a people prepared. 📖

John the Baptist's ministry, preliminary to Jesus Christ's ministry, is spoken of here. John was to minister to “the children of Israel” (v. 16) – “to make ready for the Lord a people prepared” (v. 17), i.e. for Jesus to come to them. This points to the priority of Israel in Jesus' mission.

Acts 5:31 God exalted him at his right hand as Leader and Savior, to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. 📖

Israel is given prominence even in this reference to Jesus Christ after his mission.

... and the gospel of Christ was first preached to the Jews

Acts 11:19 Now those who were scattered because of the persecution that arose over Stephen traveled as far as Phoenicia and Cyprus and Antioch, speaking the word to no one except Jews.

Acts 2:5, 14, 22-24, 36-39 Now there were dwelling in Jerusalem Jews, devout men from every nation under heaven.  ... ¹⁴But Peter, standing with the eleven, lifted up his voice and addressed them: “Men of Judea and all who dwell in Jerusalem, let this be known to you, and give ear to my words.  ... ²²“Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man attested to you by God with mighty works and wonders and signs that God did through him in your midst, as you yourselves know— ²³this Jesus, delivered up according to the definite plan and foreknowledge of God, you crucified and killed by the hands of lawless men. ²⁴God raised him up, loosing the pangs of death, because it was not possible for him to be held by it.  ... ³⁶Let all the house of Israel therefore know for certain that God has made him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom you crucified.” ³⁷Now when they heard this they were cut to the heart, and said to Peter and the rest of the apostles, “Brothers, what shall we do?” ³⁸And Peter said to them, “Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. ³⁹For the promise is for you and for your children and for all who are far off, everyone whom the Lord our God calls to himself.”

This is the first recorded proclamation of the gospel following Jesus’ ascension, made to a crowd largely composed of Jews.

Acts 13:14-16, 23-26, 43 ... but they went on from Perga and came to Antioch in Pisidia. And on the Sabbath day they went into the synagogue and sat down. ¹⁵After the reading from the Law and the Prophets, the rulers of the synagogue sent a message to them, saying, “Brothers, if you have any word of encouragement for the people, say it.” ¹⁶So Paul stood up, and motioning with his hand said: “Men of Israel and you who fear God, listen.  ... ²³Of this man’s offspring God has brought to Israel a Savior, Jesus, as he promised. ²⁴Before his coming, John had proclaimed a baptism of repentance to all the people of Israel. ²⁵And as John was finishing his course, he said, ‘What do you suppose that I am? I am not he. No, but behold, after me one is coming, the sandals of whose feet I am not worthy to untie.’ ²⁶“Brothers, sons of the family of Abraham, and those among you who fear God, to us has been sent the message of this salvation.  ... ⁴³And after the meeting of the synagogue broke up, many Jews and devout converts to Judaism followed Paul and Barnabas, who, as they spoke with them, urged them to continue in the grace of God.

This is an example of the priority given to the Jews in the early preaching of the gospel. Note that in this context “you who fear God” (vv. 16, 26) likely denotes Gentiles. However these Gentiles would have been converts to Judaism, as indicated in v. 43 and by the fact that they were worshipping in a Jewish synagogue (vv. 14-16).

Acts 13:45-46 But when the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with jealousy and began to contradict what was spoken by Paul, reviling him. ⁴⁶And Paul and Barnabas spoke out boldly, saying, “It was necessary that the word of God be spoken first to you. Since you thrust it aside and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, behold, we are turning to the Gentiles.

Acts 18:5-6 When Silas and Timothy arrived from Macedonia, Paul was occupied with the word, testifying to the Jews that the Christ was Jesus. ⁶And when they opposed and reviled him, he shook out his garments and said to them, “Your blood be on your own heads! I am innocent. From now on I will go to the Gentiles.”

This implies that Paul had initially made the Jews his priority in spreading the gospel.

Rom 1:16 For I am not ashamed of the gospel, for it is the power of God for salvation to everyone who believes, to the Jew first and also to the Greek.

The phrase “to the Jew first” alludes to their unique position and chronological precedence, in which God used them in bringing his revelation and plan of salvation to the whole world. They were God’s chosen people, the recipients of the OT laws and prophecies, the participants with God in the first covenant, and the people through whom the Messiah came. Additionally, the gospel was to be first revealed to them, which is what Paul has in view here.

✦ Jesus Christ’s ministry to the Jews was to bring salvation to the Gentiles:

Rom 15:8-9 For I tell you that Christ became a servant to the circumcised to show God’s truthfulness, in order to confirm the promises given to the patriarchs, ⁹*and in order that the Gentiles might glorify God for his mercy.* As it is written, “Therefore I will praise you among the Gentiles, and sing to your name.”

Christ’s ministry to the Jews – “the circumcised” – was in order to confirm God’s promises to the patriarchs (v. 8), particularly the promise that they would be a blessing to all nations. The prime blessing that would come by them would be salvation through the Messiah. The Gentiles would then glorify God for his mercy to them through the fulfillment of these promises (v. 9).

Note that in addition to the Jews' betrayal and killing of Jesus Christ (v. 52b), Stephen also points out other aspects of their obstinacy towards God (vv. 51-53) – raising their ire (v. 54), leading to them stoning him (cf. 59).

Acts 14:19 But Jews came from Antioch and Iconium, and having persuaded the crowds, they stoned Paul and dragged him out of the city, supposing that he was dead.

1Thes 2:14-16 For you, brothers, became imitators of the churches of God in Christ Jesus that are in Judea. For you suffered the same things from your own countrymen as they did from the Jews, ¹⁵who killed both the Lord Jesus and the prophets, and drove us out, and displease God and oppose all mankind ¹⁶by hindering us from speaking to the Gentiles that they might be saved—so as always to fill up the measure of their sins. But God's wrath has come upon them at last!

^v Or completely, or forever

Note that opinions vary as to which revelation of God's wrath is being referred to in v. 16. It could be a contemporary occurrence, or possibly a future one – with the present tense being used to indicate its certainty. It could concern one particular group of Jews, or the Jews as a whole. Alternatively, some think that sinful humankind in general may be in view, with the earlier reference to the Thessalonians being persecuted by their own countrymen (v. 14).

^x Or end of the law, that everyone who believes may be justified

The Jews were ignorant of the righteousness that comes from God (v. 3a), through belief in Christ (v. 4). Thus their zeal for God was misplaced (v. 2), as they sought to establish their own righteousness rather than submitting to God's righteousness (v. 3b) by believing in Christ.

^y Some manuscripts omit the son of Barachiah

Verse 32 appears to indicate that this generation of Jews – particularly the spiritual leaders (cf. vv. 29-31) – would in a sense bring to completion the sins that their ancestors began. This would include them killing a number of those who would spread the gospel (v. 34). Their generation would suffer a judgment that would be the culmination of God’s judgment for all the righteous blood that they and their forefathers had shed (vv. 35-36). The judgment may refer – initially at least – to the destruction by the Romans of Jerusalem and the temple in A.D. 70 (cf. Luke 19:43-44 ↓; Luke 23:28-31 ↓). The “house” (v. 38) that would be left desolate, may be the temple (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT); Jerusalem and the nation are other possibilities. In v. 37, Jesus speaks of his longing to take the Jewish people under his care and guidance, but they were not willing.

Luke 19:12, 14-15, 27 He said therefore, “A nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and then return. 📖 ... ¹⁴But his citizens hated him and sent a delegation after him, saying, ‘We do not want this man to reign over us.’ ¹⁵When he returned, having received the kingdom, he ordered these servants to whom he had given the money to be called to him, that he might know what they had gained by doing business. 📖 ... [The king:] ²⁷But as for these enemies of mine, who did not want me to reign over them, bring them here and slaughter them before me.” 📖

The king represents Jesus Christ, and his enemies represent the Jews or at least their leaders. Verse 27 has in view their judgment on Jesus Christ’s return.

Luke 19:41-44 And when he drew near and saw the city, he wept over it, ⁴²saying, “Would that you, even you, had known on this day the things that make for peace! But now they are hidden from your eyes. ⁴³For the days will come upon you, when your enemies will set up a barricade around you and surround you and hem you in on every side ⁴⁴and tear you down to the ground, you and your children within you. And they will not leave one stone upon another in you, because you did not know the time of your visitation.” 📖

Jesus wept with heartfelt compassion because the people of Jerusalem had not recognized their “visitation” (v. 44b), the time of God’s intervention, providing salvation and the opportunity for peace (v. 42). Consequently they would face destruction (vv. 43-44) – which came by the Romans in A.D. 70.

Luke 23:26-31 And as they led him away, they seized one Simon of Cyrene, who was coming in from the country, and laid on him the cross, to carry it behind Jesus. ²⁷And there followed him a great multitude of the people and of women who were mourning and lamenting for him. ²⁸But turning to them Jesus said, “Daughters of Jerusalem, do not weep for me, but weep for yourselves and for your children. ²⁹For behold, the days are coming when they will say, ‘Blessed are the barren and the wombs that never bore and the breasts that never nursed!’ ³⁰Then they will begin to say to the mountains, ‘Fall on us,’ and to the hills, ‘Cover us.’ ³¹For if they do these things when the wood is green, what will happen when it is dry?” 📖

In v. 31 “when the wood is green” may refer to the time of Jesus being with them. The verse then would probably be contrasting the Jews’ rejection of Jesus – leading to his crucifixion by the Romans – with the horrors that would befall the Jewish nation in the “dry” time to come when Jerusalem would face destruction by the Romans (cf. Luke 19:43-44 ↑).

Rom 11:7-10 What then? Israel failed to obtain what it was seeking. The elect obtained it, but the rest were hardened, ⁸as it is written, “God gave them a spirit of stupor, eyes that would not see and ears that would not hear, down to this very day.” ⁹And David says, “Let their table become a snare and a trap, a stumbling block and a retribution for them; ¹⁰let their eyes be darkened so that they cannot see, and bend their backs forever.” 📖

Having rejected the gospel of Christ and sought righteousness in their own way, the bulk of the Jews did not obtain righteousness (v. 7a) – in contrast to the elect amongst them. Instead God judicially hardened them, leaving them bereft of spiritual perception (vv. 7b-8) and facing grave punishment (vv. 9-10).

In the psalm from which the quotation in vv. 9-10 is taken, “table” may well allude to the food metaphors of the preceding verse in the psalm, depicting the ill treatment of the psalmist by the wicked. As such Paul may have in mind the wickedness of the Jews in rejecting Christ, using the quotation to speak of the Jews’ unrighteousness leading to judgment. Alternatively some commentators consider that Paul is using the reference to feasting to allude to the rich religious heritage of the Jews under the old covenant as becoming a snare to them in their failure to accept the gospel of the new covenant (v. 9), resulting in looming judgment (v. 10).

Zec 11:7-17 So I became the shepherd of the flock doomed to be slaughtered by the sheep traders. And I took two staffs, one I named Favor, the other I named Union. And I tended the sheep. ⁸In one month I destroyed the three shepherds. But I became impatient with them, and they also detested me. ⁹So I said, "I will not be your shepherd. What is to die, let it die. What is to be destroyed, let it be destroyed. And let those who are left devour the flesh of one another."¹⁰And I took my staff Favor, and I broke it, annulling the covenant that I had made with all the peoples. ¹¹So it was annulled on that day, and the sheep traders, who were watching me, knew that it was the word of the LORD. ¹²Then I said to them, "If it seems good to you, give me my wages; but if not, keep them." And they weighed out as my wages thirty pieces of silver. ¹³Then the LORD said to me, "Throw it to the potter"—the lordly price at which I was priced by them. So I took the thirty pieces of silver and threw them into the house of the LORD, to the potter. ¹⁴Then I broke my second staff Union, annulling the brotherhood between Judah and Israel. ¹⁵Then the LORD said to me, "Take once more the equipment of a foolish shepherd. ¹⁶For behold, I am raising up in the land a shepherd who does not care for those being destroyed, or seek the young or heal the maimed or nourish the healthy, but devours the flesh of the fat ones, tearing off even their hoofs. ¹⁷"Woe to my worthless shepherd, who deserts the flock! May the sword strike his arm and his right eye! Let his arm be wholly withered, his right eye utterly blinded!"

Zechariah firstly portrays a shepherd who many think is the rejected messianic Shepherd-King (vv. 7-14) and then a "foolish" or "worthless" (CEV, GNT, NLT) shepherd (vv. 15-17) – which some understand to symbolize the final anti-Christ. The flock is of course Israel – "doomed to be slaughtered" (v. 7), i.e. marked for God's judgment (cf. vv. 4-6). It is not clear who or what the three shepherds (v. 8) represent. The covenant made with the nations (v. 10) most likely speaks of God having restrained other nations from overrunning Israel; the revoking of this left Israel open to destruction. Verses 12-13 were fulfilled as a prophecy when the Jewish leaders paid Judas thirty silver coins to betray Christ and then, on Judas returning it, using it to buy the potter's field (cf. Matt 27:3-10). Verse 14 then associates the disunity of the nation with its rejection of this first shepherd.

God largely rejected the Jews and accepted the Gentiles, due to the Jews rejecting Christ and the gospel . . .

The master represents God; the servants, his prophets; and the son, Jesus Christ (who is also symbolized by the "stone that the builders rejected", v. 42, cf. v. 44). However opinions differ on the other aspects of the parable. One view is that the vineyard represents the kingdom of God; the tenants depict the Jews generally; and the "other tenants" (v. 41) refers to believers who would come from among the Gentiles. Such a view would neatly fit the theme of this subsection. A somewhat different view is that the vineyard represents Israel; the tenants depict the Jewish leaders; and the "other tenants" (v. 41) refers to all true people of God, not just chiefly Gentiles.

Luke 14:15-18a, 21-24 When one of those who reclined at table with him heard these things, he said to him, “Blessed is everyone who will eat bread in the kingdom of God!”¹⁶ But he said to him, “A man once gave a great banquet and invited many.¹⁷ And at the time for the banquet he sent his servant^c to say to those who had been invited, ‘Come, for everything is now ready.’¹⁸ But they all alike began to make excuses. ¶ ...²¹ So the servant came and reported these things to his master. Then the master of the house became angry and said to his servant, ‘Go out quickly to the streets and lanes of the city, and bring in the poor and crippled and blind and lame.’²² And the servant said, ‘Sir, what you commanded has been done, and still there is room.’²³ And the master said to the servant, ‘Go out to the highways and hedges and compel people to come in, that my house may be filled.’²⁴ For I tell you,^d none of those men who were invited shall taste my banquet.” ¶

^d The Greek word for you here is plural

This is often viewed as alluding to the invitation into God’s kingdom being extended to the Gentiles (v. 23), following its rejection by many of the Jews (vv. 18-20) – who would in turn be denied access into it. Note that v. 21 appears to be portraying the invitation being given to outcasts of Jewish society, many of whom did respond to Jesus and/or the gospel.

Rom 10:16-21 But they have not all obeyed the gospel. For Isaiah says, “Lord, who has believed what he has heard from us?”¹⁷ So faith comes from hearing, and hearing through the word of Christ.¹⁸ But I ask, have they not heard? Indeed they have, for “Their voice has gone out to all the earth, and their words to the ends of the world.”¹⁹ But I ask, did Israel not understand? First Moses says, “I will make you jealous of those who are not a nation; with a foolish nation I will make you angry.”²⁰ Then Isaiah is so bold as to say, “I have been found by those who did not seek me; I have shown myself to those who did not ask for me.”²¹ But of Israel he says, “All day long I have held out my hands to a disobedient and contrary people.” ¶

After indicating that the Jews generally rejected the gospel (v. 16), Paul examines the possibilities that perhaps this was because they either did not hear it or did not understand it. He emphatically states that they did hear it (v. 18). He then indicates that they should have understood it, using the OT quotations to imply that the Gentiles with less spiritual understanding had responded when confronted with the gospel (vv. 19-20). The Jews’ problem was not that the gospel was beyond their understanding but that they themselves were “a disobedient and contrary people” (v. 21).

Rom 11:11-12, 15 So I ask, did they stumble in order that they might fall? By no means! Rather *through their trespass salvation has come to the Gentiles, so as to make Israel jealous.*¹² Now if their trespass means riches for the world, and if their failure means riches for the Gentiles, how much more will their full inclusion^e mean! ¶ ...¹⁵ For if their rejection means the reconciliation of the world, what will their acceptance mean but life from the dead? ¶

In vv. 11, 12, “their trespass” refers to the Jews’ rejection of the gospel (cf. v. 28 ↓) and God’s way of righteousness that is by faith. Their “failure” (v. 12) could refer to their failure to take hold of God’s salvation and/or them being rejected by God (v. 15), broken off from their place as his people (cf. vv. 17, 19-20 ↓).

Rom 11:17-22 But if some of the branches were broken off, and you [Gentiles], although a wild olive shoot, were grafted in among the others and now share in the nourishing root^f of the olive tree,¹⁸ do not be arrogant toward the branches. If you are, remember it is not you who support the root, but the root that supports you.¹⁹ Then you will say, “Branches were broken off so that I might be grafted in.”²⁰ That is true. They were broken off because of their unbelief, but you stand fast through faith. So do not become proud, but fear.²¹ For if God did not spare the natural branches, neither will he spare you.²² Note then the kindness and the severity of God: severity toward those who have fallen, but God’s kindness to you, provided you continue in his kindness. Those that would "come from east and west" (v. 11) refers to those who would come from outside of Israel, i.e. Gentiles like the centurion. The "sons of the kingdom" (v. 12) refers to Jews who were as such a part of God's people and of his kingdom, but who without faith would be thrown out. These last two verses are very pertinent to the previous two subsections.

Acts 13:45-48 But when the Jews saw the crowds, they were filled with jealousy and began to contradict what was spoken by Paul, reviling him. ⁴⁶And Paul and Barnabas spoke out boldly, saying, "It was necessary that the word of God be spoken first to you. Since you thrust it aside and judge yourselves unworthy of eternal life, behold, we are turning to the Gentiles. ⁴⁷For so the Lord has commanded us, saying, "I have made you a light for the Gentiles, that you may bring salvation to the ends of the earth." ⁴⁸And when the Gentiles heard this, they began rejoicing and glorifying the word of the Lord, and as many as were appointed to eternal life believed.

Acts 18:5-8 When Silas and Timothy arrived from Macedonia, Paul was occupied with the word, testifying to the Jews that the Christ was Jesus. ⁶And when they opposed and reviled him, he shook out his garments and said to them, "Your blood be on your own heads! His house was next door to the synagogue. ⁸Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord, together with his entire household. And many of the Corinthians hearing Paul believed and were baptized.

The many Corinthians who believed (v. 8b) would have been largely Gentiles. Note that Crispus (v. 8a), as the synagogue ruler, would have been a Jew. He and his household were exceptions to the generally negative response of the Jews towards the gospel.

Acts 28:24-28 And some [of the Jews in Rome] were convinced by what he said, but others disbelieved. ²⁵And disagreeing among themselves, they departed after Paul had made one statement: "The Holy Spirit was right in saying to your fathers through Isaiah the prophet: ²⁶"Go to this people, and say, You will indeed hear but never understand, and you will indeed see but never perceive. ²⁷For this people's heart has grown dull, and with their ears they can barely hear, and their eyes they have closed; lest they should see with their eyes and hear with their ears and understand with their heart and turn, and I would heal them.' ²⁸Therefore let it be known to you that this salvation of God has been sent to the Gentiles; they will listen." ^k

‡ The Gentiles have obtained righteousness, by faith – in contrast to Israel:

Rom 9:30-32a What shall we say, then? That Gentiles who did not pursue righteousness have attained it, that is, a righteousness that is by faith; ³¹but that Israel who pursued a law that would lead to righteousness^l did not succeed in reaching that law. ³²Why? Because they did not pursue it by faith, but as if it were based on works.

^l Greek a law of righteousness

In vv. 31-32 Paul appears to be speaking of Israel failing to obtain the righteousness of the law – the righteousness that the law embodied.

But God has left a faithful remnant of Israel

Rom 9:27, 29 And Isaiah cries out concerning Israel: "Though the number of the sons of Israel^m be as the sand of the sea, only a remnant of them will be saved, ¶ ... ²⁹And as Isaiah predicted, "If the Lord of hosts had not left us offspring, we would have been like Sodom and become like Gomorrah." ¶

^mOr children of Israel

Note that v. 29 quotes Isaiah 1:9. Rather than "offspring" (from the Septuagint), the original text is arguably better translated as "survivors" (cf. NRSV, Isaiah 1:9), which more closely reflects the concept of a remnant (v. 27).

Rom 11:1-7 I ask, then, has God rejected his people? By no means! For I myself am an Israelite, a descendant of Abraham,ⁿ a member of the tribe of Benjamin. ²God has not rejected his people whom he foreknew. Do you not know what the Scripture says of Elijah, how he appeals to God against Israel? ³"Lord, they have killed your prophets, they have demolished your altars, and I alone am left, and they seek my life." ⁴But what is God's reply to him? "I have kept for myself seven thousand men who have not bowed the knee to Baal." ⁵So too at the present time there is a remnant, chosen by grace. ⁶But if it is by grace, it is no longer on the basis of works; otherwise grace would no longer be grace. ⁷What then? Israel failed to obtain what it was seeking. The elect obtained it, but the rest were hardened, ... ¶

ⁿ Or one of the offspring of Abraham

God did not totally reject his people Israel, for as in Elijah's time (vv. 2-4) God chose a remnant from among them. "The elect" (v. 7) refers to those among the Jews – "a chosen few of the people of Israel" (CEV). Israel in general failed to obtain righteousness (cf. 9:31-10:3); in contrast the elected remnant amongst them did.

Acts 2:22, 41 Men of Israel, hear these words: Jesus of Nazareth, a man attested to you by God with mighty works and wonders and signs that God did through him in your midst, as you yourselves know— ¶ ... ⁴¹*So those who received his word were baptized, and there were added that day about three thousand souls.* ¶

This and the following references – along with the above cross references – illustrate that thousands of Jews did respond to the Gospel message about Jesus Christ, making up a sizable faithful remnant of Israel.

Acts 4:4 But many of those who had heard the word believed, and the number of the men came to about five thousand. ¶

The contexts indicate that Jews are primarily in view here and in 5:14 below – as in the other references in this subsection.

Acts 5:14 And more than ever believers were added to the Lord, multitudes of both men and women, ... ¶

Acts 14:1 Now at Iconium they entered together into the Jewish synagogue and spoke in such a way that a great number of both Jews and Greeks believed. ¶

Acts 21:20a And when they heard it, they glorified God. And they said to him, "You see, brother, how many thousands there are among the Jews of those who have believed." ¶

Despite Israel's current state – which has benefited the Gentiles – Israel will be saved

Rom 11:11-12, 15-16, 23-24 So I ask, did they stumble in order that they might fall? By no means! Rather through their trespass salvation has come to the Gentiles, so as to make Israel jealous. ¹²Now if their trespass means riches for the world, and if their failure means riches for the Gentiles, how much more will their full inclusion^o mean! ¶ ... ¹⁵For if their rejection means the reconciliation of the world, what will their acceptance mean but life from the dead? ¹⁶If the dough offered as firstfruits is holy, so is the whole lump, and if the root is holy, so are the branches. ¶ ... ²³And even they, if they do not continue in their unbelief, will be grafted in, for God has the power to graft them in again. ²⁴For if you were cut from what is by nature a wild olive tree, and grafted, contrary to nature, into a cultivated olive tree, how much more will these, the natural branches, be grafted back into their own olive tree. ¶

In v. 15, "their rejection" is probably speaking of the Jews being rejected by God, but possibly the Jews' rejection of the gospel is in view (cf. CEV). Opinions differ as to the meaning of "life from the dead" (v. 15). Possibilities include: further spiritual renewal and/or blessing for the world; the resurrection of the dead; or Israel's spiritual resurrection. In v. 16, "firstfruits" and "root" represent the patriarchs, while "whole lump" and "branches" depict the Jewish people as a whole. The verse is not meaning that all Jews are holy, but that God will fulfill his promises made to them as a people (cf. 3:3-4). (cf. NSB)

Rom 11:25-32 Lest you be wise in your own sight, I want you to understand this mystery, brothers:^p a partial hardening has come upon Israel, until the fullness of the Gentiles has come in. ²⁶*And in this way all Israel will be saved, as it is written, "The Deliverer will come from Zion, he will banish ungodliness from Jacob";* ²⁷*"and this will be my covenant with them when I take away their sins."* ²⁸*As regards the gospel, they are enemies of God for your sake. But as regards election, they are beloved for the sake of their forefathers.* ²⁹*For the gifts and the calling of God are irrevocable.* ³⁰*For just as you were at one time disobedient to God but now have received mercy because of their disobedience,* ³¹*so they too have now been disobedient in order that by the mercy shown to you they also may now^q receive mercy.* ³²*For God has consigned all to disobedience, that he may have mercy on all.*

^q Some manuscripts omit now

In keeping with the context, the clause "all Israel will be saved" (v. 26) probably refers to Israel as a whole, rather than every individual Israelite or Jew. Alternatively some see it as referring to all redeemed Israelites (or even all believers including Gentiles), past and living. (cf. NEL, ZBC, NBC) Likewise "all" (v. 32) refers not to all individuals but to all peoples, i.e. Jews and Gentiles. Verse 30 is speaking of God's mercy – through the gospel of Jesus Christ – being turned to the formerly disobedient Gentiles as a result of the Jews disobediently rejecting the gospel (vv. 11b-12a, 15, 23, 25, 28). But, v. 31 explains, now that the Jews too have become disobedient they are able to share in God's mercy shown to the Gentiles.

Matt 23:38-39 See, your house is left to you desolate. ³⁹*For I tell you, you will not see me again, until you say, 'Blessed is he who comes in the name of the Lord.'*

As noted earlier, v. 38 may speak initially of the desolation of Jerusalem – and the temple in particular – by the Romans. But in light of v. 39, Israel's ongoing state – particularly its spiritual state – may also be alluded to. Verse 39 could well be implying that a good proportion of Jews will rightfully acknowledge Jesus Christ (cf. Zec 12:10), at the time of his return. As such this would point to the salvation of Israel.

✦ A possible further reference to the end of the prominence of the Gentiles in God's plan of salvation:

Luke 21:24 They will fall by the edge of the sword and be led captive among all nations, and Jerusalem will be trampled underfoot by the Gentiles, until the times of the Gentiles are fulfilled.

The "times of the Gentiles" may be referring to the time of the Gentiles' prominence, relative to the Jews, in God's plan of salvation. However, the period of Gentile domination of the city of Jerusalem could well be in view instead.

The law was given to Israel through Moses – hence the term the “Mosaic Law”. It was what God’s covenant with Israel was based upon. (The contents of this law – including its provisions for dealing with sin – are discussed in the sections cross-referenced above.)

In order to be righteous before God, the Israelites had to continually follow this law, keeping all of its commands – something which they proved incapable of doing. But through Jesus Christ’s life and death, God has provided a new way of righteousness, for all people – leading to salvation. As a result of this, the role of the law has been profoundly changed.

Note that the term “the law” is used in a number of ways in the NT, but most commonly to refer to the Mosaic Law. The references to “the law” in verses in this section have been interpreted here as referring to the Mosaic Law.

The Mosaic Law cannot bring perfection . . .

Heb 7:11 Now if perfection had been attainable through the Levitical priesthood (for under it the people received the law), what further need would there have been for another priest to arise after the order of Melchizedek, rather than one named after the order of Aaron?

The Levitical priesthood was an integral part of the law, and so closely associated with it.

Heb 7:18-19 For on the one hand, a former commandment is set aside because of its weakness and uselessness ¹⁹(for the law made nothing perfect); but on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, through which we draw near to God.

Heb 10:1 For since the law has but a shadow of the good things to come instead of the true form of these realities, it can never, by the same sacrifices that are continually offered every year, make perfect those who draw near.

Rom 8:3 For God has done what the law, weakened by the flesh, could not do. By sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh and for sin,^a he condemned sin in the flesh, ...

^a Or and as a sin offering

The last part of the verse clarifies that “what the law ... could not do” was condemn sin. The law could not “do away with sin” (GNT), and so could not bring perfection.

. . . The law only exacerbates the problem of sin

Rom 4:15 For the law brings wrath, but where there is no law there is no transgression.

The law clearly stipulates boundaries or rules which we must not break, but we inevitably do break them. So the law “brings wrath” because we face God’s wrath as the consequence of sinning and breaking the law. Without the law there is no “violation” (NASB, NRSV) of such rules and ensuing wrath.

Rom 5:13-14, 20 ... for sin indeed was in the world before the law was given, but sin is not counted where there is no law. ¹⁴Yet death reigned from Adam to Moses, even over those whose sinning was not like the transgression of Adam, who was a type of the one who was to come.  ... ²⁰Now the law came in to increase the trespass, but where sin increased, grace abounded all the more, ...

Verse 13 indicates that with the law people are more accountable for sin, the reason being is that in sinning they are breaking commands that have been clearly specified as Adam did (v. 14). In view of this, the expression "to increase the trespass" (v. 20) may well mean that the law increased the seriousness of sin. Other possibilities are that this expression means that the law was added to: magnify sin, as in make it more apparent; or literally increase sin (cf. GNT). It may even encompass all these concepts. (For a fuller explanation see The primary purpose of the law is to make people aware of sin, p. 660.)

Rom 7:5, 7-11 For while we were living in the flesh, our sinful passions, aroused by the law, were at work in our members to bear fruit for death.  ... ⁷What then shall we say? That the law is sin? By no means! Yet if it had not been for the law, I would not have known sin. For I would not have known what it is to covet if the law had not said, "You shall not covet." ⁸But sin, seizing an opportunity through the commandment, produced in me all kinds of covetousness. For apart from the law, sin lies dead. ⁹I was once alive apart from the law, but when the commandment came, sin came alive and I died. ¹⁰The very commandment that promised life proved to be death to me. ¹¹For sin, seizing an opportunity through the commandment, deceived me and through it killed me.

The law actually stimulates sin, arousing sinful passions (v. 5), such as "all kinds of covetousness" (v. 8). In fact if it were not for the law, sin would be "a dead thing" (v. 8, GNT) – immaterial. The clause "when the commandment came" (v. 9) may refer to the introduction of the law which brought sin into the picture, but more often it is interpreted to mean Paul's full realization of what the law meant in his own life. This realization caused sin to come to life in him, bringing his death (vv. 9b-11; cf. v. 5) – referring most likely either to provisional spiritual death or being under condemnation of death. Verse 1 appears to mean that the law allows sin the opportunity to deceive, as the law presents truth and – being contrary to the law – sin deceives us in regard to its truths.

1Cor 15:56 The sting of death is sin, and the power of sin is the law.

The law gives sin its power. For it is the law that makes sin transgression against God, i.e. violation of standards he has set. As such it gives sin the power to bring about condemnation (of sinners) and so bring death.

Gal 3:22 But the Scripture imprisoned everything under sin, so that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe.

The reference to "the Scripture" primarily has the law in view. Under the law the people were effectively imprisoned by sin.

People are not justified or made righteous by obeying the law – but by faith in Jesus Christ . . .

See also:

- People are justified and made righteous by God's grace, through Jesus Christ – not by law, p. 648
- We are granted righteousness and justified before God [outcomes of belief in Jesus Christ], p. 1050

God's way now for us to be made righteous before him is through having faith in Jesus Christ. This primarily involves believing Jesus Christ to be (with what he has accomplished) the means of righteousness – and accordingly trusting in him for one's own righteousness. In conjunction with this, faith in Jesus Christ encompasses believing what the Bible says about: who he is; his death and resurrection; and the outcomes of his mission. This is discussed further in c) Belief in Jesus Christ (I): General, p. 1040; and d) Belief in Jesus Christ (III): Outcomes, p. 1049.

Acts 13:38-39 Let it be known to you therefore, brothers, that through this man forgiveness of sins is proclaimed to you, ³⁹and by him everyone who believes is freed^b from everything from which you could not be freed by the law of Moses.

^b Greek justified; twice in this verse

The two instances of "freed" in v. 39 appear to speak of being freed from the guilt of one's sins – i.e. "justified" (cf. ESV text note).

Rom 3:20 For by works of the law no human being^c will be justified in his sight, since through the law comes knowledge of sin.

^c Greek flesh

Rom 9:30-33 What shall we say, then? That Gentiles who did not pursue righteousness have attained it, that is, a righteousness that is by faith; ³¹but that Israel who pursued a law that would lead to righteousness^d did not succeed in reaching that law. ³²Why? Because they did not pursue it by faith, but as if it were based on works. They have stumbled over the stumbling stone, ³³as it is written, "Behold, I am laying in Zion a stone of stumbling, and a rock of offense; and whoever believes in him will not be put to shame."

^d Greek a law of righteousness

Because Israel was intent on pursuing righteousness via the law and the associated "works" rather than by faith in Jesus Christ, they stumbled (v. 32) over him – the “stone” (vv. 32b-33a); i.e. they failed because they did not try to gain righteousness by the only means that it can be obtained. This is in contrast to the Gentiles (v. 30) and “whoever believes in him” (v. 33b). The latter is spoken of as not being “disappointed” (CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT), presumably regarding being made righteous through faith, and so not being ashamed – particularly before God.

Gal 2:16, 21 ... yet we know that a person is not justified^e by works of the law but through faith in Jesus Christ, so we also have believed in Christ Jesus, in order to be justified by faith in Christ and not by works of the law, because by works of the law no one will be justified.  ... ²¹I do not nullify the grace of God, for if righteousness^f were through the law, then Christ died for no purpose.

^e Or counted righteous (three times in verse 16); also verse 17

^f Or justification

Gal 3:2-5, 10-12 Let me ask you only this: Did you receive the Spirit by works of the law or by hearing with faith? ³Are you so foolish? Having begun by the Spirit, are you now being perfected by^g the flesh? ⁴Did you suffer^h so many things in vain—if indeed it was in vain? ⁵Does he who supplies the Spirit to you and works miracles among you do so by works of the law, or by hearing with faith—  ... ¹⁰For all who rely on works of the law are under a curse; for it is written, “Cursed be everyone who does not abide by all things written in the Book of the Law, and do them.” ¹¹Now it is evident that no one is justified before God by the law, for “The righteous shall live by faith.”ⁱ ¹²But the law is not of faith, rather “The one who does them shall live by them.”

^g Or now ending with

^h Or experience

ⁱ Or The one who by faith is righteous will live

Although there is no mention in verses 2-5 of justification (or being made righteous), receiving the Holy Spirit is indicative of it – even alluding to it. In v. 10 Paul says that all who rely on observing the law to gain justification are cursed because no one is able to continually do everything written in it. In v. 11 Paul quotes Habakkuk 2:4 to imply that one can only be justified by faith. Verse 12 has been included here as it makes the associated point that the inaccessible way of the law to justification and life is incompatible with the way of faith. The contrasting phrases – “live by them” (v. 12b) and “live by faith” (v. 11b) – indicate that the law stipulates that we will live by doing the things it says, whereas the way of faith stipulates that we will live by faith. The two paths are diverse and in fact incompatible.

Gal 3:21b-22 For if a law had been given that could give life, then righteousness would indeed be by the law. ²²But the Scripture imprisoned everything under sin, so that the promise by faith in Jesus Christ might be given to those who believe.

By asserting that “the Scripture imprisoned everything under sin” (v. 22) Paul affirms that righteousness certainly did not come by the law, as v. 21b implies. The “promise” (v. 22) is no doubt inclusive of righteousness (v. 21), but probably also incorporates associated concepts, notably life (v. 21) and salvation.

Gal 5:4-5 You are severed from Christ, you who would be justified^j by the law; you have fallen away from grace. ⁵For through the Spirit, by faith, we ourselves eagerly wait for the hope of righteousness.

^j Or counted righteous

The “hope of righteousness” (v. 5) is either referring to being pronounced right with God on Judgment Day, or being made righteous in ourselves (i.e. the consummation of our sanctification) following Christ’s return. In conjunction with being justified by faith and so even now viewed by God as righteous, we also await by faith these final aspects of “righteousness”.

Heb 6:1 Therefore let us leave the elementary doctrine of Christ and go on to maturity, not laying again a foundation of repentance from dead works and of faith toward God, ...

The writer is actually rebuking his readers for failing to build on elementary Christian beliefs, with them not having moved on to more advanced aspects. In doing so he speaks of repentance “from dead works” together with faith as being elementary and foundational aspects of Christianity. The term “dead works” is likely a reference to trying to obtain righteousness by works.

... This is the way of the righteousness from God, who justifies by faith – not by law

^k Or beginning and ending in faith

^l Or The one who by faith is righteous shall live

The phrase “the righteousness of God” – as with similar expressions in the following passages – likely primarily means "righteousness from God", whereby people can be deemed righteous in his sight. It may also point to God's own righteousness in effecting this righteousness in a way which satisfies his own justice and holiness. The expression "from faith for faith" appears to mean "through faith from beginning to end" (GNT; cf. NCV, NIV, NLT). Another possible meaning is "both springing from faith and leading to faith [disclosed through the way of faith that arouses to more faith]" (AMP). The quotation from Habakkuk 2:4 (as with Galatians 3:11 in the previous subsection) is used by Paul to support his assertion that one can only be deemed righteous by faith, implying by it that because of their faith the righteous will live.

Rom 3:21-22a, 28-30 But now the righteousness of God has been manifested apart from the law, although the Law and the Prophets bear witness to it— ²²the righteousness of God through faith in Jesus Christ for all who believe.  ... ²⁸For we hold that one is justified by faith apart from works of the law. ²⁹Or is God the God of Jews only? Is he not the God of Gentiles also? Yes, of Gentiles also, ³⁰since God is one—who will justify the circumcised by faith and the uncircumcised through faith.

Note that v. 21 indicates that in fact the law itself testifies to this "righteousness of God ... manifested apart from the law".

Rom 10:1-10 Brothers,^m my heart's desire and prayer to God for them is that they may be saved. ²For I bear them witness that they have a zeal for God, but not according to knowledge. ³For, being ignorant of the righteousness of God, and seeking to establish their own, they did not submit to God's righteousness. ⁴For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to everyone who believes.ⁿ ⁵For Moses writes about the righteousness that is based on the law, that the person who does the commandments shall live by them. ⁶But the righteousness based on faith says, "Do not say in your heart, 'Who will ascend into heaven?'" (that is, to bring Christ down) ⁷or "'Who will descend into the abyss?'" (that is, to bring Christ up from the dead). ⁸But what does it say? "The word is near you, in your mouth and in your heart" (that is, the word of faith that we proclaim); ⁹because, if you confess with your mouth that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. ¹⁰For with the heart one believes and is justified, and with the mouth one confesses and is saved.

^m Or Brothers and sisters

ⁿ Or end of the law, that everyone who believes may be justified

The Jews' zeal in their attempt to establish their righteousness in their own way, was not acting in accordance with knowledge of God's righteousness (vv. 2-3). Verse 4 indicates that through Jesus Christ, God's righteousness (cf. v. 3) is now gained by belief or faith, and that the law is no longer a valid means of gaining righteousness before God. The basic thrust of verses 6-8 is that the righteousness that is by faith – in contrast to that which is by the law – is not inaccessible or too difficult. The references to bringing "Christ down" (v. 6) and bringing him "up from the dead" (v. 7) most likely are alluding to his incarnation and resurrection. These have already taken place and been achieved; nothing else needs to be done to gain righteousness and justification but to confess and believe (vv. 9-10).

Phil 3:3-9 For we are the circumcision, who worship by the Spirit of God^o and glory in Christ Jesus and put no confidence in the flesh— ⁴though I myself have reason for confidence in the flesh also. If anyone else thinks he has reason for confidence in the flesh, I have more: ⁵circumcised on the eighth day, of the people of Israel, of the tribe of Benjamin, a Hebrew of Hebrews; as to the law, a Pharisee; ⁶as to zeal, a persecutor of the church; as to righteousness under the law,^p blameless. ⁷But whatever gain I had, I counted as loss for the sake of Christ. ⁸Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things and count them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ ⁹and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith—

^o Some manuscripts God in spirit

^p Greek in the law

The expression "put no confidence in the flesh" (v. 3) refers to not relying on our own human effort to gain "a righteousness of my own that comes from the law" (v. 9). In vv. 7-9, Paul says that he had regarded the things he listed in vv. 5-6 as credit towards acquiring righteousness by the law, but now realized that they were in fact useless, incompatible with God's way to righteousness – which is by faith in Christ (v. 9).

† We are to believe in God who justifies and credits righteousness apart from any works of our own:

Rom 4:5-8 And to the one who does not work but believes in^q him who justifies the ungodly, his faith is counted as righteousness, ⁶just as David also speaks of the blessing of the one to whom God counts righteousness apart from works: ⁷"Blessed are those whose lawless deeds are forgiven, and whose sins are covered; ⁸blessed is the man against whom the Lord will not count his sin."

^q Or but trusts; compare verse 24

In the quotation in vv. 7-8 (Ps 32:1-2), David speaks of forgiveness of sins – and thus righteousness – which did not come through works of the law. David was forgiven when he confessed his sin (Ps 32:5), with his words (Ps 32:1-2, 5) being indicative of his faith. Note that v.24 in the following subsection similarly speaks of righteousness being counted to those who believe in God.

By faith Abraham was declared righteous and received the promise – and so will all who emulate him

See also:

- Abraham believed God, and God credited this to him as righteousness, p. 323
- Those who have faith are the true, spiritual children of Abraham . . ., p. 625
- . . . and God's promise or blessing to Abraham is for all who have faith, p. 626
- Like Abraham, by faith we receive what God has promised . . ., p. 1101

In believing God's promises, Abraham was credited with righteousness – and received the promises. Paul maintains that likewise those who believe what God has said/promised regarding righteousness by faith – having faith in Jesus Christ – will be credited with righteousness. Additionally, with their belief – and consequent righteousness – showing them to be children of Abraham in a spiritual sense, they become heirs of the promise made to Abraham (cf. Rom 4:13 ↓).

Note that just as Abraham was declared righteous by belief or faith, similarly Hebrews 11 speaks of Abel's (v.4) and Noah's (v.7) righteousness also coming by faith – “By faith Abel offered to God a more acceptable sacrifice than Cain, through which he was commended as righteous, God commending him by accepting his gifts. . . .⁷By faith Noah, being warned by God concerning events as yet unseen, in reverent fear constructed an ark for the saving of his household. By this he condemned the world and became an heir of the righteousness that comes by faith.” This also appears to be the case in the example of Enoch (v.5), who because of his faith “was commended as having pleased God.”

Rom 4:2-3 For if Abraham was justified by works, he has something to boast about, but not before God.³For what does the Scripture say? “Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him as righteousness.”

The phrase “but not before God” (v.2) may be meaning that if the prior supposition was true – that he was justified by works – Abraham could still not boast before God (cf. CEV).

Alternatively it may mean that this supposition was not true in God's eyes (cf. NCV, NLT). This second alternative is consistent with v.3, which by implication refutes the supposition.

Rom 4:9-12 Is this blessing then only for the circumcised, or also for the uncircumcised? *We say that faith was counted to Abraham as righteousness.*¹⁰How then was it counted to him? Was it before or after he had been circumcised? It was not after, but before he was circumcised.¹¹He received the sign of circumcision as a seal of the righteousness that he had by faith while he was still uncircumcised. The purpose was to make him the father of all who believe without being circumcised, so that righteousness would be counted to them as well,¹²and to make him the father of the circumcised who are not merely circumcised but who also walk in the footsteps of the faith that our father Abraham had before he was circumcised.

Rom 4:13-24 For the promise to Abraham and his offspring that he would be heir of the world did not come through the law but through the righteousness of faith.¹⁴For if it is the adherents of the law who are to be the heirs, faith is null and the promise is void.¹⁵For the law brings wrath, but where there is no law there is no transgression.¹⁶That is why it depends on faith, in order that the promise may rest on grace and be guaranteed to all his offspring—not only to the adherent of the law but also to the one who shares the faith of Abraham, who is the father of us all,¹⁷as it is written, “I have made you the father of many nations”—in the presence of the God in whom he believed, who gives life to the dead and calls into existence the things that do not exist.¹⁸In hope he believed against hope, that he should become the father of many nations, as he had been told, “So shall your offspring be.”¹⁹He did not weaken in faith when he considered his own body, which was as good as dead (since he was about a hundred years old), or when he considered the barrenness of Sarah's womb.²⁰No distrust made him waver concerning the promise of God, but he grew strong in his faith as he gave glory to God,²¹fully convinced that God was able to do what he had promised.²²That is why his faith was “counted to him as righteousness.”²³But the words “it was counted to him” were not written for his sake alone,²⁴but for ours also. It will be counted to us who believe in him who raised from the dead Jesus our Lord, . . .

The promise that Abraham “would be heir of the world” (v.13) in the context may be alluding to Abraham being the father of all believers (vv. 11-12 ↑; v.16) – who like him would be granted righteousness by faith – i.e. “the father of many nations” (vv. 17, 18), Gentiles as well as Jews. Alternatively, it could be referring to Abraham and his spiritual offspring inheriting the earth (cf. Matt 5:5) – in the form of the world to come – as an ultimate fulfillment or extension of the promise to Abraham that he would inherit the land of Canaan.

Regarding v. 16, the promise comes by faith to all Abraham's spiritual offspring, both believing Jews ("the adherent of the law") and Gentiles who have faith like Abraham did. In v. 20, the expression "he grew strong in his faith" means either: "his faith grew stronger" (NLT); or "His faith made him strong" (CEV; cf. AMP, GNT).

Gal 3:5-9, 13-14 Does he who supplies the Spirit to you and works miracles among you do so by works of the law, or by hearing with faith—⁶*just as Abraham "believed God, and it was counted to him as righteousness"*? ⁷*Know then that it is those of faith who are the sons of Abraham.* ⁸*And the Scripture, foreseeing that God would justify^r the Gentiles by faith, preached the gospel beforehand to Abraham, saying, "In you shall all the nations be blessed."* ⁹*So then, those who are of faith are blessed along with Abraham, the man of faith.* ...
¹³Christ redeemed us from the curse of the law by becoming a curse for us—for it is written, "Cursed is everyone who is hanged on a tree"—¹⁴*so that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promised Spirit^s through faith.* ...

^r Or count righteous; also verses 11, 24

^s Greek receive the promise of the Spirit

Abraham by his example (v. 6) leads the way to righteousness by faith, and so all who have faith are likewise blessed through him (v. 8) and along with him (v. 9). Verse 14 indicates that by Christ's redemptive work (v. 13) the blessing given to Abraham of righteousness through faith has been extended to the Gentiles – along with the associated outcome of faith, the gift of the Holy Spirit. Note that the phrase "the promised Spirit" may be associating the gift of the Holy Spirit with the promise (or promises) made to Abraham, with the Spirit being an integral part of the fulfillment of the promise.

‡ The promise to Abraham, and his "offspring", was not done away with by the law:

Gal 3:15-18, 29 To give a human example, brothers:^t even with a man-made covenant, no one annuls it or adds to it once it has been ratified. ¹⁶*Now the promises were made to Abraham and to his offspring. It does not say, "And to offsprings," referring to many, but referring to one, "And to your offspring," who is Christ.* ¹⁷This is what I mean: the law, which came 430 years afterward, does not annul a covenant previously ratified by God, so as to make the promise void. ¹⁸*For if the inheritance comes by the law, it no longer comes* by promise; but God gave it to Abraham by a promise. ...

²⁹*And if you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's offspring, heirs according to promise.* ...

^t Or brothers and sisters

God's covenant with Abraham was not superseded by the later introduction of the law (v. 17; cf. v. 15). Thus the covenant to Abraham and his "offspring" – with its promises – still stands. Due to their association with Christ – who is Abraham's "offspring" (v. 16) – believers are also counted as Abraham's seed (v. 29) or spiritual offspring and so heirs of the "promise" (v. 29) or promises (v. 16) made to him.

With these references to the "promise" Paul may have primarily in view justification by faith (cf. vv. 5-9 †; v. 24). (Other possibilities are the promise of the Spirit by faith, as per v. 14 above; or even various or all of the promises made to Abraham, cf. v. 16, 21.) The references to the "promise" and "promises" at least allude to faith and righteousness, as it was because of faith and the righteousness that comes by faith that Abraham received the promise (cf. Rom 4:13, 16 †). So Paul appears to imply that the law did not set aside faith as the basis for righteousness; the principle still applies for those who have faith in and belong to Christ – and so are of Abraham's "offspring" (v. 29).

One's righteous standing is no reason to boast, as it is not due to what one does – but to faith supports you. ¹⁹Then you will say, “Branches were broken off so that I might be grafted in.” ²⁰That is true. They were broken off because of their unbelief, but you stand fast through faith. So do not become proud, but fear. ²¹For if God did not spare the natural branches, neither will he spare you. 📖

▫ Greek root of richness; some manuscripts richness

The natural “olive root” represents Israel, particularly the patriarchs with whom Israel’s relationship with God was established. The “wild olive shoot” represents Gentile believers accepted into “Israel”, God’s people. Gentile believers should not be arrogant toward or boast over (cf. AMP, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT, NRSV) Israel in being of God’s people because: they do not stand on their own (vv. 17-18); it is only by faith that they stand at all (v. 20); and they can be broken off too (v. 21).

✦ There is nothing special about believers when God calls them, so they cannot boast as it is only because of God that they are in Jesus Christ:

1Cor 1:26-31 For consider your calling, brothers: not many of you were wise according to worldly standards,^v not many were powerful, not many were of noble birth. ²⁷But God chose what is foolish in the world to shame the wise; God chose what is weak in the world to shame the strong; ²⁸God chose what is low and despised in the world, even things that are not, to bring to nothing things that are, ²⁹so that no human being^w might boast in the presence of God. ³⁰And because of him^x you are in Christ Jesus, who became to us wisdom from God, righteousness and sanctification and redemption, ³¹so that, as it is written, “Let the one who boasts, boast in the Lord.” 📖

▫ Greek according to the flesh

▫ Greek And from him

In v. 28 Paul expands on the previous verse, saying that God has chosen the lowly, the despised and those seen as nothing, “to reduce to nothing” (NRSV) the things that are important in the eyes of the world – so that no one can be in a position to boast before him (v. 29), as it is nothing to do with what they were. Rather it is because of God alone that believers are in Christ, by whom they have their righteousness – along with sanctification and redemption (v. 30). So no one can boast about their standing, for it is in no way due to ourselves; one can only rightfully boast in God alone (v. 31).

Bear in mind that in this section, “works” refers to things one does to attempt to work for or earn righteousness and salvation. This includes good deeds but mainly has in view actions specifically aimed at fulfilling the law’s demands. Note that the following subsections all speak of aspects of God’s salvation, as per the theme of this section.

- People are saved by God’s grace and mercy, through Jesus Christ . . .

God chooses and calls people by his grace and mercy, through Jesus Christ – not because of works

That God would choose some people and not others has been a subject of great debate and frustration. But the Bible never gives any indication that this is in any way unjust; to the contrary, as shown in the references below, it takes the view that the fact that God would choose any at all is indeed a reflection of his glorious grace. For further discussion, see the introductory comment on a) Prologue: God Draws People to Himself, p. 758.

Eph 1:4-6 ... even as he [God] chose us in him [Jesus Christ] before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and blameless before him. In love ⁵*he predestined us* for adoption as sons through Jesus Christ, according to the purpose of his will, ⁶*to the praise of his glorious grace*, with which he has blessed us in the Beloved.

^y Or before him in love, having predestined us

Gal 1:6 I am astonished that you are so quickly deserting him who called you in the grace of Christ and are turning to a different gospel—

In essence this may be referring to God calling people “by his grace through Christ” (NCV™; cf. CEV, NLT) – his grace expressed in Christ. This is supported by the fact that some manuscripts do not refer to Christ (cf. CEV and text note, GNT and text note).

Gal 1:15 But when he who had set me apart before I was born,^z and who called me by his grace, ...

^z Greek set me apart from my mother's womb

The reference to being called by grace may be speaking of Paul's conversion – hence the verse's inclusion here. Alternatively his apostolic work (cf. v. 16, GNT, NCV) may primarily be in view. Possibly Paul is not intending to distinguish between the two.

1Pet 5:10 And after you have suffered a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal glory in Christ, will himself restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish you.

1Pet 2:9-10 But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession, that you may proclaim the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light. ¹⁰*Once you were not a people, but now you are God's people; once you had not received mercy, but now you have received mercy*.

By God's mercy (v. 10b), believers are “a chosen race”, “called... out of darkness into his marvelous light” (v. 9).

Rom 9:16 So then it depends not on human will or exertion, a but on God, who has mercy.

^a Greek not of him who wills or runs

Here “it” refers to God's choice of persons to be his people (cf. vv. 11-12). This and the following verses (11:5-6; 2Tim 1:9) speak not only of God's choice of persons being due to God's mercy or grace, but also indicate that it is not due to our own efforts or works.

Rom 11:5-6 So too at the present time there is a remnant, chosen by grace. ⁶*But if it is by grace, it is no longer on the basis of works; otherwise grace would no longer be grace*.

The “remnant” refers to those that God had chosen from among the largely unbelieving Jewish nation.

Acts 11:21-23 And the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number who believed turned to the Lord. ²²The report of this came to the ears of the church in Jerusalem, and they sent Barnabas to Antioch. ²³When he came and saw the grace of God, he was glad, and he exhorted them all to remain faithful to the Lord with steadfast purpose, ...

Acts 18:27 And when he wished to cross to Achaia, the brothers encouraged him and wrote to the disciples to welcome him. When he arrived, he greatly helped those who through grace had believed, ...

Rom 2:4 Or do you presume on the riches of his kindness and forbearance and patience, not knowing that God's kindness is meant to lead you to repentance?

God's kindness is akin to his grace, which is often described as his “undeserved kindness”.

2Cor 4:15 For it is all for your sake, so that as grace extends to more and more people it may increase thanksgiving, to the glory of God.

This is speaking of God's grace being extended to people to bring them (cf. NCV, NLT) to him.

1Tim 1:13-14 ... though formerly I was a blasphemer, persecutor, and insolent opponent. But I received mercy because I had acted ignorantly in unbelief, ¹⁴*and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus*.

Particularly in light of v. 13, the clause “the grace of our Lord overflowed for me” (v. 14) would appear to primarily have in view the effecting of Paul’s salvation. In line with this, the addition of the following phrase – “with the faith” – points to Paul’s faith being a product of the aforementioned grace. (Note that it is Jesus Christ’s grace that is referred to here.)

People are justified and made righteous by God’s grace, through Jesus Christ – not by law

Rom 3:22b-24 For there is no distinction: ²³for all have sinned and fall short of the glory of God, ²⁴and are justified by his grace as a gift, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus, ...

Rom 5:1-2 Therefore, since we have been justified by faith, we^d have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. ²Through him we have also obtained access by faith^e into this grace in which we stand, and we^f rejoice^g in hope of the glory of God.

^d Some manuscripts let us

^e Some manuscripts omit by faith

^f Or let us; also verse 3

^g Or boast; also verses 3, 11

The “grace in which we stand” quite probably is referring to believers being justified and at peace with God (v. 1), a position in which they stand by grace, through Jesus Christ.

Rom 5:15-21 But the free gift is not like the trespass. For if many died through one man’s trespass, much more have the grace of God and the free gift by the grace of that one man Jesus Christ abounded for many. ¹⁶And the free gift is not like the result of that one man’s sin. For the judgment following one trespass brought condemnation, but the free gift following many trespasses brought justification. ¹⁷For if, because of one man’s trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ. ¹⁸Therefore, as one trespass^h led to condemnation for all men, so one act of righteousnessⁱ leads to justification and life for all men. ¹⁹For as by the one man’s disobedience the many were made sinners, so by the one man’s obedience the many will be made righteous. ²⁰Now the law came in to increase the trespass, but where sin increased, grace abounded all the more, ²¹*so that, as sin reigned in death, grace also might reign through righteousness leading to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.*

^h Or the trespass of one

ⁱ Or the act of righteousness of one

In vv. 15-16 “the free gift”, evoked by grace, primarily refers to “the free gift of righteousness” (v. 17). Verses 18-19 speak further of this justification and righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ. In vv. 20-21 grace is again associated with righteousness. Paul says that despite the proliferation of sin, God’s grace has overcome it (v. 20), for in providing righteousness, God’s grace brings eternal life through Jesus Christ (v. 21; cf. vv. 17-18).

2Cor 5:21; 6:1 For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God. ^{6:1}Working together with him, then, we appeal to you not to receive the grace of God in vain.

In 6:1, Paul urges the Corinthians not to waste the grace of God, his grace manifested in making people righteous through Jesus Christ (5:21).

Titus 3:7 ... so that being justified by his grace we might become heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

Gal 2:21 I do not nullify the grace of God, for if righteousness^j were through the law, then Christ died for no purpose.

^j Or justification

Righteousness comes by God’s grace – by what Jesus Christ’s death accomplished – not through abiding by the law. The following reference (5:4) by implication makes the same point about justification, which is of course akin to righteousness.

Gal 5:4 You are severed from Christ, you who would be justified^k by the law; you have fallen away from grace.

^k Or counted righteous

✦ It is God who justifies:

Rom 8:30, 33 And those whom he predestined he also called, and those whom he called he also justified, and those whom he justified he also glorified. ... ³³Who shall bring any charge against God’s elect? It is God who justifies.

Jesus Christ appears to be in view in the first part of v. 7, but "his grace,⁸ which he lavished upon us" may well be speaking of God and God's grace (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

Eph 2:4-8 *But¹ God, being rich in mercy, because of the great love with which he loved us, ⁵even when we were dead in our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ—by grace you have been saved— ⁶and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, ⁷so that in the coming ages he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus. ⁸For by grace you have been saved through faith. 2Cor 6:2 For he says, "In a favorable time I listened to you, and in a day of salvation I have helped you." Behold, now is the favorable time; behold, now is the day of salvation.

This "favorable time" concerns the expression of God's favor. His favor corresponds to his grace (cf. v. 1 ↑) by which he has provided the present opportunity of salvation, through Jesus Christ (cf. 2Cor 5:21 ↑).

Luke 1:76-79 And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High; for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways, ⁷⁷to give knowledge of salvation to his people in the forgiveness of their sins, ⁷⁸because of the tender mercy of our God, whereby the sunrise shall visit us^o from on high ⁷⁹to give light to those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death, to guide our feet into the way of peace.

^o Or when the sunrise shall dawn upon us; some manuscripts since the sunrise has visited us

Because of "the tender mercy of our God" (v. 78a), God has provided people with "salvation to his people in the forgiveness of their sins" (v. 77) – by the coming of Jesus Christ, "the sunrise" (v. 78b). Verse 79 speaks of aspects of this salvation. The clause "those who sit in darkness and in the shadow of death" probably primarily refers to the Gentiles, but may denote both Jews and Gentiles living in the darkness of their sins. Peace with God is paramount in the final phrase.

... People are saved by God's grace and mercy rather than by works and the law

Eph 2:8-9 For by grace you have been saved through faith. And this is not your own doing; it is the gift of God,⁹ not a result of works, so that no one may boast.

Note that the "gift of God" (v. 8) may be referring either to faith in particular or to the whole process of being saved.

In v. 10 Peter is arguing against trying to put the Gentile disciples under the yoke of the law, a yoke that the Jews had never been able to carry – i.e. live up to. Verse 1 refers to the grace of Jesus Christ, which is at one in purpose with and in many ways synonymous with the grace of God.

✦ It was by God's grace that Jesus died for everyone:

Heb 2:9 But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone. 📖

Eternal life is a gift from God, through Jesus Christ

See also:

▪ Eph 2:8 ↑

The fact that eternal life is indeed a gift from God – through the gift of his Son – is illustrative of salvation being of God's grace.

Rom 6:23 For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord. 📖

1Jn 5:11 And this is the testimony, that God gave us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. 📖

John 4:10 Jesus answered her, "If you knew the gift of God, and who it is that is saying to you, 'Give me a drink,' you would have asked him, and he would have given you living water." 📖

The "gift of God" probably refers to eternal life, although some think it refers to Jesus as the one through whom eternal life comes. Jesus gives spiritual "living water" – which results in eternal life. Note that in Jesus' use here of "water", some commentators see a possible allusion to the Holy Spirit (cf. John 7:38-39).

Rev 22:17 The Spirit and the Bride say, "Come." And let the one who hears say, "Come." And let the one who is thirsty come; let the one who desires take the water of life without price. 📖

The term "water of life" appears to reflect Jesus' use of "living water" (cf. John 4:10 ↑) in alluding to eternal life. It is "without price", indicative of it being a gift.

✦ God's free gift of righteousness, by grace, that brings life:

Rom 5:15-17 But the free gift is not like the trespass. For if many died through one man's trespass, much more have the grace of God and the free gift by the grace of that one man Jesus Christ abounded for many. ¹⁶*And the free gift is not like the result of that one man's sin.* For the judgment following one trespass brought condemnation, but the free gift following many trespasses brought justification. ¹⁷For if, because of one man's trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ. 📖

Note that similarly Romans 3:24 speaks of how people "are justified by his grace as a gift, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus."

Note: Jesus Christ's grace and mercy are integral to salvation

1Tim 1:12-16 I thank him who has given me strength, Christ Jesus our Lord, because he judged me faithful, appointing me to his service, ¹³though formerly I was a blasphemer, persecutor, and insolent opponent. But I received mercy because I had acted ignorantly in unbelief, ¹⁴*and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus.* ¹⁵The saying is trustworthy and deserving of full acceptance, that Christ Jesus came into the world to save sinners, of whom I am the foremost. ¹⁶*But I received mercy for this reason, that in me, as the foremost, Jesus Christ might display his perfect patience* as an example to those who were to believe in him for eternal life. 📖

Paul typically uses "Lord" (cf. 2Tim 1:18 ↓) in reference to Jesus Christ rather than to God. This fact coupled with the context suggests that the "grace of our Lord" (v. 14) is speaking of Jesus Christ's grace. Of course God's grace (and mercy) and Jesus Christ's grace (and mercy) are intertwined, and so a number of commentators refer to God's grace when discussing v. 14.

2Tim 1:18 ... may the Lord grant him to find mercy from the Lord on that Day!—and you well know all the service he rendered at Ephesus. 📖

Jude 1:21 ... keep yourselves in the love of God, waiting for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ that leads to eternal life. 📖

Acts 2:46-47 And day by day, attending the temple together and breaking bread in their homes, they received their food with glad and generous hearts, ⁴⁷praising God and having favor with all the people. And the Lord added to their number day by day those who were being saved. 📖

The reference to God earlier in the verse suggests that "the Lord" (v. 47) may well be speaking of Jesus Christ. His grace and mercy is apparent in Luke saying that he "added" believers to the church, indicating that the new members were saved on Christ's initiative rather than their own.

c) Release from the Law through Jesus Christ

- c\) Living Free of the Law and Sin – by the Spirit, p. 1072

This section looks at how Jesus Christ has fully realized the key objectives of the Mosaic Law, and how as a result God's people have been released from the law.

The most notable implication of this release is that God's people have been freed from bondage to the law as the means of obtaining righteousness and being made holy. Additionally, other major aspects of the law are no longer applicable to God's people. There is also a change of focus in their lives, with them living their lives primarily by faith and in step with the Holy Spirit (cf. c\) Living Free of the Law and Sin – by the Spirit, p. 1072) – rather than being preoccupied with the requirements of the law. (See also Instead of being under the law, believers are under grace and Jesus Christ's law, later in this section.)

Note that the law's commands that are applicable to the believer's new spiritual relationship with God or to their relationships with other people, are still very much relevant in that they give guidance in how to please God (cf. d\) The Relevance of the Law, p. 659).

Jesus Christ fully realized what the law had worked towards, primarily the removal of sin and making God's people holy. In conjunction with this, he realized the corresponding goal of salvation.

Heb 10:1, 10-14 For since the law has but a shadow of the good things to come instead of the true form of these realities, it can never, by the same sacrifices that are continually offered every year, make perfect those who draw near. 📖 ... ¹⁰And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. ¹¹And every priest stands daily at his service, offering repeatedly the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. ¹²But when Christ^q had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, he sat down at the right hand of God, ¹³waiting from that time until his enemies should be made a footstool for his feet. ¹⁴For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are being sanctified.

The law's work toward making God's people holy merely foreshadowed the "realities" (v. 1) that would be realized through Jesus Christ. The law's sacrifices for sin were not sufficient to comprehensively deal with sin and make people perfect (vv. 1, 11). But by the sacrifice of himself Jesus Christ fulfilled the primary goal that the law with its sin offerings pointed towards – the consummate removal of sins (v. 12), sanctifying God's people (vv. 10, 14).

Heb 7:18-19, 25-27 For on the one hand, a former commandment is set aside because of its weakness and uselessness ¹⁹(for the law made nothing perfect); but on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, through which we draw near to God.  ... ²⁵Consequently, he [Christ] is able to save to the uttermost^r those who draw near to God through him, since he always lives to make intercession for them. ²⁶For it was indeed fitting that we should have such a high priest, holy, innocent, unstained, separated from sinners, and exalted above the heavens. ²⁷He has no need, like those high priests, to offer sacrifices daily, first for his own sins and then for those of the people, since he did this once for all when he offered up himself.

^r That is, completely; or at all times

The law with its priesthood had worked towards making God's people perfect (vv. 18-19; cf. v. 11) and to remove sin (v. 27) – though it could not effectively do so. Verses 25-27 point to the fact that this goal has been realized by Jesus Christ, in sacrificing for sins once for all (v. 27) and achieving the corresponding goal of completely saving God's people (v. 25; cf. Heb 9:12 ↓). Note that "a former commandment" (v. 18) may refer in particular to priests of the Levitical priesthood becoming priests "on the basis of a legal requirement concerning bodily descent" (v. 16). In any case it was an aspect of the law which "made nothing perfect" (v. 19).

Heb 9:6-14 These preparations having thus been made, the priests go regularly into the first section, performing their ritual duties, ⁷but into the second only the high priest goes, and he but once a year, and not without taking blood, which he offers for himself and for the unintentional sins of the people. ⁸By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the holy places is not yet opened as long as the first section is still standing ⁹(which is symbolic for the present age).^s According to this arrangement, gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot perfect the conscience of the worshiper,¹⁰ but deal only with food and drink and various washings, regulations for the body imposed until the time of reformation. ¹¹But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things that have come,^t then through the greater and more perfect tent (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation) ¹²he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption. ¹³For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctify^u for the purification of the flesh, ¹⁴how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our^v conscience from dead works to serve the living God.

Jesus Christ fully realized the efforts made under the law's regulations to remove sin and secure holiness for God's people – to the extent that they may now enter God's presence. Under the law the high priest alone entered the earthly Most Holy Place – the second inner room of the sanctuary – with the blood of sacrifices made for sin (v. 7). This indicated that the sacrifices ultimately were not able to clear the people's consciences, for them themselves to be able to enter God's presence (vv. 8-9). But by his own blood Jesus Christ entered God's very presence in heaven to obtain eternal redemption (v. 12) and realize true inner cleansing for God's people (vv. 13-14). As such they may serve God (v. 14b), having been made holy – with the implication that Jesus Christ's work has opened the way into God's presence (v. 8) for all God's people. Note that in vv. 9-10 two contrasting eras are referred to – "the present age" (v. 9) and "the time of reformation" (v. 10). These appear to refer respectively to: the old order under the Levitical priesthood (cf. text note) and the new order inaugurated by what Christ has done.

Col 2:11 In him also you were circumcised with a circumcision made without hands, by putting off the body of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ, ...

Circumcision was a key aspect of the Mosaic Law, signifying adherence to the law as a whole. Arguably the suggestion here is that circumcision symbolizes the removal of sin, with faultless obedience to the law meaning that sin has been removed from one's life. However such complete obedience to the law is impossible. But in Jesus Christ God's people have had the controlling power of the sinful nature cut off, through what Christ has done – “the circumcision of Christ” (v. 11) – making them holy. As such, Jesus Christ realized what circumcision symbolizes.

John 1:17 For the law was given through Moses; grace and truth came through Jesus Christ.

God's grace and a fuller revelation of truth came through Jesus Christ. The verse may allude to the fact that with this “grace and truth” Christ fulfilled the Mosaic Law's objectives of effecting holiness and salvation.

✦ Jesus Christ came to fulfill the Law and the Prophets:

Matt 5:17-18 Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them. ¹⁸For truly, I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot, will pass from the Law until all is accomplished.

There are differing views as to what Jesus meant by saying he had come “to fulfill” (v. 17) the Law and the Prophets. It involves the fact that they pointed to Jesus as the Messiah and that he would do or “bring about” (NCV™) that of which they spoke. This includes him fully realizing the holiness and righteousness before God that the law had worked towards but could not accomplish, as well as fulfilling other prophecies related to the Messiah and his work. Other things that some commentators suggest that “to fulfill” the law entails are: expounding God's laws so as to “give them their full meaning” (CEV; cf. vv. 21-22a, 27-28, 31-35, 38-39, 43-44); and fulfilling the law's requirements by perfectly obeying all of it.

The expression “until all is accomplished” (v. 18) refers to Jesus fulfilling “everything” of which the law and the prophets spoke – presumably including the consummation of his work at the end of the age.

So through Jesus Christ believers have been released from the law

^w Or brothers and sisters; also verse 4

^x Greek of the letter

This refers to the concept of believers being in or united with Jesus Christ, in a spiritual sense. As such, through Jesus Christ's death and because of its implications, believers have themselves “died as far as the law is concerned” (NIRV®, v. 4; cf. Gal 2:19 ↓). In v. 6, “that which held us captive” is a reference to the law (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT).

Rom 10:4 For Christ is the end of the law for righteousness to everyone who believes.^y

^y Or end of the law, that everyone who believes may be justified

The assertion that Christ is the “end” of the law may mean that he was the “goal” of the law, that it would have its fulfillment in him. But it could well instead mean that he “ended the law” (NCV™, cf. CEV, GNT), instituting righteousness by belief (and the new way of living by the Holy Spirit). The two interpretations are actually compatible: as the “goal” or focal point of the law, Jesus Christ has come and fulfilled it, and so has completed its work – thus ending it.

Gal 2:19 For through the law I died to the law, so that I might live to God.

Believers have died to the law so as to live for God, freer to serve him more effectively. In saying that “through the law” he died to the law, Paul may be meaning that in accordance with the law and the penalty of death that it demands for sin, he has died – in being crucified with Christ (v. 20) – and by dying he has been released from the realm of the law. Alternatively Paul may have in view the law's role in leading one to Christ, in whom one has died to the law.

Gal 3:19, 23-25 Why then the law? It was added because of transgressions, until the offspring [Jesus] should come to whom the promise had been made, and it was put in place through angels by an intermediary.  ... ²³Now before faith came, we were held captive under the law, imprisoned until the coming faith would be revealed. ²⁴So then, the law was our guardian until Christ came, in order that we might be justified by faith. ²⁵But now that faith has come, we are no longer under a guardian, ...

The law was only ever to be the authority over God's people until Jesus Christ came, when faith would supersede it as the way for God's people to be justified.

Gal 4:1-5 I mean that the heir, as long as he is a child, is no different from a slave,^z though he is the owner of everything,² but he is under guardians and managers until the date set by his father. ³*In the same way we also, when we were children, were enslaved to the elementary principles^a of the world.* ⁴*But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law,* ⁵*to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons.*

^z Greek bondservant; also verse 7

^a Or elemental spirits; also verse 9

One direct result of Christ coming "to redeem those who were under the law" (v. 5), is that we are now no longer under the law. Regarding v. 3, there is debate over the meaning of the "elementary principles" of the world. The immediate context suggests that v. 3 is speaking of people being in slavery to the "rules" (NCV™) of this world – primarily the Mosaic Law (cf. AMP.), from which Christ has redeemed or set them free (vv. 4-5). However the Greek can also be translated as "elemental spirits" (cf. text note). This correlates well with v. 8 ("you were enslaved to those that by nature are not gods"), although v. 8 is speaking more specifically of the Galatians' own prior predicament, which does not appear to be the case with v. 3.

Gal 4:21-26, 30-31; 5:1 Tell me, you who desire to be under the law, do you not listen to the law? ²²For it is written that Abraham had two sons, one by a slave woman and one by a free woman. ²³But the son of the slave was born according to the flesh, while the son of the free woman was born through promise. ²⁴Now this may be interpreted allegorically: these women are two covenants. One is from Mount Sinai, bearing children for slavery; she is Hagar. ²⁵Now Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia;^b she corresponds to the present Jerusalem, for she is in slavery with her children. ²⁶But the Jerusalem above is free, and she is our mother.  ... ³⁰But what does the Scripture say? "Cast out the slave woman and her son, for the son of the slave woman shall not inherit with the son of the free woman." ³¹So, brothers, we are not children of the slave but of the free woman.  ^{5:1}For freedom Christ has set us free; stand firm therefore, and do not submit again to a yoke of slavery.

In contrast to those under the old covenant, under the new covenant God's people are free from being enslaved to the law – the "yoke of slavery" (5:1). "Cast out the slave woman and her son" (v. 30) is a call for Paul's readers to rid themselves of legalistic adherence to the law and of those who propagate this.

1Cor 9:20 To the Jews I became as a Jew, in order to win Jews. To those under the law I became as one under the law (though not being myself under the law) that I might win those under the law.

Gal 2:4 Yet because of false brothers secretly brought in— who slipped in to spy out our freedom that we have in Christ Jesus, so that they might bring us into slavery—

The "false brothers" – unenlightened as to the freedom from the law which Paul and his companions had in Christ – wanted to make them slaves again to the law. Thus this verse supports the assertion that through Christ believers have been released from the law.

✦ The Law was in force only until John's ministry:

Luke 16:16 The Law and the Prophets were until John; since then the good news of the kingdom of God is preached, and everyone forces his way into it.

^c Or everyone is forcefully urged into it

The Law was in force until John the Baptist's ministry, proclaimed along with the teaching of the Prophets. John's ministry was preparatory to that of Jesus, who began the proclamation of the kingdom of God, superseding the Law and the Prophets in prominence.

With Jesus Christ's once and for all sacrifice, there is no longer any need to sacrifice for sin

Note that this and the following two subsections speak of aspects of the law from which believers have been released.

Heb 7:27 He has no need, like those high priests, to offer sacrifices daily, first for his own sins and then for those of the people, since he did this once for all when he offered up himself.

Heb 9:6-14 These preparations having thus been made, the priests go regularly into the first section, performing their ritual duties, ⁷but into the second only the high priest goes, and he but once a year, and not without taking blood, which he offers for himself and for the unintentional sins of the people. ⁸By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the holy places is not yet opened as long as the first section is still standing ⁹(which is symbolic for the present age).^d According to this arrangement, gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot perfect the conscience of the worshiper, ¹⁰but deal only with food and drink and various washings, regulations

^d Or which is symbolic for the age then present

^e Some manuscripts good things to come

^f Or For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctifies

The offerings for sin and uncleanness (vv. 7, 9) were “imposed until the time of reformation” (v. 10). They no longer apply under “the new order” (v. 10, NIV), due to what Jesus Christ’s sacrifice has accomplished (vv. 12, 14). For as v. 12 indicates, Jesus Christ sacrificed himself before God, for our sins – once and for all – thus “securing eternal redemption”. Note that “dead works” (v. 14) appears to be inclusive of – or even primarily speaking of – the offering of sacrifices, further implying that they are no longer needed.

Heb 9:26b-28 But as it is, he has appeared once for all at the end of the ages to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself. ²⁷And just as it is appointed for man to die once, and after that comes judgment, ²⁸so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him.

Verse 26b implies that Jesus Christ’s sacrifice for sin once and for all did away with sin, and the need to sacrifice for it. The first part of v. 28 also suggests this and what follows further alludes to it, speaking of Jesus Christ coming again but “not to deal with sin”.

Heb 10:3-18 But in these sacrifices there is a reminder of sins every year. ⁴For it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins. ⁵Consequently, when Christ^h came into the world, he said, “Sacrifices and offerings you have not desired, but a body have you prepared for me; ⁶in burnt offerings and sin offerings you have taken no pleasure. ⁷Then I said, ‘Behold, I have come to do your will, O God, as it is written of me in the scroll of the book.’” ⁸When he said above, “You have neither desired nor taken pleasure in sacrifices and offerings and burnt offerings and sin offerings” (these are offered according to the law), ⁹then he added, “Behold, I have come to do your will.” He does away with the first in order to establish the second. ¹⁰And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. ¹¹And every priest stands daily at his service, offering repeatedly the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins. ¹²But when Christⁱ had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, he sat down at the right hand of God, ¹³waiting from that time until his enemies should be made a footstool for his feet. ¹⁴For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are being sanctified. ¹⁵And the Holy Spirit also bears witness to us; for after saying, ¹⁶“This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws on their hearts, and write them on their minds,” ¹⁷then he adds, “I will remember their sins and their lawless deeds no more.” ¹⁸Where there is forgiveness of these, there is no longer any offering for sin.

ⁱ Greek this one

The OT sacrifices were ineffective in dealing with sin (vv. 3-4, 11). As such they ultimately were not desired by God or pleasing to him (vv. 5-6, 8), a standing which anticipates their redundancy. Later in accordance with God’s will, Jesus Christ set aside the first covenant with its sacrifices for sin (v. 9), through the once and for all sacrifice of himself for sin (vv. 10, 12, 14). This means that God’s people are now sanctified (vv. 10, 14) and forgiven (vv. 17-18a), and so “there is no longer any offering for sin” (v. 18b).

The regulations and rituals of the law are no longer applicable . . .

Acts 10:28 And he said to them, *“You yourselves know how unlawful it is for a Jew to associate with or to visit anyone of another nation, but God has shown me that I should not call any person common or unclean.” *

Aspects of the law that distinguished Jews from other peoples – such as food regulations and other Jewish customs (cf. Gal 2:14 ↓) – meant that Jews had to largely be separate from Gentiles (cf. Gal 2:12-13 ↓). But God had shown Peter that such regulations and corresponding differentiations between Jews and Gentiles were no longer applicable (cf. Acts 10:9-16 ↓).

Rom 14:5 One person esteems one day as better than another, while another esteems all days alike. Each one should be fully convinced in his own mind.

Paul is primarily referring to the special days set aside by the law for special observances. The verse indicates that keeping such days for special observances is not mandatory for Christians.

Gal 4:9-10 But now that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how can you turn back again to the weak and worthless elementary principles of the world, whose slaves you want to be once more? ¹⁰*You observe days and months and seasons and years!*

In v. 10 Paul may well be referring to the Galatians wrongly observing regulations of the law as mirroring their past pagan observances (cf. v. 8) – hence the inclusion of these verses here. Alternatively Paul may have the actual pagan observances themselves in view.

Gal 5:6 For in Christ Jesus neither circumcision nor uncircumcision counts for anything, but only faith working through love.

Similarly 6:15 says, “For neither circumcision counts for anything, nor uncircumcision, but a new creation.”

Eph 2:14-15 For he himself is our peace, who has made us both one and has broken down in his flesh the dividing wall of hostility ¹⁵*by abolishing the law of commandments expressed in ordinances*, that he might create in himself one new man in place of the two, so making peace, ...

The law with its various regulations and rituals (v. 15a) given to the Jews, distinguished and separated the Jews from the Gentiles. By abolishing it (or its former role) through his death, Jesus Christ destroyed the barrier and associated hostility between Jews and Gentiles (v. 14).

Col 2:13-14, 16-17 And you, who were dead in your trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, God made alive together with him, having forgiven us all our trespasses, ¹⁴by canceling the record of debt that stood against us with its legal demands. This he set aside, nailing it to the cross.  ... ¹⁶*Therefore let no one pass judgment on you in questions of food and drink, or with regard to a festival or a new moon or a Sabbath. ¹⁷These are a shadow of the things to come, but the substance belongs to Christ.*

In v. 14, “the record of debt that stood against us with its legal demands” appears to portray a record of our sins with the corresponding “legal demands” of the law which we have broken. Paul may be implying that Christ cancelled not only our sins but also the “legal demands” of the law. Verses 16-17 are saying that the various aspects of the old covenant mentioned (v. 16) merely foreshadowed what was to come with Christ (v. 17). So there is now no longer any binding requirement to observe such regulations – in accordance with what God has done through Christ (vv. 13-14).

Heb 7:15-19 This becomes even more evident when another priest arises in the likeness of Melchizedek, ¹⁶*who has become a priest, not on the basis of a legal requirement concerning bodily descent, but by the power of an indestructible life. ¹⁷For it is witnessed of him, “You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek.” ¹⁸For on the one hand, a former commandment is set aside because of its weakness and uselessness ¹⁹(for the law made nothing perfect); but on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, through which we draw near to God.*

The former commandment that is set aside (v. 18) is most likely that requiring the priests to be descendants of Aaron, the legal requirement referred to in v. 16. The Aaronic priesthood and its functions ultimately proved to be weak and useless (v. 18), for in conjunction with them the law could not bring perfection (v. 19). So the Aaronic priesthood is no longer applicable to God’s people, who now have a priest from a different order with a permanent priesthood (v. 17).

Gal 2:11-14 But when Cephas came to Antioch, I opposed him to his face, because he stood condemned. ¹²For before certain men came from James, he was eating with the Gentiles; but when they came he drew back and separated himself, fearing the circumcision party. ¹³And the rest of the Jews acted hypocritically along with him, so that even Barnabas was led astray by their hypocrisy. ¹⁴But when I saw that their conduct was not in step with the truth of the gospel, I said to Cephas before them all, “If you, though a Jew, live like a Gentile and not like a Jew, how can you force the Gentiles to live like Jews?”

By their action (vv. 12-13) Peter and other Jews were adhering to Jewish ways based on the law, pandering to the views of “the circumcision party” (v. 12). As such, their action wrongly implied that the Gentiles should likewise follow Jewish customs (v. 14b) based on the law. The implication is that such Jewish customs based on the law are not applicable to Christians.

The distinction between “clean” and “unclean” animals existed since Noah’s time (cf. Gen 7:2). Animals that were designated “clean” could be eaten and were used in sacrifices, in contrast to “unclean” animals. The restrictions on not eating “unclean” animals were included in the OT law (as per the subsection cross-referenced above). Note that the vision had a deeper meaning than just illustrating that believers are free of restrictions concerning “unclean” foods. In terms of God’s people, one was no longer to distinguish between Jews and Gentiles (cf. v. 28 ⬆) – nor adhere to the accompanying differential practices of the law, of which food restrictions was one of the most prominent.

Rom 14:3, 14, 20 Let not the one who eats despise the one who abstains, and let not the one who abstains pass judgment on the one who eats, for God has welcomed him. ... ¹⁴I know and am persuaded in the Lord Jesus that nothing is unclean in itself, but it is unclean for anyone who thinks it unclean.

... ²⁰*Do not, for the sake of food, destroy the work of God. Everything is indeed clean, but it is wrong for anyone to make another stumble by what he eats.*

Note that here Paul makes allowance for those with weak consciences to abstain from eating certain foods. Food previously sacrificed to idols may have been the background to the discussion, rather than simply the law’s food regulations.

Heb 13:9-10 Do not be led away by diverse and strange teachings, for it is good for the heart to be strengthened by grace, not by foods, which have not benefited those devoted to them. ¹⁰*We have an altar from which those who serve the tent have no right to eat.*

Like the other verses in this subsection, this concerns regulations regarding particular foods. However, rather than forbidding certain foods, the false teaching in question here advocated eating certain “ceremonial foods” (v. 9). In light of the reference in v. 10 to priests, the “teachings” and the “ceremonial foods” (NIV®) may primarily be referring to teachings propagating certain food regulations of the law. However, rules regarding foods were also common in other religions and cults, and the “diverse and strange teachings” may have instead concerned such things.

The “altar” (v. 10) seems to refer to Christ’s sacrifice – or the cross, being the “altar” on which he was sacrificed. The phrase “no right to eat” (v. 10) most likely somewhat ironically alludes to the regulations regarding eating and food under the law. Thus v. 10 would appear to teach – in addition to believers not needing to follow the law’s food regulations (v. 9) – that those who do legalistically adhere to the law, with its regulations, have no share in Christ’s sacrifice and the blessings it brings.

Matt 15:1-2, 20 Then Pharisees and scribes came to Jesus from Jerusalem and said, ²*“Why do your disciples break the tradition of the elders? For they do not wash their hands when they eat.”* ... [Jesus:] ²⁰*These are what defile a person. But to eat with unwashed hands does not defile anyone.*

Here it is not actually food regulations of the law that are being spoken of as unnecessary, but rather the related practice of washing hands before eating. This did not actually come directly from the law, but apparently had been derived from it by Jewish religious leaders and so had become a religious tradition.

‡ All food is created by God and so is good – and to be received with thanksgiving:

1Tim 4:1-5 Now the Spirit expressly says that in later times some will depart from the faith by devoting themselves to deceitful spirits and teachings of demons, ²through the insincerity of liars whose consciences are seared, ³who forbid marriage and require abstinence from foods that God created to be received with thanksgiving by those who believe and know the truth. ⁴*For everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with thanksgiving, ⁵for it is made holy by the word of God and prayer.*

Ascetic teaching rather than the law is in question here – but the principles outlined are applicable to this subsection. In v. 5 “prayer” may well refer to giving thanks for food before meals, and possibly “the word of God” may then denote Scripture used in giving thanks. Alternatively, the “word of God” could be referring to teaching in Scripture regarding all food being acceptable – notably the above references.

Instead of being under the law, believers are under grace and Jesus Christ’s law

- ... and live in God’s grace, p. 1074

Believers are not under the law but “under grace”. By grace righteousness and salvation are not only gained (cf. Titus 2:11 ↓), as discussed earlier, but are also maintained. For in his grace God enables believers to live godly lives (cf. Titus 2:12 ↓) and continues to provide for forgiveness when they do sin (cf. comment on Acts 13:43 ↓). Accordingly, believers are to rely on God’s grace both in striving to please God and for forgiveness.

Rom 6:14-15 For sin will have no dominion over you, since you are not under law but under grace. ¹⁵What then? Are we to sin because we are not under law but under grace? By no means!

Titus 2:11-12 For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation for all people, ¹²training us to renounce ungodliness and worldly passions, and to live self-controlled, upright, and godly lives in the present age, ...

God’s people are to comply with training/teaching that has come through or resulted from God’s grace.

Acts 13:43 And after the meeting of the synagogue broke up, many Jews and devout converts to Judaism followed Paul and Barnabas, who, as they spoke with them, urged them to continue in the grace of God.

Continuing in the realm of God’s grace involves continuing to be faithful to him, thus remaining under God’s grace for our righteous status before him.

1Pet 5:12 By Silvanus, a faithful brother as I regard him, I have written briefly to you, exhorting and declaring that this is the true grace of God. Stand firm in it.

The teaching contained in Peter’s letter was – or at least reflected and was based on – “the true grace of God”, in which Peter encouraged his readers to stand firm.

Rom 11:22 Note then the kindness and the severity of God: severity toward those who have fallen, but God’s kindness to you, provided you continue in his kindness. Otherwise you too will be cut off.

Many commentators see Paul here as talking specifically of the Gentiles as a whole, rather than individual believers. But the concept of the need to continue in God’s “gracious kindness” (AMP) – so as not to be “cut off” – is obviously also applicable to individuals.

1Cor 9:20-21 To the Jews I became as a Jew, in order to win Jews. To those under the law I became as one under the law (though not being myself under the law) that I might win those under the law. ²¹To those outside the law I became as one outside the law (not being outside the law of God but under the law of Christ) that I might win those outside the law.

In the bracketed section of v. 21, Paul indicates that he was not “without law toward God” (NKJV); rather he was under God’s authority through being “under the law of Christ” (cf. Gal 6:2 ↓). The “law of Christ” presumably primarily denotes Jesus’ teaching and apostolic teaching based on it. As such it would encompass the law’s spiritual and moral commands, as interpreted by Jesus and other NT teaching (cf. James 1:25 ↓).

Gal 6:2 Bear one another’s burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ.

James 1:25 But the one who looks into the perfect law, the law of liberty, and perseveres, being no hearer who forgets but a doer who acts, he will be blessed in his doing.

God’s people are to obey “the perfect law that sets people free” (GNT; cf. CEV, NCV, NLT). Similar to “Christ’s law” (1Cor 9:21 ↑; cf. Gal 6:2 ↑), “the law of liberty” (cf. 2:12) refers to God’s word (cf. vv. 22-24) – seemingly including the law’s moral commands as interpreted by Jesus Christ and the NT writers. This “law” that Christians are under gives freedom from both rigorous regulations and sin. As such, note that Christians are freer to please God and so judgment by this law will in fact demand a higher standard of speech and actions, as alluded to in 2:12 – “So speak and so act as those who are to be judged under the law of liberty.”

2Cor 3:14 But their minds were hardened. For to this day, when they read the old covenant, that same veil remains unlifted, because only through Christ is it taken away.

When listening to the old covenant being read, the people's minds and hearts were in a sense covered so that they could not see the significance of the old covenant, with its transitory nature probably being what Paul had foremost in mind. Only through Christ is this "veil" taken away.

d) The Relevance of the Law

The spiritual and moral commands of the law are largely in view this section. These commands are those pertaining to the believer's spiritual relationship with God and their relationships with other people.

Matt 5:17-18 Do not think that I have come to abolish the Law or the Prophets; I have not come to abolish them but to fulfill them. ¹⁸For truly, I say to you, until heaven and earth pass away, not an iota, not a dot, will pass from the Law until all is accomplished.

In regard to the phrase "to fulfill them" (v. 17), see the earlier comment in Jesus Christ fully realized what the law had worked towards, p. 651.

Rom 3:31 Do we then overthrow the law by this faith? By no means! On the contrary, we uphold the law.

In saying that by faith "we uphold the law", Paul is probably meaning that the way of faith validates the law. As such, Paul is probably speaking of either: faith showing the law to play a key role in God's plan of salvation, such as in regard to awareness of sin; or faith providing the way of fulfilling the law's demands (cf. NCV, NLT) thus showing the law's demands to be legitimate.

Acts 24:14 But this I confess to you, that according to the Way, which they call a sect, I worship the God of our fathers, believing everything laid down by the Law and written in the Prophets, ...

Rom 2:18, 20 ... and [you Jews] know his will and approve what is excellent, because you are instructed from the law;  ... ²⁰an instructor of the foolish, a teacher of children, having in the law the embodiment of knowledge and truth—

These verses illustrate that the law is still relevant, as by the law we know God's will and what is best (v. 18), having in the law "the embodiment of knowledge and truth" (v. 20b).

1Tim 1:9-11 ... understanding this, that the law is not laid down for the just but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and sinners, for the unholy and profane, for those who strike their fathers and mothers, for murderers, ¹⁰the sexually immoral, men who practice homosexuality, enslavers,^m liars, perjurers, and whatever else is contrary to soundⁿ doctrine, ¹¹in accordance with the gospel of the glory of the blessed God with which I have been entrusted.

^mThat is, those who take someone captive in order to sell him into slavery

The law is important for governing and/or condemning the ungodly.

. . . The law is still good

See also:

- God's word is holy, righteous and good, p. 305

1Tim 1:8 Now we know that the law is good, if one uses it lawfully, ...

Note that the subsequent verses showing how one should use the law "lawfully" or properly (vv. 9-11) have been included in the previous subsection. The following subsections speak further of proper use of the law.

Rom 7:12-16 So the law is holy, and the commandment is holy and righteous and good. ¹³Did that which is good, then, bring death to me? By no means! It was sin, producing death in me through what is good, in order that sin might be shown to be sin, and through the commandment might become sinful beyond measure. ¹⁴For we know that the law is spiritual, but I am of the flesh, sold under sin. ¹⁵For I do not understand my own actions. For I do not do what I want, but I do the very thing I hate. ¹⁶Now if I do what I do not want, I agree with the law, that it is good.

In v. 13b Paul is saying that sin produces death in us through the good law, so through the law sin is shown for what it is, i.e. unequivocally and “utterly sinful” (NASB, NIV). By saying that he hates the things he does that violate the law (v. 15b) and that he does not want to do such things (v. 16a), Paul shows that he agrees that the law is good (v. 16b) – “my bad conscience shows that I agree that the law is good” (NLT).

Rom 8:3b-4 By sending his own Son in the likeness of sinful flesh and for sin,^o he condemned sin in the flesh, ⁴in order that the righteous requirement of the law might be fulfilled in us, who walk not according to the flesh but according to the Spirit.

^o Or and as a sin offering

As well as indicating that the law is righteous (v. 4a) and thus good, this further shows that it has not simply been dismissed (as per the theme of the previous subsection). For this speaks of the law’s righteous requirements being fully met by believers, who live by the Spirit (v. 4b). As such, this implies that it is important that the law’s requirements be met – which in turn implies that the law is good.

Ps 119:39 Turn away the reproach that I dread, for your rules are good.

Isa 42:21 The LORD was pleased, for his righteousness’ sake, to magnify his law and make it glorious.

In conjunction with and in addition to being good, God’s law is in fact exalted and glorious.

‡ The law is not opposed to the promises of God:

Gal 3:21 Is the law then contrary to the promises of God? Certainly not! For if a law had been given that could give life, then righteousness would indeed be by the law.

The law is not opposed to the promises of God, in particular the promise of righteousness through faith. For they are not in practice two opposing ways of gaining righteousness and thus life, as righteousness cannot be gained through the law. The two have different purposes, working in conjunction with each other – as Paul expounds elsewhere in Galatians 3.

The primary purpose of the law is to make people aware of sin

▪ Rom 7:13

Rom 3:19-20 Now we know that whatever the law says it speaks to those who are under the law, so that every mouth may be stopped, and the whole world may be held accountable to God. ²⁰For by works of the law no human being^p will be justified in his sight, since through the law comes knowledge of sin.

^p Greek flesh

Note that v. 19 speaks of another purpose of the law, which follows on from that of making people aware of sin (v. 20). It teaches that the law leaves people without excuse and accountable to God, under his judgment.

Rom 7:7 What then shall we say? That the law is sin? By no means! Yet if it had not been for the law, I would not have known sin. For I would not have known what it is to covet if the law had not said, “You shall not covet.”

Gal 3:19 Why then the law? It was added because of transgressions, until the offspring should come to whom the promise had been made, and it was put in place through angels by an intermediary.

The phrase “because of transgressions” may mean that the law was given to restrain sin, but more likely it is indicating that the law’s purpose was to show or define what transgressions are (cf. Rom 4:15 ; NBC)

Rom 4:15 For the law brings wrath, but where there is no law there is no transgression.

Where there is no law there is no “violation” (NASB, NRSV) of clearly defined boundaries or rules – i.e. the law defines what God requires and what sin is.

Rom 5:20 Now the law came in to increase the trespass, but where sin increased, grace abounded all the more, ...

A literal reading of the phrase “to increase the trespass” indicates that the law was added to augment sin (cf. GNT). Although this is quite possibly the meaning, a more common explanation is that it means that the law magnified sin, showing clearly what sin is and how wrong it is (cf. CEV, NLT). Another related interpretation, an expansion of this one, is that it means that the law magnified the seriousness of sin, for by showing what sin is, it has made those who sin more accountable as they are breaking clearly defined rules (cf. Rom 3:19).

Prov 29:18 Where there is no prophetic vision the people cast off restraint,⁹ but blessed is he who keeps the law.

⁹ Or the people are discouraged

The reference to “the law” at the end of the verse suggests that the earlier mentioned prophetic revelations would, in part at least, have pointed to the law and the need to obey it. As such this verse reflects that an absence of consciousness of the law leads to unchecked sin, with one being unaware of what sin is and what God requires.

Isa 51:7 Listen to me, you who know righteousness, the people in whose heart is my law; fear not the reproach of man, nor be dismayed at their revilings.

In conjunction with making one aware of what sin is, God’s law enables one to “know righteousness”, and so to know what is right and therefore what is not right – i.e. wrong and sinful.

Heb 10:3 But in these sacrifices there is a reminder of sins every year.

Complimentary to making people aware of sin, the law’s stipulated sacrifices on its annual Day of Atonement reminded people of sin.

‡ Prior to Christ’s coming and the advent of faith, the law played a supervisory role:

Gal 3:23-25 Now before faith came, we were held captive under the law, imprisoned until the coming faith would be revealed. ²⁴So then, the law was our guardian until Christ came, in order that we might be justified by faith. ²⁵But now that faith has come, we are no longer under a guardian, ...

Verse 23 may be presenting a negative aspect of the law, but it is often interpreted in a positive sense in the light of vv. 24-25. As such it is understood to mean that the law guarded God’s people, keeping them in “protective custody” (NLT).

The spiritual and moral commands of the law are still to be obeyed

See also:

- Obeying God and doing what is right, p. 1058
- a) The Need to Obey God, p. 1062

Matt 5:19 Therefore whoever relaxes one of the least of these commandments and teaches others to do the same will be called least in the kingdom of heaven, but whoever does them and teaches them will be called great in the kingdom of heaven.

Most likely Jesus had the moral commands of the law primarily in view, with a number of them being the subject of his subsequent teaching (cf. vv. 21-48).

Luke 4:8, 12 *And Jesus answered him, “It is written, “You shall worship the Lord your God, and him only shall you serve.””  ... ¹²And Jesus answered him, “It is said, ‘You shall not put the Lord your God to the test.’” *

The quotations of commands from the law here and in a number of the following passages, indicate that such laws are to be obeyed.

Luke 10:25-28 *And behold, a lawyer stood up to put him to the test, saying, “Teacher, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?” ²⁶He said to him, “What is written in the Law? How do you read it?” ²⁷And he answered, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your strength and with all your mind, and your neighbor as yourself.” ²⁸And he said to him, “You have answered correctly; do this, and you will live.” *

Jesus shows that these key commands of the spiritual and moral realms of the law are significant for eternal life.

Rom 2:12-16 For all who have sinned without the law will also perish without the law, and all who have sinned under the law will be judged by the law. ¹³For it is not the hearers of the law who are righteous before God, but the doers of the law who will be justified. ¹⁴For when Gentiles, who do not have the law, by nature do what the law requires, they are a law to themselves, even though they do not have the law. ¹⁵They show that the work of the law is written on their hearts, while their conscience also bears witness, and their conflicting thoughts accuse or even excuse them ¹⁶on that day when, according to my gospel, God judges the secrets of men by Christ Jesus.

How one’s actions measure up against God’s law will be a key factor on judgment day (vv. 12-13, 16) – in conjunction with one’s knowledge of the law (v. 12), including one’s innate awareness of the law’s requirements (vv. 14-15). Thus this illustrates that the law is still to be obeyed. Note that in regard to v. 13, Paul subsequently argues (cf. ch. 3) that no one is able to keep the whole law so as to be declared righteous through obedience to it.

1Tim 1:9-11 ... understanding this, that the law is not laid down for the just but for the lawless and disobedient, for the ungodly and sinners, for the unholy and profane, for those who strike their fathers and mothers, for murderers, ¹⁰the sexually immoral, men who practice homosexuality, enslavers,^r liars, perjurers, and whatever else is contrary to sound^s doctrine, ¹¹in accordance with the gospel of the glory of the blessed God with which I have been entrusted.

^r That is, those who take someone captive in order to sell him into slavery

^s Or healthy

Breaking the moral commands of the law – as such ungodly people freely do – is acting contrary to gospel doctrine (vv. 10b-11).

Eph 6:1-2 Children, obey your parents in the Lord, for this is right. ²“Honor your father and mother” (this is the first commandment with a promise), ...

1Pet 1:15-16 ... but as he who called you is holy, you also be holy in all your conduct, ¹⁶since it is written, “You shall be holy, for I am holy.”

Heb 8:10 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws into their minds, and write them on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

This quotation from Jeremiah 31:33 refers to the new covenant instituted by Jesus Christ, in which God’s people are more inclined and able to obey his commands – indicative of the fact that the spiritual and moral commands of the law are still to be obeyed.

James 2:8-11 If you really fulfill the royal law according to the Scripture, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself,” you are doing well. ⁹But if you show partiality, you are committing sin and are convicted by the law as transgressors. ¹⁰For whoever keeps the whole law but fails in one point has become accountable for all of it. ¹¹For he who said, “Do not commit adultery,” also said, “Do not murder.” If you do not commit adultery but do murder, you have become a transgressor of the law.

Here James clearly supports keeping the law and disapproves of breaking it. Note the thought behind v. 10 probably is that whoever breaks one command of the law, has broken the law as a whole.

1Jn 5:2-3 By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God and obey his commandments. ³For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments. And his commandments are not burdensome.

Ezek 11:19-20 And I will give them one heart, and a new spirit I will put within them. I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh, ²⁰that they may walk in my statutes and keep my rules and obey them. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God.

This looks forward to God bestowing his Holy Spirit on his people, enabling and moving them to follow his laws. Now having his Holy Spirit, believers are in fact more accountable than God’s people previously were for keeping his commands.

The law’s principles – such as love, justice and mercy – are of central importance, above its rules

Note that assertions such as that made in this subheading have been used to justify the breaking of some of God’s moral laws. As a general guideline at least, if a fundamental principle of the law is used to justify the breaking of a particular moral command of God, then it is being misapplied. This is in part because the moral commands largely reflect the law’s basic principles.

Matt 22:35-40 And one of them, a lawyer, asked him a question to test him. ³⁶“Teacher, which is the great commandment in the Law?” ³⁷And he said to him, “You shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind. ³⁸This is the great and first commandment. ³⁹And a second is like it: You shall love your neighbor as yourself. ⁴⁰On these two commandments depend all the Law and the Prophets.”

Mark 12:33 And to love him with all the heart and with all the understanding and with all the strength, and to love one’s neighbor as oneself, is much more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.

Rom 13:8-10 Owe no one anything, except to love each other, for the one who loves another has fulfilled the law. ⁹For the commandments, “You shall not commit adultery, You shall not murder, You shall not steal, You shall not covet,” and any other commandment, are summed up in this word: “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.” ¹⁰Love does no wrong to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law.

Gal 5:13-14 For you were called to freedom, brothers. Only do not use your freedom as an opportunity for the flesh, but through love serve one another. ¹⁴For the whole law is fulfilled in one word: “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

Note that in v. 13 Paul is speaking of being free from bondage to the law, primarily its numerous ceremonial rules and regulations.

Matt 23:23-24 Woe to you, scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites! For you tithe mint and dill and cumin, and have neglected the weightier matters of the law: justice and mercy and faithfulness. These you ought to have done, without neglecting the others. ²⁴You blind guides, straining out a gnat and swallowing a camel!

The Jewish leaders had become preoccupied with lesser matters of the law, to the detriment of the more important matters (cf. Luke 1:42a ↓).

Luke 11:42a “But woe to you Pharisees! For you tithe mint and rue and every herb, and neglect justice and the love of God.”

Mic 6:6-8 “With what shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before God on high? Shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves a year old? ⁷Will the LORD be pleased with ^tthousands of rams, with ten thousands of rivers of oil? Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?” ⁸He has told you, O man, what is good; and what does the LORD require of you but to do justice, and to love kindness,^u and to walk humbly with your God?”

^t Or Will the LORD accept

^u Or steadfast love

Believers should still give offerings (though not ones for sin) but doing so is of secondary importance to upholding the central principles of the law (v. 8). Note that the term rendered as “kindness” has also been rendered as “mercy” (cf. ESV text note, NIV, NKJV, NLT). This is also the case with “steadfast love” below in Hosea 6:6.

Hos 6:6 For I desire steadfast love^v and not sacrifice, the knowledge of God rather than burnt offerings.

^v Septuagint mercy

Matt 12:1-13 At that time Jesus went through the grainfields on the Sabbath. His disciples were hungry, and they began to pluck heads of grain and to eat. ²But when the Pharisees saw it, they said to him, “Look, your disciples are doing what is not lawful to do on the Sabbath.” ³He said to them, “Have you not read what David did when he was hungry, and those who were with him: ⁴how he entered the house of God and ate the bread of the Presence, which it was not lawful for him to eat nor for those who were with him, but only for the priests? ⁵Or have you not read in the Law how on the Sabbath the priests in the temple profane the Sabbath and are guiltless? ⁶I tell you, something greater than the temple is here. ⁷And if you had known what this means, ‘I desire mercy, and not sacrifice,’ you would not have condemned the guiltless. ⁸For the Son of Man is lord of the Sabbath.” ⁹He went on from there and entered their synagogue. ¹⁰And a man was there with a withered hand. And they asked him, “Is it lawful to heal on the Sabbath?”—so that they might accuse him. ¹¹He said to them, “Which one of you who has a sheep, if it falls into a pit on the Sabbath, will not take hold of it and lift it out? ¹²Of how much more value is a man than a sheep! So it is lawful to do good on the Sabbath.” ¹³Then he said to the man, “Stretch out your hand.” And the man stretched it out, and it was restored, healthy like the other.”

Matters relating to mercy (v. 7) and doing good (v. 12) are more important than the law's regulations. For comment on vv. 1-8, see the comment on the parallel passage Mark 2:23-28 – under It is permissible to do good and necessary things on the Sabbath, p. 1456.

II. Key Elements of the New Order

See also:

- 21. Being Right with God, p. 1025

Through Jesus Christ's mission God enhanced his relationship with his people and the world. Two defining aspects of this new order are God's new covenant with his own people and the kingdom of God.

As well as having instituted these two things in his mission, Jesus Christ continues to play a key role in both of them. Jesus Christ's role as high priest is arguably the central aspect of God's new covenant with his people. Jesus Christ's reign as Lord of all things involves reigning over the kingdom of God. Additionally, his reign extends to reigning over all things that are as yet to be subjugated to God's kingdom, which awaits consummation.

- Other contrasting aspects of the new covenant with the old

Prelude: The OT Scriptures speak of God instituting a new covenant with his people – through the Messiah

Jer 31:31-34 *"Behold, the days are coming, declares the LORD, when I will make a new covenant with the house of Israel and the house of Judah, ³²not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt, my covenant that they broke, though I was their husband, declares the LORD. ³³But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts. And I will be their God, and they shall be my people. ³⁴And no longer shall each one teach his neighbor and each his brother, saying, 'Know the LORD,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest, declares the LORD. For I will forgive their iniquity, and I will remember their sin no more." *

Jer 32:40 I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn away from doing good to them. And I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me.

Isa 42:6 I am the LORD; I have called you in righteousness; I will take you by the hand and keep you; I will give you as a covenant for the people, a light for the nations, ...

The Messiah is in view here – and in the following passages – as the one through whom the new covenant would be established.

Isa 49:8b-9a I will keep you and give you as a covenant to the people, to establish the land, to apportion the desolate heritages, ⁹saying to the prisoners, 'Come out,' to those who are in darkness, 'Appear.'

This appears to have in view, partly at least, aspects of the Messiah's work that will be achieved in Jesus Christ's second coming. Many prophecies concerning the Messiah will not be fulfilled – or consummately fulfilled – until his return.

Mal 3:1 Behold, I send my messenger, and he will prepare the way before me. And the Lord whom you seek will suddenly come to his temple; and the messenger of the covenant in whom you delight, behold, he is coming, says the LORD of hosts. 📖

The “messenger of the covenant” refers to the Messiah as the one who would institute the new covenant.

The first covenant (with its priesthood and law) was inadequate and superseded by the superior new covenant – through Jesus Christ . . .

- c) Release from the Law through Jesus Christ, p. 651

The covenant which God made with Israel proved inadequate as Israel could not keep the covenant (by obeying its law) and consequently could not be righteous before God. But God has abolished the old covenant and introduced a superior new covenant – through Jesus Christ and his mission. Note that as the first covenant was based on the law, the earlier section c) Release from the Law through Jesus Christ, p. 651, also points to the first covenant being abolished.

Heb 7:11-12, 15-22 Now if perfection had been attainable through the Levitical priesthood (for under it the people received the law), what further need would there have been for another priest to arise after the order of Melchizedek, rather than one named after the order of Aaron? ¹²*For when there is a change in the priesthood, there is necessarily a change in the law as well.* 📖 ... ¹⁵*This becomes even more evident when another priest arises in the likeness of Melchizedek,* ¹⁶*who has become a priest, not on the basis of a legal requirement concerning bodily descent, but by the power of an indestructible life.* ¹⁷*For it is witnessed of him, “You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek.”* ¹⁸*For on the one hand, a former commandment is set aside because of its weakness and uselessness* ¹⁹*(for the law made nothing perfect); but on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, through which we draw near to God.* ²⁰*And it was not without an oath. For those who formerly became priests were made such without an oath,* ²¹*but this one was made a priest with an oath by the one who said to him: “The Lord has sworn and will not change his mind, ‘You are a priest forever.’”* ²²*This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant.* 📖

In Psalm 110 David speaks of God installing a Davidic king as “a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek”, which is referred to here in vv. 11, 17, 21. With Jesus Christ in view, the writer asserts that this psalm indicates that there was need “for another priest to arise after the order of Melchizedek, rather than one named after the order of Aaron” (v. 11b). He implies that the fact that this was needed shows that the Levitical priesthood could not bring perfection (cf. Heb 10:1 ↕) and that consequently the law (and covenant) that came with it (v. 11a) was inadequate and hence set aside (vv. 12, 18-19a). That this change has occurred, the writer points out, becomes more clear with the appearance of a priest of a different order (vv. 15-17). In vv. 20-22 the writer then asserts that because on oath God has made him a priest forever, Jesus Christ is the “guarantor of a better covenant” (v. 22). For discussion on Melchizedek and the superiority of his priesthood, see Jesus Christ was appointed by God as high priest forever, in the superior priestly order of Melchizedek, p. 672. Note that “a better hope” (v. 19) is referring to the hope generated by either the new covenant in general, or more specifically the priesthood of Jesus Christ.

Heb 8:6-9, 13 But as it is, Christ^a has obtained a ministry that is as much more excellent than the old as the covenant he mediates is better, since it is enacted on better promises. ⁷*For if that first covenant had been faultless, there would have been no occasion to look for a second.* ⁸*For he finds fault with them when he says:^b “Behold, the days are coming, declares the Lord, when I will establish a new covenant with the house of Israel and with the house of Judah,* ⁹*not like the covenant that I made with their fathers on the day when I took them by the hand to bring them out of the land of Egypt. For they did not continue in my covenant, and so I showed no concern for them, declares the Lord.* 📖 ... ¹³*In speaking of a new covenant, he makes the first one obsolete. And what is becoming obsolete and growing old is ready to vanish away.* 📖

^b Some manuscripts For finding fault with it he says to them

The “ministry” (v. 6) Jesus has been given refers is his ministry as high priest, of a new covenant. God found “fault” (v. 8) with the people under the first covenant, because they did not remain faithful to it (v. 9).

Heb 10:8-10 When he said above, “You have neither desired nor taken pleasure in sacrifices and offerings and burnt offerings and sin offerings” (these are offered according to the law), ⁹*then he added, “Behold, I have come to do your will.” He does away with the first in order to establish the second.* ¹⁰*And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all.* 📖

The quotation from Psalm 40:6-8 (in the Septuagint) is here attributed to Jesus Christ, implying it was paralleled and fulfilled in Jesus Christ and his work. Verse 8 reflects the preliminary nature and limited capacity of the first covenant

– a system requiring repetitive sacrifices and offerings. Verses 9-10 show that Jesus Christ came to set aside this first system of sacrifices with the new “system” based on his sacrifice, according to God’s will – a sacrifice which sanctifies us, something that the old system could not do.

Heb 12:24 ... and to Jesus, the mediator of a new covenant, and to the sprinkled blood that speaks a better word than the blood of Abel.

Note that 9:15 in the following subsection also refers to Jesus Christ as “the mediator of a new covenant” – i.e. the one who brought the new covenant into being, or through whom it was brought into being.

1Pet 1:18-19 ... knowing that you were ransomed from the futile ways inherited from your forefathers, not with perishable things such as silver or gold,¹⁹ but with the precious blood of Christ, like that of a lamb without blemish or spot.

The phrase “the futile ways” may refer to the Jewish way of life under the old covenant, as being ultimately pointless and futile – useless for gaining salvation. As such these verses would speak of the first covenant being superseded through Jesus Christ. Alternatively the sinful, pointless way of life of non-Jews (cf. v. 14) may be in view.

... Components of the first covenant were merely a shadow of what was to come in the new covenant

Heb 10:1 For since the law has but a shadow of the good things to come instead of the true form of these realities, it can never, by the same sacrifices that are continually offered every year, make perfect those who draw near.

Col 2:16-17 Therefore let no one pass judgment on you in questions of food and drink, or with regard to a festival or a new moon or a Sabbath. ¹⁷*These are a shadow of the things to come, but the substance belongs to Christ*.

The things listed in v. 16 were largely things (or references to things) of the old covenant – only a shadow of what was to be realized with Jesus Christ and the new covenant (v. 17).

Heb 8:1-2, 5 Now the point in what we are saying is this: we have such a high priest, one who is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in heaven,² a minister in the holy places, in the true tent^c that the Lord set up, not man.  ... ⁵*They serve a copy and shadow of the heavenly things. For when Moses was about to erect the tent, he was instructed by God, saying, “See that you make everything according to the pattern that was shown you on the mountain.”*

^c Or tabernacle; also verse 5

The sanctuary in heaven is very much a part of the new covenant, it being where Jesus Christ serves as the high priest of the new covenant (vv. 1-2). The earthly sanctuary of the old covenant – where its priests served – was merely “a copy and shadow” of the heavenly one, based on a “pattern” of it (v. 5).

Heb 9:1-15 Now even the first covenant had regulations for worship and an earthly place of holiness. ²For a tent^d was prepared, the first section, in which were the lampstand and the table and the bread of the Presence.^e It is called the Holy Place. ³Behind the second curtain was a second section^f called the Most Holy Place, ⁴having the golden altar of incense and the ark of the covenant covered on all sides with gold, in which was a golden urn holding the manna, and Aaron’s staff that budded, and the tablets of the covenant. ⁵Above it were the cherubim of glory overshadowing the mercy seat. Of these things we cannot now speak in detail. ⁶These preparations having thus been made, the priests go regularly into the first section, performing their ritual duties, ⁷but into the second only the high priest goes, and he but once a year, and not without taking blood, which he offers for himself and for the unintentional sins of the people. ⁸By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the holy places is not yet opened as long as the first section is still standing ⁹(which is symbolic for the present age).^g According to this arrangement, gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot perfect the conscience of the worshiper, ¹⁰but deal only with food and drink and various washings, regulations for the body imposed until the time of reformation. ¹¹But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things that have come,^h then through the greater and more perfect tent (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation) ¹²he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption. ¹³For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctifyⁱ for the purification of the flesh, ¹⁴how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our^j conscience from dead works to serve the living God. ¹⁵Therefore he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, since a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions committed under the first covenant.^k

This passage presents various parallels between the two covenants. It begins by describing important aspects of the first covenant (vv. 1-6). Then those of the new are contrasted directly to the limitations of the corresponding ones of the first (vv. 7-14) – paralleled in such a way that they illustrate how the things of the first covenant were merely a shadow of those of the second. In a sense they foreshadowed what was to come in the new covenant. In v. 11, “the good things that have come” is quite possibly speaking of the good things of the new covenant that had come.

Note that the “first section” (v. 8) was the outer section of the tabernacle, which in part was for a barrier to the second section, the Most Holy Place (vv. 2-7). Here it is used to represent “the entire system” (NLT) of the first covenant, which could not provide unrestricted access to God’s presence.

✦ What Jesus taught and introduced could not be contained in the religious order of the old covenant:

Matt 9:16-17 No one puts a piece of unshrunk cloth on an old garment, for the patch tears away from the garment, and a worse tear is made. ¹⁷Neither is new wine put into old wineskins. If it is, the skins burst and the wine is spilled and the skins are destroyed. But new wine is put into fresh wineskins, and so both are preserved. 📖

By these illustrations Jesus implied that the things of the new covenant could not be contained nor restricted by the old covenant.

Jesus Christ’s blood ratified the new covenant

- Jesus Christ’s sacrifice of himself for us means that our sins can be forgiven . . ., p. 592

The shedding of Jesus Christ’s blood through his death, made it possible for people’s sins to be forgiven and so opened the way for the new relationship – or covenant – between God and his people. As the new covenant is made possible and instituted through Christ’s death, the shedding of his blood in effect ratified the new covenant – just as the sprinkling of “the blood of the covenant” by Moses ceremonially confirmed the old covenant (cf. Heb 9:16-20 ↓; Ex 24:6-8, in God made a covenant with Israel, based on his law . . ., p. 332). Hence Jesus Christ’s blood, shed in his death, is described as “the blood of the covenant”.

Matt 26:28 ... for this is my blood of the^l covenant, which is poured out for many for the forgiveness of sins. 📖

Luke 22:20 And likewise the cup after they had eaten, saying, “This cup that is poured out for you is the new covenant in my blood.” 📖

^m Some manuscripts omit, in whole or in part, verses 19b-20 (which is given . . . in my blood)

At the “last supper” Jesus used the cup of wine to symbolize his blood that would be shed (cf. Matt 26:28 ↑) in ratifying the new covenant.

Heb 9:15-20 Therefore *he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, since a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions committed under the first covenant.*ⁿ ¹⁶*For where a will is involved, the death of the one who made it must be established. ¹⁷For a will takes effect only at death, since it is not in force as long as the one who made it is alive. ¹⁸Therefore not even the first covenant was inaugurated without blood. ¹⁹For when every commandment of the law had been declared by Moses to all the people, he took the blood of calves and goats, with water and scarlet wool and hyssop, and sprinkled both the book itself and all the people, ²⁰saying, “This is the blood of the covenant that God commanded for you.”* 📖

ⁿ The Greek word means both covenant and will; also verses 16, 17

In verses 15-17, the author uses a word play – the same Greek word being used for both “will” and “covenant” (cf. v. 15 text note). He draws a parallel between the necessity of Jesus Christ’s death in order for the new covenant – with its promised eternal inheritance (v. 15) – to come into force, and the death of the maker of a will for the will to come into force. The author then emphasizes this point (vv. 18-20) by saying that there was this same necessity for the shedding of blood for the first covenant to be “inaugurated”. Thus Christ is the mediator of the new covenant because by his own death and blood he has inaugurated and correspondingly, as with a will, made its eternal inheritance now open to those who had been bound by sin under the inadequate first covenant (v. 15).

Heb 10:29 How much worse punishment, do you think, will be deserved by the one who has spurned the Son of God, and has profaned the blood of the covenant by which he was sanctified, and has outraged the Spirit of grace? 📖

The reference is to deliberately keeping on sinning after coming to know the truth (cf. v. 26), a contemptuous treatment of Jesus Christ and “the blood of the covenant” shed in his death.

Heb 12:24 ... and to Jesus, the mediator of a new covenant, and to the sprinkled blood that speaks a better word than the blood of Abel.

The “sprinkled blood” is linked with Jesus’ role as mediator of the new covenant, and alludes to the sprinkling of the blood of the old covenant (Ex 24:5-8); thus this verse points to Jesus Christ’s blood being the blood of the new covenant. The latter part of the verse refers to Genesis 4:10, which metaphorically describes Abel’s blood as crying out to God. Christ’s blood “speaks a better word” in that it “speaks” of atonement rather than retribution.

Heb 13:20 Now may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, ...

The reference to Christ’s blood here appears to be linked to him being the “great Shepherd of the sheep”, rather than to the preceding clause (cf. NIV). As such, this verse seems to indicate that Jesus Christ is the Shepherd of God’s people through his blood of the covenant (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT) – i.e. by virtue of him sacrificing himself to establish God’s new covenant with his people.

1Pet 1:2 ... according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in the sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience to Jesus Christ and for sprinkling with his blood: May grace and peace be multiplied to you.

The phrase “sprinkling with his blood” may refer primarily to purification by Christ’s blood (cf. GNT, NCV, NLT), a reference to the sprinkling of the blood of animal sacrifices signifying purification. However, particularly with the prior reference to obedience, it may instead allude to Exodus 24:3-8, where the people were sprinkled with blood to signify their agreement to and them being bound to the first covenant with God (cf. Heb 9:18-20 ). If so, Peter may be implying here that it is the blood of Jesus Christ that ratifies the new covenant of God with his people (cf. CEV text note), with them in a spiritual sense being sprinkled by his blood, signifying their compliance to the new covenant. (Note that these two interpretations are not unrelated.)

✦ Just as things used under the first covenant needed to be cleansed with blood, their superior heavenly counterparts required purification with the better sacrifice of Jesus’ blood:

Heb 9:21-24 And in the same way he [Moses] sprinkled with the blood both the tent and all the vessels used in worship.

²²Indeed, under the law almost everything is purified with blood, and without the shedding of blood there is no forgiveness of sins. ²³Thus it was necessary for the copies of the heavenly things to be purified with these rites, but the heavenly things themselves with better sacrifices than these. ²⁴For Christ has entered, not into holy places made with hands, which are copies of the true things, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God on our behalf.

The “heavenly things” (v. 23) appears to refer to elements of God’s heavenly sanctuary. It is not clear in what sense they needed to be purified. One possibility is that Paul is to some degree speaking figuratively, highlighting the need for a greater sacrifice (than those made for the things of the earthly sanctuary) in order to enter God’s most holy presence in heaven, to atone for unholy sins.

The new covenant is everlasting

See also:

- Heb 13:20
- Isa 59:21

The uses of “covenant” in the OT references in this subsection are usually considered to most likely refer to the new covenant. However some of them may also have in view an ultimate fulfillment in a millennium age. Note that a covenant of such a future age may be in view in Ezekiel 34:25 and 37:26, which make reference to an everlasting “covenant of peace” (cf. Israel will have peace – and no fear – forever . . ., p. 998).

Isa 55:3 Incline your ear, and come to me; hear, that your soul may live; and I will make with you an everlasting covenant, my steadfast, sure love for David.

This quite possibly is speaking of the new covenant, while also having in view God’s promise to David of an unending dynasty – a promise linked to Jesus Christ’s accomplishments in his first mission (cf. Acts 13:34) and which will culminate in Jesus Christ’s reign on his return.

Isa 61:8 For I the LORD love justice; I hate robbery and wrong;° I will faithfully give them their recompense, and I will make an everlasting covenant with them.

° Or robbery with a burnt offering

Jer 32:40 I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn away from doing good to them. And I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me.

The eternal nature of the new “everlasting covenant” is reinforced in this verse by it saying that God will not stop doing good to his people and that they will not turn away from him.

Ezek 16:60 ... yet I will remember my covenant with you in the days of your youth, and I will establish for you an everlasting covenant.

2Cor 3:11 For if what was being brought to an end came with glory, much more will what is permanent have glory.

This refers to the new covenant (cf. v. 6 ↓) as permanent.

The new covenant is spiritual – of an internal nature and of the Holy Spirit

Under the new covenant God’s people are renewed internally. As such they are able to abide by the new covenant and worship God in their hearts and minds, or spirit. God facilitates all this through his Holy Spirit, who lives and works in his people as they live under the new covenant.

Isa 59:21 “And as for me, this is my covenant with them,” says the LORD: “My Spirit that is upon you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, or out of the mouth of your offspring, or out of the mouth of your children’s offspring,” says the LORD, “from this time forth and forevermore.”

God’s “words” may well refer to – or at least be inclusive of – his laws (cf. AMP, GNT). As such this verse appears to imply that under the new covenant the Holy Spirit “writes the law of God inwardly on the heart” (AMP; cf. Jer 31:33 ↓; Ezek 36:26-27 ↓).

Jer 31:33 But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts. And I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

Under the new covenant God’s laws have become internal principles, not just commands from an external source. Bear in mind that the reference to “the house of Israel” (cf. Heb 8:10 ↓) is applicable to the new people of God, inclusive of Gentiles.

Ezek 36:26-27 And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. ²⁷*And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes and be careful to obey my rules.*^p

^p Or my just decrees

This is generally understood to be referring to or have a fulfillment in the new covenant, in which God would renew his people internally – including giving them his Holy Spirit – and move them to follow his laws (cf. Jer 31:33 ↑).

John 4:19-24 The woman said to him, “Sir, I perceive that you are a prophet. ²⁰Our fathers worshiped on this mountain, but you say that in Jerusalem is the place where people ought to worship.” ²¹*Jesus said to her, “Woman, believe me, the hour is coming when neither on this mountain nor in Jerusalem will you worship the Father.* ²²You worship what you do not know; we worship what we know, for salvation is from the Jews. ²³*But the hour is coming, and is now here, when the true worshipers will worship the Father in spirit and truth, for the Father is seeking such people to worship him.* ²⁴*God is spirit, and those who worship him must worship in spirit and truth.*”

Under the old covenant the Jews were to carry out worship practices – such as sacrifices and annual feasts – only in Jerusalem, the location of the temple. Jesus’ teaching points to the new covenant, the time when worship would be “in spirit and truth” – internal and not subject to geographical restrictions.

Rom 7:6 But now we are released from the law, having died to that which held us captive, so that we serve in the new way of the Spirit and not in the old way of the written code.^q

^q Greek of the letter

Although not necessarily intended, the terms “the new way” and “the old way” parallel the new covenant and the old covenant. As such this verse at least reflects – and quite possibly teaches – that the new covenant is “of the Spirit” (cf. 2Cor 3:3, 6-8 ↓), as per the theme of this subsection.

2Cor 3:3-8 And you show that you are a letter from Christ delivered by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts.^r ⁴Such is the confidence that we have through Christ toward God. ⁵Not that we are sufficient in ourselves to claim anything as coming from us, but our sufficiency is from God ⁶who has made us competent^s to be ministers of a new covenant, not of the letter but of the Spirit. For the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life. ⁷Now if the ministry of death, carved in letters on stone, came with such glory that the Israelites could not gaze at Moses’ face because of its glory, which was being brought to an end, ⁸will not the ministry of the Spirit have even more glory?

^r Greek fleshly hearts

Verse 3 portrays God’s people under the new covenant. The Corinthians’ new spiritual lives were composed not with ink but with God's Holy Spirit, "not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts" (v. 3b). This clause alludes to the two covenants. As such it contrasts the old covenant with the new covenant under which the Corinthians' new spiritual lives were formed – the latter covenant being written with the Spirit internally on human hearts, as reflected in v. 6. Verse 8 further associates the Holy Spirit with the new covenant. Note that "the letter" (v. 6) is a reference to the law – which brings death, in contrast to the Spirit.

Under the new covenant God's people know him and are forgiven

Under the new covenant, God's people know him more intimately and more completely. Also under the new covenant, the forgiveness of God's people which the old covenant foreshadowed and signified is emphatically and comprehensively accomplished.

Heb 8:10-12 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws into their minds, and write them on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. ¹¹And they shall not teach, each one his neighbor and each one his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest. ¹²For I will be merciful toward their iniquities, and I will remember their sins no more.

This is a quotation from Jeremiah 31:31-34 (cf. Jer 31:33 ; Heb 10:16-18 ). Verses 11-12 show that under God's new covenant, all God's people know him and their sins are truly forgiven. Note that v. 10b speaks of the new covenant also fulfilling a primary aim of the old covenant – "I will be their God, and they shall be my people" (cf. Jer 24:7 .

Jer 24:7 I will give them a heart to know that I am the LORD, and they shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart.

Particularly with the covenantal language of the second clause, this is quite probably looking forward to the new covenant which Jeremiah describes a few chapters later in 31:31-34 (cf. Heb 8:10-12 ). In conjunction with knowing him personally, God's people will know – and not lose sight of – who he is.

Heb 10:16-18 "This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws on their hearts, and write them on their minds," ¹⁷then he adds, "I will remember their sins and their lawless deeds no more."¹⁸Where there is forgiveness of these, there is no longer any offering for sin.

Under the new covenant the sins of God's people are totally forgiven (v. 17) and so no further sacrifices are required (v. 18).

Rom 11:27 ... "and this will be my covenant with them when I take away their sins."

The context is the turning to God of Israel as a whole at the end of the age. The new covenant – with its forgiveness for those who turn to God – is generally considered to be in view.

2Cor 3:6-11 ... [God] who has made us competent^t to be ministers of a new covenant, not of the letter but of the Spirit. For the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life. ⁷Now if the ministry of death, carved in letters on stone, came with such glory that the Israelites could not gaze at Moses' face because of its glory, which was being brought to an end, ⁸will not the ministry of the Spirit have even more glory? ⁹For if there was glory in the ministry of condemnation, the ministry of righteousness must far exceed it in glory. ¹⁰Indeed, in this case, what once had glory has come to have no glory at all, because of the glory that surpasses it. ¹¹For if what was being brought to an end came with glory, much more will what is permanent have glory.

In contrast to the old covenant based on the law, the new covenant brings life through the Spirit (v. 6). The new covenant also far exceeds the old covenant in its glory (vv. 7-9). Paul shows the new covenant to be more glorious by pointing out that it is: of the Spirit (v. 8); brings righteousness (v. 9); and is everlasting (v. 11).

Gal 4:22-26, 28-31 For it is written that Abraham had two sons, one by a slave woman and one by a free woman. ²³But the son of the slave was born according to the flesh, while the son of the free woman was born through promise. ²⁴Now this may be interpreted allegorically: these women are two covenants. One is from Mount Sinai, bearing children for slavery; she is Hagar. ²⁵Now Hagar is Mount Sinai in Arabia;^u she corresponds to the present Jerusalem, for she is in slavery with her children. ²⁶But the Jerusalem above is free, and she is our mother.  ... ²⁸Now you,^v brothers, like Isaac, are children of promise. ²⁹But just as at that time he who was born according to the flesh persecuted him who was born according to the Spirit, so also it is now. ³⁰But what does the Scripture say? “Cast out the slave woman and her son, for the son of the slave woman shall not inherit with the son of the free woman.” ³¹*So, brothers, we are not children of the slave but of the free woman.* 📖

Those under the old covenant are like Hagar’s children in that they are: merely “born according to the flesh” (vv. 23, 29); in slavery under the yoke of the law given at Mount Sinai (vv. 24-25), as exemplified by those of “the present Jerusalem” (v. 25); and without a share in the inheritance of God’s people (v. 30). In contrast, those under the new covenant are: born (or reborn spiritually) by the power of the Holy Spirit, as the result of a promise (vv. 23, 28-29); free from the yoke of the law (vv. 26, 31; cf. 5:1), typified by “the Jerusalem above” (cf. Heb 12:22 ↓) which is free (v. 26); and will “inherit with the son of the free woman” (v. 30).

Heb 12:18-24 For you have not come to what may be touched, a blazing fire and darkness and gloom and a tempest ¹⁹*and the sound of a trumpet and a voice whose words made the hearers beg that no further messages be spoken to them.* ²⁰*For they could not endure the order that was given, “If even a beast touches the mountain, it shall be stoned.”* ²¹*Indeed, so terrifying was the sight that Moses said, “I tremble with fear.”* ²²*But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to innumerable angels in festal gathering,* ²³*and to the assembly^w of the firstborn who are enrolled in heaven, and to God, the judge of all, and to the spirits of the righteous made perfect,* ²⁴*and to Jesus, the mediator of a new covenant, and to the sprinkled blood that speaks a better word than the blood of Abel.* 📖

♣ Or church

Verses 18-21 speak of the giving of the law at Mount Sinai, reflecting unappealing aspects of the old covenant such as its less spiritual nature, fearsomeness and severity. The wonderful aspects of the new covenant – to which and to whom believers “have come” – are then stated in contrast (vv. 22-24). The “assembly of the firstborn” (v. 23) likely refers to believers, either: as those who in Christ will share in the blessings that he (the firstborn Son) has won; or simply as those who are of Christ, having followed him.

Jesus Christ is the high priest of God’s people – representing them before God in the superior heavenly sanctuary

Heb 3:1 Therefore, holy brothers,^x you who share in a heavenly calling, consider Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession, ... 📖

♣ Or brothers and sisters; also verse 12

In accordance with the faith, believers confess Jesus Christ to be their high priest.

Heb 10:21 ... and since we have a great priest over the house of God, ... 📖

The “house of God” refers to the church (cf. 3:6), the family of believers. Jesus Christ is the high priest of all God’s people.

Heb 4:14 Since then we have a great high priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus, the Son of God, let us hold fast our confession. 📖

Heb 6:19-20 We have this as a sure and steadfast anchor of the soul, a hope that enters into the inner place behind the curtain,²⁰ where Jesus has gone as a forerunner on our behalf, having become a high priest forever after the order of Melchizedek.

In speaking of Jesus Christ ministering before God in his heavenly sanctuary, this refers or alludes to the earthly tabernacle set up in Moses' time (cf. The ark was kept in the Most Holy Place, shielded by a veil – in the tabernacle and later the temple . . ., p. 343). This tabernacle was God's temporary earthly sanctuary and dwelling place with his people. It was there that the priests performed their most sacred duties. The following passages also refer to this tabernacle, which was a tent structure.

Heb 8:1-2, 5 Now the point in what we are saying is this: we have such a high priest, one who is seated at the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in heaven, ²a minister in the holy places, in the true tent^y that the Lord set up, not man.  ...
⁵*They [other high priests] serve a copy and shadow of the heavenly things.* For when Moses was about to erect the tent, he was instructed by God, saying, "See that you make everything according to the pattern that was shown you on the mountain."

^y Or tabernacle; also verse 5

Verse 5 underlines the superiority of the heavenly sanctuary, of which the earthly one is merely "a copy and shadow".

Heb 9:11-12, 24 But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things that have come,^z then through the greater and more perfect tent (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation) ¹²he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption.  ...²⁴*For Christ has entered, not into holy places made with hands, which are copies of the true things, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God on our behalf.*

^z Some manuscripts good things to come

As indicated by v. 24, "the holy places" is used in v. 12 to refer to the heavenly sanctuary, wherein is the very presence of God – as does the "greater and more perfect tent" (v. 11). In contrast to the earthly high priests who only entered a man-made sanctuary, and that only briefly once a year – Jesus Christ entered into the heavenly sanctuary, "once for all" (v. 12).

✦ High priests represent people before God:

Heb 5:1 For every high priest chosen from among men is appointed to act on behalf of men in relation to God, to offer gifts and sacrifices for sins.

Jesus Christ was appointed by God as high priest forever, in the superior priestly order of Melchizedek

▪ Heb 6:20

Genesis 14:18-20 tells of Abraham (then Abram) meeting with Melchizedek, who was king of Salem (which would become Jerusalem). It refers to Melchizedek as "priest of God Most High", indicating he was a priest and worshipper of the Lord. Aside from Hebrews, the only other time that Melchizedek is mentioned in the Bible is in Psalms 110:4, a messianic verse, quoted below in Hebrews 5:6 and 7:17, 21. The meeting between Abraham and Melchizedek – along with the implications arising out of it – is discussed at the end of this subsection in Hebrews 7:1-10.

Aspects of the superiority of Jesus Christ's priesthood in the order of Melchizedek (over the Levitical priesthood) are discussed in most of the following passages. Most notable is the fact that Jesus Christ's priesthood is everlasting.

Heb 5:5-6, 9-10 So also Christ did not exalt himself to be made a high priest, but was appointed by him who said to him, "You are my Son, today I have begotten you"; ⁶as he says also in another place, "You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek."  ...⁹And being made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation to all who obey him, ¹⁰*being designated by God a high priest after the order of Melchizedek.*

The first quotation (v. 5b) is from Psalm 2, which was composed for the coronation of kings. It is quite possibly being used here both to reflect the fact that God had appointed Jesus Christ as high priest and to assert the superiority of his priesthood, him being both a king and God's Son. Along with the second quotation, it shows that like Melchizedek Jesus Christ is both a king and a high priest.

Heb 7:11-17 *Now if perfection had been attainable through the Levitical priesthood (for under it the people received the law), what further need would there have been for another priest to arise after the order of Melchizedek, rather than one named after the order of Aaron?*¹²For when there is a change in the priesthood, there is necessarily a change in the law as well. ¹³*For the one of whom these things are spoken belonged to another tribe, from which no one has ever served at the altar.* ¹⁴*For it is evident that our Lord was descended from Judah, and in connection with that tribe Moses said nothing about priests.* ¹⁵This becomes even more evident when another priest arises in the likeness of Melchizedek, ¹⁶who has become a priest, not on the basis of a legal requirement concerning bodily descent, but by the power of an indestructible life. ¹⁷For it is witnessed of him, “You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek.”

The Levitical priesthood, with the law, was inadequate and so there was the need for another priest to come, one in the order of Melchizedek (v. 11). In vv. 13-14 the writer indicates that this priest is Jesus Christ, from the tribe of Judah rather than the tribe of Levi. “This” (v. 15a) probably refers to the assertion that there has been a change in the priesthood and the law (v. 12; cf. NLT), with the previous ones having been inadequate (v. 11). That this change has occurred becomes clearer with the appearance of a priest of a different order (who is Christ). His appointment has been made (in part at least) on the basis of an indestructible life, and thus he has an everlasting priesthood in the order of Melchizedek (vv. 15-17; cf. v. 24 ↓).

Heb 7:20-25 And it was not without an oath. For those who formerly became priests were made such without an oath, ²¹but this one was made a priest with an oath by the one who said to him: “The Lord has sworn and will not change his mind, ‘You are a priest forever.’” ²²This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant. ²³The former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office, ²⁴but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever. ²⁵Consequently, he is able to save to the uttermost^a those who draw near to God through him, since he always lives to make intercession for them.

^a That is, completely; or at all times

The fact that God appointed Jesus Christ as a priest forever is affirmed by God having done so with an oath (vv. 20-21). This guarantees that the new order or covenant is a superior one (v. 22), in part at least because as its high priest endures forever it will also. A further advantage of Jesus Christ’s priesthood is that with it being everlasting, he is able to save completely those who come to God through him (v. 25).

Heb 8:6 But as it is, Christ^b has obtained a ministry that is as much more excellent than the old as the covenant he mediates is better, since it is enacted on better promises.

^b Greek he

The ministry or priesthood Jesus Christ has received from God is as superior to the Levitical high priesthood as the new covenant is to the old covenant.

‡ Melchizedek’s superiority to Abraham and the Levitical priesthood:

Heb 7:1-10 For this Melchizedek, king of Salem, priest of the Most High God, met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings and blessed him, ²and to him Abraham apportioned a tenth part of everything. He is first, by translation of his name, king of righteousness, and then he is also king of Salem, that is, king of peace. ³He is without father or mother or genealogy, having neither beginning of days nor end of life, but resembling the Son of God he continues a priest forever. ⁴See how great this man was to whom Abraham the patriarch gave a tenth of the spoils! ⁵And those descendants of Levi who receive the priestly office have a commandment in the law to take tithes from the people, that is, from their brothers,^c though these also are descended from Abraham. ⁶But this man who does not have his descent from them received tithes from Abraham and blessed him who had the promises. ⁷It is beyond dispute that the inferior is blessed by the superior. ⁸In the one case tithes are received by mortal men, but in the other case, by one of whom it is testified that he lives. ⁹One might even say that Levi himself, who receives tithes, paid tithes through Abraham, ¹⁰for he was still in the loins of his ancestor when Melchizedek met him.

^c Or brothers and sisters

This shows Melchizedek’s spiritual superiority to both Abraham and the Levitical priesthood that came from Abraham, the priests being Abraham’s descendants. Melchizedek’s superiority is evidenced by Abraham giving him “a tenth part of everything” (vv. 2, 4-10) and by him blessing Abraham (vv. 1, 6-7). It is also alluded to by that fact that no account is given of Melchizedek’s ancestry, birth or death – which is interpreted to imply an everlasting priesthood (vv. 3, 8; cf. vv. 15-17 ↑). Additionally, note that the meanings of his name and his kingly title (v. 2) have messianic overtones.

Previous sacrifices offered by priests were ultimately ineffective in dealing with sin . . .

See also:

- Heb 7:11 ↑
- a\) Offerings for Atonement for Sinners, p. 384

Note that the contrasts made in this and the following subsection between Jesus Christ’s sacrifice and those made by priests, largely refer to the high priest’s sacrifice for the sins of all the people on the annual Day of Atonement – the most significant sacrifice stipulated in the law.

Heb 9:7-10 ... but into the second only the high priest goes, and he but once a year, and not without taking blood, which he offers for himself and for the unintentional sins of the people. ⁸By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the holy places is not yet opened as long as the first section is still standing ⁹(which is symbolic for the present age).^d According to this arrangement, gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot perfect the conscience of the worshiper,¹⁰ but deal only with food and drink and various washings, regulations for the body imposed until the time of reformation.

^d Or which is symbolic for the age then present

Verse 7 reflects how because of their sin people cannot stand in God's presence. The fact that only the high priest could enter into God's presence, and only once a year, illustrates the insufficiency of the sacrifices in eradicating sin. (For if the sacrifices had have eradicated sin, then the people themselves could have entered God's presence on a regular basis.) So the gifts and sacrifices could not clear the conscience of the worshiper (v. 9b). They were merely external procedures (v. 10), never able to cleanse the heart and deal effectively with sin.

Note that v. 10 appears to refer more to regulations regarding ceremonial cleanness than offerings specifically for sin. But with the prior reference to offerings for sin (v. 7) and the subsequent discussion of Jesus Christ's sacrifice of himself (cf. vv. 11-14) what is said in v. 9b regarding the shortcomings of these regulations is likely also referring to or at least applicable to sin offerings. This is further supported by the parallels made between uncleanness and sin in the OT.

Heb 10:1-6 For since the law has but a shadow of the good things to come instead of the true form of these realities, it can never, by the same sacrifices that are continually offered every year, make perfect those who draw near. ²*Otherwise, would they not have ceased to be offered, since the worshipers, having once been cleansed, would no longer have any consciousness of sins?* ³But in these sacrifices there is a reminder of sins every year. ⁴*For it is impossible for the blood of bulls and goats to take away sins.* ⁵*Consequently, when Christ^e came into the world, he said, "Sacrifices and offerings you have not desired, but a body have you prepared for me; ⁶in burnt offerings and sin offerings you have taken no pleasure.*

^e Greek he

Following on from vv. 1-4, vv. 5-6 further emphasize that the sacrifices of the old covenant were ineffective in removing sin.

Heb 10:11 And every priest stands daily at his service, offering repeatedly the same sacrifices, which can never take away sins.

Rom 3:25 ... whom God put forward as a propitiation by his blood, to be received by faith. This was to show God's righteousness, because in his divine forbearance he had passed over former sins.

The second sentence indicates that the sins committed under the old covenant were not satisfactorily punished or dealt with (and because of God's righteousness could not remain as such). This shows that – in contrast to God's presentation of Jesus Christ as a "propitiation" – previous sacrifices were ultimately ineffective in dealing with sin.

... As high priest, Jesus Christ sacrificed for sin once and for all

Heb 7:27 He has no need, like those high priests, to offer sacrifices daily, first for his own sins and then for those of the people, since he did this once for all when he offered up himself.

Heb 9:11-12 But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things that have come,^f then through the greater and more perfect tent (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation) ¹²*he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption.*

^f Some manuscripts good things to come

Verse 12 refers to the high priest being required to enter the Most Holy Place with the blood of sacrificed animals each time he entered, which was annually on the Day of Atonement. This was to make atonement for the Most Holy Place – because of its defilement by the people's sins – and as part of the process of making atonement for the people's sin (cf. Lev 16:11-17). In contrast to the high priests of the old covenant, by the sacrifice of himself Jesus Christ entered into God's presence once for all, by his own blood – "thus securing an eternal redemption" (v. 12).

Heb 9:24-28 For Christ has entered, not into holy places made with hands, which are copies of the true things, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God on our behalf. ²⁵*Nor was it to offer himself repeatedly, as the high priest enters the holy places every year with blood not his own,* ²⁶*for then he would have had to suffer repeatedly since the foundation of the world. But as it is, he has appeared once for all at the end of the ages to put away sin by the sacrifice of himself.* ²⁷And just as it is appointed for man to die once, and after that comes judgment, ²⁸*so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him.*

In contrast to the high priest who sacrifices every year with blood that is not his own (v. 25b), Jesus Christ sacrificed for sin once and for all by "the sacrifice of himself" (v. 26) – i.e. with his own blood.

Heb 10:10, 12-18 And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. ...¹²But when Christ^g had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, he sat down at the right hand of God,¹³waiting from that time until his enemies should be made a footstool for his feet. ¹⁴For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are being sanctified. ¹⁵And the Holy Spirit also bears witness to us; for after saying, ¹⁶“This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws on their hearts, and write them on their minds,” ¹⁷then he adds, “I will remember their sins and their lawless deeds no more.” ¹⁸Where there is forgiveness of these, there is no longer any offering for sin. ☞

As high priest, Jesus Christ continues to intercede for God’s people

See also:

- Jesus Christ is the high priest of God’s people – representing them before God in the superior heavenly sanctuary, p. 671

Jesus Christ’s sacrifice for sin – to make God’s people holy and reconcile them to God – was itself a form of intercession on their behalf. Further to this, in his ongoing priestly ministry for them, Jesus Christ continues to intercede before God for them, speaking to God on their behalf. This second aspect is in view in this subsection.

Heb 7:23-25 The former priests were many in number, because they were prevented by death from continuing in office, ²⁴but he holds his priesthood permanently, because he continues forever. ²⁵Consequently, he is able to save to the uttermostⁱ those who draw near to God through him, since he always lives to make intercession for them. ☞

Heb 9:24 For Christ has entered, not into holy places made with hands, which are copies of the true things, but into heaven itself, now to appear in the presence of God on our behalf. ☞

Even “now” Jesus Christ appears for us before God “as our Advocate” (NLT).

Job 16:19-21 Even now, behold, my witness is in heaven, and he who testifies for me is on high. ²⁰My friends scorn me; my eye pours out tears to God, ²¹*that he would argue the case of a man with God, as^k a son of man does with his neighbor.* ☞

^k Hebrew and

This OT reference is not necessarily pointing directly to Jesus Christ, but is often understood to anticipate his intercessory role. Note that what Job is actually saying or meaning is also debatable, particularly in vv. 20-21.

Rom 5:9-10 Since, therefore, we have now been justified by his blood, much more shall we be saved by him from the wrath of God. ¹⁰For if while we were enemies we were reconciled to God by the death of his Son, much more, now that we are reconciled, shall we be saved by his life. ☞

The latter parts of each of these two verses may well refer to Jesus Christ’s present life and ministry for believers – largely that pertaining to his role as high priest of God’s people, particularly his intercession for them. However, note that some commentators interpret them instead as referring to believers being saved through sharing in Christ’s resurrected life in their union with him.

Jesus Christ is a high priest who is perfect – but can still identify with his people’s humanity

See also:

- Note: Jesus’ humanity was vital to his mission to save people, p. 522

Jesus Christ is a high priest who is himself perfect. As such Jesus Christ: was able to offer himself as the perfect sacrifice; does not need to sacrifice for himself; and is able to remain always in God’s presence to represent his people. On the other hand, Jesus Christ is also a high priest who can identify with his people’s humanity. As such, being perfect yet empathetic, Jesus Christ is a high priest who will meet his people’s needs (cf. Heb 7:26 ↓; Heb 2:16-18 ↓; Heb 4:15-16 ↓).

Heb 7:26-28 For it was indeed fitting that we should have such a high priest, holy, innocent, unstained, separated from sinners, and exalted above the heavens. ²⁷He has no need, like those high priests, to offer sacrifices daily, first for his own sins and then for those of the people, since he did this once for all when he offered up himself. ²⁸For the law appoints men in their weakness as high priests, but the word of the oath, which came later than the law, appoints a Son who has been made perfect forever.

Heb 5:8-10 Although he was a son, he learned obedience through what he suffered. ⁹And being made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation to all who obey him, ¹⁰being designated by God a high priest after the order of Melchizedek.

References to Jesus Christ being made perfect (v. 9; cf. Heb 7:28 ↑; Heb 2:10 ↓) are not indicating that Jesus Christ was ever in any way imperfect. A common view is that they are speaking of him being perfectly molded for his high priestly role – in fully experiencing humanity through his suffering (v. 8 cf. Heb 2:10 ↓; Heb 4:15 ↓). Alternatively the verses may be speaking of Jesus Christ as being perfected in the sense of maturing in his incarnation, through his suffering. When he was very young he was not disobedient, but on the other hand he was still to learn to obey, or to obey in the most trying circumstances.

Heb 2:10 For it was fitting that he, for whom and by whom all things exist, in bringing many sons to glory, should make the founder of their salvation perfect through suffering.

Heb 2:16-18 For surely it is not angels that he [Christ] helps, but he helps the offspring of Abraham. ¹⁷Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people. ¹⁸For because he himself has suffered when tempted, he is able to help those who are being tempted.

Jesus Christ can identify with his people’s humanity as he was “made like his brothers in every respect” (v. 17) and “he himself has suffered when tempted” (v. 18). And so we have “a merciful and faithful high priest” (v. 17), “able to help those who are being tempted” (v. 18).

Heb 4:15-16 For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin. ¹⁶Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need.

The “help” (v. 16) may be from God rather than Jesus Christ. But even so, these verses indicate that Christ’s identification with his people’s humanity is critical to obtaining such help, with him as high priest representing them before God in their time of need.

✦ Every high priest is selected from among men:

Heb 5:1 For every high priest chosen from among men is appointed to act on behalf of men in relation to God, to offer gifts and sacrifices for sins.

In saying that every high priest is “chosen from among men”, this points to the need for Jesus Christ to have become like his people in order to represent them before God as their high priest.

NT teaching on the kingdom of God (or the kingdom of heaven) follows on from OT teaching on God's reign or kingship (cf. b) God Reigns Supreme, p. 250). It indicates that Jesus Christ's coming inaugurated a more far-reaching, spiritual dimension of God's reign. Its domain is in the hearts and minds of those who submit to God. This kingdom of God also has both a present and future dimension – existing now, but only being fully consummated at the end of the age. Then God's authority will be fully imposed in all spheres of existence – once and for all.

Note that the kingdom of God is often spoken of as Jesus Christ's kingdom (cf. Note: The kingdom of God is also the kingdom of Jesus Christ, p. 683).

The verse is speaking of either: hostile forces opposing the kingdom (as per the ESV text); or the kingdom "forcefully advancing" (NIV®; cf. ESV text note), with fervent people pressing their way into it (cf. Luke 16:16 ↓).

Luke 16:16 The Law and the Prophets were until John; since then the good news of the kingdom of God is preached, and everyone forces his way into it.^o

^o Or everyone is forcefully urged into it

Matt 12:28 But if it is by the Spirit of God that I cast out demons, then the kingdom of God has come upon you.

Matt 13:11, 17 And he answered them, "To you it has been given to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given.  ... ¹⁷*For truly, I say to you, many prophets and righteous people longed to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.*

In v. 11, "to them it has not" refers to listeners with calloused hearts. In v. 17, the "prophets and righteous people" were OT prophets and righteous people who lived before Jesus came and had looked forward to the coming of the kingdom – including the things associated with its coming such as referred to in v. 11.

Matt 13:37-38 He answered, "The one who sows the good seed is the Son of Man. ³⁸*The field is the world, and the good seed is the sons of the kingdom. The weeds are the sons of the evil one, ...*

That Jesus "sowed" the people of the kingdom into the world shows that in his mission the kingdom had indeed come.

Luke 17:20-21 Being asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God would come, he answered them, "The kingdom of God is not coming with signs to be observed, ²¹*nor will they say, 'Look, here it is!' or 'There!' for behold, the kingdom of God is in the midst of you."*^p

^p Or within you, or within your grasp

Jesus appears to be saying that the coming of the kingdom of God was not going to be manifested with wondrous signs, but was in fact already in the midst of them – presumably meaning in Jesus himself, along with his work and teaching, and in the lives of his followers. However, note the alternative renderings in the text note.

Matt 16:28 Truly, I say to you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom.

Generally commentators do not consider that “coming” is here referring to Christ’s second coming. Although many see this verse as alluding to the transfiguration (cf. 17:1-8), it possibly refers instead to Jesus Christ’s resurrection and the ensuing phase of the kingdom.

Rev 12:10 And I heard a loud voice in heaven, saying, “Now the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of his Christ have come, for the accuser of our brothers^a has been thrown down, who accuses them day and night before our God.”

^a Or brothers and sisters

The things mentioned in the first clause of the quotation were established through Jesus Christ’s death and resurrection. However it is debatable as to whether this verse is referring to the present forms of these things. If it is, then the verse is pertinent to this subsection; otherwise it would be better placed in the following subsection.

The kingdom of God will come in all its fullness in the future

Matt 6:9-10 Pray then like this: “Our Father in heaven, hallowed be your name.”¹⁰ Your kingdom come, your will be done,^s on earth as it is in heaven.

^r Or Let your name be kept holy, or Let your name be treated with reverence

^s Or Let your kingdom come, let your will be done

“Your kingdom come” appears at least primarily to be a request for the full manifestation of the kingdom (cf. CEV, NLT), yet to be realized. Some commentators interpret it to also refer to the furthering of the kingdom in its present form. Possibly both aspects are in view.

Matt 25:34 Then the King will say to those on his right, ‘Come, you who are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.’

The future judgment day is in view, when the righteous will be rewarded with participation in God’s kingdom in its complete form.

Luke 13:28-29 In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth, *when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God but you yourselves cast out.*²⁹ And people will come from east and west, and from north and south, and recline at table in the kingdom of God.

This speaks of the future consummation of the kingdom, with the messianic banquet (v. 29; cf. Note: The feast in the kingdom of God, p. 748).

Luke 21:31 So also, when you see these things taking place, you know that the kingdom of God is near.

The phrase “these things” refers to signs of the end of the age.

Luke 22:15-18 And he said to them, “I have earnestly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer.¹⁶ For I tell you I will not eat it^t until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God.”¹⁷ And he took a cup, and when he had given thanks he said, “Take this, and divide it among yourselves.¹⁸ For I tell you that from now on I will not drink of the fruit of the vine until the kingdom of God comes.”

^t Some manuscripts never eat it again

The Passover, which was celebrated in remembrance of God’s saving the Israelites from slavery in Egypt, will be fulfilled in a more complete sense by the final salvation for God’s people in the future consummation of the kingdom. With this in view, it would appear that Jesus is alluding to the messianic banquet (cf. Luke 13:28-29 ) and God’s kingdom in the afterlife. Note, however, that as Jesus’ death with the salvation that it brought is also linked to the Passover (cf. 1Cor 5:7), some commentators think that Jesus may instead be referring to his appearance after his death and resurrection.

2Tim 4:1 I charge you in the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who is to judge the living and the dead, and by his appearing and his kingdom: ...

This appears to point to Jesus Christ implementing his Kingdom in its final form on his return (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT).

2Tim 4:18 The Lord will rescue me from every evil deed and bring me safely into his heavenly kingdom. To him be the glory forever and ever. Amen.

Paul appears to speak of a form of the kingdom that he will not experience until the afterlife.

Rev 11:15 Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and there were loud voices in heaven, saying, “The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever.”

The setting is in the end times, when the whole world will be brought under God and Jesus Christ’s rule, becoming theirs. As such it will be integrated into the kingdom of God.

✦ Some people mistakenly thought that the kingdom was going to appear at once:

Luke 19:11-12 As they heard these things, he proceeded to tell a parable, because he was near to Jerusalem, and because they supposed that the kingdom of God was to appear immediately. ¹²*He said therefore, “A nobleman went into a far country to receive for himself a kingdom and then return.*

Following on from v. 11, v. 12 suggests that God’s kingdom would come in all its fullness only after Jesus had gone away and then returned – with Jesus quite likely telling the parable (cf. vv. 12-27) partly to correct the people’s mistaken notion (v. 11).

The spiritual nature of the kingdom of God

See also:

- Matt 13:31-33 ; Mark 4:26-27

John 18:36 Jesus answered, “My kingdom is not of this world. If my kingdom were of this world, my servants would have been fighting, that I might not be delivered over to the Jews. But my kingdom is not from the world.”

The first statement points to the spiritual nature of the kingdom, it not being a physical or material kind as are those in this world. In connection with this, the final statement speaks of the kingdom having an “origin or source” (AMP) from a place other than this world – i.e. heaven, ultimately God (cf. John 3:3 text note ). Jesus’ kingdom is a spiritual one, in contrast to the values, aims and methods of this world. As such his servants were not to turn to physical force.

Luke 17:20-21 Being asked by the Pharisees when the kingdom of God would come, he answered them, “The kingdom of God is not coming with signs to be observed, ²¹nor will they say, ‘Look, here it is!’ or ‘There!’ for behold, the kingdom of God is in the midst of you.”^u

^u Or within you, or within your grasp

The final clause of v. 21 may well indicate that God’s kingdom is within the hearts of its people (cf. ESV text note, CEV text note). As such it is a spiritual kingdom – as opposed to being an observable thing (v. 20). (See also the earlier comment on these verses in The kingdom of God came in Jesus Christ’s mission, p. 677.)

John 3:3, 5 Jesus answered him, “Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born again^v he cannot see the kingdom of God.”  ...⁵Jesus answered, “Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God.

^v Or from above; the Greek is purposely ambiguous and can mean both again and from above; also verse 7

The members of God’s kingdom have been spiritually reborn, born of the Spirit (v. 5), born “from above” (v. 3 text note). Being born of the Holy Spirit involves the spiritual renewal produced by the Spirit, which we open ourselves to in humbly turning to God. There are a number of interpretations as to what “water” (v. 5) refers. These include: spiritual cleansing; water baptism, for repentance; the Holy Spirit (cf. John 7:37-39); God’s word (cf. Eph 5:26; 1Pet 1:23); or physical birth. With the last interpretation, “born of water and the Spirit” would then mean that one needs to be born physically and also spiritually.

Rom 14:17 For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking but of righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.

Matt 18:4 Whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

Being a spiritual domain, godly spiritual traits are of great importance in the kingdom of God (cf. Rom 14:17 ). One prominent such trait is humility, which not only enables one to enter the kingdom (cf. v. 3) but is also critical for one’s continuing participation in the kingdom and spiritual growth.

Luke 8:10 ... he said, “To you it has been given to know the secrets of the kingdom of God, but for others they are in parables, so that ‘seeing they may not see, and hearing they may not understand.’

The kingdom of God holds secrets hidden from the people of “the world”. Such secrets regard spiritual matters, and are given to or discerned by those with spiritual openness and spiritual insight.

✦ Reversals in the rewards of God’s kingdom:

Matt 19:30 But many who are first will be last, and the last first.

Jesus said this when speaking of rewards bestowed when the kingdom is consummated (cf. 19:28-20:16). The implication appears to be that rewards in the kingdom will be not as one might expect; in fact they will generally reflect the reverse of worldly values. As such one should be wary of being presumptuous or acquisitive (cf. v. 27) in contemplating one's reward.

The dynamism and power of the kingdom of God

Matt 13:31-33 He put another parable before them, saying, "The kingdom of heaven is like a grain of mustard seed that a man took and sowed in his field. ³²It is the smallest of all seeds, but when it has grown it is larger than all the garden plants and becomes a tree, so that the birds of the air come and make nests in its branches." ³³He told them another parable. "The kingdom of heaven is like leaven that a woman took and hid in three measures of flour, till it was all leavened."

The point of these parables is that despite its small beginnings, the kingdom of heaven will spread throughout the world.

Mark 4:26-29 And he said, "The kingdom of God is as if a man should scatter seed on the ground. ²⁷He sleeps and rises night and day, and the seed sprouts and grows; he knows not how. ²⁸The earth produces by itself, first the blade, then the ear, then the full grain in the ear. ²⁹But when the grain is ripe, at once he puts in the sickle, because the harvest has come."

The phrase "produces by itself" (v. 28) indicates that the growth of the kingdom is not brought about simply by human effort. Rather it is in a way that is in fact beyond human comprehension – "he knows not how" (v. 27). There are a number of differing interpretations of this parable, or at least of aspects of it. The parable may be depicting the growth of the kingdom through the spreading of the gospel (i.e. the scattering of the seed) which produces a harvest of converts. It may instead be illustrating the spiritual growth in believers or members of the kingdom. It could also be referring to the growth and eventual consummation of the kingdom, with the harvest involving judgment. All such interpretations of this parable speak of the remarkable growth of God's kingdom, pointing to its dynamism and power.

1Cor 4:20 For the kingdom of God does not consist in talk but in power.

God's kingdom "consists of and is based on" (AMP) spiritual power – not talk.

Heb 12:27-28 This phrase, "Yet once more," indicates the removal of things that are shaken—that is, things that have been made—in order that the things that cannot be shaken may remain. ²⁸Therefore let us be grateful for receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, and thus let us offer to God acceptable worship, with reverence and awe, ...

The power of God's kingdom is such that it cannot be "destroyed" (NLT) – in contrast to created things (v. 27) – or derailed.

‡ The greatness of those in the kingdom of God:

Matt 11:11 Truly, I say to you, among those born of women there has arisen no one greater than John the Baptist. Yet the one who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than he.

There are different interpretations of how "one who is least in the kingdom of heaven is greater than" John. Possibly the most common one is that this is referring to the superior or more privileged position of those who have already entered the kingdom, in contrast to those – such as John – who had lived under the old covenant.

The great cost of participating in the kingdom of God

Matt 13:44-46 The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and covered up. Then in his joy he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field. ⁴⁵Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a merchant in search of fine pearls, ⁴⁶who, on finding one pearl of great value, went and sold all that he had and bought it.

Although some commentators have a somewhat different understanding, both these parables seem to be essentially illustrating the absolute cost of the kingdom of God; one must be prepared to forgo everything for it. Note the joy in doing so that is apparent in v. 44.

Luke 9:59-62 To another he said, "Follow me." But he said, "Lord, let me first go and bury my father." ⁶⁰And Jesus^w said to him, "Leave the dead to bury their own dead. But as for you, go and proclaim the kingdom of God." ⁶¹Yet another said, "I will follow you, Lord, but let me first say farewell to those at my home." ⁶²Jesus said to him, "No one who puts his hand to the plow and looks back is fit for the kingdom of God."

This speaks of the cost of serving in the kingdom of God, with it requiring us to make it the main priority and focus of our lives – above everything else. For further comment see Put God and Jesus Christ before everyone else, p. 1392.

Luke 18:22-30 When Jesus heard this, he said to him, "One thing you still lack. Sell all that you have and distribute to the poor, and you will have treasure in heaven; and come, follow me." ²³But when he heard these things, he became very sad, for he was extremely rich. ²⁴Jesus, seeing that he had become sad, said, "How difficult it is for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God! ²⁵For it is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God.”²⁶Those who heard it said, “Then who can be saved?”²⁷But he said, “What is impossible with men is possible with God.”²⁸And Peter said, “See, we have left our homes and followed you.”²⁹And he said to them, “Truly, I say to you, there is no one who has left house or wife or brothers^x or parents or children, for the sake of the kingdom of God,³⁰who will not receive many times more in this time, and in the age to come eternal life.”

^x Or wife or brothers and sisters

Jesus command to sell everything (v. 22) is given here to an extremely rich man whose main spiritual problem was that he loved his riches. The extent that this command is relevant to people generally is debatable. At the very least it suggests that to follow Jesus Christ and enter God’s kingdom one needs to shed all that is not a necessity for living. Verses 28-29 speak of giving up even the dearest of things for the sake of the kingdom of God.

Acts 14:22 ...strengthening the souls of the disciples, encouraging them to continue in the faith, and saying that through many tribulations we must enter the kingdom of God.

Participating in the kingdom of God is not only costly in terms of what one has to give up, it also involves accepting hardship and suffering (cf. 2Thes 1:5 ↓; Rev 1:9 ↓).

2Thes 1:5 This is evidence of the righteous judgment of God, that you may be considered worthy of the kingdom of God, for which you are also suffering—

Rev 1:9 I, John, your brother and partner in the tribulation and the kingdom and the patient endurance that are in Jesus, was on the island called Patmos on account of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.

This associates suffering (along with the need for patient endurance) with participating in God’s kingdom.

Matt 18:1-4 At that time the disciples came to Jesus, saying, “Who is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven?”²And calling to him a child, he put him in the midst of them³and said, “Truly, I say to you, unless you turn and become like children, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven.⁴Whoever humbles himself like this child is the greatest in the kingdom of heaven.

Mark 10:15 Truly, I say to you, whoever does not receive the kingdom of God like a child shall not enter it.

Similar to Matthew 18:1-4 above, this speaks of the humility, trust and receptiveness exemplified in little children (cf. Matt 19:14 ↓), which are required to enter God’s kingdom.

Matt 21:31-32 Which of the two did the will of his father?” They said, “The first.” Jesus said to them, “Truly, I say to you, the tax collectors and the prostitutes go into the kingdom of God before you.³²For John came to you in the way of righteousness, and you did not believe him, but the tax collectors and the prostitutes believed him. And even when you saw it, you did not afterward change your minds and believe him.

This and Mark 1:14-15 below indicate that those who repent and believe will enter the kingdom of God. Those portrayed as such here are those who recognized themselves to be sinners – the tax collectors and the prostitutes – as opposed to the self-righteous chief priests and elders to whom Jesus was speaking.

Mark 1:14-15 Now after John was arrested, Jesus came into Galilee, proclaiming the gospel of God,¹⁵and saying, “The time is fulfilled, and the kingdom of God is at hand; repent and believe in the gospel.”

John 3:3, 5 Jesus answered him, “Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born again^y he cannot see the kingdom of God.”
⁵Jesus answered, “Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God.

^y Or from above; the Greek is purposely ambiguous and can mean both again and from above; also verse 7

Mark 12:28-34a And one of the scribes came up and heard them disputing with one another, and seeing that he answered them well, asked him, “Which commandment is the most important of all?”²⁹Jesus answered, “The most important is, ‘Hear, O Israel: The Lord our God, the Lord is one.³⁰And you shall love the Lord your God with all your heart and with all your soul and with all your mind and with all your strength.’³¹The second is this: ‘You shall love your neighbor as yourself.’ There is no other commandment greater than these.”³²And the scribe said to him, “You are right, Teacher. You have truly said that he is one, and there is no other besides him.³³And to love him with all the heart and with all the understanding and with all the strength, and to love one’s neighbor as oneself, is much more than all whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.”³⁴And when Jesus saw that he answered wisely, he said to him, “You are not far from the kingdom of God.”

Realizing the utmost importance of love for God and for others – particularly as opposed to external aspects of religion (v. 33) – is critical for drawing near to God’s kingdom. For to participate in God’s kingdom, one’s life must be based on love for God and others.

^z Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated “brothers”) refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God’s family, the church

In v. 10 Peter refers to the spiritual qualities listed earlier in vv. 5-7 (i.e. faith, virtue, knowledge, self-control, steadfastness, godliness, brotherly affection and love). One needs to nurture and grow in such things, acting accordingly, to ensure one’s entry into God’s kingdom at the end of the age.

... Those to whom the kingdom of God belongs

See also:

- ... and God’s people will inherit the kingdom, p. 739

Note that those to whom the kingdom of God belongs are the same as those who will enter it.

Matt 5:3, 10 Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. 📖 ... ¹⁰*“Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness’ sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven.* 📖

To be “poor in spirit” (v. 3) means to be aware of one’s spiritual need, with the suggestion of looking to God to fulfill such need.

Matt 19:14 ... but Jesus said, “Let the little children come to me and do not hinder them, for to such belongs the kingdom of heaven.” 📖

Matt 21:43 Therefore I tell you, the kingdom of God will be taken away from you and given to a people producing its fruits. 📖

The kingdom of God will be given to those who produce the spiritual “fruits” that are of the kingdom. These “fruits” involves the spiritual traits and practices that characterize the kingdom and its citizens. Jesus may have primarily in view producing such “fruits” in oneself or in the world – or both.

Matt 25:34-36, 40 Then the King will say to those on his right, ‘Come, you who are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world. ³⁵For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, ³⁶I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me.’ 📖 ... ⁴⁰*And the King will answer them, ‘Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers,^a you did it to me.’* 📖

Those who will not enter nor inherit the kingdom of God

- Eph 5:5 ↓

Matt 5:20 For I tell you, unless your righteousness exceeds that of the scribes and Pharisees, you will never enter the kingdom of heaven. 📖

Anyone who is like the Pharisees – with their hypocritical and self-righteous ways, and closed mindedness – will not enter God’s kingdom.

Matt 7:21-23 Not everyone who says to me, ‘Lord, Lord,’ will enter the kingdom of heaven, but the one who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. ²²On that day many will say to me, ‘Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and do many mighty works in your name?’ ²³And then will I declare to them, ‘I never knew you; depart from me, you workers of lawlessness.’ 📖

The “workers of lawlessness” (v. 23b) are people who have not done “the will of my Father who is in heaven” (v. 21b). Those who claim to be Christians and to have done such works will not enter God’s kingdom if they have in fact not sought to do the will of God.

Matt 13:41, 47-50 The Son of Man will send his angels, and they will gather out of his kingdom all causes of sin and all law-breakers, 📖 ... ⁴⁷“Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a net that was thrown into the sea and gathered fish of every kind. ⁴⁸When it was full, men drew it ashore and sat down and sorted the good into containers but threw away the bad. ⁴⁹So it will be at the close of the age. The angels will come out and separate the evil from the righteous ⁵⁰and throw them into the fiery furnace. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. 📖

1Cor 6:9-10 Or do you not know that the unrighteous^d will not inherit the kingdom of God? ^d Or wrongdoers

^e The two Greek terms translated by this phrase refer to the passive and active partners in consensual homosexual acts

Gal 5:19-21 Now the works of the flesh are evident: sexual immorality, impurity, sensuality, ²⁰idolatry, sorcery, enmity, strife, jealousy, fits of anger, rivalries, dissensions, divisions,

²¹envy,^f drunkenness, orgies, and things like these. I warn you, as I warned you before, that those who do such things will not inherit the kingdom of God. 📖

^f Some manuscripts add murder

Matt 5:19 Therefore whoever relaxes one of the least of these commandments and teaches others to do the same will be called least in the kingdom of heaven, but whoever does them and teaches them will be called great in the kingdom of heaven. 📖

Being “called least in the kingdom of heaven” may be referring to the consummation of the kingdom and its reign enveloping all creation, with such people being deemed as the least of all people – in effect condemned. As such this verse would be applicable to this subsection. However, the phrase “in the kingdom of heaven” suggests that such people may still be accepted into the kingdom rather than necessarily being shut out and in hell. Furthermore, with “these commandments” most likely referring to the OT law, Jesus may be speaking of these commands being incorrectly downplayed by some teachers under the new covenant, in the present form of God’s kingdom that he introduced – rather than them generally flouting Christian teaching.

✦ It is extremely difficult for the rich to enter the kingdom of God:

Mark 10:23-25 And Jesus looked around and said to his disciples, “How difficult it will be for those who have wealth to enter the kingdom of God!” ²⁴And the disciples were amazed at his words. But Jesus said to them again, “Children, how difficult it is^g to enter the kingdom of God! ²⁵It is easier for a camel to go through the eye of a needle than for a rich person to enter the kingdom of God.” 📖

^g Some manuscripts add for those who trust in riches

Note: The kingdom of God is also the kingdom of Jesus Christ

- Matt 13:41 ↑

As shown in the following section, Jesus Christ as Lord of All, God has granted authority over all things to Jesus Christ. This includes authority over his kingdom (cf. Luke 2:29 ↓). Thus the kingdom can be referred to as being of God and also as being of Jesus Christ.

Eph 5:5 For you may be sure of this, that everyone who is sexually immoral or impure, or who is covetous (that is, an idolater), has no inheritance in the kingdom of Christ and God.

This verse and Revelation 11:15 below are instances of the kingdom being referred to as being of both Jesus Christ and God. The subsequent verses are largely examples of it being spoken of as being Jesus Christ's. (There are of course numerous times where it is spoken of as being God's kingdom, as seen earlier.)

Rev 11:15 Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and there were loud voices in heaven, saying, "The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever."

Col 1:13 He has delivered us from the domain of darkness and transferred us to the kingdom of his beloved Son, ...

2Tim 4:1 I charge you in the presence of God and of Christ Jesus, who is to judge the living and the dead, and by his appearing and his kingdom: ...

2Pet 1:11 For in this way there will be richly provided for you an entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ.

Luke 23:42 And he said, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom."

John 18:36-37 Jesus answered, "My kingdom is not of this world. If my kingdom were of this world, my servants would have been fighting, that I might not be delivered over to the Jews. But my kingdom is not from the world." ³⁷Then Pilate said to him, "So you are a king?" Jesus answered, "You say that I am a king. For this purpose I was born and for this purpose I have come into the world—to bear witness to the truth. Everyone who is of the truth listens to my voice."

"My kingdom" (v. 36) can be equated with the kingdom of God. "You say that I am a king" (v. 37) appears to affirm that he is a king (cf. AMP, NIV, NLT). Jesus' answer in v. 37 seems to associate his bearing witness to the truth with his kingship, perhaps pointing to his authority to propagate truth.

Luke 22:29-30 ... and I assign to you, as my Father assigned to me, a kingdom, ³⁰*that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom* and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

✦ Jesus Christ's handing over of the kingdom to God:

1Cor 15:24-28 Then comes the end, when he delivers the kingdom to God the Father after destroying every rule and every authority and power. ²⁵*For he must reign until he has put all his enemies under his feet*. ²⁶The last enemy to be destroyed is death. ²⁷For "God^h has put all things in subjection under his feet." But when it says, "all things are put in subjection," it is plain that he is excepted who put all things in subjection under him. ²⁸*When all things are subjected to him, then the Son himself will also be subjected to him who put all things in subjection under him, that God may be all in all*.

^h Greek he

Jesus Christ will reign until he has subdued all his enemies (v. 25). Then the end of this age will come when he turns the kingdom over to God (v. 24).

God has made Jesus Christ Lord of all things, to rule over all creation on God's behalf.

The NT speaks of Jesus Christ's lordship as being initiated or affirmed, in him being pronounced Lord of all upon his post-resurrection exaltation to God's right hand. However, note that some verses suggest that in some sense at least he was Lord of all things prior to this, speaking of his prior power or authority over all things. This point is discussed further in the comments under Luke 2:11 and Colossians 1:15-18 in . . . and God made Jesus Christ Lord of all, p. 686.

In seating Jesus Christ at his right hand, God exalted Jesus Christ in honor and authority above every other being.

Luke 22:69 But from now on the Son of Man shall be seated at the right hand of the power of God.

The phrase “seated at the right hand of the power of God” alludes to Psalm 110:1 (cf. Acts 2:34 ↓; Heb 1:13 ↓), which is understood to be messianic. The phrase speaks of being in God's presence with divine authority. Note that Jesus said this when on trial before the council of the elders, and so some commentators take it to mean that from that point on he was in a sense at God's right-hand. However it is probably more commonly understood that Jesus was referring to when he would return to heaven.

Mark 16:19 So then the Lord Jesus, after he had spoken to them, was taken up into heaven and sat down at the right hand of God.

Acts 2:32-34 This Jesus God raised up, and of that we all are witnesses. ³³Being therefore exalted at the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you yourselves are seeing and hearing. ³⁴For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he himself says, “The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, ...

Acts 7:55-56 But he, full of the Holy Spirit, gazed into heaven and saw the glory of God, and Jesus standing at the right hand of God. ⁵⁶And he said, “Behold, I see the heavens opened, and the Son of Man standing at the right hand of God.”

Rom 8:34 Who is to condemn? Christ Jesus is the one who died—more than that, who was raised—who is at the right hand of God, who indeed is interceding for us.ⁱ

ⁱ Or Is it Christ Jesus who died . . . for us?

Eph 1:19-20 ...and what is the immeasurable greatness of his power toward us who believe, according to the working of his great might ²⁰that he worked in Christ when he raised him from the dead and seated him at his right hand in the heavenly places, ...

Col 3:1 If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God.

Heb 1:3b-5, 13 After making purification for sins, he sat down at the right hand of the Majesty on high, ⁴having become as much superior to angels as the name he has inherited is more excellent than theirs. ⁵For to which of the angels did God ever say, “You are my Son, today I have begotten you”? Or again, “I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son”?  ... ¹³And to which of the angels has he ever said, “Sit at my right hand until I make your enemies a footstool for your feet”?

The first quotation in v. 5 is from Psalms 2:7. Psalm 2 is a coronation psalm, and it appears to be quoted here in reference to Christ's enthronement at God's right hand. The second quotation is part of the promise given to David that future kings in his line would have a special relationship with God likened to a father-son relationship. Quoting it here in reference to Christ signifies his enthronement as a Davidic king (at God's right hand) and to him being God's son. Verse 13 quotes from Psalm 110:1 (cf. Luke 2:69 ↑).

Heb 10:12 But when Christⁱ had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, he sat down at the right hand of God, ...

ⁱ Greek this one

This speaks of both Jesus Christ's role as High Priest – in sacrificing for sins – and his enthronement at the right hand of God. The messianic Psalm 110 (referred to above) also speaks of the Messiah both sitting at God's right hand and being a priest (in vv. 1, 4): ‘The LORD says to my Lord: “Sit at my right hand, until I make your enemies your footstool.” ... ⁴The LORD has sworn and will not change his mind, “You are a priest forever after the order of Melchizedek.”’ As Jesus Christ has both the position of sovereign authority at God's right hand and the office of high priest (as discussed earlier in this chapter), he fulfills this prophecy from Psalm 110 and also that of Zechariah 6:11-13 (cf. The OT promises that such a one would arise as a great ruler of Israel, p. 484), which likewise speaks of the Messiah being both high priest and king.

Heb 12:2 ... looking to Jesus, the founder and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God. 📖

Rev 3:21 The one who conquers, I will grant him to sit with me on my throne, as I also conquered and sat down with my Father on his throne. 📖

This reflects the fact that Jesus Christ is seated at God's right hand. It emphatically highlights Jesus Christ's position of authority in saying that he sat down "with" God "on his [God's] throne".

... and God made Jesus Christ Lord of all

Acts 2:36 Let all the house of Israel therefore know for certain that God has made him both Lord and Christ, this Jesus whom you crucified. 📖

Preceding this in vv. 24-35, Peter declares that David was prophesying about the Messiah's resurrection in Psalms 16:10 and the Messiah's exaltation to the position of supreme authority at God's right hand in Psalms 110:1 (cf. Acts 2:34 ↑). In his message Peter implies that God's raising and exaltation of Jesus (cf. Acts 2:32-33 ↑) fulfills these prophecies. By so doing, Peter asserts here in v. 36, God has designated Jesus as Lord of all things and to be the promised Messiah or Christ.

Acts 5:31 God exalted him at his right hand as Leader and Savior, to give repentance to Israel and forgiveness of sins. 📖

The term rendered "Leader" points to Jesus Christ's lordship.

Acts 10:36 As for the word that he sent to Israel, preaching good news of peace through Jesus Christ (he is Lord of all), ... 📖

Rom 10:12 For there is no distinction between Jew and Greek; for the same Lord is Lord of all, bestowing his riches on all who call on him. 📖

Rom 14:9 For to this end Christ died and lived again, that he might be Lord both of the dead and of the living. 📖

Phil 2:9-11 Therefore *God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name that is above every name,*¹⁰*so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth,*¹¹*and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord*, to the glory of God the Father. 📖

Commentators differ as to whether "name" (v. 9b) is referring to Jesus Christ's actual name. If it is, it would probably not be referring to "Jesus", appearing to have been given after his exaltation (v. 9a). "Lord" would be a more likely candidate (cf. ZBC). Furthermore, being the Greek translation for the Hebrew "LORD", it well fits the designation of "the name that is above every name" (v. 9). Whether it is or not referring to his actual name, it is clear that Jesus Christ's rank above all others is reflected – something which will be shown in the future when all will acknowledge and submit to him as Lord (vv. 10-11).

Jude 1:4 For certain people have crept in unnoticed who long ago were designated for this condemnation, ungodly people, who pervert the grace of our God into sensuality and deny our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ. 📖

Rev 17:14 They will make war on the Lamb, and the Lamb will conquer them, for he is Lord of lords and King of kings, and those with him are called and chosen and faithful. 📖

Mark 2:28 So the Son of Man is lord even of the Sabbath. 📖

Luke 2:11 For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Savior, who is Christ the Lord. 📖

Although elsewhere Jesus is spoken of as being the "Lord" of individuals' (cf. Lk 1:43; 6:46; 11:1), this and Mark 2:28 immediately above are notable examples of him being referred to as Lord in a more general sense prior to his exaltation.

1Cor 8:6 ...yet for us there is one God, the Father, from whom are all things and for whom we exist, and one Lord, Jesus Christ, through whom are all things and through whom we exist. 📖

The fact that Jesus Christ is the only Lord reflects the assertion that Jesus Christ is Lord of all.

✦ Jesus Christ is "the firstborn of all creation":

Col 1:15-18 He is the image of the invisible God, *the firstborn of all creation.*¹⁶*For by^k him all things were created, in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—all things were created through him and for him.*¹⁷*And he is before all things, and in him all things hold together.*¹⁸*And he is the head of the body,* the church. He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in everything he might be preeminent.

^k That is, by means of; or in

The term “firstborn” (v. 15) points to Christ’s pre-eminence, alluding to the privileged status of a firstborn son in Jewish society. This passage suggests that in some sense at least Jesus Christ has always been Lord of all things. This is pointed to by the description of Jesus Christ as “the firstborn of all creation” (v. 15), along with him being the creator and sustainer of all things (vv. 16, 17b) and the fact that all things were created for him (v. 16b). (Regarding the latter, see the comment on Col 1:16 – under God has entrusted everything to Jesus Christ – and made him heir of all things, p. 688.) Similarly, some verses in the following two subsections suggest that Jesus had authority over all things in his mission prior to his death – in Matthew 28:18, John 3:35, John 13:3 and John 17:2. See also the cross references in the following subsection. But note that here in v. 18b, Paul appears to indicate that following his resurrection Jesus Christ’s authority had a wider or greater extent.

God has given Jesus Christ authority and power over all things

Matt 28:18 And Jesus came and said to them, “All authority in heaven and on earth has been given to me.”

John 17:2 ... since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him.

Rom 9:5 To them belong the patriarchs, and from their race, according to the flesh, is the Christ who is God over all, blessed forever. Amen.

1Cor 15:27-28 For “God^l has put all things in subjection under his feet.” But when it says, “all things are put in subjection,” it is plain that he is excepted who put all things in subjection under him. ²⁸*When all things are subjected to him, then the Son himself will also be subjected to him who put all things in subjection under him, that God may be all in all.*

^l Greek he

Eph 1:22-23 And he put all things under his feet and gave him as head over all things to the church, ²³which is his body, the fullness of him who fills all in all.

In v. 23, “fills all in all” (cf. Eph 4:10 ↓) appears to speak of Jesus Christ extending and/or manifesting his presence and authority, “as head over all things” (v. 22). Alternatively or additionally, Paul may have in view Christ making all things complete (cf. AMP, GNT).

Eph 4:10 He who descended is the one who also ascended far above all the heavens, that he might fill all things.)

Jewish thought understood there to be different heavens. Paul asserts that Jesus Christ ascended higher and was supreme over all such heavens. In light of the above comment on 1:23, “fill all things” appears to speak of Jesus Christ being supreme throughout the whole universe.

Phil 3:20-21 But our citizenship is in heaven, and from it we await a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, ²¹who will transform our lowly body to be like his glorious body, by the power that enables him even to subject all things to himself.

Jesus Christ now has the power to bring everything under his control, but these verses appear to suggest that he will not fully do so until his return.

Heb 2:5 Now it was not to angels that God subjected the world to come, of which we are speaking.

There are different interpretations of this verse. Interpretations of the “world to come” include the millennium, the afterlife and the present age (cf. NCV). The verse probably speaks of the subjection of this “world to come” to Jesus Christ, or possibly to him and his followers.

Rev 2:26-27 The one who conquers and who keeps my works until the end, to him I will give authority over the nations, ²⁷and he will rule them with a rod of iron, as when earthen pots are broken in pieces, even as I myself have received authority from my Father.

This indicates that God has given Jesus Christ authority over the nations.

Rev 3:7 And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: “The words of the holy one, the true one, who has the key of David, who opens and no one will shut, who shuts and no one opens.”

This verse alludes to Isaiah 22:22, where “the key of the house of David” symbolized authority over David’s royal house. In parallel to this, here Jesus Christ is portrayed as holding “the key of David”, symbolizing his sole authority over entry into the kingdom of God. (cf. NBC) The latter part of the verse appears to further enforce this point – and also illustrates Jesus Christ’s supreme authority.

Rev 12:10 And I heard a loud voice in heaven, saying, “Now the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of his Christ have come, for the accuser of our brothers^m has been thrown down, who accuses them day and night before our God.

^mOr brothers and sisters

See the earlier comment on this verse in The kingdom of God came in Jesus Christ’s mission, p. 677.

Dan 7:14 And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him; his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed.

This is a messianic prophecy, which the above NT verses imply has its fulfillment in Jesus Christ.

God has entrusted everything to Jesus Christ – and made him heir of all things

As is also implied by the previous subsections, God has entrusted all things to Jesus Christ as Lord (cf. Matt 1:27 ↓; John 3:35 ↓) and furthermore has made him the heir of all things (cf. Heb 1:2 ↓; Ps 2:8 ↓). The latter may largely have in view the future consummation of Jesus Christ’s authority, with all things being in complete submission to him.

Matt 11:27 All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

This is quite possibly speaking of God giving Jesus Christ “authority over everything” (NLT) – hence the verse’s inclusion here. But given the context, it may more specifically be speaking of hidden matters of God’s will (cf. vv. 25, 27b) being committed to Jesus.

John 3:35 The Father loves the Son and has given all things into his hand.

John 13:3 Jesus, knowing that the Father had given all things into his hands, and that he had come from God and was going back to God, ...

Heb 1:2 ... but in these last days he has spoken to us by his Son, whom he appointed the heir of all things, through whom also he created the world.

Ps 2:8 Ask of me, and I will make the nations your heritage, and the ends of the earth your possession.

This is considered to be messianic.

Matt 21:37-38 Finally he sent his son to them, saying, “They will respect my son.”³⁸But when the tenants saw the son, they said to themselves, ‘This is the heir. Come, let us kill him and have his inheritance.’

The son represents Jesus Christ and the “inheritance” would appear to be the vineyard in the parable (cf. v. 33) which represents Israel. As such this portrays Israel – or even God’s kingdom – as Jesus Christ’s inheritance or part thereof.

† All things were created for Jesus Christ:

Col 1:16 For byⁿ him all things were created, in heaven and on earth, visible and invisible, whether thrones or dominions or rulers or authorities—all things were created through him and for him.

ⁿ That is, by means of; or in

This would at least appear to be implying that all things were made for Jesus Christ and his purposes. Note that some commentators understand the assertion that all things were created “for him” to be more specifically indicating that Jesus Christ is the goal towards which all creation converges or moves. As such, all things were created for being in or of Jesus Christ.

Jesus Christ has power over all other powers

Eph 1:19-21 ... and what is the immeasurable greatness of his power toward us who believe, according to the working of his great might ²⁰that he worked in Christ when he raised him from the dead and seated him at his right hand in the heavenly places, ²¹far above all rule and authority and power and dominion, and above every name that is named, not only in this age but also in the one to come.

Col 2:10 ... and you have been filled in him [Christ], who is the head of all rule and authority.

1Pet 3:21-22 Baptism, which corresponds to this, now saves you, not as a removal of dirt from the body but as an appeal to God for a good conscience, through the resurrection of Jesus Christ, ²²who has gone into heaven and is at the right hand of God, with angels, authorities, and powers having been subjected to him.

1Jn 5:18 We know that everyone who has been born of God does not keep on sinning, but he who was born of God protects him, and the evil one does not touch him.

This demonstrates that Jesus Christ's power is superior to Satan's power.

Rev 1:5a ... and from Jesus Christ the faithful witness, the firstborn of the dead, and the ruler of kings on earth.

Rev 17:12-14 And the ten horns that you saw are ten kings who have not yet received royal power, but they are to receive authority as kings for one hour, together with the beast. ¹³These are of one mind, and they hand over their power and authority to the beast. ¹⁴They will make war on the Lamb, and the Lamb will conquer them, for he is Lord of lords and King of kings, and those with him are called and chosen and faithful.

Rev 19:15-16 From his mouth comes a sharp sword with which to strike down the nations, and he will rule them with a rod of iron. He will tread the winepress of the fury of the wrath of God the Almighty. ¹⁶On his robe and on his thigh he has a name written, King of kings and Lord of lords.

This is from a description of Jesus Christ's return, where he crushes the forces of evil (cf. Rev 17:12-14 ↑) and enforces his authority and rule.

Jesus Christ's power extends over death

See also:

- Jesus even raised the dead, p. 561
- Jesus Christ saves people from the power of death, p. 615

Rev 1:18 ... and the living one. I died, and behold I am alive forevermore, and I have the keys of Death and Hades.

As the holder of the keys of death and the place of the dead, Jesus Christ has total authority over their domain – including authority over who goes in and out of them, and when.

2Tim 1:10 ... and which now has been manifested through the appearing of our Savior Christ Jesus, who abolished death and brought life and immortality to light through the gospel, ...

This speaks of what Christ accomplished by his resurrection – he “broke the power of death” (NLT, cf. GNT), in a sense nullifying it. The following reference (1Cor 15:26) speaks of Jesus Christ's final destruction of death at the end of the age, after which it will no longer have any effect on humankind. The nullification of death by Jesus Christ and the fact that he will destroy it completely, both illustrate his power over it.

1Cor 15:26 The last enemy to be destroyed is death.

John 10:17-18 For this reason the Father loves me, because I lay down my life that I may take it up again. ¹⁸*No one takes it from me, but I lay it down of my own accord. I have authority to lay it down, and I have authority to take it up again.* This charge I have received from my Father.

Even in his incarnation, death's power over Jesus (cf. Rom 6:9 ↓) was limited (cf. Acts 2:24 ↓). While experiencing death himself, Jesus still had the authority to resume his life again (cf. John 2:19-21 ↓).

John 2:19-21 Jesus answered them, “Destroy this temple, and in three days I will raise it up.” ²⁰The Jews then said, “It has taken forty-six years to build this temple, and will you raise it up in three days?” ²¹*But he was speaking about the temple of his body.*

Acts 2:24 God raised him up, loosing the pangs of death, because it was not possible for him to be held by it.

Rom 6:9 We know that Christ, being raised from the dead, will never die again; death no longer has dominion over him.

In conjunction with Jesus Christ having power over death, death no longer has any power over him.

† Jesus Christ has the power to give life:

John 5:21, 25-29 For as the Father raises the dead and gives them life, so also the Son gives life to whom he will.  ... ²⁵“Truly, truly, I say to you, an hour is coming, and is now here, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear will live. ²⁶*For as the Father has life in himself, so he has granted the Son also to have life in himself.* ²⁷And he has given him authority to execute judgment, because he is the Son of Man. ²⁸Do not marvel at this, for an hour is coming when all who are in the tombs will hear his voice ²⁹*and come out, those who have done good to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil to the resurrection of judgment.*

Verses 21, 25-26 may refer primarily to spiritual life (cf. v. 24) – which is eternal – although Jesus Christ's power to resurrect the dead (vv. 28-29) could well be in view instead or in addition. Verse 26 indicates that Jesus has intrinsic life. The implication in this context is that – like the Father – Jesus is “the source of life” (GNT) with “the power to give life” (CEV).

In the end, all Jesus Christ's enemies will be made his footstool – totally conquered

Ps 110:1-2 The LORD says to my Lord: "Sit at my right hand, until I make your enemies your footstool." ²The LORD sends forth from Zion your mighty scepter. Rule in the midst of your enemies!

These verses are messianic, speaking of the Messiah's enemies being subjugated to him and his rule over them. In speaking of the Messiah's enemies being made his footstool (v. 1), David portrays them as being conquered and either destroyed or in full submission to the Messiah. As shown below, v. 1 is applied to Jesus Christ in the NT.

Acts 2:33-35 Being therefore exalted at the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you yourselves are seeing and hearing. ³⁴For David did not ascend into the heavens, but he himself says, "'The Lord said to my Lord, Sit at my right hand, ³⁵until I make your enemies your footstool.'

Peter correlates Jesus being exalted to the right hand of God (v. 33a) with David's prophetic messianic words (v. 34; cf. Ps 110:1 ↑).

Heb 10:12-13 But when Christ^o had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, he sat down at the right hand of God, ¹³waiting from that time until his enemies should be made a footstool for his feet.

^o Greek this one

1Cor 15:24-25 Then comes the end, when he delivers the kingdom to God the Father after destroying every rule and every authority and power. ²⁵*For he must reign until he has put all his enemies under his feet.*

Ps 72:9 May desert tribes bow down before him, and his enemies lick the dust!

This and 132:17-18 below are understood as referring to the Messiah and his conquest of his enemies.

Ps 132:17-18 There I will make a horn to sprout for David; I have prepared a lamp for my anointed. ¹⁸*His enemies I will clothe with shame*, but on him his crown will shine.

Luke 19:27 But as for these enemies of mine, who did not want me to reign over them, bring them here and slaughter them before me.

Similar to 1 Corinthians 15:24-25 and the verses from Psalms above, this parable extract illustrates that ultimately Jesus Christ's enemies will be destroyed.

✚ God will bring all things together in Jesus Christ:

Eph 1:9-10 ... making known^p to us the mystery of his will, according to his purpose, which he set forth in Christ ¹⁰*as a plan for the fullness of time, to unite all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth.*

God will bring all things together under the headship of Jesus Christ (cf. AMP, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

I. Jesus Christ's Return and the Judgment

See also:

- c\) The Antichrist and the Final Persecution, p. 1992

The history of the world as we know it will culminate in Jesus Christ's dramatic and awesome return. Associated with this is God's final judgment of all people, through Jesus Christ, in which the eternal destiny of each person will be pronounced.

Note that the section cross-referenced above also deals with events of the end times – in its case, events that precede Jesus Christ's second coming. As such it is a further aspect of the biblical teachings that are often referred to as "The Last Things".

a) Prologue: Judgments Preceding Jesus Christ's Return

The passages in this section are largely extracts from visions that the apostle John received. Bear in mind that they are from Revelation, chapters 6-18, which contain apocalyptic literature. Apocalyptic literature is prophetic and largely symbolic. It mostly speaks of events of the end times. Many of these events involve great destruction, but show God's emphatic control and justice. As such apocalyptic literature provides great encouragement to God's people.

Commentators differ in their interpretation of a number of aspects of the three series of seven judgments below. Such points of difference include: to what extent each of the judgments are symbolic or literal; the timing of the judgments; and whether the three sets describe the same events, although probably most commentators think that they do not even though there are parallels.

The first series of judgments: The seven seals

See also:

- Rev 8:1-2 ↓

Quite possibly the seven seals represent events leading up to the end of the age, although it is open to conjecture as to whether these take place just prior to the end or over a longer period. The latter two sets of judgments certainly appear to be among the events of the end of the age, with the bowl judgments – the most severe – taking place immediately prior to Jesus Christ's return.

Note that there are parallels between the seals and the signs of the end times that Jesus spoke of (Matt 24:1-35; Mark 13:1-31; Luke 21:5-33) – as well as with the later two more harsh series of judgments.

Rev 6:1-8 Now I watched when the Lamb opened one of the seven seals, and I heard one of the four living creatures say with a voice like thunder, "Come!" ²And I looked, and behold, a white horse! And its rider had a bow, and a crown was given to him, and he came out conquering, and to conquer. ³When he opened the second seal, I heard the second living creature say, "Come!" ⁴And out came another horse, bright red. Its rider was permitted to take peace from the earth, so that people should slay one another, and he was given a great sword. ⁵When he opened the third seal, I heard the third living creature say, "Come!" And I looked, and behold, a black horse! And its rider had a pair of scales in his hand. ⁶And I heard what seemed to be a voice in the midst of the four living creatures, saying, "A quart^a of wheat for a denarius,^b and three quarts of barley for a denarius, and do not harm the oil and wine!" ⁷When he opened the fourth seal, I heard the voice of the fourth living creature say, "Come!" ⁸And I looked, and behold, a pale horse! And its rider's name was Death, and Hades followed him. And they were given authority over a fourth of the earth, to kill with sword and with famine and with pestilence and by wild beasts of the earth. 📖

^a Greek choenix, a dry measure equal to about a quart

^b A denarius was a day's wage for a laborer

There is debate over the identity of the rider on the white horse (v. 2), with both Jesus Christ (on his return) and the antichrist among the suggestions. The description may however simply be portraying increased attempts at conquest, with the associated warfare possibly signified by the following judgment (vv. 3-4). The pair of scales in the hand of the third horseman (v. 5) is explained in v. 6, which appears to point to inflated food prices and famine.

Rev 6:12-14 When he opened the sixth seal, I looked, and behold, there was a great earthquake, and the sun became black as sackcloth, the full moon became like blood,¹³ and the stars of the sky fell to the earth as the fig tree sheds its winter fruit when shaken by a gale.¹⁴ The sky vanished like a scroll that is being rolled up, and every mountain and island was removed from its place.

As alluded to earlier, the physical terminology describing judgments in these subsections may in fact be symbolic. If it is meant to be taken literally, this would appear to be speaking of the devastation associated with “the day of the LORD” and God’s final judgment on the wicked.

✦ The sealing of God’s people, protecting them from following judgments:

Rev 7:1-4 After this I saw four angels standing at the four corners of the earth, holding back the four winds of the earth, that no wind might blow on earth or sea or against any tree.² Then I saw another angel ascending from the rising of the sun, with the seal of the living God, and he called with a loud voice to the four angels who had been given power to harm earth and sea,³ saying, “Do not harm the earth or the sea or the trees, until we have sealed the servants^c of our God on their foreheads.”⁴ And I heard the number of the sealed, 144,000, sealed from every tribe of the sons of Israel: ...

The tribes “of the sons of Israel” – here sealed for protection against forthcoming judgments – may be symbolic of the whole church as the new, spiritual Israel. Alternatively actual Jewish believers may be in view.

The second series of judgments: The seven trumpets

Rev 8:1-2 When the Lamb opened the seventh seal, there was silence in heaven for about half an hour.² Then I saw the seven angels who stand before God, and seven trumpets were given to them.

Rev 8:7-13 The first angel blew his trumpet, and there followed hail and fire, mixed with blood, and these were thrown upon the earth. And a third of the earth was burned up, and a third of the trees were burned up, and all green grass was burned up.⁸ The second angel blew his trumpet, and something like a great mountain, burning with fire, was thrown into the sea, and a third of the sea became blood.⁹ A third of the living creatures in the sea died, and a third of the ships were destroyed.¹⁰ The third angel blew his trumpet, and a great star fell from heaven, blazing like a torch, and it fell on a third of the rivers and on the springs of water.¹¹ The name of the star is Wormwood.^d A third of the waters became wormwood, and many people died from the water, because it had been made bitter.¹² The fourth angel blew his trumpet, and a third of the sun was struck, and a third of the moon, and a third of the stars, so that a third of their light might be darkened, and a third of the day might be kept from shining, and likewise a third of the night.¹³ Then I looked, and I heard an eagle crying with a loud voice as it flew directly overhead, “Woe, woe, woe to those who dwell on the earth, at the blasts of the other trumpets that the three angels are about to blow!”

^d Wormwood is the name of a plant and of the bitter-tasting extract derived from it

Rev 9:1-6 And the fifth angel blew his trumpet, and I saw a star fallen from heaven to earth, and he was given the key to the shaft of the bottomless pit.^e He opened the shaft of the bottomless pit, and from the shaft rose smoke like the smoke of a great furnace, and the sun and the air were darkened with the smoke from the shaft.³ Then from the smoke came locusts on the earth, and they were given power like the power of scorpions of the earth.⁴ They were told not to harm the grass of the earth or any green plant or any tree, but only those people who do not have the seal of God on their foreheads.⁵ They were allowed to torment them for five months, but not to kill them, and their torment was like the torment of a scorpion when it stings someone.⁶ And in those days people will seek death and will not find it. They will long to die, but death will flee from them.

^e Greek the abyss; also verses 2, 11

The “star” (v. 1) appears to depict an angel, in view of what it does (v. 2).

Rev 9:13-18 Then the sixth angel blew his trumpet, and I heard a voice from the four horns of the golden altar before God,¹⁴ saying to the sixth angel who had the trumpet, “Release the four angels who are bound at the great river Euphrates.”¹⁵ So the four angels, who had been prepared for the hour, the day, the month, and the year, were released to kill a third of mankind.¹⁶ The number of mounted troops was twice ten thousand times ten thousand; I heard their number.¹⁷ And this is how I saw the horses in my vision and those who rode them: they wore breastplates the color of fire and of sapphire^f and of sulfur, and the heads of the horses were like lions’ heads, and fire and smoke and sulfur came out of their mouths.¹⁸ By these three plagues a third of mankind was killed, by the fire and smoke and sulfur coming out of their mouths.

The four angels (vv. 14-15) apparently control the mounted troops (vv. 16-17), who implement the three devastating plagues (v. 18). The mounted troops may be demonic – which is possibly also the case with the four angels who were “bound” (v. 14).

✦ The seventh trumpet acclaiming the advent of God’s kingdom:

Rev 11:15, 19 Then the seventh angel blew his trumpet, and there were loud voices in heaven, saying, “The kingdom of the world has become the kingdom of our Lord and of his Christ, and he shall reign forever and ever.” ☞ ...¹⁹*Then God’s temple in heaven was opened, and the ark of his covenant was seen within his temple. There were flashes of lightning, rumblings,^g peals of thunder, an earthquake, and heavy hail.* ☞

^g Or voices, or sounds

Verse 19 – with the appearance of “the ark of his covenant” and the awesome signs – is possibly symbolically affirming the advent of God’s consummated kingdom along with the manifestation of God’s presence and the fulfillment of his covenant promises to his people.

The third series of judgments: The seven bowls

Rev 15:1, 5-8 Then I saw another sign in heaven, great and amazing, seven angels with seven plagues, which are the last, for with them the wrath of God is finished. ☞ ...⁵*After this I looked, and the sanctuary of the tent^h of witness in heaven was opened,⁶and out of the sanctuary came the seven angels with the seven plagues, clothed in pure, bright linen, with golden sashes around their chests.⁷And one of the four living creatures gave to the seven angels seven golden bowls full of the wrath of God who lives forever and ever,⁸and the sanctuary was filled with smoke from the glory of God and from his power, and no one could enter the sanctuary until the seven plagues of the seven angels were finished.* ☞

^h Or tabernacle

Some commentators raise the possibility that the fact that “no one could enter the sanctuary until the seven plagues ... were finished” (v.8) may indicate that the time for intercession will have passed; the judgments must take place.

Rev 16:1-4, 8-11 Then I heard a loud voice from the temple telling the seven angels, “Go and pour out on the earth the seven bowls of the wrath of God.”²So the first angel went and poured out his bowl on the earth, and harmful and painful sores came upon the people who bore the mark of the beast and worshiped its image.³The second angel poured out his bowl into the sea, and it became like the blood of a corpse, and every living thing died that was in the sea.⁴The third angel poured out his bowl into the rivers and the springs of water, and they became blood. ☞ ...⁸*The fourth angel poured out his bowl on the sun, and it was allowed to scorch people with fire.⁹They were scorched by the fierce heat, and they cursedⁱ the name of God who had power over these plagues. They did not repent and give him glory.¹⁰The fifth angel poured out his bowl on the throne of the beast, and its kingdom was plunged into darkness. People gnawed their tongues in anguish¹¹and cursed the God of heaven for their pain and sores. They did not repent of their deeds.* ☞

ⁱ Greek blasphemed; also verses 11, 21

The “throne of the beast” (v. 10) appears to refer to the heart of the authority of the first beast – often thought to be a final antichrist. The “darkness” into which his kingdom was plunged, may not be physical darkness. It quite possibly depicts major problems besetting the beast’s reign with its false worship.

Rev 16:12-16 The sixth angel poured out his bowl on the great river Euphrates, and its water was dried up, to prepare the way for the kings from the east.¹³And I saw, coming out of the mouth of the dragon and out of the mouth of the beast and out of the mouth of the false prophet, three unclean spirits like frogs.¹⁴For they are demonic spirits, performing signs, who go abroad to the kings of the whole world, to assemble them for battle on the great day of God the Almighty.¹⁵(“Behold, I am coming like a thief! Blessed is the one who stays awake, keeping his garments on, that he may not go about naked and be seen exposed!”)¹⁶And they assembled them at the place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon. ☞

The “dragon” (v. 13) is Satan. Likely the “three unclean spirits like frogs” (v. 13) will perform supposedly miraculous signs leading world rulers to believe they can successfully and/or ought to fight against people or forces of God, not realizing that they will be overwhelmed by the Messiah and his forces. For further comment on this passage see On Jesus Christ’s return evil powers will be crushed, p. 704.

Rev 16:17-21 The seventh angel poured out his bowl into the air, and a loud voice came out of the temple, from the throne, saying, “It is done!”¹⁸And there were flashes of lightning, rumblings,^j peals of thunder, and a great earthquake such as there had never been since man was on the earth, so great was that earthquake.¹⁹The great city was split into three parts, and the cities of the nations fell, and God remembered Babylon the great, to make her drain the cup of the wine of the fury of his wrath.²⁰And every island fled away, and no mountains were to be found.²¹And great hailstones, about one hundred pounds^k each, fell from heaven on people; and they cursed God for the plague of the hail, because the plague was so severe. ☞

The guilt and consequent judgment of "Babylon the Great"

▪ Rev 16:19 ↑

There are differing views as to what Babylon represents in Revelation. The most prominent are: Rome, with its decadence and oppression of Christians; an actual rebuilt city of Babylon, characterized by the power and ungodliness of the original; and all worldly political and religious opposition to the true God.

Note that Revelation 16:17-21 in the previous subsection, speaks of "Babylon the Great" suffering the judgment of the seventh bowl.

Rev 17:1-6, 15-18 Then one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls came and said to me, "Come, I will show you the judgment of the great prostitute who is seated on many waters, ²*with whom the kings of the earth have committed sexual immorality, and with the wine of whose sexual immorality the dwellers on earth have become drunk.*" ³And he carried me away in the Spirit into a wilderness, and I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast that was full of blasphemous names, and it had seven heads and ten horns. ⁴*The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and jewels and pearls, holding in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the impurities of her sexual immorality.* ⁵*And on her forehead was written a name of mystery: "Babylon the great, mother of prostitutes and of earth's abominations."* ⁶*And I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints, the blood of the martyrs of Jesus.*¹ When I saw her, I marveled greatly. ☞ ... ¹⁵And the angel^m said to me, "The waters that you saw, where the prostitute is seated, are peoples and multitudes and nations and languages. ¹⁶And the ten horns that you saw, they and the beast will hate the prostitute. They will make her desolate and naked, and devour her flesh and burn her up with fire, ¹⁷for God has put it into their hearts to carry out his purpose by being of one mind and handing over their royal power to the beast, until the words of God are fulfilled. ¹⁸And the woman that you saw is the great city that has dominion over the kings of the earth." ☞

^m Greek he

The beast (vv. 3, 16) is probably the same as the one in the preceding chapters – quite possibly a final antichrist. The ruining of the prostitute by the beast and the ten horns shows division amongst the forces of evil. It also illustrates God's power over evil, by his using evil forces to accomplish his purposes (v. 17).

Rev 18:1-10 After this I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority, and the earth was made bright with his glory. ²And he called out with a mighty voice, "Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great! She has become a dwelling place for demons, a haunt for every unclean spirit, a haunt for every unclean bird, a haunt for every unclean and detestable beast. ³*For all nations have drunkⁿ the wine of the passion of her sexual immorality, and the kings of the earth have committed immorality with her, and the merchants of the earth have grown rich from the power of her luxurious living.*" ⁴Then I heard another voice from heaven saying, "Come out of her, my people, lest you take part in her sins, lest you share in her plagues; ⁵*for her sins are heaped high as heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities.* ⁶*Pay her back as she herself has paid back others, and repay her double for her deeds; mix a double portion for her in the cup she mixed.* ⁷*As she glorified herself and lived in luxury, so give her a like measure of torment and mourning, since in her heart she says, 'I sit as a queen, I am no widow, and mourning I shall never see.'* ⁸*For this reason her plagues will come in a single day, death and mourning and famine, and she will be burned up with fire; for mighty is the Lord God who has judged her.*" ⁹And the kings of the earth, who committed sexual immorality and lived in luxury with her, will weep and wail over her when they see the smoke of her burning. ¹⁰*They will stand far off, in fear of her torment, and say, "Alas! Alas! You great city, you mighty city, Babylon! For in a single hour your judgment has come."* ☞

ⁿ Some manuscripts fallen by

Note that earlier in 14:8 an angel uses similar terminology to v. 2 in prophesying Babylon's fall: 'Another angel, a second, followed, saying, "Fallen, fallen is Babylon the great, she who made all nations drink the wine of the passion of her sexual immorality.'"

Rev 18:20-24 Rejoice over her, O heaven, and you saints and apostles and prophets, for God has given judgment for you against her!" ²¹*Then a mighty angel took up a stone like a great millstone and threw it into the sea, saying, "So will Babylon the great city be thrown down with violence, and will be found no more;* ²²*and the sound of harpists and musicians, of flute players and trumpeters, will be heard in you no more, and a craftsman of any craft will be found in you no more, and the sound of the mill will be heard in you no more,* ²³*and the light of a lamp will shine in you no more, and the voice of* bridegroom and bride will be heard in you no more, for your merchants were the great ones of the earth, and all nations were deceived by your sorcery. ²⁴And in her was found the blood of prophets and of saints, and of all who have been slain on earth."

Rev 19:1-3 After this I heard what seemed to be the loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, crying out, "Hallelujah! Salvation and glory and power belong to our God, ²for his judgments are true and just; for he has judged the great prostitute who corrupted the earth with her immorality, and has avenged on her the blood of his servants."^o ³Once more they cried out, "Hallelujah! The smoke from her goes up forever and ever."

Dan 11:35 ... and some of the wise shall stumble, so that they may be refined, purified, and made white, until the time of the end, for it still awaits the appointed time.

Dan 12:4, 9 But you, Daniel, shut up the words and seal the book, until the time of the end. Many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall increase."  ... ⁹He said, "Go your way, Daniel, for the words are shut up and sealed until the time of the end."

The expression "the time of the end" (vv. 4, 9) may have in view an appointed time, hence the inclusion of these verses in this subsection. Note that the book contained prophecies of events of the end time.

Rev 1:3 Blessed is the one who reads aloud the words of this prophecy, and blessed are those who hear, and who keep what is written in it, for the time is near.

This suggests that there are times set by God for events of the end times prophesied in Revelation (cf. Rev 9:15 ↓).

Rev 9:15 So the four angels, who had been prepared for the hour, the day, the month, and the year, were released to kill a third of mankind.

Dan 9:27 And he shall make a strong covenant with many for one week,^p and for half of the week he shall put an end to sacrifice and offering. And on the wing of abominations shall come one who makes desolate, until the decreed end is poured out on the desolator.

^p Or seven; twice in this verse

A number of commentators consider that the antichrist of the end of the age is most likely in view here – particularly if the one in view in the first sentence is involved in what is described in the second sentence. The "week" (cf. vv. 25-26) or "seven" (cf. text note) denotes a period of time, sometimes interpreted as seven years (cf. AMP, GNT, NCV). This verse shows that the times of key activities of the identity in the first sentence have been predetermined by God – as has the end of "the desolator" in the second sentence.

Matt 24:36-37 But concerning that day and hour no one knows, not even the angels of heaven, nor the Son,^a but the Father only. ³⁷For as were the days of Noah, so will be the coming of the Son of Man.

^a Some manuscripts omit nor the Son

In v. 36, "that day" most likely refers to the day of Jesus Christ's return (v. 37). As such, the verse indicates that God has set a time for it.

1Cor 7:29a This is what I mean, brothers: the appointed time has grown very short.

1Tim 6:14-15 ... to keep the commandment unstained and free from reproach until the appearing of our Lord Jesus Christ, ¹⁵*which he will display at the proper time*—he who is the blessed and only Sovereign, the King of kings and Lord of lords, ...

Here "proper time" probably refers to an appointed time for Jesus Christ's return – a time "that God has already decided" (CEV).

Acts 1:6-7 So when they had come together, they asked him, "Lord, will you at this time restore the kingdom to Israel?" ⁷He said to them, "It is not for you to know times or seasons that the Father has fixed by his own authority.

The disciples' question implies that God would restore Israel's kingdom through Jesus Christ. Jesus' reply indicates that God had set a time for this – presumably following Jesus' return – and times for other events of the end. (Regarding Israel's restored kingdom or state, see II. God's Plans for Israel, p. 981.)

Acts 3:20-21 ... that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord, and that he may send the Christ appointed for you, Jesus, ²¹*whom heaven must receive until the time for restoring all the things* about which God spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets long ago.

Acts 17:31 ... because he has fixed a day on which he will judge the world in righteousness by a man whom he has appointed; and of this he has given assurance to all by raising him from the dead.

Matt 8:29 And behold, they cried out, "What have you to do with us, O Son of God? Have you come here to torment us before the time?"

The term "the time" may well speak of an "appointed time" (NIV®, NLT). As such the second question indicates that God has appointed a future time for the judgment and punishment of demons – as he has for judgment of all the world (cf. Acts 17:31 ↑).

Hab 2:3 For still the vision awaits its appointed time; it hastens to the end—it will not lie. If it seems slow, wait for it; it will surely come; it will not delay.

Initially this referred to the destruction of Babylon in 539 B.C. In Hebrews 10:37 the writer adapted the second statement of this verse to Jesus Christ's return – 'For, "Yet a little while, and the coming one will come and will not delay ..." In doing this the writer of Hebrews may well have viewed the first part of the verse to likewise apply to Jesus Christ's return and "the end" of the age. If this is the case, then one could infer that it alludes to an "appointed time" for Christ's return.

✚ God has determined the length of the tribulation of the end times:

Mark 13:20 And if the Lord had not cut short the days, no human being would be saved. But for the sake of the elect, whom he chose, he shortened the days.

The reference here is to God shortening the time of the tribulation of the end days. Arguably this suggests that God has determined the length of other such events of the end times.

The separation of the pairs of people in vv. 40-41 is indicative of the suddenness of Jesus Christ's return. In speaking of people being "taken", this may well be referring to a rapture – believers being taken away to be with Jesus Christ, with unbelieving partners being left behind to face a perilous future and/or judgment. Alternatively the verses could be speaking of one being taken in judgment – paralleling the flood coming and taking people away (v. 39a) – while the other is spared.

Luke 17:28-30 Likewise, just as it was in the days of Lot—they were eating and drinking, buying and selling, planting and building, ²⁹but on the day when Lot went out from Sodom, fire and sulfur rained from heaven and destroyed them all— ³⁰so will it be on the day when the Son of Man is revealed.

In v. 8 "birth pains" denotes the time of distress which leads into – or "gives birth" to – the advent of the Messiah and what will follow. Note that in addition to the distressful events, Christ's return will be preceded by the gospel reaching all nations (v. 14).

Luke 21:9-11 And when you hear of wars and tumults, do not be terrified, for these things must first take place, but the end will not be at once." ¹⁰Then he said to them, "Nation will rise against nation, and kingdom against kingdom. ¹¹There will be great earthquakes, and in various places famines and pestilences. And there will be terrors and great signs from heaven.

This is from Luke's parallel passage to Matthew 24 immediately above. In addition to what is mentioned there, note that this speaks of "tumults" along with war (v. 9), "great" earthquakes and "pestilences" along with famines (v. 11a) and "terrors and great signs from heaven" (v. 11b). The "tumults" may involve revolutions (cf. GNT, NIV). (The "great signs from heaven" are further discussed below in the following subsection.)

2Thes 2:1-10 *Now concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered together to him, we ask you, brothers,^u ²not to be quickly shaken in mind or alarmed, either by a spirit or a spoken word, or a letter seeming to be from us, to the effect that the day of the Lord has come. ³Let no one deceive you in any way. ^w Greek the son of perdition (a Hebrew idiom)

This “man of lawlessness” (v. 3) appears to be a final antichrist, quite possibly the first beast of Revelation 13. Presumably he will be the prime instigator of this momentous “rebellion” (v. 3) against God. There are a number of theories as to who or what is “restraining him now” (vv. 6-7) – including the Holy Spirit, and the archangel Michael.

Dan 9:26b And the people of the prince who is to come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary. Its^x end shall come with a flood, and to the end there shall be war. Desolations are decreed.

^x Or His

This may be speaking of widespread war and desolations continuing, even increasing, until the end of the age – hence the verse’s inclusion here. Alternatively, Jerusalem may be view, in particular her “end” or destruction at the hand of the Romans in A.D. 70, which is likely the subject of the first sentence.

Matt 24:29-30 Immediately after the tribulation of those days the sun will be darkened, and the moon will not give its light, and the stars will fall from heaven, and the powers of the heavens will be shaken. ³⁰*Then will appear in heaven the sign of the Son of Man, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn, and they will see the Son of Man coming on the clouds of heaven with power and great glory.*

Luke 21:25-26 And there will be signs in sun and moon and stars, and on the earth distress of nations in perplexity because of the roaring of the sea and the waves, ²⁶*people fainting with fear and with foreboding of what is coming on the world. For the powers of the heavens will be shaken.*

As the moon affects the tides, “the roaring of the sea and the waves” (v. 25b) may well be a reflection of the lunar and other cosmological changes spoken of here.

Acts 2:19-20 And I will show wonders in the heavens above and signs on the earth below, blood, and fire, and vapor of smoke; ²⁰*the sun shall be turned to darkness and the moon to blood, before the day of the Lord comes, the great and magnificent day.*

Here “the day of the Lord” definitely refers to Jesus Christ’s return. However, it is not clear how Peter envisaged the “signs on the earth below” mentioned in quoting this prophecy of Joel. The “blood, and fire, and vapor of smoke” (v. 19) could be part of the cosmological wonders that God will show as a precursor to his impending judgment. The devastating effects of warfare are another possibility.

Rev 6:12-17 When he opened the sixth seal, I looked, and behold, there was a great earthquake, and the sun became black as sackcloth, the full moon became like blood, ¹³*and the stars of the sky fell to the earth as the fig tree sheds its winter fruit when shaken by a gale.* ¹⁴*The sky vanished like a scroll that is being rolled up, and every mountain and island was removed from its place.* ¹⁵*Then the kings of the earth and the great ones and the generals and the rich and the powerful, and everyone, slave^y and free, hid themselves in the caves and among the rocks of the mountains, ¹⁶calling to the mountains and rocks, “Fall on us and hide us from the face of him who is seated on the throne, and from the wrath of the Lamb, ¹⁷for the great day of their wrath has come, and who can stand?”*

^y Or servant; Greek bondservant

There is debate as to whether this passage is literal or figurative. The terminology is similar to descriptions above of the cosmological events immediately preceding Jesus Christ’s coming and so may in fact be speaking of this, as also suggested by v. 17 saying that “the great day of their wrath has come”. However as it is part of the first of the three series of seven judgments of the end times, Christ’s return and the climax of God’s judgment may not be in view.

Jesus Christ's return is spoken of as being imminent

Obviously as these verses were written nearly two thousand years ago, Jesus Christ’s return was not near in terms of our perception of time. One explanation of this is that as with the Lord "a day is like a thousand years, and a thousand years are like a day" (2Pet 3:8 ↓), Christ's return can be spoken of in a sense as "near" from any point in time. Another view is that in some of these verses at least, the writers are asserting the certainty of Christ's return rather than its nearness in time.

1Cor 7:29a This is what I mean, brothers: the appointed time has grown very short. ☞

Phil 4:5 Let your reasonableness be known to everyone. The Lord is at hand; ... ☞

Heb 10:25, 37 ... not neglecting to meet together, as is the habit of some, but encouraging one another, and all the more as you see the Day drawing near. ☞ ...³⁷For, "Yet a little while, and the coming one will come and will not delay; ..." ☞

James 5:8-9 You also, be patient. Establish your hearts, for the coming of the Lord is at hand. ⁹Do not grumble against one another, brothers, so that you may not be judged; behold, the Judge is standing at the door. ☞

As with v. 8b, v. 9b is referring to Jesus Christ and his impending entry or return to the world.

1Pet 4:7 The end of all things is at hand; therefore be self-controlled and sober-minded for the sake of your prayers. ☞

1Jn 2:18 Children, it is the last hour, and as you have heard that antichrist is coming, so now many antichrists have come. Therefore we know that it is the last hour. ☞

Rev 22:7, 10, 12, 20 "And behold, I am coming soon. Blessed is the one who keeps the words of the prophecy of this book." ☞ ... ¹⁰And he said to me, "Do not seal up the words of the prophecy of this book, for the time is near." ☞ ... ¹²"Behold, I am coming soon, bringing my recompense with me, to repay everyone for what he has done. ☞ ... ²⁰He who testifies to these things says, "Surely I am coming soon." Amen. Come, Lord Jesus! ☞

Matt 16:28 Truly, I say to you, there are some standing here who will not taste death until they see the Son of Man coming in his kingdom. ☞

Especially with the clear reference to his return in the preceding verse (cf. v. 27), it would appear on face value that Jesus was speaking of his second coming occurring in the lifetime of some of those who were there with him. But as this obviously did not happen, generally commentators do not consider that "coming" is here referring to Christ's second coming. Although many see this verse as alluding to his subsequent transfiguration (cf. 17:1-8), it possibly refers instead to Jesus Christ's resurrection and the ensuing phase of the kingdom.

✦ Insights regarding God's apparent slowness:

2Pet 3:8-9 But do not overlook this one fact, beloved, that with the Lord one day is as a thousand years, and a thousand years as one day. ⁹*The Lord is not slow to fulfill his promise as some count slowness, but is patient toward you,^z not wishing that any should perish, but that all should reach repentance.* ☞

1Thes 3:13 ... so that he may establish your hearts blameless in holiness before our God and Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all his saints.

Here "saints" probably is at least inclusive of angels, quite possibly referring also to Christians who have died. See also the comment on Rev 19:14 below.

2Thes 1:7 ... and to grant relief to you who are afflicted as well as to us, when the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with his mighty angels ...

Jude 1:14 It was also about these that Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied, saying, "Behold, the Lord comes with ten thousands of his holy ones, ...

Rev 19:14 And the armies of heaven, arrayed in fine linen, white and pure, were following him on white horses.

Note that rather than simply referring to angelic hosts, some commentators consider that the "armies of heaven" following Christ may be speaking of believers, or at least be inclusive of them – particularly with the description of them being dressed "in fine linen" which is what believers had been given to wear in v. 8.

1Thes 4:16 For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a cry of command, with the voice of an archangel, and with the sound of the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first.

As the archangel is the leader of God's angels (cf. NCV text note), quite possibly "the voice of an archangel" may signify the summoning of heavenly forces to accompany Christ on his return. The "sound of the trumpet of God" may well also be – in part at least – a signal to the angels, with Matthew 24:31 saying, "And he will send out his angels with a loud trumpet call, and they will gather his elect ..."

Alternatively their focus may be the raising of "the dead in Christ". This is more of a possibility in the case of the trumpet call, with Matthew 24:31 being applicable to it and 1 Corinthians 15:52 saying, "For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we shall be changed." However the prime purpose of the voice of the archangel and the trumpet call may simply be to resoundingly announce Jesus Christ's return.

Zec 14:5 And you shall flee to the valley of my mountains, for the valley of the mountains shall reach to Azal. And you shall flee as you fled from the earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah. Then the LORD my God will come, and all the holy ones with him.

Jesus Christ's return appears to be what is ultimately in view here.

Jesus Christ will come in great glory

See also:

- Matt 16:27 ; 2Thes 1:7

On his return Jesus Christ's awesome intrinsic glory will be manifested. In conjunction with this and other factors, his return will be wonderfully glorious.

Matt 25:31 When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on his glorious throne.

Luke 9:26 For whoever is ashamed of me and of my words, of him will the Son of Man be ashamed when he comes in his glory and the glory of the Father and of the holy angels.

Luke 21:27 And then they will see the Son of Man coming in a cloud with power and great glory.

Acts 2:20 ... the sun shall be turned to darkness and the moon to blood, before the day of the Lord comes, the great and magnificent day.

This speaks of the day of Christ's return as a "glorious day" (GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NLT, NRSV).

Titus 2:13 ... waiting for our blessed hope, the appearing of the glory of our great God and Savior Jesus Christ, ...

1Pet 4:13 But rejoice insofar as you share Christ's sufferings, that you may also rejoice and be glad when his glory is revealed.

Matt 24:27 For as the lightning comes from the east and shines as far as the west, so will be the coming of the Son of Man.

The main point of the simile is to indicate that Jesus Christ's return will be obvious to all, but it also implies that his return will be stunning and glorious.

Matt 26:64 Jesus said to him, "You have said so. But I tell you, from now on you will see the Son of Man seated at the right hand of Power and coming on the clouds of heaven."

The phrase "coming on the clouds of heaven" – a reference to Daniel 7:13, part of a messianic prophecy – is often understood to be alluding to Jesus Christ's return (cf. NLT; Luke 21:27 ). As such this verse points to Jesus Christ's glory or at least the gloriousness of his return, with him being seen at the right hand of God and "coming on the clouds of heaven". Another view supported by its original context in Daniel is that it is referring to Jesus Christ's enthronement, rather than to his return. (cf. NBC) If this view is the case, then the verse is not applicable to this subsection.

2Thes 1:10 ... when he comes on that day to be glorified in his saints, and to be marveled at among all who have believed, because our testimony to you was believed.

Allied with the manifestation of his actual glory on his return, Jesus Christ will receive glory "in his saints" who have believed – presumably because of what they are (cf. NCV) and/or in their praise (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT). His glory is also reflected in the fact that they shall marvel at him – no doubt with a sense of joy and delightful anticipation.

Heb 1:6 And again, when he brings the firstborn into the world, he says, "Let all God's angels worship him."

The reference may be to Jesus Christ's second coming, when God "again brings the firstborn into the world" (NASB, NKJV; cf. AMP). As such it would speak of Jesus Christ being glorified on his return (cf. 2Thes 1:10 ).

✦ Angels spoke of Jesus Christ returning in the same way that he went into heaven:

Acts 1:9-11 And when he had said these things, as they were looking on, he was lifted up, and a cloud took him out of their sight. ¹⁰*And while they were gazing into heaven as he went, behold, two men stood by them in white robes,* ¹¹*and said, "Men of Galilee, why do you stand looking into heaven? This Jesus, who was taken up from you into heaven, will come in the same way as you saw him go into heaven."*

1Cor 15:22-23 For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive. ²³*But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ.*

1Cor 15:51-52 Behold! I tell you a mystery. We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, ⁵²in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we shall be changed. 📖

1Thes 4:13-16 But we do not want you to be uninformed, brothers, about those who are asleep, that you may not grieve as others do who have no hope. ¹⁴For since we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so, through Jesus, God will bring with him those who have fallen asleep. ¹⁵For this we declare to you by a word from the Lord,^b that we who are alive, who are left until the coming of the Lord, will not precede those who have fallen asleep. ¹⁶*For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a cry of command, with the voice of an archangel, and with the sound of the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first.* 📖

^b Or by the word of the Lord

Some understand the use of “bring” (v. 14) to speak of believers who have died returning from heaven with Jesus. However their resurrection on his return is in view in the subsequent verses. As such, in v. 14 Paul may be referring to these believers joining Jesus prior to believers who have not died (cf. v. 16; v. 17 ↴).

John 6:39-40, 44, 54 And this is the will of him who sent me, that I should lose nothing of all that he has given me, but raise it up on the last day. ⁴⁰For this is the will of my Father, that everyone who looks on the Son and believes in him should have eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day. 📖 ... ⁴⁴No one can come to me unless the Father who sent me draws him. And I will raise him up on the last day. 📖 ... ⁵⁴Whoever feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood has eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day. 📖

Particularly in view of the above verses from Paul's letters, in these verses and in 11:24 below, “the last day” would appear to refer to the day of Christ's return. It could also be taken to refer to the day of judgment, particularly if the two “days” are understood to coincide.

John 11:24 Martha said to him, “I know that he will rise again in the resurrection on the last day.” 📖

^d Or In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you

Jesus Christ will come back and take his people to be with him in his Father's house, i.e. heaven.

1Thes 4:17 Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so we will always be with the Lord. 📖

2Thes 2:1-2 Now concerning the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ and our being gathered together to him, we ask you, brothers,^e ²not to be quickly shaken in mind or alarmed, either by a spirit or a spoken word, or a letter seeming to be from us, to the effect that the day of the Lord has come. 📖

Rev 14:14-16 Then I looked, and behold, a white cloud, and seated on the cloud one like a son of man, with a golden crown on his head, and a sharp sickle in his hand. ¹⁵*And another angel came out of the temple, calling with a loud voice to him who sat on the cloud, “Put in your sickle, and reap, for the hour to reap has come, for the harvest of the earth is fully ripe.”* ¹⁶*So he who sat on the cloud swung his sickle across the earth, and the earth was reaped.* 📖

The one “like a son of man” (v. 14) quite probably refers to Jesus Christ. The angel in v. 15 appears to be passing on instructions – that are presumably from God – to begin “harvesting” what appears to be the righteous from the earth. As such this may well be speaking primarily of the harvesting or gathering of believers by Christ on his return, particularly with the subsequent verses (cf. vv. 17-20) referring to the judgment of the wicked.

The final statement suggests that in the afterlife Jesus Christ will in some sense again condescend to serving his people, in rewarding them.

Col 3:4 When Christ who is your^h life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory.

^h Some manuscripts our

Quite possibly "appear with him in glory" refers to – or at least involves – sharing in Jesus Christ's glory (cf. GNT, NCV, NLT).

2Tim 4:8 Henceforth there is laid up for me the crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous judge, will award to me on that Day, and not only to me but also to all who have loved his appearing.

The "crown of righteousness" could allude to being pronounced right with God or being made completely righteous. Alternatively it may be speaking of a reward for a righteous life, even an actual crown. Not that the last phrase appears to refer to longing for Christ's return (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT, NRSV). As such the verse appears to associate "Day" with both the day of judgment and the day of Christ's return, linking the two.

1Pet 1:7 ... so that the tested genuineness of your faith—more precious than gold that perishes though it is tested by fire—may be found to result in praise and glory and honor at the revelation of Jesus Christ.

1Pet 5:4 And when the chief Shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory.

Similar to "the crown of righteousness" (cf. 2Tim 4:8 ↑), this "crown of glory" is most likely figurative, alluding to the glory that will be bestowed on believers.

1Jn 3:2 Beloved, we are God's children now, and what we will be has not yet appeared; but we know that when he appearsⁱ we shall be like him, because we shall see him as he is.

‡ In contrast, Jesus Christ's return will cause widespread mourning amongst unbelievers:

Rev 1:7 Behold, he is coming with the clouds, and every eye will see him, even those who pierced him, and all tribes of the earth will wail^j on account of him. Even so. Amen.

^j Or mourn

Similarly Matthew 24:30a says, "Then will appear in heaven the sign of the Son of Man, and then all the tribes of the earth will mourn ..." On Jesus Christ's return, unbelievers will realize too late the errors of their ways. In the light of their rejection of Jesus Christ and the persecution of his people by many of them, they will mourn deeply – particularly in anticipation of the judgment that awaits them.

^k Greek he

This age will end when Jesus Christ has come (v. 23) and destroyed all his enemies (vv. 24-26). In v. 25 "reign" could be referring to Christ's present reign as Lord, climaxing with the defeat of his enemies on his return. Alternatively "reign" may be speaking of a Millennium reign of Jesus Christ following his return (cf. Rev 20:4-6), during which he will crush all opposing powers (vv. 24-27).

2Thes 2:8 And then the lawless one will be revealed, whom the Lord Jesus will kill with the breath of his mouth and bring to nothing by the appearance of his coming.

Rev 16:14-16 For they are demonic spirits, performing signs, who go abroad to the kings of the whole world, to assemble them for battle on the great day of God the Almighty. ¹⁵("Behold, I am coming like a thief! Blessed is the one who stays awake, keeping his garments on, that he may not go about naked and be seen exposed!") ¹⁶And they assembled them at the place that in Hebrew is called Armageddon.

Verse 15 appears to link Jesus Christ's return with the final defeat of evil powers in the battle "on the great day of God the Almighty" (v. 14), at "Armageddon" (v. 16). There is a place in Israel that many identify with "Armageddon" (but this identification is not without its critics). Others see the usage of "Armageddon" as symbolic, simply signifying the event of God's final defeat of evil (cf. Rev 19:19-21 ↓), rather than its geographical location.

Rev 17:14 They will make war on the Lamb, and the Lamb will conquer them, for he is Lord of lords and King of kings, and those with him are called and chosen and faithful.

"They" refers to ten future kings (cf. v. 12) who may well be amongst the kings allied with the beast on Jesus Christ's return (cf. Rev 16:14, 16 ↑; Rev 19:19 ↓), whom he will consequently destroy (cf. Rev 19:21 ↓).

Rev 19:11-21 Then I saw heaven opened, and behold, a white horse! He will tread the winepress of the fury of the wrath of God the Almighty. ¹⁶On his robe and on his thigh he has a name written, King of kings and Lord of lords. ¹⁷Then I saw an angel standing in the sun, and with a loud voice he called to all the birds that fly directly overhead, "Come, gather for the great supper of God, ¹⁸to eat the flesh of kings, the flesh of captains, the flesh of mighty men, the flesh of horses and their riders, and the flesh of all men, both free and slave,^m both small and great." ¹⁹And I saw the beast and the kings of the earth with their armies gathered to make war against him who was sitting on the horse and against his army. ²⁰And the beast was captured, and with it the false prophet who in its presenceⁿ had done the signs by which he deceived those who had received the mark of the beast and those who worshiped its image. The rider on the "white horse" (vv. 11, 19, 21) is Jesus Christ, on his second coming. Diadems (v. 12) are crowns signifying sovereignty.

✦ The final defeat of Satan and evil:

Rev 20:7-10 And when the thousand years are ended, Satan will be released from his prison ⁸and will come out to deceive the nations that are at the four corners of the earth, Gog and Magog, to gather them for battle; their number is like the sand of the sea. ⁹And they marched up over the broad plain of the earth and surrounded the camp of the saints and the beloved city, but fire came down from heaven^o and consumed them, ¹⁰and the devil who had deceived them was thrown into the lake of fire and sulfur where the beast and the false prophet were, and they will be tormented day and night forever and ever.

Eccl 3:17 I said in my heart, God will judge the righteous and the wicked, for there is a time for every matter and for every work.

In saying "there is a time for every matter and for every work" the author means either that at God's time every activity and deed will be judged; or that just as God has a time for everything, he also has a time set for judgment. Note also that this verse, 11:9 below and 12:14 in the following subsection are not necessarily referring exclusively to God's final judgment.

Eccl 11:9 Rejoice, O young man, in your youth, and let your heart cheer you in the days of your youth. Walk in the ways of your heart and the sight of your eyes. But know that for all these things God will bring you into judgment.

The writer tempers his advice by warning his readers to bear in mind that God will assess all that they do, giving fitting reward or punishment.

Matt 12:36 I tell you, on the day of judgment people will give account for every careless word they speak, ...

One aspect of being judged for all we have done, is that we will be judged for all we have said.

. . . All that is hidden will be revealed and judged

1Cor 4:5 Therefore do not pronounce judgment before the time, before the Lord comes, who will bring to light the things now hidden in darkness and will disclose the purposes of the heart. Then each one will receive his commendation from God.

1Tim 5:24 The sins of some men are conspicuous, going before them to judgment, but the sins of others appear later.

This speaks of how some people's sins are well known, long before they will face judgment on the great day. In contrast, the sins of others will not be known until that day, when hidden sins will be revealed.

Luke 12:1-3 In the meantime, when so many thousands of the people had gathered together that they were trampling one another, he began to say to his disciples first, "Beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, which is hypocrisy. ²*Nothing is* covered up that will not be revealed, or hidden that will not be known. ³*Therefore whatever you have said in the dark shall be heard in the light, and what you have whispered in private rooms shall be proclaimed on the housetops.*

Following on from v. 1, v. 2 and quite possibly v. 3 are teaching that nothing which is hidden, in particular sin hidden by hypocrisy (v. 1), will fail to be revealed – on the day of judgment if not before. Note that, alternatively, v.3 may have a positive thrust (cf. Matt 10:26-27).

This is the first resurrection.*

Verse 4b may be referring only to martyrs spoken of earlier in the verse, but possibly the raising to life of all dead believers is in view. The fact that this occurrence is termed "the first resurrection" (v. 5b) supports the assertion that there will be another resurrection, in which all others will be raised from death (v. 5a).

. . . They will rise to be judged, and either rewarded with eternal life or be condemned

Dan 12:2, 13 And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt.  ... ¹³But go your way till the end. And you [Daniel] shall rest and shall stand in your allotted place at the end of the days.

The phrase "your allotted place" speaks of Daniel's allotted inheritance or reward (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT, NRSV).

John 5:28-29 Do not marvel at this, for an hour is coming when all who are in the tombs will hear his voice ²⁹*and come out, those who have done good to the resurrection of life, and those who have done evil to the resurrection of judgment.*

1Tim 4:8 ... for while bodily training is of some value, godliness is of value in every way, as it holds promise for the present life and also for the life to come.

Godliness gives hope of sharing in God's promises of both this present life and the eternal life to come.

1Tim 6:12, 18-19 Fight the good fight of the faith. Take hold of the eternal life to which you were called and about which you made the good confession in the presence of many witnesses.  ... ¹⁸They are to do good, to be rich in good works, to be generous and ready to share, ¹⁹thus storing up treasure for themselves as a good foundation for the future, so that they may take hold of that which is truly life.

References to "eternal life" (v. 12) can include the abundant, spiritual life that Christians experience now – as well as life after death. However – like the references generally in this subsection – here the latter is probably primarily in view, as with the expression "that which is truly life" (v. 19). Note that "the good confession" (v. 12) probably refers to a formal confession of belief in Jesus Christ, most likely on the occasion of Timothy's baptism.

James 1:12 Blessed is the man who remains steadfast under trial, for when he has stood the test he will receive the crown of life, which God has promised to those who love him.

The "the crown of life" (cf. Rev 2:10) is most likely an allusion to eternal life – "life forever" (NCVTM).

1Jn 2:17, 24-25 And the world is passing away along with its desires, but whoever does the will of God abides forever.  ... ²⁴Let what you heard from the beginning abide in you. Verse 24a speaks of the teaching they had been given. It was to remain or abide in them; they were to keep it in their hearts (cf. GNT), reflecting on it and applying it to their lives. As such, it speaks of godliness, which is also reflected in remaining in one's relationship with Jesus Christ and God (v. 24b). The outcome of this is eternal life (v. 25), the reward for "whoever does the will of God" (v. 17).

Dan 12:3 And those who are wise shall shine like the brightness of the sky above;^y and those who turn many to righteousness, like the stars forever and ever.

The phrase "under punishment" (v. 9) could mean that God persistently punishes the unrighteous even prior to judgment day. Alternatively, it may simply refer to them being kept for their ultimate punishment pronounced on judgment day.

2Pet 3:7 But by the same word the heavens and earth that now exist are stored up for fire, being kept until the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly.

Rev 11:18 The nations raged, but your wrath came, and the time for the dead to be judged, and for rewarding your servants,^h the prophets and saints, and those who fear your name, both small and great, and for destroying the destroyers of the earth.

^h Greek bondservants

The unbelieving nations vented their anger at God (cf. NLT), raging against him. The result of this is that they face God's wrath – primarily at the time of the final judgment, when "the destroyers of the earth" will themselves face destruction.

Luke 6:49 But the one who hears and does not do them is like a man who built a house on the ground without a foundation. When the stream broke against it, immediately it fell, and the ruin of that house was great.

Although certainly also applicable to any torrential "stream" of this life, God's final judgment may be primarily in view, with the complete destruction it brings on the ungodly who do not put Jesus' words into action.

✚ The bleak prospects of the ungodly in the face of God's judgment:

1Pet 4:17-18 For it is time for judgment to begin at the household of God; and if it begins with us, what will be the outcome for those who do not obey the gospel of God? ¹⁸And "If the righteous is scarcely saved, what will become of the ungodly and the sinner?"ⁱ ⁱ Greek where will the ungodly and sinner appear?

The "judgment" beginning with the family of God quite possibly refers to the hardships God's people suffer now as a form of purifying judgment. If they experience such judgment, the prospects of the ungodly are bleak indeed.

e) The Final Judgment (II): The Process

See also:

- On Jesus Christ's return his followers will be rewarded, p. 704

As this section shows, there will be two prominent factors in the final judgment: people's deeds; and people's response to Jesus Christ (i.e. whether one has believed in or has rejected him). This has led many theologians to conclude that people's eternal destiny (i.e. heaven or hell) will be determined by their response to Jesus Christ, with their deeds then determining the degree of their reward or punishment.

However bear in mind that there is also a correlation between godly deeds and belief in Jesus Christ, and likewise between ungodly deeds and rejection of Jesus Christ. As such, there may well be a strong correlation between judgment on the basis of one's deeds and judgment on the basis of one's response to Jesus Christ. (See also the introductory comment on Those who have rejected Jesus Christ – not obeying and doing evil – will be condemned, p. 715.)

John 5:22-23, 27 *The Father judges no one, but has given all judgment to the Son,*²³that all may honor the Son, just as they honor the Father. Whoever does not honor the Son does not honor the Father who sent him.  ...²⁷And he has given him authority to execute judgment, because he is the Son of Man.

In saying that God has given him authority to judge "because he is the Son of Man" (v. 27), Jesus may be meaning that it is because he is the one spoken of in Daniel 7:13-14 as "one like a son of man" to whom was given "dominion and glory and a kingdom".

Acts 10:42 And he commanded us to preach to the people and to testify that he is the one appointed by God to be judge of the living and the dead.

Acts 17:31 ... because he has fixed a day on which he will judge the world in righteousness by a man whom he has appointed; and of this he has given assurance to all by raising him from the dead.

In the second part of the verse Paul's point may be that by raising Jesus Christ, God validated Christ's claims that God would judge the world through him (cf. John 5:22-23, 27 ↑). For in raising Christ, God firstly validated Christ's claim that he would rise from the dead, and consequently gave credence to all Christ's other claims.

On his return, Jesus Christ will judge and reward all people according to what they have done . . .

1Cor 3:8, 12-15 He who plants and he who waters are one, and each will receive his wages according to his labor. 📖 ... ¹²Now if anyone builds on the foundation with gold, silver, precious stones, wood, hay, straw— ¹³each one's work will become manifest, for the Day will disclose it, because it will be revealed by fire, and the fire will test what sort of work each one has done. ¹⁴If the work that anyone has built on the foundation survives, he will receive a reward. ¹⁵If anyone's work is burned up, he will suffer loss, though he himself will be saved, but only as through fire. 📖

Here Paul speaks of the work of building the church (v. 12), and he probably has church teachers primarily in view. The builders need to be careful to build with quality materials – symbolized by the gold, silver and costly stones. (Such materials would include correct doctrine, complemented by a godly lifestyle.) Quality work – as with poor work – will be shown for what it is when tested on the Day of Judgment (vv. 13-15).

1Cor 4:4-5 For I am not aware of anything against myself, but I am not thereby acquitted. It is the Lord who judges me. ⁵Therefore do not pronounce judgment before the time, before the Lord comes, who will bring to light the things now hidden in darkness and will disclose the purposes of the heart. Then each one will receive his commendation from God. 📖

The context and the reference to receiving "commendation from God" (v. 5b), suggests that Paul may well have primarily in view judgment and reward of Christian service.

2Cor 5:10 For we must all appear before the judgment seat of Christ, so that each one may receive what is due for what he has done in the body, whether good or evil. 📖

A number of commentators understand this to be referring primarily to evaluation of what believers have done – for determining their reward, rather than their eternal destiny (which is secured by faith in Jesus Christ). However Paul could more generally be referring to Christ's judgment of all people.

Eph 6:8 ... knowing that whatever good anyone does, this he will receive back from the Lord, whether he is a slave or free. 📖

For whatever good we do, we "will receive back from the Lord" repayment which is in accordance with it. Note that here Paul is addressing Christian slaves (cf. Col 3:23-25 ↓).

Col 3:23-25 Whatever you do, work heartily, as for the Lord and not for men, ²⁴knowing that from the Lord you will receive the inheritance as your reward. You are serving the Lord Christ. ²⁵For the wrongdoer will be paid back for the wrong he has done, and there is no partiality. 📖

Particularly given the context, v. 25 provides a sobering warning for professing believers.

James 2:12 So speak and so act as those who are to be judged under the law of liberty. 📖

Christians are freer to please God, being under a "law" and covenant that gives freedom from encumbering regulations and sin. As such, more will be expected of them in the judgment of their words and actions.

1Pet 1:17 And if you call on him as Father who judges impartially according to each one's deeds, conduct yourselves with fear throughout the time of your exile, ... 📖

As with a number of the other verses in this subsection, this is not necessarily confined to just the "work" of Christians – nor to just the final judgment.

Rev 2:23 ... and I will strike her children dead. And all the churches will know that I am he who searches mind and heart, and I will give to each of you according to your works. 📖

The immediate context is the judgment of a false prophetess and her "children" or followers. However Christ's second statement here is a general truth, applicable to all his judgments – on churches and their members, as well as other people – including of course the final judgment.

Rev 14:13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Write this: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on." "Blessed indeed," says the Spirit, "that they may rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them!" 📖

The first statement makes it clear that deeds of believers are being spoken of in the second statement. The latter implies that their godly deeds will bring them reward in the afterlife.

‡ Supposed servants of Jesus Christ who do evil will be doomed:

Luke 12:45-46 But if that servant says to himself, 'My master is delayed in coming,' and begins to beat the male and female servants, and to eat and drink and get drunk, ⁴⁶the master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he does not know, and will cut him in pieces and put him with the unfaithful. 📖

The final clause appears to refer to the punishment in store for unbelievers, which will be shared by supposed servants of Christ who have been unfaithful. Note that Matthew 7:21-23 in the previous subsection has a similar theme.

People will have to give an account of themselves

Rom 14:11-12 ... for it is written, "As I live, says the Lord, every knee shall bow to me, and every tongue shall confess¹ to God." ¹²So then each of us will give an account of himself to God. 📖

The fact that everyone will have to bow before and acknowledge God (v. 11) points to the assertion that all will have to give an account of themselves to God (v. 12). Given the context of the passage, in v.12 the writer is probably primarily referring to Christians. However v. 11 may be implying a more general application, which is also valid.

Heb 4:13 And no creature is hidden from his sight, but all are naked and exposed to the eyes of him to whom we must give account. 📖

1Pet 4:5 ... but they will give account to him who is ready to judge the living and the dead. 📖

Luke 19:15 When he returned, having received the kingdom, he ordered these servants to whom he had given the money to be called to him, that he might know what they had gained by doing business. 📖

The parable from which this is taken (cf. vv. 11-27) is illustrative of judgment day and the accompanying requirement to give an account for what we have been entrusted with. Believers may primarily be in view.

‡ We will have to give account of careless words, for by our words we will be acquitted or condemned:

Matt 12:34-37 You brood of vipers! How can you speak good, when you are evil? For out of the abundance of the heart the mouth speaks. ³⁵The good person out of his good treasure brings forth good, and the evil person out of his evil treasure brings forth evil. ³⁶*I tell you, on the day of judgment people will give account for every careless word they speak, ³⁷for by your words you will be justified, and by your words you will be condemned.* 📖

Although words and deeds are often distinguished, to say something is itself an action or a deed – so these verses correlate well with the previous subsections' teaching of deeds being a critical aspect of judgment. But probably what Jesus has primarily in mind is that one's words are fitting as a basis of judgment because they are indicative of what is in one's heart (vv. 34-35). As such, this reflects a further correlation between one's words and one's deeds.

Rom 10:9 ... because, if you confess with your mouth that Jesus is Lord and believe in your heart that God raised him from the dead, you will be saved. 📖

Mark 16:16 Whoever believes and is baptized will be saved, but whoever does not believe will be condemned. 📖

Heb 10:39 But we are not of those who shrink back and are destroyed, but of those who have faith and preserve their souls. 📖

John 3:14-16, 36 And as Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, so must the Son of Man be lifted up, ¹⁵*that whoever believes in him may have eternal life.^m ¹⁶"For God so loved the world,ⁿ that he gave his only Son, that whoever believes in him should not perish but have eternal life.* 📖 ... ³⁶*Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life; whoever does not obey the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God remains on him.* 📖

^m Some interpreters hold that the quotation ends at verse 15

ⁿ Or For this is how God loved the world

John 5:24 Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life. He does not come into judgment, but has passed from death to life.

Believing what God spoke through Jesus primarily involves believing in Jesus Christ, the focus of God's message.

John 6:40 For this is the will of my Father, that everyone who looks on the Son and believes in him should have eternal life, and I will raise him up on the last day.

John 11:25-26 Jesus said to her, "I am the resurrection and the life." ^o Whoever believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, ²⁶and everyone who lives and believes in me shall never die. Do you believe this?"

^o Some manuscripts omit and the life

Those who believe in Jesus Christ will live even though they die physically (v. 25b); in a spiritual sense they will never die (v. 26a).

John 20:31 ... but these are written so that you may believe that Jesus is the Christ, the Son of God, and that by believing you may have life in his name.

Believers have spiritual, eternal life. It begins on belief and continues forever.

1Tim 1:16 But I received mercy for this reason, that in me, as the foremost, Jesus Christ might display his perfect patience as an example to those who were to believe in him for eternal life.

✚ By faith, through Jesus Christ people have peace with God:

Rom 5:1 Therefore, since we have been justified by faith, we^p have peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ.

Those who have rejected Jesus Christ – not obeying and doing evil – will be condemned

- Those who do not believe in Jesus Christ are condemned and do not have life . . ., p. 1054

The following passages reflect an association between not believing in Jesus Christ and disobedience (or acting wickedly). These two things parallel the need for people to both believe and repent, and reflect the fact that at the last judgment both what people have believed in and what they have done will be critical factors.

John 3:18-21 Whoever believes in him is not condemned, but whoever does not believe is condemned already, because he has not believed in the name of the only Son of God. ¹⁹*And this is the judgment: the light has come into the world, and people loved the darkness rather than the light because their works were evil.* ²⁰*For everyone who does wicked things hates the light and does not come to the light, lest his works should be exposed.* ²¹*But whoever does what is true comes to the light, so that it may be clearly seen that his works have been carried out in God.*

The phrase "this is the judgment" (v. 19) essentially means: "Their judgment is based on this fact" (NLT; cf. GNT, NCV). One's acceptance or rejection of the "light" that came in Jesus Christ – here associated with one's deeds (vv. 19-21) – forms the basis of one's judgment.

John 12:47-48 If anyone hears my words and does not keep them, I do not judge him; for I did not come to judge the world but to save the world. ⁴⁸*The one who rejects me and does not receive my words has a judge; the word that I have spoken will judge him on the last day.*

In v. 47a, "does not keep them" appears to refer to not obeying Jesus' words (v. 47a; cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT), but could also or instead refer to not believing them (cf. NKJV). Verse 48 teaches that those who have rejected Jesus and his words will be condemned in the light of and in accordance with his words. Note that in saying that he did not come to judge (v. 47), Jesus is speaking of his first advent.

2Thes 1:7b-9 ... when the Lord Jesus is revealed from heaven with his mighty angels ⁸*in flaming fire, inflicting vengeance on those who do not know God and on those who do not obey the gospel of our Lord Jesus.* ⁹*They will suffer the punishment of eternal destruction, away from^a the presence of the Lord and from the glory of his might, ...*

^q Or destruction that comes from

Not obeying the gospel of Jesus Christ (v. 8b) involves rejecting him. Additionally, rejecting Jesus Christ and not obeying the gospel is symptomatic of not knowing God (v. 8a).

Heb 10:26-31 For if we go on sinning deliberately after receiving the knowledge of the truth, there no longer remains a sacrifice for sins, ²⁷but a fearful expectation of judgment, and a fury of fire that will consume the adversaries. ²⁸Anyone who has set aside the law of Moses dies without mercy on the evidence of two or three witnesses. ²⁹How much worse punishment, do you think, will be deserved by the one who has spurned the Son of God, and has profaned the blood of the covenant by which he was sanctified, and has outraged the Spirit of grace? ³⁰For we know him who said, "Vengeance is mine; I will repay." And again, "The Lord will judge his people." ³¹It is a fearful thing to fall into the hands of the living God.

Deliberately continuing to sin (v. 26) will bring God's judgment (v. 27). This is because it is in effect doing the things listed in v. 29, which amount to rejecting Jesus Christ and his sacrifice for sin – as the comparison with rejecting the law of Moses (v. 28) implies. Such rejection of Jesus Christ necessitates God's judgment (vv. 30-31).

Jude 1:14-15 It was also about these that Enoch, the seventh from Adam, prophesied, saying, "Behold, the Lord comes with ten thousands of his holy ones, ¹⁵to execute judgment on all and to convict all the ungodly of all their deeds of ungodliness that they have committed in such an ungodly way, and of all the harsh things that ungodly sinners have spoken against him."

This speaks of the ungodly as both acting in an "ungodly way" and rejecting Jesus Christ with the harsh words they have spoken against him. Consequently they will be convicted.

2Thes 2:9-12 The coming of the lawless one is by the activity of Satan with all power and false signs and wonders, ¹⁰and with all wicked deception for those who are perishing, because they refused to love the truth and so be saved. ¹¹Therefore God sends them a strong delusion, so that they may believe what is false, ¹²in order that all may be condemned who did not believe the truth but had pleasure in unrighteousness.

The references to perishing (v. 9) speak of eternal destruction and punishment. Loving the truth (v. 10) and believing the truth (v. 12) involve adhering to and believing the truth about Jesus.

‡ In contrast to those who acknowledge him, whoever disowns Jesus Christ will be disowned by him:

Matt 10:32-33 So everyone who acknowledges me before men, I also will acknowledge before my Father who is in heaven, ³³but whoever denies me before men, I also will deny before my Father who is in heaven.

What people have known will be taken into account

What people have known of Jesus Christ and of God's will, will be taken into account in their judgment.

Matt 10:7-8, 14-15 And proclaim as you go, saying, 'The kingdom of heaven is at hand.' ⁸Heal the sick, raise the dead, cleanse lepers,^r cast out demons. You received without paying; give without pay.  ... ¹⁴And if anyone will not receive you or listen to your words, shake off the dust from your feet when you leave that house or town. ¹⁵Truly, I say to you, it will be more bearable on the day of judgment for the land of Sodom and Gomorrah than for that town.

Those who have heard the message of the kingdom and witnessed the accompanying signs that authenticate it (vv. 7-8), are more accountable than those who have not (vv. 14-15). This will be reflected in the judgments of both groups. Note that for the disciples to shake the dust off their feet (v. 14), would be indicative of the unclean state of the place and alluded to the judgment that awaited it.

Matt 11:20-24 Then he began to denounce the cities where most of his mighty works had been done, because they did not repent. ²¹"Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. ²²But I tell you, it will be more bearable on the day of judgment for Tyre and Sidon than for you. ²³And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven? You will be brought down to Hades. For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. ²⁴But I tell you that it will be more tolerable on the day of judgment for the land of Sodom than for you."

Matt 12:41-42 The men of Nineveh will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for they repented at the preaching of Jonah, and behold, something greater than Jonah is here. ⁴²The queen of the South will rise up at the judgment with this generation and condemn it, for she came from the ends of the earth to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and behold, something greater than Solomon is here.

As the people of Nineveh and the Queen of Sheba had responded to lesser revelations from God, Jesus' generation will be all the more accountable for not responding to the revelation that came through him.

Luke 12:47-48 And that servant who knew his master's will but did not get ready or act according to his will, will receive a severe beating. ⁴⁸But the one who did not know, and did what deserved a beating, will receive a light beating. Everyone to whom much was given, of him much will be required, and from him to whom they entrusted much, they will demand the more.

John 9:41 Jesus said to them, "If you were blind, you would have no guilt;^s but now that you say, 'We see,' your guilt remains.

^s Greek you would not have sin

Jesus appears to be implying that if the Pharisees were ignorant of spiritual things, they would not be guilty – at least not to such an extent (cf. comment on John 15:22, 24 ↓). But as they claimed knowledge of such matters, their guilt was confirmed.

John 15:22, 24 If I had not come and spoken to them, they would not have been guilty of sin,^t but now they have no excuse for their sin. ... ²⁴If I had not done among them the works that no one else did, they would not be guilty of sin, but now they have seen and hated both me and my Father.

^t Greek they would not have sin; also verse 24

The phrase "they would not have been guilty of sin" (vv. 22, 24) does not mean that they had never sinned, but rather that if they did not have the revelation made known to them through Jesus, they would not be guilty of such deliberate, defiant sin; now they were without excuse for their sin (v. 22). Verse 24 implies that in particular they were now guilty of the decisive sin of rejecting Jesus in spite of what they had seen.

Rom 2:12-15 For all who have sinned without the law will also perish without the law, and all who have sinned under the law will be judged by the law. ¹³For it is not the hearers of the law who are righteous before God, but the doers of the law who will be justified. ¹⁴For when Gentiles, who do not have the law, by nature do what the law requires, they are a law to themselves, even though they do not have the law. ¹⁵They show that the work of the law is written on their hearts, while their conscience also bears witness, and their conflicting thoughts accuse or even excuse them ...

Gentiles without knowledge of the Mosaic Law, by nature have a grasp of its requirements (vv. 14-15) and will be judged as such (v. 12a). Those who know the law have a clearer understanding of what God requires, and so their judgment will be more exacting (v. 12b).

† All people have at least known of God through his creation – and so have no excuse:

Rom 1:18-20 For the wrath of God is revealed from heaven against all ungodliness and unrighteousness of men, who by their unrighteousness suppress the truth. ¹⁹For what can be known about God is plain to them, because God has shown it to them. ²⁰For his invisible attributes, namely, his eternal power and divine nature, have been clearly perceived, ever since the creation of the world, in the things that have been made. So they are without excuse.

This passage is not talking specifically about God's final judgment, but its teaching is certainly applicable to it.

f) Jesus Christ's Universal Rule

See also:

- II. God's Plans for Israel, p. 981

The subject of Jesus Christ's universal rule and a messianic age has different interpretations. One view is that they should primarily be correlated with the present form of God's kingdom, over which Jesus Christ rules as Lord and where people from among the nations have turned to God. Another view is that there will be a period of widespread righteousness at the end of the age prior to the consummation of God's kingdom and the afterlife (as per "The Millennium", see below). A further possibility is that verses speaking of the Messiah's universal rule are portraying the afterlife. (Additionally, some of the passages may have different stages of fulfillment, and so be relevant to more than one of these scenarios.)

Accordingly, it is debatable whether chronologically this section – or particular subsections in it – should be placed:

before the earlier sections on Jesus Christ's return; before the above sections on the last judgment; or even in the second half of this chapter.

Note that while most of the subsections' themes are open to interpretation, some of the verses that they contain quite clearly have a particular one of the above three scenarios in view.

Prelude: The thousand years

Revelation 20:1-6 below is critical to the significant concept of "The Millennium". Each verse in vv. 2-6 refers to a thousand-year period – a millennium. This millennium is also arguably referred to by numerous OT prophetic passages and possibly a few NT ones. As well as in the following subsections, many such OT passages are found in II. God's Plans for Israel, p. 981. This section (Jesus Christ's Universal Rule) and God's Plans for Israel cover most of the concepts involved in the doctrine of "The Millennium".

There are three major views of this "Millennium". Amillennialists view the reign of deceased believers with Christ (cf. Rev 20:4, 6 ↓) to refer to a present reign in heaven. They see this reign as having been introduced by Jesus Christ's first coming, with him being pronounced Lord of all (cf. introductory comment on d) Jesus Christ as Lord of All, p. 684). They believe that Jesus Christ will return, and then the general resurrection will occur, followed by the final judgment. Following this would be the reign of Jesus Christ over the new earth in the afterlife.

Postmillennialists believe that Christianity will become dominant in the world through the spread of the gospel, resulting in a long lasting era of righteousness – i.e. the millennium. This would be followed by Christ's return, the resurrection of the dead and the final judgment. Premillennialists believe that Christ's return will be followed by a first resurrection of believers, who will reign with Christ in a literal thousand-year rule of righteousness on earth. This would then be followed by the final resurrection and then the final judgment.

The use of "post" and "pre" in the names of the latter two positions refers to their view of when Christ will return in relation to the millennium. The Amillennialist and Premillennialist viewpoints are probably the most popular today.

Rev 20:1-6 Then I saw an angel coming down from heaven, holding in his hand the key to the bottomless pit^u and a great chain. ²And he seized the dragon, that ancient serpent, who is the devil and Satan, and bound him for a thousand years, ³and threw him into the pit, and shut it and sealed it over him, so that he might not deceive the nations any longer, until the thousand years were ended. After that he must be released for a little while. ⁴Then I saw thrones, and seated on them were those to whom the authority to judge was committed. Also I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for the testimony of Jesus and for the word of God, and those who had not worshiped the beast or its image and had not received its mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ for a thousand years. ⁵The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were ended. This is the first resurrection. ⁶Blessed and holy is the one who shares in the first resurrection! Over such the second death has no power, but they will be priests of God and of Christ, and they will reign with him for a thousand years. ☰

^u Greek the abyss; also verse 3

The clause "those to whom the authority to judge was committed" (v. 4a) most likely refers to believers, though angels are a possibility. They are not necessarily the martyrs subsequently spoken of, although they could be at least inclusive of them. Furthermore, the clause may not be speaking of only believers who remain faithful during the severe persecution of the end times, but may symbolically encompass all believers. Premillennialists understand "the first resurrection" (v. 6) to be the physical raising to life of all dead believers, to reign with Christ upon the earth for a thousand years.

God will establish the Messiah as ruler over all, forever

See also:

- Heb 1:8 ↓; Isa 11:10 ↓
- God will impose his absolute rule on all, p. 253

God's implementation of his authority through Jesus Christ's rule will not only be universal but also everlasting. Note that some commentators understand the Millennium to be an initial stage in Christ's rule.

Gen 49:10 The scepter shall not depart from Judah, nor the ruler's staff from between his feet, until tribute comes to him;^v and to him shall be the obedience of the peoples.

^v By a slight revocalization; a slight emendation yields (compare Septuagint, Syriac, Targum) until he comes to whom it belongs; Hebrew until Shiloh comes, or until he comes to Shiloh

Particularly in view of the text note (cf. AMP, NCV, NIV, NLT), this is commonly understood to refer to a descendant of Judah who would rule not only Israel but have "the obedience of the peoples". It may have had an initial fulfillment in David, but probably ultimately refers to the Messiah (or Christ).

Ps 2:6-9 "As for me, I have set my King on Zion, my holy hill."⁷ I will tell of the decree: The LORD said to me, "You are my Son; today I have begotten you." ⁸*Ask of me, and I will make the nations your heritage, and the ends of the earth your possession.* ⁹*You shall break^w them with a rod of iron and dash them in pieces like a potter's vessel."*

^w Revocalization yields (compare Septuagint) You shall rule

This and the following two references (72:8-11; 89:25-29) are from psalms concerning Davidic kings, with messianic applications. Installed by God as King in Zion (v. 6), the Messiah – God's Son (v. 7) – will assert his authority over the nations (vv. 8-9; cf. Rev 19:15). Once his rule is established, as the following subsection shows, it will be one of righteousness and peace.

Ps 72:8-11 May he have dominion from sea to sea, and from the River^x to the ends of the earth! ⁹*May desert tribes bow down before him, and his enemies lick the dust!* ¹⁰*May the kings of Tarshish and of the coastlands render him tribute; may the kings of Sheba and Seba bring gifts!* ¹¹*May all kings fall down before him, all nations serve him!*

^x That is, the Euphrates

Ps 89:25-29 I will set his hand on the sea and his right hand on the rivers. ²⁶*He shall cry to me, 'You are my Father, my God, and the Rock of my salvation.'* ²⁷*And I will make him the firstborn, the highest of the kings of the earth.* ²⁸*My steadfast love I will keep for him forever, and my covenant will stand firm^y for him.* ²⁹*I will establish his offspring forever and his throne as the days of the heavens.*

^y Or will remain faithful

The term "firstborn" (v. 27) is indicative of being in a position above all others in God's kingdom, as reflected in the subsequent clause.

Isa 55:4 Behold, I made him a witness to the peoples, a leader and commander for the peoples.

This is either referring to the Messiah or back to David (cf. v. 3) as "one (One) who shall testify of salvation" to the peoples (AMP). Even if David is primarily in view, the prophecy is ultimately fulfilled in the Messiah.

Dan 7:13-14 I saw in the night visions, and behold, with the clouds of heaven there came one like a son of man, and he came to the Ancient of Days and was presented before him. ¹⁴*And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him; his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed.*

1Cor 15:25 For he must reign until he has put all his enemies under his feet.

For comment, see the comment on 1Cor 15:25 – under On Jesus Christ's return evil powers will be crushed, p. 704.

Eph 1:9-10 ... making known^z to us the mystery of his will, according to his purpose, which he set forth in Christ ¹⁰*as a plan for the fullness of time, to unite all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth.*

The latter part of v. 10 – key to these verses being pertinent to this subsection – may be speaking more of God unifying and consummating creation in Christ (cf. AMP), rather than primarily of Christ's rule over them. However, even so, arguably the latter is implied (cf. GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

Heb 2:5 Now it was not to angels that God subjected the world to come, of which we are speaking.

There are different interpretations of this verse. The time period in view with the phrase "the world to come" has been interpreted as referring to the millennium, the afterlife and even the present age (cf. NCV). The phrase "it was not to angels" quite possibly refers to Jesus Christ, although it may allude to believers in their participation in Christ's reign. In either case, the verse is indicative of the subjection of this "world" to Jesus Christ.

Dan 2:44 And in the days of those kings the God of heaven will set up a kingdom that shall never be destroyed, nor shall the kingdom be left to another people. It shall break in pieces all these kingdoms and bring them to an end, and it shall stand forever, ...

This is considered by some scholars to be referring to the introduction of the kingdom of God on Christ's first coming, while others think that it is speaking of the setting up of a millennial kingdom on Christ's return. Another possibility is that the first alternative is initially in view, with the prophecy to be consummately fulfilled on Christ's return by either a millennial kingdom or the consummation of God's kingdom on the commencement of the afterlife.

✦ On his return, Jesus Christ will assume his throne:

Matt 25:31 When the Son of Man comes in his glory, and all the angels with him, then he will sit on his glorious throne. 📖

This points to Jesus Christ asserting his ultimate authority over the entire world on his return. Note that in 19:28 Jesus similarly speaks of: "... the new world, when the Son of Man will sit on his glorious throne ..."

Heb 1:8 But of the Son he says, "Your throne, O God, is forever and ever, the scepter of uprightness is the scepter of your kingdom. 📖

Isa 11:1-10 There shall come forth a shoot from the stump of Jesse, and a branch from his roots shall bear fruit. ²And the Spirit of the LORD shall rest upon him, the Spirit of wisdom and understanding, the Spirit of counsel and might, the Spirit of knowledge and the fear of the LORD. ³And his delight shall be in the fear of the LORD. He shall not judge by what his eyes see, or decide disputes by what his ears hear, ⁴but with righteousness he shall judge the poor, and decide with equity for the meek of the earth; and he shall strike the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips he shall kill the wicked. ⁵Righteousness shall be the belt of his waist, and faithfulness the belt of his loins. ⁶The wolf shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the young goat, and the calf and the lion and the fattened calf together; and a little child shall lead them. ⁷The cow and the bear shall graze; their young shall lie down together; and the lion shall eat straw like the ox. ⁸The nursing child shall play over the hole of the cobra, and the weaned child shall put his hand on the adder's den. ⁹They shall not hurt or destroy in all my holy mountain; for the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD as the waters cover the sea. ¹⁰In that day the root of Jesse, who shall stand as a signal for the peoples—of him shall the nations inquire, and his resting place shall be glorious. 📖

The "shoot" and "branch" (v. 1) signify the Christ, who will be from the line of David the son of Jesse (vv. 1, 10). Verses 6-8 portray the ultimate peace that will characterize the Christ's reign. Although this peace is spoken of in v. 9a as occurring on God's "holy mountain", vv. 9b-10 appear to imply that such conditions will extend over all the earth. In v. 10, "a signal for the peoples" appears to speak of the Messiah rallying the nations to himself (cf. NIV, NLT), in submission to him and possibly also as the one who provides them with salvation. His "resting place" refers to where he dwells (cf. AMP, NCV, NLT) – in effect the place from where he rules (cf. NlrV).

Isa 42:1-4 Behold my servant, whom I uphold, my chosen, in whom my soul delights; I have put my Spirit upon him; he will bring forth justice to the nations. ²He will not cry aloud or lift up his voice, or make it heard in the street; ³a bruised reed he will not break, and a faintly burning wick he will not quench; he will faithfully bring forth justice. ⁴*He will not grow faint or be discouraged^a till he has established justice in the earth; and the coastlands wait for his law.* 📖

^a Or bruised

Most of this passage is quoted in Matthew 12:18-21 in reference to Jesus Christ. Particularly in light of this, the unassuming and gentle nature portrayed in vv. 2-3 may well have his first advent primarily in view (cf. Zec 9:9 ↓), while v. 4 – not included in the Matthew quotation – seems to look to Christ's second coming.

Mic 4:3-4 He shall judge between many peoples, and shall decide for strong nations far away; and they shall beat their swords into plowshares, and their spears into pruning hooks; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, neither shall they learn war anymore; ⁴but they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig tree, and no one shall make them afraid, for the mouth of the LORD of hosts has spoken. 📖

"He" (v. 3) refers to the LORD (cf. v. 1), but many understand this prophecy as being fulfilled through the Messiah. As with v. 3, v. 4 reflects the peaceful state of his kingdom.

Zec 9:9-10 Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion! Shout aloud, O daughter of Jerusalem! Behold, your king is coming to you; righteous and having salvation is he, humble and mounted on a donkey, on a colt, the foal of a donkey. ¹⁰*I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim and the war horse from Jerusalem; and the battle bow shall be cut off, and he shall speak peace to the nations; his rule shall be from sea to sea, and from the River to the ends of the earth.* 📖

Similar to Isaiah 42:1-4 above, v. 9 has Jesus Christ's first advent primarily in view (cf. Matt 21:1-11), while v. 10 probably looks towards Christ's second coming.

✦ God promises to bring justice to the nations:

Isa 51:4-5 Give attention to me, my people, and give ear to me, my nation; for a law^b will go out from me, and I will set my justice for a light to the peoples. ⁵My righteousness draws near, my salvation has gone out, and my arms will judge the peoples; the coastlands hope for me, and for my arm they wait.

^b Or for teaching; also verse 7

The last clause in v. 4 suggests that God's justice will become a "guiding light" (NirV[®]) to the nations, possibly in part due to the prevalence of God's aforementioned law. Additionally, God's salvation (cf. v. 5) may be in view as securing the nations' welfare, turning the darkness of their circumstances to light.

As with the other subsections in this chapter section, the verses in this and the following subsection appear to have in view the time of the Messiah's reign. Under the Messiah's universal reign of righteousness, all nations will turn to God.

Ps 65:2 O you who hear prayer, to you shall all flesh come.

Ps 68:31 Nobles shall come from Egypt; Cush shall hasten to stretch out her hands to God.

Isa 2:3 ... and many peoples shall come, and say: "Come, let us go up to the mountain of the LORD, to the house of the God of Jacob, that he may teach us his ways and that we may walk in his paths." For out of Zion shall go the law,^c and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

^c Or teaching

The "mountain" is Mount Zion. It is part of Jerusalem, which it is often used to represent – as is implied by the latter part of the verse. In conjunction with the submission of the nations to God, this portrays God's law and word as emanating from Jerusalem, teaching all the nations.

Isa 66:18 For I know^d their works and their thoughts, and the time is coming^e to gather all nations and tongues. And they shall come and shall see my glory, ...

^d Septuagint, Syriac; Hebrew lacks know

^e Hebrew and it is coming

This speaks of God leading the nations to turn to him.

Jer 16:19 O LORD, my strength and my stronghold, my refuge in the day of trouble, to you shall the nations come from the ends of the earth and say: "Our fathers have inherited nothing but lies, worthless things in which there is no profit."

Zec 2:11a And many nations shall join themselves to the LORD in that day, and shall be my people.

Zec 8:20-21 Thus says the LORD of hosts: Peoples shall yet come, even the inhabitants of many cities. ²¹*The inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, 'Let us go at once to entreat the favor of the LORD and to seek the LORD of hosts; I myself am going.'*

Acts 15:16-18 'After this I will return, and I will rebuild the tent of David that has fallen; I will rebuild its ruins, and I will restore it, ¹⁷*that the remnant^f of mankind may seek the Lord, and all the Gentiles who are called by my name, says the Lord, who makes these things* ¹⁸*known from of old.'*

^f Or rest

Here Amos 9:11-12 is quoted by James as being fulfilled in part at least in the turning to God by significant numbers of Gentiles following Jesus Christ's mission (cf. vv. 13-19). (As such a similar application or interpretation could be applied to a number of other verses in this and other subsections in this section.) Some scholars consider that it also speaks of a more comprehensive turning to God by the Gentiles at the end of the age.

Mic 7:15-17 As in the days when you came out of the land of Egypt, I will show them^g marvelous things. ¹⁶The nations shall see and be ashamed of all their might; they shall lay their hands on their mouths; their ears shall be deaf; ¹⁷they shall lick the dust like a serpent, like the crawling things of the earth; they shall come trembling out of their strongholds; they shall turn in dread to the LORD our God, and they shall be in fear of you.

^g Hebrew him

In v. 16, "they shall lay their hands on their mouths" appears to indicate "awe" (NLT) of God and "dismay" (GNT, cf. AMP). As a result of God's wonderful acts (v. 15), the nations will understand their relative lack of power and be in awe of God

(v. 16). Consequently they will humbly turn in fear to God (v. 17).

† Prophecy of peoples coming to join God's people:

Isa 45:14 Thus says the LORD: "The wealth of Egypt and the merchandise of Cush, and the Sabeans, men of stature, shall come over to you and be yours; they shall follow you; they shall come over in chains and bow down to you. They will plead with you, saying: 'Surely God is in you, and there is no other, no god besides him.'"

In conjunction with coming to God, this speaks of peoples coming to Jerusalem – aligning themselves with God's people – and acknowledging that he is the only God. Furthermore, earlier Isaiah says that all people will have knowledge of the LORD: "... the earth shall be full of the knowledge of the LORD as the waters cover the sea." (11:9)

All nations will worship God

See also:

- The nations will come to Jerusalem to worship God . . ., p. 1013

Ps 22:27-29 All the ends of the earth shall remember and turn to the LORD, and all the families of the nations shall worship before you. ²⁸For kingship belongs to the LORD, and he rules over the nations. ²⁹*All the prosperous of the earth eat and worship; before him shall bow all who go down to the dust, even the one who could not keep himself alive.*

Verse 29b is speaking of "all mortals— those born to die" (NLT, cf. GNT, NCV).

Ps 66:4 All the earth worships you and sings praises to you; they sing praises to your name." Selah

A number of other translations use a future tense (cf. AMP, NASB, NKJV, NLT), suggesting that this has a future fulfillment.

Ps 86:9 All the nations you have made shall come and worship before you, O Lord, and shall glorify your name.

Isa 19:18-25 In that day there will be five cities in the land of Egypt that speak the language of Canaan and swear allegiance to the LORD of hosts. One of these will be called the City of Destruction.^h ¹⁹In that day there will be an altar to the LORD in the midst of the land of Egypt, and a pillar to the LORD at its border. ²⁰It will be a sign and a witness to the LORD of hosts in the land of Egypt. When they cry to the LORD because of oppressors, he will send them a savior and defender, and deliver them. ²¹And the LORD will make himself known to the

Egyptians, and the Egyptians will know the LORD in that day and worship with sacrifice and offering, and they will make vows to the LORD and perform them. ²²And the LORD will strike Egypt, striking and healing, and they will return to the LORD, and he will listen to their pleas for mercy and heal them. ²³In that day there will be a highway from Egypt to Assyria, and Assyria will come into Egypt, and Egypt into Assyria, and the Egyptians will worship with the Assyrians. ²⁴In that day Israel will be the third with Egypt and Assyria, a blessing in the midst of the earth, ²⁵whom the LORD of hosts has blessed, saying, "Blessed be Egypt my people, and Assyria the work of my hands, and Israel my inheritance."

^h Dead Sea Scroll and some other manuscripts City of the Sun

As part of the Gentiles turning to God and worshiping him, this passage also speaks of the Gentiles being incorporated into God's people and kingdom. In saying that the Egyptians will "speak the language of Canaan", v. 18 points to the Egyptians identifying themselves with God's people – which they will do more emphatically when they "swear allegiance" to God. The reference to both Egypt and Assyria (v. 23-25), two of Israel's most notable enemies, may well signify the Gentiles in general joining Israel in devotion to and worship of God, and sharing equally with her in God's blessings.

Isa 45:23 By myself I have sworn; from my mouth has gone out in righteousness a word that shall not return: "To me every knee shall bow, every tongue shall swear allegiance."ⁱ

ⁱ Septuagint every tongue shall confess to God

Bowing before God and swearing allegiance (v. 23) are acts of worship.

Isa 61:11 For as the earth brings forth its sprouts, and as a garden causes what is sown in it to sprout up, so the Lord GOD will cause righteousness and praise to sprout up before all the nations.

The "righteousness and praise" may refer to the righteousness and praise of God of all nations (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT) – hence the verse's inclusion here. Israel's righteousness and praise of God is also a possibility.

Isa 66:23 From new moon to new moon, and from Sabbath to Sabbath, all flesh shall come to worship before me, declares the LORD.

Dan 7:27 And the kingdom and the dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heaven shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High; their kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom, and *all dominions shall serve and obey them.*ⁱ

^j Or his kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him

If the rendering in the text note is to be preferred (cf. AMP, CEV, NASB, NIV, NKJV), then this verse would be indicative of all nations worshiping God, with serving God being associated with worship of him.

Zeph 2:11 The LORD will be awesome against them; for he will famish all the gods of the earth, and to him shall bow down, each in its place, all the lands of the nations.

Zeph 3:9-10 For at that time I will change the speech of the peoples to a pure speech, that all of them may call upon the name of the LORD and serve him with one accord. ¹⁰*From beyond the rivers of Cush my worshipers, the daughter of my dispersed ones, shall bring my offering.*

In v. 9 “peoples” refers to all nations. Similarly “my dispersed ones” (v. 10) may be speaking of those among other nations who worship God, although the scattered remnant of Israel may be in view.

Mal 1:11 For from the rising of the sun to its setting my name will be^k great among the nations, and in every place incense will be offered to my name, and a pure offering. For my name will be great among the nations, says the LORD of hosts.

^k Or is (three times in verse 11; also verse 14)

Rev 15:4 Who will not fear, O Lord, and glorify your name? For you alone are holy. All nations will come and worship you, for your righteous acts have been revealed.

† All nations will fear God:

Ps 102:15 Nations will fear the name of the LORD, and all the kings of the earth will fear your glory.

That all nations will fear God is reflected above in Revelation 15:4 and also in Micah 7:15-17 in the previous subsection.

All people will acknowledge and submit to Jesus Christ

As the Messiah, under his reign all people will acknowledge Jesus Christ's identity and authority – and consequently submit to him. The following verses reflect this, speaking of people's words and deeds which are indicative of these things.

Phil 2:9-11 Therefore God has highly exalted him and bestowed on him the name that is above every name, ¹⁰so that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, in heaven and on earth and under the earth, ¹¹*and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord,* to the glory of God the Father.

The implication is that every knee “will bow” (CEV, NASB, NCV, NIRV, NLT) in submission as all people and spiritual beings acknowledge Jesus Christ's lordship.

Rev 5:13 And I heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth and in the sea, and all that is in them, saying, “To him who sits on the throne and to the Lamb be blessing and honor and glory and might forever and ever!”

Ps 72:11 May all kings fall down before him, all nations serve him!

The suggestion is that this will happen (cf. AMP, GNT, NIV, NKJV, NLT). The Messiah is ultimately in view.

Dan 7:14 And to him was given dominion and glory and a kingdom, that all peoples, nations, and languages should serve him; his dominion is an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom one that shall not be destroyed.

Isa 49:7 Thus says the LORD, the Redeemer of Israel and his Holy One, to one deeply despised, abhorred by the nation, the servant of rulers: “Kings shall see and arise; princes, and they shall prostrate themselves; because of the LORD, who is faithful, the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you.”

The Messianic servant is likely in view here. Note that “his Holy One” refers to the LORD as Israel's Holy One.

† People will come to understand who Jesus Christ is:

Isa 52:13-15 Behold, my servant shall act wisely;¹ he shall be high and lifted up, and shall be exalted. ¹⁴As many were astonished at you— his appearance was so marred, beyond human semblance, and his form beyond that of the children of mankind— ¹⁵*so shall he sprinkle^m many nations; kings shall shut their mouths because of him; for that which has not been told them they see, and that which they have not heard they understand.*

Jesus Christ's return and subsequent reign may well be in view in v. 15 – and possibly alluded to or encompassed with the earlier reference to him being “exalted”. Such will be the exaltation of the messianic servant that kings will be “speechless with amazement” (GNT) when they see his exaltation and understand who he is and what he has accomplished. Note that “startle” – the alternative rendering in the text note (cf. NLT, NRSV; cf. AMP, NCV, NIRV), points more strongly to Christ's return being in view.

God's people will reign with Jesus Christ

Dan 7:18, 21-22, 27 But the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom and possess the kingdom forever, forever and ever.' ⁿ ... ²¹As I looked, this horn made war with the saints and prevailed over them, ²²until the Ancient of Days came, and judgment was given for the saints of the Most High, and the time came when the saints possessed the kingdom. ... ²⁷And the kingdom and the dominion and the greatness of the kingdoms under the whole heaven shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High; their kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey them.ⁿ

ⁿ Or his kingdom shall be an everlasting kingdom, and all dominions shall serve and obey him

2Tim 2:12 ... if we endure, we will also reign with him; if we deny him, he also will deny us; ...

Rev 2:26-27 The one who conquers and who keeps my works until the end, to him I will give authority over the nations, ²⁷and he will rule them with a rod of iron, as when earthen pots are broken in pieces, even as I myself have received authority from my Father.

The quotation in v. 27 is from Psalm 2, a psalm with messianic applications. It is used here to underscore the stern authority that believers will have in conjunction with the supreme authority of Jesus Christ, who is the speaker here and in 3:21 immediately below.

Rev 3:21 The one who conquers, I will grant him to sit with me on my throne, as I also conquered and sat down with my Father on his throne.

Rev 5:10 ... and you have made them a kingdom and priests to our God, and they shall reign on the earth.

The use of "you" refers to "the Lamb" (v. 8), Jesus Christ.

Rev 20:4-6 Then I saw thrones, and seated on them were those to whom the authority to judge was committed. Also I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for the testimony of Jesus and for the word of God, and those who had not worshiped the beast or its image and had not received its mark on their foreheads or their hands. They came to life and reigned with Christ for a thousand years. ⁵The rest of the dead did not come to life until the thousand years were ended. This is the first resurrection. ⁶Blessed and holy is the one who shares in the first resurrection! Over such the second death has no power, but they will be priests of God and of Christ, and they will reign with him for a thousand years.

For comment, see both the comment on Rev 20:1-6 and the introductory comment for the subsection it is under – Prelude: The thousand years, p. 718.

Rev 22:5 And night will be no more. They will need no light of lamp or sun, for the Lord God will be their light, and they will reign forever and ever.

This refers to the time after the "thousand years" and the final judgment, showing that believers will continue to reign throughout eternity, not just during the "thousand years" (cf. Rev 20:4-6 ↑).

Matt 24:46-47 Blessed is that servant whom his master will find so doing when he comes. ⁴⁷Truly, I say to you, he will set him over all his possessions.

Here and in 25:21 below, Jesus Christ is speaking of himself as the "master", with faithful believers as the faithful servants. Being put in charge of "all his possessions" and "much" (Matt 25:21 ↓) appears to point to their roles in reigning with Jesus Christ.

Matt 25:21 His master said to him, 'Well done, good and faithful servant. You have been faithful over a little; I will set you over much. Enter into the joy of your master.'

^o Greek bondservant; also verses 23, 26, 30

Luke 22:29-30 ... and I assign to you, as my Father assigned to me, a kingdom, ³⁰that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel.

In v. 29 Jesus appears to speak of granting his kingdom – with "the right to rule" (CEV, GNT) – to his twelve disciples. (For an alternative interpretation see the comment on Luke 22:28-30 – under ... and God's people will inherit the kingdom, p. 739.) The latter part of v. 30 appears to speak of a future role assigned to the twelve disciples in particular, and as such would not be so readily applicable to believers in general.

1Cor 6:2-3 Or do you not know that the saints will judge the world? And if the world is to be judged by you, are you incompetent to try trivial cases? ³Do you not know that we are to judge angels? How much more, then, matters pertaining to this life!

This is perhaps meaning that believers will play a role in the final judgment. Otherwise it is referring to judging as one aspect of their role in ruling with Christ.

Rom 5:17 For if, because of one man's trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ.

The phrase "reign in life" possibly refers to the future reign that believers will participate in through Jesus Christ, although the context indicates that it may primarily be referring to their "triumph over sin and death" (NLT).

II. The Afterlife

See also:

- II. God's Plans for Israel, p. 981

The believer's hope is largely based on God's wonderful promises for his people concerning the afterlife, the life begun by their resurrection from death. At the center of these promises is the final, everlasting phase of God's relationship with his people. In contrast to these wonderful promises are the teachings about the horrific eternity that the ungodly face.

a) The New Creation

The Bible speaks of the present heavens and earth passing away. Correspondingly, the Bible says that God will create new heavens and a new earth – a key part of which appears to be the new Jerusalem, where God and Jesus Christ will dwell with their people. In association, God will renew all things. See also the introductory comments below on: . . . The devastation of the heavens and earth in association with God's judgment of the wicked, p. 727; and God's people will live in the new Jerusalem, p. 729.

Heb 1:10-12 And, "You, Lord, laid the foundation of the earth in the beginning, and the heavens are the work of your hands; ¹¹they will perish, but you remain; they will all wear out like a garment, ¹²like a robe you will roll them up, like a garment they will be changed."^a But you are the same, and your years will have no end." Note that "the things that cannot be shaken" alludes to God's kingdom – the "kingdom that cannot be shaken" (v. 28).

1Jn 2:17 And the world is passing away along with its desires, but whoever does the will of God abides forever. 📖

Here "the world" may here be primarily a reference to the realm of sin, but arguably it is also inclusive of the physical world; it is at least applicable to it.

Rev 20:11 Then I saw a great white throne and him who was seated on it. From his presence earth and sky fled away, and no place was found for them. 📖

This may not necessarily be referring to heaven and earth passing away, but it does seem the most likely meaning.

Rev 21:1, 4 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. 📖 . . . ⁴He will wipe away every tear from their

Some commentators consider that “the sea was no more” (v. 1) to allude to the absence of evil. The latter part of v. 4 indicates that the “old world and its evils” (NLT) will be gone.

Isa 51:6 Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look at the earth beneath; for the heavens vanish like smoke, the earth will wear out like a garment, and they who dwell in it will die in like manner;^b but my salvation will be forever, and my righteousness will never be dismayed.

Quite possibly the removal of the old heavens and earth can be correlated with their devastation in association with God’s eschatological judgment of the wicked, as discussed here. However this is debatable. Note also that not all of the following references are necessarily meaning that the earth will be completely destroyed. (See also the comment at the start of the following subsection.)

2Pet 3:7, 10-12 But by the same word the heavens and earth that now exist are stored up for fire, being kept until the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly.  ...¹⁰*But the day of the Lord will come like a thief, and then the heavens will pass away with a roar, and the heavenly bodies^c will be burned up and dissolved, and the earth and the works that are done on it will be exposed.*^d ¹¹*Since all these things are thus to be dissolved*, what sort of people ought you to be in lives of holiness and godliness, ¹²*waiting for and hastening the coming of the day of God, because of which the heavens will be set on fire and dissolved, and the heavenly bodies will melt as they burn!*

^c Or elements; also verse 12

^d Greek found; some manuscripts will be burned up

The phrase “be exposed” (v. 10) either refers to being exposed “for what they are” (CEV; cf. NRSV) and “exposed to judgment” (NLT; cf. NIV), or to being emptied, with everything being “burned up” (AMP, NASB, NCV, NIV text note, NKJV).

Isa 13:9-13 Behold, the day of the LORD comes, cruel, with wrath and fierce anger, to make the land a desolation and to destroy its sinners from it. ¹⁰*For the stars of the heavens and their constellations will not give their light; the sun will be dark at its rising, and the moon will not shed its light.* ¹¹*I will punish the world for its evil, and the wicked for their iniquity; I will put an end to the pomp of the arrogant, and lay low the pompous pride of the ruthless.* ¹²*I will make people more rare than fine gold, and mankind than the gold of Ophir.* ¹³*Therefore I will make the heavens tremble, and the earth will be shaken out of its place, at the wrath of the LORD of hosts in the day of his fierce anger.*

Isa 24:1-6, 19-20 Behold, the LORD will empty the earth^e and make it desolate, and he will twist its surface and scatter its inhabitants. ²And it shall be, as with the people, so with the priest; as with the slave, so with his master; as with the maid, so with her mistress; as with the buyer, so with the seller; as with the lender, so with the borrower; as with the creditor, so with the debtor. ³*The earth shall be utterly empty and utterly plundered*; for the LORD has spoken this word. ⁴*The earth mourns and withers; the world languishes and withers; the highest people of the earth languish.* ⁵The earth lies defiled under its inhabitants; for they have transgressed the laws, violated the statutes, broken the everlasting covenant. ⁶*Therefore a curse devours the earth, and its inhabitants suffer for their guilt; therefore the inhabitants of the earth are scorched, and few men are left.*  ... ¹⁹*The earth is utterly broken, the earth is split apart, the earth is violently shaken.* ²⁰*The earth staggers like a drunken man; it sways like a hut; its transgression lies heavy upon it, and it falls, and will not rise again.*

^e Or land; also throughout this chapter

Note that possibilities for the meaning of “the everlasting covenant” (v. 5) include the covenant made through Noah (cf. Gen 9:16) or that made with David (cf. 2Sam 23:5), both of which have applications to all mankind.

Isa 34:1-5 Draw near, O nations, to hear, and give attention, O peoples! Let the earth hear, and all that fills it; the world, and all that comes from it. ²*For the LORD is enraged against all the nations, and furious against all their host; he has devoted them to destruction,^f has given them over for slaughter.* ³*Their slain shall be cast out, and the stench of their corpses shall rise; the mountains shall flow with their blood.* ⁴*All the host of heaven shall rot away, and the skies roll up like a scroll. All their host shall fall, as leaves fall from the vine, like leaves falling from the fig tree.* ⁵*For my sword has drunk its fill in the heavens; behold, it descends for judgment upon Edom, upon the people I have devoted to destruction.*

^f That is, set apart (devoted) as an offering to the Lord (for destruction); also verse 5

Some commentators consider "Edom" (v. 5) to be symbolic of all the enemies of God's people.

Joel 3:15-16 The sun and the moon are darkened, and the stars withdraw their shining. ¹⁶*The LORD roars from Zion, and utters his voice from Jerusalem, and the heavens and the earth quake.* But the LORD is a refuge to his people, a stronghold to the people of Israel.

Mic 7:13 But the earth will be desolate because of its inhabitants, for the fruit of their deeds.

Zeph 1:2-3, 18 "I will utterly sweep away everything from the face of the earth," declares the LORD. ³*"I will sweep away man and beast; I will sweep away the birds of the heavens and the fish of the sea, and the rubble^g with the wicked. I will cut off mankind from the face of the earth," declares the LORD.* ... ¹⁸*Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them on the day of the wrath of the LORD. In the fire of his jealousy, all the earth shall be consumed; for a full and sudden end he will make of all the inhabitants of the earth.*

^g Or stumbling blocks (that is, idols)

Being followed by what appears to be a prophecy of the Babylonian destruction of Judah, it is somewhat debatable as to whether vv. 2-3 refers to God's eschatological definitive judgment of the wicked. But its universal scope and the latter description of the "great day of the LORD" (vv. 14-18) make it likely to be the case, or at the very least applicable to it.

✦ A further reference to God's eschatological judgment of the wicked:

Isa 66:15-16 For behold, the LORD will come in fire, and his chariots like the whirlwind, to render his anger in fury, and his rebuke with flames of fire. ¹⁶*For by fire will the LORD enter into judgment, and by his sword, with all flesh; and those slain by the LORD shall be many.*

God will create new heavens and a new earth

See also:

- Matt 19:28

Commentators differ on whether the verses in this subsection refer to the creation of an entirely different heaven and earth, or a renewal of the old heaven and earth. The former seems the more likely, with the previous subsections seemingly supporting this view. However some verses in the following subsection could be interpreted to support the latter. In either case, this new creation will be free of any corruption – moral or otherwise – and will exist in harmony with God.

2Pet 3:13 But according to his promise we are waiting for new heavens and a new earth in which righteousness dwells.

Righteousness will characterize the new heavens and earth and all who are there – to the exclusion of everything that is not righteous.

Isa 65:17 For behold, I create new heavens and a new earth, and the former things shall not be remembered or come into mind.

Isa 66:22 For as the new heavens and the new earth that I make shall remain before me, says the LORD, so shall your offspring and your name remain.

Rev 21:1 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more.

✦ The meek will inherit "the earth":

Matt 5:5 Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.

Here "the earth" appears to be speaking of a new or renewed earth at the consummation of the messianic kingdom. This is quite possibly also the meaning of "the world" in Romans 4:13, which refers to "... the promise to Abraham and his offspring that he would be heir of the world ..."

God will renew all things

Matt 19:28 Jesus said to them, "Truly, I say to you, in the new world,^h when the Son of Man will sit on his glorious throne, you who have followed me will also sit on twelve thrones, judging the twelve tribes of Israel."

^h Greek in the regeneration

As the text note indicates, the Greek speaks of "the regeneration" (NASB, NKJV), i.e. "the renewal of all things" (NIV®, NRSV).

Acts 3:21 ... whom heaven must receive until the time for restoring all the things about which God spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets long ago.

This tells of the time when God will make "all things new" (CEV, cf. GNT). The prophecies referred to in the latter part of the verse may well include the prophecies given in the verses from Isaiah in the previous subsection and the numerous OT prophecies referring primarily to the restoration of Israel (cf. a\) Return to the Land, p. 981).

Rom 8:19-22 For the creation waits with eager longing for the revealing of the sons of God. ²⁰For the creation was subjected to futility, not willingly, but because of him who subjected it, in hope ²¹that the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to corruption and obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God. ²²For we know that the whole creation has been groaning together in the pains of childbirth until now.

The “freedom” (v. 21) would appear to encompass freedom from decay and anything harmful. It is also very much applicable to – and may even have largely in view – freedom from sin, sin’s consequences and all evil influences.

Rev 21:5 And he who was seated on the throne said, “Behold, I am making all things new.” Also he said, “Write this down, for these words are trustworthy and true.”

✦ God will unite all creation in Christ:

Eph 1:9-10 ... making knownⁱ to us the mystery of his will, according to his purpose, which he set forth in Christ ¹⁰*as a plan for the fullness of time, to unite all things in him, things in heaven and things on earth.*

ⁱ Or he lavished upon us in all wisdom and insight, making known . . .

Here “heaven” may well denote “the heavens” (NASB) – rather than referring to or being limited to the spiritual realm of heaven. In conjunction with this, “all things” appears to refer to “all creation” (GNT). At the end of the age God will “unify all things and head them up and consummate them in Christ” (AMP). To what extent this includes aspects of creation other than people is open to conjecture.

God’s people will live in the new Jerusalem

See also:

- The ungodly will be separated from God and Jesus Christ – shut out from the holy city, p. 751

The new Jerusalem is associated with the new heaven and new earth in Revelation 21:1-2 (cf. Isa 65:17-18). It is the central aspect of the domain of the kingdom of God in its final form. It is spoken of as “coming down out of heaven” (Rev 3:12 ↓; Rev 21:2 ↓, Rev 21:10 ↕) but also appears to be closely connected with heaven, perhaps in some sense a manifestation of it. For like heaven, it is said to be the dwelling place of God and where his people will dwell with him and Jesus Christ throughout eternity.

Rev 3:12 The one who conquers, I will make him a pillar in the temple of my God. Never shall he go out of it, and I will write on him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name.

Writing on believers “the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem” implies that Jesus Christ will mark believers as belonging to the new Jerusalem, in effect citizens of it.

Rev 21:1-3, 7, 27 Then I saw a new heaven and a new earth, for the first heaven and the first earth had passed away, and the sea was no more. ²*And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband.* ³*And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, “Behold, the dwelling place^l of God is with man. He will dwell with them, and they will be his people,^k and God himself will be with them as their God.^l ... ⁷The one who conquers will have this heritage, and I will be his God and he will be my son. ... ²⁷But nothing unclean will ever enter it, nor anyone who does what is detestable or false, but only those who are written in the Lamb’s book of life.*

Verses 2-3 suggest that God’s people will dwell with God in the new Jerusalem. In v. 7, presumably “this heritage” encompasses the new Jerusalem, reflecting that God’s people will dwell there – in contrast to the ungodly (cf. vv. 8, 27). Note that with the likening of the new Jerusalem to a bride (v. 2) – “the Bride, the wife of the Lamb” (v. 9 ↕) – some see a correlation between it and the church or God’s people, spoken of as Jesus Christ’s or God’s bride a number of times elsewhere in Scripture.

Rev 22:14 Blessed are those who wash their robes,^m so that they may have the right to the tree of life and that they may enter the city by the gates.

^m Some manuscripts do his commandments

Gal 4:26 But the Jerusalem above is free, and she is our mother.

The heavenly Jerusalem is the “mother” of believers in at least two senses. Firstly, they are born again of what she represents – a faith that is free of slavery to the law (cf. vv. 24-25). Secondly, they belong to her. This second point is indicative of the heavenly Jerusalem being where believers belong – their ultimate home.

Heb 11:10, 16 For he was looking forward to the city that has foundations, whose designer and builder is God.  ... ¹⁶But as it is, they desire a better country, that is, a heavenly one. Therefore God is not ashamed to be called their God, for he has prepared for them a city.

Heb 12:22 But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to innumerable angels in festal gathering, ...

In a spiritual, positional sense, believers now partake in the heavenly Jerusalem and what it signifies, assured of the realization of this.

Heb 13:14 For here we have no lasting city, but we seek the city that is to come.

Description of the new Jerusalem

Rev 21:9-26 Then came one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls full of the seven last plagues and spoke to me, saying, "Come, I will show you the Bride, the wife of the Lamb." ¹⁰And he carried me away in the Spirit to a great, high mountain, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem coming down out of heaven from God, ¹¹having the glory of God, its radiance like a most rare jewel, like a jasper, clear as crystal. ¹²It had a great, high wall, with twelve gates, and at the gates twelve angels, and on the gates the names of the twelve tribes of the sons of Israel were inscribed— ¹³on the east three gates, on the north three gates, on the south three gates, and on the west three gates. ¹⁴And the wall of the city had twelve foundations, and on them were the twelve names of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. ¹⁵And the one who spoke with me had a measuring rod of gold to measure the city and its gates and walls. ¹⁶The city lies foursquare, its length the same as its width. And he measured the city with his rod, 12,000 stadia.ⁿ Its length and width and height are equal. ¹⁷He also measured its wall, 144 cubits^o by human measurement, which is also an angel's measurement. ¹⁸The wall was built of jasper, while the city was pure gold, clear as glass. ¹⁹The foundations of the wall of the city were adorned with every kind of jewel. The first was jasper, the second sapphire, the third agate, the fourth emerald, ²⁰the fifth onyx, the sixth carnelian, the seventh chrysolite, the eighth beryl, the ninth topaz, the tenth chrysoptase, the eleventh jacinth, the twelfth amethyst. ²¹And the twelve gates were twelve pearls, each of the gates made of a single pearl, and the street of the city was pure gold, transparent as glass. ²²And I saw no temple in the city, for its temple is the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb. ²³And the city has no need of sun or moon to shine on it, for the glory of God gives it light, and its lamp is the Lamb. ²⁴By its light will the nations walk, and the kings of the earth will bring their glory into it, ²⁵and its gates will never be shut by day—and there will be no night there. ²⁶They will bring into it the glory and the honor of the nations.

ⁿ About 1,380 miles; a stadion was about 607 feet or 185 meters

^o A cubit was about 18 inches or 45 centimeters

Possibly "the twelve tribes of the sons of Israel" (v. 12) and "the twelve apostles of the Lamb" (v. 14) allude to the new Jerusalem of the afterlife being inclusive of both the people of God throughout the OT and the NT church. There will be no need for any temple, signifying God's presence amidst unholy people, for not only will there will be no impurity but God and Jesus Christ will themselves be present (v. 22). "By its light will the nations walk" (v. 24) may be speaking of the nations being drawn to it (cf. Isa 60:3 ↓).

Rev 22:1-5 Then the angel^p showed me the river of the water of life, bright as crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb ²through the middle of the street of the city; also, on either side of the river, the tree of life^q with its twelve kinds of fruit, yielding its fruit each month. The leaves of the tree were for the healing of the nations. ³No longer will there be anything accursed, but the throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants^r will worship him. ⁴They will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads. ⁵And night will be no more. They will need no light of lamp or sun, for the Lord God will be their light, and they will reign forever and ever.

^p Greek he

^q Or the Lamb. In the midst of the street of the city, and on either side of the river, was the tree of life

^r Greek bondservants; also verse 6

The "tree of life" (v. 2) probably parallels the tree of life in Genesis 2, and likewise the mention of things having been "accursed" (v. 3) alludes to the curse pronounced in Genesis 3:14-19. These verses imply that the relationship between God and his people will be restored in a sense to what it was like before the fall (cf. Rev 2:7 ↓). The "healing of the nations" (v. 2b) appears to speak of the renewal of all peoples who share in God's kingdom, with the removal of all that is harmful and/or evil.

✦ God's people will be restored to an Eden-like paradise:

Rev 2:7 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

The Greek word for "paradise" comes from a Persian word meaning "park" or "garden". As such, particularly with the reference to the tree of life, this appears to allude to the Garden of Eden. Jesus similarly speaks of being in “paradise” after death, in saying to the repentant thief on the cross: “Truly, I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise” (Luke 23:43). Note that Paul also uses the term in reference to heaven, speaking of being “caught up into paradise” (2Cor 12:3).

Note: The new Jerusalem is linked with the renewed Jerusalem prophesied in the OT . . .

The relationship of the new Jerusalem of the afterlife (primarily depicted in Revelation 21 and 22) and the renewed Jerusalem prophesied in the OT is the subject of no small debate. A good number of commentators see them as separate things, but often differ as to the degree and to the ways in which they are associated. Some of these commentators see the renewed Jerusalem prophesied in the OT as literal, something of an archetype of and leading into the new Jerusalem of the eternal state. Other commentators see it as symbolic of the new Jerusalem. See also the introductory comment on II. God's Plans for Israel, p. 981.

The references in this and the following subsection are arranged in pairs. The first of each pair is a reference from Revelation 21 or 22 speaking of the new Jerusalem. The second of each pair is from one of the OT prophets, speaking of the future renewed Jerusalem. Each pair demonstrates at least one thing common to the two cities. The fact that there are so many striking parallels suggests a correlation between the two cities.

The “mountain” (v. 7) is Mount Zion and the “covering” or “veil” (v. 7) is death (v. 8a). Note that similar to v. 8b and also paralleling Revelation 21:4 above, 65:19b says of Jerusalem: “... no more shall be heard in it the sound of weeping and the cry of distress.”

The river beginning from the temple (v. 1) parallels the river of Revelation 22:1-2 beginning from the throne, with both the temple and the throne being indicative of God’s presence. Note that Zechariah 14:8 speaks of a river flowing out from Jerusalem – “On that day living waters shall flow out from Jerusalem, half of them to the eastern sea and half of them to the western sea. It shall continue in summer as in winter.”

‡ In the new Jerusalem there will be no temple:

Rev 21:22 And I saw no temple in the city, for its temple is the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb.

In the new Jerusalem, God’s presence amongst his people will be such that there will be no temple. This appears to be a difference between the new Jerusalem and the renewed Jerusalem prophesied in the OT (cf. Ezek 47:1 †; Note: References to a temple of God in Jerusalem in the future, p. 1009).

He could also or alternatively have in view each believer’s union with Jesus Christ, they being “in him” (cf. 1Cor 15:22 ↓; 1Thes 4:14, 16 ↓).

1Cor 15:12-13, 15-16, 20-23, 29-32 Now if Christ is proclaimed as raised from the dead, how can some of you say that there is no resurrection of the dead? ¹³But if there is no resurrection of the dead, then not even Christ has been raised.  ... ¹⁵We are even found to be misrepresenting God, because we testified about God that he raised Christ, whom he did not raise if it is true that the dead are not raised. ¹⁶For if the dead are not raised, not even Christ has been raised. ... ²⁰But in fact Christ has been raised from the dead, the firstfruits of those who have fallen asleep. ²¹For as by a man came death, by a man has come also the resurrection of the dead. ²²For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive. ²³But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ. ... ²⁹Otherwise, what do people mean by being baptized on behalf of the dead? If the dead are not raised at all, why are people baptized on their behalf? ³⁰Why are we in danger every hour? ³¹I protest, brothers, by my pride in you, which I have in Christ Jesus our Lord, I die every day! ³²What do I gain if, humanly speaking, I fought with beasts at Ephesus? If the dead are not raised, "Let us eat and drink, for tomorrow we die."

The "firstfruits" (vv. 20, 23) alludes to the firstfruits of the harvest which were offered to God. As well as preceding the rest of the harvest, they were viewed as a confirmation that the rest of the harvest would come to fruition. Here the term is applied to Christ as, like the firstfruits of the harvest, his resurrection precedes and is an assurance of the resurrection of all believers. In vv. 29-32 Paul gives further reasons to support his argument for the resurrection of the dead. These are: the practice of baptizing people for the dead (v. 29), of which little is known or understood; and Paul and his companions frequently exposing themselves to death in their ministry (vv. 30-32), attesting to their utmost confidence that the dead will be raised.

1Thes 4:13-17 But we do not want you to be uninformed, brothers, about those who are asleep, that you may not grieve as others do who have no hope. ¹⁴For since we believe that Jesus died and rose again, even so, through Jesus, God will bring with him those who have fallen asleep. ¹⁵For this we declare to you by a word from the Lord,^k that we who are alive, who are left until the coming of the Lord, will not precede those who have fallen asleep. ¹⁶For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a cry of command, with the voice of an archangel, and with the sound of the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first. ¹⁷Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so we will always be with the Lord.

^k Or by the word of the Lord

Acts 26:23 ... that the Christ must suffer and that, by being the first to rise from the dead, he would proclaim light both to our people and to the Gentiles.

This suggests that the "light" – the "light of salvation" (GNT) – which Jesus Christ would proclaim as "the first to rise from the dead", would involve the hope of resurrection in the light of his own resurrection.

Ps 49:15 But God will ransom my soul from the power of Sheol, for he will receive me. Selah

Isa 26:19 Your dead shall live; their bodies shall rise. You who dwell in the dust, awake and sing for joy! For your dew is a dew of light, and the earth will give birth to the dead.

This appears to speak of the resurrection of the dead, primarily that of God's people, in the context of the future restoration of Israel. Note that in speaking of God raising the dead, the last statement refers to the moisture of the morning dew giving life.

On Jesus Christ's return, their bodies will be made imperishable, glorious and spiritual – like Christ

Note that the above cross references to verses in the previous subsection have been included as the verses make reference to God's people being raised on Jesus Christ's return. But the verses do not speak of their resurrection bodies.

Rom 8:29 For those whom he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, in order that he might be the firstborn among many brothers.

Being "conformed to the image of his Son" would appear to include, in addition to a moral conformity, the bodies of believers being conformed to the likeness of the body of the risen Christ.

1Cor 15:35-38, 42-54 But someone will ask, "How are the dead raised? With what kind of body do they come?" ³⁶You foolish person! What you sow does not come to life unless it dies. ³⁷And what you sow is not the body that is to be, but a bare kernel, perhaps of wheat or of some other grain. ³⁸But God gives it a body as he has chosen, and to each kind of seed its own body. ... ⁴²So is it with the resurrection of the dead. What is sown is perishable; what is raised is imperishable. ⁴³It is sown in dishonor; it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power. ⁴⁴It is sown a natural body; it is raised a spiritual body. If there is a natural body, there is also a spiritual body. ⁴⁵Thus it is written, "The first man Adam became a living being";[!] the last Adam became a life-giving spirit. ⁴⁶*But it is not the spiritual that is first but the natural, and then the spiritual.* ⁴⁷The first man was from the earth, a man of dust; the second man is from heaven. ⁴⁸As was the man of dust, so also are those who are of the dust, and as is the man of heaven, so also are those who are of heaven. ⁴⁹*Just as we have borne the image of the man of dust, we shall^l also bear the image of the man of heaven.* ⁵⁰I tell you this, brothers: flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable. ⁵¹Behold! I tell you a mystery. We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, ⁵²*in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trumpet. For the trumpet will sound, and the dead will be raised imperishable, and we shall be changed.* ⁵³*For this perishable body must put on the imperishable, and this mortal body must put on immortality.* ⁵⁴*When the perishable puts on the imperishable, and the mortal puts on immortality, then shall come to pass the saying that is written: "Death is swallowed up in victory."*

In vv. 36-41 Paul lays a foundation for his description of the resurrection bodies of believers. In vv. 36-38 he draws a parallel between the dead being resurrected with a different body and how a seed dies before it comes to life as a plant, the different body that God has determined for it. Then in vv. 39-41 Paul gives examples of how God gives different things different bodies – before arguing that the case is the same with the resurrection of the dead (v. 42). In v. 45 Jesus Christ is described as “the life-giving Spirit” for as from Adam (a natural, living being) came natural bodies, from Jesus Christ (a heavenly, spiritual being) will come spiritual bodies (vv. 45-49). The changing of our bodies will take place on his return, heralded by the sounding of the trumpet (vv. 51-52).

2Cor 5:1, 4 For we know that if the tent that is our earthly home is destroyed, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. ... ⁴For while we are still in this tent, we groan, being burdened—not that we would be unclothed, but that we would be further clothed, so that what is mortal may be swallowed up by life.

In v. 1, the earthly “tent” denotes the earthly body, whereas the “building from God ... eternal in the heavens” appears to refer to the believer’s imperishable resurrection body – which is in view in v. 4b. The use of “life” (v. 4b) alludes to the imperishable nature of this future body – and possibly also its spiritual nature.

Phil 3:20-21 But our citizenship is in heaven, and from it we await a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, ²¹*who will transform our lowly body to be like his glorious body,* by the power that enables him even to subject all things to himself.

1Jn 3:2 Beloved, we are God’s children now, and what we will be has not yet appeared; but we know that when he appearsⁿ we shall be like him, because we shall see him as he is.

ⁿ Or when it appears

The phrase “we shall be like him” is probably referring to our beings being like Christ’s, but could also be referring to our characters – or both. The last clause seems to be saying that it will be through seeing him (on his return) that we shall become like him. Alternatively in the final sentence John may simply be meaning that we will see that we have become like him when we actually see him.

✦ Believers will experience the “redemption” of their bodies:

Rom 8:23 And not only the creation, but we ourselves, who have the firstfruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly as we wait eagerly for adoption as sons, the redemption of our bodies.

Believers will in effect experience the redemption of their bodies in gaining their new or renewed bodies.

God’s people will be given eternal life

Titus 3:7 ... so that being justified by his grace we might become heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

Regarding “heirs”, Paul may be saying that believers have the hope of eternal life, a hope which involves the promise of being heirs of God. Alternatively, he may have in view that believers will inherit eternal life (cf. AMP, GNT, NLT; Matt 19:29 ↑; 1Pet 3:7 ↓), the object of their hope.

Jude 1:21 ... keep yourselves in the love of God, waiting for the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ that leads to eternal life. ☞

1Pet 3:7 Likewise, husbands, live with your wives in an understanding way, showing honor to the woman as the weaker vessel, since they are heirs with you^r of the grace of life, so that your prayers may not be hindered. ☞

^r Some manuscripts since you are joint heirs

The eternal life to come appears to be in view (cf. GNT, NlrV), particularly with "life" being spoken of as something which believers are heirs to.

The latter part of this verse is possibly referring to living forever, although "forever" may instead have the sense "as long as I live" (GNT).

Ps 133:3 It is like the dew of Hermon, which falls on the mountains of Zion! For there the LORD has commanded the blessing, life forevermore. ☞

This is not necessarily referring to eternal life, though presumably at least an application can be made to it.

Eternal life transcends physical death and precludes eternal spiritual death . . .

In the above heading, "eternal spiritual death" refers to conclusive separation from God in hell. It appears to be spoken of below in: John 11:26; John 8:51; 10:28; Rev 2:11.

John 11:25-26 Jesus said to her, "I am the resurrection and the life.^w Whoever believes in me, though he die, yet shall he live, ²⁶and everyone who lives and believes in me shall never die. Do you believe this?" ☞

^w Some manuscripts omit and the life

In v. 25 "die" refers to physical death, whereas in v. 26 "never die" speaks of never being subject to eternal spiritual death.

Ps 16:9-11 Therefore my heart is glad, and my whole being^x rejoices; my flesh also dwells secure. ¹⁰*For you will not abandon my soul to Sheol, or let your holy one see corruption.*^y ¹¹*You make known to me the path of life; in your presence there is fullness of joy; at your right hand are pleasures forevermore.* ☞

Although v. 10 is spoken of in Acts as being consummately fulfilled in Jesus Christ's resurrection (cf. Acts 2:24-32; 13:35-37), David appears to initially be speaking of himself. With the references to "life" and "eternal pleasures" in v. 11, David is possibly speaking of eternal life following physical death, with God not leaving him in the grave (cf. CEV, NCV, NLT, NlrV). Alternatively he may simply be speaking of God protecting him in the face of the threat of death.

1Cor 15:36b, 42 What you sow does not come to life unless it dies. ☞ ... ⁴²*So is it with the resurrection of the dead. What is sown is perishable; what is raised is imperishable.* ☞

God's people who have died physically will be raised to life – eternal life, with them being imperishable.

1Pet 4:6 For this is why the gospel was preached even to those who are dead, that though judged in the flesh the way people are, they might live in the spirit the way God does. ☞

This appears to be referring either to Jesus Christ preaching to the dead (cf. 3:19-20) or to the gospel being preached to believers who had since died (cf. CEV text note). Particularly if the second interpretation is correct, the latter part probably means that God's people will be judged like all people in that their physical bodies will die, but they will live like God does in their spiritual existence (cf. GNT, NCV, NLT).

John 8:51 Truly, truly, I say to you, if anyone keeps my word, he will never see death. ☞

As noted earlier, the "mountain" (v. 7) is Mount Zion and the "covering" or "veil" (v. 7) probably signify death (v. 8a).

1Cor 15:26, 54-55 The last enemy to be destroyed is death. ☞ ... ⁵⁴*When the perishable puts on the imperishable, and the mortal puts on immortality, then shall come to pass the saying that is written: "Death is swallowed up in victory."* ⁵⁵*"O death, where is your victory? God's people will have the right to the tree of life and the water of life

The "tree of life" was one of the trees in the Garden of Eden from which Adam and Eve could eat. But after their fall into sin, they were banished from the garden so that they could not eat from the tree and so live forever (cf. Gen 3:22-24). That God's people are said to be given access to this tree (cf. Rev 2:7 ↓; Rev 22:2, 14 ↓) signifies them being given life forever. As referred to below, being enabled to drink from "the water of life" (cf. Rev 7:17 ↓; Rev 21:6 ↓; Rev 22:17 ↓) likewise signifies being given eternal life.

Rev 2:7 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God. ☞

Rev 7:16-17 They shall hunger no more, neither thirst anymore; the sun shall not strike them, nor any scorching heat. ¹⁷*For the Lamb in the midst of the throne will be their shepherd, and he will guide them to springs of living water, and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes.* ☞

The "springs of living water" (v. 17; cf. Rev 21:6 ↓) are "springs of the water of life" (NASB, NRSV).

Rev 21:6 And he said to me, "It is done! I am the Alpha and the Omega, the beginning and the end. To the thirsty I will give from the spring of the water of life without payment." ☞

Rev 22:1-2, 14, 17 Then the angel^a showed me the river of the water of life, bright as crystal, flowing from the throne of God and of the Lamb ²*through the middle of the street of the city; also, on either side of the river, the tree of life^b with its twelve kinds of fruit, yielding its fruit each month. ‡ The life-giving river in Ezekiel's vision:

Ezek 47:9, 12 And wherever the river goes,^d every living creature that swarms will live, and there will be very many fish. For this water goes there, that the waters of the sea^e may become fresh; so everything will live where the river goes. ☞ ... ¹²*And on the banks, on both sides of the river, there will grow all kinds of trees for food. Their leaves will not wither, nor their fruit fail, but they will bear fresh fruit every month, because the water for them flows from the sanctuary. Their fruit will be for food, and their leaves for healing.* ☞

^d Septuagint, Syriac, Vulgate, Targum; Hebrew the two rivers go

^e Hebrew lacks the waters of the sea

Some scholars raise the possibility of this life-giving river being associated with the river of Revelation 22 (cf. ... This association is seen in the descriptions of the two cities, p. 732), pointing to similarities between the two rivers. Another interpretation is that the temple in Ezekiel's vision (ch. 40-48) most likely refers to a Millennium temple, the river then also being of the Millennium. It remains open to debate as to whether the temple and this river are symbolic or actual.

1Cor 9:25 Every athlete exercises self-control in all things. They do it to receive a perishable wreath, but we an imperishable.

The "wreath" is likely a metaphor for the wonderful blessings that will be bestowed on believers.

2Tim 2:10 Therefore I endure everything for the sake of the elect, that they also may obtain the salvation that is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.

Heb 5:9 And being made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation to all who obey him, ...

Heb 9:15 Therefore he is the mediator of a new covenant, so that those who are called may receive the promised eternal inheritance, since a death has occurred that redeems them from the transgressions committed under the first covenant.^g

^g The Greek word means both covenant and will; also verses 16, 17

Heb 10:34 For you had compassion on those in prison, and you joyfully accepted the plundering of your property, since you knew that you yourselves had a better possession and an abiding one.

The "better possession" may denote all that God's people have or will have. Being an "abiding" one, it is a lasting one; it will last forever (cf. CEV, GNT).

Heb 12:28 Therefore let us be grateful for receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, and thus let us offer to God acceptable worship, with reverence and awe, ...

That which "cannot be shaken" will remain forever (cf. v. 27).

1Pet 1:3-4 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ...

1Pet 5:4 And when the chief Shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory.

As with "wreath" (cf. 1Cor 9:25 ↑), the "crowns" spoken of in the NT as being rewards for believers are probably symbolic, metaphors for the wonderful blessings that will be bestowed on believers.

Rev 3:12 The one who conquers, I will make him a pillar in the temple of my God. Never shall he go out of it, and I will write on him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name.

Being made "a pillar in the temple of my God" appears to point to the permanence of the believer's place in the new Jerusalem or God's kingdom – which they never will leave.

Ps 16:11 You make known to me the path of life; in your presence there is fullness of joy; at your right hand are pleasures forevermore.

Similar to the concept of the coming of the kingdom of God, entering and receiving the kingdom of God have both a present (cf. Col 1:13) and a future dimension – the latter being shown in this and the following subsection. See also the above cross references. Note also the introductory comment to the following subsection, which is also pertinent here.

Matt 13:43 Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears, let him hear. 📖

The afterlife is in view here.

Acts 14:22 ...strengthening the souls of the disciples, encouraging them to continue in the faith, and saying that through many tribulations we must enter the kingdom of God. 📖

1Thes 2:12 ... we exhorted each one of you and encouraged you and charged you to walk in a manner worthy of God, who calls you into his own kingdom and glory. 📖

The coupling of "kingdom" with "glory" suggests that the future consummate form of the kingdom is being referred to here.

2Thes 1:5 This is evidence of the righteous judgment of God, that you may be considered worthy of the kingdom of God, for which you are also suffering— 📖

Note that although this may be speaking of being counted worthy "to enter God's kingdom" (NirV®), it can also be applied to being counted worthy of inheriting God's kingdom (as per the following subsection).

2Tim 4:18 The Lord will rescue me from every evil deed and bring me safely into his heavenly kingdom. To him be the glory forever and ever. Amen. 📖

2Pet 1:10-11 Therefore, brothers,^h be all the more diligent to make your calling and election sure, for if you practice these qualities you will never fall. ¹¹For in this way there will be richly provided for you an entrance into the eternal kingdom of our Lord and Savior Jesus Christ. 📖

^h Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated "brothers") refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church

. . . and God's people will inherit the kingdom

See also:

- 2Thes 1:5 ↑

- . . . Those to whom the kingdom of God belongs, p. 682

Believers will inherit the kingdom of God. As such they will partake of it (as reflected in the previous subsection) in a fuller sense than they do now, and it will be their domain.

Matt 5:3, 10 Blessed are the poor in spirit, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. 📖 ... ¹⁰"Blessed are those who are persecuted for righteousness' sake, for theirs is the kingdom of heaven. 📖

The expression "theirs is the kingdom of heaven" quite probably refers primarily to future inheritance of the kingdom. However there may also be a present application intended, to sharing in the blessings of the kingdom in its present form.

Matt 25:34 Then the King will say to those on his right, 'Come, you who are blessed by my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world.' 📖

Luke 12:32 Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. 📖

Jesus appears to be speaking of his vulnerable "little flock" of disciples inheriting the future form of the kingdom.

Luke 22:28-30 You are those who have stayed with me in my trials,²⁹and *I assign to you, as my Father assigned to me, a kingdom,*³⁰that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel. 📖

Some consider that Jesus is principally speaking of passing on to his disciples the privilege and responsibility of building the kingdom, but the context (v. 28 and particularly v. 30) arguably suggest that the future form of the kingdom is primarily in view. Moreover, some translations indicate that Jesus may more specifically be speaking of conferring the right to do what he subsequently refers to in v. 30 (cf. AMP, NASB, NLT). What Jesus says here to his disciples is largely applicable to all believers.

1Cor 15:50 I tell you this, brothers: flesh and blood cannot inherit the kingdom of God, nor does the perishable inherit the imperishable.

Believers will be changed and raised imperishable (cf. vv. 51-52) to inherit the kingdom of God.

Heb 12:28 Therefore let us be grateful for receiving a kingdom that cannot be shaken, and thus let us offer to God acceptable worship, with reverence and awe, ...

Note that this could be speaking of receiving the kingdom in a present sense (cf. CEV).

James 2:5 Listen, my beloved brothers, has not God chosen those who are poor in the world to be rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom, which he has promised to those who love him?

Dan 7:18 But the saints of the Most High shall receive the kingdom and possess the kingdom forever, forever and ever.

God's kingdom in its final form may be in view here, although some think a millennial earthly kingdom is the subject. With the second possibility, "the saints of the Most High" would not necessarily refer to believers in general.

Rev 21:7 The one who conquers will have this heritage, and I will be his God and he will be my son.

This "heritage" refers in part at least to the new heavenly Jerusalem, the prime domain of the future form of God's kingdom.

✦ The meek will inherit "the earth":

Matt 5:5 Blessed are the meek, for they shall inherit the earth.

As noted earlier, this appears to be speaking of the new or renewed earth at the consummation of the messianic kingdom, as quite possibly is also the case in Romans 4:13 which speaks of: "... the promise to Abraham and his offspring that he would be heir of the world ..."

God's people will be in heaven . . .

See also:

- God's people will live in the new Jerusalem, p. 729
- Description of the new Jerusalem, p. 730

As discussed earlier, God's people will live in the new Jerusalem. Although this is spoken of as "coming down out of heaven" (Rev 3:12; 21:2, 10) it also appears to be closely connected with heaven, perhaps in some sense a manifestation of it. For the verses in this and the following subsection would appear to indicate that in the afterlife God's people will be in heaven.

John 14:2-3 In my Father's house are many rooms. If it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you?²³ And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself, that where I am you may be also.

ⁱ Or In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you

In v. 2, "my Father's house" is generally understood to be a reference to heaven.

2Cor 5:1 For we know that if the tent that is our earthly home is destroyed, we have a building from God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens.

The phrase "the heavens" presumably can be correlated with "heaven" (CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT). Note that the use of "house" is different here to John 14:2 above. Here it refers to the believer's spiritual resurrection body.

Luke 10:20 Nevertheless, do not rejoice in this, that the spirits are subject to you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven.

Like Hebrews 12:23 below, this suggests that believers are "registered as citizens of heaven" (NLT; cf. Phil 3:20 ↓).

Phil 3:14, 20 I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus.  ... ²⁰But our citizenship is in heaven, and from it we await a Savior, the Lord Jesus Christ, ...

In v. 14 Paul seems to refer to "the prize of being called to heaven" (CEV). In v. 20 he appears to indicate that even now believers have citizenship of heaven. As such it suggests that heaven is believers' ultimate place of residency.

Heb 3:1 Therefore, holy brothers,^j you who share in a heavenly calling, consider Jesus, the apostle and high priest of our confession, ...

^j Or brothers and sisters; also verse 12

The “heavenly calling” may have in view a call to heaven (cf. NLT; Phil 3:14 †) – hence the verse’s inclusion here. Alternatively it may simply mean a call from God in heaven (cf. GNT, NCV) to follow him.

Heb 12:22-23 But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to innumerable angels in festal gathering, ²³and to the assembly^k of the firstborn who are enrolled in heaven, and to God, the judge of all, and to the spirits of the righteous made perfect, ...

^k Or church

... Heaven is where their reward is kept

In saying that believers’ reward/s are in heaven, the suggestion is that their rewards will be obtained through the believers being taken into heaven.

Matt 5:12 Rejoice and be glad, for your reward is great in heaven, for so they persecuted the prophets who were before you.

Matt 6:20 ... but lay up for yourselves treasures in heaven, where neither moth nor rust destroys and where thieves do not break in and steal.

As indicated in Luke 12:33 below, rewards for righteous acts are in view.

Luke 12:33 Sell your possessions, and give to the needy. Provide yourselves with moneybags that do not grow old, with a treasure in the heavens that does not fail, where no thief approaches and no moth destroys.

Eph 2:6-7 ... and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, ⁷*so that in the coming ages he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus*.

In v. 6, what is true of Christ now, is applied to believers in a secondary, spiritual sense. Being “in him” they participate with him in his risen life and are in a sense positioned with him in heaven (cf. CEV). The consummation of this will take place in the future (v. 7) when “in Christ” they will experience the “immeasurable riches” of God’s grace – which the context suggests will be in heaven. Note that “seated us with him” (v. 6) is generally understood to be speaking of Jesus Christ rather than God (cf. CEV).

Col 1:5 ... because of the hope laid up for you in heaven. Of this you have heard before in the word of the truth, the gospel, ...

Here “the hope” is that for which we hope for – the blessings waiting for believers in heaven (cf. AMP).

1Pet 1:3-4 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴*to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ...*

† The unparalleled, inconceivable reward for God’s people:

1Cor 2:9 But, as it is written, “What no eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the heart of man imagined, what God has prepared for those who love him”—

Note that the phrase “what God has prepared” is probably inclusive of – or at least applicable to – blessings of both the present and future ages (cf. NSB).

God’s people will be made perfect

1Cor 13:9-10 For we know in part and we prophesy in part, ¹⁰but when the perfect comes, the partial will pass away.

Quite likely “when the perfect comes” refers to the perfection of believers in the afterlife – or at least encompasses it; but there are also other interpretations.

Phil 3:12 Not that I have already obtained this or am already perfect, but I press on to make it my own, because Christ Jesus has made me his own.

This implies that believers will be made perfect.

Heb 11:39-40 And all these, though commended through their faith, did not receive what was promised, ⁴⁰since God had provided something better for us, that apart from us they should not be made perfect.

All faithful people of God, of all eras, will together share in the sinless perfection of the afterlife. Possibly the perfection of their resurrection bodies may also be in view.

Heb 12:23 ... and to the assembly¹ of the firstborn who are enrolled in heaven, and to God, the judge of all, and to the spirits of the righteous made perfect, ...

The last clause refers to the spirits of righteous people who had died (cf. NLT), pointing to the assertion that God’s people will be made perfect in the afterlife. Note that some commentators think that it may refer in particular to people of God from OT times, whose righteousness is now complete following Jesus Christ’s death.

God's people will have glory

Rom 2:9-10 There will be tribulation and distress for every human being who does evil, the Jew first and also the Greek,¹⁰ but glory and honor and peace for everyone who does good, the Jew first and also the Greek. 📖

Rom 8:30 And those whom he predestined he also called, and those whom he called he also justified, and those whom he justified he also glorified. 📖

The use of the past tense in referring to the glorification of believers, is generally understood to be indicative of the certainty of their glorification, as if it had already taken place.

Rom 9:22-23 What if God, desiring to show his wrath and to make known his power, has endured with much patience vessels of wrath prepared for destruction,²³ in order to make known the riches of his glory for vessels of mercy, which he has prepared beforehand for glory— 📖

Verse 23 suggests that the glory that will be bestowed upon believers will be a product of the riches of God's own glory.

1Cor 15:42-43 So is it with the resurrection of the dead. What is sown is perishable; what is raised is imperishable.⁴³ It is sown in dishonor; it is raised in glory. It is sown in weakness; it is raised in power. 📖

2Cor 4:17 For this light momentary affliction is preparing for us an eternal weight of glory beyond all comparison, ... 📖

1Pet 1:7 ... so that the tested genuineness of your faith—more precious than gold that perishes though it is tested by fire—may be found to result in praise and glory and honor at the revelation of Jesus Christ. 📖

1Pet 5:1, 4 So I exhort the elders among you, as a fellow elder and a witness of the sufferings of Christ, as well as a partaker in the glory that is going to be revealed: 📖 ... ⁴And when the chief Shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory. 📖

Ps 73:24 You guide me with your counsel, and afterward you will receive me to glory. 📖

The final clause can be translated "receive me with honor" (GNT, NRSV; cf. NCV, NLT). The use of "with" would suggest that it is speaking of the honor or glory to be bestowed upon God's people.

Dan 12:2-3 And many of those who sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, some to everlasting life, and some to shame and everlasting contempt. ³And those who are wise shall shine like the brightness of the sky above;^m and those who turn many to righteousness, like the stars forever and ever. 📖

^m Hebrew the expanse; compare Genesis 1:6-8

Shining "like the brightness of the sky above ... like the stars" (cf. Matt 13:43 ↓) depicts or evidences the glory that believers will have.

Matt 13:43 Then the righteous will shine like the sun in the kingdom of their Father. He who has ears, let him hear. 📖

John 12:26 If anyone serves me, he must follow me; and where I am, there will my servant be also. If anyone serves me, the Father will honor him. 📖

This probably refers primarily to honor given in the afterlife, associated with the glory to be received.

Rom 8:20-21 For the creation was subjected to futility, not willingly, but because of him who subjected it, in hope ²¹that the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to corruption and obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God. 📖

‡ God's "glorious inheritance in the saints":

Eph 1:18 ... having the eyes of your hearts enlightened, that you may know what is the hope to which he has called you, what are the riches of his glorious inheritance in the saints, ... 📖

The expression "the riches of his glorious inheritance in the saints" probably refers to the glorious inheritance that God has for his people (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT), which presumably involves the glory to be theirs. Alternatively it could instead be speaking of the saints as God's own glorious inheritance – which also alludes to the glory of believers.

ⁿ Greek bondservant; also verses 23, 26, 30

Heb 12:22 But you have come to Mount Zion and to the city of the living God, the heavenly Jerusalem, and to innumerable angels in festal gathering, ...

One can infer from this verse that believers will share in this “joyful assembly” (NIV®, NLT).

1Pet 4:13 But rejoice insofar as you share Christ’s sufferings, that you may also rejoice and be glad when his glory is revealed.

Ps 16:11 You make known to me the path of life; in your presence there is fullness of joy; at your right hand are pleasures forevermore.

The final clause suggests that this verse has an application to the afterlife.

... There will be no more sorrow

Isa 65:17, 19 For behold, I create new heavens and a new earth, and the former things shall not be remembered or come into mind. ...¹⁹I will rejoice in Jerusalem and be glad in my people; no more shall be heard in it the sound of weeping and the cry of distress.

The “former things” (v. 17) encompasses all that arouses weeping and crying (v. 19). Note that Premillennialists see these verses as primarily referring to a Millennium kingdom, as well as being applicable to the afterlife. Some Premillennialists, but not all, have a similar view of 25:8 below.

Rev 7:16-17 They shall hunger no more, neither thirst anymore; the sun shall not strike them, nor any scorching heat. ¹⁷For the Lamb in the midst of the throne will be their shepherd, and he will guide them to springs of living water, and God will wipe away every tear from their eyes.

Note that v. 16 points to the fact that in heaven believers will not lack anything, nor will there be anything to cause concern or trouble.

Rev 21:4 He will wipe away every tear from their eyes, and death shall be no more, neither shall there be mourning, nor crying, nor pain anymore, for the former things have passed away.

Isa 25:8 He will swallow up death forever; and the Lord God will wipe away tears from all faces, and the reproach of his people he will take away from all the earth, for the LORD has spoken.

↳ Promise of rest:

Heb 4:1-3, 9-11 Therefore, while the promise of entering his rest still stands, let us fear lest any of you should seem to have failed to reach it. ²For good news came to us just as to them, but the message they heard did not benefit them, because they were not united by faith with those who listened. ⁹For we who have believed enter that rest, as he has said, “As I swore in my wrath, “They shall not enter my rest,” although his works were finished from the foundation of the world. ...⁹*So then, there remains a Sabbath rest for the people of God,* ¹⁰*for whoever has entered God’s rest has also rested from his works as God did from his.* ¹¹*Let us therefore strive to enter that rest*, so that no one may fall by the same sort of disobedience.

⁹ Some manuscripts it did not meet with faith in the hearers

The “rest” spoken of here is primarily the eternal rest that believers will have in heaven, paralleled with God’s rest on the seventh day following six days of creative work. Verse 3a may possibly be meaning that believers in one sense experience this rest now. The phrase “his works” (v. 10) probably refers to good works done in Christ, although some think it may refer instead to or be inclusive of attempts to work for salvation, from which believers are “at rest”. Note that Revelation 14:13b also speaks of rest for God’s people in the afterlife: “Blessed indeed,” says the Spirit, “that they may rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them!”

Note: The salvation and redemption of God’s people will be fully realized

See also:

- Jesus Christ will bring believers’ salvation to completion on his return, p. 611

In accordance with the teachings in the subsections above and in the previous section – Eternal Life – it is apparent that the salvation and redemption of God’s people will come to fulfillment in the afterlife, at the end of this age. The following section – Being with God – further reflects on what will be involved in this.

Heb 9:28 ... so Christ, having been offered once to bear the sins of many, will appear a second time, not to deal with sin but to save those who are eagerly waiting for him.

1Pet 1:5, 8-9 ... who by God's power are being guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.  ... ⁸Though you have not seen him, you love him. Though you do not now see him, you believe in him and rejoice with joy that is inexpressible and filled with glory, ⁹*obtaining the outcome of your faith, the salvation of your souls.*

Rom 13:11 Besides this you know the time, that the hour has come for you to wake from sleep. For salvation is nearer to us now than when we first believed.

This implies that the salvation of God's people will be fully realized at the end of the age.

Phil 1:28 ...and not frightened in anything by your opponents. This is a clear sign to them of their destruction, but of your salvation, and that from God.

Heb 1:14 Are they not all ministering spirits sent out to serve for the sake of those who are to inherit salvation?

Luke 21:28 Now when these things begin to take place, straighten up and raise your heads, because your redemption is drawing near.

Eph 4:30 And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, by whom you were sealed for the day of redemption.

Eph 1:14 ... who is the guarantee^p of our inheritance until we acquire possession of it,^q to the praise of his glory.

^p Or down payment

^q Or until God redeems his possession

The alternative rendering in the second text note speaks of the consummation of the redemption of God's people and is strongly supported by other translations (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT, NRSV).

‡ The salvation of God's people is eternal:

Heb 5:9 And being made perfect, he became the source of eternal salvation to all who obey him, ...

Note that similarly 9:12 refers to Jesus having secured "an eternal redemption".

God will dwell with his people

Rev 21:3, 22 And I heard a loud voice from the throne saying, "Behold, the dwelling place^r of God is with man. He will dwell with them, and they will be his people,^s and God himself will be with them as their God.^t"  ... ²²And I saw no temple in the city, for its temple is the Lord God the Almighty and the Lamb.

^r Or tabernacle

^t Some manuscripts omit as their God

The fact that God and Jesus Christ are the city's temple (v. 22) is indicative of their presence being in the city (cf. Rev 2:3 ↓), the new Jerusalem. With them being with their people, in a consummate sense, there will be no need for a temple. Note that v. 3b speaks of the ultimate fulfillment of one of the fundamental aspects or aims of God's relationship with his people throughout history – that they be his people and he be their God.

Rev 22:3 No longer will there be anything accursed, but the throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servants^u will worship him.

^u Greek bondservants; also verse 6

God's and Jesus Christ's presence with believers in the new Jerusalem is referred to here with the reference to their throne.

Rev 7:15 Therefore they are before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple; and he who sits on the throne will shelter them with his presence.

Note that this is speaking of believers who have come out of the "great tribulation" (v. 14). Although not speaking of life in the new Jerusalem, the presence of God with these believers appears to reflect the reality of God dwelling with his people throughout the afterlife.

Ps 23:6 Surely^v goodness and mercy^w shall follow me all the days of my life, and I shall dwell^x in the house of the LORD forever.^y

^v Or Only

^w Or steadfast love

^x Or shall return to dwell

^y Hebrew for length of days

More likely David is speaking of experiencing God's presence at the earthly temple in Jerusalem throughout his life, but possibly this also alludes to – or at least can be applied to – dwelling with God in the afterlife.

Ps 49:15 But God will ransom my soul from the power of Sheol, for he will receive me. Selah

^z Or without

The text note further suggests that the afterlife is in view.

Ps 11:7 For the LORD is righteous; he loves righteous deeds; the upright shall behold his face.

The phrase "shall behold his face" is often understood to mean "live in his presence" (GNT), but some commentators think it may also refer to actually seeing God's face in the afterlife – the reason for the verse's inclusion here.

Ps 17:15 As for me, I shall behold your face in righteousness; when I awake, I shall be satisfied with your likeness.

The phrase "when I awake" may simply denote waking from sleep, but it is seen by a number of scholars to be referring to resurrection. Such an interpretation more comfortably matches the literal meaning of the surrounding phrases that speak of seeing God.

Matt 5:8 Blessed are the pure in heart, for they shall see God.

The final phrase may have a spiritual application to the believer's life of faith in the present, but it would appear that seeing God in the age to come is the primary reference.

1Cor 13:12 For now we see in a mirror dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall know fully, even as I have been fully known.

In saying "then I shall know fully" Paul is speaking of fully knowing God, being in fellowship with him in his presence and seeing him "face to face".

Heb 12:14 Strive for peace with everyone, and for the holiness without which no one will see the Lord.

The implication here is that God's holy people will see the Lord. Note that here "Lord" may be referring to God rather than to Jesus Christ.

Jude 1:24 Now to him who is able to keep you from stumbling and to present you blameless before the presence of his glory with great joy, ...

Presumably being presented before his glorious presence will mean that one will be able to see God.

Rev 22:4 They will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads.

God is in view here.

God's people will be with Jesus Christ

See also:

- God's people will reign with Jesus Christ, p. 724
- God's people are with Jesus Christ even in death, p. 808

The Bible speaks of believers living with Jesus Christ both during this life and in the afterlife following his return. But the verses in this subsection (and in the following one) generally indicate that in the afterlife they will be with him in a deeper, more tangible sense.

John 12:26 If anyone serves me, he must follow me; and where I am, there will my servant be also. If anyone serves me, the Father will honor him.

In saying "where I am, there will my servant be also" Jesus may be alluding to believers being with him in the afterlife – hence the verse's inclusion here – as well as to following him in their lives on earth.

John 14:2-3 In my Father's house are many rooms. If it were not so, would I have told you that I go to prepare a place for you?^a ³And if I go and prepare a place for you, I will come again and will take you to myself; that where I am you may be also.

^a Or In my Father's house are many rooms; if it were not so, I would have told you; for I go to prepare a place for you

John 17:24 Father, I desire that they also, whom you have given me, may be with me where I am, to see my glory that you have given me because you loved me before the foundation of the world.

Jesus is speaking of his followers being with him in the afterlife, where they will see his glory.

Rom 6:5, 8 For if we have been united with him in a death like his, we shall certainly be united with him in a resurrection like his. ... ⁸Now if we have died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him.

Some commentators point to the future tenses as meaning that these verses are referring to the believer's resurrection and life with Christ following the end of the age. However others claim that the context indicates that one's spiritual resurrection and life on becoming a believer is in view, with a future tense only used to indicate certainty. The latter view appears more plausible, although one could still claim that as such the verses are also applicable to believers being with Jesus Christ in the afterlife.

Col 3:4 When Christ who is your^b life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory.

^b Some manuscripts our

1Thes 4:16-17 For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a cry of command, with the voice of an archangel, and with the sound of the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first. ¹⁷Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so we will always be with the Lord.

2Tim 2:11 The saying is trustworthy, for: If we have died with him, we will also live with him; ...

Similar to Romans 6:5, 8 above, commentators differ on whether "we will also live with him" refers to living with Christ in heaven (cf. vv. 10, 12) or to the Christian's life in him now.

Rev 3:4 Yet you have still a few names in Sardis, people who have not soiled their garments, and they will walk with me in white, for they are worthy.

✦ God's people shall see Jesus Christ:

1Jn 3:2 Beloved, we are God's children now, and what we will be has not yet appeared; but we know that when he appears^c we shall be like him, because we shall see him as he is.

^c Or when it appears

On Jesus Christ's return all people will see him, but this verse may be implying that believers will in some sense see him more clearly.

God's people will have God's and Jesus Christ's names written on them

See also:

- God's people are called and identified by his name and Jesus Christ's name, p. 768

Having God's and Jesus Christ's names written on them will identify believers as belonging to God and Jesus Christ – forever. As such, it is also indicative of the fact that believers will forever be with God and Jesus Christ.

Rev 3:12 The one who conquers, I will make him a pillar in the temple of my God. Never shall he go out of it, and I will write on him the name of my God, and the name of the city of my God, the new Jerusalem, which comes down from my God out of heaven, and my own new name.

Rev 14:1 Then I looked, and behold, on Mount Zion stood the Lamb, and with him 144,000 who had his name and his Father's name written on their foreheads.

Rev 22:4 They will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads.

✦ They will be God's – his treasured possession:

Mal 3:17 They shall be mine, says the LORD of hosts, in the day when I make up my treasured possession, and I will spare them as a man spares his son who serves him.

God's people will share in God's and Jesus Christ's glory

See also:

- God's people will have glory, p. 742

1Thes 2:12 ... we exhorted each one of you and encouraged you and charged you to walk in a manner worthy of God, who calls you into his own kingdom and glory.

Heb 2:10 For it was fitting that he, for whom and by whom all things exist, in bringing many sons to glory, should make the founder of their salvation perfect through suffering.

This appears to speak of God bringing believers “to share in his glory” (CEV, NIV; cf. GNT, NCV), usually understood as referring to the age to come.

1Pet 5:10 And after you have suffered a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal glory in Christ, will himself restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish you.

2Thes 2:14 To this he called you through our gospel, so that you may obtain the glory of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Rom 8:17-18 ... and if children, then heirs—heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ, provided we suffer with him in order that we may also be glorified with him.¹⁸For I consider that the sufferings of this present time are not worth comparing with the glory that is to be revealed to us.

Particularly in light of the final clause of v. 17, the final clause of v. 18 may well refer to “the glory that is about to be revealed to us and in us and for us and conferred on us!” (AMP; cf. NIV, NLT).

Col 1:27 To them God chose to make known how great among the Gentiles are the riches of the glory of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.

Jesus Christ's indwelling of his people gives them the hope of glory. Quite possibly it is sharing in his glory that is in view. Note that the relationship between “the riches of the glory of this mystery” of God and the “hope of glory” for the believer appears similar to that between “the riches of his glory” and the latter occurrence of “glory” in Romans 9:23. See Rom 9:22-23 and the comment on it in God's people will have glory, p. 742.

Col 3:4 When Christ who is your^d life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory.

^d Some manuscripts our

Probably “appear with him in glory” refers to – or at least involves – sharing in his glory (cf. GNT, NCV, NLT).

Phil 3:21 ... who will transform our lowly body to be like his glorious body, by the power that enables him even to subject all things to himself.

This points to believers sharing in Jesus Christ's glory – or at least a glory that mirrors his.

1Pet 4:13 But rejoice insofar as you share Christ's sufferings, that you may also rejoice and be glad when his glory is revealed.

Particularly with the earlier reference to sharing in the sufferings of Jesus Christ, in the second half of the verse Peter may have in view “the wonderful joy of sharing his glory” (NLT).

✦ Even in the present believers increasingly share in Christ's glory:

2Cor 3:18 And we all, with unveiled face, beholding the glory of the Lord,^e are being transformed into the same image from one degree of glory to another. For this comes from the Lord who is the Spirit.

^e Or reflecting the glory of the Lord

Believers reflect Jesus Christ's glory, with their characters being transformed into his likeness, increasingly reflecting (cf. text note) even manifesting Christ's glory. Note that John 17:22 speaks of the disciples being given Jesus Christ's glory – “The glory that you have given me I have given to them ...” This possibly refers to eternal glory that will be consummated in heaven, but alternatively the present life could be in view, or partially in view.

God's people will praise God – and serve him

The examples in the following verses of people praising God in his presence are largely in response to events at the end of this age and the beginning of the new. Presumably such praise of God and Jesus Christ will continue throughout eternity.

Rev 5:13 And I heard every creature in heaven and on earth and under the earth and in the sea, and all that is in them, saying, “To him who sits on the throne and to the Lamb be blessing and honor and glory and might forever and ever!”

Rev 7:10 ... and crying out with a loud voice, “Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!”

Those praising God and Jesus Christ are believers who have come out of "the great tribulation" (v. 14; cf. v. 15 ↓; Rev 19:1-3, 5-7 ↓) of the end times.

Rev 15:2-4 And I saw what appeared to be a sea of glass mingled with fire—and also those who had conquered the beast and its image and the number of its name, standing beside the sea of glass with harps of God in their hands. ³*And they sing the song of Moses, the servant^f of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, "Great and amazing are your deeds, O Lord God the Almighty! Just and true are your ways, O King of the nations!^g ⁴Who will not fear, O Lord, and glorify your name? For you alone are holy. All nations will come and worship you, for your righteous acts have been revealed."* ☞

^f Greek bondservant

Rev 19:1-3, 5-7 After this I heard what seemed to be the loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, crying out, "Hallelujah! Salvation and glory and power belong to our God, ²for his judgments are true and just; for he has judged the great prostitute who corrupted the earth with her immorality, and has avenged on her the blood of his servants."^h ³*Once more they cried out, "Hallelujah! The smoke from her goes up forever and ever."* ☞ ... ⁵And from the throne came a voice saying, "Praise our God, all you his servants, you who fear him, small and great."⁶*Then I heard what seemed to be the voice of a great multitude, like the roar of many waters and like the sound of mighty peals of thunder, crying out, "Hallelujah! For the Lord our God the Almighty reigns. ⁷Let us rejoice and exult and give him the glory, for the marriage of the Lamb has come, and his Bride has made herself ready; ...* ☞

^h Greek bondservants; also verse 5

The "great multitude" (v. 1) could denote primarily angelic beings, but more likely believers – as appears to be the case in v. 6 – possibly in particular those who had come out of the great tribulation (cf. chs 7, 14).

Rev 22:3 No longer will there be anything accursed, but the throne of God and of the Lamb will be in it, and his servantsⁱ will worship him. ☞

ⁱ Greek bondservants; also verse 6

Rev 5:10 ... and you have made them a kingdom and priests to our God, and they shall reign on the earth. ☞

"You" refers to "the Lamb" (v. 8), Jesus Christ. As "priests to our God", God's people will "serve God as priests" (CEV; cf. GNT, NIV, NRSV).

Rev 7:15 Therefore they are before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple; and he who sits on the throne will shelter them with his presence. ☞

Note: The feast in the kingdom of God

The Bible speaks of a feast that will take place in the consummated kingdom of God, often referred to as the messianic "banquet" or "marriage supper" (cf. Rev 19:9 ↓). This feast or banquet is generally understood to be symbolic of the wonderful existence and blessings that believers will enjoy in the afterlife, in the presence of God and Jesus Christ.

Luke 13:29 And people will come from east and west, and from north and south, and recline at table in the kingdom of God. ☞

The "feast" (GNT, NIV; cf. AMP, CEV) of the afterlife appears to be in view.

Luke 14:15 When one of those who reclined at table with him heard these things, he said to him, "Blessed is everyone who will eat bread in the kingdom of God!" ☞

Luke 22:15-16, 29-30 And he said to them, "I have earnestly desired to eat this Passover with you before I suffer. ¹⁶For I tell you I will not eat it until it is fulfilled in the kingdom of God." ☞ ... ²⁹and I assign to you, as my Father assigned to me, a kingdom, ³⁰that you may eat and drink at my table in my kingdom and sit on thrones judging the twelve tribes of Israel. ☞

^j Some manuscripts never eat it again

Particularly in light of v. 30, vv. 15-16 possibly imply that the celebration of the Passover meal will be fulfilled in the messianic feast in the consummated kingdom of God.

Rev 19:7-9 Let us rejoice and exult and give him the glory, for the marriage of the Lamb has come, and his Bride has made herself ready; ⁸it was granted her to clothe herself with fine linen, bright and pure"— for the fine linen is the righteous deeds of the saints. ⁹And the angel said^k to me, "Write this: Blessed are those who are invited to the marriage supper of the Lamb." And he said to me, "These are the true words of God." ☞

^k Greek he said

The "Lamb" is Jesus Christ, and the "Bride" may represent God's people – "the saints" (v. 8b). As such this looks forward to the consummation of Jesus Christ's relationship or union with his people – associated with the consummation of their salvation – at the "the marriage supper of the Lamb" (v. 9).

Isa 25:6 On this mountain the LORD of hosts will make for all peoples a feast of rich food, a feast of well-aged wine, of rich food full of marrow, of aged wine well refined.

Some think that the setting for this is the Millennium rather than the afterlife. But even so, it still could allude to such a feast in the afterlife.

Rev 2:17 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will give some of the hidden manna, and I will give him a white stone, with a new name written on the stone that no one knows except the one who receives it.

Some commentators see here a reference to the feast to come in the kingdom.

‡ The parable of the wedding feast:

Matt 22:1-3, 8-10 And again Jesus spoke to them in parables, saying, ²*“The kingdom of heaven may be compared to a king who gave a wedding feast for his son, ³and sent his servants¹ to call those who were invited to the wedding feast, but they would not come. ... ⁸Then he said to his servants, ‘The wedding feast is ready, but those invited were not worthy. ⁹Go therefore to the main roads and invite to the wedding feast as many as you find.’¹⁰And those servants went out into the roads and gathered all whom they found, both bad and good. So the wedding hall was filled with guests.*

¹ Greek bondservants; also verses 4, 6, 8, 10

Although this is only a parable illustrating aspects of the kingdom, with it Jesus is quite possibly referring or alluding to a feast in the consummated kingdom.

Matt 3:7 But when he saw many of the Pharisees and Sadducees coming to his baptism, he said to them, “You brood of vipers! Who warned you to flee from the wrath to come?”

Hardly subtly, John the Baptist refers to the wickedness of the Pharisees and Sadducees – and the wrath of God that they faced as a result of their wickedness.

John 3:36 Whoever believes in the Son has eternal life; whoever does not obey the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God remains on him.

Because of their sin every person is under God’s wrath. Those who believe in Jesus Christ are saved from God’s wrath. But for those who reject him, God’s wrath remains and will be manifested conclusively in the afterlife.

Rom 2:5, 8 But because of your hard and impenitent heart you are storing up wrath for yourself on the day of wrath when God’s righteous judgment will be revealed. ... ⁸*but for those who are self-seeking^m and do not obey the truth, but obey unrighteousness, there will be wrath and fury.*

Col 3:5-6 Put to death therefore what is earthly in you:ⁿ sexual immorality, impurity, passion, evil desire, and covetousness, which is idolatry. ⁶On account of these the wrath of God is coming.^o

ⁿ Greek therefore your members that are on the earth
^o Some manuscripts add upon the sons of disobedience

This probably primarily refers to the wrath of God associated with the final judgment.

Rev 11:18 The nations raged, but your wrath came, and the time for the dead to be judged, and for rewarding your servants,^p the prophets and saints, and those who fear your name, both small and great, and for destroying the destroyers of the earth.

^p Greek bondservants

Rev 14:17-20 Then another angel came out of the temple in heaven, and he too had a sharp sickle. ¹⁸And another angel came out from the altar, the angel who has authority over the fire, and he called with a loud voice to the one who had the sharp sickle, "Put in your sickle and gather the clusters from the vine of the earth, for its grapes are ripe." ¹⁹So the angel swung his sickle across the earth and gathered the grape harvest of the earth and threw it into the great winepress of the wrath of God. ²⁰And the winepress was trodden outside the city, and blood flowed from the winepress, as high as a horse's bridle, for 1,600 stadia.[¶]

¶ About 184 miles; a stadion was about 607 feet or 185 meters

This is probably speaking of the final judgment and the consequences of God's wrath, although some suggest that it may have in view the earlier judgments of the end times.

Gal 6:8 For the one who sows to his own flesh will from the flesh reap corruption, but the one who sows to the Spirit will from the Spirit reap eternal life.

The stating of corruption as the outcome of pleasing one's sinful nature and the contrast of corruption with eternal life, suggest that the corruption in view is the eternal destruction of the ungodly – associated with spiritual "death" (AMP, GNT, NLT).

Phil 1:28 ...and not frightened in anything by your opponents. This is a clear sign to them of their destruction, but of your salvation, and that from God.

Phil 3:18-19 For many, of whom I have often told you and now tell you even with tears, walk as enemies of the cross of Christ. ¹⁹Their end is destruction, their god is their belly, and they glory in their shame, with minds set on earthly things.

1Thes 5:2-3 For you yourselves are fully aware that the day of the Lord will come like a thief in the night. ³While people are saying, "There is peace and security," then sudden destruction will come upon them as labor pains come upon a pregnant woman, and they will not escape.

2Thes 1:9a They will suffer the punishment of eternal destruction ...

2Thes 2:10 ... and with all wicked deception for those who are perishing, because they refused to love the truth and so be saved.

This is speaking of those who have been deceived by and have succumbed to evil – the ungodly, who refuse to "love the truth". They are "perishing" – "on their way to destruction" (NLT). 1 Corinthians 1:18 likewise refers to "those who are perishing".

2Pet 3:7 But by the same word the heavens and earth that now exist are stored up for fire, being kept until the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly.

Matt 7:13 Enter by the narrow gate. For the gate is wide and the way is easy^r that leads to destruction, and those who enter by it are many.

^r Some manuscripts For the way is wide and easy

The ungodly are not specifically mentioned, but it is clear that they are in view.

Matt 10:28 And do not fear those who kill the body but cannot kill the soul. Rather fear him who can destroy both soul and body in hell.^s

^s Greek Gehenna

Also in alluding to God's destruction of the ungodly, James 4:12 somewhat similarly says of God: "There is only one lawgiver and judge, he who is able to save and to destroy."

John 17:12 While I was with them, I kept them in your name, which you have given me. I have guarded them, and not one of them has been lost except the son of destruction, that the Scripture might be fulfilled.

Here Jesus refers to Judas as "the one doomed to destruction" (NIV®).

^t Or destruction that comes from

Matt 7:21-23 Not everyone who says to me, 'Lord, Lord,' will enter the kingdom of heaven, but the one who does the will of my Father who is in heaven. ²²On that day many will say to me, 'Lord, Lord, did we not prophesy in your name, and cast out demons in your name, and do many mighty works in your name?' ²³And then will I declare to them, 'I never knew you; depart from me, you workers of lawlessness.' 📖

Matt 22:13 Then the king said to the attendants, 'Bind him hand and foot and cast him into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.' 📖

This is from the parable of the wedding banquet, which portrays aspects of the consummation of the kingdom and where the king represents God or Christ. Those not worthy will be thrown "out into the outer darkness" (NLT).

Matt 25:41, 46 "Then he will say to those on his left, 'Depart from me, you cursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels. ... ⁴⁶*And these will go away into eternal punishment, but the righteous into eternal life."* 📖

Luke 13:24-28 Strive to enter through the narrow door. For many, I tell you, will seek to enter and will not be able. ²⁵When once the master of the house has risen and shut the door, and you begin to stand outside and to knock at the door, saying, 'Lord, open to us,' then he will answer you, 'I do not know where you come from.' ²⁶Then you will begin to say, 'We ate and drank in your presence, and you taught in our streets.' ²⁷But he will say, 'I tell you, I do not know where you come from. Depart from me, all you workers of evil!' ²⁸In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth, when you see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all the prophets in the kingdom of God but you yourselves cast out. 📖

Unrepentant Jews are being addressed here by Jesus – as v. 28 suggests – but the warning is applicable to all.

Luke 16:26 And besides all this, between us and you a great chasm has been fixed, in order that those who would pass from here to you may not be able, and none may cross from there to us. 📖

Here Abraham is depicted as speaking to a rich man who was in hell, the scene having been set in the preceding verses (cf. Luke 16:23-25, 27-28 below in There will be darkness and torment). Abraham may well be in heaven, but many understand that "Abraham's side" (cf. v. 22) denotes a place where the righteous who have died reside before their final vindication.

Rev 21:27 But nothing unclean will ever enter it, nor anyone who does what is detestable or false, but only those who are written in the Lamb's book of life. 📖

As with the following reference, this is clearly referring to the Holy City, the new Jerusalem. It – or at least heaven – also appears to be in view in a number of the above verses.

Rev 22:14-15 Blessed are those who wash their robes,^u so that they may have the right to the tree of life and that they may enter the city by the gates. ¹⁵*Outside are the dogs and sorcerers and the sexually immoral and murderers and idolaters, and everyone who loves and practices falsehood.* 📖

Matt 3:12 His winnowing fork is in his hand, and he will clear his threshing floor and gather his wheat into the barn, but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire. 📖

John the Baptist is speaking figuratively of Jesus Christ assigning the ungodly to "unquenchable fire".

Matt 13:40-42, 47-50 Just as the weeds are gathered and burned with fire, so will it be at the close of the age. ⁴¹*The Son of Man will send his angels, and they will gather out of his kingdom all causes of sin and all law-breakers,* ⁴²*and throw them into the fiery furnace.* In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth. 📖 ... ⁴⁷"Again, the kingdom of heaven is like a net that was thrown into the sea and gathered fish of every kind. ⁴⁸When it was full, men drew it ashore and sat down and sorted the good into containers but threw away the bad. ⁴⁹*So it will be at the close of the age. The angels will come out and separate the evil from the righteous* ⁵⁰and throw them into the fiery furnace. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

Matt 25:41 Then he will say to those on his left, 'Depart from me, you cursed, into the eternal fire prepared for the devil and his angels.

Heb 10:26-27 For if we go on sinning deliberately after receiving the knowledge of the truth, there no longer remains a sacrifice for sins, ²⁷but a fearful expectation of judgment, and a fury of fire that will consume the adversaries.

Rev 20:14-15 Then Death and Hades were thrown into the lake of fire. This is the second death, the lake of fire. ¹⁵And if anyone's name was not found written in the book of life, he was thrown into the lake of fire.

The "second death" (cf. Rev 21:8 ↓) is eternal "death" – final destruction for the ungodly, the outcome of God's judgment.

Rev 21:8 But as for the cowardly, the faithless, the detestable, as for murderers, the sexually immoral, sorcerers, idolaters, and all liars, their portion will be in the lake that burns with fire and sulfur, which is the second death.

Heb 6:8 But if it bears thorns and thistles, it is worthless and near to being cursed, and its end is to be burned.

This is quite likely speaking of "worthless" people being "burned" in the fire of hell. Alternatively, some understand it to refer to a temporal judgment or a judgment of works.

Isa 33:14 The sinners in Zion are afraid; trembling has seized the godless: "Who among us can dwell with the consuming fire? Who among us can dwell with everlasting burnings?"

The "consuming fire" is probably referring to God in his judgment, rather than to the fire of hell. But parallels can be drawn between the fire of hell and the "consuming fire", along with the concept of "everlasting burnings".

⚡ A warning of the punishment of the fire of hell:

Matt 5:22 But I say to you that everyone who is angry with his brother^x will be liable to judgment; whoever insults^y his brother will be liable to the council; and whoever says, 'You fool!' will be liable to the hell^z of fire.

^x Some manuscripts insert without cause

"You fool!" (v. 22) appears to be an insult spoken in anger.

Matt 22:13 Then the king said to the attendants, 'Bind him hand and foot and cast him into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.'

In Matthew's gospel, on six occasions Jesus speaks of the punishment of the ungodly using the expression, "there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth," (cf. Matt 13:42, 50 ↑; Matt 25:30 ↓). This repetition underlines the prevalence of such torment.

Matt 25:30 And cast the worthless servant into the outer darkness. In that place there will be weeping and gnashing of teeth.

2Pet 2:17 These are waterless springs and mists driven by a storm. For them the gloom of utter darkness has been reserved.

Luke 16:23-25, 27-28 ... and in Hades, being in torment, he lifted up his eyes and saw Abraham far off and Lazarus at his side. ²⁴And he called out, 'Father Abraham, have mercy on me, and send Lazarus to dip the end of his finger in water and cool my tongue, for I am in anguish in this flame.' ²⁵But Abraham said, 'Child, remember that you in your lifetime received your good things, and Lazarus in like manner bad things; but now he is comforted here, and you are in anguish.  ... ²⁷And he said, 'Then I beg you, father, to send him to my father's house— ²⁸for I have five brothers^a—so that he may warn them, lest they also come into this place of torment.'

^a Or brothers and sisters

Rev 14:9-11 And another angel, a third, followed them, saying with a loud voice, “If anyone worships the beast and its image and receives a mark on his forehead or on his hand, ¹⁰he also will drink the wine of God’s wrath, poured full strength into the cup of his anger, and he will be tormented with fire and sulfur in the presence of the holy angels and in the presence of the Lamb. ¹¹*And the smoke of their torment goes up forever and ever, and they have no rest, day or night, these worshipers of the beast and its image, and whoever receives the mark of its name.”*

Similarly Revelation 20:10 says of the devil, the beast and the false prophet: “... they will be tormented day and night forever and ever.” The reference in both of these verses to “day and night” points to the fact that the punishment is also constant.

Isa 50:11 Behold, all you who kindle a fire, who equip yourselves with burning torches! Walk by the light of your fire, and by the torches that you have kindled! This you have from my hand: you shall lie down in torment.

Quite possibly this refers to the self-sufficient who live by their own “light”, rather than trusting in God (cf. v. 10). Their end will be torment. This might not be speaking directly of the experience of hell, but even so, it is very much applicable to it.

✚ There will be trouble and distress:

Rom 2:9 There will be tribulation and distress for every human being who does evil, the Jew first and also the Greek, ...

^g Some manuscripts add verses 44 and 46 (which are identical with verse 48)

The fact that the fire of hell will be unquenchable (cf. Luke 3:17) suggests that the punishment is eternal.

Luke 3:17 His winnowing fork is in his hand, to clear his threshing floor and to gather the wheat into his barn, but the chaff he will burn with unquenchable fire.

Matt 11:20-24 Then he began to denounce the cities where most of his mighty works had been done, because they did not repent. ²¹“Woe to you, Chorazin! Woe to you, Bethsaida! For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Tyre and Sidon, they would have repented long ago in sackcloth and ashes. ²²But I tell you, it will be more bearable on the day of judgment for Tyre and Sidon than for you. ²³And you, Capernaum, will you be exalted to heaven? You will be brought down to Hades. For if the mighty works done in you had been done in Sodom, it would have remained until this day. ²⁴But I tell you that it will be more tolerable on the day of judgment for the land of Sodom than for you. 📖

Mark 12:40 ...who devour widows' houses and for a pretense make long prayers. They will receive the greater condemnation. 📖

The implication is that such men will be punished more severely than most others will be punished (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

Luke 12:45-48 But if that servant says to himself, 'My master is delayed in coming,' and begins to beat the male and female servants, and to eat and drink and get drunk, ⁴⁶the master of that servant will come on a day when he does not expect him and at an hour he does not know, and will cut him in pieces and put him with the unfaithful. ⁴⁷And that servant who knew his master's will but did not get ready or act according to his will, will receive a severe beating. ⁴⁸But the one who did not know, and did what deserved a beating, will receive a light beating. Everyone to whom much was given, of him much will be required, and from him to whom they entrusted much, they will demand the more. 📖

The use of "servant" in the context (cf. vv. 35-44) points to supposed believers, primarily leaders. It would appear that as they do not prove faithful they will be condemned "with the unfaithful" (v. 46). Particularly in the light of the above references, this also appears to support the assertion that there will be varying degrees of punishment of the ungodly.

I. Basics

This chapter looks at the standing or position of God's people in relationship to God. Probably the most basic aspect of this is that they belong to God, as his people. As such the relationship between believers and God is both a strong one and a close one. This is underlined by them being his family and also his church.

a) Prologue: God Draws People to Himself

See also:

- b) Salvation by Grace, through Jesus Christ, p. 646
- a) God's Invitation, p. 1026

This section contains some teaching which contrasts with teaching elsewhere in the Bible – and has been the subject of much debate. It teaches that God chooses (or elects) some people to be his, and so to be saved. Yet the Bible also teaches that God desires and provides for the salvation of all people (cf. God and Jesus Christ invite all people to come to them and be saved . . . , p. 1026; . . . For God wants all people to be saved, making salvation open to everyone, p. 1027) and in conjunction with this that all people have the choice of whether to respond to him or not (cf. We have the choice of whether or not to respond to God and Jesus Christ, p. 1028). In coming to terms with this “tension” in Scripture, one should bear in mind that as the Bible teaches both “sides”, the truth lies in both of them, as opposed to a position that is a compromise of both (cf. BBC).

Mark 13:20 And if the Lord had not cut short the days, no human being would be saved. But for the sake of the elect, whom he chose, he shortened the days.

God's people are in view here as “the elect, whom he chose”. This is similarly the case with the use of like terms in a number of the following verses.

Luke 18:7 And will not God give justice to his elect, who cry to him day and night? Will he delay long over them?

1Cor 1:26-30 For consider your calling, brothers: not many of you were wise according to worldly standards,^a not many were powerful, not many were of noble birth. ²⁷But *God chose what is foolish in the world to shame the wise; God chose what is weak in the world to shame the strong; ²⁸God chose what is low and despised in the world, even things that are not, to bring to nothing things that are, ²⁹so that no human being^b might boast in the presence of God. ³⁰And because of him^c you are in Christ Jesus, who became to us wisdom from God, righteousness and sanctification and redemption, ... *

It is because God has chosen them (vv. 27-28a) – even though they may be disregarded by the world – that God's people are in Jesus Christ (v. 30a).

"She who is in Babylon" most likely refers to the church in Rome.

^f Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated "brothers") refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church

Matt 22:14 For many are called, but few are chosen.

The invitation into God's kingdom is extended to "many", possibly in fact meaning all people. But the phrase "few are chosen" appears to refer to God choosing only certain people – although it does not detract from the onus on all to respond to his invitation (cf. vv. 11-13). Those who do respond in effect show that they are chosen.

John 13:18 I am not speaking of all of you; I know whom I have chosen. But the Scripture will be fulfilled,^g 'He who ate my bread has lifted his heel against me.'

John 15:16, 19 You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit and that your fruit should abide, so that whatever you ask the Father in my name, he may give it to you. ... ¹⁹If you were of the world, the world would love you as its own; but because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hates you.

As per the disciples in v. 16, all believers are likewise chosen and appointed to bear fruit for God's kingdom. Note that in Philippians 3:12 Paul somewhat similarly speaks of Jesus Christ initiating his coming to Christ, saying that "Christ Jesus has made me his own."

Ps 22:9-10 Yet you are he who took me from the womb; you made me trust you at my mother's breasts. ¹⁰*On you was I cast from my birth, and from my mother's womb you have been my God.*

David appears to attribute his relationship with God (v. 10) – along with his lifelong trust in God (v. 9) – as originating from God. As such it points to God as having chosen him.

Isa 65:22 They shall not build and another inhabit; they shall not plant and another eat; for like the days of a tree shall the days of my people be, and my chosen shall long enjoy^h the work of their hands.

Ps 65:4 Blessed is the one you choose and bring near, to dwell in your courts! We shall be satisfied with the goodness of your house, the holiness of your temple!

This points to God choosing his people in part to bring them into fellowship with him.

Matt 11:25-27 At that time Jesus declared, "I thank you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the wise and understanding and revealed them to little children; ²⁶*yes, Father, for such was your gracious will.*"ⁱ ²⁷All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

ⁱ Or for so it pleased you well

The "things" (v. 25) probably primarily refers to the significance of Jesus' mission and matters of the kingdom. That God chose the "little children" to reveal these things to but not "the wise and understanding" (vv. 25-26) is reflected in v. 27 by the parallel act of the Son choosing those to whom he would reveal the Father. Note that similar to v. 27, John 17:6a says, "I have manifested your name to the people whom you gave me out of the world."

Acts 13:48 And when the Gentiles heard this, they began rejoicing and glorifying the word of the Lord, and as many as were appointed to eternal life believed.

The use here of "appointed" speaks of God choosing people for eternal life.

Rom 8:29-30 For those whom he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, in order that he might be the firstborn among many brothers.³⁰ And those whom he predestined he also called, and those whom he called he also justified, and those whom he justified he also glorified.

Some understand the reference to God's foreknowledge (v. 29; cf. 1Pet 1:2 ↓) to indicate that v. 29 teaches that God predestined or chose those whom he knew beforehand would come to faith. However "foreknew" is understood by a number of commentators to mean more than just prior knowledge, but also to imply foreordination. The term "predestined" (vv. 29, 30) means "destined from the beginning [foreordaining them]" (AMP). Note that in v. 30, the use of the past tense in referring to the glorification of believers is generally understood to be indicative of the certainty of their glorification, as if it had already taken place.

Salvation and sanctification are two associated blessings for which God's people are chosen.

1Pet 1:1-2 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, To those who are elect exiles of the dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia,² according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in the sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience to Jesus Christ and for sprinkling with his blood: May grace and peace be multiplied to you.

Those "who are elect" (v. 1) have been chosen in part for obedience to Jesus Christ and the blessing of being cleansed by his blood (v. 2).

Similar to Philippians 3:14 above, the “heavenly calling” may have in view a call to heaven (cf. NLT) – hence the verse’s inclusion here. Alternatively it may refer to the call from God in heaven (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV) to be of his people – which would make the verse more applicable to the previous subsection.

God enables people to believe

God and Jesus Christ enable people to respond to God’s call, by enabling them to believe and to turn to God in repentance (the latter being discussed in the following subsection).

John 6:60, 64-65 When many of his disciples heard it, they said, “This is a hard saying; who can listen to it?”  ... ⁶⁴But there are some of you who do not believe.” (For Jesus knew from the beginning who those were who did not believe, and who it was who would betray him.) ⁶⁵And he said, “This is why I told you that no one can come to me unless it is granted him by the Father.”

Verse 65 appears to refer back to vv. 60, 64. This would indicate that Jesus was meaning that the teaching of faith in him is not easy to accept (v. 60) and so people do not naturally accept or believe it (vv. 60, 64a); they do so only on the Father’s initiative (v. 65). Note that in the preceding passages (cf. vv. 25-59) Jesus had spoken in figurative terms of the need to believe in him, referring to the need to “eat” of him, the “the bread of life” (v. 35). The inability or unwillingness of many of his listeners to look beyond the figurative expressions – reflecting the need for God’s enablement (v. 65) – would have contributed to such teaching being hard to accept.

Acts 16:14-15 One who heard us was a woman named Lydia, from the city of Thyatira, a seller of purple goods, who was a worshiper of God. The Lord opened her heart to pay attention to what was said by Paul. ¹⁵And after she was baptized, and her household as well, she urged us, saying, “If you have judged me to be faithful to the Lord, come to my house and stay.” And she prevailed upon us.

These verses imply that Lydia believed Paul’s message, with the Lord opening her heart to the message and her subsequent baptism; in the context, the expression “faithful to the Lord” (v. 15) also suggests this (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV). The Lord enabled Lydia to respond to Paul’s message of the gospel in believing it and acting accordingly. Note that the reference to “God” earlier in the verse makes it likely that “Lord” is referring to Jesus Christ.

Acts 18:27b When he arrived, he greatly helped those who through grace had believed, ...

For more discussion of the role of God’s grace in people responding to him (cf. Eph 2:8 ↴; Acts 1:20-23 ↴) see b) Salvation by Grace, through Jesus Christ, p. 646.

1Cor 3:5-7 What then is Apollos? What is Paul? Servants through whom you believed, as the Lord assigned to each. ⁶I planted, Apollos watered, but God gave the growth. ⁷So neither he who plants nor he who waters is anything, but only God who gives the growth.

The final clause of v. 5 is generally understood to be referring to the Lord assigning to each believer – here Apollos and Paul in particular – the work he has for them (cf. AMP, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT). However, it could be speaking of the Lord assigning belief to each of those who had believed (cf. CEV) – as per the theme of this subsection. In vv. 6-7, the references to God giving growth are quite possibly speaking of God’s pivotal role (v. 6b) in people coming to believe (v. 5b), enabling his word that has been planted in people to grow into faith. Alternatively, God’s role in the subsequent growth or maturing of believers may instead be primarily in view.

Eph 2:8 For by grace you have been saved through faith. And this is not your own doing; it is the gift of God, ...

The “gift of God” may be referring to faith or to the whole process of salvation. If the latter is in view it would still be inclusive of faith. This and the following two references portray faith as a gift from God.

Phil 1:29 For it has been granted to you that for the sake of Christ you should not only believe in him but also suffer for his sake, ...

1Jn 5:1 Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ has been born of God, and everyone who loves the Father loves whoever has been born of him.

This may well be implying that people can only believe because they have first been born of God – i.e. people can only come to belief because of God’s work in them.

Verse 37 implies that it is only because God gives a person to Jesus that they can "come to" him – which is consistent with the teaching in the latter verses. Verse 45b points to the individual's part and responsibility in coming to Christ, in conjunction with the essential role of God (vv. 44-45a).

For all things are possible with God."

^c Some manuscripts add for those who trust in riches

No one can enter God's kingdom and be saved through their own efforts – only God can accomplish this. The fact that it is God who brings about salvation is also reflected in Acts 2:47 – "And the Lord added to their number day by day those who were being saved."

Note: God's mercy and people's destiny

Rom 9:10-24 And not only so, but also when Rebekah had conceived children by one man, our forefather Isaac, ¹¹though they were not yet born and had done nothing either good or bad—in order that God's purpose of election might continue, not because of works but because of him who calls— ¹²she was told, "The older will serve the younger." ¹³As it is written, "Jacob I loved, but Esau I hated." ¹⁴What shall we say then? Is there injustice on God's part? By no means! ¹⁵For he says to Moses, "I will have mercy on whom I have mercy, and I will have compassion on whom I have compassion." ¹⁶So then it depends not on human will or exertion,^e but on God, who has mercy. ¹⁷For the Scripture says to Pharaoh, "For this very purpose I have raised you up, that I might show my power in you, and that my name might be proclaimed in all the earth." ¹⁸So then he has mercy on whomever he wills, and he hardens whomever he wills. ¹⁹You will say to me then, "Why does he still find fault? For who can resist his will?" ²⁰But who are you, O man, to answer back to God? Will what is molded say to its molder, "Why have you made me like this?" ²¹Has the potter no right over the clay, to make out of the same lump one vessel for honorable use and another for dishonorable use? ²²What if God, desiring to show his wrath and to make known his power, has endured with much patience vessels of wrath prepared for destruction, ²³in order to make known the riches of his glory for vessels of mercy, which he has prepared beforehand for glory— ²⁴even us whom he has called, not from the Jews only but also from the Gentiles?

^e Greek not of him who wills or runs

The basic thrust of this passage is that God has mercy on who he wants or chooses to, which he has the right to do. Thus God's purpose for people and their destiny – in this life (vv. 11-12, 17) and the next (vv. 22-23) – depends on God's mercy. In illustrating this in the case of Jacob and Esau, “hated” (v. 13) is used in a relative sense (cf. AMP, CEV), to emphasize God’s choice of Jacob over Esau. In v. 21, the illustration of the potter and the clay is used to set forth the principle that God as the creator of people has the right to have mercy on whom he wants; this is further illustrated in vv. 22-23.

Note that commentators generally qualify the phrase “prepared for destruction” (v. 22). It is not necessarily saying that it is God who does the preparation – in contrast to those who are prepared for glory (v. 23) – although this does fit the context. Some think that Paul means that such people prepare themselves for destruction by their actions. Another possibility is that it means that such people’s lives deem them fit for destruction, for which God prepares them. Whatever the case it certainly should not be interpreted in such a way as to diminish either God’s sovereignty over people’s lives and destiny, or people’s responsibility for their own actions.

1Pet 2:7-10 So the honor is for you who believe, but for those who do not believe, “The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone,”^f and “A stone of stumbling, and a rock of offense.” *They stumble because they disobey the word, as they were destined to do.*⁹ *But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession, that you may proclaim the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light.*¹⁰ Once you were not a people, but now you are God’s people; once you had not received mercy, but now you have received mercy.

^f Greek the head of the corner

The term “stumble” (v. 8) quite possibly alludes to condemnation. Verse 8 speaks of those who disobey God’s gospel and are thus condemned, as being destined for this. In contrast, those who are of God have been chosen (v. 9), having received God’s mercy (v. 10).

‡ Further reference to people being destined for condemnation:

Jude 1:4 For certain people have crept in unnoticed who long ago were designated for this condemnation, ungodly people, who pervert the grace of our God into sensuality and deny our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ.

Lev 20:26 You shall be holy to me, for I the LORD am holy and have separated you from the peoples, that you should be mine.

Verses which speak of Israel belonging to God and/or being his people are readily applicable to believers.

Deut 26:18 And the LORD has declared today that you are a people for his treasured possession, as he has promised you, and that you are to keep all his commandments, ...

Isa 44:5 This one will say, ‘I am the LORD’s,’ another will call on the name of Jacob, and another will write on his hand, ‘The LORD’s,’ and name himself by the name of Israel.

This may well be alluding to the conversion of people from among the Gentiles. The clause “another will call on the name of Jacob” appears to speak of aligning oneself with Israel, as per the final clause. These two clauses are indicative of becoming God’s people – as clearly are the other parts of the verse.

John 17:9 I am praying for them. I am not praying for the world but for those whom you have given me, for they are yours.

Acts 27:23 For this very night there stood before me an angel of the God to whom I belong and whom I worship, ...

Most other modern translations support the alternative rendering in the ESV text note, which refers to God's people as "his possession".

Col 3:12 Put on then, as God's chosen ones, holy and beloved, compassionate hearts, kindness, humility, meekness, and patience, ...

1Pet 2:9 But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession, that you may proclaim the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light.

Here and in Romans 9:25-26 immediately below, Paul refers to passages from Hosea to show how God has now taken people from among the Gentiles to make them also his people, bringing them into a covenant relationship with him.

Rom 9:25-26 As indeed he says in Hosea, "Those who were not my people I will call 'my people,' and her who was not beloved I will call 'beloved.'"²⁶ "And in the very place where it was said to them, 'You are not my people,' there they will be called 'sons of the living God.'"

Ex 6:7 I will take you to be my people, and I will be your God, and you shall know that I am the LORD your God, who has brought you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians.

Here God promises to make Israel his own people, the fulfillment of which is attested to in the following verses.

Deut 27:9 Then Moses and the Levitical priests said to all Israel, "Keep silence and hear, O Israel: this day you have become the people of the LORD your God."

1Ki 8:43 ... hear in heaven your dwelling place and do according to all for which the foreigner calls to you, in order that all the peoples of the earth may know your name and fear you, as do your people Israel, and that they may know that this house that I have built is called by your name.

. . . The Father gives his people to Jesus Christ

One could infer from this subsection that God's people belong to Jesus Christ (as per the previous subsection) in part at least due to God giving his people to Jesus Christ.

John 6:37-39 All that the Father gives me will come to me, and whoever comes to me I will never cast out. ³⁸For I have come down from heaven, not to do my own will but the will of him who sent me. ³⁹And this is the will of him who sent me, that I should lose nothing of all that he has given me, but raise it up on the last day. 📖

As reflected in v. 37, "all that he has given me" (v. 39) refers – primarily at least – to all those people whom God has given to Jesus (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

John 10:29 My Father, who has given them to me,ⁿ is greater than all, and no one is able to snatch them out of the Father's hand. 📖

ⁿ Some manuscripts What my Father has given to me

John 17:1-2, 6, 9, 24 When Jesus had spoken these words, he lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, "Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son that the Son may glorify you, ²since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him. 📖 ... ⁶"I have manifested your name to the people whom you gave me out of the world. Yours they were, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word. 📖 ... ⁹I am praying for them. I am not praying for the world but for those whom you have given me, for they are yours. 📖 ... ²⁴Father, I desire that they also, whom you have given me, may be with me where I am, to see my glory that you have given me because you loved me before the foundation of the world. 📖

Jesus Christ is the speaker throughout this passage, including in vv. 1-2 where he speaks of himself in the third person. Note that in v. 9 Jesus makes the point that those whom God has given him are still in a real sense God's.

Heb 2:13 And again, "I will put my trust in him." And again, "Behold, I and the children God has given me." 📖

Here OT passages are applied to Christ.

God's people are called and identified by his name and Jesus Christ's name

See also:

- God's people will have God's and Jesus Christ's names written on them, p. 746
- c) God's People Are His Family, p. 769

Verses which refer to being called (i.e. named or identified) by God's name may simply be speaking of being called "God's" – or "the LORD'S" (cf. Isa 4:5 ↓) – or "God's people".

Being called by God's name identifies God's people as his, showing their unique relationship with him and is reflective of them being part of his family (cf. c) God's People Are His Family, p. 769). Possibly it also indicates that they uniquely reflect characteristics of God. See also the comment below on Numbers 6:22-27.

Deut 28:10 And all the peoples of the earth shall see that you are called by the name of the LORD, and they shall be afraid of you. 📖

2Chr 7:14 ... if my people who are called by my name humble themselves, and pray and seek my face and turn from their wicked ways, then I will hear from heaven and will forgive their sin and heal their land. 📖

Isa 43:6-7 I will say to the north, Give up, and to the south, Do not withhold; bring my sons from afar and my daughters from the end of the earth, ⁷*everyone who is called by my name,* whom I created for my glory, whom I formed and made. 📖

Isa 44:5 This one will say, 'I am the LORD'S,' another will call on the name of Jacob, and another will write on his hand, 'The LORD'S,' and name himself by the name of Israel. 📖

Writing "The LORD'S" on one's hand appears to be in imitation of the practice of a master's mark being branded on a slave's hand. Being identified as such by God's name underlines the fact that one belongs to him.

James 2:7 Are they not the ones who blaspheme the honorable name by which you were called? 📖

The "name by which you were called" appears to refer to Jesus Christ's name being invoked over them (cf. NRSV), typically in baptism (cf. AMP). As such believers bear Christ's name (cf. GNT, NLT)

Rev 14:1 Then I looked, and behold, on Mount Zion stood the Lamb, and with him 144,000 who had his name and his Father's name written on their foreheads. 📖

Rev 22:4 They will see his face, and his name will be on their foreheads. 📖

✦ With the Aaronic blessing, the priests "put" God's name on the Israelites:

Num 6:22-27 The LORD spoke to Moses, saying, ²³"Speak to Aaron and his sons, saying, Thus you shall bless the people of Israel: you shall say to them, ²⁴The LORD bless you and keep you; ²⁵the LORD make his face to shine upon you and be gracious to you; ²⁶the LORD lift up his countenance^o upon you and give you peace. ²⁷*So shall they put my name upon the people of Israel,* and I will bless them." 📖

^o Or face

Here the placing of God's name on the Israelites (v. 27) appears to designate them as God's people (cf. NLT), showing that they were identified with him, belonged to him and were in a close relationship with him. However there is a different interpretation. Instead of speaking of putting God's name on the people, v. 27 may be referring to invoking God's name on the people (cf. NASB). As such – bearing in mind that a person's name was often used to signify the person themselves – the meaning may simply be that in so blessing the people (vv. 23-26), the priests would invoke God's presence accompanied by his blessing on the people.

The phrase “God our Father” occurs eleven times in the ESV, nine of them in the clause “Grace to you and peace from God our Father”. Similarly the phrase “our God and Father” (cf. Gal 1:4 ↑) occurs five times.

Heb 12:9 Besides this, we have had earthly fathers who disciplined us and we respected them. Shall we not much more be subject to the Father of spirits and live?

The expression “the Father of spirits” is generally understood to be speaking of God as “our spiritual Father” (CEV, GNT), pointing to him as the one who gives us spiritual life.

Deut 32:6b, 18 Is not he your father, who created you, who made you and established you? ... ¹⁸You were unmindful of the Rock that bore^t you, and you forgot the God who gave you birth.

^t Or fathered

This is speaking primarily of God fathering Israel as a nation, but it is applicable to him being the spiritual father of each of his people. A similar comment could be made regarding the following references from Isaiah, though arguably they more likely also have in view God's role as the spiritual Father of his people, particularly 64:8.

Isa 63:16 For you are our Father, though Abraham does not know us, and Israel does not acknowledge us; you, O LORD, are our Father, our Redeemer from of old is your name.

Even if their human fathers – or ancestors – would disown them, God would still remain their Father (cf. NLT).

Isa 64:8 But now, O LORD, you are our Father; we are the clay, and you are our potter; we are all the work of your hand.

Heb 2:11 For he who sanctifies and those who are sanctified all have one source.^u That is why he is not ashamed to call them brothers,^v ...

^u Greek all are of one

^v Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated “brothers”) refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church; also verse 12

This refers to the fact that God's people – and Jesus Christ – “have the same Father” (GNT, NLT; cf. AMP, NASB, NRSV).

✦ God's fatherly nurturing and care of Israel:

Hos 11:1, 3-4 When Israel was a child, I loved him, and out of Egypt I called my son. ... ³Yet it was I who taught Ephraim to walk; I took them up by their arms, but they did not know that I healed them. ⁴I led them with cords of kindness,^w with the bands of love, and I became to them as one who eases the yoke on their jaws, and I bent down to them and fed them.

Those who accept Jesus Christ and believe in him (v. 12a) are enabled to become God's children (v. 12b) – born of God (v. 13) into spiritual life.

Rom 8:14-16 For all who are led by the Spirit of God are sons^x of God. ¹⁵For you did not receive the spirit of slavery to fall back into fear, but you have received the Spirit of adoption as sons, by whom we cry, "Abba! Father!" ¹⁶*The Spirit himself bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God*, ... 📖

^x See discussion on "sons" in the Preface

This passage – particularly vv. 14, 15b – associate being God's children with having God's Spirit (cf. Gal 4:6 ↓), "the Spirit of adoption as sons" (v. 15b). As such they suggest even imply that believers are God's children because they have his Spirit – somewhat akin to having a key hereditary "trait" from God, distinguishing one as being God's offspring.

Gal 4:4-6 But when the fullness of time had come, God sent forth his Son, born of woman, born under the law, ⁵to redeem those who were under the law, so that we might receive adoption as sons. ⁶*And because you are sons, God has sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying, "Abba! Father!"* 📖

Verse 6 implies that as the Spirit who calls out "Father" is in the hearts of believers, they participate in calling on God as "Father" (cf. Rom 8:15b ↑) – reflecting that they are God's children.

Rom 9:26 "And in the very place where it was said to them, 'You are not my people,' there they will be called 'sons of the living God.'" 📖

2Cor 6:18 ... and I will be a father to you, and you shall be sons and daughters to me, says the Lord Almighty. 📖

1Jn 5:18-19 We know that everyone who has been born of God does not keep on sinning, but he who was born of God protects him, and the evil one does not touch him. ¹⁹*We know that we are from God*, and the whole world lies in the power of the evil one. 📖

In saying that Christians are "from God" (v. 19a), John appears to be referring to them being "born of God" (v. 18a), reborn spiritually of him.

Luke 20:36 ... for they cannot die anymore, because they are equal to angels and are sons of God, being sons^z of the resurrection. 📖

^z Greek huioi; see Preface

Particularly given the context (cf. vv. 27-38), this most likely is meaning that after being raised to life by God at the resurrection believers "will be God's children" (CEV), with him having given them life. But note that the present tense may mean that it also alludes to the present status of believers as "God's children" – in view of the fact that God will give them life at the resurrection.

‡ The adoption of believers will be consummated at the end of the age:

Rom 8:19, 23 For the creation waits with eager longing for the revealing of the sons of God. 📖 ... ²³And not only the creation, but we ourselves, who have the firstfruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly as we wait eagerly for adoption as sons, the redemption of our bodies. 📖

As God's children, they are heirs of God

See also:

▪ ... and God's people will inherit the kingdom, p. 739

Rom 8:17 ... and if children, then heirs—heirs of God and fellow heirs with Christ, provided we suffer with him in order that we may also be glorified with him. 📖

Gal 4:7 So you are no longer a slave, but a son, and if a son, then an heir through God. 📖

Eph 1:11 In him we have obtained an inheritance, having been predestined according to the purpose of him who works all things according to the counsel of his will, ... 📖

Eph 3:6 This mystery is^a that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel.

^a The words This mystery is are inferred from verse 4

This speaks of Gentile believers sharing in “the riches inherited by God’s children” (NLT), in Jesus Christ.

Titus 3:7 ...so that being justified by his grace we might become heirs according to the hope of eternal life.

Rev 21:7 The one who conquers will have this heritage, and I will be his God and he will be my son.

As a child of God – “he will be my son” – each believer who overcomes will “have this heritage”. This appears to refer to inheriting all the blessings of the new Jerusalem in the afterlife.

Gal 3:26, 29 ...for in Christ Jesus you are all sons of God, through faith.  ... ²⁹And if you are Christ’s, then you are Abraham’s offspring, heirs according to promise.

In v. 29 “heirs” speaks primarily of being heirs of Abraham (cf. Heb 6:13-20 – “the heirs of the promise”, v. 17) rather than of God. But in view of the prior reference to “sons of God” in v. 26 – coupled with what is said about Jesus Christ in both verses – one could argue that it may also in part allude to the latter.

God’s people are Jesus Christ’s brothers and sisters

Matt 12:49-50 And stretching out his hand toward his disciples, he said, “Here are my mother and my brothers! ⁵⁰For whoever does the will of my Father in heaven is my brother and sister and mother.”

John 20:17 Jesus said to her, “Do not cling to me, for I have not yet ascended to the Father; but go to my brothers and say to them, ‘I am ascending to my Father and your Father, to my God and your God.’”

Rom 8:29 For those whom he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, in order that he might be the firstborn among many brothers.

Heb 2:11-12 For he who sanctifies and those who are sanctified all have one source.^b That is why he is not ashamed to call them brothers,^c ¹²saying, “I will tell of your name to my brothers; in the midst of the congregation I will sing your praise.”

^b Greek all are of one

^c Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated “brothers”) refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God’s family, the church; also verse 12

Heb 2:17 Therefore he had to be made like his brothers in every respect, so that he might become a merciful and faithful high priest in the service of God, to make propitiation for the sins of the people.

The “brotherhood” of believers is composed of “the brothers and sisters of God’s family” (NCV™).

2Jn 1:13 The children of your elect sister greet you.

The “sister” of John’s readers was elected or chosen by God as such, a “sister” in God’s family.

Some of God’s people have parent-child relationships

1Cor 4:14 I do not write these things to make you ashamed, but to admonish you as my beloved children.

Gal 4:19 ... my little children, for whom I am again in the anguish of childbirth until Christ is formed in you!

The term “my little children” (cf. 1Cor 4:14 ↑) alludes to Paul’s role in the Galatians coming to Christ. Paul appears to speak of having again to go through such “pains of childbirth” following their waywardness so as to lead them back, to a greater maturity.

1Thes 2:7, 11-12 But we were gentle^h among you, like a nursing mother taking care of her own children. ... ¹¹For you know how, like a father with his children, ¹²we exhorted each one of you and encouraged you and charged you to walk in a manner worthy of God, who calls you into his own kingdom and glory.

^h Some manuscripts infants

Note that here and in Philippians 2:22 below, Paul is not actually calling his readers his children, but the similes involving parent-child terminology suggest this.

Phil 2:22 But you know Timothy’sⁱ proven worth, how as a son^j with a father he has served with me in the gospel.

ⁱ Greek his

^j Greek child

Titus 1:4 To Titus, my true child in a common faith: Grace and peace from God the Father and Christ Jesus our Savior.

In 1 Timothy 1:2 Paul similarly addresses Timothy as “my true child in the faith”.

Philem 1:10 I appeal to you for my child, Onesimus,^k whose father I became in my imprisonment.

^k Onesimus means useful (see verse 11) or beneficial (see verse 20)

1Jn 2:1, 12-13 My little children, I am writing these things to you so that you may not sin. But if anyone does sin, we have an advocate with the Father, Jesus Christ the righteous. ... ¹²I am writing to you, little children, because your sins are forgiven for his name’s sake. ¹³I am writing to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning. I am writing to you, young men, because you have overcome the evil one. I write to you, children, because you know the Father.

“My little children” (v. 1a) is quite possibly a reference to John’s readers being his spiritual children, and so implies that the latter uses of “children” have the same sense. This then suggests that “fathers” is being used to allude to spiritual parents or elders. However “fathers”, “young men” (v. 13a) and “children” may simply denote various stages of spiritual maturity or possibly chronological age groupings – or even just be emphasizing that John is referring to all of his readers.

d) God’s People Are His Church

See also:

- c) God’s People Are One Body ‘in’ Jesus Christ, p. 788

The term “church” denotes an assembly or body of believers that belong to God. Additionally it can be used more generally of God’s people as a whole – the worldwide church.

Subsections

- God’s people form his and Jesus Christ’s church
- Jesus Christ is the church’s Lord and ruler
- The church is God’s temple or house, in which God dwells by his Holy Spirit . . .
- . . . As such, God’s people meet together in his presence
- Being God’s, the church is holy

God's people form his and Jesus Christ's church

See also:

The following verses contain references to groups of believers as God's and/or Jesus Christ's church. References are made both to local churches and to the worldwide church.

Acts 20:28 Pay careful attention to yourselves and to all the flock, in which the Holy Spirit has made you overseers, to care for the church of God,¹ which he obtained with his own blood.^m

^m Or with the blood of his Own

God's "own blood" refers to that of his own Son, which thus in a sense is his own. Church members have been bought or redeemed by God with "his own blood" and so they belong to him as his church – "the church of God". But also note the rendering in the text note, with the alternative use of "Lord" suggesting that Jesus Christ is in view.

1Cor 1:2 To the church of God that is in Corinth, to those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints together with all those who in every place call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, both their Lord and ours: ...

1Cor 11:16 If anyone is inclined to be contentious, we have no such practice, nor do the churches of God.

1Cor 15:9 For I am the least of the apostles, unworthy to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God.

1Tim 3:15 ... if I delay, you may know how one ought to behave in the household of God, which is the church of the living God, a pillar and buttress of the truth.

1Thes 1:1 Paul, Silvanus, and Timothy, To the church of the Thessalonians in God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ: Grace to you and peace.

This reflects the fact that the church in Thessalonica comprised "the people of God the Father and of the Lord Jesus Christ" (CEV).

Matt 16:18 And I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rockⁿ I will build my church, and the gates of hell^o shall not prevail against it.

^p Or holy and blameless

The clause "that he might present the church to himself" points to the fact that the church belongs to Jesus Christ (cf. CEV, NCV) – and so that God's people are Jesus Christ's church.

Eph 5:24 Now as the church submits to Christ, so also wives should submit in everything to their husbands.

Heb 3:6 ... but Christ is faithful over God's house as a son. And we are his house if indeed we hold fast our confidence and our boasting in our hope.^q

This speaks of Jesus Christ being "in charge" (CEV, GNT, NLT) of God's house or church – i.e. its ruler.

Heb 13:20 Now may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, ...

References to Jesus Christ being the "shepherd" (cf. 1Pet 2:25 ↓; 1Pet 5:4 ↓) of God's people are indicative of him being their Lord and ruler.

1Pet 2:25 For you were straying like sheep, but have now returned to the Shepherd and Overseer of your souls.

1Pet 5:4 And when the chief Shepherd appears, you will receive the unfading crown of glory.

Rev 1:12-13, 16, 20; 2:1-3 Then I turned to see the voice that was speaking to me, and on turning I saw seven golden lampstands, ¹³and in the midst of the lampstands one like a son of man, clothed with a long robe and with a golden sash around his chest. ... ¹⁶*In his right hand he held seven stars, from his mouth came a sharp two-edged sword*, and his face was like the sun shining in full strength. ... ²⁰*As for the mystery of the seven stars that you saw in my right hand, and the seven golden lampstands, the seven stars are the angels of the seven churches, and the seven lampstands are the seven churches.* ^{2:1}“To the angel of the church in Ephesus write: ‘The words of him who holds the seven stars in his right hand, who walks among the seven golden lampstands. ²‘I know your works, your toil and your patient endurance, and how you cannot bear with those who are evil, but have tested those who call themselves apostles and are not, and found them to be false. ³I know you are enduring patiently and bearing up for my name’s sake, and you have not grown weary.

The vision showing Jesus Christ as the one who holds the “angels” of the churches (vv. 16, 20; 2:1) and who “walks among” the churches (2:1; cf. 1:13), portrays him as the ruler of the churches. The “sharp two-edged sword” (v. 16) alludes to his power to execute judgment, one aspect of his rule. His role as ruler is further illustrated by his subsequent rebukes and exhortations to the churches (cf. chs 2-3), extracts of which follow below. The Ephesian church’s endurance for Jesus Christ’s sake (2:3; cf. Rev 3:8 ↓) reflects its allegiance to him as Lord.

Rev 2:5, 16, 20-23 Remember therefore from where you have fallen; repent, and do the works you did at first. If not, I will come to you and remove your lampstand from its place, unless you repent. ... ¹⁶*Therefore repent. If not, I will come to you soon and war against them with the sword of my mouth.* ... ²⁰*But I have this against you, that you tolerate that woman Jezebel, who calls herself a prophetess and is teaching and seducing my servants^r to practice sexual immorality and to eat food sacrificed to idols. ²¹I gave her time to repent, but she refuses to repent of her sexual immorality. ²²Behold, I will throw her onto a sickbed, and those who commit adultery with her I will throw into great tribulation, unless they repent of her works, ²³and I will strike her children dead. And all the churches will know that I am he who searches mind and heart, and I will give to each of you according to your works.*

Jesus Christ’s authority over the church is underlined here – and in Revelation 3:3, 19 below – with him not only rebuking wayward churches but speaking of executing judgment on unrepentant ones.

Rev 3:3, 19 Remember, then, what you received and heard. Keep it, and repent. If you will not wake up, I will come like a thief, and you will not know at what hour I will come against you. ... ¹⁹*Those whom I love, I reprove and discipline, so be zealous and repent.*

Rev 3:7-8 And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: ‘The words of the holy one, the true one, who has the key of David, who opens and no one will shut, who shuts and no one opens.’ ⁸*“I know your works. Behold, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut. I know that you have but little power, and yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name.*

As the one who “has the key of David”, Jesus Christ has sole authority over entry into the kingdom of God and so also the church.

† Jesus Christ is pre-eminent among God’s people:

Rom 8:29 For those whom he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, in order that he might be the firstborn among many brothers.

The term “firstborn” is indicative of Jesus Christ’s pre-eminence among God’s people. It also may allude to the fact that he is “the firstborn of the dead” (Rev 1:5).

The church is God’s temple or house, in which God dwells by his Holy Spirit . . .

See also:

- Each believer belongs to the household of God, p. 769

The church is in effect God’s temple or house, in which God dwells by his Holy Spirit. This is true of the universal church and also individual churches, with each church’s members together in effect forming a spiritual building.

1Cor 3:16-17 Do you not know that you^s are God’s temple and that God’s Spirit dwells in you? ¹⁷*If anyone destroys God’s temple, God will destroy him. For God’s temple is holy, and you are that temple.*

^s The Greek for you is plural in verses 16 and 17

Here “you” refers to the Corinthian church. God’s Spirit lives in and plays a role in the corporate life of each church. Note that later in 6:19a Paul refers to each individual believer as a temple of the Holy Spirit – “Or do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit within you, whom you have from God?"

2Cor 6:16 What agreement has the temple of God with idols? For we are the temple of the living God; as God said, "I will make my dwelling among them and walk among them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. [E]

Eph 2:19-22 So then you are no longer strangers and aliens,^t but *you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God,*²⁰ *built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the cornerstone,*²¹ *in whom the whole structure, being joined together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord.*²² In him you also are being built together into a dwelling place for God by^u the Spirit. [E]

^t Or sojourners

^u Or in

As perhaps is suggested by the alternative rendering in the text note, quite possibly v. 22 speaks of the church being a dwelling place "where God lives by his Spirit" (NLT; cf. GNT, NCV, NIV). Note that in vv. 19-21 the universal church appears to be in view. This may also be the case in v. 22, although there Paul may be turning the focus to the Ephesian church in particular.

1Tim 3:15 ... if I delay, you may know how one ought to behave in the household of God, which is the church of the living God, a pillar and buttress of the truth. [E]

The phrase "the church of the living God" arguably points to God's presence amidst his church (cf. ESB).

Heb 3:6 ... but Christ is faithful over God's house as a son. And we are his house if indeed we hold fast our confidence and our boasting in our hope.^v [E]

^v Some manuscripts insert firm to the end

Heb 10:21 ... and since we have a great priest over the house of God, ... [E]

1Pet 2:5 ... you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. [E]

The church is a "spiritual house" – in effect a "spiritual temple" (GNT, NCV, NLT), a term which correlates well with the subsequent description here of church members as "a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God".

1Cor 3:9 For we are God's fellow workers. You are God's field, God's building. [E]

Similar to the terms "God's temple" and "God's house", the church is also referred to as "God's building".

1Cor 14:24-25 But if all prophesy, and an unbeliever or outsider enters, he is convicted by all, he is called to account by all,²⁵ the secrets of his heart are disclosed, and so, falling on his face, he will worship God and declare that God is really among you. [E]

One can infer from this that the exercising of spiritual gifts in the church (v. 24a) is evidence of the Holy Spirit, indicating that God is present in the church (v. 25b).

Isa 63:11b Where is he who put in the midst of them his Holy Spirit, ... [E]

Although referring to Israel and the Jews rather than the church, this verse and Haggai 2:5b below have been included as further verification that the Holy Spirit is present amongst God's people as a whole – indicative of God's presence – as well as individually (cf. a) God's Holy Spirit in His People, p. 831).

Hag 2:5b My Spirit remains in your midst. Fear not. [E]

... As such, God's people meet together in his presence

That God's people meet together in his presence reflects the fact that the church is God's temple or house, in which God dwells.

Acts 10:33 So I sent for you at once, and you have been kind enough to come. Now therefore we are all here in the presence of God to hear all that you have been commanded by the Lord. [E]

Deut 31:11 ... when all Israel comes to appear before the LORD your God at the place that he will choose, you shall read this law before all Israel in their hearing. [E]

The requirement for Israel to meet or come together before God (cf. Deut 12:18 ↓) is applicable to the life of the church.

Deut 12:7, 18 And there you shall eat before the LORD your God, and you shall rejoice, you and your households, in all that you undertake, in which the LORD your God has blessed you. [E] ...¹⁸ but you shall eat them before the LORD your God in the place that the LORD your God will choose, you and your son and your daughter, your male servant and your female servant, and the Levite who is within your towns. And you shall rejoice before the LORD your God in all that you undertake. [E]

This is speaking of the people being gathered together in the presence of God, celebrating and rejoicing over everything that they had done or worked for (cf. GNT, NCV).

✦ When believers meet together in his name, Jesus Christ is with them:

Matt 18:20 For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I among them. 📖

Being God's, the church is holy

Things belonging to God characteristically are holy (cf. Things of God are likewise holy, p. 57). The fact that the church is holy is indicative of it belonging to God. Moreover, it is essential that the church be holy for God in his holiness to dwell in it.

Eph 5:25-27 Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her, ²⁶that he might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word, ²⁷so that he might present the church to himself in splendor, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, that she might be holy and without blemish.^w 📖

^w Or holy and blameless

1Cor 1:2 To the church of God that is in Corinth, to those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints together with all those who in every place call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, both their Lord and ours: ... 📖

The terms “sanctified” and “saints” both speak of being holy, with the latter basically meaning “holy people” (GNT, NCV, NLT).

1Cor 3:17 If anyone destroys God's temple, God will destroy him. For God's temple is holy, and you are that temple. 📖

Eph 2:21 ... in whom the whole structure, being joined together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord. 📖

1Pet 2:4-5, 9 As you come to him, a living stone rejected by men but in the sight of God chosen and precious, ⁵*you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ.* 📖 ... ⁹*But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession, that you may proclaim the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light.* 📖

This speaks of the church as the holy people of God.

II. Being 'in' Jesus Christ

See also:

- d) Epilogue: Living 'in' Jesus Christ, p. 1078

Arguably the most fundamental change in the standing of God's people in relationship to him that followed what Jesus Christ accomplished, is that they are now "in" Jesus Christ. Being "in" Jesus Christ involves the association or correlation of believers with Jesus Christ, by which God views them in association with his Son.

Due to this connection with Jesus Christ, they participate with him in such things as: his victory over sin and death; his life; and other blessings he has secured. As such it has great significance in the relationship of believers to God – and of their relationship to Jesus Christ.

Note that expressions like "in Jesus Christ" sometimes have other meanings, such as "through Jesus Christ". While the great majority of verses in this section quite probably use such expressions to speak of believers being "in" Jesus Christ, in some instances the meaning is debatable.

a) God's People Are 'in' Jesus Christ

- God's people are "in" Jesus Christ because of what God has done

God's people are "in" Jesus Christ

Gal 3:27-28 For as many of you as were baptized into Christ have put on Christ. ²⁸There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave^a nor free, there is no male and female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus.

^a Greek bondservant

The expression "have put on Christ" (v. 27), in line with the preceding clause, quite possibly is speaking of immersing oneself in one's union with Christ. As such it refers to surrounding oneself with Christ, acting in line with his purposes and for his glory, and in reliance on him. Alternatively, it may be referring to taking on or adopting Christ's character, and so following his example.

^b Some manuscripts saints who are also faithful (omitting in Ephesus)

Phil 3:8-9 Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things and count them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ ⁹and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith—

1Thes 2:14a For you, brothers, became imitators of the churches of God in Christ Jesus that are in Judea.

1Thes 4:16 For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a cry of command, with the voice of an archangel, and with the sound of the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first.

Philem 1:15-16 For this perhaps is why he was parted from you for a while, that you might have him back forever, ¹⁶no longer as a slave^c but more than a slave, as a beloved brother—especially to me, but how much more to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord.

^c Greek bondservant; twice in this verse

Philem 1:23 Epaphras, my fellow prisoner in Christ Jesus, sends greetings to you, ...

1Pet 5:14 Greet one another with the kiss of love. Peace to all of you who are in Christ.

✦ Believers are joined with Christ, as one spirit with him:

1Cor 6:17 But he who is joined to the Lord becomes one spirit with him.

God's people are "in" Jesus Christ because of what God has done

1Cor 1:30 And because of him^d you are in Christ Jesus, who became to us wisdom from God, righteousness and sanctification and redemption, ...

^d Greek And from him

Eph 2:10 For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them.

Eph 1:4a ... even as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and blameless before him.

This is saying that God chose us "to be his through our union with Christ" (GNT). As such it points to believers being in Jesus Christ because of what God has done.

2Cor 1:21 And it is God who establishes us with you in Christ, and has anointed us, ...

Note that this appears to refer to God's part in the believer's ongoing status in Christ as much as their initial inclusion in Christ.

✦ God calls believers into the fellowship of Jesus Christ:

1Cor 1:9 God is faithful, by whom you were called into the fellowship of his Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

The expression "the fellowship of his Son" would appear to involve fellowship with Jesus Christ (cf. AMP, GNT, NASB, NIV, NLT), as well as with other Christians.

Jesus Christ identifies himself with God's people

See also:

- "In" Jesus Christ they are identified with him in his death, resurrection and life – meaning release from sin and the law . . ., p. 783
- . . . This identification also has other implications – present and future, p. 784
- Note: What one does for another Christian, one does for Jesus Christ, p. 1339

Jesus' statements below identifying himself with God's people arguably reflect their union with him.

Matt 18:5 Whoever receives one such child in my name receives me, ...

With his use of the phrase "one such child", Jesus is often understood to be referring primarily to his followers, who should humble themselves like little children (cf. vv. 3-4).

Matt 25:35-40 For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me, ³⁶I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me.' ³⁷Then the righteous will answer him, saying, 'Lord, when did we see you hungry and feed you, or thirsty and give you drink? ³⁸And when did we see you a stranger and welcome you, or naked and clothe you? ³⁹And when did we see you sick or in prison and visit you?' ⁴⁰And the King will answer them, 'Truly, I say to you, as you did it to one of the least of these my brothers,^e you did it to me.'

^e Or brothers and sisters

The King in this parable represents Jesus Christ himself. Commentators generally interpret "these my brothers" to be referring to Christians. It has also been interpreted to refer to the poor in general and even to the Jews.

Acts 22:4-8 I persecuted this Way to the death, binding and delivering to prison both men and women, ⁵as the high priest and the whole council of elders can bear me witness. From them I received letters to the brothers, and I journeyed toward Damascus to take those also who were there and bring them in bonds to Jerusalem to be punished. ⁶"As I was on my way and drew near to Damascus, about noon a great light from heaven suddenly shone around me. ⁷And I fell to the ground and heard a voice saying to me, 'Saul, Saul, why are you persecuting me?' ⁸And I answered, 'Who are you, Lord?' And he said to me, 'I am Jesus of Nazareth, whom you are persecuting.'

Persecution of Jesus Christ's followers amounts to persecution of him.

Matt 10:40 Whoever receives you receives me, and whoever receives me receives him who sent me.

Here and in the following two verses listed (John 13:20; Luke 10:16) Jesus primarily has in view believers spreading his message, meaning that people's response to them and their message about him is effectively the people's response to him. As such in these verses Jesus is perhaps not as explicitly identifying himself with God's people in a general sense.

John 13:20 Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever receives the one I send receives me, and whoever receives me receives the one who sent me.

Luke 10:16 "The one who hears you hears me, and the one who rejects you rejects me, and the one who rejects me rejects him who sent me."

God's people live with Jesus Christ . . .

Rom 6:8 Now if we have died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him.

Note that here "live with him" is probably referring to the new spiritual life that Christians share in Christ now.

John 6:56 Whoever feeds on my flesh and drinks my blood abides in me, and I in him.

The "eating" of Jesus' "flesh" and "drinking" of his "blood" is metaphorical language alluding to dependence on Jesus' death. Jesus appears to teach that the result of such dependence is a reciprocal indwelling of a believer with him. He is at least referring to a very close spiritual association.

John 14:20 In that day you will know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you.

John 15:4 Abide in me, and I in you. As the branch cannot bear fruit by itself, unless it abides in the vine, neither can you, unless you abide in me.

John 17:23, 26 I in them and you in me, that they may become perfectly one, so that the world may know that you sent me and loved them even as you loved me.  ... ²⁶I made known to them your name, and I will continue to make it known, that the love with which you have loved me may be in them, and I in them.

2Cor 13:5 Examine yourselves, to see whether you are in the faith. Test yourselves. Or do you not realize this about yourselves, that Jesus Christ is in you?—unless indeed you fail to meet the test!

Gal 2:20 I have been crucified with Christ. It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me. And the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me.

Jesus Christ lives in believers through the presence of the Holy Spirit.

Col 1:27 To them God chose to make known how great among the Gentiles are the riches of the glory of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.

The phrase "Christ in you" denotes the personal experience of Jesus Christ dwelling within one, as indicated by the rendering "Christ lives in you" (CEV, NLT; cf. ZBC).

Col 3:11 Here there is not Greek and Jew, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave,^f free; but Christ is all, and in all.

^f Greek bondservant

With the final clause, Paul appears to have primarily in view Jesus Christ being in all believers (cf. CEV, NCV, NLT).

2Jn 1:9 Everyone who goes on ahead and does not abide in the teaching of Christ, does not have God. Whoever abides in the teaching has both the Father and the Son.

This indicates that in a sense both God and Jesus Christ are in believers (cf. 1Jn 5:20). This is understood to be a reality through the Holy Spirit's presence in believers.

Rom 8:9-10 You, however, are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if in fact the Spirit of God dwells in you. Anyone who does not have the Spirit of Christ does not belong to him. ¹⁰*But if Christ is in you, although the body is dead because of sin, the Spirit is life because of righteousness.*

As per the above comments on Galatians 2:20a and 2 John 1:9, this and Ephesians 3:16-17a below link the Holy Spirit living in a person with Jesus Christ living in them.

Eph 3:16-17 ... that according to the riches of his glory he may grant you to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in your inner being, ¹⁷so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith—that you, being rooted and grounded in love, ...

✦ Paul gave up all else to “gain Christ and be found in him”:

Phil 3:7-9 But whatever gain I had, I counted as loss for the sake of Christ. ⁸Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things and count them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ ⁹and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith—

Particularly with the subsequent reference to being found in Christ (v. 9a), the term “gain Christ” (v. 8b) may well be speaking of Christ indwelling believers in a spiritual sense, as per the theme of this subsection. Note that Paul's use of “gain” here may well allude to his earlier use of “gain” in v. 7, to contrast his “gain” of Christ with what he no longer considered as gain.

b) The Significance of Being 'in' Jesus Christ

Generally speaking at least, the spiritual standing and blessings that Christians have are based on them being “in” Jesus Christ, by which they are associated and even identified with him. As referred to earlier, this means that they are granted by God the standing and blessings that Jesus Christ has attained on behalf of those so associated with him.

Note that not all of the verses in the following subsections specifically refer to being in Jesus Christ, but they do at least speak of associated concepts.

“In” Jesus Christ God's people are saved

2Tim 2:10 Therefore I endure everything for the sake of the elect, that they also may obtain the salvation that is in Christ Jesus with eternal glory.

This may be meaning that salvation comes to those who are “in” or “belong to” (CEV) Jesus Christ – hence its inclusion here. However it could simply be referring to salvation coming through Jesus Christ (cf. GNT).

Eph 2:4-5 But⁸ God, being rich in mercy, because of the great love with which he loved us, ⁵even when we were dead in our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ—by grace you have been saved—

§ Or And

This indicates that we “have been saved” (v. 5b) through God having “made us alive together with Christ” (v. 5a) – i.e. God has made us alive in our relationship with Christ, or “in” Christ.

Gal 3:16, 29 Now the promises were made to Abraham and to his offspring. It does not say, “And to offsprings,” referring to many, but referring to one, “And to your offspring,” who is Christ.  ... ²⁹And if you are Christ's, then you are Abraham's offspring, heirs according to promise.

The reference to being Christ's (v. 29) can be linked with being “in” Christ. Due to this association with Christ, believers are Abraham's “offspring” and so are heirs “according to” and/or of the “promise” (v. 29) – or “promises” (v. 16) – made to Abraham and his offspring. The promise or promises referred to are not specified, but most likely matters associated with salvation are in view – quite possibly justification by faith (cf. vv. 6-9, v. 24), or the promise of receiving the Spirit by faith (cf. v. 14). Even various or all of the promises made to Abraham (v. 16, cf. v. 21) may be in view.

Eph 3:6 This mystery is^h that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel.

^h The words This mystery is are inferred from verse 4

Similar to Galatians 3:16, 29 above, what the “promise” refers to is not specified but most likely relates to an aspect of salvation in the saving work of the Messiah. As such this also points to the fact that in Jesus Christ believers are saved.

‡ In Jesus Christ, those who were far off have been “brought near”:

Eph 2:12-13 ...remember that you were at that time separated from Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. ¹³But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ.

In v. 13 “brought near” may be talking of being brought near to God (cf. v. 12) – as a number of other translations stipulate or imply – alluding to reconciliation with God. Alternatively it may be referring to being brought near to Israel and “the covenants of the promise” (v. 13). Both possibilities are associated with salvation, which is obtained in Jesus Christ as v. 13 implies.

“In” Jesus Christ they have righteousness and are redeemed

1Cor 1:30 And because of himⁱ you are in Christ Jesus, who became to us wisdom from God, righteousness and sanctification and redemption, ...

ⁱ Greek And from him

This suggests that by being in Jesus Christ believers are afforded “righteousness and sanctification and redemption.”

Rom 8:10 But if Christ is in you, although the body is dead because of sin, the Spirit is life because of righteousness.

This associates union with Jesus Christ with righteousness – as well as having the Holy Spirit and spiritual life.

2Cor 5:21 For our sake he made him to be sin who knew no sin, so that in him we might become the righteousness of God.

Phil 3:8-9 Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things and count them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ⁹ and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith—

Paul is saying that righteousness comes through faith, but in conjunction with this he links righteousness with being in Jesus Christ.

Eph 1:7 In him we have redemption through his blood, the forgiveness of our trespasses, according to the riches of his grace, ...

Col 1:13-14 He has delivered us from the domain of darkness and transferred us to the kingdom of his beloved Son, ¹⁴in whom we have redemption, the forgiveness of sins.

1Cor 1:2 To the church of God that is in Corinth, to those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints together with all those who in every place call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, both their Lord and ours: ...

Eph 1:4a ... even as he chose us in him before the foundation of the world, that we should be holy and blameless before him.

This suggests that it is through being in Christ that God's people are holy and blameless.

1Jn 3:6 No one who abides in him keeps on sinning; no one who keeps on sinning has either seen him or known him.

One who lives in Christ does not keep on or persistently go on sinning. As one's relationship with Christ deepens, the hold of sin on them diminishes. This speaks of sanctification in the ongoing sense.

Eph 5:8 ... for at one time you were darkness, but now you are light in the Lord. Walk as children of light ...

Christians no longer live in the "darkness" of sin but now, in the Lord, they are "light". As such this points to their sanctification.

^k Greek man

^l Greek has been justified

Being "baptized into Christ" (v. 3) signifies the union of the believer with Christ. In v. 5, the phrases "a death like his" and "a resurrection like his" appear to refer to "the likeness of His death" and "the likeness of His resurrection" (NASB), which perhaps more closely associate the believer's death to sin and spiritual resurrection with those of Christ, as per the context. Verse 10a appears to be indicating that because Christ died, sin now "has no power over him" (GNT; cf. v. 10b) – meaning that those who are "in Christ" have also died to sin (v. 11), sin thus losing its stranglehold on them. One implication of this is that Christ has defeated the power of sin (cf. NCV, NLT).

Col 2:11-14 In him also you were circumcised with a circumcision made without hands, by putting off the body of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ, ¹²*having been buried with him in baptism, in which you were also raised with him through faith in the powerful working of God, who raised him from the dead.* ¹³*And you, who were dead in your trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, God made alive together with him, having forgiven us all our trespasses,* ¹⁴*by canceling the record of debt that stood against us with its legal demands. This he set aside, nailing it to the cross.*

Verses 11-12 speak of one's sinful nature being cut off through one being buried and raised with Christ. Following on from this, Paul speaks of believers being given life with Christ (v. 13). In v. 14, "the record of debt that stood against us with its legal demands" appears to portray a record of our sins with the corresponding "legal demands" of the law which we have broken. Paul may be implying that Christ cancelled not only our sins but also the "legal demands" of the law, releasing us from the law. The passage suggests that this cancellation is due to believers' association with Christ.

Rom 7:4-6 Likewise, my brothers, you also have died to the law through the body of Christ, so that you may belong to another, to him who has been raised from the dead, in order that we may bear fruit for God. ⁵*For while we were living in the flesh, our sinful passions, aroused by the law, were at* work in our members to bear fruit for death. ⁶But now we are released from the law, having died to that which held us captive, so that we serve in the new way of the Spirit and not in the old way of the written code.^m

^m Greek of the letter

Verse 4a is saying that as “part of the body of Christ” (CEV, GNT), in a spiritual sense believers died with Christ (cf. NLT) and so are dead to the law “which held us captive” (v. 6a) – released from it to “serve in the new way of the Spirit” (v. 6b). Note that the believer’s union with Christ appears to continue to be in view in v. 4b, and thus Paul probably alludes to their spiritual identification with Christ in him being raised from the dead, whereby being spiritually alive they can “bear fruit for God” (cf. v. 6b).

Gal 2:19-20 For through the law I died to the law, so that I might live to God. ²⁰I have been crucified with Christ. It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me. And the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me.

In saying that “through the law” he died to the law (v. 19), Paul may be meaning that in accordance with the law and the penalty of death that it demands for sin, he has died – in being crucified with Christ (v. 20) – and by dying he has been released from the realm of the law. Alternatively Paul may have in view the law’s role in leading one to Christ, in whom one has died to the law.

Rom 8:1-2 There is therefore now no condemnation for those who are in Christ Jesus.ⁿ ²For the law of the Spirit of life has set you^o free in Christ Jesus from the law of sin and death.

ⁿ Some manuscripts add who walk not according to the flesh (but according to the Spirit)

^o Some manuscripts me

For an explanation of the phrase “the law of sin and death”, see the comment on Rom 8:2-3 – under We have been freed from the law to live by the Holy Spirit, p. 1073.

Gal 2:4 Yet because of false brothers secretly brought in—who slipped in to spy out our freedom that we have in Christ Jesus, so that they might bring us into slavery—

Freedom from the OT law is in view here.

... This identification also has other implications – present and future

This subsection speaks of further implications of Christians – through their position “in” Jesus Christ – being identified with Christ in his death, resurrection and life. These implications relate to both present and future aspects of their lives – including their own resurrection.

2Cor 4:10-11 ... always carrying in the body the death of Jesus, so that the life of Jesus may also be manifested in our bodies.

¹¹For we who live are always being given over to death for Jesus’ sake, so that the life of Jesus also may be manifested in our mortal flesh.

Paul alludes to the sufferings he undergoes for Jesus’ sake (v. 11a), by which he identifies with and shares in – metaphorically speaking – the death of Jesus (v. 10a). In both verses Paul says he does this so that the power of Jesus Christ’s resurrection life may be revealed in his fragile, mortal body. The believer’s union with Christ is clearly in view.

2Cor 13:4 For he was crucified in weakness, but lives by the power of God. For we also are weak in him, but in dealing with you we will live with him by the power of God.

The phrase “crucified in weakness” is probably a reference to Jesus’ death, with “weakness” alluding to either his humanity or his submissiveness and meekness. In Christ, Paul similarly was “weak”. This is a reference to Paul’s apparent non-assertiveness on his previous visit to Corinth and quite possibly to emulating the submissiveness and meekness of Christ (cf. 10:1). Additionally, in view of the earlier clause “he was crucified in weakness”, “we also are weak in him” may allude to the believer’s identification with Jesus Christ in his death. Despite such weakness, Paul asserts that by God’s power he lived with Christ. This implies that he shared in the power of God that Christ lives by – with God’s power working through him in his service of others.

Col 2:20 If with Christ you died to the elemental spirits of the world, why, as if you were still alive in the world, do you submit to regulations—

The term “the elemental spirits of the world” quite possibly has in view “the evil powers of this world” (NLT; cf. CEV, GNT, NCV). Alternatively, “elementary principles” (NASB; cf. AMP, NIV) born of the thinking of this world may be in view. With either possibility, in the context Paul is clearly using the expression to refer to the influence – demonic and/or worldly – apparent in people’s adherence to the false teaching of asceticism, which involved strict, rigorous rules (cf. v. 21). In Christ believers have died to both evil powers and worldly wisdom – and thus should not needlessly submit to any such rules propagated by them.

Eph 2:4-7 But^p God, being rich in mercy, because of the great love with which he loved us, ⁵even when we were dead in our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ—by grace you have been saved— ⁶and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, ⁷so that in the coming ages he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus.

^p Or And

In v. 6, what is true of Jesus Christ in the present is applied to believers in a secondary, spiritual sense. Being "in" Christ – in addition to participating now with him in his risen life (v. 5) – believers are in a spiritual sense positioned with him in heaven (cf. Col 3:1-4 ↓). The consummation of this with its wonderful blessings will take place in the afterlife (v. 7).

Col 3:1-4 If then you have been raised with Christ, seek the things that are above, where Christ is, seated at the right hand of God. ²Set your minds on things that are above, not on things that are on earth. ³For you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God. ⁴When Christ who is your^a life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory. ☞

^a Some manuscripts our

The phrase "hidden with Christ in God" (v. 3) suggests that through the believer's spiritual union with Christ they are "in God" in a spiritual sense, by virtue of Christ's relationship with the Father. Similar to Ephesians 2:6-7 above, the believer's "position" in heaven "with Christ" may well be in view throughout this passage, particularly with its consummation being spoken of in v. 4.

1Cor 15:22-23 For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive. ²³But each in his own order: Christ the firstfruits, then at his coming those who belong to Christ. ☞

Verse 2 parallels all people's identification and union with Adam, in which they die, with believers' identification and union with Jesus Christ, in which they will be made alive – as he has been (v. 23).

2Cor 4:14 ... knowing that he who raised the Lord Jesus will raise us also with Jesus and bring us with you into his presence. ☞

The believer's union with Christ is apparent here. As God raised Jesus Christ from the dead, he will raise those who are "with Jesus".

2Tim 2:11 The saying is trustworthy, for: If we have died with him, we will also live with him; ... ☞

Commentators differ on whether "we will also live with him" refers to the Christian's spiritual life in him now or to living with Christ in heaven. Arguably the context suggests that the latter is in view (cf. vv. 10, 12).

"In" Jesus Christ God's people are given God's grace

1Cor 1:4-5 I give thanks to my God always for you because of the grace of God that was given you in Christ Jesus, ⁵that in every way you were enriched in him in all speech and all knowledge— ☞

Eph 1:6 ... to the praise of his glorious grace, with which he has blessed us in the Beloved. ☞

The phrase "in the Beloved" may well be referring to believers being "in Jesus Christ" – hence the verse's inclusion here. But it could alternatively be speaking of what God has done in the work of Jesus Christ. (The same could be said of "in Christ Jesus" in the following verses.)

Eph 2:7 ... so that in the coming ages he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus. ☞

^s Greek before times eternal

2Tim 2:1 You then, my child, be strengthened by the grace that is in Christ Jesus, ... ☞

Arguably this most likely refers to grace from God (cf. NLT), although Jesus Christ himself may be in view as the source of the grace (cf. CEV). Probably the believer's union with Christ is again being spoken of (cf. GNT).

Rom 1:4b-5 Jesus Christ our Lord, ⁵through whom we have received grace and apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith for the sake of his name among all the nations, ... ☞

Phil 4:7 And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus. ☞

1Pet 5:14b Peace to all of you who are in Christ. ☞

1Tim 1:14 ... and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus. ☞

This appears to be speaking of the faith and love "that are [to be realized] in Christ Jesus" (AMP), "in union with Christ Jesus" (GNT). However it has also been interpreted as referring to this faith and love as coming from or being of Jesus Christ (cf. NIRV, NLT). A similar comment could be made regarding faith and love in 2 Timothy 1:13 below.

2Tim 1:13 Follow the pattern of the sound^t words that you have heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus.

✦ Christians are filled with the fruit of righteousness through Jesus Christ:

Phil 1:10-11 ... so that you may approve what is excellent, and so be pure and blameless for the day of Christ, ¹¹*filled with the fruit of righteousness that comes through Jesus Christ, to the glory and praise of God*.

Note that this is speaking of “the fruit of righteousness” coming through Christ (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV, NKJV, NLT) as opposed to speaking of righteousness coming through him.

“In” Jesus Christ God’s people have eternal life

See also:

▪ Col 3:3-4

Rom 6:23 For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord.

1Thes 4:16-17 For the Lord himself will descend from heaven with a cry of command, with the voice of an archangel, and with the sound of the trumpet of God. And the dead in Christ will rise first. ¹⁷Then we who are alive, who are left, will be caught up together with them in the clouds to meet the Lord in the air, and so we will always be with the Lord.

While v. 17 does not specifically speak of the believers who have not died as being “in” Christ, it does associate them with “the dead in Christ” (v. 16b) and so arguably does imply this. As such these verses reflect that all those who are in Christ will always live with him, and thus have eternal life.

1Cor 15:22 For as in Adam all die, so also in Christ shall all be made alive.

2Tim 2:11 The saying is trustworthy, for: If we have died with him, we will also live with him; ...

1Jn 5:11-12 And this is the testimony, that God gave us eternal life, and this life is in his Son. ¹²*Whoever has the Son has life; whoever does not have the Son of God does not have life*.

Verse 11 may be speaking of eternal life having its source in Jesus Christ (cf. GNT), rather than being realized through one being “in” him. However v. 12 certainly has the believer’s union with Christ in view.

2Tim 1:1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus by the will of God according to the promise of the life that is in Christ Jesus, ...

This may be referring to the promise of life – inclusive of eternal life – that one has “in union with Christ Jesus” (GNT). Alternatively, “in Christ” may more generally have a meaning akin to “because of Christ”.

✦ With Christ in believers, the Spirit brings life:

Rom 8:10 But if Christ is in you, although the body is dead because of sin, the Spirit is life because of righteousness.

Believers have now spiritual life – equated with eternal life – through their relationship to Christ and the associated presence of the Holy Spirit (cf. v. 9). Such life is theirs in Christ on the basis of the righteousness that they have been granted.

“In” Jesus Christ they will have glory and other blessings in the afterlife

Col 3:3-4 For you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God. ⁴*When Christ who is your^a life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory*.

^a Some manuscripts our

Col 1:27 To them God chose to make known how great among the Gentiles are the riches of the glory of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.

Because of their union with Jesus Christ, believers have the hope of glory.

1Pet 5:10 And after you have suffered a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal glory in Christ, will himself restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish you.

Eph 1:3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, who has blessed us in Christ with every spiritual blessing in the heavenly places, ...

The phrase “in the heavenly places” may well be indicating that the blessings spoken of are ones that we will experience in the afterlife, although they have already been designated to us. However, possibly the phrase may be emphasizing the heavenly and eternal dimension of spiritual blessings that we have now.

Eph 1:11 In him we have obtained an inheritance, having been predestined according to the purpose of him who works all things according to the counsel of his will, ...

Eph 2:6-7 ... and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, ⁷so that in the coming ages he might show the immeasurable riches of his grace in kindness toward us in Christ Jesus.

As referred to earlier, that which God has granted us in Jesus Christ will come to fulfillment in the coming ages, perpetually displaying the incomparable riches of God's grace to us in Christ.

Phil 3:14 I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus.

Rev 14:13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Write this: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on." "Blessed indeed," says the Spirit, "that they may rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them!"

Those who die in the Lord will be blessed in the afterlife with the rewards for their deeds (cf. CEV). Note that this is speaking of those who die in the great tribulation, but its teaching is applicable to all Christians.

✦ Those who continue in Jesus Christ will be confident and unashamed on his return:

1Jn 2:28 And now, little children, abide in him, so that when he appears we may have confidence and not shrink from him in shame at his coming.

Further blessings of being "in" Jesus Christ

John 15:5-7 I am the vine; you are the branches. Whoever abides in me and I in him, he it is that bears much fruit, for apart from me you can do nothing. ⁶If anyone does not abide in me he is thrown away like a branch and withers; and the branches are gathered, thrown into the fire, and burned. ⁷*If you abide in me, and my words abide in you, ask whatever you wish, and it will be done for you.*

Rom 8:10 But if Christ is in you, although the body is dead because of sin, the Spirit is life because of righteousness.

Paul may well have in view that through our union with Christ we have God's gift of the Holy Spirit – as spoken of below in Ephesians 1:13 and possibly also Philippians 2:1.

1Cor 1:4-5 I give thanks to my God always for you because of the grace of God that was given you in Christ Jesus, ⁵*that in every way you were enriched in him in all speech and all knowledge—*

Gal 3:25-26 But now that faith has come, we are no longer under a guardian, ²⁶*for in Christ Jesus you are all sons of God, through faith.*

Eph 1:13 In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit, ...

In Christ God's people have been sealed with the Holy Spirit.

Eph 3:11-12 This was according to the eternal purpose that he has realized in Christ Jesus our Lord, ¹²in whom we have boldness and access with confidence through our faith in him.

This speaks of "access" into God's presence.

Phil 2:1-2 So if there is any encouragement in Christ, any comfort from love, any participation in the Spirit, any affection and sympathy, ²*complete my joy by being of the same mind, having the same love, being in full accord and of one mind.*

Note that here Paul may imply that together with other believers in Christ there is not only encouragement, but also the subsequent things he lists – i.e. "comfort from love, ... participation in the Spirit, ... affection and sympathy".

Col 2:9-10 For in him the whole fullness of deity dwells bodily, ¹⁰*and you have been filled in him*, who is the head of all rule and authority.

In Jesus Christ dwells "God's whole nature" (NlrV®). Through their union with him believers share in this fullness; in a spiritual sense they are "complete" (NKJV, NLT).

1Jn 5:20 And we know that the Son of God has come and has given us understanding, so that we may know him who is true; and we are in him who is true, in his Son Jesus Christ. He is the true God and eternal life.

This indicates that God's people are in God through being in Jesus Christ.

2Cor 2:14 But thanks be to God, who in Christ always leads us in triumphal procession, and through us spreads the fragrance of the knowledge of him everywhere.

Paul alludes to the practice of victorious Roman generals leading their soldiers and captives in a triumphant procession, where the air was filled with sweet aroma, in describing God triumphantly spreading the gospel through him in Christ. Although in being part of this we ourselves may not always feel triumphant, it is certainly a privilege, accompanied by many other blessings.

John 13:8 Peter said to him, "You shall never wash my feet." Jesus answered him, "If I do not wash you, you have no share with me."

This reflects that because of the believer's identification with Christ, they will have a "share with" him – which quite possibly refers to or is inclusive of having a part with him in such things as his glory and kingdom.

✦ Being "in" Christ also entails hardship:

Rev 1:9 I, John, your brother and partner in the tribulation and the kingdom and the patient endurance that are in Jesus, was on the island called Patmos on account of the word of God and the testimony of Jesus.

This shows that along with incomparable blessings such as the kingdom, being in Christ also entails hardship.

1Cor 12:13 For in one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—Jews or Greeks, slaves^v or free—and all were made to drink of one Spirit.

^v Or servants; Greek bondservants

The "one body" is the body of believers. Believers are one body in which they share in the "one Spirit". The following references indicate that it is in Jesus Christ that all these groups are made one body (cf. v. 12).

Gal 3:28 There is neither Jew nor Greek, there is neither slave^w nor free, there is no male and female, for you are all one in Christ Jesus.

^w Greek bondservant

Oneness in Jesus Christ takes primacy over all distinctions. In him "there is no difference" (GNT, NCV) between contrasting groups such as Jews and Gentiles, slaves and free people, and males and females. For no group is spiritually superior to another, and all are equal before God (cf. Eph 6:8-9). Note that the use of "Greek" as opposed to "Jew", appears to denote all Gentiles.

Eph 2:11-20 Therefore remember that at one time you Gentiles in the flesh, called "the uncircumcision" by what is called the circumcision, which is made in the flesh by hands—¹²remember that you were at that time separated from Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. ¹³But now in Christ Jesus you who once were far off have been brought near by the blood of Christ. ¹⁴For he himself is our peace, who has made us both one and has broken down in his flesh the dividing wall of hostility ¹⁵by abolishing the law of commandments expressed in ordinances, that he might create in himself one new man in place of the two, so making peace, ¹⁶and might reconcile us both to God in one body through the cross, thereby killing the hostility. ¹⁷And he came and preached peace to you who were far off and peace to those who were near. ¹⁸For through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father. ¹⁹So then you are no longer strangers and aliens,^x but you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, ²⁰built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the cornerstone, ...

^x Or sojourners

Note that the references to "peace" and "hostility" (vv. 14-17) are probably referring to that between Gentiles and Jews, rather than between them and God – although some commentators would debate this in respect to v. 17 at least.

Eph 3:6 This mystery is^y that the Gentiles are fellow heirs, members of the same body, and partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through the gospel.

^y The words This mystery is are inferred from verse 4

Note that commentators differ somewhat on what "the promise" refers to, but it seems clear that it is a promise relating to the saving work of the Messiah.

Col 3:11 Here there is not Greek and Jew, circumcised and uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian, slave,^z free; but Christ is all, and in all.

^z Greek bondservant

"Christ is all, and in all" points to Christ as being that which unifies his people, making them one body. For Jesus Christ is "all that matters, and he lives in all of us" (CEV, NLT). Note that in addition to "Greek", Gentiles are also referred to here by the terms "uncircumcised, barbarian, Scythian" – with the latter two speaking of uncivilized Gentiles in particular, in contrast to "Greek".

... The church is in fact the body of Christ

See also:

- Participating in the Lord's Supper also symbolizes participating in the blood and body of Jesus Christ, p. 1444

The term "the body of Christ" figuratively depicts the spiritual union of Jesus Christ with his people. As such it points to the oneness Christ's people have together in their relationship with him. Note that references to the church in this and the following subsections, are generally applicable both to the worldwide church as a whole and to each individual church.

1Cor 12:27 Now you are the body of Christ and individually members of it.

Eph 5:23, 30-32 For the husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church, his body, and is himself its Savior.  ... ³⁰*because we are members of his body.* ³¹*Therefore a man shall leave his father and mother and hold fast to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh.* ³²*This mystery is profound, and I am saying that it refers to Christ and the church.*

The profound mystery (v. 32) is the union of Christ with the church, which is what the quotation in v. 31 is used to illustrate, drawing a marked parallel of this union with that of husband and wife becoming one body.

Eph 1:22-23 And he put all things under his feet and gave him as head over all things to the church, ²³*which is his body, the fullness of him who fills all in all.*

The phrase "the fullness of him" (v. 23) has a few possible meanings. It may mean that: the church is filled by Christ's presence and/or by the blessings he gives it; the fullness of Christ is manifested in the church; or the church is the complement of Christ, in a sense the completion of what he represents.

Col 1:24 Now I rejoice in my sufferings for your sake, and in my flesh I am filling up what is lacking in Christ's afflictions for the sake of his body, that is, the church, ...

1Cor 6:15 Do you not know that your bodies are members of Christ? Shall I then take the members of Christ and make them members of a prostitute? Never!

Our bodies are parts of "the body of Christ" (GNT, CEV).

✦ Believers are added to Jesus Christ:

Acts 5:14 And more than ever believers were added to the Lord, multitudes of both men and women, ...

This reflects and possibly even has in view the fact that believers form the body of Christ.

With the phrase "individually members one of another" (cf. Eph 4:25 ) Paul may have in view the fact that believers are "mutually dependent on one another" (AMP; cf. NLT).

1Cor 12:12-14, 18-20 For just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with Christ. ¹³*For in one Spirit we were all*

Throughout this passage Paul draws parallels between the human body with its many parts and the body of Christ which likewise has many different parts.

1Cor 10:16-17 The cup of blessing that we bless, is it not a participation in the blood of Christ? The bread that we break, is it not a participation in the body of Christ? ¹⁷Because there is one bread, we who are many are one body, for we all partake of the one bread. ☞

When believers participate in the Lord's Supper, sharing the one loaf of bread signifies that each of them is a part of the one body.

Eph 4:4, 25 There is one body and one Spirit—just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call ☞ ... ²⁵Therefore, having put away falsehood, let each one of you speak the truth with his neighbor, for we are members one of another. ☞

^d The Greek words for Peter and rock sound similar

^e Greek the gates of Hades

Note that “Peter” – the new name given here by Jesus to Simon – sounds like “rock” (cf. text note). This points to Peter's leadership role in Jesus Christ's building of his church. The “gates of hell” may be speaking of “all the powers of hell” (NLT; cf. AMP) that are opposed to Jesus Christ and his church – or, more specifically, death (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV).

Heb 3:3 For Jesus has been counted worthy of more glory than Moses—as much more glory as the builder of a house has more honor than the house itself. ☞

This implies that Jesus Christ is the builder of God's house, which probably refers to the household of God's people although some think it could denote all creation. In contrast Moses was just a part of the house, a servant in it (cf. v. 5).

Note that v. 22 may be speaking of church members “being built together” “by the Holy Spirit”. But “by the Holy Spirit” may instead be speaking of how God dwells in the church (cf. GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

ⁱ Greek to a full-grown man

The grace given (v. 7) refers to the gifts (v. 11) that Christ has given his people, to build up his body (v. 12). In v. 13, “to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ” refers to becoming more like Christ. In v. 15, “grow up ... into him” could have a similar meaning, but more likely means to grow into a deeper union with Christ.

Eph 5:25-30 Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her, ²⁶that he might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word, ²⁷so that he might present the church to himself in splendor, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, that she might be holy and without blemish.^j ²⁸In the same way husbands should love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. ²⁹For no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as Christ does the church, ³⁰because we are members of his body. ☞

^j Or holy and blameless

A primary aspect of Jesus Christ's work in building up the church was/is making it holy (vv. 25-27). The phrase "washing of water" (v. 26) is understood by some to be a reference to baptism, but more often it is seen simply as a description of Christ's cleansing of the church – which is vital to its growth – through its exposure to God's word (v. 26).

Col 2:19 ... and not holding fast to the Head, from whom the whole body, nourished and knit together through its joints and ligaments, grows with a growth that is from God.

Note that this speaks of God producing the growth of the church, with Jesus Christ being the basis or source of its growth.

John 17:22-23 The glory that you have given me I have given to them, that they may be one even as we are one, ²³I in them and you in me, that they may become perfectly one, so that the world may know that you sent me and loved them even as you loved me.

Jesus enables believers to be one just as he and God are one. Regarding the use of "glory", there are various interpretations of what it is referring to here. These include: Christ's glorious reconciliatory work, given to believers to continue doing; Christ's manifestation in believers; and the eternal glory that will be consummated in heaven.

2Cor 3:3 And you show that you are a letter from Christ delivered by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts.^k

^k Greek fleshly hearts

The "letter from Christ" is the Corinthian Church. The terminology points to them being one entity, formed by Christ – in Paul's ministry and through the Holy Spirit.

Zec 6:11-13 Take from them silver and gold, and make a crown, and set it on the head of Joshua, the son of Jehozadak, the high priest. ¹²And say to him, "Thus says the LORD of hosts, "Behold, the man whose name is the Branch: for he shall branch out from his place, and he shall build the temple of the LORD. ¹³*It is he who shall build the temple of the LORD and shall bear royal honor, and shall sit and rule on his throne. And there shall be a priest on his throne, and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.*"

This crowning of the high priest is understood to be symbolic, portraying the messianic King-Priest who would build the temple of God. This "temple" is quite possibly a reference to the church – making the verse pertinent to this subsection – although some consider a millennial temple to be in view.

... and Jesus Christ is the cornerstone of the church

Acts 4:11 This Jesus^l is the stone that was rejected by you, the builders, which has become the cornerstone.^m

^m Greek the head of the corner

Although rejected by the Jewish religious leaders (cf. 1Pet 2:4 ↓), Jesus Christ became the cornerstone of God's church – the most important and honored stone in the structure. The metaphor alludes to such roles as: being the key element in the building's foundation (cf. 1Cor 3:9-11 ↓), holding the building together; and setting the direction for the building's design and growth.

Eph 2:19-21 So then you are no longer strangers and aliens,ⁿ but you are fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, ²⁰*built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Christ Jesus himself being the cornerstone,* ²¹*in whom the whole structure, being joined together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord.*

ⁿ Or sojourners

1Pet 2:4-8 As you come to him, a living stone rejected by men but in the sight of God chosen and precious, ⁵*you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ.* ⁶For it stands in Scripture: "Behold, I am laying in Zion a stone, a cornerstone chosen and precious, and whoever believes in him will not be put to shame." ⁷So the honor is for you who believe, but for those who do not believe, "The stone that the builders rejected has become the cornerstone,"^o ⁸and "A stone of stumbling, and a rock of offense." They stumble because they disobey the word, as they were destined to do.

^o Greek the head of the corner

With Christ as the living cornerstone (vv. 4, 6, 7), believers "like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house" (v. 5). Note that regarding the term "the honor", most other modern translations interpret the Greek to refer to the stone being "precious" or of great value to believers (v. 7a) – as he is to God (v. 4b) – because he is the "precious" cornerstone" (v. 6) of the "spiritual house" (v. 5), the one in whom they can trust (v. 6).

1Cor 3:9-11 For we are God's fellow workers. You are God's field, God's building. ¹⁰According to the grace of God given to me, like a skilled master builder I laid a foundation, and someone else is building upon it. Let each one take care how he builds upon it. ¹¹*For no one can lay a foundation other than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ.*

Akin to being its cornerstone, Jesus Christ is the foundation of God's building, the church.

✦ Christ is like a vine with believers as the branches:

John 15:5 I am the vine; you are the branches. Whoever abides in me and I in him, he it is that bears much fruit, for apart from me you can do nothing.

This reflects the fact that Jesus Christ is the cornerstone of the church, portraying him as being that on which the church is based and revolves around.

Jesus Christ is the head of the church body

See also:

- Jesus Christ is the church's Lord and ruler, p. 774
- ... and Jesus Christ is the cornerstone of the church, p. 791

As the head of his body, the church, Christ is its ruler and leader – and the key factor in its life and growth.

Col 1:18 And he is the head of the body, the church. He is the beginning, the firstborn from the dead, that in everything he might be preeminent.

Eph 4:15-16 Rather, speaking the truth in love, we are to grow up in every way into him who is the head, into Christ, ¹⁶from whom the whole body, joined and held together by every joint with which it is equipped, when each part is working properly, makes the body grow so that it builds itself up in love.

Eph 5:23 For the husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church, his body, and is himself its Savior.

Col 2:19 ... and not holding fast to the Head, from whom the whole body, nourished and knit together through its joints and ligaments, grows with a growth that is from God.

The "Head" of the body clearly refers to Jesus Christ.

✦ Jesus Christ is the head of every man in the church:

1Cor 11:3 But I want you to understand that the head of every man is Christ, the head of a wife^p is her husband, and the head of Christ is God.

^p Greek gunē. This term may refer to a woman or a wife, depending on the context

This points to Jesus Christ's headship over all individuals in his body.

Jesus Christ is portrayed as the husband of the church

See also:

- 1Cor 11:3

Jesus Christ's portrayal as the husband of the church points to both his headship of it and his oneness with it (cf. Gen 2:24 et al.).

2Cor 11:2 For I feel a divine jealousy for you, since I betrothed you to one husband, to present you as a pure virgin to Christ.

Paul is speaking to the Corinthian church.

Eph 5:23-32 For the husband is the head of the wife even as Christ is the head of the church, his body, and is himself its Savior. ²⁴Now as the church submits to Christ, so also wives should submit in everything to their husbands. ²⁵Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her, ²⁶that he might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word, ²⁷so that he might present the church to himself in splendor, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, that she might be holy and without blemish.^a ²⁸In the same way husbands should love their wives as their own bodies. He who loves his wife loves himself. ²⁹For no one ever hated his own flesh, but nourishes and cherishes it, just as Christ does the church, ³⁰because we are members of his body. ³¹Therefore a man shall leave his father and mother and hold fast to his wife, and the two shall become one flesh.^b ³²This mystery is profound, and I am saying that it refers to Christ and the church.

^a Or holy and blameless

Here Paul draws a number of parallels between a husband's relationship to his wife and Jesus Christ's relationship with the church, portraying Jesus Christ as an ideal husband with the church as his wife. In v. 27, the reference to the "splendor" of the church alludes to a bride in her splendor. As noted earlier, in v. 32 Paul indicates that in v. 31 he has Christ's union with the church primarily in view.

Rev 19:7-9 Let us rejoice and exult and give him the glory, for the marriage of the Lamb has come, and his Bride has made herself ready; ⁸it was granted her to clothe herself with fine linen, bright and pure"—for the fine linen is the righteous deeds of the saints. ⁹And the angel said^r to me, "Write this: Blessed are those who are invited to the marriage supper of the Lamb." And he said to me, "These are the true words of God."

^r Greek he said

The "Lamb" is Jesus Christ, and the "bride" likely represents God's people – "the saints" (v. 8). These verses look forward to the consummation of Jesus Christ's relationship or union with his people, associated with the consummation of their salvation at the end of the age.

Matt 9:15 And Jesus said to them, "Can the wedding guests mourn as long as the bridegroom is with them? The days will come when the bridegroom is taken away from them, and then they will fast.

Jesus is here referring to himself as a bridegroom. (His disciples are the guests and the "days" when he would be taken from them refers to his death.) Arguably this alludes to his people as a whole as his bride (cf. John 3:29 ↓).

John 3:29 The one who has the bride is the bridegroom. The friend of the bridegroom, who stands and hears him, rejoices greatly at the bridegroom's voice. Therefore this joy of mine is now complete.

Here John the Baptist parallels the roles of Jesus and himself with the roles of a bridegroom and a friend. In speaking of a bridegroom and a bride, John possibly is alluding to Jesus' relationship with his people.

✦ The new Jerusalem as a bride beautifully dressed for her husband:

Rev 21:2, 9-10 And I saw the holy city, new Jerusalem, coming down out of heaven from God, prepared as a bride adorned for her husband. ... ⁹Then came one of the seven angels who had the seven bowls full of the seven last plagues and spoke to me, saying, "Come, I will show you the Bride, the wife of the Lamb." ¹⁰And he carried me away in the Spirit to a great, high mountain, and showed me the holy city Jerusalem coming down out of heaven from God, ...

Partially in view of the new Jerusalem being the future dwelling place of God's people, some commentators view this depiction of it as a bride beautifully dressed for her husband to be a portrayal of God's people as Christ's bride (vv. 2, 9; cf. 22:17).

God, Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit take a critical role in establishing and maintaining unity and peace in the church body, which is made up of many different parts. In reading the following passages, bear in mind that amongst the references below to unity in the church are references to a unity of form and function as well as to a unity of spirit.

2Chr 30:12 The hand of God was also on Judah to give them one heart to do what the king and the princes commanded by the word of the LORD.

God's work here in giving unity of mind to the people of Israel is illustrative of his work in the church.

Rom 15:5-6 May the God of endurance and encouragement grant you to live in such harmony with one another, in accord with Christ Jesus,⁶ that together you may with one voice glorify the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.

1Cor 12:7, 12-13 To each is given the manifestation of the Spirit for the common good. ... ¹²For just as the body is one and has many members, and all the members of the body, though many, are one body, so it is with Christ. ¹³For in one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—Jews or Greeks, slaves^s or free—and all were made to drink of one Spirit.

Verse 7 speaks of spiritual gifts being given by the Holy Spirit (cf. vv. 4-6, 11 ↓) for the good of the church as a whole. These gifts from the Spirit and the Spirit's role in believers becoming part of the church body (v. 13), illustrate the Holy Spirit's part in fostering a unity amongst the many members in form and function. For as such the church is able to exist as a unit or single body (v. 12).

1Cor 12:24b-25 But God has so composed the body, giving greater honor to the part that lacked it,²⁵ that there may be no division in the body, but that the members may have the same care for one another.

That which we have from or with Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit (v. 1) should spur church members on to unity (v. 2).

^x Or brothers and sisters

^y Or listen to my appeal

The phrase “the God of love and peace” may well be alluding to God as the one who gives love and peace (cf. AMP, CEV, Nlrv), suggesting that the aforementioned unity and peace comes from him.

2Thes 3:16 Now may the Lord of peace himself give you peace at all times in every way. The Lord be with you all.

This is probably speaking primarily of Jesus Christ giving peace or harmony amongst the believers as a church.

Col 3:15 And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in one body. And be thankful.

The reference here is to relationships with other believers, in which they should seek after Christ’s “peace” in working out differences.

✦ The kingdom of God is characterized by righteousness, peace and joy in the Holy Spirit:

Rom 14:17 For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking but of righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.

This is from a passage dealing with matters of church harmony. The implication is that in and through the Holy Spirit, the church should be characterized by peace (along with righteousness and joy).

The church’s unity is linked with it having one God, one Lord and one Spirit

1Cor 12:4-6, 11 Now there are varieties of gifts, but the same Spirit; ⁵and there are varieties of service, but the same Lord;

⁶and there are varieties of activities, but it is the same God who empowers them all in everyone. ... ¹¹All these are empowered by one and the same Spirit, who apportions to each one individually as he wills.

Verses 4-6 speak of the different spiritual gifts given to church members and their different applications all having a unity in their source, function and purpose – in accordance with the same Spirit, Lord and God being behind them. Verse 1 further underlines that there is one Spirit involved (cf. v. 13) in these gifts.

Eph 2:18 For through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father.

The unity of Gentile and Jewish believers in Christ (cf. vv. 14-17) is alluded to here with Paul saying that it is by “one Spirit” that they both can have access to God.

Eph 4:3-6 ... eager to maintain the unity of the Spirit in the bond of peace. ⁴There is one body and one Spirit—just as you were called to the one hope that belongs to your call— ⁵one Lord, one faith, one baptism, ⁶one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all.

The reference to “one Spirit... one Lord... one God and Father of all” (vv. 4-6) – along with other singular elements of the faith – reinforces the call (v. 3) and need for unity. The coupling of the term “one Spirit” with “one body” (v. 4) may well be intended to underline the Holy Spirit’s role in facilitating the spiritual life and unity of the body – as per the theme of the previous subsection – reinforcing the earlier reference to “the unity of the Spirit” (v. 3). In v. 6, if the use of “all” refers to all of God’s people (cf. CEV, NLT) as opposed to all things (cf. NCV), then the verse points to the unity of believers in having one God who encompasses all of them.

1Cor 1:2 To the church of God that is in Corinth, to those sanctified in Christ Jesus, called to be saints together with all those who in every place call upon the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, both their Lord and ours: ...

All believers everywhere together call on the one Lord – the Lord of all of them. This points to the unity of all believers worldwide.

Mal 2:10 Have we not all one Father? Has not one God created us? Why then are we faithless to one another, profaning the covenant of our fathers?

For God’s people to be unfaithful to one another is incongruous with the fact that they all have the one Father.

Matt 23:8-10 But you are not to be called rabbi, for you have one teacher, and you are all brothers.^z ⁹And call no man your father on earth, for you have one Father, who is in heaven. ¹⁰Neither be called instructors, for you have one instructor, the Christ.

^z Or brothers and sisters

The emphasis here is on equality and humility more so than unity, but the concepts are not unrelated and each is right and proper in view of the fact the church has only one "teacher" and "instructor" (Jesus Christ) and one spiritual "Father".

✚ God's people should be one just as the Father and Jesus Christ are one:

John 17:11, 20-23 And I am no longer in the world, but they are in the world, and I am coming to you. Holy Father, keep them in your name, which you have given me, that they may be one, even as we are one.  ... ²⁰"I do not ask for these only, but also for those who will believe in me through their word, ²¹*that they may all be one, just as you, Father, are in me, and I in you, that they also may be in us,* so that the world may believe that you have sent me. ²²The glory that you have given me I have given to them, that they may be one even as we are one, ²³*I in them and you in me, that they may become perfectly one,* so that the world may know that you sent me and loved them even as you loved me.

The clause "that they also may be in us" (v. 21b) is most likely speaking of believers being one in the Father and Jesus Christ (cf. AMP, NCV). Regarding "glory" (v. 22), see the comment on John 17:22-23 – under The church body is built by and "in" Jesus Christ . . ., p. 790.

d) Epilogue: God's People Relate to God through Jesus Christ

Verses which speak of God's people relating to God (e.g. praying to him) "through" Jesus Christ appear to have in view one or more of the following three concepts: Jesus Christ's death opening the way into God's presence; Jesus Christ's priesthood; and God's people being "in" Jesus Christ. Bear in mind that these three concepts or interpretations are not mutually exclusive and all three are aspects of Jesus Christ's mediatory role in a believer's relationship with God. The following three paragraphs discuss these three concepts further.

By his death, Jesus Christ's consummate sacrifice removed sin forever as a barrier between God and his people – opening the way into God's presence for God's people. Thus it can be said that God's people approach God "through Jesus Christ" by what he has accomplished in his death.

In his ongoing high priestly role Jesus Christ mediates between God and God's people, representing the people before God. It would appear that this includes him doing so in conjunction with individual believer's approaches to God. As such, just as under the old covenant people approached God by having a priest go before God on their behalf, now believers approach God "through Jesus Christ" in his role as high priest.

Additionally, it can be said that one relates to God "through Jesus Christ" by being "in" Christ (as per the theme of the preceding sections). Believers have the right to approach God because of their relationship with Jesus Christ, being "in" him (cf. Eph 3:12). For it is because of this union with Jesus Christ that what they say is sanctioned to be spoken before God. (See also the introductory comment below on God's people ask the Father for things in Jesus Christ's "name", p. 798.)

Jesus Christ's death and priesthood have opened the way into God's presence for God's people

Matt 27:50-51 And Jesus cried out again with a loud voice and yielded up his spirit. ⁵¹And behold, the curtain of the temple was torn in two, from top to bottom. And the earth shook, and the rocks were split. ☞

To enter the Most Holy Place of God's presence in the temple, the high priest – the only one permitted to do so – went through the curtain that separated the Most Holy Place from the Holy Place. The tearing of the curtain of the temple in two from top to bottom (v. 51) is understood to symbolically proclaim that there was no longer any barrier to people themselves directly entering into God's presence; no longer was this privilege confined to just the high priest.

Heb 10:19-22 Therefore, brothers,^a since we have confidence to enter the holy places by the blood of Jesus, ²⁰by the new and living way that he opened for us through the curtain, that is, through his flesh, ²¹and since we have a great priest over the house of God, ²²let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, with our hearts sprinkled clean from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water. ☞

^a Or brothers and sisters

The reference to Jesus Christ's body as "the curtain" (v. 20), is drawing a parallel between his death which opened a way for believers to confidently enter into God's presence, and the curtain which the high priest went through to enter the Most Holy Place of God's presence on the Day of Atonement. The expression "our bodies washed with pure water" (v. 22) is understood by some to be a reference to baptism, but more often it is seen as a reference to being made clean by Jesus Christ's sacrifice. Similar to "hearts sprinkled clean" (v. 22), the expression is used to draw a parallel with the priests washing with water to signify them being cleansed whenever they entered the Tent of Meeting or approached the altar to present an offering to God (cf. Ex 30:20-21).

Heb 4:14-16 Since then we have a great high priest who has passed through the heavens, Jesus, the Son of God, let us hold fast our confession. ¹⁵For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin. ¹⁶Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need. ☞

Because of Jesus Christ and his position as high priest (vv. 14-15), we may approach "the throne of our gracious God" (NLT; cf. CEV, GNT, NCV).

Heb 7:17-22 For it is witnessed of him, "You are a priest forever, after the order of Melchizedek." ¹⁸For on the one hand, a former commandment is set aside because of its weakness and uselessness ¹⁹(for the law made nothing perfect); but on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, through which we draw near to God. ²⁰And it was not without an oath. For those who formerly became priests were made such without an oath, ²¹but this one was made a priest with an oath by the one who said to him: "The Lord has sworn and will not change his mind, 'You are a priest forever.'" ²²This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant. ☞

God made Jesus Christ high priest forever, on oath (vv. 20-21). In doing so God has effectively introduced a better hope for us (v. 19; cf. Heb 6:19-20 ↓), with Jesus Christ's role as high priest guaranteeing a better covenant (cf. v. 22) or relationship between God and his people. In this relationship we can now draw near to God (v. 19b), through Jesus Christ (v. 25 ↓).

Heb 9:6-14 These preparations having thus been made, the priests go regularly into the first section, performing their ritual duties, ⁷but into the second only the high priest goes, and he but once a year, and not without taking blood, which he offers for himself and for the unintentional sins of the people. ⁸*By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the holy places is not yet opened as long as the first section is still standing* ⁹(which is symbolic for the present age).^b According to this arrangement, gifts and sacrifices are offered that cannot perfect the conscience of the worshiper, ¹⁰but deal only with food and drink and various washings, regulations for the body imposed until the time of reformation. ¹¹*But when Christ appeared as a high priest of the good things that have come,^c then through the greater and more perfect tent (not made with hands, that is, not of this creation) ¹²he entered once for all into the holy places, not by means of the blood of goats and calves but by means of his own blood, thus securing an eternal redemption. ¹³For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctify^d for the purification of the flesh, ¹⁴how much more will the blood of Christ, who through the eternal Spirit offered himself without blemish to God, purify our^e conscience from dead works to serve the living God.* ☞

^b Or which is symbolic for the age then present

^c Some manuscripts good things to come

^d Or For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctifies

^e Some manuscripts your

Previously the high priest alone entered the earthly Most Holy Place, with the blood of sacrifices made for sin (v. 7). This indicated that the sacrifices ultimately were not able to clear the people's consciences, for them themselves to be able to enter God's presence (vv. 8-9). But by his own blood Jesus Christ entered God's very presence in heaven to obtain eternal redemption (v. 12) and realize true cleansing for God's people (vv. 13-14). As such they may serve God (v. 14b), having been made holy – with the implication that Jesus Christ's high priestly work, notably his sacrifice, has opened the way into God's presence (v. 8) for all God's people.

✦ Because of Jesus, our hope extends into God's presence, "behind the curtain":

Heb 6:19-20 We have this as a sure and steadfast anchor of the soul, a hope that enters into the inner place behind the curtain,²⁰ where Jesus has gone as a forerunner on our behalf, having become a high priest forever after the order of Melchizedek. 📖

Verses 19b-20 may mean that our hope extends into God's very presence, where Jesus has entered as a "forerunner" on our behalf – giving us an assured hope that we will be able to follow. (As such our future, ultimate entry into God's presence would appear to be in view.) Alternatively, or along with the above, the verses may mean that our hope is based on Jesus' ministry for us in God's presence, in his role as high priest.

God's people have access to God through Jesus Christ – by the Holy Spirit

Eph 2:18 For through him we both have access in one Spirit to the Father. 📖

Here "through him" may be speaking of how people are to approach God. Alternatively it could be referring to being able to approach God because of what Jesus Christ has done (cf. NLT) – i.e. his reconciliation of people to God by his death (cf. v. 16).

Eph 3:11-12 This was according to the eternal purpose that he has realized in Christ Jesus our Lord, ¹²*in whom we have boldness and access with confidence through our faith in him.*

In v. 12, "in whom" may well have the believer's union with Christ in view (cf. GNT). In him and through our faith in him we can confidently access God.

Heb 7:25 Consequently, he is able to save to the uttermost those who draw near to God through him, since he always lives to make intercession for them. 📖

^f That is, completely; or at all times

The expression "draw near to God through him" may be referring to believers turning to God at conversion. However, in the Greek the verb translated as "draw near" is in the present tense, which suggests that this phrase is referring to continuing to come to God through Jesus Christ, relating to God through him (cf. NEL, NBC).

✦ Jesus' declaration of heaven opening up:

John 1:51 And he said to him, "Truly, truly, I say to you,^g you will see heaven opened, and the angels of God ascending and descending on the Son of Man." 📖

^g The Greek for you is plural; twice in this verse

A number of commentators understand this to be speaking of communication between God and humankind being opened or freed up through Jesus Christ. In this, Jesus ("the Son of Man") is the representative of humankind or God's people and the means by which this more accessible communication is possible. Another interpretation of this verse is that Jesus is implying that the disciples would see heaven, or God, testifying to who he is.

God's people give thanks and praise to God through Jesus Christ

- Eph 5:20 ↴

Rom 1:8 First, I thank my God through Jesus Christ for all of you, because your faith is proclaimed in all the world. 📖

Col 3:17 And whatever you do, in word or deed, do everything in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through him. 📖

Heb 13:15 Through him then let us continually offer up a sacrifice of praise to God, that is, the fruit of lips that acknowledge his name. 📖

As quite possibly is the case in other verses in this subsection, Jesus Christ's role as high priest is in view here, with him being the one through whom we offer such sacrifices.

1Pet 4:10-11 As each has received a gift, use it to serve one another, as good stewards of God's varied grace: ¹¹whoever speaks, as one who speaks oracles of God; whoever serves, as one who serves by the strength that God supplies—in order that in everything God may be glorified through Jesus Christ. To him belong glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.

This could well be speaking of people glorifying or praising (cf. GNT, NIV) God through Jesus Christ for God's grace in one's ministry. However, some commentators understand the reference to Jesus Christ to be primarily related to his role in one's ministry, through which glory comes to God.

Jude 1:25 ... to the only God, our Savior, through Jesus Christ our Lord, be glory, majesty, dominion, and authority, before all time and now and forever. Amen.

This may be speaking of ascribing to God through Jesus Christ "glory, majesty, dominion, and authority" (cf. NIRV) – hence its inclusion here. Alternatively it may be saying that these things are or will be God's through Jesus Christ.

Rom 7:24-25a Wretched man that I am! Who will deliver me from this body of death? ²⁵*Thanks be to God through Jesus Christ our Lord!*

Note that the appropriateness of this verse to this subsection is debatable, as v. 24 and the general context suggests that rather than giving thanks to God through Jesus Christ, Paul may instead be speaking of God saving him through Jesus Christ (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV, NIRV, NLT).

✦ They offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ:

1Pet 2:4-5 As you come to him, a living stone rejected by men but in the sight of God chosen and precious, ⁵you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ.

The phrase "through Jesus Christ" may be referring to how the spiritual sacrifices are offered (cf. CEV), or the reason why they are acceptable, i.e. Jesus Christ's work in securing salvation (cf. NLT).

God's people ask the Father for things in Jesus Christ's "name"

See also:

- Ask for things in Jesus Christ's "name", p. 1225

In Jewish thought, a person's name represented or embodied their whole person – including their nature, authority and goals. Believers make requests of God "in Jesus Christ's name" – in accordance with all that his name signifies. Such prayer is compatible with Jesus' person and purpose and offered on his authority. (cf. NSB, ZBC) (See also the introductory comment on Ask for things in Jesus Christ's "name", p. 1225.)

Being "in" Jesus Christ and relating to God "through" Christ are connected to this concept of relating to God "in the name of" Jesus Christ. For it is only because of a believer's relationship with Jesus Christ – in which believers may relate to God "through" Jesus Christ – that a believer can make requests of God in Jesus Christ's "name", on his authority.

John 15:16 You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit and that your fruit should abide, so that whatever you ask the Father in my name, he may give it to you.

John 16:23-24, 26 In that day you will ask nothing of me. Truly, truly, I say to you, whatever you ask of the Father in my name, he will give it to you. ²⁴*Until now you have asked nothing in my name. Ask*, and you will receive, that your joy may be full.  ... ²⁶*In that day you will ask in my name*, and I do not say to you that I will ask the Father on your behalf; ...

"I do not say to you that I will ask the Father on your behalf" (v. 26b), probably refers to the fact that God's people are able to ask God directly, in Jesus Christ's name; Jesus does not have to ask for them.

Matt 18:19-20 Again I say to you, if two of you agree on earth about anything they ask, it will be done for them by my Father in heaven. ²⁰*For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I among them.*

Coming together in Jesus Christ's name (v. 20) to pray to God (v. 19), is comparable to praying in his name.

✦ They give thanks to God the Father in the name of Jesus Christ:

Eph 5:20 ... giving thanks always and for everything to God the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ, ...

Along with the verses in the previous subsection and in accordance with the teaching in this subsection, this verse suggests that giving thanks to God in the name of Jesus Christ is closely associated with giving thanks to God through him.

Further references to God's people relating to him through Jesus Christ

John 14:6 Jesus said to him, "I am the way, and the truth, and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me."

A common interpretation of the first statement is that Jesus means he is the way to the Father for he is the truth and the life. The second statement appears to relate back to the first assertion – "I am the way". The verse is speaking of, primarily at least, coming into a relationship with the Father through Jesus Christ, and is usually understood to be meaning that what Jesus has done is the reason for why we can begin this relationship. Arguably it is also applicable to one's ongoing relationship with the Father, with Jesus being the means or way through which we can come to the Father.

Rom 5:11 More than that, we also rejoice in God through our Lord Jesus Christ, through whom we have now received reconciliation.

The phrase "through our Lord Jesus Christ" may be referring to Jesus Christ as the means by which we rejoice in God. However, the phrase may instead mean that Christ is the reason why we can, which is spoken of in the subsequent clause.

2Cor 1:20 For all the promises of God find their Yes in him. That is why it is through him that we utter our Amen to God for his glory.

"Amen" is a reference to the "Yes" in the first sentence (as emphasized by the NCV which uses "yes" in both instances; cf. CEV text note). In response to God's promises to us finding their fulfillment (i.e. being "Yes") in Jesus Christ, we say "Yes" or "Amen" in worship to God "through Christ" – quite possibly meaning "in His Person and by His agency" (AMP). Presumably Paul means we do this in acknowledgment of the promises and of their fulfillment in Christ, including in his death and resurrection.

✦ Paul's confidence "through Christ toward God":

2Cor 3:3-4 And you show that you are a letter from Christ delivered by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts.^h Such is the confidence that we have through Christ toward God.

^h Greek fleshly hearts

Paul was confident through Christ toward or before God that the product of his work amongst the Corinthians (v. 3) validated his ministry (cf. vv. 1-2).

This section looks at some basic factors underlying God's interaction with his people. They show that God's relationship with his people is not an aloof, impersonal one – far from it. God is always with his people and they can actually know him. Complementary to this is God's great love and steadfast faithfulness towards his people – two characteristics which are often coupled together in the Bible. Undergirding all God's interaction with his people is his truly amazing grace.

God and Jesus Christ are with their people

Num 23:21 He has not beheld misfortune in Jacob, nor has he seen trouble in Israel. The LORD their God is with them, and the shout of a king is among them.

Note that the final clause appears to either: further be speaking of God's presence amongst his people; or meaning that God is proclaimed as King by them (cf. GNT, NLT).

Num 35:34 You shall not defile the land in which you live, in the midst of which I dwell, for I the LORD dwell in the midst of the people of Israel.

2Chr 15:2, 9 ... and he [Azariah] went out to meet Asa and said to him, "Hear me, Asa, and all Judah and Benjamin: The LORD is with you while you are with him. If you seek him, he will be found by you, but if you forsake him, he will forsake you.  ...⁹And he [Asa] gathered all Judah and Benjamin, and those from Ephraim, Manasseh, and Simeon who were residing with them, for great numbers had deserted to him from Israel when they saw that the LORD his God was with him.

Isa 57:15 For thus says the One who is high and lifted up, who inhabits eternity, whose name is Holy: "I dwell in the high and holy place, and also with him who is of a contrite and lowly spirit, to revive the spirit of the lowly, and to revive the heart of the contrite.

Note that to have a "contrite" spirit is to be deeply remorseful and repentant of sin. One who has a "lowly spirit" is humble – here quite possibly a reference to being so in response to one's own sin.

Hag 1:13 Then Haggai, the messenger of the LORD, spoke to the people with the LORD's message, "I am with you, declares the LORD."

1Cor 14:24-25 But if all prophesy, and an unbeliever or outsider enters, he is convicted by all, he is called to account by all, ²⁵the secrets of his heart are disclosed, and so, falling on his face, he will worship God and declare that God is really among you.

2Cor 6:16 What agreement has the temple of God with idols? For we are the temple of the living God; as God said, "I will make my dwelling among them and walk among them, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people.

God's people being his "temple" is indicative of God's presence amongst them.

Phil 4:9 What you have learned and received and heard and seen in me—practice these things, and the God of peace will be with you.

John 14:18 I will not leave you as orphans; I will come to you.

Quite possibly this refers to the giving of the Holy Spirit (cf. vv. 16-17) at Pentecost and Jesus' presence through the Spirit's indwelling. Alternatively Jesus' appearance to the disciples after his resurrection or even his second coming may be in view.

2Thes 3:16 Now may the Lord of peace himself give you peace at all times in every way. The Lord be with you all.

This is a blessing or prayer, speaking of Jesus Christ's presence with his people (cf. 2Tim 4:22 ↓).

^c The Greek for you is plural

✦ Prayer that Christ's grace, God's love and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit will be with believers:

2Cor 13:14 The grace of the Lord Jesus Christ and the love of God and the fellowship of the Holy Spirit be with you all.

These things can be considered aspects or results of the presence of Jesus Christ, God and the Holy Spirit with their people.

Here God says of David that his "hand" – indicative of his power in particular – "shall always remain with him" (NRSV; cf. GNT). This indicates that God would always be with him – "I will always be there" (CEV).

God has always been his people's home and refuge, indicative of him always being with them.

Gen 48:15 And he blessed Joseph and said, "The God before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, the God who has been my shepherd all my life long to this day, ...

The reference to God as his "shepherd" points to God's presence with Joseph, caring for him and guiding him – all his life.

Gen 21:22 At that time Abimelech and Phicol the commander of his army said to Abraham, "God is with you in all that you do."

Deut 4:7 For what great nation is there that has a god so near to it as the LORD our God is to us, whenever we call upon him?

Ps 16:8 I have set the LORD always before me; because he is at my right hand, I shall not be shaken.

David is saying that he continually kept himself aware of God's presence (cf. GNT), indicative of the fact that God was always at his side.

Matt 28:20b [Jesus:] And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age.

. . . God's people are always with God – living in his presence

Ps 73:23 Nevertheless, I am continually with you; you hold my right hand.

Here and in 139:18b immediately below, the psalmists speaks of always being with God.

Ps 139:18b I awake, and I am still with you.

Luke 15:31 And he said to him, 'Son, you are always with me, and all that is mine is yours.'

A parallel can be made with the son being spoken of as always being with his father and God's people always being with their heavenly Father.

Deut 33:27a The eternal God is your dwelling place,^e and underneath are the everlasting arms.^f

^e Or a dwelling place

^f Revocalization of verse 27 yields He subdues the ancient gods, and shatters the forces of old

Note that this and most of the following verses do not refer to God's people as "always" dwelling or being with God (as per the above subheading). However they do show that God's people dwell with him and even suggest that this is always the case.

Psa 91:1 He who dwells in the shelter of the Most High will abide in the shadow of the Almighty.

The latter part of the verse speaks of resting securely under God's protection (cf. v. 2).

Psa 41:12 But you have upheld me because of my integrity, and set me in your presence forever.

This and the following verses refer to God's people living in his presence.

Psa 140:13 Surely the righteous shall give thanks to your name; the upright shall dwell in your presence.

Psa 102:28 The children of your servants shall dwell secure; their offspring shall be established before you.

This speaks of God's people being firmly set in his "presence" (CEV, NLT, NRSV).

✦ Blessed are those who God brings near to live in his presence:

Psa 65:4 Blessed is the one you choose and bring near, to dwell in your courts! We shall be satisfied with the goodness of your house, the holiness of your temple!

Note Psalm 148:14 also speaks of God's people being near him – "He has raised up a horn for his people, praise for all his saints, for the people of Israel who are near to him. Praise the LORD!"

God is with his people wherever they go . . .

Gen 28:15 Behold, I am with you and will keep you wherever you go, and will bring you back to this land. For I will not leave you until I have done what I have promised you.

The fulfillment of this promise made to Jacob, is testified to by him in the following reference – Genesis 35:3.

Gen 35:3 Then let us arise and go up to Bethel, so that I may make there an altar to the God who answers me in the day of my distress and has been with me wherever I have gone.

Josh 1:9 Have I not commanded you? Be strong and courageous. Do not be frightened, and do not be dismayed, for the LORD your God is with you wherever you go.

2Sam 7:9 And I have been with you wherever you went and have cut off all your enemies from before you. And I will make for you a great name, like the name of the great ones of the earth.

Ex 33:14 And he said, "My presence will go with you, and I will give you rest."

Ex 40:38 For the cloud of the LORD was on the tabernacle by day, and fire was in it by night, in the sight of all the house of Israel throughout all their journeys.

The "cloud of the LORD" signified the LORD's presence (cf. vv. 34-35), with the people in all their travels, guiding them along the way (cf. vv. 36-37; Ex 13:21-22 ↓).

. . . God also goes before his people

Deut 31:3, 8 The LORD your God himself will go over before you. He will destroy these nations before you, so that you shall dispossess them, and Joshua will go over at your head, as the LORD has spoken.  ... ⁸*It is the LORD who goes before you.* He will be with you; he will not leave you or forsake you. Do not fear or be dismayed.

Isa 52:12 For you shall not go out in haste, and you shall not go in flight, for the LORD will go before you, and the God of Israel will be your rear guard.

Not only did God promise to go before them, but also to protect them from behind – to be their "rear guard".

Mic 2:13 He who opens the breach goes up before them; they break through and pass the gate, going out by it. Their king passes on before them, the LORD at their head.

"He who opens the breach" refers to the LORD – who will be "at their head". The verse speaks of God regathering his people from exile.

Judg 4:14-15a And Deborah said to Barak, "Up! For this is the day in which the LORD has given Sisera into your hand. Does not the LORD go out before you?" So Barak went down from Mount Tabor with 10,000 men following him. ¹⁵*And the LORD routed Sisera and all his chariots and all his army before Barak by the edge of the sword.*

Verse 15a demonstrates that the LORD had indeed gone ahead of Barak to deliver the enemy into his hands, as Deborah had declared (v. 14).

1Chr 14:15 And when you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, then go out to battle, for God has gone out before you to strike down the army of the Philistines.

Ex 13:21-22 And the LORD went before them by day in a pillar of cloud to lead them along the way, and by night in a pillar of fire to give them light, that they might travel by day and by night. ²²*The pillar of cloud by day and the pillar of fire by night did not depart from before the people.*

Isa 45:2 I will go before you and level the exalted places,^g I will break in pieces the doors of bronze and cut through the bars of iron, ...

^g Masoretic Text; Dead Sea Scroll, Septuagint level the mountains

The reference is to God going before the Persian king Cyrus, breaking down any obstacles, as he used Cyrus to do his work. This can be applied to God going before his people.

✦ The Israelites knew God was among them and would drive out nations before them when the ark went into the Jordan before them and cut off its water:

Josh 3:10-11, 13, 15-16 And Joshua said, “Here is how you shall know that the living God is among you and that he will without fail drive out from before you the Canaanites, the Hittites, the Hivites, the Perizzites, the Girgashites, the Amorites, and the Jebusites. ¹¹*Behold, the ark of the covenant of the Lord of all the earth^h is passing over before you into the Jordan.* ... ¹³*And when the soles of the feet of the priests bearing the ark of the LORD, the Lord of all the earth, shall rest in the waters of the Jordan, the waters of the Jordan shall be cut off from flowing, and the waters coming down from above shall stand in one heap.* ... ¹⁵*and as soon as those bearing the ark had come as far as the Jordan, and the feet of the priests bearing the ark were dipped in the brink of the water (now the Jordan overflows all its banks throughout the time of harvest), ¹⁶the waters coming down from above stood and rose up in a heap very far away, at Adam, the city that is beside Zarethan, and those flowing down toward the Sea of the Arabah, the Salt Sea, were completely cut off. And the people passed over opposite Jericho.*

2Chr 20:17 You will not need to fight in this battle. Stand firm, hold your position, and see the salvation of the LORD on your behalf, O Judah and Jerusalem.’ Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed. Tomorrow go out against them, and the LORD will be with you.

Ezra 9:9 For we are slaves. Yet our God has not forsaken us in our slavery, but has extended to us his steadfast love before the kings of Persia, to grant us some reviving to set up the house of our God, to repair its ruins, and to give us protection^j in Judea and Jerusalem.

Ps 14:4-5 Have they no knowledge, all the evildoers who eat up my people as they eat bread and do not call upon the LORD? ⁵*There they are in great terror, for God is with the generation of the righteous.*

Amidst attacks by evildoers (v. 4; cf. 2Chr 20:17 ↑), God is present with his people (v. 5) – protecting them and bringing terror to their enemies.

Ezek 11:16 Therefore say, “Thus says the Lord GOD: Though I removed them far off among the nations, and though I scattered them among the countries, yet I have been a sanctuary to them for a while^k in the countries where they have gone.’

^k Or in small measure

Although the people had been sent far away from the sanctuary in Jerusalem which signified God’s presence with his people, he himself was a sanctuary for them in their exile, which indicates that he was "present with them" (GNT, cf. CEV).

✦ In persecution, God's people are not forsaken by him:

2Cor 4:9 ... persecuted, but not forsaken; struck down, but not destroyed; ...

Most likely this is referring to not being abandoned by God (cf. CEV, NCV, NLT), in persecution.

Being with his people in trouble, God sees them through it

Ps 46:4-7 There is a river whose streams make glad the city of God, the holy habitation of the Most High. ⁵God is in the midst of her; she shall not be moved; God will help her when morning dawns. ⁶The nations rage, the kingdoms totter; he utters his voice, the earth melts. ⁷The LORD of hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our fortress. Despite the hostility of enemy nations, Israel would not succumb for God was with them.

Isa 43:2 When you pass through the waters, I will be with you; and through the rivers, they shall not overwhelm you; when you walk through fire you shall not be burned, and the flame shall not consume you.

Jer 1:19 They will fight against you, but they shall not prevail against you, for I am with you, declares the LORD, to deliver you.

Jer 20:10-11 For I hear many whispering. Terror is on every side! "Denounce him! Let us denounce him!" say all my close friends, watching for my fall. "Perhaps he will be deceived; then we can overcome him and take our revenge on him."

¹¹But the LORD is with me as a dread warrior; therefore my persecutors will stumble; they will not overcome me. They will be greatly shamed, for they will not succeed. Their eternal dishonor will never be forgotten.

Jer 30:11a For I am with you to save you, declares the LORD; I will make a full end of all the nations among whom I scattered you, but of you I will not make a full end.

Ezek 34:29-30 And I will provide for them renowned plantations so that they shall no more be consumed with hunger in the land, and no longer suffer the reproach of the nations. ³⁰And they shall know that I am the LORD their God with them, and that they, the house of Israel, are my people, declares the Lord GOD.

Zec 10:5 They shall be like mighty men in battle, trampling the foe in the mud of the streets; they shall fight because the LORD is with them, and they shall put to shame the riders on horses.

The GNT and NLT use "even" in relation to the horsemen – i.e. "even the enemy horsemen" (GNT) – implying that horsemen were generally a superior force. Because the LORD would be with his people, they would overcome stronger enemies.

Acts 7:9-10 And the patriarchs, jealous of Joseph, sold him into Egypt; but God was with him ¹⁰and rescued him out of all his afflictions and gave him favor and wisdom before Pharaoh, king of Egypt, who made him ruler over Egypt and over all his household.

Acts 18:9-10 And the Lord said to Paul one night in a vision, "Do not be afraid, but go on speaking and do not be silent, ¹⁰for I am with you, and no one will attack you to harm you, for I have many in this city who are my people."

2Tim 4:16-17 At my first defense no one came to stand by me, but all deserted me. May it not be charged against them! ¹⁷But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. So I was rescued from the lion's mouth.

Ps 16:8 I have set the LORD always before me; because he is at my right hand, I shall not be shaken.

"I will not be shaken" points to God's protection.

Verses that speak of God and/or Jesus Christ living in their people (or vice versa) largely have in view the spiritual union of God and Jesus Christ with their people. This union is in part at least based on God's people having his Holy Spirit (cf. 1Jn 3:24 ↴; 1Jn 4:13 ↴).

John 14:23 Jesus answered him, "If anyone loves me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our home with him. ☞

1Jn 3:24 Whoever keeps his commandments abides in God,^o and God^p in him. And by this we know that he abides in us, by the Spirit whom he has given us. ☞

1Jn 4:12 No one has ever seen God; if we love one another, God abides in us and his love is perfected in us. ☞

1Jn 2:23 No one who denies the Son has the Father. Whoever confesses the Son has the Father also. ☞

Whoever acknowledges and accepts (cf. CEV, GNT) Jesus Christ "has" God also. This appears to refer to God's and Jesus Christ's presence in their people (cf. ZBC).

2Jn 1:9 Everyone who goes on ahead and does not abide in the teaching of Christ, does not have God. Whoever abides in the teaching has both the Father and the Son. ☞

Eph 4:6 ... one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all. ☞

Here "all" may mean all things, rather than being limited to all Christians, although the latter would still likely be primarily in view.

Col 3:3 For you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God. ☞

Through the believer's spiritual union with Christ, they are "in God" (cf. 1Jn 5:20 ↴) in a spiritual sense by virtue of Christ's relationship with the Father.

1Jn 2:5-6 ... but whoever keeps his word, in him truly the love of God is perfected. By this we may know that we are in him: ⁶whoever says he abides in him ought to walk in the same way in which he walked. ☞

Note that it is debatable as to whether John is speaking here of knowing and abiding in God (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT) or Jesus Christ.

Each of these three verses gives a different reason as to how we can know that we live in God and he in us.

God's people are with Jesus Christ even in death

Luke 23:42-43 And he said, "Jesus, remember me when you come into your kingdom." ⁴³And he said to him, "Truly, I say to you, today you will be with me in Paradise."

Jesus is speaking here to one of the other criminals being crucified next to him.

Acts 7:59-60 And as they were stoning Stephen, he called out, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit." ⁶⁰And falling to his knees he cried out with a loud voice, "Lord, do not hold this sin against them." And when he had said this, he fell asleep.

2Cor 5:8 Yes, we are of good courage, and we would rather be away from the body and at home with the Lord.

Phil 1:23-24 I am hard pressed between the two. My desire is to depart and be with Christ, for that is far better. ²⁴But to remain in the flesh is more necessary on your account.

1Thes 5:9-10 For God has not destined us for wrath, but to obtain salvation through our Lord Jesus Christ, ¹⁰who died for us so that whether we are awake or asleep we might live with him.

With the reference to being "asleep", this may in part be speaking of believers who die being with Jesus Christ following their death. However some translations specifically refer to Jesus Christ's return (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT), i.e. their focus is on whether we are alive or dead when he returns.

Rev 14:3-4 ... and they were singing a new song before the throne and before the four living creatures and before the elders. No one could learn that song except the 144,000 who had been redeemed from the earth. ⁴It is these who have not defiled themselves with women, for they are virgins. It is these who follow the Lamb wherever he goes. These have been redeemed from mankind as firstfruits for God and the Lamb, ...

The 144,000 probably symbolize the faithful believers who had come out of "the great tribulation" (7:14) and at this point are most likely in heaven after dying, though not all commentators would agree. Note that the expression "not defiled themselves with women" (v. 4) most likely refers to either abstaining from sexual immorality or from defiling relationships with the world.

✦ Jesus Christ is the Lord of believers even after they die:

Rom 14:6-9 The one who observes the day, observes it in honor of the Lord. The one who eats, eats in honor of the Lord, since he gives thanks to God, while the one who abstains, abstains in honor of the Lord and gives thanks to God. ⁷For none of us lives to himself, and none of us dies to himself. ⁸For if we live, we live to the Lord, and if we die, we die to the Lord. So then, whether we live or whether we die, we are the Lord's. ⁹For to this end Christ died and lived again, that he might be Lord both of the dead and of the living.

Paul's assertion that believers do not die to themselves alone (v. 7b) but rather to the Lord (v. 8a), appears to mean that even on the other side of death, they belong to Christ (v. 8b) who remains their Lord (v. 9). As such the passage also points to them being with him in death.

Note: Examples of people being successful because God was with them

Gen 39:2-4, 23 The LORD was with Joseph, and he became a successful man, and he was in the house of his Egyptian master. ³His master saw that the LORD was with him and that the LORD caused all that he did to succeed in his hands. ⁴So Joseph found favor in his sight and attended him, and he made him overseer of his house and put him in charge of all that he had. ... ²³The keeper of the prison paid no attention to anything that was in Joseph's charge, because the LORD was with him. And whatever he did, the LORD made it succeed.

1Sam 18:14-15 And David had success in all his undertakings, for the LORD was with him. ¹⁵And when Saul saw that he had great success, he stood in fearful awe of him.

1Chr 11:9 And David became greater and greater, for the LORD of hosts was with him.

2Chr 1:1 Solomon the son of David established himself in his kingdom, and the LORD his God was with him and made him exceedingly great.

2Ki 18:7 And the LORD was with him; wherever he went out, he prospered. He rebelled against the king of Assyria and would not serve him.

1Sam 10:6-7 Then the Spirit of the LORD will rush upon you, and you will prophesy with them and be turned into another man. ⁷Now when these signs meet you, do what your hand finds to do, for God is with you.

This implies that because God was with Saul, he would be successful in whatever he did. It also may be implying that as God was with him, God would lead him in his course of action – “do whatever God leads you to do” (GNT).

✦ God’s promise to Isaac that he would be with him and bless him:

Gen 26:2-3 And the LORD appeared to him and said, “Do not go down to Egypt; dwell in the land of which I shall tell you. ³Sojourn in this land, and I will be with you and will bless you, for to you and to your offspring I will give all these lands, and I will establish the oath that I swore to Abraham your father.

- God and Jesus Christ enable their people to know them
- So God’s people know him . . .

God and Jesus Christ know their people

God and Jesus Christ of course know everybody, which is what may be primarily in view in some of the verses below even though they do all refer to God or Jesus Christ knowing their followers (either individual ones or all of them). However, at least a number of the following verses suggest that their “knowing” believers has an additional intimacy or a more personal facet. (See the comments below on Exodus 33:17 and 1 Corinthians 8:3.)

Ex 33:17 And the LORD said to Moses, “This very thing that you have spoken I will do, for you have found favor in my sight, and I know you by name.”

The expression “I know you by name” (cf. John 10:3 ↓) indicates: an intimate knowledge – “I know you very well” (GNT, NCV); and a personal relationship – “I know you personally” (AMP); “you are my friend” (NLT, cf. CEV).

2Sam 7:20 And what more can David say to you? For you know your servant, O Lord GOD!

David acknowledged that there was nothing he could tell God about himself and his situation that God did not already know.

Ps 139:1 O LORD, you have searched me and known me!

Jer 1:5 “Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, and before you were born I consecrated you; I appointed you a prophet to the nations.”

Jer 12:3a But you, O LORD, know me; you see me, and test my heart toward you.

Nah 1:7 The LORD is good, a stronghold in the day of trouble; he knows those who take refuge in him.

1Cor 8:3 But if anyone loves God, he is known by God.^s

^s Greek him

Here and in Galatians 4:9a below, the phrase “known by God” may be speaking of God knowing his own people in a unique way, in his personal, intimate relationship with them. However it could instead be referring simply to them being recognized by God as one of his own (cf. 2Tim 2:19 ↓).

1Cor 13:12 For now we see in a mirror dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall know fully, even as I have been fully known.

Gal 4:9 But now that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how can you turn back again to the weak and worthless elementary principles of the world, whose slaves you want to be once more?

2Tim 2:19 But God’s firm foundation stands, bearing this seal: “The Lord knows those who are his,” and, “Let everyone who names the name of the Lord depart from iniquity.”

“The Lord knows those who are his” could be referring to God knowing his people in an intimate, relational sense. However it may instead mean: “The Lord knows who his people are.” (CEV) The latter probably better fits the OT verse that it is quoting, Numbers 16:5. If this latter meaning is the case, then the verse is not so applicable to this subsection. Note that

"God's firm foundation" is usually interpreted to be referring to either his truth as a whole or to the church.

John 10:3, 14, 27 To him the gatekeeper opens. The sheep hear his voice, and he calls his own sheep by name and leads them out. ... ¹⁴I am the good shepherd. I know my own and my own know me, ... ²⁷My sheep hear my voice, and I know them, and they follow me.

Ex 2:23-25 During those many days the king of Egypt died, and the people of Israel groaned because of their slavery and cried out for help. Their cry for rescue from slavery came up to God. ²⁴*And God heard their groaning*, and God remembered his covenant with Abraham, with Isaac, and with Jacob. ²⁵*God saw the people of Israel—and God knew*.

Ex 3:7 Then the LORD said, "I have surely seen the affliction of my people who are in Egypt and have heard their cry because of their taskmasters. I know their sufferings, ..."

The LORD is the everlasting God, the Creator of the ends of the earth. He does not faint or grow weary; his understanding is unsearchable*.

The idea that our "way" and "right" (v. 27) – including our needs and troubles – are hidden from God is absurd in the light of who God is (v. 28).

Jer 15:15a O LORD, you know; remember me and visit me, and take vengeance for me on my persecutors.

God knew the persecution that Jeremiah suffered.

Jer 18:23 Yet you, O LORD, know all their plotting to kill me. Forgive not their iniquity, nor blot out their sin from your sight. Let them be overthrown before you; deal with them in the time of your anger.

Yet you hold fast my name, and you did not deny my faith^u even in the days of Antipas my faithful witness, who was killed among you, where Satan dwells*.

^t Greek blasphemy

^u Or your faith in me

In v. 13a, "where Satan's throne is" refers to Pergamum as a center of pagan worship, and is indicative of a place hostile to Christians. Jesus Christ knew these very difficult circumstances in which these Christians lived.

Rev 3:8 I know your works. Behold, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut. I know that you have but little power, and yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name.

Jesus Christ knew that the church in Philadelphia had "little strength" (NCV™, NIV®) amidst trying circumstances.

Deut 2:7 For the LORD your God has blessed you in all the work of your hands. He knows your going through this great wilderness. These forty years the LORD your God has been with you. You have lacked nothing."

The implication in this and the following verses is that God not only knows about his people's circumstances, he also cares about them and acts accordingly.

Ps 1:6 ... for the LORD knows the way of the righteous, but the way of the wicked will perish.

Ps 37:18 The LORD knows the days of the blameless, and their heritage will remain forever; ...

Hos 13:5 It was I who knew you in the wilderness, in the land of drought; ...

God “knew (recognized, understood, and had regard for)” (AMP) Israel during her desert ordeal.

Zec 9:8 Then I will encamp at my house as a guard, so that none shall march to and fro; no oppressor shall again march over them, for now I see with my own eyes.

A number of commentators understand this to be primarily referring to the renewed Israel of the end times. The last clause suggests that not only did God see the affliction of his people, he would now acknowledge it and act accordingly.

God and Jesus Christ enable their people to know them

Matt 11:27 All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

John 17:1-3, 6, 26 When Jesus had spoken these words, he lifted up his eyes to heaven, and said, “Father, the hour has come; glorify your Son that the Son may glorify you, ²since you have given him authority over all flesh, to give eternal life to all whom you have given him. ³*And this is eternal life, that they know you the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent.*  ... ⁶*“I have manifested your name to the people whom you gave me out of the world. Yours they were, and you gave them to me, and they have kept your word.*  ... ²⁶*I made known to them your name, and I will continue to make it known, that the love with which you have loved me may be in them, and I in them.”*

Eternal life involves knowing God and Jesus Christ (v. 3) in an ongoing, progressive, intimate relationship. As the one who gives eternal life (v. 2), it is Jesus Christ who enables us to have this personal knowledge of God. The references to manifesting and making known God’s “name” (vv. 6, 26), speak of manifesting and making known God – “I have revealed Your very Self, Your real Self” (AMP).

Gal 1:15-16 But when he who had set me apart before I was born,^v and who called me by his grace, ¹⁶*was pleased to reveal his Son to^w me*, in order that I might preach him among the Gentiles, I did not immediately consult with anyone;^x ...

Eph 1:16-17 I do not cease to give thanks for you, remembering you in my prayers, ¹⁷*that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and of revelation in the knowledge of him, ...*

Isa 43:10 “You are my witnesses,” declares the LORD, “and my servant whom I have chosen, that you may know and believe me and understand that I am he. Before me no god was formed, nor shall there be any after me.”

The clause “that you may know and believe me” may be speaking of knowing God and believing him (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NIV, NLT) – hence the verse’s inclusion here. However, in speaking of Israel being his “witnesses” that he is God, it may instead be speaking of knowing (and believing) that he is God. Alternatively, both concepts could be involved, which may well be the case in Jeremiah 24:7 immediately below.

Jer 24:7 I will give them a heart to know that I am the LORD, and they shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart.

‡ Jesus’ promise to his disciples that he would come and manifest himself to them:

John 14:18-23 “I will not leave you as orphans; I will come to you. ¹⁹Yet a little while and the world will see me no more, but you will see me. Because I live, you also will live. ²⁰*In that day you will know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you.* ²¹Whoever has my commandments and keeps them, he it is who loves me. And he who loves me will be loved by my Father, and I will love him and manifest myself to him.” ²²Judas (not Iscariot) said to him, “Lord, how is it that you will manifest yourself to us, and not to the world?” ²³Jesus answered him, “If anyone loves me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our home with him.”

This could be referring to either: the giving of the Holy Spirit (cf. vv. 16-17) at Pentecost, with believers’ experience of Jesus’ presence through the Spirit’s indwelling; Jesus’ appearance to the disciples after his resurrection; or Jesus’ second coming.

So God's people know him . . .

Heb 8:10-12 For this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws into their minds, and write them on their hearts, and I will be their God, and they shall be my people. ¹¹And they shall not teach, each one his neighbor and each one his brother, saying, 'Know the Lord,' for they shall all know me, from the least of them to the greatest. ¹²For I will be merciful toward their iniquities, and I will remember their sins no more.

Note that v. 12 points out that knowing God under the new covenant is due in no small part to his forgiveness.

Hos 2:19-20 And I will betroth you to me forever. I will betroth you to me in righteousness and in justice, in steadfast love and in mercy. ²⁰I will betroth you to me in faithfulness. And you shall know the LORD.

Gal 4:8-9 Formerly, when you did not know God, you were enslaved to those that by nature are not gods. ⁹But now that you have come to know God, or rather to be known by God, how can you turn back again to the weak and worthless elementary principles of the world, whose slaves you want to be once more?

Col 1:10 ... so as to walk in a manner worthy of the Lord, fully pleasing to him, bearing fruit in every good work and increasing in the knowledge of God.

The final clause may well be speaking of coming to "know God better and better" (NLT, cf. GNT) – rather than just growing in knowledge about God.

1Jn 2:13b I write to you, children, because you know the Father.

1Jn 4:7 Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God, and whoever loves has been born of God and knows God.

Rom 8:15 For you did not receive the spirit of slavery to fall back into fear, but you have received the Spirit of adoption as sons, by whom we cry, "Abba! Father!"

"Abba" is an intimate term, and so highlights the intimacy of believers with God, indicative of them knowing him.

Job 42:5 I had heard of you by the hearing of the ear, but now my eye sees you; ...

Here Job attests to his personal encounter with God. Any such encounter leads to greater personal knowledge of God.

. . . and God's people know Jesus Christ

John 10:4, 14 When he has brought out all his own, he goes before them, and the sheep follow him, for they know his voice. ... ¹⁴I am the good shepherd. I know my own and my own know me, ...

Jesus illustrates the intimate knowledge that he and his people have of each other by drawing a parallel with the close relationship between a shepherd and his sheep. The clause "they know his voice" (v. 4) can be applied to his people knowing Jesus Christ's leading (through the Holy Spirit) and perhaps also his teachings – including his claims that enable his people to recognize who he is.

John 17:3 And this is eternal life, that they know you the only true God, and Jesus Christ whom you have sent.

Phil 3:8-10 Indeed, I count everything as loss because of the surpassing worth of knowing Christ Jesus my Lord. For his sake I have suffered the loss of all things and count them as rubbish, in order that I may gain Christ ⁹and be found in him, not having a righteousness of my own that comes from the law, but that which comes through faith in Christ, the righteousness from God that depends on faith—¹⁰that I may know him and the power of his resurrection, and may share his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, ...

2Tim 1:12 ... which is why I suffer as I do. But I am not ashamed, for I know whom I have believed, and I am convinced that he is able to guard until that Day what has been entrusted to me.^y

^y Or what I have entrusted to him; Greek my deposit

Here Paul appears to be saying that he knows the one in whom he has believed (cf. CEV, NRSV), rather than simply that he knows who it is that he has believed. It is not clear whether Paul is referring here to Jesus Christ or God; what he says is applicable to both.

1Jn 2:13a I am writing to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning.

The expression "him who is from the beginning" refers to Jesus Christ.

Eph 4:11-13 And he gave the apostles, the prophets, the evangelists, the shepherds^z and teachers,^a ¹²to equip the saints for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ, ¹³until we all attain to the unity of the faith and of the ^b Greek to a full-grown man

The phrase “the knowledge of the Son of God” appears to speak of – or at least be applicable to – both knowing Christ personally and knowing what the Bible teaches about him (cf. ESB).

✦ God’s people know the Holy Spirit:

John 14:17 ... even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, for he dwells with you and will be in you.

God’s people are friends of him and Jesus Christ

Job 29:4 ... as I was in my prime,^c when the friendship of God was upon my tent, ...

^c Hebrew my autumn days

Here Job refers to experiencing “God’s intimate friendship” (NIV®) and its blessings.

Ps 25:14 The friendship^d of the LORD is for those who fear him, and he makes known to them his covenant.

^d Or The secret counsel

Prov 18:24 A man of many companions may come to ruin, but there is a friend who sticks closer than a brother.

The “friend who sticks closer than a brother” is probably not intended as a reference to God, but it has often been applied to him, and appropriately so.

Isa 41:8 But you, Israel, my servant, Jacob, whom I have chosen, the offspring of Abraham, my friend; ...

Jer 3:4 Have you not just now called to me, ‘My father, you are the friend of my youth—

Despite this being applicable to God’s people generally, note that the context shows that regrettably this had been a very shallow declaration by the people.

James 2:23 ... and the Scripture was fulfilled that says, “Abraham believed God, and it was counted to him as righteousness”—and he was called a friend of God.

The reference is probably primarily to 2 Chronicles 20:7 – “Abraham your friend” – but also note Isaiah 41:8 above.

Luke 12:4 I tell you, my friends, do not fear those who kill the body, and after that have nothing more that they can do.

John 15:12-15 This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you. ¹³Greater love has no one than this, that someone lay down his life for his friends. ¹⁴*You are my friends if you do what I command you.* ¹⁵*No longer do I call you servants,*^e for the servant^f does not know what his master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all that I have heard from my Father I have made known to you.

^f Greek bondservant; also verse 20

The “command” (v. 14) primarily in view is to love each other as Jesus had loved them (v. 12). The thought behind Jesus’ statement in v. 14 may then be that Jesus’ friends are those who are like-minded and act as he does. Such friends share common goals, and as such Jesus takes them into his confidence, sharing with them all he has learned from God (v. 15).

Judg 5:31 “So may all your enemies perish, O LORD! But your friends be like the sun as he rises in his might.” And the land had rest for forty years.

Note that Deborah may in essence be asking God to give those who are his friends a life of much blessing (cf. BKC), or perhaps more simply that they would be strong (cf. NCV).

God’s people have fellowship with him and Jesus Christ

1Cor 1:9 God is faithful, by whom you were called into the fellowship of his Son, Jesus Christ our Lord.

The expression “the fellowship of his Son” would appear to involve fellowship with Jesus Christ (cf. AMP, GNT, NASB, NIV, NLT), as well as with other Christians.

Phil 3:10 ... that I may know him and the power of his resurrection, and may share his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, ...

We experience a deep fellowship and bonding with others when we endure difficult times together with them. In the same way we experience such fellowship with Christ when we share in his sufferings – “the fellowship of sharing in his sufferings" (NIV®; cf. KNKJ) – suffering for his cause as he did.

Lev 26:12 And I will walk among you and will be your God, and you shall be my people. 📖

"I will walk among you" points to the close relationship and fellowship that God would have with his people as he lived among them (cf. v. 11) – "I will walk in and with and among you" (AMP).

Ps 15:1-2 O LORD, who shall sojourn in your tent? Who shall dwell on your holy hill? ²He who walks blamelessly and does what is right and speaks truth in his heart; ... 📖

The phrases "sojourn in your tent" and "dwell on your holy hill" are suggestive of fellowship or communion with God (cf. ZBC).

John 14:23 Jesus answered him, "If anyone loves me, he will keep my word, and my Father will love him, and we will come to him and make our home with him." 📖

The last clause quite possibly alludes to fellowship with God and Jesus Christ, as part of their abiding presence – as does the latter part of Revelation 3:20 below.

Rev 3:20 Behold, I stand at the door and knock. If anyone hears my voice and opens the door, I will come in to him and eat with him, and he with me. 📖

Ps 103:4 ... who redeems your life from the pit, who crowns you with steadfast love and mercy, ...

The second part of the verse suggests that God surrounds his people with his love and mercy (cf. NLT), even blessing them with manifestations of his love and mercy (cf. GNT).

John 17:23 I in them and you in me, that they may become perfectly one, so that the world may know that you sent me and loved them even as you loved me.

Rom 5:5 ... and hope does not put us to shame, because God's love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.

Ps 136:3, 10-16, 23-24 Give thanks to the Lord of lords, for his steadfast love endures forever; 📖 ... ¹⁰to him who struck down the firstborn of Egypt, for his steadfast love endures forever; ¹¹and brought Israel out from among them, for his

^w Hebrew shook off

Regarding v. 10, the striking down of “the firstborn of Egypt” (v. 10a) was a critical act in God’s redemption of his people from Egypt, and so reflected his love for them (v. 10b).

Isa 43:3-4 For I am the LORD your God, the Holy One of Israel, your Savior. I give Egypt as your ransom, Cush and Seba in exchange for you. ⁴Because you are precious in my eyes, and honored, and I love you, I give men in return for you, peoples in exchange for your life. 📖

The second half of v. 4 is referring to what was said in v. 3. It is implying that in exchange for allowing his people (the Jewish exiles) to return home, God would allow the Persians to usurp the countries mentioned in v. 3b.

Isa 63:9 In all their affliction he was afflicted,^x and the angel of his presence saved them; in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; he lifted them up and carried them all the days of old. 📖

Particularly if the rendering in the text note is to be preferred, these verses illustrate that God shows his love for his people in delivering them.

Zeph 3:17 The LORD your God is in your midst, a mighty one who will save; he will rejoice over you with gladness; he will quiet you by his love; he will exult over you with loud singing. 📖

The clause “quiet you by his love” appears to speak of the calm (cf. NLT) and rest (cf. NCV) produced by God’s love and salvation (the latter being referred to earlier in the verse).

However there is some doubt about the Hebrew text (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NASB).

... and God shows his love for his people in protecting them

Deut 23:5 But the LORD your God would not listen to Balaam; instead the LORD your God turned the curse into a blessing for you, because the LORD your God loved you.

The clause “all his holy ones were in his hand” (v. 3) speaks of God’s protection and care of his people (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV). The expression “dwells between his shoulders” (v. 12) refers to God’s people resting amidst God’s strength.

Ezra 9:9 For we are slaves. Yet our God has not forsaken us in our slavery, but has extended to us his steadfast love before the kings of Persia, to grant us some reviving to set up the house of our God, to repair its ruins, and to give us protection^d in Judea and Jerusalem.

Ps 21:7 For the king trusts in the LORD, and through the steadfast love of the Most High he shall not be moved.

Because of God’s steadfast love for them, his people (like the king here) “will not be overwhelmed” (NCV™).

Ps 40:11 As for you, O LORD, you will not restrain your mercy from me; your steadfast love and your faithfulness will ever preserve me!

Ps 94:18 When I thought, “My foot slips,” your steadfast love, O LORD, held me up.

Ps 144:2 ... he is my steadfast love and my fortress, my stronghold and my deliverer, my shield and he in whom I take refuge, who subdues peoples^e under me.

God’s steadfast love appears to be in view in the subsequent protective images applied to him.

✦ In his steadfast love, God leads his people:

God is completely faithful to his people

Ps 25:10 All the paths of the LORD are steadfast love and faithfulness, for those who keep his covenant and his testimonies.

Gen 32:10a I am not worthy of the least of all the deeds of steadfast love and all the faithfulness that you have shown to your servant ...

Deut 7:9 Know therefore that the LORD your God is God, the faithful God who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments, to a thousand generations, ...

Lam 3:22-23 The steadfast love of the LORD never ceases;^m his mercies never come to an end; ²³they are new every morning; great is your faithfulness.

^mSyriac, Targum; Hebrew Because of the steadfast love of the LORD, we are not cut off

1Thes 5:23-24 Now may the God of peace himself sanctify you completely, and may your whole spirit and soul and body be kept blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁴*He who calls you is faithful; he will surely do it.*

1Pet 4:19 Therefore let those who suffer according to God's will entrust their souls to a faithful Creator while doing good.

† Promise of faithfulness and steadfast love:

Ps 89:24 My faithfulness and my steadfast love shall be with him, and in my name shall his horn be exalted.

This promise of faithfulness and steadfast love – which are often paired together in the OT – is made to the Davidic Messiah, but is applicable to all of God's people.

God is faithful even if his people are unfaithful and do wrong

Rom 3:3-4 What if some were unfaithful? Does their faithlessness nullify the faithfulness of God? ⁴By no means! Let God be true though every one were a liar, as it is written, "That you may be justified in your words, and prevail when you are judged."

Neh 9:17-19, 33 They refused to obey and were not mindful of the wonders that you performed among them, but they stiffened their neck and appointed a leader to return to their slavery in Egypt. But you are a God ready to forgive, gracious and merciful, slow to anger and abounding in steadfast love, and did not forsake them. ¹⁸*Even when they had made for themselves a goldenⁿ calf and said, 'This is your God who brought you up out of Egypt,' and had committed great blasphemies, ¹⁹you in your great mercies did not forsake them in the wilderness. The pillar of cloud to lead them in the way did not depart from them by day, nor the pillar of fire by night to light for them the way by which they should go.*  ... ³³*Yet you have been righteous in all that has come upon us, for you have dealt faithfully and we have acted wickedly.*

ⁿ Hebrew metal

In vv. 17, 19 God's faithfulness to his unfaithful people (v. 33) is highlighted by the fact that he "did not forsake them" (vv. 17, 19).

Lev 26:43-44 But the land shall be abandoned by them and enjoy its Sabbaths while it lies desolate without them, and they shall make amends for their iniquity, because they spurned my rules and their soul abhorred my statutes. ⁴⁴*Yet for all that, when they are in the land of their enemies, I will not spurn them, neither will I abhor them so as to destroy them utterly and break my covenant with them, for I am the LORD their God.*

2Ki 13:22-23 Now Hazael king of Syria oppressed Israel all the days of Jehoahaz. ²³*But the LORD was gracious to them and had compassion on them, and he turned toward them, because of his covenant with Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob, and would not destroy them, nor has he cast them from his presence until now.*

Despite the sin and unfaithfulness of the people (cf. v. 11) – which lead to their oppression by the Syrians (v. 22) – God faithfully persisted in keeping his covenant (cf. God faithfully maintains his covenants with his people forever . . ., below) and so did not destroy them.

Jer 31:37 Thus says the LORD: "If the heavens above can be measured, and the foundations of the earth below can be explored, then I will cast off all the offspring of Israel for all that they have done, declares the LORD."

Jer 51:5 For Israel and Judah have not been forsaken by their God, the LORD of hosts, but the land of the Chaldeans^o is full of guilt against the Holy One of Israel.

^o Hebrew their land

Most other modern translations follow the interpretation reflected in the alternative rendering in the ESV text note (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT, NRSV). As such this verse attests to God's faithfulness to Israel in spite of their guilt and unfaithfulness.

2Tim 2:13 ... if we are faithless, he remains faithful—for he cannot deny himself. 📖

The reference is to Jesus Christ. Like his Father, Jesus is faithful even when his people are faithless.

✦ Despite what David's descendants might do, God would maintain his faithfulness to David:

Ps 89:30-33 If his children forsake my law and do not walk according to my rules,^p ³¹if they violate my statutes and do not keep my commandments, ³²then I will punish their transgression with the rod and their iniquity with stripes, ³³but I will not remove from him my steadfast love or be false to my faithfulness. 📖

Gen 24:27 ... and said, "Blessed be the LORD, the God of my master Abraham, who has not forsaken his steadfast love and his faithfulness toward my master. As for me, the LORD has led me in the way to the house of my master's kinsmen." 📖

Abraham's servant is speaking of God leading him to find a wife for Abraham's son Isaac, thus showing his faithfulness to Abraham.

Gen 32:10 I am not worthy of the least of all the deeds of steadfast love and all the faithfulness that you have shown to your servant, for with only my staff I crossed this Jordan, and now I have become two camps. 📖

The term "two camps" refers to Jacob's large household (including servants) and numerous flocks, herds and camels – all of which Jacob had just (v. 7) divided into two groups.

Ps 31:5 Into your hand I commit my spirit; you have redeemed me, O LORD, faithful God. 📖

Ps 85:10-12 Steadfast love and faithfulness meet; righteousness and peace kiss each other. ¹¹Faithfulness springs up from the ground, and righteousness looks down from the sky. ¹²Yes, the LORD will give what is good, and our land will yield its increase. 📖

This attests to God's faithfulness – along with his love and righteousness – in his care of his people.

Ps 91:4 He will cover you with his pinions, and under his wings you will find refuge; his faithfulness is a shield and buckler. 📖

In his faithfulness God will protect his people.

Ps 98:3 He has remembered his steadfast love and faithfulness to the house of Israel. All the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God. 📖

Here "salvation" is primarily that which God provided for "the house of Israel" – showing his faithfulness to his people.

Lam 3:22-23 The steadfast love of the LORD never ceases;^a his mercies never come to an end; ²³they are new every morning; great is your faithfulness. 📖

This may be speaking of God being faithful (and righteous) to his people following on their return to the land, rather than in his earlier actions (vv. 7-8a). But even if this is the case, this is well complimented by God's saving them and returning them home (vv. 7-8a), exemplifying his faithfulness.

1Cor 10:13 No temptation has overtaken you that is not common to man. God is faithful, and he will not let you be tempted beyond your ability, but with the temptation he will also provide the way of escape, that you may be able to endure it. 📖

1Thes 5:23-24 Now may the God of peace himself sanctify you completely, and may your whole spirit and soul and body be kept blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁴He who calls you is faithful; he will surely do it. 📖

1Jn 1:9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. 📖

Isa 49:7 Thus says the LORD, the Redeemer of Israel and his Holy One, to one deeply despised, abhorred by the nation, the servant of rulers: "Kings shall see and arise; princes, and they shall prostrate themselves; because of the LORD, who is faithful, the Holy One of Israel, who has chosen you."

This speaks of God's faithfulness to his Messiah, in exalting him.

‡ God promises to be faithful to his people:

Hos 2:20 I will betroth you to me in faithfulness. And you shall know the LORD.

Note that most of the promises referred to in the following verses are ones associated with covenants that God had made with his people.

Josh 21:45 Not one word of all the good promises that the LORD had made to the house of Israel had failed; all came to pass.

Josh 23:14-15 And now I am about to go the way of all the earth, and you know in your hearts and souls, all of you, that not one word has failed of all the good things^r that the LORD your God promised concerning you. All have come to pass for you; not one of them has failed. ¹⁵But just as all the good things that the LORD your God promised concerning you have been fulfilled for you, so the LORD will bring upon you all the evil things, until he has destroyed you from off this good land that the LORD your God has given you, ...

^r Or words; also twice in verse 15

In v. 15 Joshua refers to God's promised judgment for the people if they broke his covenant with them. Just as he keeps his promises of blessings to his people, God also keeps his promises of judgment.

Deut 7:8 ... but it is because the LORD loves you and is keeping the oath that he swore to your fathers, that the LORD has brought you out with a mighty hand and redeemed you from the house of slavery, from the hand of Pharaoh king of Egypt.

1Ki 5:12a And the LORD gave Solomon wisdom, as he promised him.

1Ki 17:16 The jar of flour was not spent, neither did the jug of oil become empty, according to the word of the LORD that he spoke by Elijah.

Ps 105:42-45 For he remembered his holy promise, and Abraham, his servant. ⁴³So he brought his people out with joy, his chosen ones with singing. ⁴⁴And he gave them the lands of the nations, and they took possession of the fruit of the peoples' toil, ⁴⁵that they might keep his statutes and observe his laws. Praise the LORD!

The "holy promise" (v. 42) was that of the land of Canaan (cf. vv. 8-11), referred to here as "the lands of the nations" (v. 44).

Ps 119:65, 140 You have dealt well with your servant, O LORD, according to your word.  ... ¹⁴⁰Your promise is well tried, and your servant loves it.

This reflects that God's promises have been "thoroughly tested" (NIV®) and proven true.

Note that here faithfulness is part of what God swore or promised, a promise which Micah asserts God will fulfill.

Acts 13:23 Of this man's offspring God has brought to Israel a Savior, Jesus, as he promised.

Heb 10:23 Let us hold fast the confession of our hope without wavering, for he who promised is faithful.

Rom 4:20-21 No distrust made him waver concerning the promise of God, but he grew strong in his faith as he gave glory to God, ²¹fully convinced that God was able to do what he had promised. 📖

God faithfully maintains his covenants with his people forever

God's faithful keeping of his covenants with his people is one of the most prominent OT attestations to God's faithfulness.

Gen 9:11-16 I establish my covenant with you [Noah and his sons], that never again shall all flesh be cut off by the waters of the flood, and never again shall there be a flood to destroy the earth." ¹²And God said, "This is the sign of the covenant that I make between me and you and every living creature that is with you, for all future generations: ¹³I have set my bow in the cloud, and it shall be a sign of the covenant between me and the earth. ¹⁴When I bring clouds over the earth and the bow is seen in the clouds, ¹⁵I will remember my covenant that is between me and you and every living creature of all flesh. And the waters shall never again become a flood to destroy all flesh. ¹⁶When the bow is in the clouds, I will see it and remember the everlasting covenant between God and every living creature of all flesh that is on the earth." 📖

God has faithfully kept this covenant – made with those who were his people, but for all humankind and all creatures – to this day.

Deut 4:31 For the LORD your God is a merciful God. He will not leave you or destroy you or forget the covenant with your fathers that he swore to them. 📖

Deut 7:9 Know therefore that the LORD your God is God, the faithful God who keeps covenant and steadfast love with those who love him and keep his commandments, to a thousand generations, ... 📖

Judg 2:1 Now the angel of the LORD went up from Gilgal to Bochim. And he said, "I brought you up from Egypt and brought you into the land that I swore to give to your fathers. I said, 'I will never break my covenant with you, ...' 📖

Here the angel of the LORD speaks on behalf of God.

2Sam 23:5 For does not my house stand so with God? For he has made with me an everlasting covenant, ordered in all things and secure. For will he not cause to prosper all my help and my desire? 📖

Ps 89:28, 34-37 My steadfast love I will keep for him forever, and my covenant will stand firm^u for him. 📖 ... ³⁴I will not violate my covenant or alter the word that went forth from my lips. ³⁵Once for all I have sworn by my holiness; I will not lie to David. ³⁶His offspring shall endure forever, his throne as long as the sun before me. ³⁷Like the moon it shall be established forever, a faithful witness in the skies." Selah 📖

^u Or will remain faithful

Verse 37 speaks of the moon faithfully remaining in the sky as being reflective of God faithfully keeping his covenant with David forever.

Ps 105:8-11 He remembers his covenant forever, the word that he commanded, for a thousand generations, ⁹the covenant that he made with Abraham, his sworn promise to Isaac, ¹⁰which he confirmed to Jacob as a statute, to Israel as an everlasting covenant, ¹¹saying, "To you I will give the land of Canaan as your portion for an inheritance." 📖

Ps 111:9 He sent redemption to his people; he has commanded his covenant forever. Holy and awesome is his name! 📖

Jer 32:40 I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn away from doing good to them. And I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me. 📖

Jer 33:20-21 Thus says the LORD: If you can break my covenant with the day and my covenant with the night, so that day and night will not come at their appointed time, ²¹then also my covenant with David my servant may be broken, so that he shall not have a son to reign on his throne, and my covenant with the Levitical priests my ministers. 📖

Just as God will keep the cycle of day and night continuing till the end of days, so will he faithfully keep his covenants with David (cf. Ps 89:28, 34-37 ↑) and with the Levitical priests.

Hos 2:19 And I will betroth you to me forever. I will betroth you to me in righteousness and in justice, in steadfast love and in mercy. 📖

Betrothal was a binding contract – a covenant – entered into prior to marriage. In saying that he will betroth Israel to himself forever, God speaks of faithfully maintaining this covenant with her forever.

Note: God remembers his people

Ps 136:23 It is he who remembered us in our low estate, for his steadfast love endures forever; ...

Ps 115:12 The LORD has remembered us; he will bless us; he will bless the house of Israel; he will bless the house of Aaron; ...

Isa 44:21 Remember these things, O Jacob, and Israel, for you are my servant; I formed you; you are my servant; O Israel, you will not be forgotten by me.

Isa 49:14-16 But Zion said, “The LORD has forsaken me; my Lord has forgotten me.” ¹⁵*“Can a woman forget her nursing child, that she should have no compassion on the son of her womb? Even these may forget, yet I will not forget you. ¹⁶Behold, I have engraved you on the palms of my hands; your walls are continually before me.*

With the last clause (vv. 16b) God is in effect saying to Jerusalem and its people: “You are always in my thoughts!” (CEV)

Zeph 2:7 The seacoast shall become the possession of the remnant of the house of Judah, on which they shall graze, and in the houses of Ashkelon they shall lie down at evening. For the LORD their God will be mindful of them and restore their fortunes.

Gen 8:1 But God remembered Noah and all the beasts and all the livestock that were with him in the ark. And God made a wind blow over the earth, and the waters subsided.

Gen 19:29 So it was that, when God destroyed the cities of the valley, God remembered Abraham and sent Lot out of the midst of the overthrow when he overthrew the cities in which Lot had lived.

Gen 30:22 Then God remembered Rachel, and God listened to her and opened her womb.

What God does for his people is based on his “grace” – his free and undeserved favour. God’s wonderful grace in the believer’s salvation is discussed largely in b) Salvation by Grace, through Jesus Christ, p. 646. The first subsection here also includes references to it, but this section as a whole primarily deals with the ongoing role of God’s grace in his people’s lives.

God and Jesus Christ show abundant grace toward their people

Rom 5:15-17, 20-21 But the free gift is not like the trespass. For if many died through one man's trespass, much more have the grace of God and the free gift by the grace of that one man Jesus Christ abounded for many. ¹⁶And the free gift is not like the result of that one man's sin. For the judgment following one trespass brought condemnation, but the free gift following many trespasses brought justification. ¹⁷For if, because of one man's trespass, death reigned through that one man, much more will those who receive the abundance of grace and the free gift of righteousness reign in life through the one man Jesus Christ. ... ²⁰Now the law came in to increase the trespass, but where sin increased, grace abounded all the more, ²¹*so that, as sin reigned in death, grace also might reign through righteousness leading to eternal life through Jesus Christ our Lord.*

Verse 15 contrasts the sin of Adam, which led to many dying, with the grace of Jesus Christ, which led to many receiving God's grace and the accompanying gift of righteousness. In saying that "much more" the latter "abounded" to many, Paul appears to be pointing to it being more emphatic and overwhelming. This greater forcefulness is illustrated in the following verse (v. 16), which describes how the judgment followed only one sin whereas the gift that came by grace surmounted many sins. The result of the latter is also more triumphant – it being the irrevocable justification which offsets the judgment. Verses 17, 20-21 further show how "much more" (v. 17) effusive is the effect of God's grace than that of sin.

2Cor 9:8, 14 And God is able to make all grace abound to you, so that having all sufficiency^w in all things at all times, you may abound in every good work. ... ¹⁴*while they long for you and pray for you, because of the surpassing grace of God upon you.*

1Tim 1:14 ... and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus.

1Pet 1:2b May grace and peace be multiplied to you.

Acts 4:33 And with great power the apostles were giving their testimony to the resurrection of the Lord Jesus, and great grace was upon them all.

Acts 6:8 And Stephen, full of grace and power, was doing great wonders and signs among the people.

† God is "the God of all grace":

1Pet 5:10 And after you have suffered a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal glory in Christ, will himself restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish you.

The ascription of God has "the God of all grace" speaks of God as the one who "imparts all blessing and favor" (AMP), the ultimate source of all spiritual blessings. It also points to his grace as being incalculable and limitless.

By grace God's people are given spiritual blessings and gifts

John 1:14, 16 And the Word became flesh and dwelt among us, and we have seen his glory, glory as of the only Son from the Father, full of grace and truth. ... ¹⁶*And from his fullness we have all received, grace upon grace.*

The term "fullness" (v. 16) refers to Christ being "full of grace and truth" (v. 14; cf. NCV), and thus refers to "the fullness of his grace" (GNT, NIV). The phrase "grace upon grace" speaks of "one gracious blessing after another" (NLT).

Rom 12:3 For by the grace given to me I say to everyone among you not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think with sober judgment, each according to the measure of faith that God has assigned.

The phrase "the grace given me" appears to refer to the wisdom and authority given to Paul by God's grace (cf. v. 6 ↓).

Rom 12:6 Having gifts that differ according to the grace given to us, let us use them: if prophecy, in proportion to our faith; ...

The spiritual gifts given to believers are manifestations of God's grace (cf. v. 3 ↑; 1Cor 1:4-5 ↓; Eph 4:7-8, 11 ↓; 1Pet 4:10 ↓).

1Cor 1:4-5 I give thanks to my God always for you because of the grace of God that was given you in Christ Jesus, ⁵*that in every way you were enriched in him in all speech and all knowledge—*

In v. 5b Paul quite possibly has spiritual gifts in view, particularly as he deals with them in detail later in the letter.

Eph 4:7-8, 11 But grace was given to each one of us according to the measure of Christ's gift. ⁸Therefore it says, "When he ascended on high he led a host of captives, and he gave gifts to men." ... ¹¹*And he gave the apostles, the prophets, the evangelists, the shepherds^x and teachers,^y ...*

^x Or pastors

^y Or the shepherd-teachers

1Pet 4:10 As each has received a gift, use it to serve one another, as good stewards of God's varied grace: ...

"God's varied grace" here points to the different spiritual gifts one receives from God, manifestations of his grace.

† God graciously blesses his people:

Gen 33:11 [Jacob, to Esau:] Please accept my blessing that is brought to you, because God has dealt graciously with me, and because I have enough. Thus he urged him, and he took it.

The use of "gracious" (or "graciously") in the OT does not have precisely the same sense as "grace" in the NT. Nevertheless this verse reflects the fact that God in his grace blesses us, to the extent that we can in turn bless others.

By grace God's people are entrusted with his work . . .

Although the following passages all involve Paul speaking largely of his own circumstances, the principle of God's people being entrusted with his work by his grace is applicable to all believers.

Rom 1:4b-5 ... Jesus Christ our Lord, ⁵through whom we have received grace and apostleship to bring about the obedience of faith for the sake of his name among all the nations, ...

The mention of Paul receiving "grace" is most likely referring to God's grace shown to him in choosing him for his task (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT). But it could also refer to or include the grace which God bestowed on Paul in equipping him for the task.

Rom 15:15-16 But on some points I have written to you very boldly by way of reminder, because of the grace given me by God ¹⁶*to be a minister of Christ Jesus to the Gentiles in the priestly service of the gospel of God, so that the offering of the Gentiles may be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.*

1Cor 15:9-10a For I am the least of the apostles, unworthy to be called an apostle, because I persecuted the church of God. ¹⁰*But by the grace of God I am what I am, and his grace toward me was not in vain.*

By grace Paul was made an apostle, with the accompanying critical ministry of extending God's kingdom. Note that the first part of v. 10a gives a sobering principle that can be applied generally to all aspects of our lives – i.e. we are what we are only by the grace of God.

Gal 1:15-16 But when he who had set me apart before I was born,^z and who called me by his grace, ¹⁶*was pleased to reveal his Son to^a me, in order that I might preach him among the Gentiles, I did not immediately consult with anyone;^b ...*

^z Greek set me apart from my mother's womb

^a Greek in

^b Greek with flesh and blood

The fact that Paul was set apart by God before he was born illustrates God's grace, along with him being called by grace (v. 15). Note that Paul is likely talking – primarily at least – of being set apart for and called to his apostolic work (cf. GNT, NCV), but instead his conversion could be in view. Possibly Paul is not intending to distinguish between the two.

Gal 2:7, 9 On the contrary, when they saw that I had been entrusted with the gospel to the uncircumcised, just as Peter had been entrusted with the gospel to the circumcised ... ⁹*and when James and Cephas and John, who seemed to be pillars, perceived the grace that was given to me, they gave the right hand of fellowship to Barnabas and me, that we should go to the Gentiles and they to the circumcised.*

The grace given to Paul (v. 9a) refers to him being entrusted with preaching the gospel to the Gentiles (v. 7; cf. v. 9b).

Eph 3:2-3, 7-9 ... assuming that you have heard of the stewardship of God's grace that was given to me for you, ³*how the mystery was made known to me by revelation, as I have written briefly.* ... ⁷*Of this gospel I was made a minister according to the gift of God's grace, which was given me by the working of his power.* ⁸*To me, though I am the very least of all the saints, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ,* ⁹*and to bring to light for everyone what is the plan of the mystery hidden for ages in^c God who created all things, ...*

^c Or by

There is some doubt as to how "grace" is used in v. 2. Amongst the possibilities are that it refers to God's grace: in commissioning Paul for this work; in making known the mystery of Christ to Paul (cf. v. 3); in the message itself; and in imparting the message to the Ephesians or the Gentiles in general. The first two options – which are closely related – are reflected in the use of "grace" in vv. 7-9. Both options pertain to this subsection. The fourth option pertains to the following subsection. Note that the latter part of v. 7 may be speaking of the expression of God's grace in Paul becoming a servant of the gospel being effected by God's power, in changing Paul and/or equipping him for the work. However God's power in Paul's ongoing ministry may primarily be in view (cf. BKC).

Particularly in light of vv. 1-2, in vv. 6-7 "grace" probably is primarily likewise referring to the grace of God manifested in generous giving towards supplying the needs of God's people (cf. 2Cor 9:8, 12-14 ↓). Note that such acts are a service (cf. 2Cor 9:13 ↓) to others, an aspect of God's work for believers to do.

^g Or you

The "surpassing grace of God upon you" (v. 14) is that manifested in their "service" (v. 13) of giving.

Phil 1:7 It is right for me to feel this way about you all, because I hold you in my heart, for you are all partakers with me of grace,^h both in my imprisonment and in the defense and confirmation of the gospel. 📖

^h Or you all have fellowship with me in grace

Particularly in light of Paul's reference earlier in v. 5 to their partnership with him in spreading the gospel, it appears that here "grace" refers to that which God gave Paul and the Philippians in regard to defending and confirming the gospel – either in being commissioned to do so (as per the theme of the previous subsection) or in being enabled to do so.

2Thes 1:11-12 To this end we always pray for you, that our God may make you worthy of his calling and may fulfill every resolve for good and every work of faith by his power,¹²so that the name of our Lord Jesus may be glorified in you, and you in him, according to the grace of our God and the Lord Jesus Christ. 📖

1Pet 4:10 As each has received a gift, use it to serve one another, as good stewards of God's varied grace: ... 📖

As noted earlier, the gifts of the Holy Spirit are a manifestation of God's grace, equipping believers for God's work, such as serving others.

By grace God's people are strengthened

Heb 13:9 Do not be led away by diverse and strange teachings, for it is good for the heart to be strengthened by grace, not by foods, which have not benefited those devoted to them.

2Tim 2:1 You then, my child, be strengthened by the grace that is in Christ Jesus, ...

1Pet 5:10 And after you have suffered a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal glory in Christ, will himself restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish you.

The title "the God of all grace" suggests that it is by God's grace that he restores his people and confirms, strengthens, and establishes them in the faith.

2Cor 12:9-10 But he said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness." Therefore I will boast all the more gladly of my weaknesses, so that the power of Christ may rest upon me. ¹⁰For the sake of Christ, then, I am content with weaknesses, insults, hardships, persecutions, and calamities. For when I am weak, then I am strong.

Christ's grace was sufficient for Paul in his weakness for the more he was aware of his weaknesses, the more he was open to depending on Christ's power – in which by Christ's grace he was truly made strong.

✦ The word of God's grace builds them up:

Acts 20:32 And now I commend you to God and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up and to give you the inheritance among all those who are sanctified.

The use of the expression "the word of his grace" speaks of "the commands and counsels and promises of His unmerited favor" (AMP).

By grace God's people avoid sin

Rom 6:14 For sin will have no dominion over you, since you are not under law but under grace.

We are not under the law but "under grace" – the new regime where, in addition to being gained by God's grace, our righteousness is maintained by God's grace.

Titus 2:11-12 For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation for all people, ¹²*training us to renounce ungodliness and worldly passions, and to live self-controlled, upright, and godly lives in the present age*, ...

Heb 4:15-16 For we do not have a high priest who is unable to sympathize with our weaknesses, but one who in every respect has been tempted as we are, yet without sin. ¹⁶*Let us then with confidence draw near to the throne of grace, that we may receive mercy and find grace to help in time of need.*

For comment, see Heb 4:15-16 – under Approach God with confidence, p. 1217.

James 4:4-6 You adulterous people!ⁱ Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Therefore whoever wishes to be a friend of the world makes himself an enemy of God. ⁵Or do you suppose it is to no purpose that the Scripture says, "He yearns jealously over the spirit that he has made to dwell in us"? ⁶*But he gives more grace. Therefore it says, "God opposes the proud, but gives grace to the humble."*

ⁱ Greek You adulteresses!

God's people are to shun friendship with the world (vv. 4-5), which is contrary to God (v. 4) and so an aspect of sin. This is not easily done, but God gives his humble people grace that is greater than such a difficulty (v. 6a; cf. AMP, GNT, NLT).

II. God's Holy Spirit in His People

God's incomparable gift of his Holy Spirit is critical to God's relationship with each of his people – including God's work in and through them. In part at least, this is due to the Holy Spirit being the prime means by which God renews and helps believers.

Prelude: Prophecies of God giving his Spirit to his people

Apart perhaps from Zechariah 12:10, the following verses are referring to – or are at least applicable to – the pouring out of the Holy Spirit on God's people under the new covenant, first occurring at Pentecost (cf. Acts 2:1-4 ↓). But note that some commentators see them referring to a dispensation of the Spirit in the end times, during a millennial kingdom.

Possibly some of the verses have both in view. See also comments below on Joel 2:28-29 and Ezekiel 36:26-27.

Isa 32:14-15 For the palace is forsaken, the populous city deserted; the hill and the watchtower will become dens forever, a joy of wild donkeys, a pasture of flocks; ¹⁵*until the Spirit is poured upon us from on high*, and the wilderness becomes a fruitful field, and the fruitful field is deemed a forest.

Isa 44:3 For I will pour water on the thirsty land, and streams on the dry ground; I will pour my Spirit upon your offspring, and my blessing on your descendants.

Ezek 36:26-27 And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh. ²⁷And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes and be careful to obey my rules.^a

^a Or my just decrees

The contexts for this and the following two verses from Ezekiel speak of a national restoration of Israel, apparently in the end times (cf. Zec 12:10 ↓). Note that v. 26 repeats 11:19 almost verbatim. The context of the earlier occurrence (11:19) makes it easier to associate it with the giving of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost.

Ezek 37:14 And I will put my Spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land. Then you shall know that I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it, declares the LORD.

Ezek 39:29 And I will not hide my face anymore from them, when I pour out my Spirit upon the house of Israel, declares the Lord God.

Joel 2:28-29 ^b “And it shall come to pass afterward, that I will pour out my Spirit on all flesh; your sons and your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, and your young men shall see visions. ²⁹Even on the male and female servants in those days I will pour out my Spirit.

^b Ch 3:1 in Hebrew

This refers at least primarily to the present era, following Jesus Christ's inaugurating of God's kingdom. In Peter's use of this passage in Acts 2, "all flesh" is applied to all of God's people, from among the Gentiles as well as the Jews.

Zec 12:10 And I will pour out on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and pleas for mercy, so that, when they look on me, on him whom they have pierced, they shall mourn for him, as one mourns for an only child, and weep bitterly over him, as one weeps over a firstborn.

It is possible that “spirit” refers to the Holy “Spirit” (NASB, NKJV), hence this verse’s inclusion here. Note that the verse quite likely refers to Israel in the end times.

Acts 1:4-5 And while staying^c with them he ordered them not to depart from Jerusalem, but to wait for the promise of the Father, which, he said, “you heard from me; ⁵for John baptized with water, but you will be baptized with^d the Holy Spirit not many days from now.”

^c Or eating

^d Or in

✦ The fulfillment at Pentecost of God’s promises of the Holy Spirit:

Acts 2:1-4 When the day of Pentecost arrived, they were all together in one place. ²And suddenly there came from heaven a sound like a mighty rushing wind, and it filled the entire house where they were sitting. ³And divided tongues as of fire appeared to them and rested^e on each one of them. ⁴And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance.

^e Or And tongues as of fire appeared to them, distributed among them, and rested

The “tongues as of fire” (v. 3) were a visual symbol of the presence of God’s Spirit, “tongues” quite possibly signifying the “other tongues” (v. 4) or languages that the Holy Spirit enabled the believers to speak.

God gives his people his Holy Spirit . . .

Rom 5:5 ... and hope does not put us to shame, because God’s love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.

Gal 4:6 And because you are sons, God has sent the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, crying, “Abba! Father!”

1Cor 2:12 Now we have received not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit who is from God, that we might understand the things freely given us by God.

1Cor 6:19a Or do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit within you, whom you have from God?

1Cor 12:13 For in one Spirit we were all baptized into one body—Jews or Greeks, slaves^f or free—and all were made to drink of one Spirit.

^f Or servants; Greek bondservants

The expression “in one Spirit we were all baptized” speaks of Christians sharing in the Holy Spirit, being cleansed by the Spirit at conversion. This is closely associated here with – even identified with – receiving the Holy Spirit (“all were made to drink of one Spirit”).

1Thes 4:8 Therefore whoever disregards this, disregards not man but God, who gives his Holy Spirit to you.

Titus 3:5-6 ... he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, ⁶whom he poured out on us richly through Jesus Christ our Savior, ...

1Jn 2:20, 27b But you have been anointed by the Holy One, and you all have knowledge.[‡]  ... ²⁷ ... But as his anointing teaches you about everything, and is true, and is no lie—just as it has taught you, abide in him.

[‡] Some manuscripts you know everything

This “anointing” that believers receive is taken by most commentators to refer to the Holy Spirit. Being anointed with the Holy Spirit designates and sets apart a believer for a life devoted to God. The phrases “and is true, and is no lie” (v. 27b) is either affirming that the anointing is “real, not counterfeit” (NIV®), or speaking of the Spirit’s teaching being true (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT).

Phil 2:1 So if there is any encouragement in Christ, any comfort from love, any participation in the Spirit, any affection and sympathy, ...

In being given the Holy Spirit, God’s people participate in the Holy Spirit.

. . . God gives the Holy Spirit to those who believe and obey him

See also:

- We are given God’s Holy Spirit [outcomes of belief in Jesus Christ], p. 1053

This subsection reiterates the teaching of the previous two subsections – i.e. that God gives the Holy Spirit to his people – but it does so by teaching that God gives the Holy Spirit to those who believe and obey.

John 7:38-39 Whoever believes in me, as^h the Scripture has said, *‘Out of his heart will flow rivers of living water.’*³⁹ Now this he said about the Spirit, whom those who believed in him were to receive, for as yet the Spirit had not been given, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

^h Or let him come to me, and let him who believes in me drink. As

Acts 11:17 If then God gave the same gift to them as he gave to us when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I that I could stand in God's way?

The "gift" is the Holy Spirit (cf. vv. 15-16), given to people when they believe in Christ.

Eph 1:13 In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit, ...

Gal 3:2, 14 Let me ask you only this: Did you receive the Spirit by works of the law or by hearing with faith? ...¹⁴so that in Christ Jesus the blessing of Abraham might come to the Gentiles, so that we might receive the promised Spiritⁱ through faith.

ⁱ Greek receive the promise of the Spirit

The latter part of v. 14 may seem like it is talking about having faith in receiving the Spirit. But as reflected by v. 2, its context shows that it is almost definitely meaning that if we have faith in Christ, we will receive the Spirit that God has promised (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT).

1Cor 12:3 Therefore I want you to understand that no one speaking in the Spirit of God ever says "Jesus is accursed!" and no one can say "Jesus is Lord" except in the Holy Spirit.

"Jesus is Lord" was the earliest Christian confession, expressing one's belief. This cannot be done "except in the Holy Spirit" – which illustrates the connection between having the Holy Spirit and belief.

John 14:15-17a "If you love me, you will keep my commandments. ¹⁶*And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Helper;^j to be with you forever,* ¹⁷*even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him.*

^j Or Advocate, or Counselor; also 14:26; 15:26; 16:7

This and the following verses show that God gives the Holy Spirit to those who obey him.

Acts 2:38 And Peter said to them, "Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit."

This refers to repentance, which involves obedience. Thus this verse also indicates that those who obey receive the Holy Spirit.

Acts 5:32 And we are witnesses to these things, and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God has given to those who obey him.

^l Greek he

† David's repentant plea for God to not take the Holy Spirit from him:

Ps 51:11 Cast me not away from your presence, and take not your Holy Spirit from me.

Note that David had received a distinctive anointing with the Holy Spirit. For when Samuel anointed him to be king, "the Spirit of the Lord rushed upon David from that day forward." (1Sa 16:13)

The Holy Spirit lives in God's people

John 14:17 ... even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, for he dwells with you and will be in you.

Note that this verse shows that in contrast to God's people, the world cannot receive the Holy Spirit – nor discern him.

Rom 8:9a, 11 You, however, are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if in fact the Spirit of God dwells in you. ... ¹¹*If the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Christ Jesus from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit who dwells in you.*

2Tim 1:14 By the Holy Spirit who dwells within us, guard the good deposit entrusted to you.

James 4:5 Or do you suppose it is to no purpose that the Scripture says, "He yearns jealously over the spirit that he has made to dwell in us"?

The Holy Spirit may be the "spirit" being spoken of here (cf. CEV, NASB, NCV, NKJV, NLT), who dwells within believers.

1Jn 2:27a But the anointing that you received from him abides in you, and you have no need that anyone should teach you.

1Cor 6:19 Or do you not know that your body is a temple of the Holy Spirit within you, whom you have from God? You are not your own, ...

The reference to each believer's body as "a temple of the Holy Spirit" is indicative of the fact that the Holy Spirit lives in believers – as reflected by the subsequent phrase (“within you”).

Eph 3:16 ... that according to the riches of his glory he may grant you to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in your inner being, ...

✦ The mystery of the Holy Spirit in a believer:

John 3:8 The wind^m blows where it wishes, and you hear its sound, but you do not know where it comes from or where it goes. So it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit.

^mThe same Greek word means both wind and spirit

This most likely is implying one or more of the following: the Holy Spirit is sovereign in the lives of God's people, doing whatever he pleases; one cannot comprehend the work of the Spirit in God's people; and/or one “can't explain how people are born of the Spirit” (NLT).

Having the Holy Spirit verifies that a person is one of God's people . . .

Acts 15:8 And God, who knows the heart, bore witness to them, by giving them the Holy Spirit just as he did to us, ...

The phrase “bore witness to them” refers to God indicating that he had accepted people from among the Gentiles as his people – by giving them the Holy Spirit.

Rom 8:15-16 For you did not receive the spirit of slavery to fall back into fear, but you have received the Spirit of adoption as sons, by whom we cry, “Abba! Father!” ¹⁶*The Spirit himself bears witness with our spirit that we are children of God,* ...

The Holy Spirit testifies to and assures believers that they are God's children (v. 16). Accordingly, by the Holy Spirit believers can acknowledge or address God as Father (v. 15). Note that “Abba” is Aramaic for “Father”.

Rom 8:9 You, however, are not in the flesh but in the Spirit, if in fact the Spirit of God dwells in you. Anyone who does not have the Spirit of Christ does not belong to him.

Acts 11:17 If then God gave the same gift to them as he gave to us when we believed in the Lord Jesus Christ, who was I that I could stand in God's way?

God gives people the Holy Spirit “when” (cf. Eph 1:13 ↓) they believe. This implies that all people who believe have the Holy Spirit. As such, having the Holy Spirit verifies that a person is a believer, one of God's people.

Eph 1:13 In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit, ...

Gal 3:2-3 Let me ask you only this: Did you receive the Spirit by works of the law or by hearing with faith? ³Are you so foolish? Having begun by the Spirit, are you now being perfected by^a the flesh?

^a Or now ending with

Like Acts 11:17 above, this implies that we receive the Holy Spirit when we believe (v. 2), at the beginning (v. 3) of our lives as one of God's people.

. . . Having the Holy Spirit indicates that God lives in a person

1Jn 3:24 Whoever keeps his commandments abides in God,^o and God^p in him. And by this we know that he abides in us, by the Spirit whom he has given us.

^o Greek him

^p Greek he

Having the Spirit of God verifies that God himself lives in us.

1Jn 4:13 By this we know that we abide in him and he in us, because he has given us of his Spirit.

The Greek translated here as “given us of his Spirit” indicates that we are given a share in God's Spirit (cf. BKC) – a “participation in the Spirit” (Phil 2:1; cf. Rom 8:9) – which is probably a more precise description of what is meant when one speaks of God giving his Holy Spirit to his people. Also note that sharing with God of his Spirit is a key aspect to the mutual indwelling of God and believers.

John 14:16-21 And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Helper,^a to be with you forever, ¹⁷*even the Spirit of truth*, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, for he dwells with you and will be in you. ¹⁸“I will not leave you as orphans; I will come to you. ¹⁹Yet a little while and the world will see me no more, but you will see me. Because I live, you also will live. ²⁰In that day you will know that I am in my Father, and you in me, and I in you. ²¹Whoever has my commandments and keeps them, he it is who loves me. And he who loves me will be loved by my Father, and I will love him and manifest myself to him.

^a Or Advocate, or Counselor; also 14:26; 15:26; 16:7

This could be referring to believers experiencing Jesus Christ's presence (vv. 18-21) – with him living in them (v. 20) – through having the Holy Spirit (cf. vv. 16-17). For further comment, including alternative interpretations, see God and Jesus Christ enable their people to know them, p. 811.

‡ One must be born of the Holy Spirit to enter God's kingdom:

John 3:5-7 Jesus answered, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God. ⁶That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.^r ⁷Do not marvel that I said to you, 'You^s must be born again.'

^r The same Greek word means both wind and spirit

^s The Greek for you is plural here

One needs to be born of the Spirit – given spiritual life by the Spirit (v. 6b) – through the Spirit's presence, in order to enter God's kingdom.

The Holy Spirit is God's seal, guaranteeing what is to come

Eph 1:13-14 In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit, ¹⁴*who is the guarantee^t of our inheritance until we acquire possession of it,*^u to the praise of his glory.

^t Or down payment

^u Or until God redeems his possession

Eph 4:30 And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, by whom you were sealed for the day of redemption.

2Cor 1:21-22 And it is God who establishes us with you in Christ, and has anointed us, ²²*and who has also put his seal on us and given us his Spirit in our hearts as a guarantee.*^v

^v Or down payment

In saying that God "put his seal on us" (v. 22) Paul appears to be referring to God giving the Holy Spirit to believers, as in the subsequent phrase. Note that "anointed us" (v. 21b) may have in view God bestowing on believers gifts of the Holy Spirit (cf. AMP), in commissioning them for his service (cf. NLT).

2Cor 5:5 He who has prepared us for this very thing is God, who has given us the Spirit as a guarantee.

Rom 8:11 If the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Christ Jesus from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit who dwells in you.

Although the physical bodies of believers will die due to sin (cf. v. 10), because God's Spirit lives in them believers can be assured that God will raise them from the dead through his Spirit.

Rom 8:23 And not only the creation, but we ourselves, who have the firstfruits of the Spirit, groan inwardly as we wait eagerly for adoption as sons, the redemption of our bodies.

The term "firstfruits" alludes to the firstfruits of the harvest which were offered to God. As well as preceding the rest of the harvest, it was seen as a confirmation that the rest would take place. Here the term is applied to either the spiritual fruits produced in believers by the indwelling Holy Spirit and/or the Holy Spirit himself (cf. GNT, NCV, NLT) in believers. For like the firstfruits of the harvest, the Spirit's presence and his fruit both precede and are an assurance of the future blessings promised to believers.

Gal 5:5 For through the Spirit, by faith, we ourselves eagerly wait for the hope of righteousness.

Having the Holy Spirit enables believers to await the righteousness to come – presumably one aspect of the Spirit's role as God's seal. This "hope of righteousness" is either referring to being pronounced right with God on Judgment Day (cf. v. 4), or being made righteous in ourselves (i.e. the consummation of our sanctification) following Christ's return.

‡ God's promise that his Spirit (and words) will not leave his people:

Isa 59:21 "And as for me, this is my covenant with them," says the LORD: "My Spirit that is upon you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, or out of the mouth of your offspring, or out of the mouth of your children's offspring," says the LORD, "from this time forth and forevermore."

A millennial age is understood by many to be primarily in view, but even so (as often is the case) the truth set forth is very much applicable to believers now.

Examples of people receiving the Holy Spirit

Acts 8:14-17 Now when the apostles at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent to them Peter and John, ¹⁵*who came down and prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit,* ¹⁶*for he had not yet fallen* on any of them, but they had only been baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. ¹⁷Then they laid their hands on them and they received the Holy Spirit.

This occurrence of the Gentiles not receiving the Holy Spirit until some time after their apparent conversion is unusual (although possibly it also occurs in Acts 19:1-6 below). As seen in the previous subsections, Scripture as a whole teaches that believers receive the Holy Spirit at the time of their conversion. A common explanation for this occurrence is that it was because these particular believers were Samaritans and being in the very early days of the church, even prior to the lesson learnt through Cornelius (cf. Acts 1-12), it was very beneficial that leaders from the church in Jerusalem be present to see these Gentiles receive the Holy Spirit. This showed the Jewish section of the church that their conversion was genuine and that God had accepted them (cf. Acts 10:44-46a ). Additionally, particularly as they received the Holy Spirit when Peter and John laid hands on them, it promoted unity and acceptance of each other.

Acts 9:17-18 So Ananias departed and entered the house. And laying his hands on him he said, "Brother Saul, the Lord Jesus who appeared to you on the road by which you came has sent me so that you may regain your sight and be filled with the Holy Spirit." ¹⁸And immediately something like scales fell from his eyes, and he regained his sight. Then he rose and was baptized; ...

Although it is not explicitly stated, presumably Paul received the Holy Spirit at this time, particularly as it is mentioned along with receiving back his sight in v. 17, which did occur here (v. 18).

Acts 10:44-46a While Peter was still saying these things, the Holy Spirit fell on all who heard the word. ⁴⁵And the believers from among the circumcised who had come with Peter were amazed, because the gift of the Holy Spirit was poured out even on the Gentiles. ⁴⁶For they were hearing them speaking in tongues and extolling God.

Acts 19:1-6 And it happened that while Apollos was at Corinth, Paul passed through the inland^w country and came to Ephesus. There he found some disciples. ²And he said to them, "Did you receive the Holy Spirit when you believed?" And they said, "No, we have not even heard that there is a Holy Spirit." ³And he said, "Into what then were you baptized?" They said, "Into John's baptism." ⁴And Paul said, "John baptized with the baptism of repentance, telling the people to believe in the one who was to come after him, that is, Jesus." ⁵On hearing this, they were baptized in^x the name of the Lord Jesus. ⁶And when Paul had laid his hands on them, the Holy Spirit came on them, and they began speaking in tongues and prophesying.

^w Greek upper (that is, highland)

^x Or into

A number of commentators think that these disciples (v. 1) were disciples of John and had only a limited understanding of the gospel. Verses 4b-5 may well mean that it was only at this point that Jesus became the focus of their faith – which would explain why they received the Holy Spirit at this time rather than when they earlier "believed" (v. 2).

Examples of people being filled with the Holy Spirit

See also:

▪ Acts 9:17

Being "filled with the Holy Spirit" involves one being thoroughly immersed in the Spirit and under his control, with one's own spirit being in step with, even at one with, the Holy Spirit. At times it appears to be spoken of as occurring for a relatively short period of time, such as in empowering a person to speak or preach God's word on a particular occasion (cf. Luke 1:41-42, 67 ; Acts 4:8 ; Acts 4:31 ; Acts 13:8-11 ). (Although this does not necessarily mean that afterwards such people were no longer filled with the Spirit.) In contrast, some people are described generally as being full of the Holy Spirit (cf. Luke 1:15 ; Acts 6:3-5 ; Acts 11:24 ). Like these people, all believers are called to keep on being filled with the Holy Spirit (Eph 5:18 .

Luke 1:15 ... for he will be great before the Lord. And he must not drink wine or strong drink, and he will be filled with the Holy Spirit, even from his mother's womb. ...

This is a prophecy regarding John the Baptist, whose parents were Elizabeth (cf. v. 41 ) and Zechariah (cf. v. 67 .

Luke 1:41-42, 67 And when Elizabeth heard the greeting of Mary, the baby leaped in her womb. And Elizabeth was filled with the Holy Spirit, ⁴²and she exclaimed with a loud cry, "Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb!  ... ⁶⁷And his father Zechariah was filled with the Holy Spirit and prophesied, saying, ...

Luke 4:1 And Jesus, full of the Holy Spirit, returned from the Jordan and was led by the Spirit in the wilderness ...

Acts 2:4 And they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and began to speak in other tongues as the Spirit gave them utterance.

Acts 4:8 Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, "Rulers of the people and elders, ...

Acts 4:31 And when they had prayed, the place in which they were gathered together was shaken, and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and continued to speak the word of God with boldness.

Acts 6:3-5 Therefore, brothers,^y pick out from among you seven men of good repute, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we will appoint to this duty. ⁴But we will devote ourselves to prayer and to the ministry of the word." ⁵And what they said pleased the whole gathering, and they chose Stephen, a man full of faith and of the Holy Spirit, and Philip, and Prochorus, and Nicanor, and Timon, and Parmenas, and Nicolaus, a proselyte of Antioch.

^y Or brothers and sisters

Acts 11:24 ... for [Barnabas] he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. And a great many people were added to the Lord.

Acts 13:8-11 But Elymas the magician (for that is the meaning of his name) opposed them, seeking to turn the proconsul away from the faith. ⁹But Saul, who was also called Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, looked intently at him ¹⁰and said, "You son of the devil, you enemy of all righteousness, full of all deceit and villainy, will you not stop making crooked the straight paths of the Lord? ¹¹And now, behold, the hand of the Lord is upon you, and you will be blind and unable to see the sun for a time." Immediately mist and darkness fell upon him, and he went about seeking people to lead him by the hand.

Note the power (v. 11) that accompanied Paul's words that he spoke when "filled with the Holy Spirit" (v. 9).

Acts 13:52 And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

Ex 31:3 ... and I have filled him with the Spirit of God, with ability and intelligence, with knowledge and all craftsmanship, ...

✦ Believers are to go on being filled with the Holy Spirit:

Eph 5:18 And do not get drunk with wine, for that is debauchery, but be filled with the Spirit, ...

Here Paul implies that believers are to continue on being filled with the Holy Spirit. It also suggests that they are passively involved – they are to "let" (CEV, NLT) the Holy Spirit fill them (cf. ZBC).

Note: The concept of asking for the Holy Spirit

Luke 11:13 If you then, who are evil, know how to give good gifts to your children, how much more will the heavenly Father give the Holy Spirit to those who ask him!

This reference to asking for the Holy Spirit appears to contradict the teaching that all believers have the Holy Spirit, given to them when they first believe. In explaining this, some commentators point out that Jesus said this before the Holy Spirit was given to believers at Pentecost (although note Acts 8:14-15 below which occurred afterwards). Possibly this reference here can be applied to asking God to continue filling one with his Holy Spirit (cf. Eph 5:18 ).

Acts 8:14-15 Now when the apostles at Jerusalem heard that Samaria had received the word of God, they sent to them Peter and John, ¹⁵who came down and prayed for them that they might receive the Holy Spirit, ...

Eph 4:30 And do not grieve the Holy Spirit of God, by whom you were sealed for the day of redemption. 📖

Being sealed by God with the Holy Spirit for “the day of redemption” indicates that the Spirit has a key role in securing a Christian’s salvation – supporting the assertion that God saves his people through the Holy Spirit.

Rom 8:11 If the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Christ Jesus from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit who dwells in you. 📖

This refers in part at least to the culmination of the salvation of God’s people (cf. Eph 4:30 ↑) – i.e. their resurrection from the dead.

✦ God fills his people with his love for them through the Holy Spirit:

Rom 5:5 ... and hope does not put us to shame, because God's love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit who has been given to us. 📖

God fills his people with his love for them “by means of” (GNT) the Holy Spirit.

God instructs his people through the Holy Spirit, both in teaching them and directing them.

Neh 9:20 You gave your good Spirit to instruct them and did not withhold your manna from their mouth and gave them water for their thirst. 📖

Isa 63:11-14 Then he remembered the days of old, of Moses and his people.^a Where is he who brought them up out of the sea with the shepherds of his flock? Where is he who put in the midst of them his Holy Spirit, ¹²who caused his glorious arm to go at the right hand of Moses, who divided the waters before them to make for himself an everlasting name, ¹³who led them through the depths? Like a horse in the desert, they did not stumble. ¹⁴*Like livestock that go down into the valley, the Spirit of the LORD gave them rest. So you led your people, to make for yourself a glorious name.* 📖

^a Or Then his people remembered the days of old, of Moses

This implies that the Holy Spirit played a key role in God’s directing of his people during the Exodus and the subsequent journey.

John 16:13 When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are to come. 📖

God teaches his people through the Holy Spirit, for the Spirit speaks to them of “what he hears”. (Note that this could be referring to “what he hears” from Jesus Christ rather than from God.) See also The Holy Spirit teaches God's people . . ., p. 845; ... The Holy Spirit teaches God's people about all things, p. 846.

1Cor 2:9-10 But, as it is written, “What no eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the heart of man imagined, what God has prepared for those who love him”— ¹⁰*these things God has revealed to us through the Spirit.* For the Spirit searches everything, even the depths of God. 📖

Eph 3:14-19 For this reason I bow my knees before the Father, ¹⁵from whom every family^b in heaven and on earth is named, ¹⁶that according to the riches of his glory he may grant you to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in your inner being, ¹⁷so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith—that you, being rooted and grounded in love,

¹⁸may have strength to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth and length and height and depth, ¹⁹and to know the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge, that you may be filled with all the fullness of God.

^b Or fatherhood; the Greek word patria is closely related to the word for Father in verse 14

God granting that we “be strengthened with power through his Spirit” in our inner beings (v. 16) is key to us having “strength to comprehend” (v. 18a) the things subsequently mentioned (vv. 18b-19a). It also reflects that God strengthens us spiritually through his Spirit – with power. Note that in v. 18, “the breadth and length and height and depth” has been interpreted to be speaking of the immensity of either Christ’s love (cf. GNT, NCV, NIV) or God’s love (cf. NLT). It could more generally be referring to the vastness of riches that believers have in their relationship with Christ.

Heb 10:15-16 And the Holy Spirit also bears witness to us; for after saying, ¹⁶“This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws on their hearts, and write them on their minds,” ...

This speaks of an example of God instructing people through the Holy Spirit by inspiring Scripture through the Spirit. Further examples of this can be found in some of the above cross references.

† God causes his people to obey him through the Holy Spirit:

Ezek 36:27 And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes and be careful to obey my rules.^c

^c Or my just decrees

This appears to be saying that God would move his people to follow his laws through his Holy Spirit dwelling in them.

God works through his people by the Holy Spirit . . .

Ex 31:1-5 The LORD said to Moses, ²“See, I have called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, ³and I have filled him with the Spirit of God, with ability and intelligence, with knowledge and all craftsmanship, ⁴to devise artistic designs, to work in gold, silver, and bronze, ⁵in cutting stones for setting, and in carving wood, to work in every craft.

This was for the construction of the tabernacle, which God would accomplish through craftsmen like Bezalel. The verse suggests that Bezalel’s “ability and intelligence ... knowledge and ... craftsmanship” (v. 3) were a result of God filling him with the Holy Spirit – to do God’s work.

Judg 3:10 The Spirit of the LORD was upon him, and he judged Israel. He went out to war, and the LORD gave Cushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia into his hand. And his hand prevailed over Cushan-rishathaim.

This verse implies that the LORD empowered Othniel with the Holy Spirit, and then through Othniel defeated the king of Mesopotamia, to whom his people had been subject (cf. v. 4).

1Sam 10:6-7 Then the Spirit of the LORD will rush upon you, and you will prophesy with them and be turned into another man. ⁷Now when these signs meet you, do what your hand finds to do, for God is with you.

This suggests that the LORD empowered Saul with the Spirit (v. 6) to accomplish whatever the LORD led him to do (v. 7).

Ezek 3:11, 14-15 And go to the exiles, to your people, and speak to them and say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD,’ whether they hear or refuse to hear.”  ... ¹⁴The Spirit lifted me up and took me away, and I went in bitterness in the heat of my spirit, the hand of the LORD being strong upon me. ¹⁵And I came to the exiles at Tel-abib, who were dwelling by the Chebar canal, and I sat where they were dwelling.^d And I sat there overwhelmed among them seven days.

^d Or Chebar, and to where they dwelt

The Spirit’s transportation of Ezekiel may have been part of his vision, although some commentators suggest that it may have involved a physical movement of Ezekiel. Whatever it actually involved, these verses are an example of God working through his people by the Holy Spirit – particularly if one associates the Holy Spirit’s work with “the hand of the LORD being strong” (v. 14b) upon Ezekiel. Note that commentators are divided over whether Ezekiel’s bitterness and anger of spirit (v. 14) was a response to being given such an arduous task, or in accordance with God’s wrath towards the sin and hard-hearted attitude of his people.

Zec 4:6-7 Then he said to me, “This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, says the LORD of hosts. ⁷Who are you, O great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you shall become a plain. And he shall bring forward the top stone amid shouts of ‘Grace, grace to it!’”

God would accomplish the work he was doing through Zerubbabel by his Spirit. Mountainous problems would be overcome and Zerubbabel would “bring forward the top stone" (v. 7b) signifying the completion of the work, the rebuilding of the temple.

Gal 3:5 Does he who supplies the Spirit to you and works miracles among you do so by works of the law, or by hearing with faith—

Paul may at least partially be referring to God working miracles amongst believers by the Holy Spirit, including through individual believers.

Heb 2:4 ... while God also bore witness by signs and wonders and various miracles and by gifts of the Holy Spirit distributed according to his will.

One aspect of God's work through his people by the Holy Spirit is that he gives his people gifts of the indwelling Holy Spirit for them to use in doing his work. This is discussed at length in e) Spiritual Gifts, p. 1430.

One way in which God works through his people by the Holy Spirit (as per the previous subsection) is speaking through them by the Holy Spirit.

2Sam 23:2-3 The Spirit of the LORD speaks by me; his word is on my tongue. ³The God of Israel has spoken; the Rock of Israel has said to me: When one rules justly over men, ruling in the fear of God, ...

God spoke through his prophets by the Holy Spirit, often to admonish the Israelites.

Acts 4:29, 31 And now, Lord, look upon their threats and grant to your servants^e to continue to speak your word with all boldness, ... ³¹And when they had prayed, the place in which they were gathered together was shaken, and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and continued to speak the word of God with boldness.

1Cor 2:4-5 ... and my speech and my message were not in plausible words of wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power, ⁵that your faith might not rest in the wisdom of men but in the power of God.

With the phrases "of the Spirit and of power" (v. 4b) and "in the power of God" (v. 5b), this suggests that God used the Spirit to powerfully and effectively impart his message through Paul's preaching.

John 15:26-27 But when the Helper comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth, who proceeds from the Father, he will bear witness about me. ²⁷And you also will bear witness, because you have been with me from the beginning.

The Holy Spirit is said here to come "from the Father" to believers (v. 26a); it is also said that both the Holy Spirit and believers "will bear witness" (vv. 26b, 27a). As such, this passage points to God – and Jesus himself who would send the Spirit – speaking through believers by the Holy Spirit, in witnessing about Jesus.

1Pet 1:12 It was revealed to them that they were serving not themselves but you, in the things that have now been announced to you through those who preached the good news to you by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven, things into which angels long to look.

The Holy Spirit was sent by God – "sent from heaven" – to empower believers in preaching the good news from God. So in the believers preaching "by the Holy Spirit", God spoke through them by the Holy Spirit.

Num 24:2-4 And Balaam lifted up his eyes and saw Israel camping tribe by tribe. And the Spirit of God came upon him, ³and he took up his discourse and said, "The oracle of Balaam the son of Beor, the oracle of the man whose eye is opened,^f ⁴*the oracle of him who hears the words of God, who sees the vision of the Almighty, falling down with his eyes uncovered: ...*

^f Or closed, or perfect; also verse 15

This is actually an example of God communicating his word by the Holy Spirit through someone who was not one of his people. Balaam was actually a pagan diviner.

‡ A further example of God working through the Holy Spirit:

Isa 34:15-16 There the owl nests and lays and hatches and gathers her young in her shadow; indeed, there the hawks are gathered, each one with her mate. ¹⁶Seek and read from the book of the LORD: Not one of these shall be missing; none shall be without her mate. For the mouth of the LORD has commanded, and his Spirit has gathered them.

The reference is to judgment on Edom, here possibly representative of Israel's enemies generally. Such will be its desolation that the land will only be inhabited by animals that God will gather there through his Holy Spirit.

Jesus Christ works amongst God's people through the Holy Spirit . . .

In conjunction with God and his will, Jesus Christ works amongst God's people through the Holy Spirit – working through believers to advance God's kingdom (cf. Rom 15:18-19 ↓) as well as working in their own spiritual development (cf. 2Cor 3:3 ↓; Rev 3:1, 6 ↓). A number of verses in the following subsection also point to Jesus Christ working amongst God's people through the Holy Spirit, with the theme of the following subsection supplementing the theme of this subsection.

Rom 15:18-19 For I will not venture to speak of anything except what Christ has accomplished through me to bring the Gentiles to obedience—by word and deed, ¹⁹by the power of signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God—so that from Jerusalem and all the way around to Illyricum I have fulfilled the ministry of the gospel of Christ; ...

The clause “by the power of the Spirit of God” (v. 19b) – along with the two preceding clauses – is likely speaking of how Christ accomplished what he did through Paul (cf. CEV, GNT, NIV).

2Cor 3:3 And you show that you are a letter from Christ delivered by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts.[‡]

‡ Greek fleshly hearts

The Corinthians' new spiritual lives were composed by Jesus Christ through the Holy Spirit, in Paul's ministry.

Rev 3:1, 6 And to the angel of the church in Sardis write: ‘The words of him who has the seven spirits of God and the seven stars. “I know your works. You have the reputation of being alive, but you are dead.  ... ⁶He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches.

In v. 1, “the seven spirits of God” – who Christ is said to have (cf. Rev 5:6 ↓) – is understood to portray the Holy Spirit, “the sevenfold Spirit” (NIV® text note). The term depicts his completeness or perfection. Verse 6 is a refrain occurring seven times in chapters 2 and 3 of Revelation (cf. 2:7, 11, 17, 29; 3:13, 22). Each time the refrain and the context show Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit being involved together in conveying messages to churches. If the refrain is implying that Jesus Christ conveys these words through the Holy Spirit, than these occurrences are evidence that Jesus Christ works through the Holy Spirit amongst God's people. Alternatively they could be interpreted as showing the Holy Spirit or God working/speaking through Jesus Christ.

Rev 5:6 And between the throne and the four living creatures and among the elders I saw a Lamb standing, as though it had been slain, with seven horns and with seven eyes, which are the seven spirits of God sent out into all the earth.

This verse could well imply that Jesus Christ – the “Lamb” – works in the world (including amongst God's people) through the Holy Spirit – “the seven spirits of God”. For the Spirit is spoken of as the “seven eyes” that Christ has (cf. Rev 3:1 ↑), presumably for him to use, in “all the earth”. Additionally, he may well be the one who sent out “the seven spirits of God ... into all the earth”.

. . . The Holy Spirit continues Jesus Christ's work in and through his people

John 14:16-18 And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Helper,^h to be with you forever, ¹⁷*even the Spirit of truth*, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, for he dwells with you and will be in you. ¹⁸*“I will not leave you as orphans; I will come to you.*

^h Or Advocate, or Counselor; also 14:26; 15:26; 16:7

The reference to “another Helper” (v. 16) alludes to the Holy Spirit being another helper like Jesus – with the apparent implication that he would take Jesus' place, continuing on his work with believers. Furthermore, in light of vv. 16-17, quite possibly v. 18 refers to the giving of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost and Jesus' presence with believers through the Spirit's indwelling. As such it would also reflect the fact that the Holy Spirit continues Jesus Christ's work in believers. (Alternatively, as noted earlier in this chapter, Jesus' appearance to the disciples after his resurrection or even his second coming may be in view in v. 18.)

John 14:26 But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he will teach you all things and bring to your remembrance all that I have said to you.

Jesus said God would send the Holy Spirit in his name – “in My place, to represent Me and act on My behalf” (AMP; cf. CEV, NLT; John 16:7 ↓). As such the Holy Spirit represents Jesus Christ's interests and continues his work, doing such things as bringing to their minds things Jesus Christ said.

John 15:26-27 But when the Helper comes, whom I will send to you from the Father, the Spirit of truth, who proceeds from the Father, he will bear witness about me. ²⁷And you also will bear witness, because you have been with me from the beginning.

Similar to what was commented earlier, in Jesus saying that the Holy Spirit “will bear witness” and that believers “also will bear witness”, the implication is that one of the major roles of the Holy Spirit in a believer's life is to work with them or through them to witness to others about Christ. The context also supports this assertion.

John 16:7, 12-15 Nevertheless, I tell you the truth: it is to your advantage that I go away, for if I do not go away, the Helper will not come to you. But if I go, I will send him to you.  ... ¹²“I still have many things to say to you, but you cannot bear them now. ¹³When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are to come. ¹⁴He will glorify me, for he will take what is mine and declare it to you. ¹⁵All that the Father has is mine; therefore I said that he will take what is mine and declare it to you.

The Holy Spirit continues Jesus Christ's work in believers, effectively taking Jesus Christ's place (v. 7; cf. comments on: John 14:26 ↑; John 7:39 ↓) and continuing on to completion the teaching that Jesus began (vv. 12-15; cf. John 14:26 ↑). In doing the latter, the Holy Spirit takes what Jesus Christ (and/or God) has to say or teach (vv. 13-14; cf. CEV, GNT, NCV), particularly that regarding Christ's person and work, and makes it known to Christ's followers (vv. 14-15). Verse 14 indicates that the Holy Spirit brings glory to Jesus Christ by revealing what Jesus Christ has to say – and presumably by the manifestation of it in the lives of believers.

John 20:21-22 Jesus said to them again, “Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, even so I am sending you.” ²²And when he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, “Receive the Holy Spirit.

Jesus Christ sends his people anointed and empowered with the Holy Spirit to continue his work, the work God sent him to do (v. 21b). Note that v. 22 is often understood as anticipating the sending of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost.

Acts 1:8 But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth.

The Holy Spirit empowers believers to witness for Jesus Christ, throughout the world.

† Those who believe in Jesus Christ receive the Holy Spirit:

John 7:37-39 On the last day of the feast, the great day, Jesus stood up and cried out, “If anyone thirsts, let him come to me and drink. ³⁸Whoever believes in me, asⁱ the Scripture has said, ‘Out of his heart will flow rivers of living water.’” ³⁹Now this he said about the Spirit, whom those who believed in him were to receive, for as yet the Spirit had not been given, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

ⁱ Or let him come to me, and let him who believes in me drink. As

Note that the final statement alludes to the Holy Spirit taking Jesus Christ's place (cf. John 16:7 ↑). Particularly in light of this, the fact that those who believe in Jesus Christ receive the Holy Spirit arguably reflects the reality that the Holy Spirit continues the work begun by Jesus Christ in and through believers.

The Holy Spirit brings spiritual life in the present, leading to everlasting life in the next age.

John 3:6 That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.^l

^l The same Greek word means both wind and spirit

The final clause appears to indicate that Christians are born of the Spirit into "spiritual life" (NCV^m; cf. NLT).

John 6:63 It is the Spirit who gives life; the flesh is no help at all. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit and life.

Particularly in light of the verse's first clause, the second statement may indicate that the words Jesus spoke were from (cf. NIV, CEV) or spoken through the Holy Spirit. As such they are words that the Holy Spirit uses to produce life – when people believe them and live according to them.

John 7:38-39 *Whoever believes in me, as^k the Scripture has said, 'Out of his heart will flow rivers of living water.'*³⁹ Now this he said about the Spirit, whom those who believed in him were to receive, for as yet the Spirit had not been given, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

^k Or let him come to me, and let him who believes in me drink. As

In referring to the Holy Spirit as "living water", Jesus associates the Holy Spirit with spiritual life.

Rom 8:2, 6, 10-13 For the law of the Spirit of life has set you^l free in Christ Jesus from the law of sin and death.  ... ⁶For to set the mind on the flesh is death, but to set the mind on the Spirit is life and peace.  ... ¹⁰But if Christ is in you, although the body is dead because of sin, the Spirit is life because of righteousness. ¹¹If the Spirit of him who raised Jesus from the dead dwells in you, he who raised Christ Jesus from the dead will also give life to your mortal bodies through his Spirit who dwells in you. ¹²So then, brothers,^m we are debtors, not to the flesh, to live according to the flesh. ¹³For if you live according to the flesh you will die, but if by the Spirit you put to death the deeds of the body, you will live.

^l Some manuscripts me

^mOr brothers and sisters; also verse 29

The Holy Spirit brings life in contrast to sin, which brings death. Regarding the meaning of "the law" (v. 2), see the comment on Rom 8:2-3 – under We have been freed from the law to live by the Holy Spirit, p. 1073. As indicated earlier, vv. 10-11 appear to teach that although the physical bodies of believers will die due to sin (v. 10), because God's Spirit lives in them God will raise them from the dead through his Spirit. However, another interpretation holds that Paul may also have in view that the Spirit brings spiritual life now to each believer. Similarly it can be argued that the references to "life" in vv. 2, 6 are inclusive of spiritual life both now and in the afterlife.

2Cor 3:6b For the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life.

Gal 6:7-8 Do not be deceived: God is not mocked, for whatever one sows, that will he also reap. ⁸For the one who sows to his own flesh will from the flesh reap corruption, but the one who sows to the Spirit will from the Spirit reap eternal life.

Isa 32:14-15 For the palace is forsaken, the populous city deserted; the hill and the watchtower will become dens forever, a joy of wild donkeys, a pasture of flocks; ¹⁵*until the Spirit is poured upon us from on high, and the wilderness becomes a fruitful field, and the fruitful field is deemed a forest.*

This and 44:3-4 below likely portray the spiritual life and vitality that the Holy Spirit brings to God's people. Although the latter parts of v. 15 appear to firstly refer to the Holy Spirit effecting physical blessings, they are often understood to have a spiritual application – particularly with the aforementioned reference to the Holy Spirit as being "poured upon us" (v. 15a). As often the case in the books of the OT prophets (cf. Isa 44:3-4 ↓; Ezek 37:13-14 ↓), this prophecy can be understood to have a number of fulfillments or applications. These include: the renewal of Israel after the Babylonian exile; the pouring out of the Holy Spirit following Christ's ascension; and a renewal of Israel in the last days. Arguably it can also be applied to the Spirit's renewing of God's people, both corporately and individually, in any era.

Isa 44:3-4 For I will pour water on the thirsty land, and streams on the dry ground; I will pour my Spirit upon your offspring, and my blessing on your descendants. ⁴*They shall spring up among the grass like willows by flowing streams.*

This is prophesying of – or at least has a fulfillment in – the Holy Spirit giving spiritual life and renewal to God's people, the spiritual descendants of Israel. Similar to 32:15 above, v. 4 portrays the spiritual life and vitality of those on whom God would pour out his Spirit and consequent blessings (v. 3b). The terms used in this portrayal correspond to the language of v. 3a, implying that v. 3a has a similar spiritual meaning or application.

Ezek 37:13-14 And you shall know that I am the LORD, when I open your graves, and raise you from your graves, O my people. ¹⁴And I will put my Spirit within you, and you shall live, and I will place you in your own land. Then you shall know that I am the LORD; I have spoken, and I will do it, declares the LORD.

As with the above prophecies from Isaiah, this speaks of the Spirit bringing life. Primarily at least, it is speaking of the Israelite nation as a whole, but it is also applicable to believers. Note that at the time of the prophecy, Israel was in exile and practically dead as a nation. Thus the Jews' return from the Babylonian exile was a fulfillment of this.

‡ Specific reference to God's people being renewed by the Holy Spirit:

Titus 3:5 ... he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, ...

This talks of the overall theme of this section – i.e. that the Holy Spirit renews God's people. As such it is reflected in this and the following subsections.

The Holy Spirit sanctifies God's people

See also:

- God saves his people through the Holy Spirit, p. 837

"Sanctification" and like terms can refer to: Christians being made holy in a judicial sense through Christ's sacrifice on coming to faith; and/or to the ongoing process of Christians being made increasingly more holy. The Holy Spirit plays a key role in both.

Rom 15:16 ... to be a minister of Christ Jesus to the Gentiles in the priestly service of the gospel of God, so that the offering of the Gentiles may be acceptable, sanctified by the Holy Spirit.

1Cor 6:11 And such were some of you. But you were washed, you were sanctified, you were justified in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and by the Spirit of our God.

Along with being justified, this appears to be attributing being washed and sanctified – here aspects of being justified – to the name of the Lord Jesus Christ and the work of the Holy Spirit (cf. CEV).

2Thes 2:13 But we ought always to give thanks to God for you, brothers beloved by the Lord, because God chose you as the firstfruitsⁿ to be saved, through sanctification by the Spirit and belief in the truth.

ⁿ Some manuscripts chose you from the beginning

1Pet 1:1-2 Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ, To those who are elect exiles of the dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, ²according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in the sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience to Jesus Christ and for sprinkling with his blood: May grace and peace be multiplied to you.

2Cor 3:18 And we all, with unveiled face, beholding the glory of the Lord,^o are being transformed into the same image from one degree of glory to another. For this comes from the Lord who is the Spirit.

^o Or reflecting the glory of the Lord

One aspect of the believer's sanctification is that their characters are being transformed into Christ's likeness, increasingly reflecting (cf. text note) even manifesting his glory. The last statement associates the Holy Spirit with this process.

‡ Jesus would baptize "with the Holy Spirit and fire":

Matt 3:11 I baptize you with water for repentance, but he who is coming after me is mightier than I, whose sandals I am not worthy to carry. He will baptize you with the Holy Spirit and fire.

Some see "fire" as referring to the purification associated with having the Holy Spirit – reflecting the theme of this subsection. However it may instead refer to Christ's judgment on the wicked (cf. v. 12) or even to the "tongues as of fire" that came with the initial outpouring of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost (cf. Acts 2:3-4).

The Holy Spirit gives God's people love and faith

See also:

- Gal 5:22 ↓

Rom 15:30 I appeal to you, brothers, by our Lord Jesus Christ and by the love of the Spirit, to strive together with me in your prayers to God on my behalf, ...

The "love of the Spirit" is probably referring to love which is given by the Holy Spirit (cf. AMP, CEV, NCV, NIV, NLT; Col 1:8 ↓).

Col 1:8 ... and has made known to us your love in the Spirit.

This refers to the love that believers have through partaking of the Holy Spirit – “love that God’s Spirit has given you” (CEV, cf. GNT, NCV, NLT).

2Tim 1:7 ... for God gave us a spirit not of fear but of power and love and self-control.

Here the term “spirit” may well refer to or allude to the Holy Spirit (cf. CEV, GNT).

Rom 5:5 ... and hope does not put us to shame, because God’s love has been poured into our hearts through the Holy Spirit who has been given to us.

This may be referring to God giving us his love to enable us to love, through the Holy Spirit – hence the verse’s inclusion here. However, it is more often taken to be speaking of God filling us with his love for us.

Acts 11:24 ... for he was a good man, full of the Holy Spirit and of faith. And a great many people were added to the Lord.

The description of Barnabas as being full of both the Holy Spirit and faith arguably suggests that faith comes with the Holy Spirit. It at least associates faith with having the Holy Spirit. Note that Acts 6:5 similarly refers to Stephen as “a man full of faith and of the Holy Spirit”.

1Cor 12:8-9 For to one is given through the Spirit the utterance of wisdom, and to another the utterance of knowledge according to the same Spirit, ⁹*to another faith by the same Spirit*, to another gifts of healing by the one Spirit, ...

This “faith” refers to the spiritual gift of exceptional faith or trust in God. The Holy Spirit gives to some believers such exceptional faith – for the edification of the whole church.

The Holy Spirit gives God’s people joy and peace

- God fosters unity and peace in the church body, p. 793

1Thes 1:6 And you became imitators of us and of the Lord, for you received the word in much affliction, with the joy of the Holy Spirit, ...

Acts 13:52 And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

This may be implying – and certainly is reflective of the fact – that joy comes with or through the Holy Spirit.

Rom 14:17 For the kingdom of God is not a matter of eating and drinking but of righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.

This speaks of the Holy Spirit facilitating peace and joy amongst God’s people.

Gal 5:22-23 But the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, ²³gentleness, self-control; against such things there is no law.

Note the other “fruits” of the Spirit listed here.

Rom 8:6 For to set the mind on the flesh is death, but to set the mind on the Spirit is life and peace.

For those whose minds are controlled by the Spirit, there will be life and peace.

Isa 63:14 Like livestock that go down into the valley, the Spirit of the LORD gave them rest. So you led your people, to make for yourself a glorious name.

The rest given by the Holy Spirit to the Israelites is reflective of the spiritual rest and peace that believers have through the Holy Spirit.

† Jesus rejoiced in the Holy Spirit:

Luke 10:21 In that same hour he rejoiced in the Holy Spirit and said, “I thank you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the wise and understanding and revealed them to little children; yes, Father, for such was your gracious will.”^p

^p Or for so it pleased you well

The Holy Spirit teaches God’s people . . .

Neh 9:20 You gave your good Spirit to instruct them and did not withhold your manna from their mouth and gave them water for their thirst.

1Cor 2:13 And we impart this in words not taught by human wisdom but taught by the Spirit, interpreting spiritual truths to those who are spiritual.^q

^q Or interpreting spiritual truths in spiritual language, or comparing spiritual things with spiritual

The Holy Spirit enables God’s people to know spiritual truths – and to express them to others.

Eph 3:4-5 When you read this, you can perceive my insight into the mystery of Christ,⁵ which was not made known to the sons of men in other generations as it has now been revealed to his holy apostles and prophets by the Spirit.

1Tim 4:1 Now the Spirit expressly says that in later times some will depart from the faith by devoting themselves to deceitful spirits and teachings of demons, ...

This is an example of the Holy Spirit's teaching of or for God's people.

Heb 9:6-8 These preparations having thus been made, the priests go regularly into the first section, performing their ritual duties, ⁷but into the second only the high priest goes, and he but once a year, and not without taking blood, which he offers for himself and for the unintentional sins of the people. ⁸*By this the Holy Spirit indicates that the way into the holy places is not yet opened as long as the first section is still standing ...*

The greatly restricted access into the Most Holy Place – the second section (v. 7) – was used by the Holy Spirit to show or teach the people that they did not have access into God's presence while the first covenant – here signified by “the first section” (v. 6; cf. AMP, NCV, NLT) – was still in force.

Heb 10:12-17 But when Christ^r had offered for all time a single sacrifice for sins, he sat down at the right hand of God, ¹³waiting from that time until his enemies should be made a footstool for his feet. ¹⁴For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are being sanctified. ¹⁵*And the Holy Spirit also bears witness to us; for after saying,* ¹⁶*“This is the covenant that I will make with them after those days, declares the Lord: I will put my laws on their hearts, and write them on their minds,”* ¹⁷*then he adds, “I will remember their sins and their lawless deeds no more.”*

^r Greek this one

The Holy Spirit testifies or teaches, through Scripture, that through Jesus Christ's sole sacrifice (vv. 12-14) a new covenant has been instituted (v. 16) in which the sins of God's people are forgiven and remembered no more (v. 17).

Rev 2:7 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

As noted earlier, the first statement is a refrain used a further half dozen times in chapters 2 and 3 of Revelation. It is indicative of the Holy Spirit (in conjunction with Jesus Christ) being instrumental in the teaching and exhortations contained therein.

... The Holy Spirit teaches God's people about all things

See also:

John 14:26 But the Helper, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name, he will teach you all things and bring to your remembrance all that I have said to you.

John 16:13-15 When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are to come. ¹⁴*He will glorify me, for he will take what is mine and declare it to you.* ¹⁵*All that the Father has is mine; therefore I said that he will take what is mine and declare it to you.*

As referred to earlier, the segment “he will take what is mine and declare it to you” (v. 14, repeated almost verbatim in v. 15) appears to mean that the Holy Spirit would make known to the disciples Jesus' teaching (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV; John 14:26 ) and quite possibly also other matters pertaining to his person and work. In conjunction with this segment, v. 15a may allude to the fact that the Holy Spirit would guide them into “all truth”.

1Jn 2:20, 27 But you have been anointed by the Holy One, and you all have knowledge.^s  ... ²⁷*But the anointing that you received from him abides in you, and you have no need that anyone should teach you. But as his anointing teaches you about everything, and is true, and is no lie—just as it has taught you, abide in him.*

^s Some manuscripts you know everything

The “anointing” from God is more than likely the Holy Spirit (cf. GNT, NLT, NCV text note). Regarding v. 20, both the alternative rendering in the text note (cf. NKJV) and v. 27 imply that along with v. 27, v. 20 is speaking of the Holy Spirit teaching believers “all things”.

1Cor 2:9-10 But, as it is written, “What no eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the heart of man imagined, what God has prepared for those who love him”— ¹⁰*these things God has revealed to us through the Spirit. For the Spirit searches everything, even the depths of God.*

This suggests that the things God reveals to us by his Holy Spirit (v. 10a) are not confined to the previously unknown things referred to in v. 9, but to some degree at least encompass “everything, even the depths of God” (v. 10).

‡ The Holy Spirit enables one's conscience to be a trustworthy guide:

Rom 9:1 I am speaking the truth in Christ—I am not lying; my conscience bears me witness in the Holy Spirit—

Having the Holy Spirit is linked with having wisdom and knowledge

Acts 6:3, 9-10 Therefore, brothers,^t pick out from among you seven men of good repute, full of the Spirit and of wisdom, whom we will appoint to this duty. ...⁹Then some of those who belonged to the synagogue of the Freedmen (as it was called), and of the Cyrenians, and of the Alexandrians, and of those from Cilicia and Asia, rose up and disputed with Stephen. ¹⁰But they could not withstand the wisdom and the Spirit with which he was speaking.

^t Or brothers and sisters

1Cor 2:11-12, 14-16 For who knows a person's thoughts except the spirit of that person, which is in him? So also no one comprehends the thoughts of God except the Spirit of God. ¹²Now we have received not the spirit of the world, but the Spirit who is from God, that we might understand the things freely given us by God. ... ¹⁴The natural person does not accept the things of the Spirit of God, for they are folly to him, and he is not able to understand them because they are spiritually discerned. ¹⁵The spiritual person judges all things, but is himself to be judged by no one. ¹⁶"For who has understood the mind of the Lord so as to instruct him?" But we have the mind of Christ.

Being the Spirit of God, the Holy Spirit "comprehends the thoughts of God" (v. 11). Having received the Holy Spirit, believers gain insight into God's thinking and ways (v. 12) – whereas those without the Holy Spirit cannot understand such things (v. 14). Furthermore, having the Holy Spirit believers have the capacity – at least to some degree – to understand and make judgment about all things (v. 15; cf. v. 10), spiritual truths probably being primarily in view. One has such spiritual understanding because by having the Holy Spirit to some degree at least one has "the mind of Christ" (v. 16a) – which is comparable to having the mind of God (v. 16b).

Eph 1:17 ... that the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory, may give you a spirit of wisdom and of revelation in the knowledge of him, ...

Some translations use "Spirit" here instead of "spirit" (cf. CEV, GNT, NIV), which would make the verse relevant to this subsection.

Gen 41:37-39 This proposal pleased Pharaoh and all his servants. ³⁸And Pharaoh said to his servants, "Can we find a man like this, in whom is the Spirit of God?"^u ³⁹Then Pharaoh said to Joseph, "Since God has shown you all this, there is none so discerning and wise as you are."

^u Or of the gods

Pharaoh acknowledges that such great wisdom in a person must come from the Spirit of God – as does Nebuchadnezzar in Daniel 4:8-9 immediately below (cf. text note).

Dan 4:8-9 At last Daniel came in before me—he who was named Belteshazzar after the name of my god, and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods^v—and I told him the dream, saying, "O Belteshazzar, chief of the magicians, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in you and that no mystery is too difficult for you, tell me the visions of my dream that I saw and their interpretation."

^v Or Spirit of the holy God; also verses 9, 18

‡ The spiritual gifts of wisdom and knowledge given through the Holy Spirit:

1Cor 12:8 For to one is given through the Spirit the utterance of wisdom, and to another the utterance of knowledge according to the same Spirit, ...

In having the Holy Spirit, all believers have and grow in spiritual knowledge and wisdom. However, as spoken of earlier in this chapter, different spiritual gifts are given through the Holy Spirit to individual believers. The "utterance of wisdom" and the "utterance of knowledge" are such gifts, given only to certain believers. These gifts may broadly speaking be "the ability to give wise advice" (NLT) or insight and "the gift of special knowledge" (NLT) – with probably the application and conveying of spiritual truths being particularly in view.

The Holy Spirit helps each believer

John 14:16-17 And I will ask the Father, and he will give you another Helper,^w to be with you forever, ¹⁷even the Spirit of truth, whom the world cannot receive, because it neither sees him nor knows him. You know him, for he dwells with you and will be in you.

^w Or Advocate, or Counselor; also 14:26; 15:26; 16:7

The Greek translated as "Helper" – one "who will help you" (CEV) – was a term used for a legal "Advocate" (NRSV).

Rom 8:26 Likewise the Spirit helps us in our weakness. For we do not know what to pray for as we ought, but the Spirit himself intercedes for us with groanings too deep for words.

Phil 1:18b-19 Yes, and I will rejoice, ¹⁹for I know that through your prayers and the help of the Spirit of Jesus Christ this will turn out for my deliverance, ...

2Tim 1:14 By the Holy Spirit who dwells within us, guard the good deposit entrusted to you.

The Holy Spirit may lead a person by an inner conviction or sense of assurance, by circumstances, or even by a discernible revelation. (Giving such a revelation to a person with a prophetic spiritual gift is one way the Holy Spirit leads and directs Christian groups.)

Rom 8:14 For all who are led by the Spirit of God are sons^x of God.

^x See discussion on "sons" in the Preface

Gal 5:18 But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law.

Ps 143:10 Teach me to do your will, for you are my God! Let your good Spirit lead me on level ground!

1Ki 18:12 And as soon as I have gone from you, the Spirit of the LORD will carry you I know not where. And so, when I come and tell Ahab and he cannot find you, he will kill me, although I your servant have feared the LORD from my youth.

The speaker, Obadiah, seems to be suggesting that the Holy Spirit could supernaturally transport Elijah (cf. Acts 8:39 ↴). Irrespective of whether or not supernatural means are referred to, this attests to the Holy Spirit's leading or guidance.

Isa 63:11-14 Then he remembered the days of old, of Moses and his people.^y Where is he who brought them up out of the sea with the shepherds of his flock? Where is he who put in the midst of them his Holy Spirit, ¹²who caused his glorious arm to go at the right hand of Moses, who divided the waters before them to make for himself an everlasting name, ¹³*who led them through the depths?* Like a horse in the desert, they did not stumble. ¹⁴Like livestock that go down into the valley, the Spirit of the LORD gave them rest. So you led your people, to make for yourself a glorious name.

^y Or Then his people remembered the days of old, of Moses

This appears to speak of the Holy Spirit's role in the leading of Israel by God, "who led them" (v. 13a).

Luke 2:25-28 Now there was a man in Jerusalem, whose name was Simeon, and this man was righteous and devout, waiting for the consolation of Israel, and the Holy Spirit was upon him. ²⁶And it had been revealed to him by the Holy Spirit that he would not see death before he had seen the Lord's Christ. ²⁷And he came in the Spirit into the temple, and when the parents brought in the child Jesus, to do for him according to the custom of the Law, ²⁸he took him up in his arms and blessed God and said, ...

Verse 27 indicates that Simeon was led by the Holy Spirit to go into the temple (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT, NRSV) to see God's Messiah. Note that v. 26 is an example of the Holy Spirit revealing God's will to his people.

The Holy Spirit directs God's people in doing God's work

Acts 8:29-31, 35, 39-40 And the Spirit said to Philip, "Go over and join this chariot." ³⁰So Philip ran to him and heard him reading Isaiah the prophet and asked, "Do you understand what you are reading?" ³¹And he said, "How can I, unless someone guides me?" And he invited Philip to come up and sit with him. ³⁵Then Philip opened his mouth, and beginning with this Scripture he told him the good news about Jesus. ³⁹And when they came up out of the water, the Spirit of the Lord carried Philip away, and the eunuch saw him no more, and went on his way rejoicing. ⁴⁰But Philip found himself at Azotus, and as he passed through he preached the gospel to all the towns until he came to Caesarea.

Verse 39-40 suggest more than spiritual guidance or direction. Most likely the Spirit miraculously removed Philip and took him to Azotus (v. 40).

Acts 10:19-20 And while Peter was pondering the vision, the Spirit said to him, "Behold, three men are looking for you. ²⁰Rise and go down and accompany them without hesitation, for I have sent them."

Acts 13:2-4 While they were worshiping the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said, "Set apart for me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them." ³Then after fasting and praying they laid their hands on them and sent them off. ⁴So, being sent out by the Holy Spirit, they went down to Seleucia, and from there they sailed to Cyprus.

Acts 15:28 For it has seemed good to the Holy Spirit and to us to lay on you no greater burden than these requirements: ...

Acts 16:6-7 And they went through the region of Phrygia and Galatia, having been forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia. ⁷And when they had come up to Mysia, they attempted to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit of Jesus did not allow them.

For comment on these actions of the Holy Spirit, see the comment on Acts 16:6-7 – under Note: The plans of God's people are subject to his will, p. 960.

Acts 20:22-23 And now, behold, I am going to Jerusalem, constrained by^z the Spirit, not knowing what will happen to me there, ²³except that the Holy Spirit testifies to me in every city that imprisonment and afflictions await me.

^z Or bound in

In v. 22 Paul is likely speaking of the Holy Spirit compelling him to go to Jerusalem (cf. AMP, NIV, NLT, NRSV). Note that supplementary to directing Paul in doing God's work (v. 22), the Holy Spirit also warned Paul that hardships awaited him in the work (v. 23).

1Cor 7:40 Yet in my judgment she is happier if she remains as she is. And I think that I too have the Spirit of God.

In saying here that he thinks he too has God's Spirit, Paul is implying that he considers that the Holy Spirit guides or affirms his judgment.

Judg 6:34 But the Spirit of the LORD clothed Gideon, and he sounded the trumpet, and the Abiezrites were called out to follow him.

The term "clothed" implies that to some extent at least, the Holy Spirit "took control of" (CEV, GNT) Gideon, thus directing him. Note that the following subsection contains similar examples of the Holy Spirit clothing or coming upon people, empowering them to do God's work.

1Sam 11:6-7 And the Spirit of God rushed upon Saul when he heard these words, and his anger was greatly kindled. ⁷He took a yoke of oxen and cut them in pieces and sent them throughout all the territory of Israel by the hand of messengers, saying, "Whoever does not come out after Saul and Samuel, so shall it be done to his oxen!" Then the dread of the LORD fell upon the people, and they came out as one man.

Under the influence of the Holy Spirit, Saul mustered an army to defeat the Ammonites (cf. vv. 8-11).

‡ The beginning of the Holy Spirit working through Samson:

Judg 13:24-25 And the woman bore a son and called his name Samson. And the young man grew, and the LORD blessed him. ²⁵And the Spirit of the LORD began to stir him in Mahaneh-dan, between Zorah and Eshtaol.

This suggests that the Holy Spirit was stirring or moving Samson towards doing God's work.

Acts 1:8 But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth.

Through the Holy Spirit the disciples would receive "power (ability, efficiency, and might)" (AMP), enabling them to witness for Christ far and wide.

Rom 15:18-19 For I will not venture to speak of anything except what Christ has accomplished through me to bring the Gentiles to obedience—by word and deed, ¹⁹by the power of signs and wonders, by the power of the Spirit of God—so that from Jerusalem and all the way around to Illyricum I have fulfilled the ministry of the gospel of Christ; ...

1Cor 2:4 ... and my speech and my message were not in plausible words of wisdom, but in demonstration of the Spirit and of power, ...

Here Paul may not so much be speaking of the Holy Spirit empowering him, but rather of the Holy Spirit's power (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT) working through what he had said.

Mic 3:8 But as for me, I am filled with power, with the Spirit of the LORD, and with justice and might, to declare to Jacob his transgression and to Israel his sin.

Zec 4:6-7 Then he said to me, "This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, says the LORD of hosts. ⁷Who are you, O great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you shall become a plain. And he shall bring forward the top stone amid shouts of 'Grace, grace to it!'"

God promised Zerubbabel that through the enablement of the Spirit (v. 6) he would be able to overcome any great obstacle – here metaphorically described as a mountain (v. 7) – to his work of rebuilding the temple.

Ex 31:2-5 See, I have called by name Bezalel the son of Uri, son of Hur, of the tribe of Judah, ³and I have filled him with the Spirit of God, with ability and intelligence, with knowledge and all craftsmanship, ⁴to devise artistic designs, to work in gold, silver, and bronze, ⁵in cutting stones for setting, and in carving wood, to work in every craft.

As noted earlier, the verse suggests that it was through being filled with the Holy Spirit that Bezalel was empowered or equipped with the necessary ability, intelligence, knowledge and craftsmanship (v. 3) needed to do God's work.

Num 11:17 And I will come down and talk with you there. And I will take some of the Spirit that is on you and put it on them, and they shall bear the burden of the people with you, so that you may not bear it yourself alone.

This and 27:16-19 below suggest that those spoken of would be empowered or equipped to do the work referred to through having the Holy Spirit.

Num 27:16-18 "Let the LORD, the God of the spirits of all flesh, appoint a man over the congregation ¹⁷who shall go out before them and come in before them, who shall lead them out and bring them in, that the congregation of the LORD may not be as sheep that have no shepherd." ¹⁸So the LORD said to Moses, "Take Joshua the son of Nun, a man in whom is the Spirit, and lay your hand on him.

The Spirit's empowerment to do the aforementioned work is likely in view.

Judg 3:10 The Spirit of the LORD was upon him, and he judged Israel. He went out to war, and the LORD gave Cushan-rishathaim king of Mesopotamia into his hand. And his hand prevailed over Cushan-rishathaim.

The Holy Spirit came upon Othniel, empowering him for his appointed task (cf. Judg 15:14-15 ↓).

Judg 15:14-15 When he came to Lehi, the Philistines came shouting to meet him. Then the Spirit of the LORD rushed upon him, and the ropes that were on his arms became as flax that has caught fire, and his bonds melted off his hands. ¹⁵And he found a fresh jawbone of a donkey, and put out his hand and took it, and with it he struck 1,000 men.

1Sam 10:6-7, 10 Then the Spirit of the LORD will rush upon you, and you will prophesy with them and be turned into another man. ⁷Now when these signs meet you, do what your hand finds to do, for God is with you. ... ¹⁰When they came to Gibeah,^a behold, a group of prophets met him, and the Spirit of God rushed upon him, and he prophesied among them.

^a Gibeah means the hill

This implies that through the empowerment of the Spirit (vv. 6, 10) – and because correspondingly God was with him (v. 7) – Saul would be able to accomplish whatever God led him to do (v. 7).

1Sam 16:13a Then Samuel took the horn of oil and anointed him in the midst of his brothers. And the Spirit of the LORD rushed upon David from that day forward.

Ezek 2:2-3 And as he [God] spoke to me, the Spirit entered into me and set me on my feet, and I heard him speaking to me. ³And he said to me, "Son of man, I send you to the people of Israel, to nations of rebels, who have rebelled against me. They and their fathers have transgressed against me to this very day.

Verse 2 may well be indicative of the Spirit's empowerment, to do the work that God was sending Ezekiel to do (v. 3).

‡ God strengthens people with power through the Holy Spirit:

Eph 3:16 ... that according to the riches of his glory he may grant you to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in your inner being, ...

- The gospel is not dependent on us and our presentation of it – but on the Holy Spirit and God's power, p. 1770

Note that the teaching of this subsection is relevant to that of the two previous subsections. For the Holy Spirit's role in what God's people say in doing his work is an aspect of both: the Holy Spirit's direction in doing God's work; and the Holy Spirit's empowerment to do God's work.

2Sam 23:2 The Spirit of the LORD speaks by me; his word is on my tongue. 📖

Matt 10:18-20 ... and you will be dragged before governors and kings for my sake, to bear witness before them and the Gentiles. ¹⁹When they deliver you over, do not be anxious how you are to speak or what you are to say, for what you are to say will be given to you in that hour. ²⁰*For it is not you who speak, but the Spirit of your Father speaking through you.* 📖

Luke 12:12 ...for the Holy Spirit will teach you in that very hour what you ought to say. 📖

Luke 24:46-49 ... and said to them, "Thus it is written, that the Christ should suffer and on the third day rise from the dead, ⁴⁷and that repentance and forgiveness of sins should be proclaimed in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. ⁴⁸*You are witnesses of these things.* ⁴⁹*And behold, I am sending the promise of my Father upon you. But stay in the city until you are clothed with power from on high.*" 📖

This indicates that the disciples were to preach and witness (vv. 47-48; cf. CEV, NLT), for which they would be empowered with the promised Holy Spirit of God (v. 49). This is reflected in most of the following verses.

Acts 4:8 Then Peter, filled with the Holy Spirit, said to them, "Rulers of the people and elders, ... 📖

Luke uses the phrase "filled with the Holy Spirit" eight times (Luke 1:15, 41, 67; Acts 2:4; Acts 4:31 ↓; Acts 9:17; Acts 13:9 ↓). On most of these occasions the person so filled speaks words that are divinely inspired or empowered. This is indicative of the Spirit having a significant role in what they speak.

Acts 4:31 And when they had prayed, the place in which they were gathered together was shaken, and they were all filled with the Holy Spirit and continued to speak the word of God with boldness. 📖

Acts 5:32 And we are witnesses to these things, and so is the Holy Spirit, whom God has given to those who obey him. 📖

This suggests that the Holy Spirit aids those he indwells in their witnessing.

Acts 6:9-10 Then some of those who belonged to the synagogue of the Freedmen (as it was called), and of the Cyrenians, and of the Alexandrians, and of those from Cilicia and Asia, rose up and disputed with Stephen. ¹⁰*But they could not withstand the wisdom and the Spirit with which he was speaking.* 📖

Acts 13:9-11 But Saul, who was also called Paul, filled with the Holy Spirit, looked intently at him ¹⁰and said, "You son of the devil, you enemy of all righteousness, full of all deceit and villainy, will you not stop making crooked the straight paths of the Lord? ¹¹And now, behold, the hand of the Lord is upon you, and you will be blind and unable to see the sun for a time." Immediately mist and darkness fell upon him, and he went about seeking people to lead him by the hand. 📖

1Cor 2:13 And we impart this in words not taught by human wisdom but taught by the Spirit, interpreting spiritual truths to those who are spiritual.^b 📖

^b Or interpreting spiritual truths in spiritual language, or comparing spiritual things with spiritual

1Pet 1:12 It was revealed to them that they were serving not themselves but you, in the things that have now been announced to you through those who preached the good news to you by the Holy Spirit sent from heaven, things into which angels long to look. 📖

God's people worship and pray by the Holy Spirit

See also:

- Pray in the Holy Spirit, p. 1219
- Worship God in spirit and by the Holy Spirit, p. 1346

A further aspect of the Holy Spirit's help of God's people is that they are to worship and pray by or in the Holy Spirit. As such they worship and pray in reliance on the Holy Spirit – who dwells within them – under his power and guidance.

Phil 3:3 For we are the circumcision, who worship by the Spirit of God^c and glory in Christ Jesus and put no confidence in the flesh— 📖

^c Some manuscripts God in spirit

Eph 5:18-20 And do not get drunk with wine, for that is debauchery, but be filled with the Spirit, ¹⁹addressing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing and making melody to the Lord with your heart, ²⁰*giving thanks always and for everything to God the Father in the name of our Lord Jesus Christ*, ... 📖

The exhortation to “be filled with the Spirit” (v. 18) accompanied by the exhortations to sing “to the Lord with your heart” (v. 19b) and to give thanks to God (v. 20), point to the need for believers to worship by the Holy Spirit.

Eph 6:18 ... praying at all times in the Spirit, with all prayer and supplication. To that end keep alert with all perseverance, making supplication for all the saints, ... 📖

Jude 1:20 But you, beloved, building yourselves up in your most holy faith and praying in the Holy Spirit, ... 📖

Rom 8:26-27 Likewise the Spirit helps us in our weakness. For we do not know what to pray for as we ought, but the Spirit himself intercedes for us with groanings too deep for words. ²⁷And he who searches hearts knows what is the mind of the Spirit, because^d the Spirit intercedes for the saints according to the will of God. 📖

^d Or that

This likely speaks of the Holy Spirit helping believers while they pray, overcoming their ignorance as to what to pray for by interceding on their behalf. As such one can infer from this that believers should pray by the Holy Spirit.

✦ By the Holy Spirit believers call to God as their Father:

Rom 8:15 For you did not receive the spirit of slavery to fall back into fear, but you have received the Spirit of adoption as sons, by whom we cry, “Abba! Father!” 📖

God transforms his people by giving them the invaluable gift of spiritual life, in which they are “reborn” in a spiritual sense. Additionally, God makes them holy and accordingly begins to transform them to be like Jesus Christ and himself. God does this through such things as teaching and disciplining them.

a) God Makes His People Spiritually Alive

See also:

- b) Eternal Life, p. 733

Subsections

- God's people have spiritual life
- They have passed from their former state of spiritual death to spiritual life
- In union with Jesus Christ, their sinful selves have “died” and they are now spiritually alive
- God's people are spiritually reborn of God . . .
- . . . They are born again of the Holy Spirit and through God's word
- God's people are a new creation

God's people have spiritual life

See also:

- The Holy Spirit brings spiritual life, p. 843

Spiritual life involves being “alive to God” (Rom 6:11) and comes through having God's Holy Spirit. Each believer has the Holy Spirit dwelling in them, renewing and nourishing them spiritually. Consequently believers have a spiritual consciousness that enables them to live in communion with and in dependence on God. As such they are “alive to God”.

One could make a parallel with a person's own spirit enabling them to have physical life (for without one's spirit indwelling one's physical body, the body is dead). Somewhat similarly, having the Holy Spirit enables a person to have spiritual life.

Note that the following verses do not use the term “spiritual life”, but this is generally understood to be in view (though note the comment on Psalms 36:9).

John 3:6 That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.^a

^a The same Greek word means both wind and spirit

This implies that through the indwelling of the Holy Spirit, one is born to spiritual life (cf. John 6:63 ↓).

John 6:47 Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever believes has eternal life.

Anyone who believes in Jesus Christ “has (now possesses) eternal life” (AMP; cf. NLT). As well as a future dimension, eternal life has a present dimension. As such eternal life can basically be correlated with spiritual life (cf. v. 63 ↓; John 5:24 ↓), life that comes through the Holy Spirit and God's word.

John 6:63 It is the Spirit who gives life; the flesh is no help at all. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit and life.

In the second statement Jesus appears to be saying that his words are spiritual, producing spiritual or eternal life. In the light of the first statement, Jesus may well be implying that it is by the Holy Spirit that his words produce this life.

John 10:10 The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy. I came that they may have life and have it abundantly.

Life of such abundance is indicative of and can be correlated with spiritual life.

Acts 5:20 “Go and stand in the temple and speak to the people all the words of this Life.”

Here an angel of the Lord refers to the “new life” (CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV) that believers have, a life that is spiritual and far richer than any other experience of life.

Acts 11:18 When they heard these things they fell silent. And they glorified God, saying, “Then to the Gentiles also God has granted repentance that leads to life.”

Rom 8:6 For to set the mind on the flesh is death, but to set the mind on the Spirit is life and peace.

Particularly as this is speaking of life that comes through the presence and work of the Holy Spirit, “life” appears to refer to – or at least encompass – spiritual life.

Isa 55:3 Incline your ear, and come to me; hear, that your soul may live; and I will make with you an everlasting covenant, my steadfast, sure love for David.

Ps 36:9 For with you is the fountain of life; in your light do we see light.

The “life” spoken of here and in 133:3 below (cf. Deut 30:19-20 ↓) has many parallels with the spiritual “life” that is prominent in the NT, and is arguably akin to it. Here “life” denotes a full and blessed life (cf. John 10:10 ↑), stemming from a right relationship with God.

Ps 133:3 It is like the dew of Hermon, which falls on the mountains of Zion! For there the LORD has commanded the blessing, life forevermore.

They have passed from their former state of spiritual death to spiritual life

- ... They have spiritual light instead of spiritual darkness, p. 897

1Jn 3:14 We know that we have passed out of death into life, because we love the brothers. Whoever does not love abides in death.

John 5:24-25 Truly, truly, I say to you, whoever hears my word and believes him who sent me has eternal life. He does not come into judgment, but has passed from death to life.²⁵ Truly, truly, I say to you, an hour is coming, and is now here, when the dead will hear the voice of the Son of God, and those who hear will live.

In v. 25, “is now here” implies that what follows refers to or at least is applicable to spiritual life, that believers can begin participating in now – which is consistent with the teaching in v. 24.

Rom 6:13 Do not present your members to sin as instruments for unrighteousness, but present yourselves to God as those who have been brought from death to life, and your members to God as instruments for righteousness.

The suitability of the inclusion of this verse is somewhat debatable. The wording (supported by a number of other translations) does suggest that “death” is referring to one’s former state of spiritual death – in which case it would be suitable here. However, the wider context indicates that the believer’s subsequent death to sin may instead be in view (cf.

NCV). If this is the case, the verse would be better placed in the following subsection.

Eph 2:1, 4-5 And you were dead in the trespasses and sin  ...⁴But^b God, being rich in mercy, because of the great love with which he loved us, ⁵*even when we were dead in our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ*—by grace you have been saved—

^b Or And

Luke 15:24 For this my son was dead, and is alive again; he was lost, and is found.’ And they began to celebrate.

This provides an illustration of a believer’s changed spiritual state, with the description of the prodigal son as being “dead” and now “alive”, “lost” and now “found”.

Eph 5:14 ... for anything that becomes visible is light. Therefore it says, “Awake, O sleeper, and arise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you.”

This speaks of a person waking from a state of spiritual death to the light – and by implication the life – which Christ provides.

† The Israelites’ choice of life or death:

Deut 30:19-20 I call heaven and earth to witness against you today, that I have set before you life and death, blessing and curse. Therefore choose life, that you and your offspring may live,²⁰ loving the LORD your God, obeying his voice and holding fast to him, for he is your life and length of days, that you may dwell in the land that the LORD swore to your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob, to give them.

Moses exhorted the people to choose “life” (v. 19b), aligned with obeying God who was the essence of their life (v. 20b). Such “life” involved blessings; a full and fruitful life.

Rom 6:2-8, 11, 23 By no means! How can we who died to sin still live in it? ³*Do you not know that all of us who have been baptized into Christ Jesus were baptized into his death?* ⁴*We were buried therefore with him by baptism into death, in order* that, just as Christ was raised from the dead by the glory of the Father, we too might walk in newness of life. ⁵For if we have been united with him in a death like his, we shall certainly be united with him in a resurrection like his. ⁶We know that our old self^c was crucified with him in order that the body of sin might be brought to nothing, so that we would no longer be enslaved to sin. ⁷For one who has died has been set free^d from sin. ⁸Now if we have died with Christ, we believe that we will also live with him. ¶ ... ¹¹So you also must consider yourselves dead to sin and alive to God in Christ Jesus. ¶ ... ²³For the wages of sin is death, but the free gift of God is eternal life in Christ Jesus our Lord. ¶

^c Greek man

^d Greek has been justified

In our union with Jesus Christ we are identified with him in his death and resurrection. In a spiritual sense our old sinful selves have died with him in his death and we have been made alive spiritually with him in his post-resurrection life. Thus we have “died to sin” (v. 2; cf. v. 11a), are “no longer be enslaved to sin” (v. 6b) and so have been “set free from sin” (v. 7). In conjunction with the above, we “walk in newness of life” (v. 4a) in union with Jesus Christ (v. 5b), living with him (v. 8b). Furthermore, in Jesus Christ we are “alive to God” (v. 11b) and have eternal life (v. 23b). Regarding vv. 5, 8, note that some commentators point to the future tenses as meaning that these verses are referring to the believer’s resurrection and life with Christ at the end of the age. However others claim that the context indicates that the believer’s spiritual resurrection and life on coming to faith is in view, with a future tense only used to indicate certainty. In v. 23 “eternal life” may well be meant to be inclusive of the spiritual life which God’s people have in the present.

Rom 8:10 But if Christ is in you, although the body is dead because of sin, the Spirit is life because of righteousness. ¶

There is doubt – as is reflected in other translations – as to whether the Greek translated here as “Spirit” refers to the Holy Spirit who brings spiritual life or to the believer’s spirit. But both possibilities point to the spiritual life that believers have through their relationship with Christ and the Holy Spirit’s presence (cf. v. 9) – which are theirs on the basis of the righteousness that they have been granted (v. 10b).

Gal 2:20 I have been crucified with Christ. It is no longer I who live, but Christ who lives in me. And the life I now live in the flesh I live by faith in the Son of God, who loved me and gave himself for me. ¶

In the first couple of sentences Paul refers to his former “self” that was self-centered and sinful. This sinful “self” has died and now his being is permeated by Christ’s life – from which it can be inferred that Paul has spiritual life.

Gal 5:24 And those who belong to Christ Jesus have crucified the flesh with its passions and desires. ¶

Col 2:11-13 In him also you were circumcised with a circumcision made without hands, by putting off the body of the flesh, by the circumcision of Christ, ¹²having been buried with him in baptism, in which you were also raised with him through faith in the powerful working of God, who raised him from the dead. ¹³And you, who were dead in your trespasses and the uncircumcision of your flesh, God made alive together with him, having forgiven us all our trespasses, ... ¶

Note that “dead in your trespasses” (v. 13; cf. Eph 2:5a ↓) refers to the former dead spiritual state (spoken of in the preceding subsection) that is associated with the sinful nature. When one’s old sinful self dies through one’s union with Christ, one is made alive spiritually with him.

Col 3:3-4 For you have died, and your life is hidden with Christ in God. ⁴When Christ who is your^e life appears, then you also will appear with him in glory. ¶

^e Some manuscripts our

“For you have died” (v. 3) quite possibly has in view the believer’s death to sin as being in association with Christ’s death (cf. NLT) – particularly with the subsequent references to the believer’s life with Christ.

2Tim 2:11 The saying is trustworthy, for: If we have died with him, we will also live with him; ... ¶

Note that commentators differ on whether “we will also live with him” refers to the Christian’s spiritual life in him now or to living with Christ in heaven (cf. vv. 10, 12).

Eph 2:4-6 But^f God, being rich in mercy, because of the great love with which he loved us, ⁵even when we were dead in our trespasses, made us alive together with Christ—by grace you have been saved— ⁶*and raised us up with him and seated us with him in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus, ...* ¶

^f Or And

In v. 6, what is true of Christ now, is applied to believers in a secondary, spiritual sense. Being “in him” they participate with him in his risen life and are in a spiritual sense positioned with him in heaven. The consummation of this will take place in the future (cf. v. 7). Note that “dead” (v. 5) refers to spiritual death as per the previous subsection, in which vv. 4-5 were included.

‡ Through Jesus Christ's death we have died to the things of this world:

Gal 6:14 But far be it from me to boast except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which[‡] the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world.

God's people are spiritually reborn of God . . .

See also:

- John 3:3-8 ↓
- God's people are his children, p. 770

The expressions "born of God" and "born again" (cf. the following subsection) refer to the spiritual rebirth people undergo when they come to faith, and by which they have spiritual life. It is accomplished by God through the work of the Holy Spirit within a person's heart or mind, along with exposure to God's word. This spiritual birth means that believers are in a real sense children of God (cf. comment on 1Jn 3:9 ↓). It also begins a process of growing more like God, as believers share in his Spirit which transforms them.

John 1:12-13 But to all who did receive him, who believed in his name, he gave the right to become children of God, ¹³*who were born, not of blood nor of the will of the flesh nor of the will of man, but of God.*

1Jn 2:29 If you know that he is righteous, you may be sure that everyone who practices righteousness has been born of him.

Note that "him" may be referring to Jesus Christ rather than God.

1Jn 3:9 No one born of God makes a practice of sinning, for God's^h seed abides in him, and he cannot keep on sinning because he has been born of God.

^h Greek his

"God's seed" may well refer to God's nature, particularly his personal or moral nature, inherited to an extent by those who are born of him. It has also been interpreted to refer to Jesus Christ, the Holy Spirit and God's word. (If the either of the latter two are in view, than this verse would also be pertinent to the following subsection.)

1Jn 4:4, 7 Little children, you are from God and have overcome them, for he who is in you is greater than he who is in the world.  ... ⁷*Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God, and whoever loves has been born of God and knows God.*

The phrase "from God" (v. 4; cf. v. 6) appears here to have the same sense as "born of God" (v. 7).

1Jn 5:1 Everyone who believes that Jesus is the Christ has been born of God, and everyone who loves the Father loves whoever has been born of him.

1Jn 5:18-19 We know that everyone who has been born of God does not keep on sinning, but he who was born of God protects him, and the evil one does not touch him. ¹⁹*We know that we are from God*, and the whole world lies in the power of the evil one.

"We know that we are from God" (v. 19a) has in view being "born of God" (v. 18a). Note that "he who was born of God" (v. 18b) is Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

1Pet 1:3 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ...

God has caused us to be born again, indicating that we have been reborn of him. Being born again, we now have a hope that is likewise living – real and ongoing. Note that "born again ... through the resurrection of Jesus Christ" may have in view believers being reborn into spiritual life through their union with Jesus Christ. If so, then this verse would also be pertinent to the previous subsection – as indeed it is to the following subsection.

Can he enter a second time into his mother's womb and be born?" ⁵Jesus answered, "Truly, truly, I say to you, unless one is born of water and the Spirit, he cannot enter the kingdom of God. ⁶*That which is born of the flesh is flesh, and that which is born of the Spirit is spirit.*ⁱ ⁷*Do not marvel that I said to you, 'You^k must be born again.'* ⁸The wind^l blows where it wishes, and you hear its sound, but you do not know where it comes from or where it goes. So it is with everyone who is born of the Spirit.”

- ^j The same Greek word means both wind and spirit
- ^k The Greek for you is plural here
- ^l The same Greek word means both wind and spirit

There are a number of interpretations as to what “water” (v. 5) refers. They include: cleansing, here associated with spiritual birth; water baptism, for repentance; the Holy Spirit (cf. John 7:37-39); God’s word (cf. Eph 5:26; 1Pet 1:23); and physical birth. With the last possibility, “born of water and the Spirit” would mean that one needs to be born not only physically but also spiritually. Note that v. 8 speaks of the mystery of the Holy Spirit’s work in a believer. It is most likely implying one or more of the following: the Holy Spirit is sovereign in the lives of God’s people, doing whatever he pleases; one cannot comprehend the work of the Spirit in God’s people; or one “can’t explain how people are born of the Spirit” (NLT).

Gal 4:29 But just as at that time he who was born according to the flesh persecuted him who was born according to the Spirit, so also it is now.

Titus 3:5 ... he saved us, not because of works done by us in righteousness, but according to his own mercy, by the washing of regeneration and renewal of the Holy Spirit, ...

Possibly “regeneration” or “rebirth” (NIV®, NRSV; cf. AMP, CEV, GNT) is here being attributed to the Holy Spirit, along with “renewal”.

James 1:18 Of his own will he brought us forth by the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

The expression “brought us forth” refers to giving us birth (cf. AMP, NIV, NRSV).

1Pet 1:22-23 Having purified your souls by your obedience to the truth for a sincere brotherly love, love one another earnestly from a pure heart, ²³since you have been born again, not of perishable seed but of imperishable, through the living and abiding word of God; ...

A number of commentators assert that the “imperishable” seed (v. 23) refers to “the living and abiding word of God” (cf. CEV). Alternatively it may refer to the seed of God (cf. 1Jn 3:9 ↑), which/who “is immortal” (GNT).

✦ The Spirit gives life through Jesus’ words:

John 6:63 It is the Spirit who gives life; the flesh is no help at all. The words that I have spoken to you are spirit and life.

This probably speaks of the Holy Spirit and God’s word (through Jesus Christ) together bringing eternal life – akin to spiritual rebirth. The second sentence implies that the description of Jesus’ words as “spirit” associates his words with the Holy Spirit. As such (as commented earlier) the first sentence would appear to be indicating that his words are used by the Holy Spirit to bring eternal life.

God’s people are a new creation

2Cor 5:17 Therefore, if anyone is in Christ, he is a new creation.^m The old has passed away; behold, the new has come.

^mOr creature

Gal 6:15 For neither circumcision counts for anything, nor uncircumcision, but a new creation.

This implies that believers are – or at least should be – “a new creation”.

Eph 2:10 For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them.

Eph 4:20-24 But that is not the way you learned Christ!—²¹assuming that you have heard about him and were taught in him, as the truth is in Jesus, ²²to put off your old self,ⁿ which belongs to your former manner of life and is corrupt through deceitful desires, ²³and to be renewed in the spirit of your minds, ²⁴and to put on the new self, created after the likeness of God in true righteousness and holiness.

ⁿ Greek man; also verse 24

The term “the new self” (v. 24; cf. Col 3:9-10 ↓) reflects that Christians are a new creation. Note that Paul speaks here of the putting off of one’s old self or nature and the putting on of the new self as an ongoing process. In contrast in Colossians 3:9-10 below he speaks of this process as having been completed, although the phrase “is being renewed” (v. 10) does point to an ongoing aspect.

Col 3:9-10 Do not lie to one another, seeing that you have put off the old self^o with its practices ¹⁰and have put on the new self, which is being renewed in knowledge after the image of its creator.

^o Greek man; also as supplied in verse 10

Note: God's promise of a new or renewed heart and spirit – so that his people will be committed to him

Bear in mind that the verses below from Jeremiah and Ezekiel (which make up most of this subsection) have different stages of fulfillment, or at least an application in different stages of God's plan for his people throughout the ages. There was arguably a partial fulfillment of them in the people of Israel or Judah following the Babylonian exile. They also point to the second covenant, with the enriched spiritual state of those who have faith in Jesus Christ. Lastly, they may well have a consummate fulfillment in the renewal of Israel or God's people as a whole at the end of the age (cf. Zec 12:10 ↓).

Jer 24:7 I will give them a heart to know that I am the LORD, and they shall be my people and I will be their God, for they shall return to me with their whole heart. 📖

Note that they being God's people and God being their God (cf. Jer 31:33 ↓; Ezek 1:19-20 ↓) is indicative of the people's commitment to him.

Jer 31:33 But this is the covenant that I will make with the house of Israel after those days, declares the LORD: I will put my law within them, and I will write it on their hearts. And I will be their God, and they shall be my people. 📖

The writing of God's law on their hearts points to a renewal of their hearts.

Jer 32:39 I will give them one heart and one way, that they may fear me forever, for their own good and the good of their children after them. 📖

This and Ezekiel 11:19 below may be figuratively speaking of God giving his people as a whole a new heart (cf. CEV). As such, the phrase "one heart and one way" points to a unity amongst the people, to follow God and fear him. Or the verses may be meaning that God would give each of his people "singleness of heart and action" (NIV®; cf. GNT) – i.e. an undivided heart totally committed to him.

Ezek 11:19-20 And I will give them one heart, and a new spirit I will put within them. I will remove the heart of stone from their flesh and give them a heart of flesh,²⁰ that they may walk in my statutes and keep my rules and obey them. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God. 📖

The term "a heart of flesh" (cf. Ezek 36:26 ↓) – in contrast to a "heart of stone" – speaks of a pliable heart, compliant to God's will and ways.

Ezek 36:26-27 And I will give you a new heart, and a new spirit I will put within you. And I will remove the heart of stone from your flesh and give you a heart of flesh.²⁷ And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my statutes and be careful to obey my rules.^p 📖

^p Or my just decrees

Zec 12:10 And I will pour out on the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem a spirit of grace and pleas for mercy, so that, when they look on me, on him whom they have pierced, they shall mourn for him, as one mourns for an only child, and weep bitterly over him, as one weeps over a firstborn. 📖

This speaks of God's spiritual renewal of Israel in the end days.

Deut 30:6 And the LORD your God will circumcise your heart and the heart of your offspring, so that you will love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, that you may live. 📖

The promised to circumcise the people's hearts is akin to the promise of a new heart in the above verses.

The concept of being made holy concerns God's people being set apart for God, as dedicated to him – for such purposes as doing his work and worshipping him. This involves them being made pure from sin.

Being made holy has a couple of phases or facets. Firstly, when a person comes to faith their sins are forgiven and as such they are holy. Secondly, believers are made holy in that they are continually being transformed by God, becoming more like Jesus Christ and increasingly devoid of sin – a process often referred to as sanctification (though this term is sometimes also used of the first phase).

Note that in this second facet, believers are spoken of both as being passive and as being active in their sanctification. It is primarily a work of God through the Holy Spirit, but also something that believers are to strive towards (cf. II. Avoiding Sin and Being Holy, p. 1854).

Ex 31:13 You are to speak to the people of Israel and say, 'Above all you shall keep my Sabbaths, for this is a sign between me and you throughout your generations, that you may know that I, the LORD, sanctify you.

Ezek 37:28 Then the nations will know that I am the LORD who sanctifies Israel, when my sanctuary is in their midst forevermore.

Note that this is referring to a renewed Israel of the end times.

1Thes 5:23-24 Now may the God of peace himself sanctify you completely, and may your whole spirit and soul and body be kept blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁴He who calls you is faithful; he will surely do it.

Heb 12:10 For they disciplined us for a short time as it seemed best to them, but he disciplines us for our good, that we may share his holiness.

1Jn 1:9 If we confess our sins, he is faithful and just to forgive us our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness.

In making people holy God forgives their sins and cleanses them from "all unrighteousness", i.e. "everything not in conformity to His will in purpose, thought, and action" (AMP).

Ps 4:3 But know that the LORD has set apart the godly for himself; the LORD hears when I call to him.

As noted earlier, being set apart for God is one aspect of holiness.

Ps 18:32 ... the God who equipped me with strength and made my way blameless.

Acts 15:9 ... and he made no distinction between us and them, having cleansed their hearts by faith.

Note that this is referring to God's part in the initial cleansing of believers, on their coming to faith, whereas a number of other verses in this subsection largely have in view the ongoing process of sanctification.

Heb 11:40 ... since God had provided something better for us, that apart from us they should not be made perfect.

This is alluding to either God's people being made holy now – by what God has accomplished through Jesus Christ – or to the consummation of their holiness or perfection in the afterlife. Note that "they" refers to the OT saints mentioned in the preceding verses.

. . . God's people are a holy people

Jer 2:3 Israel was holy to the LORD, the firstfruits of his harvest. All who ate of it incurred guilt; disaster came upon them, declares the LORD.

1Cor 3:17b For God's temple is holy, and you are that temple.

God's temple – the church – is "holy (sacred to Him)" (AMP).

Eph 2:21 ... in whom the whole structure, being joined together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord.

In Jesus Christ the whole church is joined together and grows (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV) to become a holy "temple".

Eph 5:25-27 Husbands, love your wives, as Christ loved the church and gave himself up for her, ²⁶that he might sanctify her, having cleansed her by the washing of water with the word, ²⁷so that he might present the church to himself in splendor, without spot or wrinkle or any such thing, that she might be holy and without blemish.^r ☞

^r Or holy and blameless

The term “saints” literally means “holy ones” – “holy people” (NCV™, NIV®, NLT).

1Pet 2:5 ... you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ. ☞

Isa 62:12 And they shall be called The Holy People, The Redeemed of the LORD; and you shall be called Sought Out, A City Not Forsaken. ☞

This is speaking of the spiritually renewed Israel of the end times, but arguably is applicable to all God’s people of all eras.

‡ God enables his people to serve him in holiness and righteousness:

Luke 1:69, 74-75 ... and has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David, ☞ ... ⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies, might serve him without fear, ⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days. ☞

By what he has done through Jesus Christ – as v. 69 alludes to – God enables us to serve him in holiness and righteousness throughout our lives.

God’s people are primarily made holy through Jesus Christ’s sacrifice

- Eph 5:25-27 ↑
- ... and Jesus Christ’s death cleanses us from sin, p. 600
- “In” Jesus Christ God’s people are sanctified, p. 782

Jesus Christ’s sacrifice is the basis both for being forgiven of sin on coming to faith and for ongoing forgiveness – i.e. both being deemed holy initially and continuing to be deemed holy. In conjunction with this, it allows for Christians’ characters to increasingly reflect their holy status.

Heb 10:10, 14, 19, 22 And by that will we have been sanctified through the offering of the body of Jesus Christ once for all. ☞ ... ¹⁴For by a single offering he has perfected for all time those who are being sanctified. ☞ ... ¹⁹Therefore, brothers,^s since we have confidence to enter the holy places by the blood of Jesus, ☞ ... ²²let us draw near with a true heart in full assurance of faith, with our hearts sprinkled clean from an evil conscience and our bodies washed with pure water. ☞

^s Or brothers and sisters

Being able to enter into God’s holy presence (vv. 19, 22) is indicative of God’s people having been made holy, for one cannot do so without being holy. The phrase “with our hearts sprinkled clean” (v. 22) alludes to the sprinkling with blood of Aaron and his sons to consecrate them (cf. Ex 29:21; Lev 8:30). Here it is used to refer to the parallel concept of the cleansing of God’s people – making them holy – by the shedding of Jesus Christ’s blood (v. 19; cf. vv. 10, 14; 1Pet 1:2 ↓).

Heb 13:12 So Jesus also suffered outside the gate in order to sanctify the people through his own blood. ☞

Col 1:21-22 And you, who once were alienated and hostile in mind, a doing evil deeds, ²²he has now reconciled in his body of flesh by his death, in order to present you holy and blameless and above reproach before him, ... ☞

Heb 2:9-11 But we see him who for a little while was made lower than the angels, namely Jesus, crowned with glory and honor because of the suffering of death, so that by the grace of God he might taste death for everyone. ¹⁰For it was fitting that he, for whom and by whom all things exist, in bringing many sons to glory, should make the founder of their salvation perfect through suffering. ¹¹For he who sanctifies and those who are sanctified all have one source.^t That is why he is not ashamed to call them brothers,^u ... ☞

^t Greek all are of one

^u Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated “brothers”) refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God’s family, the church; also verse 12

The reference to Jesus Christ’s death in v. 9 implies that this is in view as the means by which he sanctifies God’s people (v. 11).

1Pet 1:1b-2 To those who are elect exiles of the dispersion in Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia, and Bithynia, ²according to the foreknowledge of God the Father, in the sanctification of the Spirit, for obedience to Jesus Christ and for sprinkling with his blood: May grace and peace be multiplied to you. ☞

The clause "sprinkling with his blood" appears to primarily refer to being cleansed (cf. Heb 9:13-14), as in OT sacrificial practices, akin to being made holy.

Gal 6:14 But far be it from me to boast except in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ, by which^v the world has been crucified to me, and I to the world.

^v Or through whom

This speaks of God's people being set apart from worldly things – through Jesus Christ's death – an important aspect of holiness.

John 17:19 And for their sake I consecrate myself,^w that they also may be sanctified^x in truth.

^w Or I sanctify myself; or I set myself apart (for holy service to God)

^x Greek may be set apart (for holy service to God)

In saying "I consecrate myself" – or "I sanctify myself" (cf. text note) – Jesus appears to be speaking of totally dedicating or giving himself to God's service (cf. text note, CEV, GNT, NLT), alluding to his approaching sacrifice of his life by which his followers would "sanctified in truth". Note that this final phrase appears to be referring to Jesus followers being either: "truly sanctified" (NIV®; cf. GNT); sanctified to/for the truth (CEV, NCV); or "sanctified by the truth" (NKJV).

Heb 10:29 How much worse punishment, do you think, will be deserved by the one who has spurned the Son of God, and has profaned the blood of the covenant by which he was sanctified, and has outraged the Spirit of grace?

The "blood of the covenant" is Jesus Christ's blood, shed in instituting the new covenant between God and his people. The verse is speaking of one who deliberately keeps on sinning after having received the knowledge of the truth (cf. v. 26).

† Jesus Christ establishes our hearts "blameless in holiness" before God:

1Thes 3:12-13 ... and may the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all, as we do for you, ¹³so that he may establish your hearts blameless in holiness before our God and Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all his saints.

God's people are being made like God . . .

▪ Col 2:9-10

Eph 3:19 ... and to know the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge, that you may be filled with all the fullness of God.

Commentators differ widely on their interpretation of exactly what the final clause refers to. However it can be said that it appears to be referring to believers growing in God's communicable attributes – basically his personal characteristics (cf. Eph 4:24 ; 1Jn 4:17 .

Eph 4:24 ... and to put on the new self, created after the likeness of God in true righteousness and holiness.

This is not so much saying that believers are being made like God. Rather, though not dissimilarly, Paul is encouraging his readers to take on their new selves which have been created like God. As believers do this more and more, their likeness to God becomes increasingly apparent.

Col 3:9-10 Do not lie to one another, seeing that you have put off the old self^y with its practices ¹⁰and have put on the new self, which is being renewed in knowledge after the image of its creator.

^y Greek man; also as supplied in verse 10

In saying that "the new self" is "being renewed in knowledge after the image of its creator", Paul appears to mean either that: through knowledge we are being renewed in God's image; or we are being renewed in knowledge in accordance with the image of God.

2Pet 1:4 ... by which he has granted to us his precious and very great promises, so that through them you may become partakers of the divine nature, having escaped from the corruption that is in the world because of sinful desire.

1Jn 4:17 By this is love perfected with us, so that we may have confidence for the day of judgment, because as he is so also are we in this world.

As love is made complete among us, we become like God.

... God's people are being transformed to be like Jesus Christ

Rom 8:29 For those whom he foreknew he also predestined to be conformed to the image of his Son, in order that he might be the firstborn among many brothers.

2Cor 3:18 And we all, with unveiled face, beholding the glory of the Lord,^z are being transformed into the same image from one degree of glory to another. For this comes from the Lord who is the Spirit.

^z Or reflecting the glory of the Lord

Paul has the development of the believer's sanctification in view, with their characters growing more like Christ. As such believers increasingly reflect and even manifest Christ's glory.

Gal 4:19 ... my little children, for whom I am again in the anguish of childbirth until Christ is formed in you!

Paul is speaking of "Christ's nature" (GNT) being formed in the Galatian believers (cf. NCV, NLT).

Eph 4:11-13 And he gave the apostles, the prophets, the evangelists, the shepherds^a and teachers,^b ¹²to equip the saints for the work of ministry, for building up the body of Christ, ¹³until we all attain to the unity of the faith and of the knowledge of the Son of God, to mature manhood,^c to the measure of the stature of the fullness of Christ, ...

^a Or pastors

^b Or the shepherd-teachers

^c Greek to a full-grown man

Note that this is probably primarily referring to the spiritual maturity of "the body of Christ" (v. 12), rather than to the individual believer, but it is still applicable to individuals.

Phil 3:10 ... that I may know him and the power of his resurrection, and may share his sufferings, becoming like him in his death, ...

The final clause possibly means that Paul wanted to become like Christ as exemplified in his death, perfectly submissive and obedient to God. A different interpretation (not as relevant to this subsection) is that, following on from the preceding phrase, Paul is indicating that he was prepared to suffer for Christ's cause even to the point of dying like he did (cf. CEV).

1Cor 2:16 "For who has understood the mind of the Lord so as to instruct him?" But we have the mind of Christ.

Paul's assertion that believers "have the mind of Christ" concludes the preceding teaching that believers have the Holy Spirit who knows the thoughts of God (cf. vv. 10-13). This points to their minds being or growing to be like Christ's – and even God's.

✦ They are "filled" in Christ:

Col 2:9-10 For in him the whole fullness of deity dwells bodily, ¹⁰and you have been filled in him, who is the head of all rule and authority.

As Christ has all the fullness of deity (v. 9), through their union with him believers share in this fullness; they are "complete" (NKJV, NLT). These verses also point to the theme of the previous subsection, of believers being made like God.

Note: God's people are his workmanship

Eph 2:10 For we are his workmanship, created in Christ Jesus for good works, which God prepared beforehand, that we should walk in them.

Isa 60:21 Your people shall all be righteous; they shall possess the land forever, the branch of my planting, the work of my hands, that I might be glorified.^d

^d Or that I might display my beauty

The renewed Israel, composed of all God's people, is in view here.

Isa 64:8 But now, O LORD, you are our Father; we are the clay, and you are our potter; we are all the work of your hand.

Jer 18:4-6 And the vessel he was making of clay was spoiled in the potter's hand, and he reworked it into another vessel, as it seemed good to the potter to do. ⁵Then the word of the LORD came to me: ⁶"O house of Israel, can I not do with you as this potter has done? declares the LORD. Behold, like the clay in the potter's hand, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel.

Bear in mind that this speaks of Israel as a whole. (For further comment see God disciplines his people to rid them of sin, p. 871.)

John 15:2 Every branch in me that does not bear fruit he takes away, and every branch that does bear fruit he prunes, that it may bear more fruit.

Rom 9:20-24 But who are you, O man, to answer back to God? Will what is molded say to its molder, "Why have you made me like this?" ²¹Has the potter no right over the clay, to make out of the same lump one vessel for honorable use and another for dishonorable use? ²²What if God, desiring to show his wrath and to make known his power, has endured with much patience vessels of wrath prepared for destruction,²³ in order to make known the riches of his glory for vessels of mercy, which he has prepared beforehand for glory—²⁴ even us whom he has called, not from the Jews only but also from the Gentiles?

This passage – which has Jeremiah 18:4-6 above in view – speaks of all people as God's workmanship. Verses 21, 23-24 in particular show that God's people are his workmanship. For further comment on this passage see Note: God's mercy and people's destiny, p. 764.

✦ God will complete his good work in his people:

Phil 1:6 And I am sure of this, that he who began a good work in you will bring it to completion at the day of Jesus Christ.

The term "good work" would appear to refer to sanctification, which would make the inclusion of this verse here complimentary to the theme of this subsection. But note that a number of commentators understand it to refer more generally to salvation.

God teaches his people

Ps 51:6 Behold, you delight in truth in the inward being, and you teach me wisdom in the secret heart.

Ps 71:17 O God, from my youth you have taught me, and I still proclaim your wondrous deeds.

Ps 94:12 Blessed is the man whom you discipline, O LORD, and whom you teach out of your law, ...

Ps 119:102 I do not turn aside from your rules, for you have taught me.

Isa 30:20 And though the Lord give you the bread of adversity and the water of affliction, yet your Teacher will not hide himself anymore, but your eyes shall see your Teacher.

Following a period of discipline, God their Teacher would reveal himself to his people. Presumably then they would be responsive to his teaching unlike previously when they were "unwilling to hear the instruction of the LORD" (v. 9).

Isa 54:13 All your children shall be taught by the LORD, and great shall be the peace of your children.

This refers to the future renewed Jerusalem, but is given a current application by Jesus below in John 6:45.

John 6:45 It is written in the Prophets, 'And they will all be taught by God.' Everyone who has heard and learned from the Father comes to me—

Phil 3:15 Let those of us who are mature think this way, and if in anything you think otherwise, God will reveal that also to you.

2Tim 2:7 Think over what I say, for the Lord will give you understanding in everything.

Rev 2:7 He who has an ear, let him hear what the Spirit says to the churches. To the one who conquers I will grant to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

Jesus Christ's first statement here is a refrain used a further half dozen times in chapters 2 and 3 of Revelation (cf. 2:11, 17, 29; 3:6, 13, 22). It is indicative of Jesus Christ (in conjunction with the Holy Spirit) being the source of the teachings – largely exhortations and revelations – for various churches contained therein, such as the teaching in the second statement here.

Ps 16:7 I bless the LORD who gives me counsel; in the night also my heart instructs me.^e

^e Hebrew my kidneys instruct me

Even at night God instructed David through his thoughts and “conscience” (GNT).

✦ Jesus opened his disciples’ minds so they could understand the Scriptures:

Luke 24:45 Then he opened their minds to understand the Scriptures, ...

God teaches his people how to live

Ex 24:12 The LORD said to Moses, “Come up to me on the mountain and wait there, that I may give you the tablets of stone, with the law and the commandment, which I have written for their instruction.”

God’s law and commands contain his teaching about how we should live.

Deut 8:3 And he humbled you and let you hunger and fed you with manna, which you did not know, nor did your fathers know, that he might make you know that man does not live by bread alone, but man lives by every word^f that comes from the mouth of the LORD.

^f Hebrew by all

We should live on God’s word, following its instructions regarding how we ought to live our lives.

Deut 33:3-4 Yes, he loved his people,^g all his holy ones were in his^h hand; so they followedⁱ in your steps, receiving direction from you, ⁵when Moses commanded us a law, as a possession for the assembly of Jacob.

^g Septuagint; Hebrew peoples

^h Hebrew your

ⁱ The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain

The “direction” (v. 3b) appears to be in relation to the law (v. 4a), i.e. it likely speaks of direction or teaching regarding how to live, rather than guidance for particular circumstances.

Ps 25:8-9, 12 Good and upright is the LORD; therefore he instructs sinners in the way. ⁹He leads the humble in what is right, and teaches the humble his way.  ... ¹²Who is the man who fears the LORD? Him will he instruct in the way that he should choose.

In v. 8 “sinners” refers to repentant sinners, such as David (as the context shows). God’s “way” (vv. 8, 9; cf. Ps 32:8 ↓; Isa 48:17 ↓) refers to God’s way/s for people to live.

Ps 32:8 I will instruct you and teach you in the way you should go; I will counsel you with my eye upon you.

Ps 119:171 My lips will pour forth praise, for you teach me your statutes.

Isa 48:17-18 Thus says the LORD, your Redeemer, the Holy One of Israel: “I am the LORD your God, who teaches you to profit, who leads you in the way you should go.” ¹⁸Oh that you had paid attention to my commandments! Then your peace would have been like a river, and your righteousness like the waves of the sea; ...

The references in v. 18 to God’s commands and the people’s righteousness suggests that v. 17 is primarily speaking of God teaching his people how to live, as opposed to giving guidance in making isolated decisions. Note that “teaches you to profit” has the sense “teaches you what is best for you” (NIV®).

1Thes 4:9 Now concerning brotherly love you have no need for anyone to write to you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love one another, ...

Titus 2:11-12 For the grace of God has appeared, bringing salvation for all people, ¹²*training us to renounce ungodliness and worldly passions, and to live self-controlled, upright, and godly lives in the present age, ...*

Isa 28:26 For he is rightly instructed; his God teaches him.

The reference is actually to God instructing a farmer to know the various things to do to produce crops (cf. vv. 24-25). There is an obvious parallel between this and God instructing his people and teaching them the right way to live.

✦ God made known to David “the path of life”:

Ps 16:11 You make known to me the path of life; in your presence there is fullness of joy; at your right hand are pleasures forevermore.

Although it may be an allusion to eternal life (cf. Acts 13:35), here “life” quite possibly refers to a full and fruitful life. Thus David may be speaking of God making known to him the way to live so as to obtain or be granted such life. Alternatively David may simply be primarily referring to God delivering him from death.

God enables his people to know the truth

Note that in at least most of the following references, “the truth” corresponds largely to the gospel and/or related matters.

John 8:31-32 So Jesus said to the Jews who had believed in him, "If you abide in my word, you are truly my disciples,³² and you will know the truth, and the truth will set you free."

John 16:13 When the Spirit of truth comes, he will guide you into all the truth, for he will not speak on his own authority, but whatever he hears he will speak, and he will declare to you the things that are to come.

The Holy Spirit guides believers "into all truth", making known truth from Jesus Christ and ultimately God (cf. vv. 14-15).

1Tim 2:3-4 This is good, and it is pleasing in the sight of God our Savior, "who desires all people to be saved and to come to the knowledge of the truth."

This points to the fact that it is only because of what God has done as "our Savior" that we can be saved and, in conjunction with this, "come to the knowledge of the truth" (cf. 2Tim 2:25 ↓; James 1:18 ↓). Thus, God enables his people to know the truth.

2Tim 2:25 ... correcting his opponents with gentleness. God may perhaps grant them repentance leading to a knowledge of the truth, ...

Titus 1:1 Paul, a servantⁱ of God and an apostle of Jesus Christ, for the sake of the faith of God's elect and their knowledge of the truth, which accords with godliness, ...

ⁱ Or slave; Greek bondservant

As God's servant and a commissioned messenger of Jesus Christ, Paul was used by God and Jesus Christ to impart "knowledge of the truth" to those to whom he ministered.

James 1:18 Of his own will he brought us forth by the word of truth, that we should be a kind of firstfruits of his creatures.

This implies that God enables believers to comprehend the truth.

2Pet 1:12 Therefore I intend always to remind you of these qualities, though you know them and are established in the truth that you have.

God is of course the ultimate source of this truth believers have.

1Jn 2:20-21 But you have been anointed by the Holy One, and you all have knowledge.^k ²¹I write to you, not because you do not know the truth, but because you know it, and because no lie is of the truth.

^k Some manuscripts you know everything

Verse 21 indicates that "knowledge" (v. 20) refers to knowledge of the truth. Verse 20 appears to imply that it is through this anointing from God – the Holy Spirit – that his people know the truth (cf. GNT, NCV).

God makes known things about himself to his people . . .

Deut 4:34-35 Or has any god ever attempted to go and take a nation for himself from the midst of another nation, by trials, by signs, by wonders, and by war, by a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and by great deeds of terror, all of which the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes? ³⁵To you it was shown, that you might know that the LORD is God; there is no other besides him.

The reference is to God stopping the waters of the Jordan from flowing (v. 13; cf. vv. 15-17), emphatically making known to the Israelites that the living God was among them (v. 10).

Ps 103:7 He made known his ways to Moses, his acts to the people of Israel.

Isa 43:10 "You are my witnesses," declares the LORD, "and my servant whom I have chosen, that you may know and believe me and understand that I am he. Before me no god was formed, nor shall there be any after me."

God enables his people to know him (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, Nlrv, NLT) and that he is the only God.

Isa 52:6 Therefore my people shall know my name. Therefore in that day they shall know that it is I who speak; here am I.

God promised that his people would “learn who I am” (CEV; cf. NCV) and that it was he who had foretold their redemption (cf. v. 3).

2Cor 4:6 For God, who said, “Let light shine out of darkness,” has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

This is speaking of God enabling believers to know his glory through his revelation of himself in Christ.

Matt 16:15-17 He said to them, “But who do you say that I am?” ¹⁶*Simon Peter replied, “You are the Christ, the Son of the living God.”* ¹⁷And Jesus answered him, “Blessed are you, Simon Bar-Jonah! For flesh and blood has not revealed this to you, but my Father who is in heaven.

John 17:7-8 Now they know that everything that you have given me is from you. ⁸*For I have given them the words that you gave me, and they have received them and have come to know in truth that I came from you; and they have believed that you sent me.*

Eph 3:14-19 For this reason I bow my knees before the Father, ¹⁵from whom every family¹ in heaven and on earth is named, ¹⁶*that according to the riches of his glory he may grant you to be strengthened with power through his Spirit in your inner being,* ¹⁷*so that Christ may dwell in your hearts through faith—that you, being rooted and grounded in love,* ¹⁸*may have strength to comprehend with all the saints what is the breadth and length and height and depth,* ¹⁹*and to know the love of Christ that surpasses knowledge, that you may be filled with all the fullness of God.*

¹ Or fatherhood; the Greek word patria is closely related to the word for Father in verse 14

Here Paul appears to pray that the Ephesians would know and experience Jesus Christ’s love. The fact that he prays for this is indicative that he saw God as ultimately the source of such knowledge (cf. 1:18-19a ↴), through the presence of his Spirit and Christ in believers (vv. 16-17). For comment on “the breadth and length and height and depth” (v. 18), see the comment on Eph 3:17-19 – under Jesus Christ is loving, p. 104.

... and God makes known other things of his to his people

Ps 25:14 The friendship^m of the LORD is for those who fear him, and he makes known to them his covenant.

^mOr The secret counsel

1Chr 17:19 For your servant’s sake, O LORD, and according to your own heart, you have done all this greatness, in making known all these great things.

The “great things” included God’s plans and promises concerning David (cf. vv. 3-14).

Amos 3:7 For the Lord GOD does nothing without revealing his secret to his servants the prophets.

Obviously this is speaking of revelation given to prophets. However they in turn were usually given such revelations of God’s plans to pass on to the whole of God’s people. To some degree at least, this is applicable to those with the spiritual gift of prophecy and their ministry in today’s church.

Luke 1:76-77 And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High; for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways, ⁷⁷*to give knowledge of salvation to his people in the forgiveness of their sins, ...*

God would first give his people “knowledge of salvation” through John the Baptist, in preparation for the coming of the Messiah.

John 15:15 No longer do I call you servants,ⁿ for the servant^o does not know what his master is doing; but I have called you friends, for all that I have heard from my Father I have made known to you.

Deut 29:29 The secret things belong to the LORD our God, but the things that are revealed belong to us and to our children forever, that we may do all the words of this law.

The "things that are revealed" appears to primarily refer to the law – unknown to other nations (cf. Ps 147:19-20 ↓).

Ps 147:19-20 He declares his word to Jacob, his statutes and rules^q to Israel. ²⁰*He has not dealt thus with any other nation; they do not know his rules.*^r Praise the LORD!

^q Or and just decrees

^r Or his just decrees

Isa 48:6 You have heard; now see all this; and will you not declare it? From this time forth I announce to you new things, hidden things that you have not known.

Matters of the future – such as Israel's restoration – are primarily in view here and in Jeremiah 33:3 immediately below.

Jer 33:3 Call to me and I will answer you, and will tell you great and hidden things that you have not known.

Dan 2:22-23, 47 ... he reveals deep and hidden things; he knows what is in the darkness, and the light dwells with him. ²³To you, O God of my fathers, I give thanks and praise, for you have given me wisdom and might, and have now made known to me what we asked of you, for you have made known to us the king's matter. ... ⁴⁷The king answered and said to Daniel, "Truly, your God is God of gods and Lord of kings, and a revealer of mysteries, for you have been able to reveal this mystery."

This refers to God revealing to Daniel the mystery of King Nebuchadnezzar's dream. As well as speaking of the king's own kingdom of Babylon, the dream spoke of the rise and fall of future kingdoms.

Matt 11:25-27 At that time Jesus declared, "I thank you, Father, Lord of heaven and earth, that you have hidden these things from the wise and understanding and revealed them to little children; ²⁶yes, Father, for such was your gracious will.^s ²⁷All things have been handed over to me by my Father, and no one knows the Son except the Father, and no one knows the Father except the Son and anyone to whom the Son chooses to reveal him.

^s Or for so it pleased you well

In v. 25 Jesus is referring to God concealing matters from the religious leaders, yet revealing them to Jesus' lowly, humble followers. The "things" in question would appear to be matters of God's kingdom (cf. Matt 13:11 ↓), including the significance of Jesus' mission; revelation of God (v. 27) may also be in view.

Matt 13:11, 17 And he answered them, "To you it has been given to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given. ... ¹⁷For truly, I say to you, many prophets and righteous people longed to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.

Jesus revealed what had been God's hidden teachings of the kingdom of heaven, previously hidden even from the prophets (v. 17). These were revealed to his disciples but not to others in the crowd (v. 11) – presumably in part at least because the others were not open to believing and/or were not prepared to intently seek the truth.

1Cor 2:9-10 But, as it is written, "What no eye has seen, nor ear heard, nor the heart of man imagined, what God has prepared for those who love him"— ¹⁰*these things God has revealed to us through the Spirit.* For the Spirit searches everything, even the depths of God.

2Cor 12:1, 7 I must go on boasting. Though there is nothing to be gained by it, I will go on to visions and revelations of the Lord. ... ⁷So to keep me from becoming conceited because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations,^t a thorn was given me in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to harass me, to keep me from becoming conceited.

^t Or hears from me, even because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations. So to keep me from becoming conceited

Paul was given extraordinary visions and revelations, in which "he heard things that cannot be told, which man may not utter." (v. 4b)

Col 2:1-3 For I want you to know how great a struggle I have for you and for those at Laodicea and for all who have not seen me face to face, ²that their hearts may be encouraged, being knit together in love, *to reach all the riches of full assurance of understanding and the knowledge of God's mystery, which is Christ,*³ in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

When one comes to know the mystery of God – Jesus Christ – then in turn one has access to the vast treasures of wisdom and knowledge that are stored up and “hidden” in him.

Job 12:22 He uncovers the deeps out of darkness and brings deep darkness to light.

This may be speaking of God bringing mysteries and secrets things to light (cf. Dan 2:22-23 ) – possibly referring to “evil plans” (Nlrv®); hence its inclusion here. Alternatively, it is possibly simply speaking of shining physical light into places of physical darkness and shadows (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT).

✦ God takes the upright into his confidence:

Prov 3:32 ... for the devious person is an abomination to the LORD, but the upright are in his confidence.

Note: God's word and truth dwell in his people – but not in others

1Jn 2:14 I write to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning. I write to you, young men, because you are strong, and the word of God abides in you, and you have overcome the evil one.

2Jn 1:1-2 The elder to the elect lady and her children, whom *I love in truth, and not only I, but also all who know the truth,*² because of the truth that abides in us and will be with us forever: ...

Truth is more than simply a body of teaching that one can know. As reflected in 1 John 2:14b above, in a sense the truth “abides in” (v. 2) believers – “all who know the truth” (v. 1). As such it plays an active roll in their lives (cf. 1Thes 2:13 ) , renewing and directing them.

1Thes 2:13 And we also thank God constantly^u for this, that when you received the word of God, which you heard from us, you accepted it not as the word of men but as what it really is, the word of God, which is at work in you believers.

^u Or without ceasing

John 5:38 ... and you do not have his word abiding in you, for you do not believe the one whom he has sent.

God's word does not dwell in unbelievers – as can also be inferred from the following verses.

John 8:37 I know that you are offspring of Abraham; yet you seek to kill me because my word finds no place in you.

1Jn 1:8, 10 If we say we have no sin, we deceive ourselves, and the truth is not in us.  ... ¹⁰*If we say we have not sinned, we make him a liar, and his word is not in us.*

1Jn 2:4 Whoever says “I know him” but does not keep his commandments is a liar, and the truth is not in him, ...

✦ God's promise that his words (and Spirit) will not leave his people:

Isa 59:21 “And as for me, this is my covenant with them,” says the LORD: “My Spirit that is upon you, and my words that I have put in your mouth, shall not depart out of your mouth, or out of the mouth of your offspring, or out of the mouth of your children's offspring,” says the LORD, “from this time forth and forevermore.”

Israel's future renewal may primarily be in view, but this still has an application to believers in the present.

When his people turn to sin, God punishes and disciplines them . . .

- God's punishment of his people is warranted . . ., p. 876

Note that in some of the follow verses the wicked among those who are supposedly God's people appear to be primarily in view and the punishment spoken of seems to be of a final nature (bringing death) rather than simply disciplinary. But even so the teaching and principles involved are applicable to a large degree to God's disciplinary punishment of any of his people for sin.

Ps 39:11 When you discipline a man with rebukes for sin, you consume like a moth what is dear to him; surely all mankind is a mere breath! Selah

Ps 89:32 ... then I will punish their transgression with the rod and their iniquity with stripes, ...

Jer 9:7-9 Therefore thus says the LORD of hosts: "Behold, I will refine them and test them, for what else can I do, because of my people? ⁸Their tongue is a deadly arrow; it speaks deceitfully; with his mouth each speaks peace to his neighbor, but in his heart he plans an ambush for him. ⁹Shall I not punish them for these things? declares the LORD, and shall I not avenge myself on a nation such as this?"

Jer 14:10 Thus says the LORD concerning this people: "They have loved to wander thus; they have not restrained their feet; therefore the LORD does not accept them; now he will remember their iniquity and punish their sins."

Jer 30:11b, 14 I will discipline you in just measure, and I will by no means leave you unpunished.  ... ¹⁴All your lovers have forgotten you; they care nothing for you; for I have dealt you the blow of an enemy, the punishment of a merciless foe, because your guilt is great, because your sins are flagrant.

Hos 5:2 And the revolvers have gone deep into slaughter, but I will discipline all of them.

Hos 10:10 When I please, I will discipline them, and nations shall be gathered against them when they are bound up for their double iniquity.

Their "double iniquity" appears to denote multiple sins.

Amos 3:2 You only have I known of all the families of the earth; therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities.

Mic 7:9 I will bear the indignation of the LORD because I have sinned against him, until he pleads my cause and executes judgment for me. He will bring me out to the light; I shall look upon his vindication.

Ps 99:8 O LORD our God, you answered them; you were a forgiving God to them, but an avenger of their wrongdoings.

. . . By punishment and discipline God causes his people to seek him again

Hos 5:14-15 For I will be like a lion to Ephraim, and like a young lion to the house of Judah. I, even I, will tear and go away; I will carry off, and no one shall rescue. ¹⁵*I will return again to my place, until they acknowledge their guilt and seek my face, and in their distress earnestly seek me.*

1Ki 8:35 When heaven is shut up and there is no rain because they have sinned against you, if they pray toward this place and acknowledge your name and turn from their sin, when you afflict them, ...

2Chr 15:3-4 For a long time Israel was without the true God, and without a teaching priest and without law, ⁴but when in their distress they turned to the LORD, the God of Israel, and sought him, he was found by them.

Verse 3 is probably referring to the period of the judges, when the Israelites – "without the true God, and without a teaching priest and without law" – repeatedly turned away from God and sinned. This brought God's punishment and hence the distress, leading the people to seek him (v. 4).

2Chr 33:9-12 Manasseh led Judah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem astray, to do more evil than the nations whom the LORD destroyed before the people of Israel. ¹⁰The LORD spoke to Manasseh and to his people, but they paid no attention. ¹¹*Therefore the LORD brought upon them the commanders of* the army of the king of Assyria, who captured Manasseh with hooks and bound him with chains of bronze and brought him to Babylon. ¹²And when he was in distress, he entreated the favor of the LORD his God and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers.

Ps 78:32, 34 In spite of all this, they still sinned; despite his wonders, they did not believe.  ... ³⁴When he killed them, they sought him; they repented and sought God earnestly.

Ps 107:10-13 Some sat in darkness and in the shadow of death, prisoners in affliction and in irons, ¹¹for they had rebelled against the words of God, and spurned the counsel of the Most High. ¹²So he bowed their hearts down with hard labor; they fell down, with none to help. ¹³Then they cried to the LORD in their trouble, and he delivered them from their distress.

Isa 17:4, 7 And in that day the glory of Jacob will be brought low, and the fat of his flesh will grow lean.  ... ⁷In that day man will look to his Maker, and his eyes will look on the Holy One of Israel.

Verse 4 speaks of how Israel would be invaded by the Assyrians – a consequence of their idolatry and their alliance with the ungodly Damascus. The resultant devastation (v. 4) would move them to turn to God (v. 7).

Isa 26:16 O LORD, in distress they sought you; they poured out a whispered prayer when your discipline was upon them.

Jer 31:18 I have heard Ephraim grieving, ‘You have disciplined me, and I was disciplined, like an untrained calf; bring me back that I may be restored, for you are the LORD my God.

Ezek 14:4-5 Therefore speak to them and say to them, Thus says the Lord GOD: Any one of the house of Israel who takes his idols into his heart and sets the stumbling block of his iniquity before his face, and yet comes to the prophet, I the LORD will answer him as he comes with the multitude of his idols, ⁵that I may lay hold of the hearts of the house of Israel, who are all estranged from me through their idols.

The latter part of v. 4 alludes to God’s disciplinary action, which would turn the people’s hearts back to him (v. 5).

✦ The Egyptian’s turning to God in response to punishment:

Isa 19:22 And the LORD will strike Egypt, striking and healing, and they will return to the LORD, and he will listen to their pleas for mercy and heal them.

This appears to speak of Egypt’s submission to God in the end times.

God disciplines his people to rid them of sin

2Chr 32:25-26 But Hezekiah did not make return according to the benefit done to him, for his heart was proud. Therefore wrath came upon him and Judah and Jerusalem. ²⁶But Hezekiah humbled himself for the pride of his heart, both he and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the wrath of the LORD did not come upon them in the days of Hezekiah.

God’s disciplinary action led Hezekiah to get rid of his sinful pride.

Ps 119:67 Before I was afflicted I went astray, but now I keep your word.

Isa 1:25 I will turn my hand against you and will smelt away your dross as with lye and remove all your alloy.

Here God speaks of removing impurity from his people.

Isa 4:4 ... when the Lord shall have washed away the filth of the daughters of Zion and cleansed the bloodstains of Jerusalem from its midst by a spirit of judgment and by a spirit of burning.^v

^v Or purging

Jer 18:3-6 So I went down to the potter’s house, and there he was working at his wheel. ⁴And the vessel he was making of clay was spoiled in the potter’s hand, and he reworked it into another vessel, as it seemed good to the potter to do. ⁵Then the word of the LORD came to me: ⁶“O house of Israel, can I not do with you as this potter has done? declares the LORD. Behold, like the clay in the potter’s hand, so are you in my hand, O house of Israel.

When the pot he was making from the clay became flawed, the potter remolded the clay into another pot, shaping it as he wanted (v. 4). In the same way when his people’s flaws became such that his people would not become what he wanted, God indicated that he would remold them (v. 6). Such remolding includes discipline to remove sinful flaws.

Mal 3:2-3 But who can endure the day of his coming, and who can stand when he appears? For he is like a refiner’s fire and like fullers’ soap. ³He will sit as a refiner and purifier of silver, and he will purify the sons of Levi and refine them like gold and silver, and they will bring offerings in righteousness to the LORD.^w

^w Or and they will belong to the LORD, bringers of an offering in righteousness

The reference appears to be to Christ purifying his people of sin – the people of Judah and the priests in particular – on his return (cf. v. 1). The imagery suggests that it will be a severe disciplinary process.

Zec 13:1-2, 8-9 “On that day there shall be a fountain opened for the house of David and the inhabitants of Jerusalem, to cleanse them from sin and uncleanness. ²“And on that day, declares the LORD of hosts, I will cut off the names of the idols from the land, so that they shall be remembered no more. And also I will remove from the land the prophets and the spirit of uncleanness. ... ⁸In the whole land, declares the LORD, two thirds shall be cut off and perish, and one third shall be left alive. ⁹And I will put this third into the fire, and refine them as one refines silver, and test them as gold is tested. They will call upon my name, and I will answer them. I will say, ‘They are my people’; and they will say, ‘The LORD is my God.’”

The punishment and refinement in vv. 8-9 appear to be associated with the purification attained in vv. 1-2. Together these verses depict the discipline and resulting purification of Israel in the end times. Note that the “fountain” (v. 1) signifies a form of purification, though unlikely a disciplinary one.

Heb 12:9-11 Besides this, we have had earthly fathers who disciplined us and we respected them. Shall we not much more be subject to the Father of spirits and live? ¹⁰For they disciplined us for a short time as it seemed best to them, but he disciplines us for our good, that we may share his holiness. ¹¹For the moment all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant, but later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it.

Such holiness (v. 10) and righteousness (v. 11) is indicative of discipline cleansing one of sin. Note that v. 9 implies that God's discipline saves us from spiritual death, and so is pertinent to the following subsection.

1Pet 4:1-2 Since therefore Christ suffered in the flesh,^x arm yourselves with the same way of thinking, for whoever has suffered in the flesh has ceased from sin, ²*so as to live for the rest of the time in the flesh no longer for human passions but for the will of God.*

^x Some manuscripts add for us; some for you

The suffering of Christians referred to here – “whoever has suffered in the flesh” – is according to God's will, though as a result of doing good rather than sin (cf. 3:17). But even so sin is not totally absent from the lives of those who do good. These verses make the point that a significant effect of being faithful to God in the midst of such suffering, is disregard for whatever such sin that one may have previously entertained.

As such, one “has ceased from sin” (v. 1) and does not live for “human passions” (v. 2).

✦ God used Paul's affliction to keep him from sin:

2Cor 12:7 So to keep me from becoming conceited because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations,^y a thorn was given me in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to harass me, to keep me from becoming conceited.

^y Or hears from me, even because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations. So to keep me from becoming conceited

God, or Christ (cf. vv. 8-10), used Paul's affliction, which apparently came from Satan, not so much as a disciplinary measure as a preventative measure – to keep him from becoming conceited.

God disciplines his people to save them from sin's consequences

Job 33:19-20, 29-30 Man is also rebuked with pain on his bed and with continual strife in his bones, ²⁰*so that his life loathes bread, and his appetite the choicest food.* ... ²⁹*“Behold, God does all these things, twice, three times, with a man,* ³⁰*to bring back his soul from the pit, that he may be lighted with the light of life.*

Job 36:8-12, 15-16 And if they are bound in chains and caught in the cords of affliction, ⁹*then he declares to them their work and their transgressions, that they are behaving arrogantly.* ¹⁰*He opens their ears to instruction and commands that they return from iniquity.* ¹¹*If they listen and serve him, they complete their days in prosperity, and their years in pleasantness.* ¹²*But if they do not listen, they perish by the sword and die without knowledge.* ... ¹⁵*He delivers the afflicted by their affliction and opens their ear by adversity.* ¹⁶*He also allured you out of distress into a broad place where there was no cramping, and what was set on your table was full of fatness.*

The “chains and ... the cords of affliction” (v. 8) are imposed by God, so as to be used by him in exhorting those concerned (vv. 9-10). In the light of the earlier verses, the suffering mentioned in v. 15 appears to be suffering used by God for correction. The “distress” (v. 16) may be referring to the suffering itself, but alternatively it may well speak of the troubles that sin would have eventually resulted in.

Psa 94:12-13 Blessed is the man whom you discipline, O LORD, and whom you teach out of your law, ¹³to give him rest from days of trouble, until a pit is dug for the wicked. 📖

Those who respond to God's discipline are spared the trouble that comes on the wicked (cf. Isa 38:17 ↓) in the time of God's judgment.

Isa 38:17 Behold, it was for my welfare that I had great bitterness; but in love you have delivered my life from the pit of destruction, for you have cast all my sins behind your back. 📖

Here Hezekiah speaks of a time of intense suffering, which he attributes to God's punishment or discipline for sin (cf. 2Chr 32:25-26 ↑). His words point to the fact that those who respond appropriately to God's discipline are forgiven for their sins and no longer face destruction.

1Cor 11:32 But when we are judged by the Lord, we are disciplined^a so that we may not be condemned along with the world. 📖

^a Or when we are judged we are being disciplined by the Lord

However, hard times from God are not always due to sin

Job 2:3 And the LORD said to Satan, "Have you considered my servant Job, that there is none like him on the earth, a blameless and upright man, who fears God and turns away from evil? He still holds fast his integrity, although you incited me against him to destroy him without reason." 📖

Job's hard times were not deserved – "without cause" (NLT; cf. AMP, NASB, NKJV, NLT). They were to vindicate his righteousness in the face of Satan's accusations of Job only being godly to obtain God's blessings (cf. 1:8-12).

Psa 44:14-22 You have made us a byword among the nations, a laughingstock^a among the peoples. ¹⁵All day long my disgrace is before me, and shame has covered my face ¹⁶at the sound of the taunter and reviler, at the sight of the enemy and the avenger. ¹⁷All this has come upon us, though we have not forgotten you, and we have not been false to your covenant. ¹⁸Our heart has not turned back, nor have our steps departed from your way; ¹⁹yet you have broken us in the place of jackals and covered us with the shadow of death. ²⁰If we had forgotten the name of our God or spread out our hands to a foreign god, ²¹would not God discover this? For he knows the secrets of the heart. ²²Yet for your sake we are killed all the day long; we are regarded as sheep to be slaughtered. 📖

^a Hebrew a shaking of the head

Not only was the people's suffering from God not due to sin (vv. 17-18, 20-21), but it was because of their faithfulness to him that they were looked upon as objects suitable for abuse and even death (v. 22). This illustrates that discipline or suffering is not necessarily due to sin. Often the reason may in fact not be apparent.

John 9:1-3 As he passed by, he saw a man blind from birth. ²And his disciples asked him, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" ³Jesus answered, "It was not that this man sinned, or his parents, but that the works of God might be displayed in him." 📖

1Pet 3:17 For it is better to suffer for doing good, if that should be God's will, than for doing evil. 📖

↳ Illness is not always due to sin:

James 5:15 And the prayer of faith will save the one who is sick, and the Lord will raise him up. And if he has committed sins, he will be forgiven. 📖

The final statement indicates that sometimes sickness is due to sin, but its conditional first clause also shows that this is not the case with all sickness.

God also tests his people to show if they will obey him and remain faithful

See also:

- . . . For faith is tested, p. 1086

God tests his people to show or see if they will obey him, not in the sense that he wants to find out – as he knows all things – but more in the sense of proving or affirming their obedience. This can involve hard times and is not necessarily due to sin.

Gen 22:1-2, 12 After these things God tested Abraham and said to him, "Abraham!" And he said, "Here am I." ²He said, "Take your son, your only son Isaac, whom you love, and go to the land of Moriah, and offer him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains of which I shall tell you." 📖 ... ¹²He said, "Do not lay your hand on the boy or do anything to him, for now I know that you fear God, seeing you have not withheld your son, your only son, from me." 📖

In being prepared to sacrifice his son in response to God's testing instruction, Abraham proved his fear of God (v. 12) and thus, in association, his obedience to God.

Ex 16:4 Then the LORD said to Moses, "Behold, I am about to rain bread from heaven for you, and the people shall go out and gather a day's portion every day, that I may test them, whether they will walk in my law or not."

Deut 8:2 And you shall remember the whole way that the LORD your God has led you these forty years in the wilderness, that he might humble you, testing you to know what was in your heart, whether you would keep his commandments or not.

Deut 13:1-4 If a prophet or a dreamer of dreams arises among you and gives you a sign or a wonder, ²and the sign or wonder that he tells you comes to pass, and if he says, 'Let us go after other gods,' which you have not known, 'and let us serve them,' ³you shall not listen to the words of that prophet or that dreamer of dreams. For the LORD your God is testing you, to know whether you love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul. ⁴You shall walk after the LORD your God and fear him and keep his commandments and obey his voice, and you shall serve him and hold fast to him.

Here the reason given for God's testing is to find out whether they loved him completely – as opposed to following other gods (vv. 2-3). Such love involves obedience to him, as implied by v. 4.

Judg 2:20-22 So the anger of the LORD was kindled against Israel, and he said, "Because this people has transgressed my covenant that I commanded their fathers and have not obeyed my voice, ²¹I will no longer drive out before them any of the nations that Joshua left when he died, ²²*in order to test Israel by them, whether they will take care to walk in the way of the LORD as their fathers did, or not.*"

God would use the remaining nations to keep testing Israel's obedience to him (cf. Judg 3:4 ↓), to prove whether they were committed to him, in the face of the lure of the ungodly practices of these other nations.

Judg 3:4 They were for the testing of Israel, to know whether Israel would obey the commandments of the LORD, which he commanded their fathers by the hand of Moses.

2Chr 32:31 And so in the matter of the envoys of the princes of Babylon, who had been sent to him to inquire about the sign that had been done in the land, God left him to himself, in order to test him and to know all that was in his heart.

God left Hezekiah alone (cf. NASB, NCV) to speak with these envoys, to see how true his heart was to God (cf. CEV). Regrettably Hezekiah revealed pride and/or a lack of trust in God (cf. 2Ki 20:12-18).

Job 23:10 But he knows the way that I take; when he has tried me, I shall come out as gold.

This verse is often interpreted as referring to the purification brought about by testing, but more likely Job is expressing his confidence that when God has tested him, God will find him to be pure (cf. GNT) – i.e. pronounce him innocent (cf. NLT).

✦ As fire tests silver and gold, so the LORD tests the heart:

Prov 17:3 The crucible is for silver, and the furnace is for gold, and the LORD tests hearts.

Just as fire tests precious metals – both verifying their worth and improving their quality – so God tests the heart.

Further reasons why God disciplines and tests his people

Deut 8:3, 16 And he humbled you and let you hunger and fed you with manna, which you did not know, nor did your fathers know, that he might make you know that man does not live by bread alone, but man lives by every word^b that comes from the mouth of the LORD. ... [God:] ¹⁶who fed you in the wilderness with manna that your fathers did not know, that he might humble you and test you, to do you good in the end.

^b Hebrew by all

In the desert, God caused the Israelites to hunger. Lacking bread, they had to rely on God's miraculous provision by his word, with which he commands nature. This forced them to realize that it is not enough to rely on bread alone to sustain one's life (v. 3). For God's word is paramount to life, the ultimate source of fulfillment of all one's needs. And so, by such testing, the Israelites would benefit "in the end" (v. 16).

Psa 119:71 It is good for me that I was afflicted, that I might learn your statutes.

As elsewhere in this subsection, affliction appears to be spoken of here as being instigated by God as a disciplinary measure or to test his people.

Isa 38:13-17 I calmed myself^c until morning; like a lion he breaks all my bones; from day to night you bring me to an end. ¹⁴Like a swallow or a crane I chirp; I moan like a dove. My eyes are weary with looking upward. O Lord, I am oppressed; be my pledge of safety! ¹⁵What shall I say? For he has spoken to me, and he himself has done it. I walk slowly all my years because of the bitterness of my soul. ¹⁶O Lord, by these things men live, and in all these is the life of my spirit. Oh restore me to health and make me live! ¹⁷*Behold, it was for my welfare that I had great bitterness; but in love you have delivered my life from the pit of destruction, for you have cast all my sins behind your back.*

^c Or (with Targum) I cried for help

In v. 16a, Hezekiah acknowledges that such God-given trials (cf. vv. 13-15) are vital not only for people's natural life but also for the life of their spirits, or their spiritual life. (Note, however, that the Hebrew text for v. 16a is apparently not clear.) One reason for such trials is that they teach humility – quite possibly in view in v. 15b (cf. NCV, NIV, NLT) – along with forgiveness of sin (v. 17b).

John 15:1-2 I am the true vine, and my Father is the vinedresser. ²Every branch in me that does not bear fruit he takes away, and every branch that does bear fruit he prunes, that it may bear more fruit.

The reference to pruning suggests that God uses discipline or trials so as to make his people more fruitful.

Heb 12:9-11 Besides this, we have had earthly fathers who disciplined us and we respected them. Shall we not much more be subject to the Father of spirits and live? ¹⁰For they disciplined us for a short time as it seemed best to them, but he disciplines us for our good, that we may share his holiness. ¹¹For the moment all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant, but later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it.

Verse 9 indicates that God disciplines his people so that they may "live" – most likely referring to spiritual or eternal life.

James 1:2-3, 12 Count it all joy, my brothers,^d when you meet trials of various kinds, ³for you know that the testing of your faith produces steadfastness.  ... ¹²*Blessed is the man who remains steadfast under trial, for when he has stood the test he will receive the crown of life, which God has promised to those who love him.*

^d Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated "brothers") refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church; also verses 16, 19

Note that James does not specifically say that such trials and testing are necessarily instigated by God. But what he says is applicable to all trials and testing. Moreover, God works in all things for his purposes.

God disciplines his people as his children, who he loves

Deut 8:5 Know then in your heart that, as a man disciplines his son, the LORD your God disciplines you.

Prov 3:11-12 My son, do not despise the LORD's discipline or be weary of his reproof, ¹²*for the LORD reproves him whom he loves, as a father the son in whom he delights.*

Heb 12:5-8 And have you forgotten the exhortation that addresses you as sons? "My son, do not regard lightly the discipline of the Lord, nor be weary when reproved by him. ⁶*For the Lord disciplines the one he loves, and chastises every son whom he receives."* ⁷*It is for discipline that you have to endure. God is treating you as sons. For what son is there whom his father does not discipline?* ⁸*If you are left without discipline, in which all have participated, then you are illegitimate children and not sons.*

2Sam 7:14-15 I will be to him a father, and he shall be to me a son. When he commits iniquity, I will discipline him with the rod of men, with the stripes of the sons of men, ¹⁵but my steadfast love will not depart from him, as I took it from Saul, whom I put away from before you.

Rev 3:19 Those whom I love, I reprove and discipline, so be zealous and repent.

✦ Because they are his people God punishes them:

Amos 3:1-2 Hear this word that the LORD has spoken against you, O people of Israel, against the whole family that I brought up out of the land of Egypt: ²*"You only have I known of all the families of the earth; therefore I will punish you for all your iniquities.*

The term "known" appears to be indicative of his close relationship with them and/or that he has chosen them (cf. AMP, CEV, NCV, NIV, NLT). As they are the ones he has "known", God punishes and disciplines his people for their sins. Verse 2 may also allude to the fact that as they are his people, their sin is all the more reprehensible and in committing it they are more culpable.

God's discipline is characterized by faithfulness and justice

See also:

- c\) God's Judgment Is Just, p. 427

Psa 119:75 I know, O LORD, that your rules are righteous, and that in faithfulness you have afflicted me.

In disciplining his people God is being faithful. For true to his promises he is working for their greater good, notably in purifying them and consolidating their relationship with him, which in turn leads to great blessing.

Neh 9:30-31, 33 Many years you bore with them and warned them by your Spirit through your prophets. Yet they would not give ear. Therefore you gave them into the hand of the peoples of the lands. ³¹Nevertheless, in your great mercies you did not make an end of them or forsake them, for you are a gracious and merciful God. ... ³³Yet you have been righteous in all that has come upon us, for you have dealt faithfully and we have acted wickedly.

As well as speaking of his patience and mercy, vv. 30-31 beautifully illustrate God's faithfulness and justice in his discipline and dealings with his people, affirmed in v. 33.

Isa 30:17-18 A thousand shall flee at the threat of one; at the threat of five you shall flee, till you are left like a flagstaff on the top of a mountain, like a signal on a hill. ¹⁸Therefore the LORD waits to be gracious to you, and therefore he exalts himself to show mercy to you. For the LORD is a God of justice; blessed are all those who wait for him.

"For the LORD is a God of justice" (v. 18b) may have in view his discipline (v. 17) because of his people's sin (vv. 8-16), as well as his mercy (v. 18a) – underlining that God always does the right thing by his people.

Jer 30:11 For I am with you to save you, declares the LORD; I will make a full end of all the nations among whom I scattered you, but of you I will not make a full end. I will discipline you in just measure, and I will by no means leave you unpunished.

Note that the contents of this verse is repeated almost verbatim in 46:28, including the segment: "I will discipline you in just measure".

Dan 9:14 Therefore the LORD has kept ready the calamity and has brought it upon us, for the LORD our God is righteous in all the works that he has done, and we have not obeyed his voice.

God's righteousness is of course associated with his justice (cf. NLT).

God's punishment of his people is warranted . . .

Jer 21:14 I will punish you according to the fruit of your deeds, declares the LORD; I will kindle a fire in her forest, and it shall devour all that is around her.

Ezek 16:59 For thus says the Lord GOD: I will deal with you as you have done, you who have despised the oath in breaking the covenant, ...

Jer 13:22 And if you say in your heart, 'Why have these things come upon me?' it is for the greatness of your iniquity that your skirts are lifted up and you suffer violence.

The latter part of the verse figuratively describes Judah's sufferings at the hands of foreign invaders. Some commentators say that the reference is to the public disgracing of a prostitute.

Jer 30:15 Why do you cry out over your hurt? Your pain is incurable. Because your guilt is great, because your sins are flagrant, I have done these things to you.

Israel had no valid reason to cry out or protest about the punishment God had inflicted on her – it was well deserved.

Ezek 14:23 They will console you, when you see their ways and their deeds, and you shall know that I have not done without cause all that I have done in it, declares the Lord GOD.

God assured Ezekiel that when he saw the ungodliness of those who had previously remained in Jerusalem, he would realize that God had done nothing in his destruction of it without good cause.

Ezek 39:23-24 And the nations shall know that the house of Israel went into captivity for their iniquity, because they dealt so treacherously with me that I hid my face from them and gave them into the hand of their adversaries, and they all fell by the sword. ²⁴*I dealt with them according to their uncleanness and their transgressions, and hid my face from them.*

. . . and God's punishment is often less than what his people's sins really deserve

Ps 103:10 He does not deal with us according to our sins, nor repay us according to our iniquities.

Ezra 9:13 And after all that has come upon us for our evil deeds and for our great guilt, seeing that you, our God, have punished us less than our iniquities deserved and have given us such a remnant as this, ...

Job 33:19, 26-28 Man is also rebuked with pain on his bed and with continual strife in his bones, ... ²⁶*then man^e prays to God, and he accepts him; he sees his face with a shout of joy, and he restores to man his righteousness.* ²⁷*He sings before men and says: 'I sinned and perverted what was right, and it was not repaid to me.* ²⁸*He has redeemed my soul from going down into the pit, and my life shall look upon the light.'*

^e Hebrew he

In the second clause of v. 26, the speaker may well mean that he did not get what he deserved (cf. NCV, NIV).

Job 11:6b For he is manifold in understanding.^f Know then that God exacts of you less than your guilt deserves.

^f The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain

The final statement in effect means that God "has punished you less than you deserve" (CEV; cf. GNT, NCV). Note that although generally at least what Zophar says is true, Zophar's implication that Job was being punished was not actually correct.

God's discipline and testing are temporary . . .

Ps 30:5 For his anger is but for a moment, and his favor is for a lifetime.^g Weeping may tarry for the night, but joy comes with the morning.

^g Or and in his favor is life

Such references to God's anger (cf. Ps 103:9 ↓) point to his discipline and punishment.

Ps 103:9 He will not always chide, nor will he keep his anger forever.

Lam 4:22 The punishment of your iniquity, O daughter of Zion, is accomplished; he will keep you in exile no longer;^h but your iniquity, O daughter of Edom, he will punish; he will uncover your sins.

^h Or he will not exile you again

Nah 1:12-13 Thus says the LORD, "Though they are at full strength and many, they will be cut down and pass away. Though I have afflicted you, I will afflict you no more. ¹³*And now I will break his yoke from off you and will burst your bonds apart.*"

1Pet 1:6 In this you rejoice, though now for a little while, if necessary, you have been grieved by various trials, ...

Note that in contrast to the above verses and the ones in the following subsection, the trials and suffering mentioned here and in 5:10 below were not necessarily due to sin. They were quite possibly a form of testing rather than punishment.

1Pet 5:10 And after you have suffered a little while, the God of all grace, who has called you to his eternal glory in Christ, will himself restore, confirm, strengthen, and establish you.

. . . Due to his mercy and compassion, God limits his people's punishment

Neh 9:26-28 Nevertheless, they were disobedient and rebelled against you and cast your law behind their back and killed your prophets, who had warned them in order to turn them back to you, and they committed great blasphemies. ²⁷Therefore you gave them into the hand of their enemies, who made them suffer. And in the time of their suffering they cried out to you and you heard them from heaven, and according to your great mercies you gave them saviors who saved them from the hand of their enemies. ²⁸But after they had rest they did evil again before you, and you abandoned them to the hand of their enemies, so that they had dominion over them. Yet when they turned and cried to you, you heard from heaven, and many times you delivered them according to your mercies.

Ps 78:38-39 Yet he, being compassionate, atoned for their iniquity and did not destroy them; he restrained his anger often and did not stir up all his wrath. ³⁹He remembered that they were but flesh, a wind that passes and comes not again.

Verse 38b indicates that God – at times at least – limits the ferocity of his discipline. Due to his compassion, God's discipline is both tempered and temporary. Verse 39 further reflects God's compassion.

Isa 30:17-20 A thousand shall flee at the threat of one; at the threat of five you shall flee, till you are left like a flagstaff on the top of a mountain, like a signal on a hill. ¹⁸Therefore the LORD waits to be gracious to you, and therefore he exalts himself to show mercy to you. For the LORD is a God of justice; blessed are all those who wait for him. ¹⁹For a people shall dwell in Zion, in Jerusalem; you shall weep no more. He will surely be gracious to you at the sound of your cry. As soon as he hears it, he answers you. ²⁰And though the Lord give you the bread of adversity and the water of affliction, yet your Teacher will not hide himself anymore, but your eyes shall see your Teacher.

Along with vv. 18-19, v. 20 points to the people's deliverance.

Isa 54:7-8 For a brief moment I deserted you, but with great compassion I will gather you. ⁸In overflowing anger for a moment I hid my face from you, but with everlasting love I will have compassion on you," says the LORD, your Redeemer.

Lam 3:31-32 For the Lord will not cast off forever, ³²but, though he cause grief, he will have compassion according to the abundance of his steadfast love; ...

God's apparent rejection (v. 31) and punishment (v. 32) of his people are not permanent – he does again show compassion.

Ps 106:43-46 Many times he delivered them, but they were rebellious in their purposes and were brought low through their iniquity. ⁴⁴Nevertheless, he looked upon their distress, when he heard their cry. ⁴⁵For their sake he remembered his covenant, and relented according to the abundance of his steadfast love. ⁴⁶He caused them to be pitied by all those who held them captive.

This indicates that God "showed compassion" (NRSV) in discontinuing his people's punishment – along with his steadfast love (v. 45).

✦ God does not like to punish people:

Lam 3:33 ... for he does not willingly afflict or grieve the children of men.

God's discipline and testing can be intense, but God brings his people through Deut 4:20 But the LORD has taken you and brought you out of the iron furnace, out of Egypt, to be a people of his own inheritance, as you are this day.

The use of the phrase "iron furnace" in reference to the Israelites' time in Egypt, points to this time of great suffering as being one of refinement and purification, i.e. a time of testing or discipline.

Ps 66:10-12 For you, O God, have tested us; you have tried us as silver is tried. ¹¹You brought us into the net; you laid a crushing burden on our backs; ¹²you let men ride over our heads; we went through fire and through water; yet you have brought us out to a place of abundance.

Ps 71:20-21 You who have made me see many troubles and calamities will revive me again; from the depths of the earth you will bring me up again. ²¹You will increase my greatness and comfort me again.

Ps 118:18, 21 The LORD has disciplined me severely, but he has not given me over to death.  ... ²¹I thank you that you have answered me and have become my salvation.

Isa 30:26 Moreover, the light of the moon will be as the light of the sun, and the light of the sun will be sevenfold, as the light of seven days, in the day when the LORD binds up the brokenness of his people, and heals the wounds inflicted by his blow.

Isa 40:1-2 Comfort, comfort my people, says your God. ²Speak tenderly to Jerusalem, and cry to her that her warfareⁱ is ended, that her iniquity is pardoned, that she has received from the LORD's hand double for all her sins. 📖

ⁱ Or time of service

In v. 2a, "her warfare" likely speaks of suffering from warfare.

In v. 2b, "double" may well be hyperbole to indicate that God had punished the Israelites "in full" (GNT, NLT) for their sin.

Jer 30:4-8 These are the words that the LORD spoke concerning Israel and Judah: ⁵"Thus says the LORD: We have heard a cry of panic, of terror, and no peace. ⁶Ask now, and see, can a man bear a child? Why then do I see every man with his hands on his stomach like a woman in labor? Why has every face turned pale? ⁷Alas! That day is so great there is none like it; it is a time of distress for Jacob; yet he shall be saved out of it. ⁸And it shall come to pass in that day, declares the LORD of hosts, that I will break his yoke from off your neck, and I will burst your bonds, and foreigners shall no more make a servant of him."^j 📖

^j Or serve him

This may be ultimately speaking of the end times. It tells of the intense suffering of Israel – or possibly God's people in general – and God's subsequent deliverance of them out of it.

Mic 4:10 Writhe and groan,^k O daughter of Zion, like a woman in labor, for now you shall go out from the city and dwell in the open country; you shall go to Babylon. There you shall be rescued; there the LORD will redeem you from the hand of your enemies. 📖

Jonah 2:3-6 For you cast me into the deep, into the heart of the seas, and the flood surrounded me; all your waves and your billows passed over me. ⁴Then I said, 'I am driven away from your sight; yet I shall again look upon your holy temple.' ⁵The waters closed in over me to take my life; the deep surrounded me; weeds were wrapped about my head ⁶at the roots of the mountains. I went down to the land whose bars closed upon me forever; yet you brought up my life from the pit, O LORD my God. 📖

II. Spiritual Attributes

The spiritual attributes that God bestows on his people far exceed anything that this world can offer. Attributes or blessings such as love, hope, joy, peace and wisdom are longed for by most people, and sought after in many ways. But it is only from God that they can be gained in their highest form.

a) Love, Faith and Hope

Love, faith and hope form a key triad of spiritual graces or attributes. They are linked a number of times in the NT, most famously in 1 Corinthians 13:13.

- God gives his people love . . .
- . . . God enables his people to love
- God gives his people faith

- God's promises give his people hope

God gives his people love . . .

Eph 6:23 Peace be to the brothers,^a and love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

2Tim 1:7 ... for God gave us a spirit not of fear but of power and love and self-control.

1Jn 4:7 Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God, and whoever loves has been born of God and knows God.

1Tim 1:14 ... and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus.

Gal 5:22-23 But *the fruit of the Spirit is love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness,*²³*gentleness, self-control; against such things there is no law.*

2Cor 13:11 Finally, brothers,^b rejoice. Aim for restoration, comfort one another;^c agree with one another, live in peace; and the God of love and peace will be with you.

^b Or brothers and sisters

^c Or listen to my appeal

The expression “the God of love and peace” may well be alluding to God as the God “who gives love and peace” (CEV, NIRV), “the Source of affection, goodwill, love, and benevolence toward men” (AMP). The final clause would then be indicative of God giving such things primarily to those whom he is with – hence the verse’s inclusion here. Alternatively “the God of love and peace” could be simply referring to love and peace as characteristics of God.

1Thes 4:9 Now concerning brotherly love you have no need for anyone to write to you, for you yourselves have been taught by God to love one another, ...

1Jn 4:7, 16-17, 19 Beloved, let us love one another, for love is from God, and whoever loves has been born of God and knows God.  ... ¹⁶So we have come to know and to believe the love that God has for us. God is love, and whoever abides in love abides in God, and God abides in him. ¹⁷*By this is love perfected with us, so that we may have confidence for the day of judgment, because as he is so also are we in this world.*  ... ¹⁹*We love because he first loved us.*

Those who have been “born of God” and know God (v. 7b) – living in God, with God living in them (v. 16b) – love others in accordance with this relationship with God who “is love” (v. 16). By this they love others with a love that is “perfected” (v. 17a). Note that in v. 19, “love” quite possibly includes love for God as well as for others.

1Thes 3:12 ... and may the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all, as we do for you, ...

Such blessings (cf. 2Thes 3:5 ↓) – which are effectively prayers – are indicative that the Lord does do such things.

2Thes 3:5 May the Lord direct your hearts to the love of God and to the steadfastness of Christ.

This appears to be speaking of the Lord directing them into an “ever deeper understanding” (NLT; cf. GNT) of God’s love, so as to love with his love (cf. CEV).

John 17:26 I made known to them your name, and I will continue to make it known, that the love with which you have loved me may be in them, and I in them.

In saying that “the love with which you have loved me may be in them”, Jesus is probably referring to believers reflecting God’s love, the love he has for Christ (cf. NCV) – through Jesus Christ making God known to them. As such it seems to be alluding to believers loving others in this way, although possibly loving Christ is primarily in view. Note that alternatively some understand this to be speaking of believers as the object of God’s love.

Deut 30:6 And the LORD your God will circumcise your heart and the heart of your offspring, so that you will love the LORD your God with all your heart and with all your soul, that you may live.

Just as God enables us to love others, he also enables us to love him, by changing our hearts – as metaphorically depicted here.

God gives his people faith

Rom 12:3 For by the grace given to me I say to everyone among you not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, but to think with sober judgment, each according to the measure of faith that God has assigned.

The “measure of faith” – given by God to each of his people – is commonly understood to refer to the amount of faith one has (in God). More specifically, some think it refers in particular to our faith as applied to serving others, and especially to the gifts we have been given (cf. vv. 6-8). Others take it to refer to the Christian faith, the body of truth that Christians believe.

Eph 2:8 For by grace you have been saved through faith. And this is not your own doing; it is the gift of God, ...

The “gift of God” may be referring to faith in particular or more generally to the whole process of salvation.

Eph 6:23 Peace be to the brothers,^d and love with faith, from God the Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

^d Or brothers and sisters

1Tim 1:14 ... and the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus.

Arguably this and 2 Timothy 1:13 immediately below suggest that the believer’s faith and love emanate from his or her union with Jesus Christ. They certainly reflect the importance of the believer’s union with Christ for the sustaining and continuance of this faith and love.

2Tim 1:13 Follow the pattern of the sound^e words that you have heard from me, in the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus.

^e Or healthy

Heb 12:2 ... looking to Jesus, the founder and perfecter of our faith, who for the joy that was set before him endured the cross, despising the shame, and is seated at the right hand of the throne of God.

The reference to Jesus being the “perfecter of our faith” is often understood to indicate that Jesus Christ is the one who perfects the believer’s faith or brings it to completion – making the verse very pertinent to this subsection. But some commentators, pointing out that “our” does not appear in the Greek, raise the possibility that with the description of Christ as the “founder”, it is actually referring to Jesus as the one who originated and perfected the way of faith.

James 2:5 Listen, my beloved brothers, has not God chosen those who are poor in the world to be rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom, which he has promised to those who love him?

This implies that God gives such faith to those who are poor in the world’s eyes.

2Pet 1:1 Simeon^f Peter, a servant^g and apostle of Jesus Christ, To those who have obtained a faith of equal standing with ours by the righteousness of our God and Savior Jesus Christ: ...

^f Some manuscripts Simon

^g Or slave; Greek bondservant

Here “faith” most likely refers to the capacity and will to believe, although it could instead be speaking of the Christian faith. The phrase "obtained a faith" suggests that this faith has been given (cf. GNT, NLT).

Ps 22:9 Yet you are he who took me from the womb; you made me trust you at my mother's breasts.

Acts 3:16 And his name—by faith in his name—has made this man strong whom you see and know, and the faith that is through Jesus^h has given the man this perfect health in the presence of you all.

^h Greek him

This may be saying more than that we can have faith because of what Jesus has done (although this may possibly be the case). It suggests that our faith comes "through and by Him" (AMP).

✦ Faith and love are due to our hope for what God has stored up for us in heaven:

Col 1:3-5a We always thank God, the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, when we pray for you, ⁴since we heard of your faith in Christ Jesus and of the love that you have for all the saints, ⁵*because of the hope laid up for you in heaven.*

The hope of what believers are to receive from God in the life to come stimulates faith and love, leading them to both believe God's promises and act in accordance with them.

Ps 62:5 For God alone, O my soul, wait in silence, for my hope is from him.

Rom 15:13 May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope.

The phrase "the God of hope" implies that God is "the source of hope" (GNT), "the God who gives hope" (NCV™, cf. CEV, NLT), as suggested in the latter part of the verse. God imparts hope to his people by "the power of the Holy Spirit".

2Thes 2:16 Now may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God our Father, who loved us and gave us eternal comfort and good hope through grace, ...

The hope is spoken of as being given by God (cf. CEV, NCV).

1Pet 1:3-4 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ...

Through Jesus Christ's resurrection, God has brought believers into a "living hope" – encompassing the hope of their own resurrection (v. 3), and an inheritance (v. 4).

Col 1:27 To them God chose to make known how great among the Gentiles are the riches of the glory of this mystery, which is Christ in you, the hope of glory.

By what God has made possible through Christ, he has given believers the hope of sharing in his glory (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT).

Heb 6:19-20 We have this as a sure and steadfast anchor of the soul, a hope that enters into the inner place behind the curtain, ²⁰*where Jesus has gone as a forerunner on our behalf,* having become a high priest forever after the order of Melchizedek.

Verses 19b-20 appear to mean either: that our hope extends into God's very presence, where Jesus has entered as a forerunner on our behalf – giving us an assured hope that we will be able to follow; or that our hope is based on Jesus' ministry for us in God's presence, in his role as high priest. The preceding verses (vv. 17-18) indicate that God is the originator of this hope that we have through Jesus Christ.

Heb 7:18-22 For on the one hand, a former commandment is set aside because of its weakness and uselessness ¹⁹(for the law made nothing perfect); but on the other hand, a better hope is introduced, through which we draw near to God. ²⁰*And it was not without an oath.* For those who formerly became priests were made such without an oath, ²¹*but this one was made a priest with an oath by the one who said to him: "The Lord has sworn and will not change his mind, 'You are a priest forever.'"* ²²*This makes Jesus the guarantor of a better covenant.*

God made Jesus Christ high priest forever, on oath (vv. 20-21). In doing so God has effectively introduced a better hope for us (v. 19), with Jesus Christ's role as high priest guaranteeing a better covenant (v. 22) or relationship between God and his people.

✦ God calls his people to a hope:

Eph 1:18 ... having the eyes of your hearts enlightened, that you may know what is the hope to which he has called you, what are the riches of his glorious inheritance in the saints, ...

The “hope to which he has called you” is basically that which is based on God’s promises of salvation, a salvation based on what he has done through Jesus Christ. In speaking of God calling people “to a hope”, this reflects the fact that God gives his people hope.

God’s promises give his people hope

See also:

- Heb 7:18-22 ↑
- Put your hope in God’s promises, p. 1106

The hope that God gives his people rests on his promises.

Ps 119:49 Remember your word to your servant, in which you have made me hope. 📖

God’s “word” here is primarily his “promise” (CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT).

Jer 29:11 For I know the plans I have for you, declares the LORD, plans for welfareⁱ and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope. 📖

ⁱ Or peace

Speaking of his plans for them, God effectively gives the people of Judah a promise of a good future, giving them hope.

Jer 31:16-17 Thus says the LORD: “Keep your voice from weeping, and your eyes from tears, for there is a reward for your work, declares the LORD, and they shall come back from the land of the enemy. ¹⁷*There is hope for your future, declares the LORD, and your children shall come back to their own country.* 📖

These promises of God (v. 16, v. 17b) gave his people hope (v. 17a).

Hos 2:15 And there I will give her her vineyards and make the Valley of Achorⁱ a door of hope. And there she shall answer as in the days of her youth, as at the time when she came out of the land of Egypt. 📖

ⁱ Achor means trouble; compare Joshua 7:26

The people of Israel would pass through the Valley of Achor on their return from exile. As such it would act as a door provided by God to the hope that would be theirs as they returned to their land, the hope for a blessed future in accordance with God’s promises along with their deliverance from exile, itself a fulfillment of promises of God.

Heb 6:17-18 So when God desired to show more convincingly to the heirs of the promise the unchangeable character of his purpose, he guaranteed it with an oath, ¹⁸so that by two unchangeable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we who have fled for refuge might have strong encouragement to hold fast to the hope set before us. 📖

This indicates that “the hope set before us” (v. 18) by God is based on, or comes from, the promise of his referred to and his confirmation of it with an oath – the “two unchangeable things” (v. 18). The referred-to promise is one made to Abraham, in the context applied to all God’s people – “the heirs” (v. 17) – pertaining to their salvation. Note that the phrase “fled for refuge” appears to refer to taking refuge in God, with quite possibly his great promises for our future primarily in view as the reason for taking refuge in him.

✦ Without God and his promises, people are without future hope:

Eph 2:12 ... remember that you were at that time separated from Christ, alienated from the commonwealth of Israel and strangers to the covenants of promise, having no hope and without God in the world. 📖

Paul is referring to the Gentiles who formerly did not participate in “the covenants of promise” that God had made with Israel. Without God and his covenant promises, people are without a realistic future hope. Thus this verse also implies that God’s promises give his people hope.

God’s promises to his people include promises for the present life . . .

Num 10:29 And Moses said to Hobab the son of Reuel the Midianite, Moses’ father-in-law, “We are setting out for the place of which the LORD said, ‘I will give it to you.’ Come with us, and we will do good to you, for the LORD has promised good to Israel.” 📖

God’s promises to his people in the OT often reflect the more physical or tangible nature of the first covenant’s blessings (cf. Deut 15:6 ↓; Deut 26:19 ↓). Such promises are not necessarily applicable to God’s people now under the new covenant in their original sense, though many of these have a spiritual application.

Deut 15:6 For the LORD your God will bless you, as he promised you, and you shall lend to many nations, but you shall not borrow, and you shall rule over many nations, but they shall not rule over you. 📖

Deut 26:18-19 And the LORD has declared today that you are a people for his treasured possession, as he has promised you, and that you are to keep all his commandments, ¹⁹and that he will set you in praise and in fame and in honor high above all nations that he has made, and that you shall be a people holy to the LORD your God, as he promised.

Deut 29:13 ... that he may establish you today as his people, and that he may be your God, as he promised you, and as he swore to your fathers, to Abraham, to Isaac, and to Jacob.

Ps 119:41, 58, 76, 116, 154, 170 Let your steadfast love come to me, O LORD, your salvation according to your promise;  ... ⁵⁸I entreat your favor with all my heart; be gracious to me according to your promise.  ... ⁷⁶Let your steadfast love comfort me according to your promise to your servant.  ... ¹¹⁶Uphold me according to your promise, that I may live, and let me not be put to shame in my hope!  ... ¹⁵⁴Plead my cause and redeem me; give me life according to your promise!  ... ¹⁷⁰Let my plea come before you; deliver me according to your word.

In these verses “your promise” refers to a promise/s of salvation.

Acts 2:33, 38-39 Being therefore exalted at the right hand of God, and having received from the Father the promise of the Holy Spirit, he has poured out this that you yourselves are seeing and hearing.  ... ³⁸And Peter said to them, “Repent and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ for the forgiveness of your sins, and you will receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. ³⁹For the promise is for you and for your children and for all who are far off, everyone whom the Lord our God calls to himself.”

This future restoration was “promised long ago” (CEV, NIV, NLT) by God.

Heb 4:1 Therefore, while the promise of entering his rest still stands, let us fear lest any of you should seem to have failed to reach it.

The “promised eternal inheritance” – fulfilled through the work of Jesus Christ – may have primarily in view “eternal redemption” (v. 12).

OT references to the peace that God gives to his people encompass both inner peace (including being at ease) and outer peace (the absence of war and adversity). In addition to peace with God, the NT speaks of God giving his people an inner, spiritual peace – even amidst adversity. The NT also speaks of God engendering peace or harmony amongst groups of believers.

Num 6:26 ... the LORD lift up his countenance^o upon you and give you peace.

^o Or face

This is from what is often called “The Aaronic Benediction” (cf. vv. 22-25), a blessing that the priests were to bestow on the people. One’s “countenance” is one’s face or facial expression. The segment “lift up his countenance upon you” refers to God looking favorably on the people, to act accordingly – as illustrated by the last phrase.

Ps 4:8 In peace I will both lie down and sleep; for you alone, O LORD, make me dwell in safety.

Ps 29:11 May the LORD give strength to his people! May the LORD bless^p his people with peace!

^p Or The LORD will give . . . The LORD will bless

Ps 85:8 Let me hear what God the LORD will speak, for he will speak peace to his people, to his saints; but let them not turn back to folly.

Prov 16:7 When a man’s ways please the LORD, he makes even his enemies to be at peace with him.

It is debatable as to whether “he” refers to the LORD (cf. NIV) or to the man whose ways are pleasing to the LORD (cf. GNT). Even if it is the latter, the verse would indicate that such peace comes indirectly from God, through following his ways.

Isa 26:12 O LORD, you will ordain peace for us, for you have indeed done for us all our works.

Isa 57:19b Peace, peace, to the far and to the near,” says the LORD, “and I will heal him.

Those who are spoken of as being “far” away are quite possibly exiled Jews, with the return of God’s repentant people after the Babylonian exile probably at least partially in view. Alternatively the Gentiles may be in view; Paul at least applies this to the Gentiles (cf. Eph 2:17).

Nah 1:15 ^a Behold, upon the mountains, the feet of him who brings good news, who publishes peace! Keep your feasts, O Judah; fulfill your vows, for never again shall the worthless pass through you; he is utterly cut off.

^a Ch 2:1 in Hebrew

The term “publishes peace” is speaking of proclaiming peace, here done by people bringing the good news of the peace that God had brought about. The reference is to the destruction of Nineveh and the end of the Assyrian threat. Some of God’s promises of peace are given prior to or in troubled times, looking forward to peace in the future.

Mal 2:5 My covenant with him was one of life and peace, and I gave them to him. It was a covenant of fear, and he feared me. He stood in awe of my name.

This probably is speaking of God's covenant with the priest Phinehas. He acted zealously for the honor of God, and in so doing turned God's anger away from the Israelites (cf. Num 25:6-13).

Luke 2:14 "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among those with whom he is pleased!"^r

The angels spoke of an inner peace, inclusive of peace with God – granted to his people, "with whom he is pleased".

^s Or brothers and sisters. The plural Greek word adelphoi (translated "brothers") refers to siblings in a family. In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church

Heb 12:10-11 For they disciplined us for a short time as it seemed best to them, but he disciplines us for our good, that we may share his holiness. ¹¹For the moment all discipline seems painful rather than pleasant, but later it yields the peaceful fruit of righteousness to those who have been trained by it.

Lev 26:6 I will give peace in the land, and you shall lie down, and none shall make you afraid. And I will remove harmful beasts from the land, and the sword shall not go through your land.

These are part of the blessings promised to the Israelites for obeying God's commands under the first covenant.

2Chr 14:6-7 He built fortified cities in Judah, for the land had rest. He had no war in those years, for the LORD gave him peace. ⁷And he said to Judah, "Let us build these cities and surround them with walls and towers, gates and bars. The land is still ours, because we have sought the LORD our God. We have sought him, and he has given us peace on every side." So they built and prospered.

Deut 12:9-10 ... for you have not as yet come to the rest and to the inheritance that the LORD your God is giving you. ¹⁰But when you go over the Jordan and live in the land that the LORD your God is giving you to inherit, and when he gives you rest from all your enemies around, so that you live in safety, ...

The following verses from Joshua and 1 Kings attest to the fulfillment of this promise.

Josh 21:44 And the LORD gave them rest on every side just as he had sworn to their fathers. Not one of all their enemies had withstood them, for the LORD had given all their enemies into their hands.

Josh 23:1 A long time afterward, when the LORD had given rest to Israel from all their surrounding enemies, and Joshua was old and well advanced in years, ...

1Ki 5:4 But now the LORD my God has given me rest on every side. There is neither adversary nor misfortune.

1Ki 8:56 Blessed be the LORD who has given rest to his people Israel, according to all that he promised. Not one word has failed of all his good promise, which he spoke by Moses his servant.

Ps 116:7 Return, O my soul, to your rest; for the LORD has dealt bountifully with you.

Isa 28:12 ... to whom he has said, "This is rest; give rest to the weary; and this is repose"; yet they would not hear.

If the people had have been faithful to God, they would have experienced the promised rest.

Jer 6:16a Thus says the LORD: "Stand by the roads, and look, and ask for the ancient paths, where the good way is; and walk in it, and find rest for your souls."

Prov 19:23 The fear of the LORD leads to life, and whoever has it rests satisfied; he will not be visited by harm.

Ps 23:2 He makes me lie down in green pastures. He leads me beside still waters.^t

^t Hebrew beside waters of rest

The Hebrew rendered as “still waters” means “waters of rest” (cf. text note). As such the last statement speaks of God providing his people with rest.

John 14:27 Peace I leave with you; my peace I give to you. Not as the world gives do I give to you. Let not your hearts be troubled, neither let them be afraid.

Unlike the superficial peace that the world gives, the peace Jesus Christ gives is real, deep and lasting. Thus believers need not be troubled or afraid.

John 16:33 I have said these things to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation. But take heart; I have overcome the world.

The phrase “these things” appears to refer to all that Jesus had told them throughout his discourse (cf. chs 14-16). The verse as a whole indicates that because Jesus Christ has overcome the world, in him believers have peace amidst the trouble that the world causes them.

John 20:19-21, 26 On the evening of that day, the first day of the week, the doors being locked where the disciples were for fear of the Jews, *Jesus came and stood among them and said to them, “Peace be with you.”*²⁰When he had said this, he showed them his hands and his side. Then the disciples were glad when they saw the Lord. ²¹*Jesus said to them again, “Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, even so I am sending you.”*  ... ²⁶Eight days later, his disciples were inside again, and Thomas was with them. Although the doors were locked, Jesus came and stood among them and said, “Peace be with you.”

Being spoken by Jesus, the greeting “Peace be with you” conveys the imparting of his peace.

Rom 1:7 To all those in Rome who are loved by God and called to be saints: Grace to you and peace from God our Father and the Lord Jesus Christ.

Such blessings of grace and peace from God and Jesus Christ (cf. 2Jn 1:3 ↓) occur frequently throughout the NT, especially at the start of Paul’s letters.

Col 3:15 And let the peace of Christ rule in your hearts, to which indeed you were called in one body. And be thankful.

The “peace of Christ” is the “peace that comes from Christ” (CEV, NLT, cf. NCV, GNT). Some understand it to denote inner peace, while others take it to primarily be referring here to peace amongst Christian groups – which should rule the way we relate to each other.

2Jn 1:3 Grace, mercy, and peace will be with us, from God the Father and from Jesus Christ the Father’s Son, in truth and love.

God and Jesus Christ give peace – along with grace and mercy – to those “who live in truth and love” (NLT).

Mic 5:4-5a And he shall stand and shepherd his flock in the strength of the LORD, in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God. And they shall dwell secure, for now he shall be great to the ends of the earth. ⁵*And he shall be their peace.*

Jesus Christ is in view here as the Messiah. This prophecy of peace will ultimately be fulfilled on his second coming.

Matt 11:28-30 Come to me, all who labor and are heavy laden, and I will give you rest. ²⁹*Take my yoke upon you, and learn from me, for I am gentle and lowly in heart, and you will find rest for your souls.* ³⁰*For my yoke is easy, and my burden is light.*

Here “rest” appears to encompass (or at least be applicable to) rest from: trying to obey the OT law in order to be righteous before God, particularly with how it was embellished by the Jews; the burden of sin; and any troubles in our lives that weary and burden us. For further comment see Note: God’s and Jesus Christ’s commands are not too difficult or burdensome, p. 1181.

Mark 6:30-31 The apostles returned to Jesus and told him all that they had done and taught. ³¹*And he said to them, “Come away by yourselves to a desolate place and rest a while.”* For many were coming and going, and they had no leisure even to eat.

Jesus was calling on the disciples to go with him to a quiet place to rest. Application can be made of this to believers resting with Jesus.

God's people have great peace

Ps 37:11 But the meek shall inherit the land and delight themselves in abundant peace.

Ps 119:165 Great peace have those who love your law; nothing can make them stumble.

Isa 26:3 You keep him in perfect peace whose mind is stayed on you, because he trusts in you.

The one who trusts in God is kept in "perfect peace" – a "true" (NCV™) and complete peace.

Isa 48:18 Oh that you had paid attention to my commandments! Then your peace would have been like a river, and your righteousness like the waves of the sea; ...

Rom 15:13 May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope.

Phil 4:6-7 ...do not be anxious about anything, but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known to God. And the peace of God, which surpasses all understanding, will guard your hearts and your minds in Christ Jesus.

The peace of God is so great that it is beyond comprehension. As such it guards the hearts and minds of believers from anxiety (cf. v. 6) – and from anything else detrimental to their life in Christ.

2Thes 3:16 Now may the Lord of peace himself give you peace at all times in every way. The Lord be with you all.

As is the case with some of the other verses elsewhere in this section on peace, this is primarily speaking of peace amongst believers.

God's people have peace and rest even in death

Isa 57:1-2 The righteous man perishes, and no one lays it to heart; devout men are taken away, while no one understands. For the righteous man is taken away from calamity; ²he enters into peace; they rest in their beds who walk in their uprightness.

Num 23:10 Who can count the dust of Jacob or number the fourth part^w of Israel? Let me die the death of the upright, and let my end be like his!

^w Or dust clouds

Balaam's wish points to the blessed state of God's people even in death, probably encompassing the thought that the righteous "die in peace" (GNT; cf. CEV).

2Ki 22:20 Therefore, behold, I will gather you to your fathers, and you shall be gathered to your grave in peace, and your eyes shall not see all the disaster that I will bring upon this place.^z And they brought back word to the king.

Ps 16:9-10 Therefore my heart is glad, and my whole being^x rejoices; my flesh also dwells secure. ¹⁰*For you will not abandon my soul to Sheol, or let your holy one see corruption.*^y

^x Hebrew my glory

^y Or see the pit

The phrase translated as "dwells secure" can also be rendered "rests secure" (NIV®, NRSV; cf. CEV, NKJV, NLT). David may be speaking here more of resting securely in the face of death – when under threat from enemies – rather than actually in death. However in Acts 2:24-33 it is used in the latter sense, being applied there to Jesus Christ.

Prov 14:32 The wicked is overthrown through his evildoing, but the righteous finds refuge in his death.

Dan 12:13 But go your way till the end. And you shall rest and shall stand in your allotted place at the end of the days.

This suggests that for God's people the time between death and resurrection at the end of the age is one of rest.

Luke 2:29 Lord, now you are letting your servant^z depart in peace, according to your word; ...

^z Greek bondservant

It had been revealed to Simeon by the Holy Spirit that he would not die before he had seen the Christ (v. 26). On seeing the child Jesus he joyfully realized the promise was fulfilled, and so was ready to die – in peace.

Luke 16:22, 25 The poor man died and was carried by the angels to Abraham's side.^a The rich man also died and was buried, ¶ ... ²⁵But Abraham said, 'Child, remember that you in your lifetime received your good things, and Lazarus in like manner bad things; but now he is comforted here, and you are in anguish. ¶

^a Greek bosom; also verse 23

"Abraham's side" (v. 22) apparently refers to a blessed place or state – one of comfort (cf. v. 25b), inclusive of peace and rest – to which the righteous are understood to enter on death.

Rev 14:13 And I heard a voice from heaven saying, "Write this: Blessed are the dead who die in the Lord from now on." "Blessed indeed," says the Spirit, "that they may rest from their labors, for their deeds follow them!" ¶

The "rest" here could well refer to or be inclusive of rest throughout eternity, following the resurrection (cf. Heb 4:1-1 ↓).

Job 3:11-13, 17-18 Why did I not die at birth, come out from the womb and expire? ¹²Why did the knees receive me? Or why the breasts, that I should nurse? ¹³For then I would have lain down and been quiet; I would have slept; then I would have been at rest, ¶ ... ¹⁷There the wicked cease from troubling, and there the weary are at rest. ¹⁸*There the prisoners are at ease together; they hear not the voice of the taskmaster.* ¶

This speaks of death bringing rest initially in some sense to all people.

✦ The promised future rest for believers:

Heb 4:1-11 Therefore, while the promise of entering his rest still stands, let us fear lest any of you should seem to have failed to reach it. ²For good news came to us just as to them, but the message they heard did not benefit them, because they were not united by faith with those who listened.^b ³For we who have believed enter that rest, as he has said, "As I swore in my wrath, "They shall not enter my rest," although his works were finished from the foundation of the world. ⁴*For he has somewhere spoken of the seventh day in this way: "And God rested on the seventh day from all his works."* ⁵*And again in this passage he said, "They shall not enter my rest."* ⁶*Since therefore it remains for some to enter it,* and those who formerly received the good news failed to enter because of disobedience, ⁷again he appoints a certain day, "Today," saying through David so long afterward, in the words already quoted, "Today, if you hear his voice, do not harden your hearts." ⁸For if Joshua had given them rest, God^c would not have spoken of another day later on. ⁹*So then, there remains a Sabbath rest for the people of God,* ¹⁰*for whoever has entered God's rest has also rested from his works as God did from his.* ¹¹*Let us therefore strive to enter that rest,* so that no one may fall by the same sort of disobedience. ¶

^b Some manuscripts it did not meet with faith in the hearers

^c Greek he

The rest spoken of here is primarily the eternal rest that believers will have in the afterlife (v. 11a). However, vv. 3-4 may be implying that believers in a sense have this rest now. It seemingly speaks of the rest in a present tense (v. 3a) and refers to God's rest – the rest in which believers can or will share – as having been a reality since the creation of the world (vv. 3b-4). In vv. 2-6, the need to respond to the gospel message in belief is emphasized by the contrasting unbelief and disobedience of the Israelites during the desert wanderings. This cost that generation the opportunity of entering the promised land and the rest God had promised (cf. 3:7-11). In v. 10, "his works" probably refers to good works done in Christ, from which believers will rest in the afterlife; although some think it may refer to or be inclusive of attempts to work for salvation, from which believers have rest now.

Note: God is the God of peace

In describing God as the God of peace, these verses are generally understood to be primarily indicating that God is the source of peace. However, in some at least the thought may be more that peace is a characteristic of God, with him providing peace being an implication.

Rom 15:33 May the God of peace be with you all. Amen. ¶

The reference to the "God of peace" being with them (cf. 2Cor 13:11 ↓) suggests that Paul may have in view God's presence facilitating peace in or amongst them.

Rom 16:20 The God of peace will soon crush Satan under your feet. The grace of our Lord Jesus Christ be with you. ¶

2Cor 13:11 Finally, brothers,^d rejoice. Aim for restoration, comfort one another,^e agree with one another, live in peace; and the God of love and peace will be with you. ¶

^e Or listen to my appeal

1Thes 5:23 Now may the God of peace himself sanctify you completely, and may your whole spirit and soul and body be kept blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. ¶

Note that in addition to this and the above references, the ascription "the God of peace" is also used of God in Philippians 4:9 and Hebrews 13:20.

1Cor 14:33 For God is not a God of confusion but of peace. As in all the churches of the saints, ...

Judg 6:22-24 Then Gideon perceived that he was the angel of the LORD. And Gideon said, "Alas, O Lord GOD! For now I have seen the angel of the LORD face to face." ²³But the LORD said to him, "Peace be to you. Do not fear; you shall not die." ²⁴Then Gideon built an altar there to the LORD and called it, The LORD Is Peace. To this day it still stands at Ophrah, which belongs to the Abiezrites.

Ps 46:9 He makes wars cease to the end of the earth; he breaks the bow and shatters the spear; he burns the chariots with fire.

Such actions (cf. Isa 2:4; Mic 4:3) illustrate that God is the God of peace.

1Pet 1:8-9 Though you have not seen him, you love him. Though you do not now see him, you believe in him and rejoice with joy that is inexpressible and filled with glory, ⁹obtaining the outcome of your faith, the salvation of your souls.

The magnitude of the joy is heightened by it being described as not only "inexpressible" but also "filled with glory" – a "glorious (triumphant, heavenly) joy" (AMP).

Ezra 6:22 And they kept the Feast of Unleavened Bread seven days with joy, for the LORD had made them joyful and had turned the heart of the king of Assyria to them, so that he aided them in the work of the house of God, the God of Israel.

Neh 12:43 And they offered great sacrifices that day and rejoiced, for God had made them rejoice with great joy; the women and children also rejoiced. And the joy of Jerusalem was heard far away.

Likewise 8:17b speaks of the great joy of the people in celebrating God's blessing at this Feast of Tabernacles – "And there was very great rejoicing."

Ps 4:7 You have put more joy in my heart than they have when their grain and wine abound.

Ps 21:6 For you make him most blessed forever; f you make him glad with the joy of your presence.

^f Or make him a source of blessing forever

God's presence brings joy (cf. Ps 16:11 ↓) – here making the king glad.

Ps 97:11 Light is sown^g for the righteous, and joy for the upright in heart.

Ps 105:43 So he brought his people out with joy, his chosen ones with singing.

Ps 132:9, 16 Let your priests be clothed with righteousness, and let your saints shout for joy. ... ¹⁶Her priests I will clothe with salvation, and her saints will shout for joy.

Ecc 2:26 For to the one who pleases him God has given wisdom and knowledge and joy, but to the sinner he has given the business of gathering and collecting, only to give to one who pleases God. This also is vanity and a striving after wind.

Ecc 5:19-20 Everyone also to whom God has given wealth and possessions and power to enjoy them, and to accept his lot and rejoice in his toil—this is the gift of God. ²⁰For he will not much remember the days of his life because God keeps him occupied with joy in his heart.

This appears to be an observation rather than an actual claim that God does this all the time for every one of his people. It is also not necessarily referring exclusively to his own people (cf. Acts 14:17 ↓).

Acts 14:17 Yet he did not leave himself without witness, for he did good by giving you rains from heaven and fruitful seasons, satisfying your hearts with food and gladness.

The reference here is not just to God's people. Through his provision of food, God gives all people gladness or joy (cf. NCV, NIV, NLT, NRSV).

Gen 21:6-7 And Sarah said, "God has made laughter for me; everyone who hears will laugh over me." ⁷And she said, "Who would have said to Abraham that Sarah would nurse children? Yet I have borne him a son in his old age."

Ps 34:5 Those who look to him are radiant, and their faces shall never be ashamed.

Being "radiant" reflects joy. The second part of the verse implies that this radiance and joy lasts.

Ps 46:4 There is a river whose streams make glad the city of God, the holy habitation of the Most High.

The river is understood by a number of commentators to symbolize God's blessing, possibly even alluding to God's presence. Such blessing makes glad the people of God.

Ps 90:14 Satisfy us in the morning with your steadfast love, that we may rejoice and be glad all our days.

The psalmist appears to be praying for restoration during a time of discipline, including restoration of the people's relationship with God, from which would flow joy and gladness all of their days.

✦ Finding God's kingdom brings great joy:

Matt 13:44 The kingdom of heaven is like treasure hidden in a field, which a man found and covered up. Then in his joy he goes and sells all that he has and buys that field.

God gives his people fullness of joy

This subsection contains both references to God and Jesus Christ filling their people with joy in an ongoing sense and references to them doing so on particular occasions.

Ps 16:11 You make known to me the path of life; in your presence there is fullness of joy; at your right hand are pleasures forevermore.

John 15:10-11 If you keep my commandments, you will abide in my love, just as I have kept my Father's commandments and abide in his love. ¹¹These things I have spoken to you, that my joy may be in you, and that your joy may be full.

Following Jesus Christ (v. 10) results in our joy being "the fullest possible joy" (NCV™).

John 16:24 Until now you have asked nothing in my name. Ask, and you will receive, that your joy may be full.

John 17:13 But now I am coming to you, and these things I speak in the world, that they may have my joy fulfilled in themselves.

Here Jesus speaks of his followers having all of his joy in them, giving them a complete joy – i.e. having "the same complete joy that I do" (CEV).

Rom 15:13 May the God of hope fill you with all joy and peace in believing, so that by the power of the Holy Spirit you may abound in hope.

Deut 16:15 For seven days you shall keep the feast to the LORD your God at the place that the LORD will choose, because the LORD your God will bless you in all your produce and in all the work of your hands, so that you will be altogether joyful.

Ps 126:1-3 When the LORD restored the fortunes of Zion, we were like those who dream. ²Then our mouth was filled with laughter, and our tongue with shouts of joy; then they said among the nations, "The LORD has done great things for them." ³The LORD has done great things for us; we are glad.

Acts 13:52 And the disciples were filled with joy and with the Holy Spirit.

This may be implying – and certainly is reflective of the fact – that God fills his people with joy through the Holy Spirit (cf. Rom 15:13 ↑).

2Cor 7:4 I am acting with great boldness toward you; I have great pride in you; I am filled with comfort. In all our affliction, I am overflowing with joy.

This and the following references do not speak of believers' joy as coming "directly" from God or Christ, but as coming from this related source of other believers.

1Jn 1:3-4 ... that which we have seen and heard we proclaim also to you, so that you too may have fellowship with us; and indeed our fellowship is with the Father and with his Son Jesus Christ. ⁴And we are writing these things so that our^h joy may be complete. ☞

^h Some manuscripts your

By telling of what they had seen and heard, John and others sought to bring their readers into fellowship with not only themselves, but more importantly with God and Jesus Christ – thus making their own joy complete. (Note that, rather than their own joy, the reference may be to their readers' joy – as per the text note.)

2Jn 1:12 Though I have much to write to you, I would rather not use paper and ink. Instead I hope to come to you and talk face to face, so that our joy may be complete. ☞

John 3:29 The one who has the bride is the bridegroom. The friend of the bridegroom, who stands and hears him, rejoices greatly at the bridegroom's voice. Therefore this joy of mine is now complete. ☞

What John had been working towards – and no doubt looking forward to – had begun. Hence his great joy.

2Cor 6:10 ... as sorrowful, yet always rejoicing; as poor, yet making many rich; as having nothing, yet possessing everything. ☞

In their work for the gospel there was much that caused Paul and his co-workers sorrow, yet they always had reason to rejoice. Such reasons would have included the promises and hope they always had in Christ, and the fruit of their work (cf. 2Cor 7:4 ↓).

2Cor 7:4 I am acting with great boldness toward you; I have great pride in you; I am filled with comfort. In all our affliction, I am overflowing with joy. ☞

The spiritual growth of his converts gave Paul reason for great joy amidst trouble.

2Cor 8:2 ... for in a severe test of affliction, their abundance of joy and their extreme poverty have overflowed in a wealth of generosity on their part. ☞

1Pet 1:3-9 Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ! According to his great mercy, he has caused us to be born again to a living hope through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from the dead, ⁴to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ⁵who by God's power are being guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time. ⁶*In this you rejoice, though now for a little while, if necessary, you have been grieved by various trials,* ⁷so that the tested genuineness of your faith—more precious than gold that perishes though it is tested by fire—may be found to result in praise and glory and honor at the revelation of Jesus Christ. ⁸Though you have not seen him, you love him. Though you do not now see him, you believe in him and rejoice with joy that is inexpressible and filled with glory, ⁹obtaining the outcome of your faith, the salvation of your souls. ☞

Ps 28:1, 6-7 To you, O LORD, I call; my rock, be not deaf to me, lest, if you be silent to me, I become like those who go down to the pit. ☞ ... ⁶Blessed be the LORD! For he has heard the voice of my pleas for mercy. ⁷The LORD is my strength and my shield; in him my heart trusts, and I am helped; my heart exults, and with my song I give thanks to him. ☞

Because he believes God has heard his cry (v. 6) and as God is his strength and shield in which he trusts (v. 7), the psalmist's "heart leaps for joy" (NIV®, v. 7) despite his troubles (v. 1).

Ps 94:19 When the cares of my heart are many, your consolations cheer my soul. ☞

Note that the Hebrew translated here as "consolations" can also be rendered "comforts" (NKJV; cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT).

Ps 30:5 For his anger is but for a moment, and his favor is for a lifetime.ⁱ Weeping may tarry for the night, but joy comes with the morning.

ⁱ Or and in his favor is life

This speaks of the sorrow brought by consequences of sin, and the joy brought by God's restoration.

Ps 126:5-6 Those who sow in tears shall reap with shouts of joy! ⁶He who goes out weeping, bearing the seed for sowing, shall come home with shouts of joy, bringing his sheaves with him.

This psalm was written for the exiles who had returned from Babylon, apparently encouraging them with a promise of their land's restoration, despite the initial pains in tending it. Note that the concept of sowing in tears and reaping with joy is sometimes applied to the hardships encountered in spreading the gospel and the joy experienced in seeing people saved.

Isa 9:1-4 ^j But there will be no gloom for her who was in anguish. In the former time he brought into contempt the land of Zebulun and the land of Naphtali, but in the latter time he has made glorious the way of the sea, the land beyond the Jordan, Galilee of the nations.^k ²¹The people who walked in darkness have seen a great light; those who dwelt in a land of deep darkness, on them has light shined. ³You have multiplied the nation; you have increased its joy; they rejoice before you as with joy at the harvest, as they are glad when they divide the spoil. ⁴For the yoke of his burden, and the staff for his shoulder, the rod of his oppressor, you have broken as on the day of Midian.

^j Ch 8:23 in Hebrew

^k Or of the Gentiles

^l Ch 9:1 in Hebrew

Note that among the reasons given for this promised joy include the shattering of the yoke that burdened the people (v. 4), that would eventuate through the coming of the Messiah (cf. vv. 6-7).

Isa 35:10 And the ransomed of the LORD shall return and come to Zion with singing; everlasting joy shall be upon their heads; they shall obtain gladness and joy, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

As with Jeremiah 31:11-13 below, this probably initially referred to the people's return from exile in Babylon. Many understand that it is to be consummately fulfilled in the future renewal of Israel (cf. above cross references).

Isa 61:1-3 The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me, because the LORD has anointed me to bring good news to the poor;^m he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to those who are bound;ⁿ ²to proclaim the year of the LORD's favor, and the day of vengeance of our God; to comfort all who mourn; ³to grant to those who mourn in Zion— to give them a beautiful headdress instead of ashes, the oil of gladness instead of mourning, the garment of praise instead of a faint spirit; that they may be called oaks of righteousness, the planting of the LORD, that he may be glorified.^o

^m Or afflicted

ⁿ Or the opening [of the eyes] to those who are blind;

Septuagint and recovery of sight to the blind

^o Or that he may display his beauty

Here the work of the Messiah is primarily in view. Jesus applied vv. 1-2a to himself in Luke 4:19-20. Commentators generally interpret Jesus concluding his quotation immediately prior to "the day of vengeance of our God" to imply that he will fulfill the remainder of the prophecy on his second coming. Note that "a faint spirit" (v. 3) speaks of "a spirit of despair" (NIV®; cf. NLT).

Jer 31:11-13 For the LORD has ransomed Jacob and has redeemed him from hands too strong for him. ¹²*They shall come and sing aloud on the height of Zion, and they shall be radiant over the goodness of the LORD, over the grain, the wine, and the oil, and over the young of the flock and the herd; their life shall be like a watered garden, and they shall languish no more.* ¹³*Then shall the young women rejoice in the dance, and the young men and the old shall be merry. I will turn their mourning into joy; I will comfort them, and give them gladness for sorrow.*

The clause "they shall languish no more" (v. 12b) can be rendered as "they shall sorrow no more at all" (NKJV; cf. NIV, NLT).

John 16:20-22 Truly, truly, I say to you, you will weep and lament, but the world will rejoice. You will be sorrowful, but your sorrow will turn into joy. ²¹*When a woman is giving birth, she has sorrow because her hour has come, but when she has delivered the baby, she no longer remembers the anguish, for* joy that a human being has been born into the world. ²²So also you have sorrow now, but I will see you again, and your hearts will rejoice, and no one will take your joy from you.

The disciples' sorrow on Jesus' death would be replaced by joy on his resurrection.

Job 8:20-21 Behold, God will not reject a blameless man, nor take the hand of evildoers. ²¹He will yet fill your mouth with laughter, and your lips with shouting.

Although Bildad said this with the underlying incorrect assumption that Job must be guilty of evil or wrongdoing to suffer as he did, his words do reflect the assertion that God does replace sorrow with joy.

✦ An example of God replacing sorrow with joy:

Ps 30:11 You have turned for me my mourning into dancing; you have loosed my sackcloth and clothed me with gladness, ...

Note: Joy strengthens people

Neh 8:10 Then he said to them, "Go your way. Eat the fat and drink sweet wine and send portions to anyone who has nothing ready, for this day is holy to our Lord. And do not be grieved, for the joy of the LORD is your strength."

The grief of the people would be offset through them drawing strength from the joy they had in the LORD, or the "joy that the LORD gives" (GNT, cf. CEV).

Prov 17:22 A joyful heart is good medicine, but a crushed spirit dries up the bones.

2Cor 8:2 ... for in a severe test of affliction, their abundance of joy and their extreme poverty have overflowed in a wealth of generosity on their part.

This illustrates the power of joy amidst troubles. Despite "a severe test of affliction" and "their extreme poverty", such was their joy that rather than be overcome by their own problems, the Macedonian churches had the strength of character and desire to be very generous with what little they had.

James 1:5 If any of you lacks wisdom, let him ask God, who gives generously to all without reproach, and it will be given him.

Ps 51:6 Behold, you delight in truth in the inward being, and you teach me wisdom in the secret heart.

The "secret heart" refers to one's "inmost being" (NLT), presumably one's "mind" (GNT); it appears to have a similar sense or meaning as the earlier phrase "inward being".

Col 1:28 Him we proclaim, warning everyone and teaching everyone with all wisdom, that we may present everyone mature in Christ.

The wisdom referred to is understood as having been given to Paul and his associates by God (cf. 2Pet 3:15 ↓) – "all the wisdom God has given us" (NLT).

2Pet 3:15 And count the patience of our Lord as salvation, just as our beloved brother Paul also wrote to you according to the wisdom given him, ...

In the Bible, particularly in the NT, “knowledge” generally refers to spiritual knowledge, indicative of a clear comprehension of things of God.

Eccl 2:26a For to the one who pleases him God has given wisdom and knowledge and joy, but to the sinner he has given the business of gathering and collecting, only to give to one who pleases God.

Isa 33:6 ... and he will be the stability of your times, abundance of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge; the fear of the LORD is Zion’s^p treasure.

^p Hebrew his

This speaks of God as “providing a rich store of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge” (NLT; cf. NIV) for his people.

Matt 13:11 And he answered them, “To you it has been given to know the secrets of the kingdom of heaven, but to them it has not been given.

Luke 1:76-77 And you, child, will be called the prophet of the Most High; for you will go before the Lord to prepare his ways, ⁷⁷*to give knowledge of salvation to his people* in the forgiveness of their sins, ...

God would give knowledge of salvation to his people through John the Baptist’s ministry.

Rom 15:14 I myself am satisfied about you, my brothers,^a that you yourselves are full of goodness, filled with all knowledge and able to instruct one another.

^a Or brothers and sisters; also verse 30

The phrase “filled with all knowledge” presumably does not literally mean that Paul thought his readers knew everything. He appears to speak of them having a sound knowledge (cf. NLT), perhaps all the knowledge that they needed (cf. CEV, NCV). Paul presumably had God in mind as the ultimate source of this knowledge. Note that being “able to instruct one another” is reflective of having such knowledge.

2Cor 4:6 For God, who said, “Let light shine out of darkness,” has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

This is speaking of God enabling believers to know his glory through his revelation of himself in Christ.

Col 2:2-3 ... that their hearts may be encouraged, being knit together in love, to reach all the riches of full assurance of understanding and the knowledge of God’s mystery, which is Christ, ³in whom are hidden all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge.

When one comes to know the mystery of God – Jesus Christ – then in turn one has access to the vast treasures of wisdom and knowledge that are stored up and “hidden” in him.

Col 3:10 ... and have put on the new self, which is being renewed in knowledge after the image of its creator.

The phrase “being renewed in knowledge” means either that our knowledge is being renewed (by God), or that through knowledge we are being renewed.

2Tim 2:7 Think over what I say, for the Lord will give you understanding in everything.

Titus 1:1 Paul, a servant^r of God and an apostle of Jesus Christ, for the sake of the faith of God's elect and their knowledge of the truth, which accords with godliness, ...

^r Or slave; Greek bondservant

It can be argued that God is seen as the ultimate source of the knowledge referred to here and in 2 Peter 1:2 below, as is clearly the case in other references to knowledge in this subsection.

2Pet 1:2 May grace and peace be multiplied to you in the knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord.

✦ Now our knowledge is imperfect, but it will be made complete:

1Cor 13:8-12 Love never ends. As for prophecies, they will pass away; as for tongues, they will cease; as for knowledge, it will pass away. ⁹*For we know in part and we prophesy in part,* ¹⁰*but when the perfect comes, the partial will pass away.* ¹¹*When I was a child, I spoke like a child, I thought like a child, I reasoned like a child. When I became a man, I gave up childish ways.* ¹²*For now we see in a mirror dimly, but then face to face. Now I know in part; then I shall know fully, even as I have been fully known.*

In v. 8, "knowledge" may refer to the spiritual gift of knowledge (cf. NCV, NLT); in any case the "knowledge" referred to is partial or imperfect, as opposed to complete truth (cf. AMP). As such it will pass away. The difference in our present knowledge and the knowledge that we will have is contrasted in v. 11 with the change in knowledge from childhood to adulthood. In v. 12, the phrase "I shall know fully" is most likely meaning that we shall have a complete knowledge, but it could more specifically be referring to knowing God fully.

God willingly opens his people's eyes to spiritual truth.

Isa 29:18 In that day the deaf shall hear the words of a book, and out of their gloom and darkness the eyes of the blind shall see.

Along with 32:3-4 and 35:5 below, this appears to have an eschatological setting or final fulfillment. However in view of 42:6-7 below, these passages arguably have a partial fulfillment in Christ's first mission. As such they would be readily applicable to spiritual sight being given to believers in the current age.

Isa 32:3-4 Then the eyes of those who see will not be closed, and the ears of those who hear will give attention. ⁴The heart of the hasty will understand and know, and the tongue of the stammerers will hasten to speak distinctly.

Isa 35:5 Then the eyes of the blind shall be opened, and the ears of the deaf unstopped; ...

Isa 42:6-7 I am the LORD; I have called you in righteousness; I will take you by the hand and keep you; I will give you as a covenant for the people, a light for the nations, ⁷*to open the eyes that are blind, to bring out the prisoners from the dungeon, from the prison those who sit in darkness.*

The work of the Messiah is in view. Verse 7 speaks of him giving spiritual sight and also spiritual release from the darkness of sin.

Matt 13:16-17 But blessed are your eyes, for they see, and your ears, for they hear. ¹⁷For truly, I say to you, many prophets and righteous people longed to see what you see, and did not see it, and to hear what you hear, and did not hear it.

God's people are given spiritual sight/insight by God (v. 16) – even more so since Jesus Christ's fuller revelation of truth that earlier people of God had longed for (v. 17).

2Cor 3:14-16 *But their minds were hardened. For to this day, when they read the old covenant, that same veil remains unlifted, because only through Christ is it taken away. ¹⁵Yes, to this day whenever Moses is read a veil lies over their hearts. ¹⁶But when one^s turns to the Lord, the veil is removed. *

^s Greek he

When listening to the old covenant being read, the people's minds and hearts were in a sense covered so that they could not see the significance of the old covenant, with its transitory nature probably being what Paul had foremost in mind. One can infer from these verses that whenever anyone turns to the Lord any "veil" blocking spiritual insight is taken away.

Eph 1:18-19 ... having the eyes of your hearts enlightened, that you may know what is the hope to which he has called you, what are the riches of his glorious inheritance in the saints, ¹⁹and what is the immeasurable greatness of his power

Isa 42:16 And I will lead the blind in a way that they do not know, in paths that they have not known I will guide them. I will turn the darkness before them into light, the rough places into level ground. These are the things I do, and I do not forsake them.

Initially at least, this appears to be referring to God bringing the exiles back to their homeland. But additionally, particularly in view of vv. 6-7 in the previous subsection, this may well be alluding to spiritual blindness and spiritual darkness/light (cf. vv. 18-19).

John 8:12 Again Jesus spoke to them, saying, "I am the light of the world. Whoever follows me will not walk in darkness, but will have the light of life."

The light that Jesus gives enables one to recognize and avoid "darkness" or falsehood – including false ideologies and ways of life – and it shows the way to spiritual life.

Acts 26:17-18 ... delivering you from your people and from the Gentiles—to whom I am sending you ¹⁸to open their eyes, so that they may turn from darkness to light and from the power of Satan to God, that they may receive forgiveness of sins and a place among those who are sanctified by faith in me.

2Cor 4:6 For God, who said, "Let light shine out of darkness," has shone in our hearts to give the light of the knowledge of the glory of God in the face of Jesus Christ.

God who at creation commanded light to "shine out of darkness", has made his spiritual light shine in the previously darkened hearts of believers, enabling them to know the glory of God that is seen in Christ.

Eph 5:8a, 13-14 ... for at one time you were darkness, but now you are light in the Lord. ... ¹³But when anything is exposed by the light, it becomes visible, ¹⁴for anything that becomes visible is light. Therefore it says, "Awake, O sleeper, and arise from the dead, and Christ will shine on you."

The references to sleep and death in v. 14 allude to spiritual darkness. The verse speaks of waking from a state of spiritual darkness to the light which Christ provides. With v. 14a saying that "anything that becomes visible is light", v. 14b may more precisely be indicating that through Christ's light shining on them, believers become light – as per v. 8a – rather than just simply receiving light.

2Pet 1:19 And we have something more sure, the prophetic word, to which you will do well to pay attention as to a lamp shining in a dark place, until the day dawns and the morning star rises in your hearts, ...

God's word gives light amidst darkness. The latter part of the verse is understood to be speaking of the coming of the day and light of the return of Jesus Christ – "the morning star". It is debatable as to what "rises in your hearts" means. Possibilities include: the purifying transformation of Christians by Christ's light; and the illumination and perhaps also joy of the realization of the Christian's hope.

1Jn 2:8 At the same time, it is a new commandment that I am writing to you, which is true in him and in you, because^v the darkness is passing away and the true light is already shining.

^v Or that

The "true light" is associated with the "new commandment", the command to love. The truth or validity of the command is seen in Jesus and also believers. As such, the final clause may refer to the fact that the true light is shining in and through believers – a result of following this command. Alternatively it may simply mean that because God's true light is shining, the truth of the command can be seen in Jesus and believers.

Heb 10:32 But recall the former days when, after you were enlightened, you endured a hard struggle with sufferings, ...

This is speaking of the spiritual enlightenment received in becoming a believer. Similarly 6:4 refers to "those who have once been enlightened".

1Ki 4:29-34 And God gave Solomon wisdom and understanding beyond measure, and breadth of mind like the sand on the seashore, ³⁰*so that Solomon's wisdom surpassed the wisdom of all the people of the east and all the wisdom of Egypt.* ³¹*For he was wiser than all other men, wiser than Ethan the Ezrahite, and Heman, Calcol, and Darda, the sons of Mahol, and his fame was in all the surrounding nations.* ³²*He also spoke 3,000 proverbs, and his songs were 1,005.* ³³*He spoke of trees, from the cedar that is in Lebanon to the hyssop that grows out of the wall. He spoke also of beasts, and of birds, and of reptiles, and of fish.* ³⁴*And people of all nations came to hear the wisdom of Solomon, and from all the kings of the earth, who had heard of his wisdom.*

1Ki 3:22, 24-28 But the other woman said, "No, the living child is mine, and the dead child is yours." The first said, "No, the dead child is yours, and the living child is mine." But the other said, "He shall be neither mine nor yours; divide him." ²⁷*Then the king answered and said, "Give the living child to the first woman, and by no means put him to death; she is his mother."* ²⁸*And all Israel heard of the judgment that the king had rendered, and they stood in* 1Ki 10:1-8, 23-24 Now when the queen of Sheba heard of the fame of Solomon concerning the name of the LORD, she came to test him with hard questions. ²She came to Jerusalem with a very great retinue, with camels bearing spices and very much gold and precious stones. And when she came to Solomon, she told him all that was on her mind. ³*And Solomon answered all her questions; there was nothing hidden from the king that he could not explain to her.* ⁴And when the queen of Sheba had seen all the wisdom of Solomon, the house that he had built, ⁵the food of his table, the seating of his officials, and the attendance of his servants, their clothing, his cupbearers, and his burnt offerings that he offered at the house of the LORD, there was no more breath in her. ⁶*And she said to the king, "The report was true that I heard in my own land of your words and of your wisdom, ⁷but I did not believe the reports until I came and my own eyes had seen it. And behold, the half was not told me. Your wisdom and prosperity surpass the report that I heard.* ⁸Happy are your men! Happy are your servants, who continually stand before you and hear your wisdom! ... ²³Thus King Solomon excelled all the kings of the earth in riches and in wisdom. ²⁴And the whole earth sought the presence of Solomon to hear his wisdom, which God had put into his mind.

Dan 1:17, 20 As for these four youths, God gave them learning and skill in all literature and wisdom, and Daniel had understanding in all visions and dreams. ... ²⁰And in every matter of wisdom and understanding about which the king inquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and enchanters that were in all his kingdom.

The others referred to along with Daniel (cf. Dan 5:11-12 ↓) are Shadrach, Meshach and Abednego.

Dan 5:11-12 There is a man in your kingdom in whom is the spirit of the holy gods.^x In the days of your father, light and understanding and wisdom like the wisdom of the gods were found in him, and King Nebuchadnezzar, your father—your father the king—made him chief of the magicians, enchanters, Chaldeans, and astrologers, ¹²*because an excellent spirit, knowledge, and understanding to interpret dreams, explain riddles, and solve problems were found in this Daniel*, whom the king named Belteshazzar. Now let Daniel be called, and he will show the interpretation.

2Ki 6:8-12 Once when the king of Syria was warring against Israel, *he took counsel with his servants, saying, “At such and such a place shall be my camp.”*⁹*But the man of God sent word to the king of Israel, “Beware that you do not pass this place, for the Syrians are going down there.”*¹⁰And the king of Israel sent to the place about which the man of God told him. Thus *he used to warn him, so that he saved himself there more than once or twice.*¹¹And the mind of the king of Syria was greatly troubled because of this thing, and he called his servants and said to them, “Will you not show me who of us is for the king of Israel?”¹²And one of his servants said, “None, my lord, O king; but Elisha, the prophet who is in Israel, tells the king of Israel the words that you speak in your bedroom.”

I. God's Saving of His People

See also:

- 13. Salvation through Jesus Christ, p. 587

God has the capacity to save his people always – no matter what the circumstances. Thus God can save his people from all things – and ultimately he does. The Bible contains both numerous examples of God saving his people and promises of him continuing to do so.

In reading this chapter about God's saving and preservation of his people, one should bear in mind that the Bible also speaks of God's people experiencing sufferings common to all people (cf. 39. Hard Times, p. 1933) and also persecution for their faith (cf. 40. Persecution, p. 1981). God can and does save and preserve his people, but also does allow or even ordain difficult experiences for his people – often for reasons that may not be clear.

Promises given in the OT of God saving and preserving his people are still very much relevant under the new covenant – as is reflected in a number of NT passages. But they are more applicable in a spiritual sense – in keeping with the greater spiritual nature of the second covenant in contrast to the often more tangible aspects of the first covenant. As such we should bear in mind C. H. Spurgeon's words: "It is impossible that any ill should happen to the man who is beloved of the Lord...Ill to him is no ill, but only good in a mysterious form. Losses enrich him, sickness is his medicine, reproach his honour, death is his gain". (See also the introductory comment under e\) Epilogue: God's Care of the Needy, p. 951.)

God is able to save his people – no matter what the circumstances

James 4:12 There is only one lawgiver and judge, he who is able to save and to destroy. But who are you to judge your neighbor?

Heb 5:7 In the days of his flesh, Jesus^a offered up prayers and supplications, with loud cries and tears, to him who was able to save him from death, and he was heard because of his reverence.

And who is the god who will deliver you out of my hands?" ¹⁶Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego answered and said to the king, "O Nebuchadnezzar, we have no need to answer you in this matter. ¹⁷If this be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of your hand, O king."^c

1Sam 14:6 Jonathan said to the young man who carried his armor, "Come, let us go over to the garrison of these uncircumcised. It may be that the LORD will work for us, for nothing can hinder the LORD from saving by many or by few."

Ps 55:18 He redeems my soul in safety from the battle that I wage, for many are arrayed against me.

David was confident that God would save him "even though many" (NIV®, NLT) opposed him.

Judg 7:7, 22 And the LORD said to Gideon, "With the 300 men who lapped I will save you and give the Midianites into your hand, and let all the others go every man to his home."

...²²When they blew the 300 trumpets, the LORD set every man's [Midianite's] sword against his comrade and against all the army. And the army fled as far as Beth-shittah toward Zererah,^h as far as the border of Abel-meholah, by Tabbath.

^h Some Hebrew manuscripts Zeredah

In order that Israel would not boast that her own strength had saved her (cf. v. 2), God saved the Israelites with only 300 men against an army of at least tens of thousands.

✦ God saved all of the Israelites from Egypt – laden with riches:

Ps 105:37 Then he brought out Israel with silver and gold, and there was none among his tribes who stumbled.

The final clause indicates that God saved all of the people – "no one was left behind" (CEV).

God has mighty power to save his people . . .

Deut 9:26 And I prayed to the LORD, 'O Lord GOD, do not destroy your people and your heritage, whom you have redeemed through your greatness, whom you have brought out of Egypt with a mighty hand.

Neh 1:10 They are your servants and your people, whom you have redeemed by your great power and by your strong hand.

Ps 20:6 Now I know that the LORD saves his anointed; he will answer him from his holy heaven with the saving might of his right hand.

God's "saving might" is all-surpassing. Note that God's "right hand" signifies his mighty power, with the right hand usually being spoken of as the stronger hand.

Ps 74:12-13 Yet God my King is from of old, working salvation in the midst of the earth. ¹³*You divided the sea by your might; you broke the heads of the sea monstersⁱ on the waters.*

ⁱ Or the great sea creatures

Note that "the sea monsters" apparently is drawing upon Canaanite mythology, possibly in reference to Egypt in its defeat at the Red Sea.

Ps 79:11 Let the groans of the prisoners come before you; according to your great power, preserve those doomed to die!

The "prisoners" may well be the exiles in Babylon (cf. vv. 1-3, 7). In calling on God to preserve the lives of his people condemned to die there, the psalmist indicates that God has great power to do so.

Ps 106:8 Yet he saved them for his name's sake, that he might make known his mighty power.

Isa 50:2-3 Why, when I came, was there no man; why, when I called, was there no one to answer? Is my hand shortened, that it cannot redeem? Or have I no power to deliver? Behold, by my rebuke I dry up the sea, I make the rivers a desert; their fish stink for lack of water and die of thirst. ³*I clothe the heavens with blackness and make sackcloth their covering.*

Isa 63:1 Who is this who comes from Edom, in crimsoned garments from Bozrah, he who is splendid in his apparel, marching in the greatness of his strength? "It is I, speaking in righteousness, mighty to save."

Zeph 3:17 The LORD your God is in your midst, a mighty one who will save; he will rejoice over you with gladness; he will quiet you by his love; he will exult over you with loud singing.

Acts 13:17 The God of this people Israel chose our fathers and made the people great during their stay in the land of Egypt, and with uplifted arm he led them out of it.

The phrase "uplifted arm" points to God's "mighty power" (CEV, NIV; cf. GNT, NCV, NLT).

. . . God can perform awesome deeds to save his people

Ex 14:21-23, 26-27, 30 Then Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and the LORD drove the sea back by a strong east wind all night and made the sea dry land, and the waters were divided. ²²*And the people of Israel went into the midst of the sea on dry ground, the waters being a wall to them on their* right hand and on their left. ²³The Egyptians pursued and went in after them into the midst of the sea, all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen. ²⁶Then the LORD said to Moses, "Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the water may come back upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen." ²⁷So Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to its normal course when the morning appeared. And as the Egyptians fled into it, the LORD threw the Egyptians into the midst of the sea. ³⁰Thus the LORD saved Israel that day from the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel saw the Egyptians dead on the seashore.

^j Hebrew shook off

Deut 26:8 And the LORD brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, with great deeds of terror,^k with signs and wonders.

^k Hebrew with great terror

2Sam 22:13-18 Out of the brightness before him coals of fire flamed forth. ¹⁴The LORD thundered from heaven, and the Most High uttered his voice. ¹⁵And he sent out arrows and scattered them; lightning, and routed them. ¹⁶Then the channels of the sea were seen; the foundations of the world were laid bare, at the rebuke of the LORD, at the blast of the breath of his nostrils. ¹⁷He sent from on high, he took me; he drew me out of many waters. ¹⁸He rescued me from my strong enemy, from those who hated me, for they were too mighty for me.

Here David uses references to natural phenomena – probably volcanoes (v. 13), storms (vv. 14-15) and an earthquake (v. 16) – to metaphorically depict God's mighty deeds in rescuing him.

Ps 65:5 By awesome deeds you answer us with righteousness, O God of our salvation, the hope of all the ends of the earth and of the farthest seas; ...

Ps 66:5-6a Come and see what God has done: he is awesome in his deeds toward the children of man. ⁶He turned the sea into dry land; they passed through the river on foot.

Ps 118:14-16 The LORD is my strength and my song; he has become my salvation. ¹⁵Glad songs of salvation are in the tents of the righteous: "The right hand of the LORD does valiantly, ¹⁶the right hand of the LORD exalts, the right hand of the LORD does valiantly!"

In saying that God "does valiantly", the psalmist speaks of God doing "mighty things" (NCV™, NIV®; cf. GNT, NLT).

Isa 64:3-4 When you did awesome things that we did not look for, you came down, the mountains quaked at your presence. ⁴From of old no one has heard or perceived by the ear, no eye has seen a God besides you, who acts for those who wait for him.

Verse 4 implies that the "awesome things that we did not look for" (v. 3) were done by God to deliver his people.

Dan 6:27 He delivers and rescues; he works signs and wonders in heaven and on earth, he who has saved Daniel from the power of the lions.

Particularly in this context, presumably the "signs and wonders" primarily denote the awesome deeds that God has performed in saving his people.

Hab 3:11-13 The sun and moon stood still in their place at the light of your arrows as they sped, at the flash of your glittering spear. ¹²You marched through the earth in fury; you threshed the nations in anger. ¹³You went out for the salvation of your people, for the salvation of your anointed. You crushed the head of the house of the wicked, laying him bare from thigh to neck.¹ Selah

This is a poetic illustration of God's awesome power and deeds in saving his people.

✦ God can do many good things in saving his people:

Ex 18:9 And Jethro rejoiced for all the good that the LORD had done to Israel, in that he had delivered them out of the hand of the Egyptians.

God does not need to use any other means but himself to save his people

1Sam 17:46-47 This day the LORD will deliver you into my hand, and I will strike you down and cut off your head. And I will give the dead bodies of the host of the Philistines this day to the birds of the air and to the wild beasts of the earth, that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel, and that all this assembly may know that the LORD saves not with sword and spear. For the battle is the LORD's, and he will give you into our hand.

Isa 31:8 And the Assyrian shall fall by a sword, not of man; and a sword, not of man, shall devour him; and he shall flee from the sword, and his young men shall be put to forced labor.

Assyria was a mortal threat to God's people, but God would crush it without need of human force, and so would save his people.

Isa 52:3, 9-10 For thus says the LORD: "You were sold for nothing, and you shall be redeemed without money." ...
⁹Break forth together into singing, you waste places of Jerusalem, for the LORD has comforted his people; he has redeemed Jerusalem. ¹⁰*The LORD has bared his holy arm before the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.*

God does not need to use material means such as money to redeem his people (v. 3). For he redeems them by his own "holy power" (GNT, NCV, NLT), for all to see (v. 10).

Isa 63:3, 5 I have trodden the winepress alone, and from the peoples no one was with me; I trod them in my anger and trampled them in my wrath; their lifeblood^m spattered on my garments, and stained all my apparel. ... ⁵*I looked, but there was no one to help; I was appalled, but there was no one to uphold; so my own arm brought me salvation, and my wrath upheld me.*

^mOr their juice; also verse 6

This speaks of God executing judgment on enemy forces (v. 3) in saving his people (v. 5). Similar to v. 3a, in v. 5 God appears to be speaking of there being no one to help him (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NRSV) realize salvation. As such this illustrates that God does not need human help to save his people.

Hos 1:7 But I will have mercy on the house of Judah, and I will save them by the LORD their God. I will not save them by bow or by sword or by war or by horses or by horsemen.

Here God speaks of saving his people by no other power but himself.

Zec 4:6-7 Then he said to me, "This is the word of the LORD to Zerubbabel: Not by might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, says the LORD of hosts. ⁷Who are you, O great mountain? Before Zerubbabel you shall become a plain. And he shall bring forward the top stone amid shouts of 'Grace, grace to it!'"

This is referring to God helping his people accomplish a particular task (the rebuilding of the temple) rather than actually saving them. It is included here to further demonstrate that God does not need to use any other means but himself to accomplish his purposes.

‡ No other "god" can save the way God can:

Dan 3:29 Therefore I make a decree: Any people, nation, or language that speaks anything against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abednego shall be torn limb from limb, and their houses laid in ruins, for there is no other god who is able to rescue in this way.

Note: Salvation belongs to God – for he is the only savior

See also:

- God is the Savior of his people . . ., p. 906
- . . . God is the one who their salvation is in, p. 906

In saying that salvation belongs to God and that he is the only savior, the Bible suggests that though salvation or deliverance from trouble may take different forms, ultimately God is behind it.

Jonah 2:9 But I with the voice of thanksgiving will sacrifice to you; what I have vowed I will pay. Salvation belongs to the LORD!

Ps 3:8 Salvation belongs to the LORD; your blessing be on your people! Selah

Ps 68:20 Our God is a God of salvation, and to GOD, the Lord, belong deliverances from death.

Rev 7:10 ... and crying out with a loud voice, "Salvation belongs to our God who sits on the throne, and to the Lamb!"

Rev 19:1-2 After this I heard what seemed to be the loud voice of a great multitude in heaven, crying out, "Hallelujah! Salvation and glory and power belong to our God, ²for his judgments are true and just; for he has judged the great prostitute who corrupted the earth with her immorality, and has avenged on her the blood of his servants."ⁿ

ⁿ Greek bondservants; also verse 5

Isa 43:11 I, I am the LORD, and besides me there is no savior.

Isa 45:21 Declare and present your case; let them take counsel together! Who told this long ago? Who declared it of old? Was it not I, the LORD? And there is no other god besides me, a righteous God and a Savior; there is none besides me.

Although the final clause may primarily have in view God being the only God, as per the first clause in the statement, quite possibly it also alludes to the fact that ultimately he the only "Savior".

Hos 13:4 But I am the LORD your God from the land of Egypt; you know no God but me, and besides me there is no savior.

✦ One is not saved simply through mortal strength:

Ps 33:16-17 The king is not saved by his great army; a warrior is not delivered by his great strength. ¹⁷The war horse is a false hope for salvation, and by its great might it cannot rescue.

Similarly 1 Samuel 2:9 says, "... for not by might shall a man prevail." The implication in both of these references is that ultimately it is God who has control over one's deliverance, rather than human strength or any other power.

Jer 3:23b Truly in the LORD our God is the salvation of Israel.

Ps 18:2 The LORD is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer, my God, my rock, in whom I take refuge, my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold.

Ps 25:5 Lead me in your truth and teach me, for you are the God of my salvation; for you I wait all the day long.

Ps 37:39 The salvation of the righteous is from the LORD; he is their stronghold in the time of trouble.

Isa 12:2 "Behold, God is my salvation; I will trust, and will not be afraid; for the LORD GOD^o is my strength and my song, and he has become my salvation."

^o Hebrew for Yah, the LORD

Isa 59:16 He saw that there was no man, and wondered that there was no one to intercede; then his own arm brought him salvation, and his righteousness upheld him.

Arguably this points to the fact that God is the ultimate source of his people's salvation. With no one to intervene on behalf of his people (cf. 63:3-5), here God takes decisive action to save them.

✦ The salvation of his people comes from God alone:

Ps 62:1-2 For God alone my soul waits in silence; from him comes my salvation. ²He only is my rock and my salvation, my fortress; I shall not be greatly shaken.

A number of the above verses also suggest that the salvation of his people comes from God alone. Psalm 4:8 likewise points to this – “In peace I will both lie down and sleep; for you alone, O LORD, make me dwell in safety.”

God saves his people out of all troubles

See also:

▪ 2Ki 17:39 ↓

The following verses do not speak of God saving his people from experiencing any troubles. A number of them speak of situations in which his people had experienced much suffering, in some cases for a number of years. Believers are not immune to experiencing trouble. But God promises to save them out of it, whether this is realized in this life or in the ultimate salvation of the afterlife (cf. 2Tim 4:17-18 ↓).

Ps 34:4-6, 17, 19 I sought the LORD, and he answered me and delivered me from all my fears. ⁵Those who look to him are radiant, and their faces shall never be ashamed. ⁶This poor man cried, and the LORD heard him and saved him out of all his troubles.  ... ¹⁷When the righteous cry for help, the LORD hears and delivers them out of all their troubles.  ... ¹⁹*Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the LORD delivers him out of them all.*

Ps 54:7 For he has delivered me from every trouble, and my eye has looked in triumph on my enemies.

Gen 41:51 Joseph called the name of the firstborn Manasseh. “For,” he said, “God has made me forget all my hardship and all my father's house.”^p

^p Manasseh sounds like the Hebrew for making to forget

Here Joseph in effect acknowledges that God had saved him out of all his trouble or suffering (cf. Acts 7:9 ↓). Note that his reference to forgetting his father's household probably has primarily in view the pain of separation from them. The emotional scarring from what his brothers had done to him is another possibility.

Gen 48:15-16 And he blessed Joseph and said, “The God before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, the God who has been my shepherd all my life long to this day, ¹⁶*the angel who has redeemed me from all evil*, bless the boys; and in them let my name be carried on, and the name of my fathers Abraham and Isaac; and let them grow into a multitude^a in the midst of the earth.”

^a Or let them be like fish for multitude

The “angel” (v. 16) appears to be a reference to God, or at least to the angel of the Lord (cf. 16:7-11; 22:11, 15), closely associated with God.

Ex 18:8 Then Moses told his father-in-law all that the LORD had done to Pharaoh and to the Egyptians for Israel's sake, all the hardship that had come upon them in the way, and how the LORD had delivered them.

1Sam 10:19a But today you have rejected your God, who saves you from all your calamities and your distresses, and you have said to him, “Set a king over us.”

1Ki 1:29 And the king swore, saying, “As the LORD lives, who has redeemed my soul out of every adversity, ...”

Acts 7:9-10 And the patriarchs, jealous of Joseph, sold him into Egypt; but God was with him ¹⁰and rescued him out of all his afflictions and gave him favor and wisdom before Pharaoh, king of Egypt, who made him ruler over Egypt and over all his household.

2Tim 3:10-11 You, however, have followed my teaching, my conduct, my aim in life, my faith, my patience, my love, my steadfastness, ¹¹*my persecutions and sufferings that happened to me at Antioch, at Iconium, and at Lystra—which persecutions I endured; yet from them all the Lord rescued me.*

2Tim 4:17-18 But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. So I was rescued from the lion's mouth. ¹⁸*The Lord will rescue me from every evil deed and bring me safely into his heavenly kingdom.* To him be the glory forever and ever. Amen.

The Lord had rescued Paul from physical danger (v. 17) – in fact he had done so many times (cf. 2Tim 3:11 ↑). However in light of vv. 6-8 which indicate that Paul's death was near, it appears that in v. 18 Paul is not this time referring to a physical rescue but a spiritual one – where the Lord would bring him “safely into his heavenly kingdom”.

Ps 25:22 Redeem Israel, O God, out of all his troubles.

David's plea to God to save Israel from all their troubles, implies that God is able to do so.

✦ God gives his people an abundance of salvation:

Isa 33:5-6 The LORD is exalted, for he dwells on high; he will fill Zion with justice and righteousness, and he will be the stability of your times, abundance of salvation, wisdom, and knowledge; the fear of the LORD is Zion's^r treasure.

Isa 41:11-12 Behold, all who are incensed against you shall be put to shame and confounded; those who strive against you shall be as nothing and shall perish. ¹²You shall seek those who contend with you, but you shall not find them; those who war against you shall be as nothing at all.

Mic 6:4-5 For I brought you up from the land of Egypt and redeemed you from the house of slavery, and I sent before you Moses, Aaron, and Miriam. ⁵O my people, remember what Balak king of Moab devised, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him, and what happened from Shittim to Gilgal, that you may know the saving acts of the LORD.

The people are called upon to remember how God saved them from their enemies, in taking them from slavery in Egypt to settlement in the promised land.

Luke 1:68-75 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has visited and redeemed his people ⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David, ⁷⁰as he spoke by the mouth of his holy prophets from of old, ⁷¹that we should be saved from our enemies and from the hand of all who hate us; ⁷²to show the mercy promised to our fathers and to remember his holy covenant, ⁷³the oath that he swore to our father Abraham, to grant us ⁷⁴that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies, might serve him without fear, ⁷⁵in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.

The salvation spoken of here is inclusive of both spiritual salvation and salvation from the oppression of enemies (vv. 71, 74) – which will be consummately fulfilled by the final deliverance of God's people on Jesus Christ's return.

Acts 26:16-17 But rise and stand upon your feet, for I have appeared to you for this purpose, to appoint you as a servant and witness to the things in which you have seen me and to those in which I will appear to you, ¹⁷*delivering you from your people and from the Gentiles—to whom I am sending you ...*

On delivering them, God may even honor or exalt his people

In speaking of God honoring his people after delivering them from a time of trouble, the verses below illustrate the extent of what God's salvation can comprise.

Ps 91:15 When he calls to me, I will answer him; I will be with him in trouble; I will rescue him and honor him. 📖

Ps 71:20-21 You who have made me see many troubles and calamities will revive me again; from the depths of the earth you will bring me up again. ²¹*You will increase my greatness and comfort me again.* 📖

Ps 3:2-3 ... many are saying of my soul, there is no salvation for him in God. Selah^t ³*But you, O LORD, are a shield about me, my glory, and the lifter of my head.* 📖

^t The meaning of the Hebrew word Selah, used frequently in the Psalms, is uncertain. It may be a musical or liturgical direction

The implication is that God would deliver him, bestowing glory on him.

Ps 18:35, 48 You have given me the shield of your salvation, and your right hand supported me, and your gentleness made me great. 📖 ... ⁴⁸*who delivered me from my enemies; yes, you exalted me above those who rose against me; you rescued me from the man of violence.* 📖

In v. 35b, "your gentleness made me great" appears to refer to God being prepared to "stoop down" (NIV®; cf. NCV) to make David great. In v. 48b David is quite possibly speaking of God setting him over his enemies, either in authority or greatness (cf. CEV, NCV) – hence the verse's inclusion here. However, he could instead be speaking of lifting him "beyond the reach" of his enemies (NLT; cf. GNT).

Ps 37:32-34 The wicked watches for the righteous and seeks to put him to death. ³³*The LORD will not abandon him to his power or let him be condemned when he is brought to trial.* ³⁴*Wait for the LORD and keep his way, and he will exalt you to inherit the land; you will look on when the wicked are cut off.* 📖

Note: God is the light of his people, giving them light . . .

See also:

- Mic 7:8 ↴

OT verses that speak of God giving light to his people generally use "light" to represent that which extends from God's favor, such as salvation and well-being. By such things, metaphorically speaking the darkness of one's circumstances is turned to light. (See also the comment below on Psalms 27:1.)

2Sam 22:29 For you are my lamp, O LORD, and my God lightens my darkness. 📖

Ps 27:1 The LORD is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The LORD is the stronghold^u of my life; of whom shall I be afraid? 📖

^u Or refuge

"The LORD is my light" is acknowledgment of God as the source of that which "light" represents, here salvation and well-being (cf. NSB).

Ps 84:11 For the LORD God is a sun and shield; the LORD bestows favor and honor. No good thing does he withhold from those who walk uprightly. 📖

The description of God as a "sun" is indicative of him being "our light" (NLT) – bestowing favor and honor, withholding no good thing.

Isa 10:16-17 Therefore the Lord GOD of hosts will send wasting sickness among his stout warriors, and under his glory a burning will be kindled, like the burning of fire. ¹⁷*The light of Israel will become a fire, and his Holy One a flame, and it will burn and devour his thorns and briers in one day.* 📖

Here the portrayal of God as his people's light is one of destructive power against her enemies, in contrast but complimentary to portrayals of his light shining on her in providing salvation.

Isa 60:1-3, 19-20 Arise, shine, for your light has come, and the glory of the LORD has risen upon you. ²For behold, darkness shall cover the earth, and thick darkness the peoples; but the LORD will arise upon you, and his glory will be seen upon you. ³*And nations shall come to your light, and kings to the brightness of your rising.* 📖 ... ¹⁹The sun shall be no more your light by day, nor for brightness shall the moon give you light;^v but the LORD will be your everlasting light, and your God will be your glory.^w ²⁰Your sun shall no more go down, nor your moon withdraw itself; for the LORD will be your everlasting light, and your days of mourning shall be ended.

^v Masoretic Text; Dead Sea Scroll, Septuagint, Targum add by night

^w Or your beauty

As reflected in Revelation 21:23 and 22:5 below, the ultimate fulfillment of this prophecy regarding Zion – vv. 19-20 particularly – will be in the new Jerusalem. A present day application is that this reflects that God's people experience his continued presence and the associated blessings; God's everlasting light transforms all aspects of their lives (cf. ZBC).

Ps 4:6 There are many who say, "Who will show us some good? Lift up the light of your face upon us, O LORD!"

The "light of your face" speaks of the light of God's favor in him watching over his people.

Ps 36:9 For with you is the fountain of life; in your light do we see light.

Ps 43:3 Send out your light and your truth; let them lead me; let them bring me to your holy hill and to your dwelling!

Ps 97:11 Light is sown^x for the righteous, and joy for the upright in heart.

^x Most Hebrew manuscripts; one Hebrew manuscript, Septuagint, Syriac, Jerome Light dawns

This seems to speak of light along with joy being sewn in the lives of the righteous, so as to produce significant blessing.

Ps 118:27a The LORD is God, and he has made his light to shine upon us.

Rev 21:23 And the city has no need of sun or moon to shine on it, for the glory of God gives it light, and its lamp is the Lamb.

Rev 22:5 And night will be no more. They will need no light of lamp or sun, for the Lord God will be their light, and they will reign forever and ever.

... God gives his people light even amidst darkness

In the following verses "darkness" is used as a metaphor for difficult times.

Job 29:3 ... when his lamp shone upon my head, and by his light I walked through darkness, ...

Ps 18:28 For it is you who light my lamp; the LORD my God lightens my darkness.

In saying that "it is you who light my lamp", David indicates that God brings light to his life (cf. NLT), as reflected in the second clause.

Ps 112:4 Light dawns in the darkness for the upright; he is gracious, merciful, and righteous.

Isa 42:16 And I will lead the blind in a way that they do not know, in paths that they have not known I will guide them. I will turn the darkness before them into light, the rough places into level ground. These are the things I do, and I do not forsake them.

Initially at least, this is referring to God bringing the exiles back to their homeland from Babylon. Possibly the people are called "the blind" to indicate their helplessness in the face of dark circumstances, but note that some commentators interpret it to be referring to their spiritual blindness (cf. vv. 18-19).

Isa 58:8-10 Then shall your light break forth like the dawn, and your healing shall spring up speedily; your righteousness shall go before you; the glory of the LORD shall be your rear guard. ⁹Then you shall call, and the LORD will answer; you shall cry, and he will say, 'Here I am.' If you take away the yoke from your midst, the pointing of the finger, and speaking wickedness, ¹⁰if you pour yourself out for the hungry and satisfy the desire of the afflicted, then shall your light rise in the darkness and your gloom be as the noonday.

Mic 7:8-9 Rejoice not over me, O my enemy; when I fall, I shall rise; when I sit in darkness, the LORD will be a light to me. ⁹I will bear the indignation of the LORD because I have sinned against him, until he pleads my cause and executes judgment for me. He will bring me out to the light; I shall look upon his vindication.

Ezra 9:8 But now for a brief moment favor has been shown by the LORD our God, to leave us a remnant and to give us a secure hold^y within his holy place, that our God may brighten our eyes and grant us a little reviving in our slavery.

^y Hebrew nail, or tent-pin

Ezra is referring to God arranging the return of a remnant of Jews to Jerusalem, from exile and bondage in Babylon. The phrases "brighten our eyes" and "in our slavery" reflect that God gives his people light even in the midst of darkness.

✦ The contrasting light and dark paths of the righteous and the wicked:

Prov 4:18-19 But the path of the righteous is like the light of dawn, which shines brighter and brighter until full day. ¹⁹The way of the wicked is like deep darkness; they do not know over what they stumble.

Being precise, the “path” (and “way”) refers either: to the path one chooses to take – that of righteousness with spiritual light or that of spiritual wickedness with darkness, producing either well-being or trouble; or to the path which one’s life takes as a result of righteousness or wickedness – containing light (well-being) or darkness (trouble).

In the OT (from which most of the verses in this section come), references to God redeeming his people generally speak of God saving them or setting them free from oppression. Occasionally they may involve the concept of exchanging a substitute or ransom, which is prominent in the NT usage.

Job states his conviction that God would show himself to be his Redeemer, vindicating him in the end, even if that should be after his death. Note that some commentators see this verse as pointing to Jesus Christ as “Redeemer”.

. . . God redeems his people

Neh 1:10 They are your servants and your people, whom you have redeemed by your great power and by your strong hand.

Ps 31:5 Into your hand I commit my spirit; you have redeemed me, O LORD, faithful God.

Ps 34:22 The LORD redeems the life of his servants; none of those who take refuge in him will be condemned.

Ps 71:23 My lips will shout for joy, when I sing praises to you; my soul also, which you have redeemed.

Isa 1:27 Zion shall be redeemed by justice, and those in her who repent, by righteousness.

Isa 35:9-10 No lion shall be there, nor shall any ravenous beast come up on it; they shall not be found there, but the redeemed shall walk there. ¹⁰And the ransomed of the LORD shall return and come to Zion with singing; everlasting joy shall be upon their heads; they shall obtain gladness and joy, and sorrow and sighing shall flee away.

The future renewed Israel is primarily in view here as in 62:12 below – and possibly ultimately in view in some of the other following references from Isaiah.

Isa 43:1, 3-4 But now thus says the LORD, he who created you, O Jacob, he who formed you, O Israel: “Fear not, for I have redeemed you; I have called you by name, you are mine. ... ³For I am the LORD your God, the Holy One of Israel, your Savior. I give Egypt as your ransom, Cush and Seba in exchange for you. ⁴Because you are precious in my eyes, and honored, and I love you, I give men in return for you, peoples in exchange for your life.

The second half of v. 4 is referring to what was said in v. 3, suggesting that in exchange for allowing the exiles to return home, God would allow the Persians to usurp the countries mentioned in v. 3b. As such God speaks of giving these countries to the Persians as a ransom to redeem his people.

Isa 44:22-23 I have blotted out your transgressions like a cloud and your sins like mist; return to me, for I have redeemed you. ²³Sing, O heavens, for the LORD has done it; shout, O depths of the earth; break forth into singing, O mountains, O forest, and every tree in it! For the LORD has redeemed Jacob, and will be glorified^a in Israel.

^a Or will display his beauty

Isa 52:3, 9 For thus says the LORD: “You were sold for nothing, and you shall be redeemed without money.” ... ⁹Break forth together into singing, you waste places of Jerusalem, for the LORD has comforted his people; he has redeemed Jerusalem.

Isa 62:12 And they shall be called The Holy People, The Redeemed of the LORD; and you shall be called Sought Out, A City Not Forsaken.

Isa 63:9 In all their affliction he was afflicted,^b and the angel of his presence saved them; in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; he lifted them up and carried them all the days of old.

^b Or he did not afflict

Zec 10:8 I will whistle for them and gather them in, for I have redeemed them, and they shall be as many as they were before.

Luke 1:68 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has visited and redeemed his people ...

Ps 25:22 Redeem Israel, O God, out of all his troubles.

† With God is plentiful redemption:

Ps 130:7 O Israel, hope in the LORD! For with the LORD there is steadfast love, and with him is plentiful redemption.

God redeems his people from enemies

Note that the contexts of most of the verses in the previous subsection show that they likewise have redemption from enemies in view. Some of the verses in the following subsection do too, speaking of freedom from such things as imprisonment by enemies.

Ex 6:6 Say therefore to the people of Israel, ‘I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will deliver you from slavery to them, and I will redeem you with an outstretched arm and with great acts of judgment.

Ps 106:10 So he saved them from the hand of the foe and redeemed them from the power of the enemy.

Ps 107:2-3 Let the redeemed of the LORD say so, whom he has redeemed from trouble^c ³and gathered in from the lands, from the east and from the west, from the north and from the south.

^c Or from the hand of the foe

The alternative rendering in the text note makes clear that redemption from enemies is in view (cf. AMP, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NKJV, NLT).

Isa 48:20 Go out from Babylon, flee from Chaldea, declare this with a shout of joy, proclaim it, send it out to the end of the earth; say, “The LORD has redeemed his servant Jacob!”

Jer 15:21 I will deliver you out of the hand of the wicked, and redeem you from the grasp of the ruthless.

Jer 31:11 For the LORD has ransomed Jacob and has redeemed him from hands too strong for him.

Jer 50:33-34 Thus says the LORD of hosts: The people of Israel are oppressed, and the people of Judah with them. All who took them captive have held them fast; they refuse to let them go. ³⁴*Their Redeemer is strong; the LORD of hosts is his name. He will surely plead their cause, that he may give rest to the earth, but unrest to the inhabitants of Babylon.*

Isa 9:4 For the yoke of his burden, and the staff for his shoulder, the rod of his oppressor, you have broken as on the day of Midian.

The last phrase refers to Gideon's remarkable defeat of the Midianites, through God's power, by which the Israelites were freed from Midian's oppression of them. Note that in the subsequent chapter Isaiah similarly says – in regard to the Assyrian's oppression of his people – “And in that day his burden will depart from your shoulder, and his yoke from your neck; and the yoke will be broken because of the fat.” (10:27)

This refers to God setting the Israelites free from enforced labor, their time of slavery of in Egypt.

Here the psalmist has his own anticipated deliverance partially in view.

Ps 116:16 O LORD, I am your servant; I am your servant, the son of your maidservant. You have loosed my bonds.

Ps 118:5 Out of my distress I called on the LORD; the LORD answered me and set me free.

Ps 119:32, 45 I will run in the way of your commandments when you enlarge my heart!^e  ... ⁴⁵and I shall walk in a wide place, for I have sought your precepts.

^e Or for you set my heart free

The Hebrew rendered “you enlarge my heart” (v. 32) may be referring to an increased understanding (cf. CEV, GNT, NRSV). However the rendering in the text note – “for you set my heart free” (cf. NIV) – may be preferable, making it relevant to this subsection. Verse 45 indicates that following God's teachings brings “freedom” (CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT; cf. AMP, NASB, NKJV, NRSV). Note that similarly Job 36:16 speaks of God bringing Job “out of distress into a broad place where there was no cramping ...”

Isa 14:3 When the LORD has given you rest from your pain and turmoil and the hard service with which you were made to serve, ...

Isaiah speaks of God giving his people rest from these things, effectively setting them free from such things (cf. CEV).

Isa 51:14 He who is bowed down shall speedily be released; he shall not die and go down to the pit, neither shall his bread be lacking.

Isa 61:1 The Spirit of the Lord GOD is upon me, because the LORD has anointed me to bring good news to the poor;^f he has sent me to bind up the brokenhearted, to proclaim liberty to the captives, and the opening of the prison to those who are bound;^g ...

^f Or afflicted

^g Or the opening [of the eyes] to those who are blind; Septuagint and recovery of sight to the blind

Here the work of the Messiah is primarily in view. Jesus applied vv. 1-2a to himself in Luke 4:19-20. As such it largely speaks of spiritual freedom and release.

Zec 9:11 As for you also, because of the blood of my covenant with you, I will set your prisoners free from the waterless pit.

Luke 13:10-13, 16 Now he was teaching in one of the synagogues on the Sabbath. ¹¹And there was a woman who had had a disabling spirit for eighteen years. She was bent over and could not fully straighten herself. ¹²When Jesus saw her, he called her over and said to her, “Woman, you are freed from your disability.” ¹³And he laid his hands on her, and immediately she was made straight, and she glorified God.  ... ¹⁶And ought not this woman, a daughter of Abraham whom Satan bound for eighteen years, be loosed from this bond on the Sabbath day?”

God will redeem his people from death

See also:

- Through Jesus Christ we can have eternal life as opposed to death, p. 614
- Jesus Christ saves people from the power of death, p. 615
- b) Eternal Life, p. 733

There are at least two ways in which the Bible speaks of God redeeming his people from death. One way is deliverance from premature physical death, (cf. Ps 103:4 ↓; Lam 3:58 ↓). A second way is redemption or salvation from the eternal state of death, as per the above cross references. This is most likely the sense in Psalms 49:15 below; also see Hosea 13:14 and Romans 8:21 below, and the accompanying comments.

Ps 103:2-4 Bless the LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits, ³who forgives all your iniquity, who heals all your diseases, ⁴who redeems your life from the pit, who crowns you with steadfast love and mercy, ...

Lam 3:58 You have taken up my cause, O Lord; you have redeemed my life.

Ps 49:15 But God will ransom my soul from the power of Sheol, for he will receive me. Selah

The use of "ransom" implies that redemption is in view – "redeem my soul" (NASB, NKJV; cf. NIV, NLT).

Hos 13:14 Shall I ransom them from the power of Sheol? Shall I redeem them from Death? O Death, where are your plagues? O Sheol, where is your sting? Compassion is hidden from my eyes.

Because of Israel's great sin, God is indicating here that he will not redeem them from death. However, as such it reflects that he can do so and even suggests that he will do so for those who truly are his (cf. NIV, NKJV). This assertion is supported by the fact that in 1 Corinthians 15:54-57 Paul applies the verse to the believer's victory over death through Jesus Christ.

‡ The freedom of God's people in the afterlife:

Rom 8:21 ... that the creation itself will be set free from its bondage to corruption and obtain the freedom of the glory of the children of God.

This freedom of God's children would appear to encompass freedom from decay as well as being at least applicable to freedom from sin and its consequences (notably death) – and any danger.

Note: God vindicates his people

See also:

- To vindicate God's people [reasons for God's judgment], p. 425

To vindicate someone is to clear them from blame; one could say it means to free or redeem from blame.

Ps 135:14 For the LORD will vindicate his people and have compassion on his servants.

Isa 50:7-8 But the Lord GOD helps me; therefore I have not been disgraced; therefore I have set my face like a flint, and I know that I shall not be put to shame. ⁸*He who vindicates me is near. Who will contend with me? Let us stand up together. Who is my adversary? Let him come near to me.*

Vindication of the Messiah is foremost in view here.

Jer 51:10 The LORD has brought about our vindication; come, let us declare in Zion the work of the LORD our God.

Ps 37:6 He will bring forth your righteousness as the light, and your justice as the noonday.

This most likely speaks of God causing his people's "vindication" (NRSV) to be as clear as the shining of the sun (cf. CEV).

Isa 54:17 ... no weapon that is fashioned against you shall succeed, and you shall confute every tongue that rises against you in judgment. This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD and their vindication^h from me, declares the LORD.

^h Or righteousness

Mic 7:9-10 I will bear the indignation of the LORD because I have sinned against him, until he pleads my cause and executes judgment for me. He will bring me out to the light; I shall look upon his vindication. ¹⁰*Then my enemy will see, and shame will cover her who said to me, "Where is the LORD your God?" My eyes will look upon her; now she will be trampled down like the mire of the streets.*

God vindicates his people, establishing justice for them and saving them (v. 9). As such God proves to their enemies: the validity of his people's cause; and the reality of himself as their God who cares for them as his people (v. 10).

‡ The LORD will not let the righteous be condemned when brought to trial:

Ps 37:32-33 The wicked watches for the righteous and seeks to put him to death. ³³*The LORD will not abandon him to his power or let him be condemned when he is brought to trial.*

God helps his people in need, including against enemies

Although not always specifically referred to in a number of the verses in this and the following subsection, it is help against enemies that is primarily in view in most of the verses.

1Chr 12:18 Then the Spirit clothed Amasai, chief of the thirty, and he said, "We are yours, O David, and with you, O son of Jesse! Peace, peace to you, and peace to your helpers! For your God helps you." Then David received them and made them officers of his troops.

2Chr 32:8 With him is an arm of flesh, but with us is the LORD our God, to help us and to fight our battles." And the people took confidence from the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

Ps 27:9 Hide not your face from me. Turn not your servant away in anger, O you who have been my help. Cast me not off; forsake me not, O God of my salvation!

In a prayer for help against enemies, David speaks of God's past help.

Ps 86:17 Show me a sign of your favor, that those who hate me may see and be put to shame because you, LORD, have helped me and comforted me.

David asks for "a sign of your favor" that would shame his enemies. The past tense of "helped" and "comforted" may allude to God's past help and comfort of David, or primarily reflect David's confidence that God would help and comfort him again with such goodness.

Ps 115:9-11 O Israel,ⁱ trust in the LORD! He is their help and their shield. ¹⁰O house of Aaron, trust in the LORD! He is their help and their shield. ¹¹You who fear the LORD, trust in the LORD! He is their help and their shield.

ⁱ Masoretic Text; many Hebrew manuscripts, Septuagint, Syriac O house of Israel

Ps 121:1-2 I lift up my eyes to the hills. From where does my help come? ²*My help comes from the LORD, who made heaven and earth.*

Help against enemies would appear to be at least partially in view here (cf. v. 7).

Ps 124:8 Our help is in the name of the LORD, who made heaven and earth.

The "name" of the LORD denotes his presence, here with the implication that all his wondrous attributes are on hand to help his people.

Luke 1:54-55 He has helped his servant Israel, in remembrance of his mercy, ⁵⁵as he spoke to our fathers, to Abraham and to his offspring forever.

Heb 13:6 So we can confidently say, "The Lord is my helper; I will not fear; what can man do to me?"

Deut 33:26 There is none like God, O Jeshurun, who rides through the heavens to your help, through the skies in his majesty.

Not only does God help his people, there is no one like him, who can help like he can.

God consistently helps his people in need

Ps 46:1 God is our refuge and strength, a very presentⁱ help in trouble.

ⁱ Or well proved

Acts 26:21-22 For this reason the Jews seized me in the temple and tried to kill me. ²²*To this day I have had the help that comes from God,* and so I stand here testifying both to small and great, saying nothing but what the prophets and Moses said would come to pass: ...

1Sam 7:12-13 Then Samuel took a stone and set it up between Mizpah and Shen^k and *called its name Ebenezer;*¹ for he said, "Till now the LORD has helped us." ¹³So the Philistines were subdued and did not again enter the territory of Israel. And the hand of the LORD was against the Philistines all the days of Samuel.

^k Hebrew; Septuagint, Syriac Jeshanah

¹ Ebenezer means stone of help

Samuel set up a type of monument and called it "Ebenezer" (v. 12), which as the text note states means "stone of help". He did this as an acknowledgment that up to that point in time God had helped the Israelites "every step of the way" (NirV®; cf. GNT). Following this occasion God continued to help the Israelites against the Philistines, doing so all throughout Samuel's lifetime (v. 13b).

Note the alternative renderings in the text note.

Verses regarding God's help in physical warfare/adversity are readily applicable to spiritual warfare and dealing with various kinds of adversaries and opposition.

2Chr 18:31-32 As soon as the captains of the chariots saw Jehoshaphat, they said, "It is the king of Israel." So *they turned to fight against him. This is from one of Isaiah's servant songs, and so is ultimately referring to the Messiah.

2Chr 26:6-7 He went out and made war against the Philistines and broke through the wall of Gath and the wall of Jabneh and the wall of Ashdod, and he built cities in the territory of Ashdod and elsewhere among the Philistines. ⁷God helped him against the Philistines and against the Arabians who lived in Gurbaal and against the Meunites.

The “wall” (v. 29) would most likely be a wall of his enemies, presumably for their defenses (cf. GNT), perhaps a city wall (cf. CEV).

Note that the references below from Exodus 14 and 2 Chronicles 20 speak of God defeating Israel's enemies without the Israelites even having to fight. Most of the other references speak of God fighting with the Israelites, to enable them to be victorious over their enemies.

Ex 14:13-14, 23-28 And Moses said to the people, “Fear not, stand firm, and see the salvation of the LORD, which he will work for you today. For the Egyptians whom you see today, you shall never see again. ¹⁴The LORD will fight for you, and you have only to be silent.” ... ²³The Egyptians pursued and went in after them into the midst of the sea, all Pharaoh's horses, his chariots, and his horsemen. ²⁴And in the morning watch the LORD in the pillar of fire and of cloud looked down on the Egyptian forces and threw the Egyptian forces into a panic, ²⁵clogging^t their chariot wheels so that they drove heavily. And the Egyptians said, “Let us flee from before Israel, for the LORD fights for them against the Egyptians.” ²⁶Then the LORD said to Moses, “Stretch out your hand over the sea, that the water may come back upon the Egyptians, upon their chariots, and upon their horsemen.” ²⁷So Moses stretched out his hand over the sea, and the sea returned to its normal course when the morning appeared. And as the Egyptians fled into it, the LORD threw^u the Egyptians into the midst of the sea. ²⁸The waters returned and covered the chariots and the horsemen; of all the host of Pharaoh that had followed them into the sea, not one of them remained.

Judg 4:14-16 And Deborah said to Barak, "Up! For this is the day in which the LORD has given Sisera into your hand. Does not the LORD go out before you?" So Barak went down from Mount Tabor with 10,000 men following him. ¹⁵And the LORD routed Sisera and all his chariots and all his army before Barak by the edge of the sword. And Sisera got down from his chariot and fled away on foot. ¹⁶And Barak pursued the chariots and the army to Harosheth-hagoyim, and all the army of Sisera fell by the edge of the sword; not a man was left.

In saying that the LORD had gone out before them (v. 15; cf. 1Chr 14:15 ↓), Deborah spoke of the LORD "marching ahead" (NLT) of the Israelites, leading them in the attack, to route their enemies at their advance (v. 16).

2Sam 8:14 Then he put garrisons in Edom; throughout all Edom he put garrisons, and all the Edomites became David's servants. And the LORD gave victory to David wherever he went.

1Chr 14:15-16 And when you hear the sound of marching in the tops of the balsam trees, then go out to battle, for God has gone out before you to strike down the army of the Philistines. ¹⁶And David did as God commanded him, and they struck down the Philistine army from Gibeon to Gezer.

2Chr 20:15, 17, 22, 29 And he said, "Listen, all Judah and inhabitants of Jerusalem and King Jehoshaphat: Thus says the LORD to you, 'Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed at this great horde, for the battle is not yours but God's.' ... ¹⁷*You will not need to fight in this battle.* Stand firm, hold your position, and see the salvation of the LORD on your behalf, O Judah and Jerusalem.' Do not be afraid and do not be dismayed. Tomorrow go out against them, and the LORD will be with you."  ... ²²And when they began to sing and praise, the LORD set an ambush against the men of Ammon, Moab, and Mount Seir, who had come against Judah, so that they were routed.  ... ²⁹And the fear of God came on all the kingdoms of the countries when they heard that the LORD had fought against the enemies of Israel.

Note that the "ambush" (v. 22) appears to have involved the enemy forces destroying each other (cf. v. 23), seemingly in confusion orchestrated by God.

2Chr 32:8 With him is an arm of flesh, but with us is the LORD our God, to help us and to fight our battles." And the people took confidence from the words of Hezekiah king of Judah.

Neh 4:20 In the place where you hear the sound of the trumpet, rally to us there. Our God will fight for us.

Here Nehemiah gives his strategy should his people be attacked while rebuilding Jerusalem's walls. He confidently asserts that if they are attacked God would fight for them.

Ps 60:12 With God we shall do valiantly; it is he who will tread down our foes.

Ex 17:15 And Moses built an altar and called the name of it, The LORD Is My Banner, ...

God is his people's banner amidst the battle – the base or source of victory. As such the title "The LORD Is My Banner" effectively means: "The Lord Gives Me Victory." (CEV)

... as God fought for the Israelites in their conquest of Canaan

Deut 9:1-3 Hear, O Israel: you are to cross over the Jordan today, to go in to dispossess nations greater and mightier than yourselves, cities great and fortified up to heaven, ²a people great and tall, the sons of the Anakim, whom you know, and of whom you have heard it said, 'Who can stand before the sons of Anak?' ³*Know therefore today that he who goes over before you as a consuming fire is the LORD your God. He will destroy them and subdue them before you. So you shall drive them out and make them perish quickly, as the LORD has promised you.*

Deut 20:4 ... for the LORD your God is he who goes with you to fight for you against your enemies, to give you the victory.

Josh 10:10-14 And the LORD threw them into a panic before Israel, who^v struck them with a great blow at Gibeon and chased them by the way of the ascent of Beth-horon and struck them as far as Azekah and Makkedah. ¹¹And as they fled before Israel, while they were going down the ascent of Beth-horon, the LORD threw down large stones from heaven on them as far as Azekah, and they died. There were more who died because of the hailstones than the sons of Israel killed with the sword. ¹²*At that time Joshua spoke to the LORD in the day when the LORD gave the Amorites over to the sons of Israel, and he said in the sight of Israel, "Sun, stand still at Gibeon, and moon, in the Valley of Aijalon."* ¹³And the sun stood still, and the moon stopped, until the nation took vengeance on their enemies. Is this not written in the Book of Jashar? The sun stopped in the midst of heaven and did not hurry to set for about a whole day. ¹⁴There has been no day like it before or since, when the LORD heeded the voice of a man, for the LORD fought for Israel.

^v Or and he

There are many explanations of what is being described in vv. 12-13, such as a solar eclipse occurring or that the phrase “stood still” may in fact mean “stopped shining”. But most commentators understand it to literally mean that the sun’s position in relation to the earth did not change for about a day.

Josh 10:42 And Joshua captured all these kings and their land at one time, because the LORD God of Israel fought for Israel.

Josh 23:3-5, 10 And you have seen all that the LORD your God has done to all these nations for your sake, for it is the LORD your God who has fought for you. ⁴Behold, I have allotted to you as an inheritance for your tribes those nations that remain, along with all the nations that I have already cut off, from the Jordan to the Great Sea in the west. ⁵*The LORD your God will push them back before you and drive them out of your sight.* And you shall possess their land, just as the LORD your God promised you.  ... ¹⁰*One man of you puts to flight a thousand, since it is the LORD your God who fights for you, just as he promised you.*

Ps 44:3-7 ... for not by their own sword did they win the land, nor did their own arm save them, but your right hand and your arm, and the light of your face, for you delighted in them. ⁴You are my King, O God; ordain salvation for Jacob! ⁵*Through you we push down our foes; through your name we tread down those who rise up against us.* ⁶For not in my bow do I trust, nor can my sword save me. ⁷*But you have saved us from our foes and have put to shame those who hate us.*

The psalmist parallels God giving the Israelites victory in their conquest of Canaan (v. 3) with his own experience of – and/or belief in – God giving the people victory in his own lifetime (vv. 4-7).

God enables his people to overcome all that is in the world, including Satan

Rom 8:31, 35, 37 What then shall we say to these things? If God is for us, who can be^w against us?  ... ³⁵*Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or danger, or sword?*  ... ³⁷*No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us.*

^w Or who is

Verse 31b implies that if God is for us then no one can effectively oppose us. In all adversity we are more than conquerors through Christ (v. 37; cf. CEV, NIRV, NLT).

Luke 10:19-20 Behold, I have given you authority to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall hurt you. ²⁰Nevertheless, do not rejoice in this, that the spirits are subject to you, but rejoice that your names are written in heaven.

Here “serpents and scorpions” (v. 19) most likely is a reference to evil spirits (v. 20). The “enemy” is Satan (cf. CEV). There is disagreement among commentators as to what degree this authority – given here to the disciples – is given to believers generally.

1Jn 2:14 I write to you, fathers, because you know him who is from the beginning. I write to you, young men, because you are strong, and the word of God abides in you, and you have overcome the evil one.

The reference to the word of God living in these believers implies that it played a significant role in them overcoming Satan. As such this points to God enabling his people to overcome Satan.

1Jn 4:4 Little children, you are from God and have overcome them, for he who is in you is greater than he who is in the world.

This speaks of overcoming false prophets, who are ultimately inspired by “the spirit of the antichrist” (v. 3). The one “who is in you” is most likely referring to the Holy Spirit, but it could be referring to God or Jesus Christ. The one “who is in the world” refers to Satan.

1Jn 5:3-5 For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments. And his commandments are not burdensome. ⁴For everyone who has been born of God overcomes the world. And this is the victory that has overcome the world—our faith. ⁵Who is it that overcomes the world except the one who believes that Jesus is the Son of God?

To “overcome the world” means to rise above its sinful way of life. This victory is our faith (v. 4), or won through our faith, which is essentially believing that Jesus is the Son of God (v. 5) and acting accordingly.

Rev 12:10-11 And I heard a loud voice in heaven, saying, “Now the salvation and the power and the kingdom of our God and the authority of his Christ have come, for the accuser of our brothers^x has been thrown down, who accuses them day and night before our God. ¹¹And they have conquered him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, for they loved not their lives even unto death.

^x Or brothers and sisters

This appears to be saying that these believers overcame Satan by their belief in and testimony to Jesus Christ's death and its significance. As such it is applicable to all believers in their conflict with Satan.

Ps 91:13 You will tread on the lion and the adder; the young lion and the serpent you will trample underfoot.

The lions and snakes (cf. Luke 10:19 ↑) denote dangers or foes, possibly implying both powerful ones (the lions) and insidious ones (the snakes). As such they are applicable to both physical and spiritual enemies.

Isa 54:15, 17 If anyone stirs up strife, it is not from me; whoever stirs up strife with you shall fall because of you.  ... ¹⁷*no weapon that is fashioned against you shall succeed, and you shall confute every tongue that rises against you in judgment.* This is the heritage of the servants of the LORD and their vindication^y from me, declares the LORD.

^y Or righteousness

These promises are made to Jerusalem in its time of future renewal.

✦ Despite trouble, God's people have peace in Jesus Christ – who has overcome the world:

John 16:33 I have said these things to you, that in me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation. But take heart; I have overcome the world.

Although the world causes his followers trouble, in him – the one who has overcome the world – they have peace amidst the trouble.

Ps 116:6, 8 The LORD preserves the simple; when I was brought low, he saved me.  ... ⁸*For you have delivered my soul from death, my eyes from tears, my feet from stumbling; ...*

The deliverance spoken may well have been from enemies (cf. v. 11).

Ps 129:1-4 "Greatly^z have they afflicted me from my youth"— let Israel now say— ²"Greatly have they afflicted me from my youth, yet they have not prevailed against me. ³The plowers plowed upon my back; they made long their furrows." ⁴The LORD is righteous; he has cut the cords of the wicked.

Isa 63:9 In all their affliction he was afflicted,^a and the angel of his presence saved them; in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; he lifted them up and carried them all the days of old.

This is probably speaking of the Israelite's deliverance from the Egyptians.

Acts 12:11 When Peter came to himself, he said, "Now I am sure that the Lord has sent his angel and rescued me from the hand of Herod and from all that the Jewish people were expecting."

2Cor 1:10 He delivered us from such a deadly peril, and he will deliver us. On him we have set our hope that he will deliver us again.

It is not known to what "deadly peril" Paul was referring; enemies are certainly a strong possibility.

God's saving of his people makes known his salvation to the nations

Note that throughout the following subsections there are a number of verses which speak of God's saving of his people making known to the nations either God or various things about him (e.g. 1Ki 8:59-60 ↕; 2Ki 19:19, 35 ↕; 1Sam 17:46 ↕).

Ps 98:1-3 Oh sing to the LORD a new song, for he has done marvelous things! His right hand and his holy arm have worked salvation for him. ²*The LORD has made known his* salvation; he has revealed his righteousness in the sight of the nations. ³He has remembered his steadfast love and faithfulness to the house of Israel. All the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

God's working of salvation for his people is referred to in each of these three verses.

Isa 52:9-10 Break forth together into singing, you waste places of Jerusalem, for the LORD has comforted his people; he has redeemed Jerusalem. ¹⁰*The LORD has bared his holy arm before the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.*

This speaks of future deliverance for Jerusalem, in which God would demonstrate his holy power, causing all nations to see his salvation (v. 10).

Isa 49:26 I will make your oppressors eat their own flesh, and they shall be drunk with their own blood as with wine. Then all flesh shall know that I am the LORD your Savior, and your Redeemer, the Mighty One of Jacob.

In conjunction with making known his salvation, by saving his people God makes known to all nations that he is the Savior of his people.

Psa 67:1-2 May God be gracious to us and bless us and make his face to shine upon us, Selah ²*that your way may be known on earth, your saving power among all nations.*

The reference to God's "saving power" in v. 2, suggests that the request for God's favor in v. 1 has his saving of his people at least partially in view. Thus his "way" (v. 2) that such favor to his people would make known throughout the earth would include his salvation. This is also implied by his "saving power" being spoken of in conjunction with his "way".

✦ All nations will see God's salvation in Jesus Christ:

Luke 3:6 ... and all flesh shall see the salvation of God.

This verse quotes from Isaiah 40:5, applying it to the salvation that would come through Jesus Christ.

- . . . God's judgment makes known that he is the LORD, p. 436

Ex 6:6-7 Say therefore to the people of Israel, 'I am the LORD, and I will bring you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians, and I will deliver you from slavery to them, and I will redeem you with an outstretched arm and with great acts of judgment. ⁷*I will take you to be my people, and I will be your God, and you shall know that I am the LORD your God, who has brought you out from under the burdens of the Egyptians.*

By redeeming Israel out of Egypt with mighty acts (v. 6) and taking them as his own (v. 7a), Israel would know that he was the LORD their God (v. 7b). Deuteronomy 4:34-35 below has similar teaching.

Deut 4:32-35 For ask now of the days that are past, which were before you, since the day that God created man on the earth, and ask from one end of heaven to the other, whether such a great thing as this has ever happened or was ever heard of. ³³*Did any people ever hear the voice of a god speaking out of the midst of the fire, as you have heard, and still live?* ³⁴*Or has any god ever attempted to go and take a nation for himself from the midst of another nation, by trials, by signs, by wonders, and by war, by a mighty hand and an outstretched arm, and by great deeds of terror, all of which the LORD your God did for you in Egypt before your eyes?* ³⁵*To you it was shown, that you might know that the LORD is God; there is no other besides him.*

1Ki 20:13, 21, 28-30a And behold, a prophet came near to Ahab king of Israel and said, "Thus says the LORD, Have you seen all this great multitude? Behold, I will give it into your hand this day, and you shall know that I am the LORD."  ... ²¹*And the king of Israel went out and struck the horses and chariots, and struck the Syrians with a great blow.*  ... ²⁸And a man of God came near and said to the king of Israel, "Thus says the LORD, 'Because the Syrians have said, "The LORD is a god of the hills but he is not a god of the valleys," therefore I will give all this great multitude into your hand, and you shall know that I am the LORD.'" ²⁹And they encamped opposite one another seven days. Then on the seventh day the battle was joined. And the people of Israel struck down of the Syrians 100,000 foot soldiers in one day. ³⁰*And the rest fled into the city of Aphek, and the wall fell upon 27,000 men who were left.*

Ezek 28:24 And for the house of Israel there shall be no more a brier to prick or a thorn to hurt them among all their neighbors who have treated them with contempt. Then they will know that I am the Lord GOD.

1Ki 8:59-60 Let these words of mine, with which I have pleaded before the LORD, be near to the LORD our God day and night, and may he maintain the cause of his servant and the cause of his people Israel, as each day requires, ⁶⁰that all the peoples of the earth may know that the LORD is God; there is no other.

Solomon's request encompassed God saving Israel from her enemies.

2Ki 19:19, 35-36 So now, O LORD our God, save us, please, from his hand, that all the kingdoms of the earth may know that you, O LORD, are God alone."  ... ³⁵And that night the angel of the LORD went out and struck down 185,000 in the camp of the Assyrians. And when people arose early in the morning, behold, these were all dead bodies. ³⁶Then Sennacherib king of Assyria departed and went home and lived at Nineveh.

2Chr 33:11-13 Therefore the LORD brought upon them the commanders of the army of the king of Assyria, who captured Manasseh with hooks and bound him with chains of bronze and brought him to Babylon. ¹²And when he was in distress, he entreated the favor of the LORD his God and humbled himself greatly before the God of his fathers. ¹³He prayed to him, and God was moved by his entreaty and heard his plea and brought him again to Jerusalem into his kingdom. Then Manasseh knew that the LORD was God.

Isa 43:12 I declared and saved and proclaimed, when there was no strange god among you; and you are my witnesses," declares the LORD, "and I am God.

The fulfillment of God's declaration of what was to come and his salvation would affirm that he is "the only God" (NLT; cf. AMP, NIV).

Joel 2:26-27 You shall eat in plenty and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God, who has dealt wondrously with you. And my people shall never again be put to shame. ²⁷You shall know that I am in the midst of Israel, and that I am the LORD your God and there is none else. And my people shall never again be put to shame.

✦ Israel's defeat of the Philistines would make known to the whole world that there was a God in Israel:

1Sam 17:46 This day the LORD will deliver you into my hand, and I will strike you down and cut off your head. And I will give the dead bodies of the host of the Philistines this day to the birds of the air and to the wild beasts of the earth, that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel, ...

God's saving of his people reveals God's great power

Ex 14:30-31 Thus the LORD saved Israel that day from the hand of the Egyptians, and Israel saw the Egyptians dead on the seashore. ³¹Israel saw the great power that the LORD used against the Egyptians, so the people feared the LORD, and they believed in the LORD and in his servant Moses.

Ps 67:1-2 May God be gracious to us and bless us and make his face to shine upon us, Selah ²that your way may be known on earth, your saving power among all nations.

Ps 106:8 Yet he saved them for his name's sake, that he might make known his mighty power.

Jer 32:20-21 You have shown signs and wonders in the land of Egypt, and to this day in Israel and among all mankind, and have made a name for yourself, as at this day. ²¹You brought your people Israel out of the land of Egypt with signs and wonders, with a strong hand and outstretched arm, and with great terror.

God had gained renown among all nations for the powerful "signs and wonders" he had performed, notably in saving his people out of Egypt.

Isa 52:9-10 Break forth together into singing, you waste places of Jerusalem, for the LORD has comforted his people; he has redeemed Jerusalem. ¹⁰The LORD has bared his holy arm before the eyes of all the nations, and all the ends of the earth shall see the salvation of our God.

This speaks of God's coming salvation of Jerusalem. The term "his holy arm" (v. 10) refers to God's holy power, here revealed in his salvation.

Ex 34:10 And he said, "Behold, I am making a covenant. Before all your people I will do marvels, such as have not been created in all the earth or in any nation. And all the people among whom you are shall see the work of the LORD, for it is an awesome thing that I will do with you.

The reference appears to be primarily to driving out enemy nations before Israel in the Promised Land (vv. 11), in a sense saving his people from them – and demonstrating his awesome power.

1Sam 17:46-47, 50-52 *This day the LORD will deliver you into my hand, and I will strike you down and cut off your head. And I will give the dead bodies of the host of the Philistines this day to the birds of the air and to the wild beasts of the earth, that all the earth may know that there is a God in Israel,*⁴⁷ and that all this assembly may know that the LORD saves not with sword and spear. For the battle is the LORD's, and he will give you into our hand."  ...⁵⁰*So David prevailed over the Philistine with a sling and with a stone, and struck the Philistine and killed him. There was no sword in the hand of David.* ⁵¹*Then David ran and stood over the Philistine and took his sword and drew it out of its sheath and killed him and cut off his head with it. When the Philistines saw that their champion was dead, they fled.* ⁵²*And the men of Israel and Judah rose with a shout and pursued the Philistines as far as Gath^b and the gates of Ekron, so that the wounded Philistines fell on the way from Shaaraim as far as Gath and Ekron.*

^b Septuagint; Hebrew Gai

All those gathered would realize that it is not by human power that God saves (vv. 47, 50b), but by rather his own mighty power, as implied in v. 47 and subsequently demonstrated in vv. 50-52.

✦ God's restoration of his people made known among the nations that he has done great things for them:

Ps 126:1-2 When the LORD restored the fortunes of Zion, we were like those who dream. ²*Then our mouth was filled with laughter, and our tongue with shouts of joy; then they said among the nations, "The LORD has done great things for them."*

God's saving of his people reveals God's glory

Ex 16:6-8 So Moses and Aaron said to all the people of Israel, "At evening you shall know that it was the LORD who brought you out of the land of Egypt,⁷ and in the morning you shall see the glory of the LORD, because he has heard your grumbling against the LORD. For what are we, that you grumble against us?" ⁸And Moses said, "When the LORD gives you in the evening meat to eat and in the morning bread to the full, because the LORD has heard your grumbling that you grumble against him—what are we? Your grumbling is not against us but against the LORD."

God would miraculously provide meat and bread for the Israelites in the desert (v. 8) – saving them from perishing – thereby displaying his glory (v. 7). It would also underline the fact that it was he who had delivered them out of Egypt (v. 6).

Ps 57:3, 5 He will send from heaven and save me; he will put to shame him who tramples on me. Selah God will send out his steadfast love and his faithfulness!  ... ⁵*Be exalted, O God, above the heavens! Let your glory be over all the earth!*

In v. 5 David appears to be meaning that God's glory would be made apparent throughout the earth by God's deliverance of him from powerful enemies (v. 3).

Ps 85:9 Surely his salvation is near to those who fear him, that glory may dwell in our land.

The verse may mean that on accomplishing their salvation, God's glorious presence – God himself – would remain with his people in the land (cf. GNT). Alternatively, or additionally, it could be speaking of God's glory being displayed by effecting his people's salvation. As such the verse would pertain to the theme of this subsection.

Isa 40:3-5 A voice cries:^c "In the wilderness prepare the way of the LORD; make straight in the desert a highway for our God. Every valley shall be lifted up, and every mountain and hill be made low; the uneven ground shall become level, and the rough places a plain. ⁵*And the glory of the LORD shall be revealed, and all flesh shall see it together*, for the mouth of the LORD has spoken."

^c Or A voice of one crying

This initially refers to God's deliverance of the Jews from captivity in Babylon, with vv. 3-4 speaking of the preparation for God's way in which his people would return. It is also understood to apply to God's redemption that would come through Jesus Christ (cf. Luke 3:4-6).

Isa 44:23 Sing, O heavens, for the LORD has done it; shout, O depths of the earth; break forth into singing, O mountains, O forest, and every tree in it! For the LORD has redeemed Jacob, and will be glorified^d in Israel.

^d Or will display his beauty

The latter part of the verse may well speak of God displaying his glory by his redemption of Israel (cf. NASB, NCV, NIV).

✦ What God has done for believers through Jesus Christ, is to the praise of his glory:

Eph 1:11-14 In him we have obtained an inheritance, having been predestined according to the purpose of him who works all things according to the counsel of his will,¹²so that we who were the first to hope in Christ might be to the praise of his glory.¹³In him you also, when you heard the word of truth, the gospel of your salvation, and believed in him, were sealed with the promised Holy Spirit,¹⁴who is the guarantee^e of our inheritance until we acquire possession of it,^f to the praise of his glory.

^e Or down payment

^f Or until God redeems his possession

The fact that what God has done for believers through Jesus Christ is for "the praise of his glory" (vv. 12b, 14b) indicates that what he has done exhibits or reflects his glory. Note that the final clause (v. 14b) may have in view God sealing believers with the Holy Spirit (v. 13b), as well as them acquiring their inheritance (v. 14a), being "to the praise of his glory".

God's saving of his people evidences God's love and faithfulness

- . . . and God shows his love for his people in protecting them, p. 818
- God shows his faithfulness in helping and blessing his people, p. 822

Most of the following verses do not specifically say that God's saving of his people actually shows his love and faithfulness, but they do at least correlate it with one or both of these characteristics.

Ps 17:7 Wondrously show^g your steadfast love, O Savior of those who seek refuge from their adversaries at your right hand.

^g Or Distinguish me by

Ps 40:10 I have not hidden your deliverance within my heart; I have spoken of your faithfulness and your salvation; I have not concealed your steadfast love and your faithfulness from the great congregation.

The psalmist asserts that he tells others of God's salvation, along with God's faithfulness and love, as manifested in his salvation.

Ps 57:3 He will send from heaven and save me; he will put to shame him who tramples on me. Selah God will send out his steadfast love and his faithfulness!

Ps 98:3 He has remembered his steadfast love and faithfulness to the house of Israel. All the ends of the earth have seen the salvation of our God.

Zec 8:7-8 Thus says the LORD of hosts: behold, I will save my people from the east country and from the west country,⁸and I will bring them to dwell in the midst of Jerusalem. And they shall be my people, and I will be their God, in faithfulness and in righteousness.

✦ God's saving of his people is indicative of his mercy:

Hos 1:7 But I will have mercy on the house of Judah, and I will save them by the LORD their God. I will not save them by bow or by sword or by war or by horses or by horsemen.

God's saving of his people shows God's holiness and righteousness . . .

See also:

- Zec 8:7-8
- God's judgment reveals his holiness, p. 437

Note that God's saving of his people shows God's holiness in part at least in that it demonstrates his faithfulness to them and his righteousness.

Ezek 28:25 Thus says the Lord GOD: When I gather the house of Israel from the peoples among whom they are scattered, and manifest my holiness in them in the sight of the nations, then they shall dwell in their own land that I gave to my servant Jacob.

This likely means that God would manifest his holiness in his people by gathering from the nations (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV), i.e. by rescuing them from exile.

Ezek 39:27 ...when I have brought them back from the peoples and gathered them from their enemies' lands, and through them have vindicated my holiness in the sight of many nations.

Ps 98:1-2 Oh sing to the LORD a new song, for he has done marvelous things! His right hand and his holy arm have worked salvation for him.²The LORD has made known his salvation; he has revealed his righteousness in the sight of the nations.

1Sam 12:7-8, 11 Now therefore stand still that I may plead with you before the LORD concerning all the righteous deeds of the LORD that he performed for you and for your fathers.⁸When Jacob went into Egypt, and the Egyptians oppressed them,^h then your fathers cried out to the LORD and the LORD sent Moses and Aaron, who brought your fathers out of Egypt and made them dwell in this place. ...¹¹And the LORD sent Jerubbaal and Barakⁱ and Jephthah and Samuel and delivered you out of the hand of your enemies on every side, and you lived in safety.

^h Septuagint; Hebrew lacks and the Egyptians oppressed them

ⁱ Septuagint, Syriac; Hebrew Bedan

The reference to God's acts of salvation (vv. 8, 11) as his "righteous deeds" (v. 7) implies that they show his righteousness.

Ps 65:5 By awesome deeds you answer us with righteousness, O God of our salvation, the hope of all the ends of the earth and of the farthest seas; ...

Ps 129:4 The LORD is righteous; he has cut the cords of the wicked.

. . . God's righteousness is closely associated with his salvation

God's righteousness is often associated even correlated with his salvation, for in bringing salvation God is doing what is right; his salvation is a product of his righteousness.

Isa 51:5-6, 8 My righteousness draws near, my salvation has gone out, and my arms will judge the peoples; the coastlands hope for me, and for my arm they wait. ⁶Lift up your eyes to the heavens, and look at the earth beneath; for the heavens vanish like smoke, the earth will wear out like a garment, and they who dwell in it will die in like manner;^j but my salvation will be forever, and my righteousness will never be dismayed. ...⁸For the moth will eat them up like a garment, and the worm will eat them like wool; but my righteousness will be forever, and my salvation to all generations.

^j Or will die like gnats

Isa 59:16-17 He saw that there was no man, and wondered that there was no one to intercede; then his own arm brought him salvation, and his righteousness upheld him. ¹⁷*He put on righteousness as a breastplate, and a helmet of salvation on his head; he put on garments of vengeance for clothing, and wrapped himself in zeal as a cloak.*

The clause "his righteousness upheld him" (v. 16b) may speak of God's righteousness spurring him on, in affecting salvation.

Ps 71:15 My mouth will tell of your righteous acts, of your deeds of salvation all the day, for their number is past my knowledge.

Isa 1:27 Zion shall be redeemed by justice, and those in her who repent, by righteousness.

This may be meaning that God in his justice and righteousness will redeem the people of Jerusalem (cf. GNT, NLT), hence its inclusion here. Alternatively it may mean that God will redeem the people when they themselves repent and then act justly and righteously (cf. AMP, CEV, NCV, NIV).

Isa 63:1 Who is this who comes from Edom, in crimsoned garments from Bozrah, he who is splendid in his apparel, marching in the greatness of his strength? "It is I, speaking in righteousness, mighty to save."

Isa 45:8 Shower, O heavens, from above, and let the clouds rain down righteousness; let the earth open, that salvation and righteousness may bear fruit; let the earth cause them both to sprout; I the LORD have created it.

The last clause indicates that such salvation and righteousness is produced on earth by God.

Isa 46:13 I bring near my righteousness; it is not far off, and my salvation will not delay; I will put salvation in Zion, for Israel my glory.

II. God's Preservation of His People

As with verses which speak of God's saving of his people, verses which speak of God's preservation of his people are amongst the best-loved verses in the Bible. They contain some of the Bible's great promises, which reassure us when we wonder if God has "lost our address". As such they provide good reason for God's people to trust in him and be at peace.

a) God Meets His People's Needs

Subsections

- God cares for his people
- God sustains his people
- God meets his people's physical needs . . .
- . . . God satisfies his people's physical needs
- God meets their physical needs even in harsh circumstances . . .
- . . . Further specific examples
- God satisfies his people's spiritual hunger and thirst
- God will provide for all his people's needs – they will not lack anything
- Note: God is his people's portion

God cares for his people

Note that this subsection points to the overall theme of this chapter. As such it is reflected in and pertinent to the whole chapter.

Deut 32:10-12 He found him in a desert land, and in the howling waste of the wilderness; he encircled him [Israel], he cared for him, he kept him as the apple of his eye. ¹¹*Like an eagle that stirs up its nest, that flutters over its young, spreading out its wings, catching them, bearing them on its pinions,* ¹²*the Lord alone guided him,* no foreign god was with him.

The reference is to the Israelites as a whole.

1Sam 25:29a If men rise up to pursue you and to seek your life, the life of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of the living in the care of the LORD your God.

Job 10:12 You have granted me life and steadfast love, and your care has preserved my spirit.

Zec 10:3 My anger is hot against the shepherds, and I will punish the leaders;^a for the LORD of hosts cares for his flock, the house of Judah, and will make them like his majestic steed in battle.

^a Hebrew the male goats

1Pet 5:6-7 Humble yourselves, therefore, under the mighty hand of God so that at the proper time he may exalt you, ⁷*casting all your anxieties on him, because he cares for you.*

In contrast to the above verses, Peter is talking about God caring about his people (cf. NCV, NLT, NirV) rather than actually taking care of them. However the latter is implied (cf. AMP).

Hos 13:5 It was I who knew you in the wilderness, in the land of drought; ...

This indicates that God "cared for" (NASB, NCV, NIV; cf. CEV, GNT, NLT) Israel, during her desert ordeal.

Hos 14:8 O Ephraim, what have I to do with idols? It is I who answer and look after you.^b I am like an evergreen cypress; from me comes your fruit.

^b Hebrew him

Zeph 2:7 The seacoast shall become the possession of the remnant of the house of Judah, on which they shall graze, and in the houses of Ashkelon they shall lie down at evening. For the LORD their God will be mindful of them and restore their fortunes.

The suggestion is that "God will care for them" (NASB, NIV).

God sustains his people

Neh 9:21 Forty years you sustained them in the wilderness, and they lacked nothing. Their clothes did not wear out and their feet did not swell.

Ps 3:5 I lay down and slept; I woke again, for the LORD sustained me.

Ps 41:3 The LORD sustains him on his sickbed; in his illness you restore him to full health.^c

^c Hebrew you turn all his bed

The reference is to "one who considers the poor" (v. 1).

Ps 55:22 Cast your burden on the LORD, and he will sustain you; he will never permit the righteous to be moved.

Isa 50:4 The Lord GOD has given me the tongue of those who are taught, that I may know how to sustain with a word him who is weary. Morning by morning he awakens; he awakens my ear to hear as those who are taught.

The words of this prophecy are attributed to the Messiah. As such it indicates that Jesus Christ sustains God's people.

1Cor 1:7b-8 ... as you wait for the revealing of our Lord Jesus Christ, ⁸*who will sustain you to the end*, guiltless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.

God meets his people's physical needs . . .

1Tim 6:17 As for the rich in this present age, charge them not to be haughty, nor to set their hopes on the uncertainty of riches, but on God, who richly provides us with everything to enjoy.

It can be inferred from the final clause that God provides us with everything we need (cf. CEV, NLT) and more, with physical needs being primarily in view here.

Deut 8:10 And you shall eat and be full, and you shall bless the LORD your God for the good land he has given you.

Such promises are characteristic of God's covenant with Israel.

Deut 11:15 And he will give grass in your fields for your livestock, and you shall eat and be full.

Deut 32:13-14 He made him ride on the high places of the land, and he ate the produce of the field, and he suckled him with honey out of the rock, and oil out of the flinty rock. ¹⁴*Curds from the herd, and milk from the flock, with fat^d of lambs, rams of Bashan and goats, with the very finest^e of the wheat— and you drank foaming wine made from the blood of the grape*.

^d That is, with the best

^e Hebrew with the kidney fat

The "honey out of the rock" (v. 13b) refers to honey being found in cracks in rocks and in between rocks. The subsequent phrase, the "oil out of the flinty rock", speaks of olive trees growing in rocky soil (cf. CEV, GNT, NlrV).

Neh 9:25 And they captured fortified cities and a rich land, and took possession of houses full of all good things, cisterns already hewn, vineyards, olive orchards and fruit trees in abundance. So they ate and were filled and became fat and delighted themselves in your great goodness.

Ps 37:25 I have been young, and now am old, yet I have not seen the righteous forsaken or his children begging for bread.

Ps 81:10 I am the LORD your God, who brought you up out of the land of Egypt. Open your mouth wide, and I will fill it.

The people are encouraged to look to God to fulfill their needs – and he will do so, fully.

Ps 111:5 He provides food for those who fear him; he remembers his covenant forever.

Ps 147:14 He makes peace in your borders; he fills you with the finest of the wheat.

Prov 10:3 The LORD does not let the righteous go hungry, but he thwarts the craving of the wicked.

Ezek 34:14 I will feed them with good pasture, and on the mountain heights of Israel shall be their grazing land. There they shall lie down in good grazing land, and on rich pasture they shall feed on the mountains of Israel.

Joel 2:23 Be glad, O children of Zion, and rejoice in the LORD your God, for he has given the early rain for your vindication; he has poured down for you abundant rain, the early and the latter rain, as before.

. . . God satisfies his people's physical needs

See also:

- Isa 58:11 ↓
- . . . God's provision satisfies his creation, p. 210

While a number of the verses in the adjacent subsections reflect that God satisfies his people's physical needs, the verses in this section specifically say that God "satisfied" or "satisfies" his people's physical needs. Note that the contexts of some indicate a future fulfillment. Also note that some of the verses in this and the following subsection clearly have a spiritual application.

Ps 22:26 The afflicted^f shall eat and be satisfied; those who seek him shall praise the LORD! May your hearts live forever!

^f Or The meek

Ps 103:5 ... [God] who satisfies you with good so that your youth is renewed like the eagle's.

The meaning of the Hebrew in the first half of the verse is unclear (cf. text notes of CEV, GNT, NRSV). It appears to be saying either that God satisfies us with good things (cf. NCV, NRSV) or that God fills our lives with good things (cf. NCV, NLT). The "good" probably refers to physical provisions and other blessings.

Ps 107:9 For he satisfies the longing soul, and the hungry soul he fills with good things.

Ps 132:15 I will abundantly bless her provisions; I will satisfy her poor with bread.

Jer 31:14, 25 I will feast the soul of the priests with abundance, and my people shall be satisfied with my goodness, declares the LORD.  ... ²⁵*For I will satisfy the weary soul, and every languishing soul I will replenish.*

Food appears to be primarily in view here.

Jer 50:19 I will restore Israel to his pasture, and he shall feed on Carmel and in Bashan, and his desire shall be satisfied on the hills of Ephraim and in Gilead.

Joel 2:19 The LORD answered and said to his people, "Behold, I am sending to you grain, wine, and oil, and you will be satisfied; and I will no more make you a reproach among the nations."

Joel 2:26 You shall eat in plenty and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God, who has dealt wondrously with you. And my people shall never again be put to shame.

Matt 15:36-37 ... he took the seven loaves and the fish, and having given thanks he broke them and gave them to the disciples, and the disciples gave them to the crowds. ³⁷*And they all ate and were satisfied.* And they took up seven baskets full of the broken pieces left over.

God meets their physical needs even in harsh circumstances . . .

Neh 9:21 Forty years you sustained them in the wilderness, and they lacked nothing. Their clothes did not wear out and their feet did not swell.

Deuteronomy 8:4 likewise says of Israel's time in the desert: "Your clothing did not wear out on you and your foot did not swell these forty years." God's provision for the Israelites in the desert is further referred to below in Psalms 78:23-29 and Isaiah 48:21.

Ps 23:5 You prepare a table before me in the presence of my enemies; you anoint my head with oil; my cup overflows.

Even amidst adversaries, God provided for David – as implied by the clauses "prepare a table before me" and "my cup overflows". Note that the anointing of a guest's head with oil was a way of welcoming or honoring the guest (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT).

Ps 33:18-19 Behold, the eye of the LORD is on those who fear him, on those who hope in his steadfast love, ¹⁹that he may deliver their soul from death and keep them alive in famine.

Ps 37:19 ... they are not put to shame in evil times; in the days of famine they have abundance.

Ps 78:23-29 Yet he commanded the skies above and opened the doors of heaven, ²⁴and he rained down on them manna to eat and gave them the grain of heaven. ²⁵Man ate of the bread of the angels; he sent them food in abundance. ²⁶He caused the east wind to blow in the heavens, and by his power he led out the south wind; ²⁷he rained meat on them like dust, winged birds like the sand of the seas; ²⁸he let them fall in the midst of their camp, all around their dwellings. ²⁹And they ate and were well filled, for he gave them what they craved.

Isa 48:21 They did not thirst when he led them through the deserts; he made water flow for them from the rock; he split the rock and the water gushed out.

The reference is to the incidents in Exodus 17:1-7 and Numbers 20:2-11).

Isa 35:6 ... then shall the lame man leap like a deer, and the tongue of the mute sing for joy. For waters break forth in the wilderness, and streams in the desert; ...

This and the remaining passages, from Isaiah, all may well have both literal and figurative (or spiritual) applications. Some of the passages are often understood to refer initially to the return from exile in Babylon, with the making of a way through the desert and provision of water in it. The passages have both literal and spiritual applications today, with the references to provision of water applicable to spiritual blessings. Some commentators think they will have a final fulfillment at the end of this age, with the accompanying deliverance for God's people and the renewal of creation.

Isa 41:17-18 When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue is parched with thirst, I the LORD will answer them; I the God of Israel will not forsake them. ¹⁸*I will open rivers on the bare heights, and fountains in the midst of the valleys. I will make the wilderness a pool of water, and the dry land springs of water.* ☞

Isa 43:19-21 Behold, I am doing a new thing; now it springs forth, do you not perceive it? I will make a way in the wilderness and rivers in the desert. ²⁰The wild beasts will honor me, the jackals and the ostriches, for I give water in the wilderness, rivers in the desert, to give drink to my chosen people, ²¹the people whom I formed for myself that they might declare my praise. ☞

Isa 44:2-3 Thus says the LORD who made you, who formed you from the womb and will help you: Fear not, O Jacob my servant, Jeshurun whom I have chosen. ³*For I will pour water on the thirsty land, and streams on the dry ground; I will pour my Spirit upon your offspring, and my blessing on your descendants.* ☞

Isa 49:9-10 ... saying to the prisoners, 'Come out,' to those who are in darkness, 'Appear.' They shall feed along the ways; on all bare heights shall be their pasture; ¹⁰*they shall not hunger or thirst, neither scorching wind nor sun shall strike them, for he who has pity on them will lead them, and by springs of water will guide them.* ☞

The work of the messianic servant (cf. vv. 1-8) is ultimately in view here. As such this may simply be using physical images to portray spiritual blessings.

Isa 58:11 And the LORD will guide you continually and satisfy your desire in scorched places and make your bones strong; and you shall be like a watered garden, like a spring of water, whose waters do not fail. ☞

Here "desire" is probably referring to – or at least applicable to – spiritual needs as well as physical ones.

Gen 21:14-19 So Abraham rose early in the morning and took bread and a skin of water and gave it to Hagar, putting it on her shoulder, along with the child, and sent her away. And she departed and wandered in the wilderness of Beersheba. ¹⁵*When the water in the skin was gone,* she put the child under one of the bushes. ¹⁶Then she went and sat down opposite him a good way off, about the distance of a bowshot, for she said, "Let me not look on the death of the child." And as she sat opposite him, she lifted up her voice and wept. ¹⁷And God heard the voice of the boy, and the angel of God called to Hagar from heaven and said to her, "What troubles you, Hagar? Fear not, for God has heard the voice of the boy where he is. ¹⁸Up! Lift up the boy, and hold him fast with your hand, for I will make him into a great nation." ¹⁹*Then God opened her eyes, and she saw a well of water. And she went and filled the skin with water and gave the boy a drink.* ☞

Gen 45:6-7, 10-11 For the famine has been in the land these two years, and there are yet five years in which there will be neither plowing nor harvest. ⁷*And God sent me before you to preserve for you a remnant on earth, and to keep alive for you many survivors.* ☞ ... ¹⁰You shall dwell in the land of Goshen, and you shall be near me, you and your children and your children's children, and your flocks, your herds, and all that you have. ¹¹*There I will provide for you, for there are yet five years of famine to come, so that you and your household, and all that you have, do not come to poverty.* ☞

Ruth 1:6 Then she arose with her daughters-in-law to return from the country of Moab, for she had heard in the fields of Moab that the LORD had visited his people and given them food. ☞

This is speaking of God providing food for his people when there had been a famine (cf. v. 1).

Ruth 4:14 Then the women said to Naomi, "Blessed be the LORD, who has not left you this day without a redeemer, and may his name be renowned in Israel!" ☞

A "redeemer" had a responsibility to care for any needy amongst their extended family. The one referred to here was a newly born boy (cf. v. 13), related to Naomi through Ruth. Naomi had been widowed and her future was bleak. But through loyal Ruth's marriage to Boaz, God provided for Naomi in her widowhood – first by Ruth's marriage to the wealthy Boaz, and here by the birth of their son.

1Ki 17:7-9 And after a while the brook dried up, because there was no rain in the land. ⁸*Then the word of the LORD came to him,* ⁹*"Arise, go to Zarephath, which belongs to Sidon, and dwell there. Behold, I have commanded a widow there to feed you."* ☞

2Ki 3:8-9, 16-17, 20 Then he said, "By which way shall we march?" Jehoram answered, "By the way of the wilderness of Edom." ⁹So the king of Israel went with the king of Judah and the king of Edom. And when they had made a circuitous march of seven days, there was no water for the army or for the animals that followed them. ☞ ... ¹⁶And he [Elisha] said,

"Thus says the LORD, 'I will make this dry streambed full of pools.'¹⁷For thus says the LORD, 'You shall not see wind or rain, but that streambed shall be filled with water, so that you shall drink, you, your livestock, and your animals.' ...²⁰The next morning, about the time of offering the sacrifice, behold, water came from the direction of Edom, till the country was filled with water.

2Ki 4:1-7 Now the wife of one of the sons of the prophets cried to Elisha, "Your servant my husband is dead, and you know that your servant feared the LORD, but the creditor has come to take my two children to be his slaves."²And Elisha said to her, "What shall I do for you? Tell me; what have you in the house?" And she said, "Your servant has nothing in the house except a jar of oil."³Then he said, "Go outside, borrow vessels from all your neighbors, empty vessels and not too few.⁴Then go in and shut the door behind yourself and your sons and pour into all these vessels. And when one is full, set it aside."⁵So she went from him and shut the door behind herself and her sons. And as she poured they brought the vessels to her.⁶When the vessels were full, she said to her son, "Bring me another vessel." And he said to her, "There is not another." Then the oil stopped flowing.⁷She came and told the man of God, and he said, "Go, sell the oil and pay your debts, and you and your sons can live on the rest."

✦ Without God no one can eat, or find enjoyment:

Ecc 2:24-25 There is nothing better for a person than *that he should eat and drink and find enjoyment^g in his toil. This also, I saw, is from the hand of God,*²⁵for apart from him^h who can eat or who can have enjoyment?

^g Or and make his soul see good

^h Some Hebrew manuscripts, Septuagint, Syriac; most Hebrew manuscripts apart from me

Note that this verse does not just refer to God's people.

God satisfies his people's spiritual hunger and thirst

As mentioned earlier, note that some of the previous subsections have verses which appear to have a spiritual application intended.

Psa 63:5 My soul will be satisfied as with fat and rich food, and my mouth will praise you with joyful lips, ...

In saying that his "soul will be satisfied" David appears to be referring to the spiritual satisfaction he experiences in association with praising God (v. 5b; cf. vv. 3-4) – quite possibly with his deliverance in view.

Psa 65:4 Blessed is the one you choose and bring near, to dwell in your courts! We shall be satisfied with the goodness of your house, the holiness of your temple!

The "goodness of your house" may refer to – and is at least applicable to – the spiritual blessings that come from God's presence, where one can have communion with God.

Isa 55:1-3 Come, everyone who thirsts, come to the waters; and he who has no money, come, buy and eat! Come, buy wine and milk without money and without price. ²Why do you spend your money for that which is not bread, and your labor for that which does not satisfy? Listen diligently to me, and eat what is good, and delight yourselves in rich food. ³Incline your ear, and come to me; hear, that your soul may live; and I will make with you an everlasting covenant, my steadfast, sure love for David.

This is primarily speaking of spiritual thirst, hunger and nourishment, as indicated in v. 3. Jesus Christ similarly uses thirst/water and hunger/bread imagery in a spiritual sense (cf. Matt 5:6 ↓; John 4:14 ↓; John 6:35 ↓; John 7:37 ↓), perhaps alluding to this passage from Isaiah. Note that the fact that God does satisfy one's spiritual needs is underlined here by the reference to other things not satisfying (v. 2).

Matt 5:6 Blessed are those who hunger and thirst for righteousness, for they shall be satisfied.

John 4:13-14 Jesus said to her, "Everyone who drinks of this water will be thirsty again,¹⁴but whoever drinks of the water that I will give him will never be thirsty again.¹ The water that I will give him will become in him a spring of water welling up to eternal life."

Those who are nourished with spiritual "water" – who absorb and live on Jesus' teaching – will gain spiritual, eternal life.

John 6:35 Jesus said to them, "I am the bread of life; whoever comes to me shall not hunger, and whoever believes in me shall never thirst."

Jesus speaks of himself as the source of spiritual life. The phrases "shall not hunger" and "shall never thirst" indicate that one's spiritual needs will always be satisfied in him.

John 7:37-39 On the last day of the feast, the great day, Jesus stood up and cried out, "If anyone thirsts, let him come to me and drink. ³⁸Whoever believes in me, as¹ the Scripture has said, 'Out of his heart will flow rivers of living water.'"³⁹Now this he said about the Spirit, whom those who believed in him were to receive, for as yet the Spirit had not been given, because Jesus was not yet glorified.

^j Or let him come to me, and let him who believes in me drink. As

John 10:9-10 I am the door. If anyone enters by me, he will be saved and will go in and out and find pasture. ¹⁰The thief comes only to steal and kill and destroy. I came that they may have life and have it abundantly.

In v. 9 Jesus claims to be the door leading into salvation, through which one can find pasture – provision for one's spiritual needs. Jesus' provision for one's needs is reflected by his claim to bring abundance of life (v. 10).

1Cor 10:3-4 ...and all ate the same spiritual food, ⁴and all drank the same spiritual drink. For they drank from the spiritual Rock that followed them, and the Rock was Christ.

Here Paul refers to the manna and the water from out of a rock that was supplied to the Israelites in their journey through the desert. He may be speaking figuratively, referring to such "spiritual" food and drink to portray the spiritual sustenance that God gives to his people, ultimately through Christ (v. 4b). Alternatively the description of the food and drink as "spiritual" may refer to its supernatural provision and, as some commentators maintain, Paul may be asserting that the pre-incarnate Christ was actually the one who imparted the provisions to the Israelites.

‡ In heaven, God's people will never again hunger or thirst:

Rev 7:16 They shall hunger no more, neither thirst anymore; the sun shall not strike them, nor any scorching heat.

This is applicable to both spiritual and physical hunger and thirst, although the absence of physical hardship resulting from faithfulness to God may primarily be in view.

Gen 33:11 Please accept my blessing that is brought to you, because God has dealt graciously with me, and because I have enough. Thus he urged him, and he took it.

Jacob may well be implying that it was because of God's gracious dealings with him that he could say: "I have everything I need" (CEV; cf. GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

2Cor 9:8 And God is able to make all grace abound to you, so that having all sufficiency^k in all things at all times, you may abound in every good work.

^k Or all contentment

Phil 4:19 And my God will supply every need of yours according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus.

In the first part of the verse Paul is referring to the magnitude of God's provision. He speaks of it as being in accordance with or reflective of God's incredible riches emanating in and through Jesus Christ. Note that the phrase "in glory" may be referring to: the glory of his riches ("glorious riches" NIV, NLT); or God's glory, which encompasses his riches.

2Pet 1:3 His divine power has granted to us all things that pertain to life and godliness, through the knowledge of him who called us to^l his own glory and excellence,^m ...

^l Or by

^m Or virtue

God gives us "everything we need" (CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT) for life in general and for living a godly life.

2Chr 32:22 So the LORD saved Hezekiah and the inhabitants of Jerusalem from the hand of Sennacherib king of Assyria and from the hand of all his enemies, and he provided for them on every side.

As well providing for his people by giving them things – as per most of the other verses in this subsection – God provides his people with such things as protection.

Deut 2:7 For the LORD your God has blessed you in all the work of your hands. He knows your going through this great wilderness. These forty years the LORD your God has been with you. You have lacked nothing.

Ps 23:1 The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want.

Luke 22:35 And he said to them, "When I sent you out with no moneybag or knapsack or sandals, did you lack anything?" They said, "Nothing."

During the mission that Jesus had sent them on without any provisions (cf. 9:1-6; 10:1-4), the disciples did not lack anything.

1Cor 1:4-7 I give thanks to my God always for you because of the grace of God that was given you in Christ Jesus, ⁵that in every way you were enriched in him in all speech and all knowledge— ⁶even as the testimony about Christ was confirmed among you— ⁷so that you are not lacking in any spiritual gift, as you wait for the revealing of our Lord Jesus Christ, ...

As a church the Corinthians did not lack any spiritual gift.

‡ “The LORD will provide”:

Gen 22:1-2, 7-14 After these things God tested Abraham and said to him, “Abraham!” And he said, “Here am I.” ²He said, “Take your son, your only son Isaac, whom you love, and go to the land of Moriah, and offer him there as a burnt offering on one of the mountains of which I shall tell you.” ³... ⁷And Isaac said to his father Abraham, “My father!” And he said, “Here am I, my son.” He said, “Behold, the fire and the wood, but where is the lamb for a burnt offering?” ⁸Abraham said, “God will provide for himself the lamb for a burnt offering, my son.” So they went both of them together. ⁹When they came to the place of which God had told him, Abraham built the altar there and laid the wood in order and bound Isaac his son and laid him on the altar, on top of the wood. ¹⁰Then Abraham reached out his hand and took the knife to slaughter his son. ¹¹But the angel of the LORD called to him from heaven and said, “Abraham, Abraham!” And he said, “Here am I.” ¹²He said, “Do not lay your hand on the boy or do anything to him, for now I know that you fear God, seeing you have not withheld your son, your only son, from me.” ¹³And Abraham lifted up his eyes and looked, and behold, behind him was a ram, caught in a thicket by his horns. And Abraham went and took the ram and offered it up as a burnt offering instead of his son. ¹⁴So Abraham called the name of that place, “The LORD will provide”;ⁿ as it is said to this day, “On the mount of the LORD it shall be provided.”^o

Ps 73:25-26 Whom have I in heaven but you? And there is nothing on earth that I desire besides you. ²⁶*My flesh and my heart may fail, but God is the strength^p of my heart and my portion forever.*

^p Hebrew rock

The question (v. 25a) implies that not only did the psalmist not have anyone nor anything else in heaven, he also did not long for such. In saying that God was his “portion forever” (v. 26) the psalmist appears to mean that God was all he would ever need (cf. GNT) or desire (cf. v. 25b).

Ps 119:57 The LORD is my portion; I promise to keep your words.

Ps 142:5 I cry to you, O LORD; I say, “You are my refuge, my portion in the land of the living.”

Jer 10:16 Not like these is he who is the portion of Jacob, for he is the one who formed all things, and Israel is the tribe of his inheritance; the LORD of hosts is his name.

Just as he is the portion of each of his people, this speaks of God being the portion of his people as a whole.

Lam 3:24 “The LORD is my portion,” says my soul, “therefore I will hope in him.”

Knowing God to be his portion, Jeremiah could confidently wait for God to supply what he needed.

Ps 16:5 The LORD is my chosen portion and my cup; you hold my lot.

David indicates here that God is – and is the source of – all he has (cf. GNT), needs (cf. NCV) or wants (cf. CEV).

God is the strength of his people

The strength of God's people comes primarily from him. As such they look to him for strength and draw strength from him.

Ps 28:7-8 The LORD is my strength and my shield; in him my heart trusts, and I am helped; my heart exults, and with my song I give thanks to him. ⁸The LORD is the strength of his people;⁹ he is the saving refuge of his anointed.

Ps 84:5, 7 Blessed are those whose strength is in you, in whose heart are the highways to Zion.^s ... ⁷They go from strength to strength; each one appears before God in Zion.

^s Hebrew lacks to Zion

This refers to the Israelites journeying to Jerusalem for religious festivals. The phrase "strength to strength" implies that the people grow stronger (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT) in their journey.

Ps 89:17 For you are the glory of their strength; by your favor our horn is exalted.

The first clause suggests that the strength of God's people is in a sense glorious and comes from God.

Isa 45:24 Only in the LORD, it shall be said of me, are righteousness and strength; to him shall come and be ashamed all who were incensed against him.

Hab 3:19a GOD, the Lord, is my strength; he makes my feet like the deer's; he makes me tread on my high places.

Zec 12:5 Then the clans of Judah shall say to themselves, 'The inhabitants of Jerusalem have strength through the LORD of hosts, their God.'

God strengthens his people

Deut 33:25 Your bars shall be iron and bronze, and as your days, so shall your strength be.

This is from Moses' blessing on the tribe of Asher. He speaks of her towns (cf. CEV, GNT) being secure and God strengthening its people all of their days.

2Thes 2:16-17 Now may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God our Father, who loved us and gave us eternal comfort and good hope through grace, ¹⁷comfort your hearts and establish them in every good work and word.

Paul prays that the Thessalonians would be encouraged, and given strength – "strengthen your hearts" (NASB; cf. AMP, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT, NRSV) in everything they did and said for the Lord.

Phil 4:13 I can do all things through him who strengthens me.

Paul is referring to Jesus Christ strengthening him.

1Tim 1:12 I thank him who has given me strength, Christ Jesus our Lord, because he judged me faithful, appointing me to his service, ...

Deut 34:7 Moses was 120 years old when he died. His eye was undimmed, and his vigor unabated.

And he said, "Go up, say to Ahab, 'Prepare your chariot and go down, lest the rain stop you.'" ⁴⁵And in a little while the heavens grew black with clouds and wind, and there was a great rain. And Ahab rode and went to Jezreel. ⁴⁶*And the hand of the LORD was on Elijah, and he gathered up his garment and ran before Ahab to the entrance of Jezreel.*

This illustrates God's strengthening of his people, as it suggests that Elijah runs for some distance ahead of Ahab who was in a chariot.

God would restore Judah, sending her plentiful rain "as before" (v. 23). In so doing he would "restore" (v. 25) to the people the fruitfulness of the years which had been devastated by a horrendous locust plague.

Zec 1:16-17 Therefore, thus says the LORD, I have returned to Jerusalem with mercy; my house shall be built in it, declares the LORD of hosts, and the measuring line shall be stretched out over Jerusalem. ¹⁷*Cry out again, Thus says the LORD of hosts: My cities shall again overflow with prosperity, and the LORD will again comfort Zion and again choose Jerusalem.* 䄂

The "measuring line" (v. 16) seems to refer to work involved in reconstruction, alluding to the restoration of Jerusalem. Restoration of Jerusalem is reflected in v. 17.

Zec 10:6 I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph. I will bring them back because I have compassion on them, and they shall be as though I had not rejected them, for I am the LORD their God and I will answer them. 䄂

God strengthens his people in the face of adversity

Ps 10:17 O LORD, you hear the desire of the afflicted; you will strengthen their heart; you will incline your ear ... 䄂

Ps 18:32-34, 39 ... the God who equipped me with strength and made my way blameless. ³³He made my feet like the feet of a deer and set me secure on the heights. ³⁴He trains my hands for war, so that my arms can bend a bow of bronze. 䄂 ... ³⁹For you equipped me with strength for the battle; you made those who rise against me sink under me. 䄂

Isa 28:5-6 In that day the LORD of hosts will be a crown of glory,^d and a diadem of beauty, to the remnant of his people, and a spirit of justice to him who sits in judgment, and strength to those who turn back the battle at the gate. 䄂

^d The Hebrew words for glory and hosts sound alike

Isa 58:11 And the LORD will guide you continually and satisfy your desire in scorched places and make your bones strong; and you shall be like a watered garden, like a spring of water, whose waters do not fail. 䄂

Zec 10:11-12 He shall pass through the sea of troubles and strike down the waves of the sea, and all the depths of the Nile shall be dried up. The pride of Assyria shall be laid low, and the scepter of Egypt shall depart. ¹²*I will make them strong in the LORD, and they shall walk in his name,"* declares the LORD. 䄂

A number of other modern translations interpret v. 11a as speaking of God's people passing through "the sea of troubles" (cf. CEV, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NLT, NRSV). If this is the case, then these verses would tell of God strengthening his people (v. 12) amidst "the sea of troubles" (v. 11).

Zec 12:3-5 On that day I will make Jerusalem a heavy stone for all the peoples. All who lift it will surely hurt themselves. And all the nations of the earth will gather against it. ⁴On that day, declares the LORD, I will strike every horse with panic, and its rider with madness. But for the sake of the house of Judah I will keep my eyes open, when I strike every horse of the peoples with blindness. ⁵*Then the clans of Judah shall say to themselves, 'The inhabitants of Jerusalem have strength through the LORD of hosts, their God.'* 䄂

2Tim 4:16-17 At my first defense no one came to stand by me, but all deserted me. May it not be charged against them! ¹⁷But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. So I was rescued from the lion's mouth. 䄂

2Thes 3:3 But the Lord is faithful. He will establish you and guard you against the evil one.^e

^e Or evil

Paul is probably speaking of the Lord strengthening them (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NLT, NRSV) – along with protecting them – in the face of Satan's attacks, i.e. the trials and temptations that Satan initiates.

Judg 7:10-11, 13-15 But if you are afraid to go down, go down to the camp with Purah your servant. ¹¹And you shall hear what they say, and afterward your hands shall be strengthened to go down against the camp." Then he went down with Purah his servant to the outposts of the armed men who were in the camp.  ... ¹³When Gideon came, behold, a man was telling a dream to his comrade. And he said, "Behold, I dreamed a dream, and behold, a cake of barley bread tumbled into the camp of Midian and came to the tent and struck it so that it fell and turned it upside down, so that the tent lay flat." ¹⁴And his comrade answered, "This is no other than the sword of Gideon the son of Joash, a man of Israel; God has given into his hand Midian and all the camp." ¹⁵*As soon as Gideon heard the telling of the dream and its interpretation, he worshiped. And he returned to the camp of Israel and said, "Arise, for the LORD has given the host of Midian into your hand."*

✦ God's strengthening of Samson amidst his enemies:

Judg 16:23, 25-30 Now the lords of the Philistines gathered to offer a great sacrifice to Dagon their god and to rejoice, and they said, "Our god has given Samson our enemy into our hand."  ... ²⁵And when their hearts were merry, they said, "Call Samson, that he may entertain us." So they called Samson out of the prison, and he entertained them. They made him stand between the pillars. ²⁶And Samson said to the young man who held him by the hand, "Let me feel the pillars on which the house rests, that I may lean against them." ²⁷Now the house was full of men and women. All the lords of the Philistines were there, and on the roof there were about 3,000 men and women, who looked on while Samson entertained. ²⁸*Then Samson called to the LORD and said, "O Lord GOD, please remember me and please strengthen me only this once, O God, that I may be avenged on the Philistines for my two eyes."* ²⁹*And Samson grasped the two middle pillars on which the house rested, and he leaned his weight against them, his right hand on the one and his left hand on the other.* ³⁰*And Samson said, "Let me die with the Philistines." Then he bowed with all his strength, and the house fell upon the lords and upon all the people who were in*

it. So the dead whom he killed at his death were more than those whom he had killed during his life.

A number of the verses in the previous subsections also have a spiritual application.

Rom 16:25 Now to him who is able to strengthen you according to my gospel and the preaching of Jesus Christ, according to the revelation of the mystery that was kept secret for long ages ...

2Cor 1:21-22 And it is God who establishes us with you in Christ, and has anointed us, ²²and who has also put his seal on us and given us his Spirit in our hearts as a guarantee.^f

^f Or down payment

The first clause points to God making us strong in Christ (cf. NCV), to stand firm in Christ (cf. CEV, NIV, NLT).

Col 1:11 May you be strengthened with all power, according to his glorious might, for all endurance and patience with joy, ...

1Cor 1:7b-8 ... as you wait for the revealing of our Lord Jesus Christ, ⁸*who will sustain you to the end, guiltless in the day of our Lord Jesus Christ.*

1Thes 3:12-13 ... and may the Lord make you increase and abound in love for one another and for all, as we do for you, ¹³*so that he may establish your hearts blameless in holiness before our God and Father, at the coming of our Lord Jesus with all his saints.*

The first clause in v. 13 speaks of Christ spiritually strengthening believers so that they will be "blameless in holiness" (cf. AMP, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NRSV).

1Thes 5:23-24 Now may the God of peace himself sanctify you completely, and may your whole spirit and soul and body be kept blameless at the coming of our Lord Jesus Christ. ²⁴He who calls you is faithful; he will surely do it.

God sanctifies his people, which has the effect of making them stronger spiritually. In conjunction with this, he keeps them blameless – until Jesus Christ's return.

✦ God will carry on his work in each of his people until it is completed on Jesus Christ's return:

Phil 1:6 And I am sure of this, that he who began a good work in you will bring it to completion at the day of Jesus Christ.

God will finish the "good work" (of making believers more like Christ) that he has begun. One implication of this is that God will continue to sanctify (cf. 1Thes 5:23 ↑) and strengthen his people, until Christ returns.

God encourages his people

Acts 28:15 And the brothers there, when they heard about us, came as far as the Forum of Appius and Three Taverns to meet us. On seeing them, Paul thanked God and took courage.

Paul thanking God for the appearance of these men suggests that he considered that God was ultimately behind their arrival and the encouragement that this brought him.

Rom 15:4-5 For whatever was written in former days was written for our instruction, that through endurance and through the encouragement of the Scriptures we might have hope. ⁵May the God of endurance and encouragement grant you to live in such harmony with one another, in accord with Christ Jesus, ...

The reference to God as the "God of endurance and encouragement" (v. 5) reflects that he is the source of "the encouragement of the Scriptures" (v. 4) – him being the originator of the Scriptures.

Phil 2:1 So if there is any encouragement in Christ, any comfort from love, any participation in the Spirit, any affection and sympathy, ...

One implication here is that believers do have encouragement in Christ.

Heb 6:17-18 So when God desired to show more convincingly to the heirs of the promise the unchangeable character of his purpose, he guaranteed it with an oath, ¹⁸so that by two unchangeable things, in which it is impossible for God to lie, we who have fled for refuge might have strong encouragement to hold fast to the hope set before us.

God gave his promise (one pertaining to salvation) and confirmed it with his oath to greatly encourage those who grasp the hope offered in the promise.

✦ Jesus Christ and God our Father give believers much comfort:

2Thes 2:16-17 Now may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God our Father, who loved us and gave us eternal comfort and good hope through grace, ¹⁷comfort your hearts and establish them in every good work and word.

In v. 16 Paul speaks of the "eternal comfort" along with the hope that God has given believers (cf. Heb 6:18 ↑) through what he has accomplished in Jesus Christ.

God heals his people

See also:

- Jesus delivered people from disease and disorders, p. 561

The topic of healing is a somewhat controversial one. Does God promise to heal all illness, if we have faith that he will? Psalms 103:3 and James 5:14-16 support the affirmative. 2 Corinthians 12:7-9 and the fact that numerous people of faith have remained ill after repeated prayer suggest otherwise. However we do know that God wants his people to take all such needs to him in prayer, in assurance that he will hear and act for one's ultimate good and in line with his will.

Note that spiritual and physical health (and healing) are often linked (cf. comment below on Ps 103:2-3). Some of the following verses may have both kinds of healing in view.

Ex 15:26 ... saying, "If you will diligently listen to the voice of the LORD your God, and do that which is right in his eyes, and give ear to his commandments and keep all his statutes, I will put none of the diseases on you that I put on the Egyptians, for I am the LORD, your healer."

Ps 30:2 O LORD my God, I cried to you for help, and you have healed me.

Ps 41:3 The LORD sustains him on his sickbed; in his illness you restore him to full health.

‡ Hebrew you turn all his bed

This speaks of "one who considers the poor" (v. 1).

Ps 103:2-3 Bless the LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits, ³who forgives all your iniquity, who heals all your diseases, ...

The coupling of healing and forgiveness may imply that the psalmist linked at least some diseases to sin (cf. James 5:14-16 ↓).

Ps 107:20 He sent out his word and healed them, and delivered them from their destruction.

Phil 2:27 Indeed he was ill, near to death. But God had mercy on him, and not only on him but on me also, lest I should have sorrow upon sorrow.

James 5:14-16 Is anyone among you sick? Let him call for the elders of the church, and let them pray over him, anointing him with oil in the name of the Lord. ¹⁵*And the prayer of faith will save the one who is sick, and the Lord will raise him up.* And if he has committed sins, he will be forgiven. ¹⁶Therefore, confess your sins to one another and pray for one another, that you may be healed. The prayer of a righteous person has great power as it is working.^h

^h Or The effective prayer of a righteous person has great power

For comment, see Acts 8:14-17 – under Believe and do not doubt that what you ask will be granted, p. 1228.

Ps 147:3 He heals the brokenhearted and binds up their wounds.

Emotional healing is in view here.

Ezek 34:16 I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the injured, and I will strengthen the weak, and the fat and the strong I will destroy.ⁱ I will feed them in justice.

ⁱ Septuagint, Syriac, Vulgate I will watch over

As with Psalms 147:3 immediately above, this speaks of God healing people amongst the exiles of Israel that he had gathered and brought back home (cf. v. 2).

Mark 5:27-29, 34 She had heard the reports about Jesus and came up behind him in the crowd and touched his garment. ²⁸For she said, "If I touch even his garments, I will be made well." ²⁹And immediately the flow of blood dried up, and she felt in her body that she was healed of her disease. ... ³⁴And he said to her, "Daughter, your faith has made you well; go in peace, and be healed of your disease."

For further examples of Jesus healing people during his mission, see Jesus delivered people from disease and disorders, p. 561.

✦ The Lord did not remove Paul's "thorn":

2Cor 12:7-9 So to keep me from becoming conceited because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations,ⁱ a thorn was given me in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to harass me, to keep me from becoming conceited. ⁸*Three times I pleaded with the Lord about this, that it should leave me.* ⁹*But he said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness."* Therefore I will boast all the more gladly of my weaknesses, so that the power of Christ may rest upon me.

ⁱ Or hears from me, even because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations. So to keep me from becoming conceited

Paul's "thorn" in his flesh appears to have been a physical disorder. The Lord used Paul's affliction both to keep him from becoming conceited (v. 7) and to make him receptive to Christ's power working in him (v. 9).

God also supports and upholds his people . . .

Ps 18:35 You have given me the shield of your salvation, and your right hand supported me, and your gentleness made me great.

As noted earlier in the chapter, God's "right hand" signifies his mighty power, with the right hand being spoken of as the stronger hand.

Ps 94:18 When I thought, "My foot slips," your steadfast love, O LORD, held me up.

Ps 54:4 Behold, God is my helper; the Lord is the upholder of my life.

Ps 37:17, 23-24 For the arms of the wicked shall be broken, but the LORD upholds the righteous. ... ²³The steps of a man are established by the LORD, when he delights in his way; ²⁴*though he fall, he shall not be cast headlong, for the LORD upholds his hand*.

Isa 41:10 ... fear not, for I am with you; be not dismayed, for I am your God; I will strengthen you, I will help you, I will uphold you with my righteous right hand.

Ps 145:14 The LORD upholds all who are falling and raises up all who are bowed down.

Those “who are bowed down” appear to be ones who have buckled under the weight of their troubles – “those bent beneath their loads” (NLT).

Deut 33:3 Yes, he loved his people,^k all his holy ones were in his^l hand; so they followed^m in your steps, receiving direction from you, ...

^k Septuagint; Hebrew peoples

^l Hebrew your

^m The meaning of the Hebrew word is uncertain

God's people are in his hand, which suggests that he upholds them – as well as “protects” them (CEV, GNT).

Deut 33:27 The eternal God is your dwelling place,ⁿ and underneath are the everlasting arms.^o And he thrust out the enemy before you and said, Destroy.

ⁿ Or a dwelling place

^o Revocalization of verse 27 yields He subdues the ancient gods, and shatters the forces of old

This portrays God as supporting and upholding his people.

Ps 73:23 Nevertheless, I am continually with you; you hold my right hand.

... God even carries his people

In supporting and upholding his people, God is at times figuratively spoken of as carrying or bearing them.

Ex 19:4 You yourselves have seen what I did to the Egyptians, and how I bore you on eagles' wings and brought you to myself.

God's deliverance of the Israelites from Egypt and safely bringing them to their camp at Mount Sinai is here likened to how “a mighty eagle carries its young” (CEV; cf. GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT). Similar imagery is used below in Deuteronomy 32:10-11.

Deut 1:30-31 The LORD your God who goes before you will himself fight for you, just as he did for you in Egypt before your eyes, ³¹and in the wilderness, where you have seen how the LORD your God carried you, as a man carries his son, all the way that you went until you came to this place.

Deut 32:10-11 He found him in a desert land, and in the howling waste of the wilderness; he encircled him, he cared for him, he kept him as the apple of his eye. ¹¹*Like an eagle that stirs up its nest, that flutters over its young, spreading out its wings, catching them, bearing them on its pinions, ...*

A bird's pinions are the outer parts of its wings.

Isa 40:11 He will tend his flock like a shepherd; he will gather the lambs in his arms; he will carry them in his bosom, and gently lead those that are with young.

Isa 46:3-4 Listen to me, O house of Jacob, all the remnant of the house of Israel, who have been borne by me from before your birth, carried from the womb; ⁴even to your old age I am he, and to gray hairs I will carry you. I have made, and I will bear; I will carry and will save.

Isa 63:9 In all their affliction he was afflicted,^p and the angel of his presence saved them; in his love and in his pity he redeemed them; he lifted them up and carried them all the days of old.

^p Or he did not afflict

God preserves his people

Josh 24:17 ... for it is the LORD our God who brought us and our fathers up from the land of Egypt, out of the house of slavery, and who did those great signs in our sight and preserved us in all the way that we went, and among all the peoples through whom we passed.

1Sam 30:23 But David said, "You shall not do so, my brothers, with what the LORD has given us. He has preserved us and given into our hand the band that came against us.

Ps 32:7 You are a hiding place for me; you preserve me from trouble; you surround me with shouts of deliverance. Selah

Ps 31:23 Love the LORD, all you his saints! The LORD preserves the faithful but abundantly repays the one who acts in pride.

Ps 34:19-20 Many are the afflictions of the righteous, but the LORD delivers him out of them all. ²⁰*He keeps all his bones; not one of them is broken.*

Ps 37:28 For the LORD loves justice; he will not forsake his saints. They are preserved forever, but the children of the wicked shall be cut off.

Ps 116:6 The LORD preserves the simple; when I was brought low, he saved me.

The "simple" are those who are honest, innocent and without deception. Some see in the term a reference to "those of childlike faith" (NLT).

Ps 145:20 The LORD preserves all who love him, but all the wicked he will destroy.

2Pet 2:5 ... if he did not spare the ancient world, but preserved Noah, a herald of righteousness, with seven others, when he brought a flood upon the world of the ungodly; ...

Note that protection from enemies is also largely in view in a number of the verses in the other subsections in this section.

Ps 31:20 In the cover of your presence you hide them from the plots of men; you store them in your shelter from the strife of tongues.

Ps 91:14 Because he holds fast to me in love, I will deliver him; I will protect him, because he knows my name.

Ps 105:14-15 ... he allowed no one to oppress them; he rebuked kings on their account, ¹⁵*saying, "Touch not my anointed ones, do my prophets no harm!"*

Ps 124:1-6 If it had not been the LORD who was on our side— let Israel now say— ²*if it had not been the LORD who was on our side when people rose up against us,* ³*then they would have swallowed us up alive, when their anger was kindled against us;* ⁴*then the flood would have swept us away, the torrent would have gone over us;* ⁵*then over us would have gone the raging waters.* ⁶*Blessed be the LORD, who has not given us as prey to their teeth!*

Isa 31:5 Like birds hovering, so the LORD of hosts will protect Jerusalem; he will protect and deliver it; he will spare and rescue it.

Zec 9:15 The LORD of hosts will protect them, and they shall devour, and tread down the sling stones, and they shall drink and roar as if drunk with wine, and be full like a bowl, drenched like the corners of the altar.

Note that the second part of the verse speaks of the people shedding the blood of their enemies.

Zec 12:8 On that day the LORD will protect the inhabitants of Jerusalem, so that the feeblest among them on that day shall be like David, and the house of David shall be like God, like the angel of the LORD, going before them.

This speaks of deliverance of Jerusalem in the end times.

Gen 35:5 And as they journeyed, a terror from God fell upon the cities that were around them, so that they did not pursue the sons of Jacob.

Ex 14:19-20 Then the angel of God who was going before the host of Israel moved and went behind them, and the pillar of cloud moved from before them and stood behind them, ²⁰*coming between the host of Egypt and the host of Israel. And there was the cloud and the darkness. And it lit up the night^a without one coming near the other all night.*

^a Septuagint and the night passed

Through "the angel of God" and the cloud that signified God's presence, the Egyptians were blocked throughout the night from attacking the Israelites.

1Sam 23:14 And David remained in the strongholds in the wilderness, in the hill country of the wilderness of Ziph. And Saul sought him every day, but God did not give him into his hand.

Jer 36:26 And the king commanded Jerahmeel the king's son and Seraiah the son of Azriel and Shelemiah the son of Abdeel to seize Baruch the secretary and Jeremiah the prophet, but the LORD hid them.

Ps 20:1 May the LORD answer you in the day of trouble! May the name of the God of Jacob protect you!

✦ God's revelation to Jeremiah of a plot against him:

Jer 11:18 The LORD made it known to me and I knew; then you showed me their deeds.

God preserves his people's lives . . .

Note that following on from the previous subsection regarding God protecting his people from enemies, the following verses largely have in view God's preservation of his people's lives in the face of enemy threat.

Ps 41:2 ... the LORD protects him and keeps him alive; he is called blessed in the land; you do not give him up to the will of his enemies.

Ps 66:8-9 Bless our God, O peoples; let the sound of his praise be heard, ⁹who has kept our soul among the living and has not let our feet slip.

Ps 138:7 Though I walk in the midst of trouble, you preserve my life; you stretch out your hand against the wrath of my enemies, and your right hand delivers me.

1Sam 25:29 If men rise up to pursue you and to seek your life, the life of my lord shall be bound in the bundle of the living in the care of the LORD your God. And the lives of your enemies he shall sling out as from the hollow of a sling.

Ps 97:10 O you who love the LORD, hate evil! He preserves the lives of his saints; he delivers them from the hand of the wicked.

Gen 45:7 And God sent me before you to preserve for you a remnant on earth, and to keep alive for you many survivors.

This speaks of God preserving his people's lives amidst a great famine.

Acts 28:3-5 When Paul had gathered a bundle of sticks and put them on the fire, a viper came out because of the heat and fastened on his hand. ⁴When the native people saw the creature hanging from his hand, they said to one another, "No doubt this man is a murderer. Though he has escaped from the sea, Justice^r has not allowed him to live." ⁵He, however, shook off the creature into the fire and suffered no harm.

^r Or justice

Presumably Paul survived the deadly snakebite due to God's care of him, preserving his life.

Ps 119:93 I will never forget your precepts, for by them you have given me life.

The psalmist appears to be speaking of the strength and meaning he found in God's word during his affliction, which had effectively preserved his life.

. . . God keeps his people safe and secure

Deut 33:12 Of Benjamin he said, "The beloved of the LORD dwells in safety. The High God^s surrounds him all day long, and dwells between his shoulders."

^s Septuagint; Hebrew dwells in safety by him. He

The last phrase is either speaking of: the people dwelling in the safety of God's presence; or God dwelling in the midst of the people, to keep them safe.

Deut 33:28 So Israel lived in safety, Jacob lived alone,^t in a land of grain and wine, whose heavens drop down dew.

^t Hebrew the abode of Jacob was alone

Ps 4:8 In peace I will both lie down and sleep; for you alone, O LORD, make me dwell in safety.

Lev 25:18-19 Therefore you shall do my statutes and keep my rules and perform them, and then you will dwell in the land securely. ¹⁹The land will yield its fruit, and you will eat your fill and dwell in it securely.

Ps 16:5, 8-10 The LORD is my chosen portion and my cup; you hold my lot.  ... ⁸I have set the LORD always before me; because he is at my right hand, I shall not be shaken. ⁹Therefore my heart is glad, and my whole being^u rejoices; my flesh also dwells secure. ¹⁰*For you will not abandon my soul to Sheol, or let your holy one see corruption.*^v

^u Hebrew my glory

^v Or see the pit

In v. 5, “hold my lot” can be rendered “maintain my lot” (AMP, NKJV), thus meaning: “you have made my lot secure” (NIV®). In v. 9-10 David appears to be speaking of being secure in the face of death, when under threat from enemies, rather than actually in death (cf. Acts 2:24-33).

Ps 62:2 He only is my rock and my salvation, my fortress; I shall not be greatly shaken.

Ps 21:7 For the king trusts in the LORD, and through the steadfast love of the Most High he shall not be moved.

Ps 55:22 Cast your burden on the LORD, and he will sustain you; he will never permit the righteous to be moved.

Ps 48:8 As we have heard, so have we seen in the city of the LORD of hosts, in the city of our God, which God will establish forever. Selah

This speaks of God keeping Jerusalem safe for ever.

Ps 23:4 Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,^w I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me.

^w Or the valley of deep darkness

A shepherd used a rod to fight off wild animals and a staff to guide and control the sheep. They are used here to portray God's care and protection (cf. GNT, NLT) and so his comfort of his people – even amidst evil.

Num 23:7-8, 23 And Balaam took up his discourse and said, “From Aram Balak has brought me, the king of Moab from the eastern mountains: ‘Come, curse Jacob for me, and come, denounce Israel!’⁸How can I curse whom God has not cursed? How can I denounce whom the LORD has not denounced?  ...²³For there is no enchantment against Jacob, no divination against Israel; now it shall be said of Jacob and Israel, ‘What has God wrought!’

Balaam, a pagan seer or diviner, was powerless to curse Israel (v. 8) – or use sorcery or divination against her (v. 23) – as God had not cursed Israel (v. 8) but rather blessed them (v. 23). In fact Balaam was compelled to likewise bless them (cf. ch. 23-24; Deut 23:5 .

Deut 23:5 But the LORD your God would not listen to Balaam; instead the LORD your God turned the curse into a blessing for you, because the LORD your God loved you.

Matt 16:18 And I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock^x I will build my church, and the gates of hell^y shall not prevail against it.

^x The Greek words for Peter and rock sound similar

^y Greek the gates of Hades

The “gates of Hades” could be a reference to evil powers – “all the powers of hell” (NLT; cf. NIV text note, AMP) – but it may in particular denote “death” (CEV, GNT, NCV).

Luke 10:19 Behold, I have given you authority to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall hurt you.

As the first part of the sentence probably refers to evil spiritual powers (cf. vv. 17, 20) and to Satan, “the enemy”, it is a fair assumption that Jesus was primarily referring to such evil forces in saying that nothing would harm his followers.

2Thes 3:3 But the Lord is faithful. He will establish you and guard you against the evil one.^z

^z Or evil

2Tim 4:18 The Lord will rescue me from every evil deed and bring me safely into his heavenly kingdom. To him be the glory forever and ever. Amen.

1Jn 5:18 We know that everyone who has been born of God does not keep on sinning, but he who was born of God protects him, and the evil one does not touch him.

The “he who was born of God” is Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

God and Jesus Christ keep their people as their own – until the end

God and Jesus Christ keep their people as their own, in a right relationship with them. In doing so they protect their people from spiritual harm throughout their lives, bringing their salvation to fruition at the end of the age.

John 6:39 And this is the will of him who sent me, that I should lose nothing of all that he has given me, but raise it up on the last day.

Jesus is speaking primarily of not losing any of all the people who God has given him (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT; John 18:8-9 ↓).

John 10:28-29 I give them eternal life, and they will never perish, and no one will snatch them out of my hand. ²⁹My Father, who has given them to me,^a is greater than all, and no one is able to snatch them out of the Father's hand.

^a Some manuscripts What my Father has given to me

John 18:8-9 Jesus answered, "I told you that I am he. So, if you seek me, let these men go."⁹This was to fulfill the word that he had spoken: "Of those whom you gave me I have lost not one."

The context shows Jesus to be referring firstly to physically not losing any of his disciples; but possibly the statement is also alluding to a spiritual dimension – applicable to not losing any of his followers. Note that the quotation attributed to Jesus in v. 9 (cf. John 17:12 ↓) is based on his words from 6:39 above.

John 17:11-12, 15 And I am no longer in the world, but they are in the world, and I am coming to you. Holy Father, keep them in your name, which you have given me, that they may be one, even as we are one. ¹²*While I was with them, I kept them in your name, which you have given me. I have guarded them, and not one of them has been lost* except the son of destruction, that the Scripture might be fulfilled.  ... ¹⁵*I do not ask that you take them out of the world, but that you keep them from the evil one.*^b

^b Or from evil

This request, it being made by Jesus, is effectively a promise of God's protection from Satan (v. 15) and all that is in the world (v. 11).

Rom 8:35-39 Who shall separate us from the love of Christ? Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or danger, or sword? ³⁶As it is written, "For your sake we are being killed all the day long; we are regarded as sheep to be slaughtered." ³⁷No, in all these things we are more than conquerors through him who loved us. ³⁸For I am sure that neither death nor life, nor angels nor rulers, nor things present nor things to come, nor powers, ³⁹nor height nor depth, nor anything else in all creation, will be able to separate us from the love of God in Christ Jesus our Lord.

There is nothing in all creation that can separate believers from God's love which is theirs in or "through" (GNT) Christ.

This points to the fact that God and Jesus Christ keep their followers, in a right and close relationship with them.

1Pet 1:4-5 ... to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ⁵*who by God's power are being guarded through faith for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.*

^d Or by

Jude 1:24 Now to him who is able to keep you from stumbling and to present you blameless before the presence of his glory with great joy, ...

The term "stumbling" would appear to mean falling into sin or error – both of which are grave dangers of false teachers who are so prominent in Jude's letter. The term could alternatively, or additionally, allude to actually falling away from the faith, the result of unchecked sin or error.

Jer 32:40 I will make with them an everlasting covenant, that I will not turn away from doing good to them. And I will put the fear of me in their hearts, that they may not turn from me.

This is speaking of the renewed Israel of the end time, reflective of the fact that God keeps his people.

2Tim 1:12 ... which is why I suffer as I do. But I am not ashamed, for I know whom I have believed, and I am convinced that he is able to guard until that Day what has been entrusted to me.^e

^e Or what I have entrusted to him; Greek my deposit

If the alternative rendering in the text note is to be preferred (cf. NASB, NIV, NKJV, NLT, NRSV), then Paul would appear to be speaking of trusting God to guard his ministry and its fruits, along with himself – even through death.

† God is not willing that any of his "little ones" be lost:

Matt 18:12-14 What do you think? If a man has a hundred sheep, and one of them has gone astray, does he not leave the ninety-nine on the mountains and go in search of the one that went astray? ¹³And if he finds it, truly, I say to you, he rejoices over it more than over the ninety-nine that never went astray. ¹⁴*So it is not the will of my^f Father who is in heaven that one of these little ones should perish.*

The term "little ones" is understood by most to refer to believers, possibly in particular to young or new ones.

God shields his people

Gen 15:1 After these things the word of the LORD came to Abram in a vision: "Fear not, Abram, I am your shield; your reward shall be very great."

Deut 33:29 Happy are you, O Israel! Who is like you, a people saved by the LORD, the shield of your help, and the sword of your triumph! Your enemies shall come fawning to you, and you shall tread upon their backs.

Ps 3:3 But you, O LORD, are a shield about me, my glory, and the lifter of my head.

Ps 28:7 The LORD is my strength and my shield; in him my heart trusts, and I am helped; my heart exults, and with my song I give thanks to him.

Ps 33:20 Our soul waits for the LORD; he is our help and our shield.

Prov 2:7 ... he stores up sound wisdom for the upright; he is a shield to those who walk in integrity, ...

Ps 91:4 He will cover you with his pinions, and under his wings you will find refuge; his faithfulness is a shield and buckler.

A "buckler" was a small shield.

Ps 140:7 O LORD, my Lord, the strength of my salvation, you have covered my head in the day of battle.

The phrase "covered my head" has the sense "shields my head" (NIV®). A similar point can be made regarding "covered" in Isaiah 51:16 immediately below.

Isa 51:16 And I have put my words in your mouth and covered you in the shadow of my hand, establishing^g the heavens and laying the foundations of the earth, and saying to Zion, 'You are my people.'

^g Or planting

Ps 121:5 The LORD is your keeper; the LORD is your shade on your right hand.

In likening God to "shade", the psalmist is speaking of God as covering his people (cf. Isa 51:16 ↑), shielding them from harm.

God surrounds his people

- Ps 3:3 ↑

Deut 33:12 Of Benjamin he said, "The beloved of the LORD dwells in safety. The High God^h surrounds him all day long, and dwells between his shoulders."

^h Septuagint; Hebrew dwells in safety by him. He

As noted earlier, the last phrase is either speaking of: the people dwelling in the safety of God's presence; or God dwelling in the midst of the people, to keep them safe. If the first alternative is correct, the phrase is suggestive of the people being surrounded by God, as per the preceding clause.

Ps 125:2 As the mountains surround Jerusalem, so the LORD surrounds his people, from this time forth and forevermore.

Ps 32:10 Many are the sorrows of the wicked, but steadfast love surrounds the one who trusts in the LORD.

God's steadfast love surrounds the one who trusts him, indicative of God himself surrounding them.

Ps 34:7 The angel of the LORD encamps around those who fear him, and delivers them.

Zec 2:4b-5 'Jerusalem shall be inhabited as villages without walls, because of the multitude of people and livestock in it. ⁵And I will be to her a wall of fire all around, declares the LORD, and I will be the glory in her midst.'

Here the renewed future Jerusalem appears to be ultimately in view.

2Ki 6:15-17 When the servant of the man of God rose early in the morning and went out, behold, an army with horses and chariots was all around the city. And the servant said, "Alas, my master! What shall we do?" ¹⁶He said, "Do not be afraid, for those who are with us are more than those who are with them." ¹⁷Then Elisha prayed and said, "O LORD, please open his eyes that he may see." So the LORD opened the eyes of the young man, and he saw, and behold, the mountain was full of horses and chariots of fire all around Elisha.

Verse 17 tells of Elisha's servant being enabled to see the surrounding heavenly forces – the "horses and chariots of fire".

Isa 58:8 Then shall your light break forth like the dawn, and your healing shall spring up speedily; your righteousness shall go before you; the glory of the LORD shall be your rear guard.

If "your righteousness" refers to God (cf. GNT, NCV, NRSV), this would speak of God both going before his people and being their rear guard, akin to surrounding them.

2Sam 22:2-3 He said, "The LORD is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer, ³my God, my rock, in whom I take refuge, my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold and my refuge, my savior; you save me from violence."

ⁱ Septuagint (compare Psalm 18:2); Hebrew lacks my

Similarly, in conjunction with God being a refuge, a number of the following verses speak of God as a "fortress" or a "stronghold" (or a "strong tower").

Prov 14:26, 32 In the fear of the LORD one has strong confidence, and his children will have a refuge. . . . ³²The wicked is overthrown through his evildoing, but the righteous finds refuge in his death.

Verse 26 indicates that when a man (or woman) fears God, his household will have a refuge in God. Verse 32b suggests that the righteous find a refuge "even in death" (AMP, NCV, NIV; cf. CEV), due to what will follow.

Jer 16:19 O LORD, my strength and my stronghold, my refuge in the day of trouble, to you shall the nations come from the ends of the earth and say: "Our fathers have inherited nothing but lies, worthless things in which there is no profit."

Ps 28:8 The LORD is the strength of his people; he is the saving refuge of his anointed.

^j Some Hebrew manuscripts, Septuagint, Syriac; most Hebrew manuscripts is their strength

Ps 48:3 Within her citadels God has made himself known as a fortress.

Ps 59:16 But I will sing of your strength; I will sing aloud of your steadfast love in the morning. For you have been to me a fortress and a refuge in the day of my distress.

Ps 27:1 The LORD is my light and my salvation; whom shall I fear? The LORD is the stronghold^k of my life; of whom shall I be afraid?

^k Or refuge

Ps 37:39 The salvation of the righteous is from the LORD; he is their stronghold in the time of trouble.

Ps 61:3 ... for you have been my refuge, a strong tower against the enemy.

Prov 18:10 The name of the LORD is a strong tower; the righteous man runs into it and is safe.

Ps 32:7 You are a hiding place for me; you preserve me from trouble; you surround me with shouts of deliverance. Selah

Ps 90:1 Lord, you have been our dwelling place¹ in all generations.

As reflected in the text note, "dwelling place" has the sense of refuge (cf. AMP) and/or place of repose.

Isa 4:5-6 Then the LORD will create over the whole site of Mount Zion and over her assemblies a cloud by day, and smoke and the shining of a flaming fire by night; for over all the glory there will be a canopy. ⁶There will be a booth for shade by day from the heat, and for a refuge and a shelter from the storm and rain.

This is seen by many as referring to the messianic age. Such blessing for Mount Zion and the people there is applicable in a spiritual sense to the church.

God is a rock for his people

References to God as a "rock" depict him as a secure mountain or stronghold of infallible strength, to whom his people can go for protection.

1Sam 2:2 There is none holy like the LORD; there is none besides you; there is no rock like our God.

2Sam 23:3 The God of Israel has spoken; the Rock of Israel has said to me: When one rules justly over men, ruling in the fear of God, ...

Ps 18:2, 31, 46 The LORD is my rock and my fortress and my deliverer, my God, my rock, in whom I take refuge, my shield, and the horn of my salvation, my stronghold. ... ³¹For who is God, but the LORD? And who is a rock, except our God?— ... ⁴⁶The LORD lives, and blessed be my rock, and exalted be the God of my salvation—

Ps 28:1 To you, O LORD, I call; my rock, be not deaf to me, lest, if you be silent to me, I become like those who go down to the pit.

Ps 89:26 He shall cry to me, 'You are my Father, my God, and the Rock of my salvation.'

Ps 94:22 But the LORD has become my stronghold, and my God the rock of my refuge.

Ps 95:1 Oh come, let us sing to the LORD; let us make a joyful noise to the rock of our salvation!

Isa 44:8b Is there a God besides me? There is no Rock; I know not any.

Hab 1:12b O LORD, you have ordained them as a judgment, and you, O Rock, have established them for reproof.

God guards and keeps his people . . .

As used in this subsection, the term "keep" means to guard, watch over and protect.

Ex 23:20 Behold, I send an angel before you to guard you on the way and to bring you to the place that I have prepared.

Due to the context, many commentators see this angel as possibly being the pre-incarnate Jesus Christ or as being identified with God himself. Whether or not it is simply an angel, this verse illustrates the fact that God guards his people, whether directly or through his agents (cf. Ps 91:11-12 ↓).

1Sam 2:9 He will guard the feet of his faithful ones, but the wicked shall be cut off in darkness, for not by might shall a man prevail.

Ps 12:7 You, O LORD, will keep them; you will guard us^p from this generation forever.

^p Or guard him

Here “them” most likely denotes the poor and needy (cf. v. 5).

Ps 91:11-12 For he will command his angels concerning you to guard you in all your ways. ¹²On their hands they will bear you up, lest you strike your foot against a stone.

God commands his angels to guard his people. As such, figuratively speaking they lift them up out of the way of harm.

Isa 52:12 For you shall not go out in haste, and you shall not go in flight, for the LORD will go before you, and the God of Israel will be your rear guard.

2Tim 1:12 ... which is why I suffer as I do. But I am not ashamed, for I know whom I have believed, and I am convinced that *he is able to guard until that Day what has been entrusted to me.*⁹

⁹ Or what I have entrusted to him; Greek my deposit

As noted earlier, as per the alternative rendering in the text note, Paul may be speaking of trusting God to guard himself, along with his ministry and its fruits – even through death.

1Pet 1:4-5 ... to an inheritance that is imperishable, undefiled, and unfading, kept in heaven for you, ⁵*who by God's power are being guarded through faith* for a salvation ready to be revealed in the last time.

Gen 28:15 Behold, I am with you and will keep you wherever you go, and will bring you back to this land. For I will not leave you until I have done what I have promised you.

shade on your right hand. ⁶The sun shall not strike you by day, nor the moon by night. ⁷The LORD will keep you from all evil; he will keep your life. ⁸The LORD will keep your going out and your coming in from this time forth and forevermore.

Isa 27:2-3 In that day, “A pleasant vineyard,^r sing of it! ³*I, the LORD, am its keeper; every moment I water it. Lest anyone punish it, I keep it night and day; ...*

Ps 127:1 Unless the LORD builds the house, those who build it labor in vain. Unless the LORD watches over the city, the watchman stays awake in vain.

This points to God watching over his people.

Ps 146:9 The LORD watches over the sojourners; he upholds the widow and the fatherless, but the way of the wicked he brings to ruin.

2Chr 16:9a For the eyes of the LORD run to and fro throughout the whole earth, to give strong support to those whose heart is blameless toward him.

Ezra 5:5 But the eye of their God was on the elders of the Jews, and they did not stop them until the report should reach Darius and then an answer be returned by letter concerning it.

This speaks of God watching over the Jews and their work of rebuilding the temple, so that they were not stopped while their enemies' accusations were being dealt with.

Jer 24:6 I will set my eyes on them for good, and I will bring them back to this land. I will build them up, and not tear them down; I will plant them, and not uproot them.

Zec 12:4 On that day, declares the LORD, I will strike every horse with panic, and its rider with madness. But for the sake of the house of Judah I will keep my eyes open, when I strike every horse of the peoples with blindness.

1Pet 3:12 For the eyes of the Lord are on the righteous, and his ears are open to their prayer. But the face of the Lord is against those who do evil.

‡ Joseph and Laban's oath at Mizpah:

Gen 31:49 ... and Mizpah,^s for he said, "The LORD watch between you and me, when we are out of one another's sight."

^s Mizpah means watchpost

Although sometimes applied as a blessing, in context this appears to be speaking of God watching that each of them did the right thing by the other.

God is a shepherd to his people . . .

The Bible at times portrays God and Jesus Christ as shepherds (and their people as sheep). As such they protect, rescue, lead, provide and generally care for their people. In conjunction with this, they have a close relationship with their people.

Gen 48:15 And he blessed Joseph and said, "The God before whom my fathers Abraham and Isaac walked, the God who has been my shepherd all my life long to this day, ...

Ps 23:1-4 The LORD is my shepherd; I shall not want. ²He makes me lie down in green pastures. He leads me beside still waters.^t ³He restores my soul. He leads me in paths of righteousness^u for his name's sake. ⁴Even though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death,^v I will fear no evil, for you are with me; your rod and your staff, they comfort me.

^t Hebrew beside waters of rest

^u Or in right paths

^v Or the valley of deep darkness

Ps 80:1 Give ear, O Shepherd of Israel, you who lead Joseph like a flock! You who are enthroned upon the cherubim, shine forth.

Similarly Psalms 77:20a says, "You led your people like a flock..."

Ps 100:3 Know that the LORD, he is God! It is he who made us, and we are his;^w we are his people, and the sheep of his pasture.

^w Or and not we ourselves

Isa 40:11 He will tend his flock like a shepherd; he will gather the lambs in his arms; he will carry them in his bosom, and gently lead those that are with young.

Jer 31:10 Hear the word of the LORD, O nations, and declare it in the coastlands far away; say, 'He who scattered Israel will gather him, and will keep him as a shepherd keeps his flock.'

Ezek 34:11-16 For thus says the Lord GOD: Behold, I, I myself will search for my sheep and will seek them out. ¹²As a shepherd seeks out his flock when he is among his sheep that have been scattered, so will I seek out my sheep, and I will rescue them from all places where they have been scattered on a day of clouds and thick darkness. ¹³And I will bring them out from the peoples and gather them from the countries, and will bring them into their own land. And I will feed them on the mountains of Israel, by the ravines, and in all the inhabited places of the country. ¹⁴I will feed them with good pasture, and on the mountain heights of Israel shall be their grazing land. There they shall lie down in good grazing land, and on rich pasture they shall feed on the mountains of Israel. ¹⁵I myself will be the shepherd of my sheep, and I myself will make them lie down, declares the Lord GOD. ¹⁶I will seek the lost, and I will bring back the strayed, and I will bind up the injured, and I will strengthen the weak, and the fat and the strong I will destroy.^x I will feed them in justice.

^x Septuagint, Syriac, Vulgate I will watch over

Verses 11-16a speak of God gathering his from Babylon and other places where they had been scattered, and bringing them back to the land of Israel. In v. 16, "the sleek and the strong" are the powerful among the people who oppress the others.

Mic 7:14 Shepherd your people with your staff, the flock of your inheritance, who dwell alone in a forest in the midst of a garden land;^y let them graze in Bashan and Gilead as in the days of old.

Zec 10:3 My anger is hot against the shepherds, and I will punish the leaders;^z for the LORD of hosts cares for his flock, the house of Judah, and will make them like his majestic steed in battle.

Luke 12:32 Fear not, little flock, for it is your Father's good pleasure to give you the kingdom. 📖

The implication is that Jesus, or perhaps God their Father, is like a shepherd to his people.

John 10:7, 9 So Jesus again said to them, "Truly, truly, I say to you, I am the door of the sheep. 📖 ... ⁹*I am the door. If anyone enters by me, he will be saved and will go in and out and find pasture.* 📖

Jesus claims to be the door/gate leading into salvation (v. 9), through which one can find pasture – the provision of one's needs.

Bear in mind that while many verses in the Bible assert that God looks after the needy (as most of this section shows), the Bible also speaks of the suffering of the needy (as per the first two subsections). As such the Bible often speaks of God delivering the needy as opposed to keeping them from experiencing any troubles – just as it often speaks of God saving his people out of troubles as opposed to keeping them from experiencing any troubles, though the latter is also spoken of. (See also the introductory comments on I. God's Saving of His People, p. 902, and God saves his people out of all troubles, p. 907.)

Also note that many of the references in this section may also have primarily in view the poor amongst the Israelites. Under the first covenant the Israelites – including the poor – experienced God's care and blessings in a more material way than his people generally do under the current second covenant, with the second covenant's blessings being largely spiritual and of the afterlife. Additionally, keep in mind that much of the teaching in this section is often interpreted as generality.

In considering the plight of the needy and God's response, we should also remember that the Bible often refers to God working through his people to achieve his purposes. One can infer from this that a good part of what God does to secure justice and protection for the needy – as spoken of in this section – he does through his people.

Isa 11:4 ... but with righteousness he shall judge the poor, and decide with equity for the meek of the earth; and he shall strike the earth with the rod of his mouth, and with the breath of his lips he shall kill the wicked.

The first clause may well speak of the Messiah righteously judging cases involving the poor and those who would oppress them.

ⁱ Or your congregation

Ps 132:15 I will abundantly bless her provisions; I will satisfy her poor with bread.

This possibly refers to the renewed Israel of the messianic age, as may well be the case in other verses in this subsection and elsewhere in this section.

Ps 146:5-7a Blessed is he whose help is the God of Jacob, whose hope is in the LORD his God, ⁶who made heaven and earth, the sea, and all that is in them, who keeps faith forever; ⁷who executes justice for the oppressed, who gives food to the hungry.

Isa 14:30 And the firstborn of the poor will graze, and the needy lie down in safety; but I will kill your root with famine, and your remnant it will slay.

This is speaking of the conditions for the poor amongst God's people following the fulfillment of his prophecy against the Philistines (cf. vv. 28-32).

Isa 41:17 When the poor and needy seek water, and there is none, and their tongue is parched with thirst, I the LORD will answer them; I the God of Israel will not forsake them.

1Sam 2:8 He raises up the poor from the dust; he lifts the needy from the ash heap to make them sit with princes and inherit a seat of honor. For the pillars of the earth are the LORD's, and on them he has set the world.

Ps 10:17 O LORD, you hear the desire of the afflicted; you will strengthen their heart; you will incline your ear ...

Ps 68:5-6 Father of the fatherless and protector of widows is God in his holy habitation. ⁶God settles the solitary in a home; he leads out the prisoners to prosperity, but the rebellious dwell in a parched land.

Ps 146:7b-9 The LORD sets the prisoners free; ⁸the LORD opens the eyes of the blind. The LORD lifts up those who are bowed down; the LORD loves the righteous. ⁹The LORD watches over the sojourners; he upholds the widow and the fatherless, but the way of the wicked he brings to ruin.

Here those who are "bowed down" (v. 8) are those who are buckling underneath adversity (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NLT).

Prov 15:25 The LORD tears down the house of the proud but maintains the widow's boundaries.

Hos 14:3 Assyria shall not save us; we will not ride on horses; and we will say no more, 'Our God,' to the work of our hands. In you the orphan finds mercy.

Although this does not state any specific way in which God looks after the needy, it does reinforce the fact that God acts toward the needy with mercy.

✦ The afflicted and needy will not be forgotten by God:

Ps 9:12, 18 For he who avenges blood is mindful of them; he does not forget the cry of the afflicted.  ... ¹⁸*For the needy shall not always be forgotten, and the hope of the poor shall not perish forever.*

I. General

God has wonderful plans and purposes for his people. Many of these concern the work he does through his people, with his incomparably great power. God promises to fulfill these plans and purposes, equipping and guiding his people accordingly.

a) God Has Plans and Purposes for His People

Bear in mind that references to God's plans and purposes for his people include: general plans/purposes which apply to all Christians; and specific plans/purposes for each Christian. The various general ones – such as salvation and sanctification – are dealt with in a number of other chapters in this book. This section looks at topics which show that God has specific plans and purposes for each of his people.

Thus the verses have largely been interpreted as such, i.e. as speaking of God having plans or purposes for specific people, or specific groups of his people. However, note that a number of the verses are also applicable to God's general plans and purposes, and arguably may even have these foremost in view.

Subsections

God has plans and purposes for his people

Ps 40:5 You have multiplied, O LORD my God, your wondrous deeds and your thoughts toward us; none can compare with you! I will proclaim and tell of them, yet they are more than can be told.

The phrase "your thoughts toward us" appears to refer to – or at least be inclusive of – God's plans for his people (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

Ps 139:16 Your eyes saw my unformed substance; in your book were written, every one of them, the days that were formed for me, when as yet there was none of them.

This quite possibly refers primarily to the content of the days (cf. CEV) – not just the number of them. As such it would imply that each person's days are planned by God.

Jer 29:11 For I know the plans I have for you, declares the LORD, plans for welfare^a and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope.

^a Or peace

Here God speaks of his plans for the people of Israel. The aims of the plans – to bless them and give them a future and hope – are largely applicable to God's individual plans for each of his people. For God blesses each believer spiritually and gives them "a future and a hope".

Acts 13:36 For David, after he had served the purpose of God in his own generation, fell asleep and was laid with his fathers and saw corruption, ...

God's plans and purposes include work for his people to do

Acts 20:24 But I do not account my life of any value nor as precious to myself, if only I may finish my course and the ministry that I received from the Lord Jesus, to testify to the gospel of the grace of God.

1Cor 3:5 What then is Apollos? What is Paul? Servants through whom you believed, as the Lord assigned to each. 📖

The final clause may well be referring to the Lord assigning to each believer – here Apollos and Paul in particular – the work he has for them (cf. AMP, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT); hence the verse’s inclusion here. Alternatively, it could be speaking of the Lord assigning belief to each of those who had believed (cf. CEV).

2Cor 10:13 But we will not boast beyond limits, but will boast only with regard to the area of influence God assigned to us, to reach even to you. 📖

The expression “the area of influence God assigned to us” refers to the work that God had assigned to them (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV) – more specifically, the “sphere” (NASB, NKJV) of their work, which for Paul and his colleagues included Corinth.

Gal 2:7 On the contrary, when they saw that I had been entrusted with the gospel to the uncircumcised, just as Peter had been entrusted with the gospel to the circumcised. 📖

Est 4:13-14 Then Mordecai told them to reply to Esther, “Do not think to yourself that in the king’s palace you will escape any more than all the other Jews. ¹⁴For if you keep silent at this time, relief and deliverance will rise for the Jews from another place, but you and your father’s house will perish. And who knows whether you have not come to the kingdom for such a time as this?” 📖

In the rhetorical question (v. 14b) Mordecai is implying that the making of Esther as queen of Persia may well have been part of God’s plan to save his people – which indeed proved to be the case (cf. ch. 5-7).

God’s plans and purposes are not dependent upon a person’s background

Amos 7:14-15 Then Amos answered and said to Amaziah, “I was^b no prophet, nor a prophet’s son, but I was a herdsman and a dresser of sycamore figs. ¹⁵*But the LORD took me from following the flock, and the LORD said to me, ‘Go, prophesy to my people Israel.’*” 📖

^b Or am; twice in this verse

Matt 4:18-19 While walking by the Sea of Galilee, he saw two brothers, Simon (who is called Peter) and Andrew his brother, casting a net into the sea, for they were fishermen. ¹⁹*And he said to them, “Follow me, and I will make you fishers of men.”* 📖

Luke 5:27 After this he went out and saw a tax collector named Levi, sitting at the tax booth. And he said to him, “Follow me.” 📖

Tax collectors were despised as traitors and thieves, often taxing more than the ruling Romans required, for their own gain. Thus Jesus’ choice of Levi to follow him as a disciple would have seemed strange, as would have been his choice of fishermen (cf. Matt 4:18-19 ↑) – who generally “were uneducated, common men” (Acts 4:13 ↓). However the apparent inappropriateness of these choices is dwarfed by the choice of Saul (cf. Acts 9:13-15 ↓), who had been the chief persecutor of God’s church.

Acts 4:13 Now when they saw the boldness of Peter and John, and perceived that they were uneducated, common men, they were astonished. And they recognized that they had been with Jesus. 📖

Acts 9:13-15 But Ananias answered, “Lord, I have heard from many about this man, how much evil he has done to your saints at Jerusalem. ¹⁴*And here he has authority from the chief priests to bind all who call on your name.”* ¹⁵*But the Lord said to him, “Go, for he is a chosen instrument of mine to carry my name before the Gentiles and kings and the children of Israel.*” 📖

They are a gift to you, given to the LORD, to do the service of the tent of meeting. ⁷And you and your sons with you shall guard your priesthood for all that concerns the altar and that is within the veil; and you shall serve. I give your priesthood as a gift;^c and any outsider who comes near shall be put to death. ⁸Then the LORD spoke to Aaron, "Behold, I have given you charge of the contributions made to me, all the consecrated things of the people of Israel. I have given them to you as a portion and to your sons as a perpetual due.

Jer 1:4-5, 9-10 Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying, ⁵"Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, and before you were born I consecrated you; I appointed you a prophet to the nations."  ... ⁹Then the LORD put out his hand and touched my mouth. And the LORD said to me, "Behold, I have put my words in your mouth. ¹⁰See, I have set you this day over nations and over kingdoms, to pluck up and to break down, to destroy and to overthrow, to build and to plant."

Verse 10 refers to the content of God's messages that Jeremiah would pronounce, in his appointed role as "a prophet to the nations" (v. 5).

Acts 13:2 While they were worshiping the Lord and fasting, the Holy Spirit said, "Set apart for me Barnabas and Saul for the work to which I have called them."

In spite of his people's troubles, God will fulfill his plans and purposes for them

Ps 57:1-2 Be merciful to me, O God, be merciful to me, for in you my soul takes refuge; in the shadow of your wings I will take refuge, till the storms of destruction pass by. ²I cry out to God Most High, to God who fulfills his purpose for me.

Ps 138:7-8 Though I walk in the midst of trouble, you preserve my life; you stretch out your hand against the wrath of my enemies, and your right hand delivers me. ⁸The LORD will fulfill his purpose for me; your steadfast love, O LORD, endures forever. Do not forsake the work of your hands.

Jer 15:10-11 Woe is me, my mother, that you bore me, a man of strife and contention to the whole land! I have not lent, nor have I borrowed, yet all of them curse me. ¹¹The LORD said, "Have I not^d set you free for their good? Have I not pleaded for you before the enemy in the time of trouble and in the time of distress?

^d The meaning of the Hebrew is uncertain

In v. 11 God appears to be speaking of intervening in Jeremiah's predicament and setting him free "for purposes of good" (NASB), quite likely purposes that God would fulfill through Jeremiah.

Jer 29:10-11 For thus says the LORD: When seventy years are completed for Babylon, I will visit you, and I will fulfill to you my promise and bring you back to this place. ¹¹For I know the plans I have for you, declares the LORD, plans for welfare^e and not for evil, to give you a future and a hope.

^e Or peace

Despite his people's exile in Babylon and the apparent decimation of the nation, God would fulfill his promise and plans for them.

Acts 7:35-36 This Moses, whom they rejected, saying, 'Who made you a ruler and a judge?'—this man God sent as both ruler and redeemer by the hand of the angel who appeared to him in the bush. ³⁶This man led them out, performing wonders and signs in Egypt and at the Red Sea and in the wilderness for forty years.

Rev 3:7-8 And to the angel of the church in Philadelphia write: "The words of the holy one, the true one, who has the key of David, who opens and no one will shut, who shuts and no one opens. ⁸"I know your works. Behold, I have set before you an open door, which no one is able to shut. I know that you have but little power, and yet you have kept my word and have not denied my name.

The "open door, which no one is able to shut" (v. 8a) may well be the door to God's kingdom, but it could be speaking of an opportunity for service. If the latter is the case, this passage well reflects the fact that no one or no thing can foil God and Jesus Christ's purposes for their people, despite their people's troubles (v. 8b).

‡ If God's plans for his people take some time to eventuate, there is a reason:

Deut 7:22 The LORD your God will clear away these nations before you little by little. You may not make an end of them at once,^f lest the wild beasts grow too numerous for you.

^f Or quickly

This verse gives an example of a reason for God's plans for his people taking time to eventuate.

God may actually use his people's troubles in fulfilling his purposes for them . . .

See also:

- God works everything for his purposes and plans, p. 271
- God can use evil, p. 273

Although a number of the following passages do not actually say that God or Christ used the troubles spoken of in fulfilling their purposes for their people, in each it would appear to be the case.

Matt 10:23 When they persecute you in one town, flee to the next, for truly, I say to you, you will not have gone through all the towns of Israel before the Son of Man comes.

The phrase "through all the towns of Israel" has advancing God's kingdom in view (cf. vv. 6-8). The inference is that God at times allows persecution, using it to spread the Gospel. That God and Christ do this is clearly shown by Jesus' words below in Luke 21:12-13 and is subsequently illustrated in Acts 8:3-4, Acts 11:19-21 and Philipians 1:12-14.

Luke 21:12-13 But before all this they will lay their hands on you and persecute you, delivering you up to the synagogues and prisons, and you will be brought before kings and governors for my name's sake. ¹³This will be your opportunity to bear witness.

Acts 8:3-4 But Saul was ravaging the church, and entering house after house, he dragged off men and women and committed them to prison. ⁴Now those who were scattered went about preaching the word.

Acts 11:19-21 Now those who were scattered because of the persecution that arose over Stephen traveled as far as Phoenicia and Cyprus and Antioch, speaking the word to no one except Jews. ²⁰But there were some of them, men of Cyprus and Cyrene, who on coming to Antioch spoke to the Hellenists[‡] also, preaching the Lord Jesus. ²¹And the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number who believed turned to the Lord.

In New Testament usage, depending on the context, adelphoi may refer either to men or to both men and women who are siblings (brothers and sisters) in God's family, the church; also verse 14

ⁱ Greek in the whole praetorium

^j Some manuscripts add of God

God used both Paul's imprisonment and animosity towards Paul from insincere preachers, to advance the gospel. In addition to using these things in fulfilling his purposes for Paul, they would be used by God – through prayer and the help of the Holy Spirit – for Paul's "deliverance" (v. 19), referring to either deliverance from prison (cf. v. 25) or the culmination of Paul's salvation on his death (cf. v. 20-21).

Rom 8:28 And we know that for those who love God all things work together for good,^k for those who are called according to his purpose.

^k Some manuscripts God works all things together for good, or God works in all things for the good

This is an example of "purpose" referring more to God's general purposes for his people, rather than specific tasks for certain people. Here God's purpose for his people – which they "are called according to" – appears to refer foremost to their being "conformed to the image of his Son" (v. 29). The phrase "all things" probably primarily refers to adverse experiences (cf. v. 18). Despite whatever adversity "those who love God" might encounter, God will work all such things for their good, that they might be made like Jesus Christ.

... God may even initiate seemingly bad things to fulfill his purposes for his people

Note that although not stated, possibly some of the troubles mentioned in the previous subsection were also initiated by God or Christ.

Gen 45:4-5, 8 So Joseph said to his brothers, "Come near to me, please." And they came near. And he said, "I am your brother, Joseph, whom you sold into Egypt." ⁵And now do not be distressed or angry with yourselves because you sold me here, for God sent me before you to preserve life. ... ⁸So it was not you who sent me here, but God. He has made me a father to Pharaoh, and lord of all his house and ruler over all the land of Egypt.

Gen 50:19-20 But Joseph said to them, "Do not fear, for am I in the place of God? ²⁰As for you, you meant evil against me, but God meant it for good, to bring it about that many people¹ should be kept alive, as they are today.

¹ Or a numerous people

Ex 13:17-18a When Pharaoh let the people go, God did not lead them by way of the land of the Philistines, although that was near. For God said, "Lest the people change their minds when they see war and return to Egypt." ¹⁸But God led the people around by the way of the wilderness toward the Red Sea.

God took the people by the longer and more arduous desert road, which may well have seemed to be a "bad thing" that God had initiated. But God in fact had the people's welfare and his plans or purposes for them in view (v. 17b).

Job 42:11 Then came to him all his brothers and sisters and all who had known him before, and ate bread with him in his house. And they showed him sympathy and comforted him for all the evil^m that the LORD had brought upon him. And each of them gave him a piece of moneyⁿ and a ring of gold.

^mOr disaster

ⁿ Hebrew a qesitah; a unit of money of unknown value

God is said to have brought Job's trouble upon him, presumably because he allowed Satan to afflict Job. God's purpose in this was, in part at least, to prove Job's righteousness (cf. ch. 1-2).

John 9:1-3, 6-7 As he passed by, he saw a man blind from birth. ²And his disciples asked him, "Rabbi, who sinned, this man or his parents, that he was born blind?" ³Jesus answered, "It was not that this man sinned, or his parents, but that the works of God might be displayed in him." ... ⁶Having said these things, he spat on the ground and made mud with the saliva. Then he anointed the man's eyes with the mud ⁷and said to him, "Go, wash in the pool of Siloam" (which means Sent). So he went and washed and came back seeing.

This implies that the man's blindness originated from God – for God's purposes.

Philem 1:15-16 For this perhaps is why he was parted from you for a while, that you might have him back forever, ¹⁶*no longer as a slave^o but more than a slave, as a beloved brother—especially to me, but how much more to you, both in the flesh and in the Lord.*

^o Greek bondservant; twice in this verse

Paul suggests that Philemon's prior loss of his slave, Onesimus, was perhaps divinely initiated so that Philemon would have Onesimus back for good – as a brother.

1Pet 3:17 For it is better to suffer for doing good, if that should be God's will, than for doing evil.

Suffering for doing good can be part of God's will for believers. This points to God using and even initiating suffering, in fulfilling his purposes for believers.

‡ Samson's apparently improper intent was initiated by God for his own purpose:

Judg 14:1-4 Samson went down to Timnah, and at Timnah he saw one of the daughters of the Philistines. ²Then he came up and told his father and mother, "I saw one of the daughters of the Philistines at Timnah. Now get her for me as my wife." ³But his father and mother said to him, "Is there not a woman among the daughters of your relatives, or among all our people, that you must go to take a wife from the uncircumcised Philistines?" But Samson said to his father, "Get her for me, for she is right in my eyes." ⁴His father and mother did not know that it was from the LORD, for he was seeking an opportunity against the Philistines. At that time the Philistines ruled over Israel.

Acts 18:21 But on taking leave of them he said, "I will return to you if God wills," and he set sail from Ephesus.

Rom 1:9-10 For God is my witness, whom I serve with my spirit in the gospel of his Son, that without ceasing I mention you ¹⁰always in my prayers, asking that somehow by God's will I may now at last succeed in coming to you.

Paul appears to pray that his request be in accordance with God's will or, similarly, be achieved through God's will. As such he acknowledges that his plans are subject to God's will. The case appears to be the same with the similar use of the phrase "by God's will" in 15:31-32 immediately below.

Rom 15:31-32 ...that I may be delivered from the unbelievers in Judea, and that my service for Jerusalem may be acceptable to the saints, ³²*so that by God's will I may come to you with joy* and be refreshed in your company.

1Cor 4:19 But I will come to you soon, if the Lord wills, and I will find out not the talk of these arrogant people but their power.

1Cor 16:7 For I do not want to see you now just in passing. I hope to spend some time with you, if the Lord permits.

Heb 6:3 And this we will do if God permits.

Acts 16:6-7 And they went through the region of Phrygia and Galatia, having been forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia. ⁷*And when they had come up to Mysia, they attempted to go into Bithynia, but the Spirit of Jesus did not allow them.*

Contrary to Paul's plans, it was not God's will that Paul should preach the word in the province of Asia at this time, but rather Macedonia (cf. vv. 8-9). Later Paul did go to the province of Asia (cf. 19:9-10, 22, 26, 20:18-21). The gospel was likewise also made known in Bithynia (cf. 1Pet 1:1).

1Chr 13:2-3 And David said to all the assembly of Israel, "If it seems good to you and from the LORD our God, let us send abroad to our brothers who remain in all the lands of Israel, as well as to the priests and Levites in the cities that have pasturelands, that they may be gathered to us. ³*Then let us bring again the ark of our God to us, for we did not seek it^P in the days of Saul.*"

^P Or him

Here David seems to be meaning that the appropriateness and/or success of his plan was dependent on it being God's will – "if it is the will of the LORD" (GNT, NIV, NLT).

✦ What God's people do is in his hands:

Ecdl 9:1a But all this I laid to heart, examining it all, how the righteous and the wise and their deeds are in the hand of God.

God has control over (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV) that which is said to be "in the hand of God". Here this would appear to encompass what the righteous actually do, along with the success and effect of their deeds.

Acts 9:33-34 There he found a man named Aeneas, bedridden for eight years, who was paralyzed. ³⁴*And Peter said to him, “Aeneas, Jesus Christ heals you; rise and make your bed.” And immediately he rose.*

This indicates that Jesus Christ healed Aeneas through Peter.

1Cor 12:6 ... and there are varieties of activities, but it is the same God who empowers them all in everyone.

The context indicates that the “varieties of activities” probably refers to the diversity of work performed as a result of “varieties of gifts” (v. 4). The final phrase appears to be speaking of God doing these works through his people (cf. NLT, NCV).

2Cor 3:3 And you show that you are a letter from Christ delivered by us, written not with ink but with the Spirit of the living God, not on tablets of stone but on tablets of human hearts.^r

^r Greek fleshly hearts

Paul did not need letters of recommendation about himself to take to the Corinthians. For their own lives acted as such, having been written by Christ through Paul’s ministry.

2Cor 13:2-3 I warned those who sinned before and all the others, and I warn them now while absent, as I did when present on my second visit, that if I come again I will not spare them—³*since you seek proof that Christ is speaking in me*. He is not weak in dealing with you, but is powerful among you.

Note that the “proof” (v. 3a) that Christ was speaking in or through Paul would be the authority Paul would exert, if necessary, on his return (v. 2).

1Cor 15:10 But by the grace of God I am what I am, and his grace toward me was not in vain. On the contrary, I worked harder than any of them, though it was not I, but the grace of God that is with me.

Paul implies that in essence his hard work was not of himself, but God working in and/or through him.

Eph 4:6 ... one God and Father of all, who is over all and through all and in all.

The phrase “through all” may well mean “works through all” (GNT, cf. CEV), or at least encompass God working through “all”. Note that “all” could mean all things, rather than only all Christians.

Heb 13:20-21 Now may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, ²¹*equip you with everything good that you may do his will, working in us^s that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.*

^s Some manuscripts you

Particularly in light of the context, the phrase “working in us” is probably referring to God working through his people (cf. CEV), but alternatively it could possibly be speaking of him working in them themselves, molding them.

2Pet 3:2 ... that you should remember the predictions of the holy prophets and the commandment of the Lord and Savior through your apostles, ...

The “commandment of the Lord and Savior” probably refers to Jesus’ teachings as a whole, although some commentators think that the command to love one another may be primarily in view. It was given or made known through the apostles.

Eph 3:8-10 To me, though I am the very least of all the saints, this grace was given, to preach to the Gentiles the unsearchable riches of Christ, ⁹and to bring to light for everyone what is the plan of the mystery hidden for ages in^t God who created all things, ¹⁰*so that through the church the manifold wisdom of God might now be made known to the rulers and authorities in the heavenly places.*

^t Or by

Verse 10 speaks of God working through his people in primarily a passive sense, rather than in them actively doing his work. Paul is referring to God making known his wisdom to the heavenly powers through the church, by the union of the Gentiles with Israel in the one church body (cf. v. 6).

^x Or For if the blood of goats and bulls, and the sprinkling of defiled persons with the ashes of a heifer, sanctifies

^y Some manuscripts your

In v. 14, the phrase “purify our conscience” may have at least partly in view purification from sin, through Christ's death. With one's conscience no longer having past sin to deal with, it has been purified from sin and the need to perform “dead works” – quite possibly the ultimately useless rituals of the law – to attempt to address the defilement of sin. As such Christians are made ready to serve God.

Titus 2:14 ... who gave himself for us to redeem us from all lawlessness and to purify for himself a people for his own possession who are zealous for good works.

Jesus Christ purified us so that we would be his own – and as such be eager to do what is good, serving him.

Zeph 3:9 For at that time I will change the speech of the peoples to a pure speech, that all of them may call upon the name of the LORD and serve him with one accord.

The reference is to all nations in the messianic era, but this is still illustrative of the fact that in all eras God purifies and makes his people holy for them to serve him.

John 15:1-2 I am the true vine, and my Father is the vinedresser. ²Every branch in me that does not bear fruit he takes away, and every branch that does bear fruit he prunes, that it may bear more fruit.

The term “prunes” alludes to cleansing (cf. AMP, CEV, GNT, NCV). With the reference to pruning suggesting discipline or trials, v. 2 points to God continuing to cleanse his people and make them holy throughout their life of service.

Luke 1:68-69, 74-75 Blessed be the Lord God of Israel, for he has visited and redeemed his people ⁶⁹and has raised up a horn of salvation for us in the house of his servant David,  ... ⁷⁴*that we, being delivered from the hand of our enemies, might serve him without fear,* ⁷⁵*in holiness and righteousness before him all our days.*

This appears to speak of how through Jesus Christ – the “horn of salvation” (v. 69) – God would make his people holy and righteous (v. 75), enabling them to serve him (v. 74). Jesus Christ’s sacrifice is the prime reason for God’s people being made holy and ready to serve God (cf. Heb 9:13-14 ↑; Titus 2:14 ↑; John 17:17-19 ↓; Rev 1:5b-6 ↓; Rev 5:9-10 ↓).

John 17:17-19 Sanctify them^z in the truth; your word is truth. ¹⁸As you sent me into the world, so I have sent them into the world. ¹⁹And for their sake I consecrate myself,^a that they also may be sanctified^b in truth.

^z Greek Set them apart (for holy service to God)

^a Or I sanctify myself; or I set myself apart (for holy service to God)

^b Greek may be set apart (for holy service to God)

As reflected in the text note, “sanctify” involves setting apart something or someone (from that which is not holy) for God’s holy service. By sanctifying his people, God in effect dedicates them to himself (cf. GNT) for his use. Note that in v. 19 Jesus appears to be speaking of totally dedicating or giving himself to God’s service (cf. CEV, GNT, NLT), alluding to his approaching sacrifice of his life, by which in turn his followers would be sanctified.

... God effectively makes them priests, to serve him

Ex 19:5-6 Now therefore, if you will indeed obey my voice and keep my covenant, you shall be my treasured possession among all peoples, for all the earth is mine; ⁶and you shall be to me a kingdom of priests and a holy nation. These are the words that you shall speak to the people of Israel.

The description of the Israelites as a kingdom of “priests” points to their dedication to God’s service – involving them being a “holy nation”. In addition it may well allude to God mediating salvation and other blessings through Israel to the other nations. Verse 6a appears to be in view in the NT passages below, which point to the church taking on Israel’s priestly role.

Ex 29:1a “Now this is what you shall do to them to consecrate them, that they may serve me as priests.

Consecrate means to set apart for God or dedicate as sacred to him. In the OT God consecrated those of the family of Aaron in particular – through the directions he gave to Moses (cf. vv. 1-37) – to serve him as priests. This has a wider application to God’s consecration of believers generally, with the NT speaking of believers as priests.

1Pet 2:4-5, 9 As you come to him, a living stone rejected by men but in the sight of God chosen and precious, ⁵*you yourselves like living stones are being built up as a spiritual house, to be a holy priesthood, to offer spiritual sacrifices acceptable to God through Jesus Christ.*  ... ⁹But you are a chosen race, a royal priesthood, a holy nation, a people for his own possession, that you may proclaim the excellencies of him who called you out of darkness into his marvelous light.

Christians form a priesthood, with each of them in a sense being a priest, serving God. As such they are to be holy and are to offer spiritual sacrifices (v. 5). Note that a further aspect of their priesthood is their ministry to and on behalf of others, with believers as priests having direct access to God.

Rev 1:5b-6 To him who loves us and has freed us from our sins by his blood ⁶and made us a kingdom, priests to his God and Father, to him be glory and dominion forever and ever. Amen.

The phrase “priests to his God and Father” has the sense: “priests to serve his God and Father” (GNT, NIV; cf. CEV, NCV, NLT) – as does the similar phrase “priests to our God” below in 5:10.

Rev 5:9-10 And they sang a new song, saying, “Worthy are you to take the scroll and to open its seals, for you were slain, and by your blood you ransomed people for God from every tribe and language and people and nation, ¹⁰and you have made them a kingdom and priests to our God, and they shall reign on the earth.”

Isa 61:6 ... but you shall be called the priests of the LORD; they shall speak of you as the ministers of our God; you shall eat the wealth of the nations, and in their glory you shall boast.

The renewed future Israel is in view here.

✦ Believers as priests reigning with Jesus Christ in the “thousand years”:

God and Jesus Christ send their people to do God’s work. God’s work of course includes work within our church, but often entails going out into the world (as reflected in most of the verses in this subsection). This involves furthering God’s purposes – such as spreading the gospel – in situations where we have contact with non-believers, like our workplace. It may even involve actually changing our circumstances, such as leaving our locality or even our country, so as to further God’s purposes amongst non-believers.

Ex 3:10 Come, I will send you to Pharaoh that you may bring my people, the children of Israel, out of Egypt.

Ezek 2:3-4 And he said to me, “Son of man, I send you to the people of Israel, to nations of rebels, who have rebelled against me. They and their fathers have transgressed against me to this very day. ⁴The descendants also are impudent and stubborn: I send you to them, and you shall say to them, ‘Thus says the Lord GOD.’”

Matt 28:19-20 Go therefore and make disciples of all nations, baptizing them in^c the name of the Father and of the Son and of the Holy Spirit, ²⁰teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you. And behold, I am with you always, to the end of the age.

Note that in addition to sending them out, Jesus Christ also tells his followers to ask God to send out more workers (v. 3b).

John 4:38 I sent you to reap that for which you did not labor. Others have labored, and you have entered into their labor.

This speaks of “reaping” people who are “ripe” or ready for belief and entry into God’s kingdom. For further comment on this verse, see Insights regarding spreading the gospel, p. 1775.

John 15:16 You did not choose me, but I chose you and appointed you that you should go and bear fruit and that your fruit should abide, so that whatever you ask the Father in my name, he may give it to you.

Rom 10:15 And how are they to preach unless they are sent? As it is written, “How beautiful are the feet of those who preach the good news!”

Paul appears to have in mind God sending believers to preach the gospel. Parallels with this verse can be made with churches, on behalf of God, sending out missionaries. Note that Paul appears to assert that it is only because God has sent his people to spread the gospel – a commission given to all of them – that they can do so.

Acts 13:4 So, being sent out by the Holy Spirit, they went down to Seleucia, and from there they sailed to Cyprus.

Phil 2:12-13 Therefore, my beloved, as you have always obeyed, so now, not only as in my presence but much more in my absence, work out your own salvation with fear and trembling, ¹³for it is God who works in you, both to will and to work for his good pleasure.

This suggests that the Holy Spirit was stirring or moving Samson towards doing God's work.

1Sam 11:6-7 And the Spirit of God rushed upon Saul when he heard these words, and his anger was greatly kindled. ⁷He took a yoke of oxen and cut them in pieces and sent them throughout all the territory of Israel by the hand of messengers, saying, "Whoever does not come out after Saul and Samuel, so shall it be done to his oxen!" Jonah 1:1-4, 12; 3:1-3a Now the word of the LORD came to Jonah the son of Amittai, saying, ²"Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and call out against it, for their evil^f has come up before me." ³But Jonah rose to flee to Tarshish from the presence of the LORD. He went down to Joppa and found a ship going to Tarshish. So he paid the fare and went on board, to go with them to Tarshish, away from the presence of the LORD. ⁴But the LORD hurled a great wind upon the sea, and there was a mighty tempest on the sea, so that the ship threatened to break up.  ... ¹²He [Jonah] said to them, "Pick me up and hurl me into the sea; then the sea will quiet down for you, for I know it is because of me that this great tempest has come upon you."  ... ^{3:1}Then the word of the LORD came to Jonah the second time, saying, ²"Arise, go to Nineveh, that great city, and call out against it the message that I tell you." ³So Jonah arose and went to Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD.

^f The same Hebrew word can mean evil or disaster, depending on the context; so throughout Jonah

The LORD thwarted Jonah's efforts to flee (vv. 4, 12), as he tried to avoid carrying out the purpose to which God had called him (vv. 1-3). As a result of this and his experience in the great fish (cf. 1:17-2:10), when God called Jonah a second time to go to Nineveh, he obeyed (cf. 3:1-3a).

1Sam 3:19 And Samuel grew, and the LORD was with him and let none of his words fall to the ground.

This and 16:13-14 below are examples of Jesus Christ working with his people, making their work fruitful.

Acts 16:13-14 And on the Sabbath day we went outside the gate to the riverside, where we supposed there was a place of prayer, and we sat down and spoke to the women who had come together. ¹⁴One who heard us was a woman named Lydia, from the city of Thyatira, a seller of purple goods, who was a worshiper of God. The Lord opened her heart to pay attention to what was said by Paul.

Acts 26:22 To this day I have had the help that comes from God, and so I stand here testifying both to small and great, saying nothing but what the prophets and Moses said would come to pass: ...

Ezra 5:3-5 At the same time Tattenai the governor of the province Beyond the River and Shethar-bozenai and their associates came to them and spoke to them thus: "Who gave you a decree to build this house and to finish this structure?" ⁴Theyⁱ also asked them this: "What are the names of the men who are building this building?" ⁵But the eye of their God was on the elders of the Jews, and they did not stop them until the report should reach Darius and then an answer be returned by letter concerning it.

ⁱ Septuagint, Syriac; Aramaic We

Note that Darius's reply not only sanctioned the continuation of the rebuilding of the temple (cf. 6:6-7), but even stipulated that the Jews' enemies were to aid them (cf. 6:8-10).

Ezra 7:6, 9 ... this Ezra went up from Babylonia. He was a scribe skilled in the Law of Moses that the LORD, the God of Israel, had given, and the king granted him all that he asked, for the hand of the LORD his God was on him.  ... ⁹For on the first day of the first month he began to go up from Babylonia, and on the first day of the fifth month he came to Jerusalem, for the good hand of his God was on him.

That for which Ezra asked the king (v. 6) would have been for his journey to Jerusalem and his work there for the LORD. Quite probably the things requested would have been seen as necessary by Ezra for God's work. God made it possible for this work to be done partly through his "hand" in the king's granting of the request (v. 6), and seeing Ezra and those with him safely through their journey to Jerusalem (v. 9).

Isa 45:1-2 Thus says the LORD to his anointed, to Cyrus, whose right hand I have grasped, to subdue nations before him and to loose the belts of kings, to open doors before him that gates may not be closed: ²"I will go before you and level the exalted places;^j I will break in pieces the doors of bronze and cut through the bars of iron, ...

^j Masoretic Text; Dead Sea Scroll, Septuagint level the mountains

This speaks of God going before the Persian king Cyrus, breaking down any obstacles as he used Cyrus to do his work. This can be applied to God removing obstacles to make it possible for his people to do his work.

1Cor 16:8-9 But I will stay in Ephesus until Pentecost, ⁹for a wide door for effective work has opened to me, and there are many adversaries.

Quite likely Paul saw God or Jesus Christ behind the opening of this "door" of opportunity (cf. 2Cor 2:12 ↓; Col 4:3 ↓) for his ministry.

2Cor 2:12-13 When I came to Troas to preach the gospel of Christ, even though a door was opened for me in the Lord, ¹³my spirit was not at rest because I did not find my brother Titus there. So I took leave of them and went on to Macedonia.

Col 4:3 At the same time, pray also for us, that God may open to us a door for the word, to declare the mystery of Christ, on account of which I am in prison—

2Cor 9:8-11 And God is able to make all grace abound to you, so that having all sufficiency^k in all things at all times, you may abound in every good work. ⁹As it is written, "He has distributed freely, he has given to the poor; his righteousness endures forever." ¹⁰He who supplies seed to the sower and bread for food will supply and multiply your seed for sowing and increase the harvest of your righteousness. ¹¹You will be enriched in every way to be generous in every way, which through us will produce thanksgiving to God. 📖

^k Or all contentment

Further to making it possible for his people to do good works, note that the last clause of v. 10 speaks of God making their good works productive, with their good works being the manifestation of their "righteousness" (cf. AMP).

✦ God was with Solomon to enable him to complete the work of building God's temple:

Luke 24:46-49 ... and said to them, "Thus it is written, that the Christ should suffer and on the third day rise from the dead, ⁴⁷and that repentance and forgiveness of sins should be proclaimed in his name to all nations, beginning from Jerusalem. ⁴⁸You are witnesses of these things. ⁴⁹And behold, I am sending the promise of my Father upon you. But stay in the city until you are clothed with power from on high." 📖

The power to be given (v. 49) – in the bestowal of the Holy Spirit (cf. Acts 1:8 ↓; John 20:21-22 ↓) – would be for witnessing (v. 48) to what Christ had accomplished (vv. 46-47).

Acts 1:8 But you will receive power when the Holy Spirit has come upon you, and you will be my witnesses in Jerusalem and in all Judea and Samaria, and to the end of the earth. 📖

2Cor 6:4, 7 ... but as servants of God we commend ourselves in every way: by great endurance, in afflictions, hardships, calamities, 📖 ... ⁷by truthful speech, and the power of God; with the weapons of righteousness for the right hand and for the left; ... 📖

The term "weapons of righteousness" (v. 7) is usually understood as a reference to the spiritual power and protection given by a life of righteousness and integrity – "right living" (NCV™, cf. CEV, GNT, NLT). However some see it as possibly referring to spiritual "weapons" – of no small power – associated with the righteousness believers have in God's sight. These include God's word, prayer and faith.

1Cor 12:6 ... and there are varieties of activities, but it is the same God who empowers them all in everyone. 📖

Eph 3:7 Of this gospel I was made a minister according to the gift of God's grace, which was given me by the working of his power. 📖

It is more apparent in the Greek that the role of God's power in Paul's ministry was an ongoing one (cf. BKC).

Rev 11:3-6 *And I will grant authority to my two witnesses, and they will prophesy for 1,260 days, clothed in sackcloth.*⁴These are the two olive trees and the two lampstands that stand before the Lord of the earth. ⁵*And if anyone would harm them, fire pours from their mouth and consumes their foes.* If anyone would harm them, this is how he is doomed to be killed. ⁶*They have the power to shut the sky, that no rain may fall during the days of their prophesying, and they have power over the waters to turn them into blood and to strike the earth with every kind of plague, as often as they desire.* ☞

The "two witnesses" of the last days are possibly representative of the faithful community of believers as a whole or perhaps two actual individuals. The "two olive trees and the two lampstands" allude to Joshua (the high priest) and Zerubbabel (the governor or prince) in the vision of Zechariah 4. As such a number of commentators understand this verse to be pointing to the priestly and royal functions of the church – along with its empowerment by God for such functions/work.

Luke 9:1-2 And he called the twelve together and gave them power and authority over all demons and to cure diseases, and he sent them out to proclaim the kingdom of God and to heal. ☞

¹ Greek bondservants; also verse 15

^m A mina was about three months' wages for a laborer

This is from a parable that is often applied to the need to put to work the abilities and resources Christ has given us, making good use of them – primarily for God's kingdom. The parallel account in Matthew's gospel (cf. Matt 25:14-30) uses the term "talents" instead of "minas". It is due to this parable that "talent" is now used to denote an ability or gift.

John 20:21-22 Jesus said to them again, "Peace be with you. As the Father has sent me, even so I am sending you."²²And when he had said this, he breathed on them and said to them, "Receive the Holy Spirit. ☞

Verse 22 possibly anticipates the coming of the Holy Spirit later at Pentecost; some commentators see it as a partial or limited bestowal of the Spirit. As spoken of in the previous subsection, the giving of the Spirit is to empower believers for doing God's work. It likewise reflects that God and Jesus Christ equip their people for the work. Note that v. 21b indicates that the giving of the Spirit (v. 22) is in the context of doing God's work.

2Cor 3:5-6 Not that we are sufficient in ourselves to claim anything as coming from us, but our sufficiency is from God, ⁶who has made us competentⁿ to be ministers of a new covenant, not of the letter but of the Spirit. For the letter kills, but the Spirit gives life. ☞

God's people are given spiritual gifts for various ministries, preparing them for the work of building up the body of Christ.

1Cor 1:4-7 I give thanks to my God always for you because of the grace of God that was given you in Christ Jesus, ⁵that in every way you were enriched in him in all speech and all knowledge— ⁶even as the testimony about Christ was confirmed among you— ⁷*so that you are not lacking in any spiritual gift, as you wait for the revealing of our Lord Jesus Christ, ...*

As with Ephesians 4:11-12 above, this speaks of God equipping church members with spiritual gifts, to build up God's church.

Phil 2:13 ... for it is God who works in you, both to will and to work for his good pleasure.

This verse indicates that as well as moving them to want to do his will, God also works in his people so that they are "able" (CEV, GNT, NCV, cf. NLT, NRSV) to act according to his will.

Philem 1:6 ... and I pray that the sharing of your faith may become effective for the full knowledge of every good thing that is in us for the sake of Christ.[¶]

¶ Or for Christ's service

With the expression "every good thing that is in us" Paul may speaking at least partially of things we have been equipped with for serving Christ (cf. text note).

Heb 13:20-21 Now may the God of peace who brought again from the dead our Lord Jesus, the great shepherd of the sheep, by the blood of the eternal covenant, ²¹*equip you with everything good that you may do his will, working in us^r that which is pleasing in his sight, through Jesus Christ, to whom be glory forever and ever. Amen.*

^r Some manuscripts you

As noted earlier, the clause "working in us that which is pleasing in his sight" (v. 21) could be speaking of God working in believers, possibly in molding them for his work, continuing the theme of the preceding clause.

2Pet 1:3 His divine power has granted to us all things that pertain to life and godliness, through the knowledge of him who called us to^s his own glory and excellence,^t ...

^s Or by

^t Or virtue

The phrase "life and godliness" is not referring specifically to doing God's work, but presumably is inclusive of it.

... Jesus Christ gave authority to his disciples and other followers for God's work

Jesus is recorded as giving some of his followers spiritual authority. This authority included: authority over evil spiritual forces; and authority over others in the kingdom, so as to lead them. To what extent the authority spoken of in some of the following passages is given to believers today is open to debate. It is likely that the authority spoken of in some cases is more applicable to believers with certain gifts or to leaders – rather than to believers generally.

Matt 10:1 And he called to him his twelve disciples and gave them authority over unclean spirits, to cast them out, and to heal every disease and every affliction.

Matt 16:18-19 And I tell you, you are Peter, and on this rock^u I will build my church, and the gates of hell^v shall not prevail against it. ¹⁹I will give you the keys of the kingdom of heaven, and whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed^w in heaven.

^u The Greek words for Peter and rock sound similar

^v Greek the gates of Hades

^w Or shall have been bound . . . shall have been loosed

The "keys of the kingdom of heaven" may primarily refer to Peter's authority amongst God's people – as the "rock" on which the church would be built (v. 18). As such it indicates that Peter would have the authority to decide what would be "bound" or "loosed" – prohibited or permitted (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV) – in the kingdom. However, the alternative rendering in the text note indicates that the phrase may be speaking of acting according to what has already been determined in heaven (cf. comment on John 20:23 ↓). Note that "the keys of the kingdom of heaven" may more specifically refer to authority in regard to people entering into the kingdom. This could have partly in view authoritatively proclaiming the gospel, pronouncing God's acceptance or his condemnation.

Matt 18:18-20 Truly, I say to you, whatever you bind on earth shall be bound in heaven, and whatever you loose on earth shall be loosed^x in heaven. ¹⁹Again I say to you, if two of you agree on earth about anything they ask, it will be done for them by my Father in heaven. ²⁰For where two or three are gathered in my name, there am I among them.

^x Or shall have been bound . . . shall have been loosed

In v. 18, authority similar to that given to Peter (cf. Matt 16:19 ↑) is extended to the other disciples (cf. John 20:23 ↓) with the context suggesting that it is applicable to all leaders or groups of believers. Note that church discipline may primarily be in view (cf. vv. 15-17), which may also be the case in 16:18-19 above. In v. 19, Jesus speaks of authority for even small groups of believers in prayer, based on them being his followers and acting on his authority, as alluded to in v. 20.

Luke 10:10-12, 19 But whenever you enter a town and they do not receive you, go into its streets and say, ¹¹'Even the dust of your town that clings to our feet we wipe off against you. Nevertheless know this, that the kingdom of God has come near.' ¹²I tell you, it will be more bearable on that day for Sodom than for that town.  ... ¹⁹Behold, I have given you authority to tread on serpents and scorpions, and over all the power of the enemy, and nothing shall hurt you.

Here Jesus is addressing seventy-two of his followers he was sending out to places where he was about to go (cf. v. 1). Verses 10-12 indicate that Jesus gave them the authority to pronounce God's condemnation. In v. 19, "serpents and scorpions" probably is figurative for demons or evil spirits (cf. vv. 17, 20; Matt 10:1 ↑). The "enemy" (v. 19) is Satan.

John 20:23 If you forgive the sins of any, they are forgiven them; if you withhold forgiveness from any, it is withheld.

Jesus said this in the context of sending his disciples into the world to spread the gospel and empowering them with the Holy Spirit (cf. vv. 21-22 ↑). It most likely means that in doing so they would pronounce the forgiveness of sins of: those who would respond and thus be forgiven by God (cf. NASB and text note).

2Cor 13:10 For this reason I write these things while I am away from you, that when I come I may not have to be severe in my use of the authority that the Lord has given me for building up and not for tearing down.

This – and quite possibly 1 Thessalonians 4:2 below – speaks of Jesus Christ granting authority after his mission. As such it suggests that Jesus Christ continues to grant authority to church leaders.

1Thes 4:2 For you know what instructions we gave you through the Lord Jesus.

Paul appears to refer to giving instructions "by the authority of the Lord Jesus" (GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV; cf. AMP, NLT).

‡ The authority to rule that Jesus Christ will give his people at the end of the age:

Rev 2:26-27 The one who conquers and who keeps my works until the end, to him I will give authority over the nations, ²⁷and he will rule them with a rod of iron, as when earthen pots are broken in pieces, even as I myself have received authority from my Father.

The quote in v. 27 is from Psalm 2 and is messianic. Its use here implies that Jesus Christ's followers will play a part in his crushing of evil forces and enforcement of his authority and rule (cf. Rev 19:11-21).

God strengthens his people for the work

Jer 1:17-18 But you, dress yourself for work;^y arise, and say to them everything that I command you. Do not be dismayed by them, lest I dismay you before them. ¹⁸*And I, behold, I make you this day a fortified city, an iron pillar, and bronze* walls, against the whole land, against the kings of Judah, its officials, its priests, and the people of the land.

^y Hebrew gird up your loins

Here and below in Ezekiel 3:4, 7-9 God speaks of toughening or strengthening his prophets for their arduous work.

Ezek 3:4, 7-9 And he said to me, "Son of man, go to the house of Israel and speak with my words to them.  ... ⁷But the house of Israel will not be willing to listen to you, for they are not willing to listen to me: because all the house of Israel have a hard forehead and a stubborn heart. ⁸*Behold, I have made your face as hard as their faces, and your forehead as hard as their foreheads.* ⁹*Like emery harder than flint have I made your forehead.* Fear them not, nor be dismayed at their looks, for they are a rebellious house."

Phil 4:13 I can do all things through him who strengthens me.

Jesus Christ strengthens believers to do everything in God's will for them.

2Thes 2:16-17 Now may our Lord Jesus Christ himself, and God our Father, who loved us and gave us eternal comfort and good hope through grace, ¹⁷comfort your hearts and establish them in every good work and word.

Paul prays that Jesus Christ and God would encourage and "strengthen" (AMP, GNT, NASB, NCV, NIV, NRSV) the Thessalonians in every good thing that they do and say, inclusive of all that they do in their work for God.

1Tim 1:12 I thank him who has given me strength, Christ Jesus our Lord, because he judged me faithful, appointing me to his service, ...

Presumably Paul has in mind Jesus Christ giving him strength primarily for "his service".

2Tim 4:17 But the Lord stood by me and strengthened me, so that through me the message might be fully proclaimed and all the Gentiles might hear it. So I was rescued from the lion's mouth.

God helps and empowers them to do his work even if they feel inadequate . . .

Ex 4:10-16 But Moses said to the LORD, "Oh, my Lord, I am not eloquent, either in the past or since you have spoken to your servant, but I am slow of speech and of tongue." ¹¹Then the LORD said to him, "Who has made man's mouth? Who makes him mute, or deaf, or seeing, or blind? Is it not I, the LORD?"

¹²Now therefore go, and I will be with your mouth and teach you what you shall speak.”¹³But he said, “Oh, my Lord, please send someone else.”¹⁴Then the anger of the LORD was kindled against Moses and he said, “Is there not Aaron, your brother, the Levite? I know that he can speak well. Behold, he is coming out to meet you, and when he sees you, he will be glad in his heart. ¹⁵You shall speak to him and put the words in his mouth, and I will be with your mouth and with his mouth and will teach you both what to do. ¹⁶He shall speak for you to the people, and he shall be your mouth, and you shall be as God to him.

God provided help for apprehensive Moses in his forthcoming work, in the form of his brother Aaron. God would in fact help both of them speak (vv. 12, 15-16) and would teach Moses what to say and do (vv. 12, 15). Note that the fact that Aaron was already on the way to meet Moses (v. 14b) suggests that God already had planned to use Aaron to help Moses.

Judg 6:14-16 And the LORD^z turned to him and said, “Go in this might of yours and save Israel from the hand of Midian; do not I send you?”¹⁵And he said to him, “Please, Lord, how can I save Israel? Behold, my clan is the weakest in Manasseh, and I am the least in my father’s house.”¹⁶And the LORD said to him, “But I will be with you, and you shall strike the Midianites as one man.”

^z Septuagint the angel of the LORD; also verse 16

The expression “this might of yours” (v. 14) appears to refer to the strength Gideon had, or would have, due to God being with him – as reflected by v. 16 (cf. v. 12) – in spite his own perceived inadequacy (v. 15).

Isa 41:14-16 Fear not, you worm Jacob, you men of Israel! I am the one who helps you, declares the LORD; your Redeemer is the Holy One of Israel. ¹⁵Behold, I make of you a threshing sledge, new, sharp, and having teeth; you shall thresh the mountains and crush them, and you shall make the hills like chaff; ¹⁶you shall winnow them, and the wind shall carry them away, and the tempest shall scatter them. And you shall rejoice in the LORD; in the Holy One of Israel you shall glory.

This is probably referring to God using Israel as his instrument for bringing judgment on the nations – despite Israel seeing itself as weak and insignificant, as v. 14 appears to suggest.

Jer 1:4-10 Now the word of the LORD came to me, saying, ⁵“Before I formed you in the womb I knew you, and before you were born I consecrated you; I appointed you a prophet to the nations.” ⁶Then I said, “Ah, Lord GOD! Behold, I do not know how to speak, for I am only a youth.” ⁷But the LORD said to me, “Do not say, ‘I am only a youth’; for to all to whom I send you, you shall go, and whatever I command you, you shall speak. ⁸Do not be afraid of them, for I am with you to deliver you, declares the LORD.” ⁹Then the LORD put out his hand and touched my mouth. And the LORD said to me, “Behold, I have put my words in your mouth. ¹⁰See, I have set you this day over nations and over kingdoms, to pluck up and to break down, to destroy and to overthrow, to build and to plant.”

To signify that he had given (or would give) Jeremiah his words to speak – and as part of his appointing and empowering of Jeremiah – God touched Jeremiah’s mouth (v. 9). This may have occurred in a vision; some think it actually took place.

Jer 15:18-20 Why is my pain unceasing, my wound incurable, refusing to be healed? Will you be to me like a deceitful brook, like waters that fail? ¹⁹Therefore thus says the LORD: “If you return, I will restore you, and you shall stand before me. If you utter what is precious, and not what is worthless, you shall be as my mouth. They shall turn to you, but you shall not turn to them. ²⁰And I will make you to this people a fortified wall of bronze; they will fight against you, but they shall not prevail over you, for I am with you to save you and deliver you, declares the LORD.

Here Jeremiah is feeling more discouraged rather than simply inadequate. Jeremiah’s discouragement (v. 18) stemmed not so much from a lack of self-confidence but pain and disillusionment with both his work and God. Even so God promised Jeremiah that if he repented of his attitude towards him (v. 18b), he would strengthen Jeremiah to serve him. Note that “you shall stand before me” (v. 19a) appears to be a reference to serving God (cf. CEV, GNT, NCV, NIV, NLT).

2Tim 1:6-8 For this reason I remind you to fan into flame the gift of God, which is in you through the laying on of my hands, ⁷for God gave us a spirit not of fear but of power and love and self-control. ⁸Therefore do not be ashamed of the testimony about our Lord, nor of me his prisoner, but share in suffering for the gospel by the power of God, ...

Timothy apparently was timid. Paul assured him that in contrast God gives his people “a spirit of power” (v. 7), empowering them to testify to the gospel of Jesus Christ “by the power of God” (v. 8).

... God's power works through his people in their weaknesses

See also:

- The gospel is not dependent on us and our presentation of it – but on the Holy Spirit and God's power, p. 1770

God's and Jesus Christ's power works through their people in their weaknesses, often even because of the weaknesses, showing that what is accomplished has been by divine power.

2Cor 4:7-11 But we have this treasure in jars of clay, to show that the surpassing power belongs to God and not to us. ⁸We are afflicted in every way, but not crushed; perplexed, but not driven to despair; ⁹persecuted, but not forsaken; struck down, but not destroyed; ¹⁰always carrying in the body the death of Jesus, so that the life of Jesus may also be manifested in our bodies. ¹¹For we who live are always being given over to death for Jesus' sake, so that the life of Jesus also may be manifested in our mortal flesh. ☞

In v. 7, Paul likens the message of the gospel being entrusted to him in his human frailty or weakness, to treasure being placed in jars of clay. In the first part of both v. 10 and v. 11, Paul alludes to the sufferings he undergoes for Jesus' sake (vv. 8-9) – in which he is vulnerable and presumably weakened. But in the second part of both verses he then speaks of how such suffering for Jesus' sake means that Jesus' resurrection life, which entails God's power, is revealed in Paul's weak mortal body – one of the "jars of clay" (v. 7) – as he does God's work.

2Cor 12:7-10 So to keep me from becoming conceited because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations,^a a thorn was given me in the flesh, a messenger of Satan to harass me, to keep me from becoming conceited. ⁸Three times I pleaded with the Lord about this, that it should leave me. ⁹But he said to me, "My grace is sufficient for you, for my power is made perfect in weakness." Therefore I will boast all the more gladly of my weaknesses, so that the power of Christ may rest upon me. ¹⁰For the sake of Christ, then, I am content with weaknesses, insults, hardships, persecutions, and calamities. For when I am weak, then I am strong. ☞

^a Or hears from me, even because of the surpassing greatness of the revelations. So to keep me from becoming conceited

Having weaknesses and acknowledging them, makes us more open to Jesus Christ's power resting on us, so as to work through us (cf. NLT).

2Cor 13:3-4 ... since you seek proof that Christ is speaking in me. He is not weak in dealing with you, but is powerful among you. ⁴For he was crucified in weakness, but lives by the power of God. For we also are weak in him, but in dealing with you we will live with him by the power of God. ☞

The phrase "crucified in weakness" (v. 4a) is probably a reference either to: Jesus' humanity; or his submissiveness and/or meekness. In Christ, Paul may similarly be "weak", but by God's power he lives with Christ – the implication being that he shares in God's power that Christ lives by, with God's power working through him to serve others.
